SPAIN FACES STRIKE ALSO

Labor Outbreak Adds to Troubles at Home and Abroad.

Dislodged Rebels Barricade Themselves in Hills---Censorship Opposed.

Barcelona, Aug. 2.—Order is today almost completely re-established in Barcelona proper, but the trouble continues on the outskirts. Railroad communication has not yet been re-established. The losses suffered by commerce in the rioting during the past week have been enormous and the destruction of property has been great.

Among the victims of the military court-martial are two members of the chamber of deputies and eight aldermen.

London, Aug. 2.—A special dispatch received here from Cerebere on the Spanish frontier says the report that 119 insurgents of Barcelona were sentenced by court-martial to death and executed by shooting yesterday at the fort of Montjuich have been officially confirmed.

Bayonne, France, Aug. 2.—Reliable news regarding the situation in Spain, received here this morning from San Sebastian, reports conditions as very grave throughout the northern part of the country, where all the trades unions have given notice of the beginning of a general strike today.

The government has seized all the telegraph and telephone wires in the affected provinces to prevent the leaders of the strike movement from communicating with each other. The transmission of newspaper dispatches has been entirely stopped, forcing a suspension of a majority of the journals.

The greatest excitement reigns among the working classes. Reports received here direct from Madrid say that King Alfonso is greatly depressed

MISSOURI MOB LYNCHES MAN

Uses Ruse to Take Murderer of Farmer From the Authorities.

Platte City, Mo., Aug. 2.—George Johnson, white, who on June 20 murdered John W. Moore, a farmer, was lynched early today.

Feeling ran so high at the time of the killing that Johnson was taken to Kansas City for safe keeping. His trial was to begin today and he was returned to Platte City yesterday afternoon. Early this morning two men took a third man to the jail, representing him to be a prisoner. When the sheriff opened the jail door, the three overpowered him. Fifty other men quickly appeared and battered down the door of Johnson's cell. He was taken to a tree opposite the jail and strangled.

DULUTH MAN THE CAUSE

A Heart-Broken Minneapolis Girl Tries to End Her Life.

Her Act Was Result of Letter From Former Fiance.

A broken engagement and the betrothal of her lover of childhood days to another in Duluth, caused Dorothy Franklin, 22 years old, residing at the boarding house of Mrs. Louise Jackson, 1115 Second street south, Minneapolis, to attempt to end her life with carbolic acid yesterday. She is at the Minneapolis city hospital, and doctors say she will recover.

The young woman was found in the yard in the rear of the house with a letter from her former lover, telling her it was the last time she would hear from him, clasped tightly in her hand. The empty vial of acid was in the other. She was rushed to the hospital. Her face, mouth and throat were badly burned.

The Letter.

The letter read:

"Duluth, Minn., July 25, 1909—Dearest Dorothy: I just can't come to Minneapolis. I've told you time and time again that Miss B. and I were engaged, and it would be nothing but the rankest infidelity for me to see you. That old affair between you and myself I regard as nothing but a 'boy and girl' affair, and, really, I can't see why you insist in putting any other interpretation upon it. We were both mere 'kids' at the time. Please don't write to me again, for I assure you that this is the last letter you will ever receive from me. I hope you will be sensible about this and do the right thing. Your old pal, LES."

HER HUSBAND LOST HIS JOB BY MARRYING HER

PRINCESS BEATRICE
Of Saxe-Coburg.

Princess Beatrice recently married Prince Alfonso of Spain. Now prince and princess are in the ostracised set and Alfonso is asking why. Spain is one of the few remaining Catholic countries. When this marriage was planned Alfonso informed the king of Spain that Beatrice refused to become a convert. "Oh, very well," said the king who is an absent minded chap. So Alfonso married Beatrice. But no sooner were they married than the king removed Alfonso from his position in the Spanish army, and when asked why he did it replied that it was because Alfonso had married a Protestant. Alfonso is indignant, but that will not get him back in to the army.

THAW'S LIFE STORY READ

Jerome Takes Up Incidents of Childhood of the Prisoner.

Mother Shows Signs of Losing Self Control During the Hearing.

White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 2.—The third week of the supreme court hearing of Harry K. Thaw's habeas corpus proceedings to secure his release from the state hospital for criminal insane, opened today. Expectation that the Matteawan prisoner or his wife might take the stand again at any minute packed the courtroom. Thaw appeared refreshed by the two days' rest that had intervened.

District Attorney Jerome took up the reading of testimony from the second trial where he left off last Friday. From the several bound volumes of court minutes at his elbow he selected that containing the evidence of Catherine O'Neil, a former seamstress in the Thaw household at Pittsburg. This related chiefly to Thaw's acts during childhood, particularly his fits of passion.

Mr. Jerome explained that this was the only means of getting such testimony before the court and on the record. The story of Thaw's childhood and the influences affecting his birth as told by his mother were brought out.

Mrs. William C. Thaw, who sat beside her son, seemed about to lose control of herself. Her face flushed and she used her palm leaf fan to hide the twitching of her lips. Her testimony presented Thaw as a victim of extreme nervousness from birth.

CANADIANS TRY TO LYNCH PRISONER

Brutal Attack on Wife of Settler Angers Other Homesteaders.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Settlers in the Long Lake district of Saskatchewan, near Cralks, yesterday attempted to take Alvin Ness from the authorities and lynch him for an attack on Mrs. Melvil Federspiel, formerly of Merrill, Saginaw county, Mich. The mob was driven back by officers.

Ness made the attack on the woman Saturday. He is a married man, and lived near the Federspiel homestead. According to reports received here, Ness went to the Federspiel home when the husband was away and attacked Mrs. Federspiel. He dragged her from the house and assaulted her after beating her unconscious, and afterward dragged her body into a field, where he left it lying nude.

News of the affair was spread by the woman's children, and Ness was arrested. He has been acting as if insane, but the authorities claim that his condition is only simulated.

PLUMS FALL THIS WEEK

Speaker Cannon Will Distribute Awards and Punishments.

Stevens Mentioned for Place on Rivers and Harbors Committee.

Washington, Aug. 2.—A choice selection of committee assignments is to be handed out by Speaker Cannon this week. It is impossible to verify this statement by anything that is said by those "prominently mentioned" for certain chairmanships, but the fact remains that faithful service and fidelity to the speaker and the Republican "regulars" probably is to be rewarded before the special session adjourns.

It is not likely that there will be any time for speeches as to the merits of the speaker's assignments, but this does not indicate that the members of the house are not personally more interested in "Uncle Joe's" program than they have been in the tariff.

When certain Republicans waged war on the rules which the "regulars" wanted adopted at the beginning of the extra session, the "insurgents" were fully aware that if the fight was lost the members defeated would not be likely to get choice berths on the committees. Therefore, these "insurgents" will not be disappointed, but there are a number of "regulars" who will of necessity be considerably ag-

MOVE TO SETTLE JAPAN'S STATUS

Manchurian Situation Is Formally Laid Before the Mikado.

Tokio, Aug. 2.—After long consideration of the differences existing between Japan and China as to the status of the former nation in Manchuria, Foreign Minister Komura submitted the entire matter to the emperor this morning. This move had been expected before the end of July. Advices to the Hochi received today are to the effect that China is sending a large body of troops secretly into Chientao, but this report is not credited here.

OIL MAGNATE WEDS WIDOW

H. Clay Pierce Is Married in St. George's Church in London.

Bride Is Virginia Prickett Burrowes---Only Four Attend Wedding.

London, Eng., Aug. 2.—Under a special license secured at Canterbury, Henry Clay Pierce of St. Louis was married today at St. George's church, Hanover square, to Virginia Prickett Burrowes, daughter of Maj. William Russell Prickett of Edwardsville, Ill., whose former husband deid four years ago.

Beyond the church officials only four persons witnessed the wedding. The bride was attended by her daughter, Virginia Burrowes, and was given away by H. R. Anderson. Baron Gino de Morpurgo supported the bridegroom. The only other member of the wedding party was Mrs. Mary C. Mitchell, a relative of Mr. Pierce.

St. George's church, which is among the most fashionable in London, and in which the marriages of many Americans have been celebrated, was prettily decorated with flowers for the occasion. The bride carried a beautiful bouquet of orchids. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. Anderson. After a wedding breakfast, Mr. and Mrs. Pierce left for the continent.

Important Diplomatic Feature Ascribed to the Meeting.

Cowes, Aug. 2.—The Russian imperial yacht Standart, bringing the emperor and the empress from Cherbourg to Cowes on a visit to King Edward, anchored in the Cowes roadstead this afternoon. The imperial visitors were given an official welcome even more imposing than usually attends such important occasions. Not only were King Edward and Queen Alexandra, the prince and princess of Wales, and a large gathering of other members of the royal family present, but 150 of the pick of the British war fleet, dressed in flags from stem to stern and flying the Russian ensign, encircled the anchorage allotted to the Standart.

The presence of the British foreign secretary, Sir Edward Grey, M. Iswolsky, the Russian minister of foreign affairs, and Count von Benckendorff, the Russian ambassador to Great Britain, emphasized the significance attached in the diplomatic world to this visit of the Russian emperor to England.

AUTO DIVES INTO CREEK

Father and Son Pinned Under Water of Stream Near Crookston.

Witnesses Rescue Victims, But Boy May Die of His Injuries.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Plunging in a careening automobile off a bridge over a small creek here Sunday, Joseph Tagley of Mentor, a banker, and his 12-year-old son, Elmer, were pinned under water by the machine, which overturned with them. The water was several feet deep, owing to recent rains, but a party of men standing near the bridge rescued the two victims from certain death by drowning. Mr. Tagley is expected to recover, his most serious injury being a broken hip. The boy, however, is in a hospital here in a serious condition. He suffered a broken collar bone, a serious groin injury and bruises about the head, and it is feared that internal injuries also were sustained.

Mr. Tagley was driving the automobile, which was traveling about twenty-five miles an hour. What made the machine swerve is not known, but as it started across the bridge it was seen to sway and then to upset over the side of the structure, carrying the two occupants with it.

It took the rescuers an hour to resuscitate the two after they had been taken from under the automobile.

More Men at Work.

City Engineer L. W. Rundlett put another force of men at work on the ruins this morning, and the entire pile of debris will be removed. The police, however, do not expect that any more bodies will be found.

A small piece of the acetylene tank which exploded Saturday afternoon and caused the death of six persons and injured many others was found among the debris at the ruins today by a man named Bros, who said that he was making an investigation of the cause of the disaster for the Williams Brothers' Boiler & Manufacturing Company of Minneapolis, who furnished the tank. It is understood that the tank was built to withstand a pressure of 500 pounds to the square inch. It was used by the Kuhlc Manufacturing company in storing acetylene gas for use in automobile lamps.

MAKE CLERK READ WHOLE TARIFF BILL

Senate Insurgents Show Intention to Air All That Is Done.

Some Even Hope to Get Measure Defeated When Vote Is Taken.

Interest in Course to Be Followed Has Become Intense.

Washington, Aug. 2.—With the tariff conference report facing threatened defeat in the senate on account of an alleged "joker" in the hide and leather compromise, it was decided at 1 p. m. today to reassemble the conference committee for the purpose of preparing an official explanation. The conferees were called to meet at 3 p. m., today.

Washington, Aug. 2.—Within less than three minutes after convening today the senate was engaged upon consideration of the conference report on the tariff bill although not to exceed seven or eight senators were in their seats, and of them only one, Senator Hughes of Colorado, represented the Democratic side of the chamber. Senator Aldrich, chairman of the conference committee was there, however, and caught the eye of the chair as soon as the reading of the journal had been completed. Rising as he said, to present a privileged matter, he received immediate recognition.

The reading clerk proceeded with the committee's record of its long proceeding in conference, and by the time the reading was well under way a number of other senators had arrived All gave close attention to the report.

Call Down the Clerk.

Moving ahead as rapidly as possible in running over the amendments agreed to by the conferees, the reading clerk was interrupted by Senator Heyburn.

"The clerk has made no reference to the maximum and minimum provisions," said the Idaho senator, addressing the presiding officer.

"He has omitted the cotton schedule," said Mr. Clapp.

"It is obvious that at least twenty pages have been turned over without reading," commented Mr. Culberson.

Through the chair the reading clerk protested that he had read all, but his

FIVE CADETS TO BE SENT AWAY FROM WEST POINT.

New York, Aug. 2.—Five West Point cadets, four of whom are said to have been concerned in the recent hazing of Cadet Sutton, a brother of the late Lieut. Sutton, whose death at Annapolis is being investigated by a court of inquiry, will be sent to their homes this week, according to a special to the New York Times, there to await final action by the president and secretary of war on the recommendation of the superintendent of the academy that they be dismissed.

Cadet Sutton, a fourth class, or first year, man, was attacked by a number of third class men, robed in white sheets, it is said, and when he captured two of them, was set upon by a relief party armed with tent poles, and so badly beaten that, with the exception of one day, he has not been out of the hospital since July 20. Despite his injuries, he is reported to have informed the board that he could recognize none of his assailants. The case has been the subject of a special investigation, a report on which recently was made to the superintendent.

THREATEN TO TIE UP LINES

Chicago Street Car Situation Looks Darker Now Than Ever.

Labor Leaders Meet and Frame Resolutions to Submit to Men.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—The prospect of a strike on all Chicago surface street cars grew darker today when heads of the local unions met to draw up resolutions to be presented to the employes at meetings tonight. The chiefs who met for this purpose were President Buckley of the South side local, President Quinlan of the North and West side locals and Presidents Waters and Carter of suburban locals.

The resolutions will demand an increase of wages, and in addition the South side men will determine whether tl demand a closed shop agreement. Other locals already have this agreement.

The resolutions, it is said, will also provide for taking a strike vote not later than Thursday.

The employers already have refused the advance. They suggested arbitration, which the men in turn rejected.

Before a strike may be called, W. D. Mahon, president of the International Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes of America, must be called upon for a final effort to adjust the trouble. This is compulsory under the rules of the organization.

The Growth of the Gidding Garment Business

Has been nothing short of phenomenal for we have accomplished in a few short years what others have not accomplished in decades. From our well-rooted foundation of a few years ago, we have developed a grand garment business, that numbers the city's most particular women as its clientele, and now blossoms forth into an enlarged and luxurious "Newer Gidding Store"; at the same time have shot forth a thrifty branch into Cincinnati that is recognized the country over.

This aggressiveness and progressiveness is not accidental. It is founded upon a strong, logical reason! "'Tis the merit of our Garments!" We do not barter with jobbers or small, unauthentic makers. Instead, we go direct to the ablest designers. Those who search the world for the best of fashion, and those who set the pace that all America shall follow. We buy the best that brains, money and experience can produce. The cutting of our garments is done by artists, for, with a powerful two-store buying power we are able to place contracts that demand consideration with the best tailors of the land.

'Tis the beauty of "lines" that distinguishes our garments. Costly garments may yet be crude, just as many an ugly object has been cast from pure gold. So many an awkward garment has been built from fine material. But Gidding garments show the "soft-tailored" form-tracing lines that mark them as distinctly "correct."

Our Messrs. Gidding and corps of buyers are at present in New York, doing some wonderful master strokes in buying for the Gidding Stores. In fact.

THE WAGON HAS ARRIVED

An Experiment in the Municipal Collection of Garbage.

System May be Extended to Cover the Entire City.

Municipal collection of garbage will begin in Duluth tomorrow. In the district lying between Sixth avenue west and Third avenue east, under supervision of Health Commissioner Patton. This marks an epoch in the history of the city, for it is confidently believed that results which will come from this district will justify and bring about municipal collection all over the city.

Acting upon authority given him, at his request, by the common council, Dr. Patton purchased a new-style garbage wagon, non-leakable, and it is now in the city, ready to go into commission tomorrow. A team has been secured to haul it, and a regular driver employed. This outfit will systematically look after the collection of garbage in the district assigned, and it is believed the service will be much better than under the old system.

The idea is to charge the householder the actual cost of garbage collection. There will be no profit in it for the city. This will mean a saving in money for the general public, for the men now engaged in the business naturally must make a profit. It is claimed for the new system that it will be more sanitary as well as more economical than the old. The actual cost of removing the refuse will be figured out, and the expense will be equally distributed among the people benefited. When the new plan is in working order, the householder will be sold so many tickets for a dollar, just as in buying milk tickets, and every time a specified amount of garbage is removed, one of the tickets will be taken by the driver.

Municipal collection has been tried in various other cities of the country, and it is claimed that in every instance it has worked out successfully. Dr. Patton and Mayor Haven have been enthusiastically in favor, ever since going into office, of giving this system a trial ,being convinced that the experiment would be a great success in Duluth. Dr. Patton appeared before the council and convinced the aldermen that it would be no more than fair to give the thing a trial, as the initial expense would not be heavy. Authority for starting the work was given and a wagon was immediately ordered.

Under the old system there have been many complaints of delays in the removal of garbage, of otherwise unsatisfactory service, and because many of the wagons were in a leaky condition, allowing their unsavory contents to dribble over the streets and alleys. This will all be done away with with the new water-tight wagons in use, provided the system is extended to cover the entire city.

POOH-POOHS TALK ABOUT A JOKER

Taft Says Leather Schedule Is Just as It Was Agreed Upon.

Washington, Aug. 2.—The alleged "joker" which a number of the "progressive" Republicans in the senate are said to have discovered in the leather schedule of the tariff bill as reported by the conferees, and which some of them have been quoted as saying constituted a betrayal of the president's confidence, brought out the declaration by Mr. Taft to callers today that the language of the amendment as to boots and shoes is exactly as agreed upon by him, Senator Aldrich and Representative Payne.

"It has been claimed by the "progressives" that the language of the amendment reducing the duties on boots and shoes was made to apply only to shoes manufactured from hides dutiable under the Dingley bill, and did not apply to shoes which are made of part kid, thus violating the agreement for a general reduction on all shoes.

Taft Talks of "Joker."

President Taft told his callers today that the talk of a "joker" in the leather schedule was absurd. The president said that the distinct understanding was that in consideration of free hides, previously dutiable, all articles in which such dutiable hides were component parts of chief values should have reduction even below the rates fixed in the house bill, except sole leather itself, which in the house bill had been reduced from 20 to 5 per cent, this being considered low enough.

"GIVE US HELP" FARMERS' CRY

Twenty-Five Thousand Men Needed in North Dakota Fields.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—From all corners of the state the cry for more harvest help is made. With winter rye, winter wheat and early spring barley in the shock, the harvest of durum wheat is on and that of other wheat is about ready to begin. Nothing but a disaster never before heard of in this state can prevent the largest harvest that was ever made in North Dakota. There will be more millions of bushels of grain than ever the Flickertail state farmers dreamed of in former years.

Letters written to points over the state in regard to the hired help problem elicited responses from sixty-four towns, all but three of which stated more help would be needed than in any former years. Forty-one towns specified the number of men needed, totalling 8,100. These were from widely scattered points and an estimate on the basis of these indicate that at least 20,000 men, probably 25,000 men will be needed in the harvest fields of this state

The crop is more even than ever before, the heads are larger, the yield is just as promising in one section as in another and nature has apparently put forth her greatest effort to give the North Dakota farmers the most bountiful yield of grain known in its history.

ASKS WOMEN TO VISIT THE BARS

Novel Idea Proposed at Finnish National Temperance Meeting.

Dekalb, Ill., Aug. 2.—Mrs. M. Keogh of Chicago proposed a novel plan for the eradication of saloons under the guise of soft-drink parlors in dry towns, while speaking at the closing session of the Finnish National Temperance Brotherhood of America Saturday afternoon.

Her plan is for the women and children of the temperance organizations in dry towns to patronize the places, asking for lemonade and root beer. She believes that the barkeeper would be afraid to pass out any ginger ale, whisky or lager beer to the town "thirsties" while women and children were quaffing soft drinks.

Over 100 delegates attended the Finnish gathering. The headquarters of the order are at Ishpeming, Mich., and the brotherhood decided to erect a $50,000 building there.

Officers were elected as follows:

President—Michael Skyte of Ishpeming.

Vice president—Nestor Toppar of Ironwood, Mich.

Secretary—Miss Alma Hinkannen of Ishpeming.

Treasurer—Isaac Maki of Ishpeming.

The next meeting will be held at Eveleth, Minn.

The assisting hostesses were Mrs. John Whyte, Mrs. Henry C. Marshall, Mrs. Frederick Lee Gilbert, Mrs. D. G. Cutler, Mrs. A. L. Ordean, Mrs. Hamilton H. Peyton, Mrs. F. W. The receiving hours were from 4 to 6 o'clock, and during the afternoon more than 100 guests called.

DOROTHY WAS LOST

And the Whole East End Joins in Search.

Poor Dorothy was lost!

Tumult and turmoil and perturbation reigned throughout the neighborhood. Dorothy was lost! It's bad enough for a child to be lost when its mother is at home, and but a mere baby to be lost and her mother out of town, it's too awful.

The maids missed Dorothy almost at once. She's an active child and has many cunning little ways of making her presence known. She loves to pinch the end of the cat's tail and she dotes on running hurdle races with the Venus of Milo and other bits of statuary as obstacles, and she is fond of putting the puppy in a tank of water to see how he acts, and in other little ways she keeps almost everyone in the knowledge of her presence.

But Dorothy was gone. The maids enjoyed the respite, but thought they would discover which of the neighbors was blessed with Dorothy's presence. She was not at Mary's and Julia hadn't seen her all day, and Frances wasn't allowed to play on Sunday, so she wasn't there. A half hour passed—no Dorothy came.

The maids began to feel a little sorry. Dorothy wasn't such a bad child, they thought. True, she threw the china at them, but she hardly ever struck them. She was a dear thing, and she was lost. The neighbors were notified. Horrified mothers flew to give their own Johnny or Sally an extra good night kiss, and then went down and notified the man of the house.

"Pooh-pooh" said the man of the house "why don't they look at home?" They had—every place and in every home. Visions of kidnapers, shadowy specters of drowned children, homeless waifs, all sorts of trouble and tragic ends flitted through the minds of the worried mothers of the neighborhood, for Dorothy's mother was out of town.

At last the men were interested in the case. There was no longer any question of doubt—Dorothy was lost. It was three hours now, since she had been seen, and since that time the shades of night had descended, all her little playmates who but in the afternoon had seen and played with her, were in their snow white cribs—soundly sleeping, sweetly dreaming—but where was Dorothy—that was the question—where was she?

The men became interested. Automobiles that had been put away for the night were brought out again, and excited gentlemen leaped nibly and excitedly to the wheel and raced up and down the streets. To police headquarters the news that Dorothy was lost was telephoned. The hospitals were employed to conceal nothing but to bring any dead or mangled children of eight years or thereabouts and give them up to the waiting arms. The hospitals knew nothing, the police had no lost children, the gentlemen in racing automobiles got more excited and went faster.

And then the maid whose head Dorothy had most often missed when she threw china, went up to her room to get her best hat and start out once more in the search for Dorothy. There was no telling when you got down to Superior street but that you might meet that good looking policeman and one might just as well have on one's best hat. And so the maid climbed to the third floor to her room to get her hat. She turned on the light and from darkness into light the room leant and at the same moment there sprang to the vision of the nurse maid the sight of Dorothy curled up on the bed with one chubby hand under her sweet flushed cheek and a cherubic smile adorning her face that would never suggest an inquiring mind that hungered at other times to know how the cat would act if its tail was pinched.

Dorothy had taken a notion, early in the evening to go slumming as it were—to investigate conditions of life about which she knew nothing. Therefore, why not visit the servant's room and perhaps she would find evidences of guilt and other matters of interest that would well repay her enterprise. Like so many other expeditions into a realm of life with which one has nothing in common, it proved uninteresting, and Dorothy found she had found little excitement, and so she curled up on a bed that seemed remarkably like her own and went to sleep.

The neighbors were notified that Dorothy was found. Mothers quit shedding tears, fathers took their automobiles back to garages and stopped running excitedly up and down Superior street; police headquarters was told that the lost was found, and the hospitals notified that they might keep any dead or mangled children that they had.

The calm and peace of a beautiful Sabbath evening with moon shining brightly settled down again on the East end, for Dorothy was found and was again fighting blithely and with agility against having her clothes removed for the night.

THE EVENING STORY

THE END OF THE PLAY

By Dorothy Dix.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

The musical extravaganza "The Queen of the Cannibal Isles," was scoring the phenomenal success of the season. Admittedly the chief factor in this success was Zara Le Grande—beautiful, with a superb voice whose notes a gushing critic declared to be like perfect pearls strung on a golden thread, and with a trick of rollicking through her part with an infectious gayety that made even the most world weary believe themselves young and light-hearted once more.

It was while "The Queen of the Cannibal Isles" was at the very zenith of its popularity that the little prima donna dropped into a quiet restaurant one day for a bit of lunch, and while the waiter had gone to fill her order, let her thoughts drift into a happy day dream. What happiness to have youth, and beauty, and fame and Dick—best of all Dick—what a swell he was, and how she loved him? So her thoughts drifted on, until she became aware that two fashionably dressed women had entered, and taken seats at a table next hers, and were audibly and indiscreetly discussing their friends.

"Have you heard the news about Dick Lamison?" inquired one.

"No," returned the other.

"Why, he and his uncle have had a frightful quarrel about an actress. Seems Dick wanted to marry Zara Le Grande, who is singing in "The Queen of the Cannibal Isles," and his uncle swears if he does he will disinherit him."

"But don't you suppose his uncle would forgive him?" put in the other.

"Never! Consistency is the old gentleman's strong point."

"He'd never get over what he would consider Dick's making a mesalliance. You know his pride. He always talks about the Lamisons, as if they were the royal family."

"But who is this Zara Le Grande?"

"Oh, I don't know. Somebody with a beautiful voice. Came from some common family, I dare say. People one never heard of. He'll be an awful fool to give up a fortune for a woman whom like as not he'll be ashamed of as soon as the novelty has worn off. Try some of this lobster Newberg. It's delicious," the woman stopped abruptly. There was a vacant chair at the table at which they sat, and Zara had come swiftly forward, her beautiful face as white as death, and had dropped into it.

"I am Zara Le Grande," she said in a low tense voice, "and I could not help hearing what you said. Is it true that Dick Lamison will be ruined if he marries me? I—I did not know—he never told me—I never dreamed that he would have to make any sacrifice for me. I—she laughed a little mirthlessly—I even thought that the sacrifice would be the other way, and that I would be making it for him. Perhaps," she went on breathlessly, "I am not the wife for him. My world hasn't been his world, but I never thought of harm coming to him through me.

"You are right when you said I was common born. I was born under the canvass of a circus tent, and my first recollection is of hiding, a poor, cowering little creature behind the trunks in a dressing tent until my father slept his drunken fury off, and my careless mother happened to remember me. When other children were learning to lisp their bed-time prayers, I was being tossed from one to another on a high trapeze, too young to know the danger of death they dared for me. So I grew up. Old in knowledge of the hard and bitter side of life before I was old in years with no gentle influence to guide me, no womanly counsel, nothing but a feeling for, and she laid her hand—her beautiful artist's hand as white as a lily and as strong as a man's, upon her breast until she crushed the violets pinned there, "that made me know that even amidst the squalor of such a life I must keep my soul clean or I should die of self loathing.

"By and by I found out that I had a voice and I began to sing. Oh," she said bitterly as one of the women attempted to interupt her, "I began at the bottom there, too. It has always been the bottom with me. I began in the chorus, and I sat up nights and sewed, and slaved, and starved, and worked, and climbed inch by inch until—" and she flung out her hand with a superb gesture to where they could see, through the window the play bills with her name on them in flaunting big letters.

"That isn't the atmosphere in which Dick Lamison's wife should have been reared, is it?" she went on with a quiet scorn in her voice. "She should be one like him—born to the purple and aristocrat to her finger tips, one whom the winds have never been permitted to blow roughly upon, who has lived in the shadow of her chaperone's wing, a gentle, quiet, good—good," she broke off abruptly, "my God, what does a woman like that know about being good? Has she ever been so hungry the smell of the food in the restaurants, as she passed, made her faint with longing, yet knew she had but to say one word to sit there with the lights, and the music, and the perfume of the flowers about her, and the sparkle of wine in her glass, and the choicest viands on her plate? Has she ever known what it was to stumble home in the dark from the theater door ill clad, half frozen, lonely, desolate, heart sick, yet knew that rich furs and soft laces and glimmering silks could be hers for the taking? What is even a home to her—a place where she is bored, and yearns for excitement? To me the thought of it is like the opening door of heaven through which I shall pass to peace, and rest. So you will understand what Dick's love has been to me. He came to me with respect. He showed me reverence. He never once remembered the actress, but only saw in me the woman he loved."

Zara paused. "Forgive me," she said, I did not mean to say so much. Only to ask you over again—I grow stupid I think—to tell me if it is true that I shall ruin Dick if I marry him?"

"I—I am afraid so," answered one of the women, and the other reached out a hand impulsively and touched Zara's where it lay upon the cloth.

"Thank you," she said simply, rising and steadying herself as a soldier might after a blow, and then she passed quietly out into the streets. Once in the air she hurried along, her steps trying to keep pace with her flying thoughts. Dick would be ruined. Dick would be ruined, and through her! Hers would be the hand to pull him down—down to poverty and obscurity and want. Doors open to him now would be shut in his face. Old friends would cut him. He would have to learn for the first time the hard ways of privation and want—all the old bitter lessons she knew so well. "He is willing to give up everything for me. My love will repay him," cried her heart. "He does not realize the sacrifice he is making. The day will surely come when he will repent it and hate and curse you for being the cause of it," answered her head with all the inexorable logic of reason, and through it all her soul sent up the agonized prayer, "I can not, I can not give him up. My life has been so hard, so bitter. Ah, my God, my God!"

Her life had trained her to action, not introspection, and so soon as she reached home she sent a scrawl to Dick giving him back his freedom. She did not attempt to deny her love. She only told him that she had learned of the ruin their marriage would cost him, and she would not buy her happiness with the price of his.

It is one of the unwritten tragedies of the stage that those who minister to the world's pleasure and gayety have no time to indulge their own emotions. They must laugh and make merry though their hearts are breaking with sorrow. So when the curtain went up on "The Queen of the Cannibal Isle," Zara stood ready in her fantastic and glittering dress, saucy, debonnair, as if love and sorrow had never met. She was an actress to her inmost fiber, and the very passion and excitement of the last few hours lent a new power to her. Never had she been in better voice, never had her smiles been so dazzling, her gayety so infectious. She seemed to catch up the whole audience and carry it with her into a land where there was nothing but rippling laughter, and singing birds—flashing, glittering, bewildering! Storm after storm of applause swept the house, but after the last brave had died out, and the curtain had gone down for the last time on the smiling face, it was a weary and worn-looking woman who turned towards her dressing room.

She had only taken a few steps, when through the confusion and noise of scene-shifters and stage hands rushing scenery into place for the next act, there rang a sudden sharp shrill scream and a little chorus girl, frantic with fright, with her diaphanous draperies aflame rushed down the short flight of steps from the upper tier of dressing rooms. Another moment and running amidst all of that inflammable material she might cause, God knows what awful catastrophe. Zara saw her first, and all of the old swift training of her youth asserted itself, and she sprang forward and clasped the girl in her arms. The girl fought with all the mad strength of fear and pain to free herself, but Zara's muscles were still clothed in velvet and she held her fast and bore her down on the floor trying to smother out the fire with her own clothing. A hundred willing hands rushed to the rescue, and the danger was over almost as swiftly as it came, but when they had borne the little chorus girl sobbing away, Zara lay very still. Her gay dress with its flashing jewels, and golden sequins still glittered about her, the painted roses on her cheeks gleamed in ghastly contrast to the whitening face beneath, but about her lips there had crept a look that none had ever seen there in all her hard, short life, the peaceful, innocent look of a little child.

No rumor of the tragedy had crept beyond the curtain, and the manager, who had heard nothing of it, came back jovial and jubilant.

"By George," he said, "did you hear Zara tonight? She was great. Carried the house by storm. Next season I'll get a new opera, and star her in it, and—" but somebody touched his arm.

"It is too late," said a man's voice, with something like a sob. "Zara has been cast for a new role, in the great drama of Immortality."

STATUS OF SANDWICH.

Little Falls, Minn., Aug. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Schreiber, who recently was found guilty in Justice Randall's court of selling wares, goods and merchandise without a license, the same being sandwiches and the like, did not pay the fine imposed, and as a jail sentence was not given as an alternative he got away free.

LISTING TIME IS EXTENDED

Duluth Stock Exchange Gives the Mining Companies Another Month.

The time for listing stocks on the Duluth stock exchange has been extended to Sept. 1. According to the original plans of the exchange all the companies whose stocks had not been listed by the first of August would be no longer traded in on the floor, but it has been found advisable to grant an extension of one month to the companies.

Most of the companies whose stocks are traded in on the exchange have signified an intention to apply for listment, but there is a considerable amount of detail work connected with it, so the directors of the exchange decided it was only fair to extend the time, for the benefit of the mining concerns.

About a dozen stocks have been listed on the exchange thus far and applications have been received from Butte-Alex Scott, Butte-Ballaklava, Elenita and Fay-Cananea.

SHOT HUNTING GOPHERS.

Fifteen-Year-Old Boy Carrying Big Gun Is Nearly Killed.

Eau Claire, Wis., Aug. 2.—Rodich Ortman, aged 15 years, has been brought to the Sacred Heart hospital in a serious conditon, having been accidentally shot by a gun, which was in his own hands, while hunting near Augusta.

The lad was out hunting gophers near his home. He saw one of the little animals a short ways in front of him, which had became frightened at the lad's approach and started down a steep hill. Ortman started after it with the gun in his arms, which was a double-barrel shotgun, and very heavy for the youth. In going down the hill on the run, the lad slipped and fell to the ground, the gun also falling from his arms and landing on young Ortman. The gun exploded and the full charge entered the side of Ortman's head, putting him in a very serious condition.

MARINE NEWS

COAL RECEIPTS ARE VERY HEAVY

Ashland Docks Are Creaking Under Their Heavy Burdens.

Ashland, Wis., Aug. 2.—During the month of May this year 20,978 tons of soft coal was received at Ashland, in June 98,231 tons and in July 73,047 tons. Of this, 5,993 tons was hard coal. Total receipts to the end of July, 191,238 tons.

In May, 1908, 5,994 tons of hard coal was received, and no soft coal; in June, 5,584 tons of hard coal and 39,350 tons soft; in July, 3,438 tons of hard coal, and 111,588 tons of soft. Total in 1908 up to the end of July, 14,616 tons of hard coal, and 150,938 tons soft, a total of 165,558 tons.

This year, therefore, Ashland has received 25,690 tons more than it did during the corresponding period of 1908. Hard coal receipts are 9,000 tons less, but soft coal receipts are 182,245 tons as against 150,938 tons in 1908.

The Pittsburg & Ashland Coal company, successor to the Ashland Cooperative Coal & Dock company, is said to be backed by big concerns in the East, as well as in the Twin Cities, and coal dealers believe that it will cut a figure in the coal field hereafter. Additional space will be added, in fact considerable planking has been purchased from the old Ohio Coal company, and it is likely that receipts of coal will be relatively large.

WILL COST ABOUT HALF A MILLION

Anchor Line Has Closed Contract for Another Passenger Steamer.

A passenger steamer to cost about $500,000 to come out at the opening of the tourist season in 1910 has just been ordered. The contract was closed by the Erie & Western Transit company, which is known as the Anchor line of Buffalo.

The new ship will be built by the American Shipbuilding company, and the keel will be laid at the Wyandot yards. She will be an exact duplicate of the steamer Juniata which was built at the Cleveland yards in 1905. She will have the same power and passenger accommodations.

The new boat will be 360 feet over all, 340 feet keel and 45 feet beam. She will have quadruple expansion engines with cylinders 22, 31½, 43 and 65 inches, with 42-inch stroke. Steam will be furnished by four Scotch boilers 12½ feet in diameter and 11½ feet long. Work will be started on the steamer at once and she will be ready for business about the middle of next June. The new boat will have a freight capacity of about 3,500 tons.

Next season the Anchor line will have three up-to-date passenger boats. The steamer Tionesta, which was built at Wyandot in 1903, was the first to come out. The steamers ply between Buffalo and Duluth.

This contract makes five steamers that have been ordered for 1910 delivery. Four of the boats will be built by the American Shipbuilding company and three of them are coarse freighters. Some more figuring for new boats is being done and it is expected that more orders will be placed during the next month.

BOATS BUNCHED IN LOCAL HARBOR

Carriers Are Getting Around Faster Than They Can Be Loaded.

That the present ore shipping season is rushing, not only in Duluth, but at all the lower lake points, is proved by the fact that the boats are being unloaded in record time and are making fast trips to the head of the Lakes.

There are a number of boats bunched in the local harbor waiting for loads and the answer to the question is that they became bunched about a week ago and all arrived in the harbor within a few hours of each other. The washouts on the range were not serious enough to delay shipping for any length of time, as the papers for down the lake ports report.

There is much tonnage in commission and there is work for all the boats, at least from this end of the lake. There are at present three-fourths of all the lake boats in commission, according to marine men, and several companies have lately begun the fitting out of the rest of their fleet. It is said that every carrier on the lakes will be in commission by the end of the present month.

Grain is moving but slowly and vesselmen do not look for much improvement in this branch of lake trade for at least another month.

The bulk of the coal being carried to the Head of the Lakes is done by contract. Some of the boats are forced to make two ports in order to get upbound cargoes.

COLLISION DOWN THE LAKES

Steamer Cadillac Struck By an Unknown Boat Also Up-Bound.

Algona, Mich., Aug. 2.—In a collision with an unknown steamer last night, the steamer Cadillac of Cleveland was sunk in the channel opposite the St. Clair flats. The crew of fifteen men are camping on the boat which lies on her side, one side out of the water. She is laden with coal and bound to northern points.

The Cadillac was upbound and when in the channel opposite Bedores hotel, an unknown steamer, also upbound, attempted to pass her. Another steamer, bound down, attempted to pass between the two upbound boats and rammed the Cadillac. A large hole was stove in her side and she quickly filled with water and sank, striking the bottom of the channel and rolling over on her side.

No Change in Market.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 2.—The freight market is in about the same shape it has been for the past week, and the indications are that there will be no marked increase in the demand for wild tonnage for some time. Leading shippers say there will not be much improvement during August.

EQUIP BOILERS WITH WATER FEED

Steamship Companies Given Until Oct. 31 to Install Independent Equipment.

Washington, Aug. 2.—All American steamship companies are directed to equip the boilers of their vessels with independent water feed by Oct. 31 next. The order is contained in a decision by Assistant Secretary McHargo of the department of commerce and labor. If at the time indicated vessels are not so equipped, the companies' licenses will be revoked. The requirement will reduce to a minimum the danger of explosions. To equip all steamships will cost $300,000. The decision upholds, over the protest of the steamship lines affected, the new rules and regulations looking to the security of life and property.

MENOMINEE TUG BOAT DAMAGED BY DOCK FIRE.

Menominee, Mich., Aug. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The upper work on the tugboat Evans, owned by the Twin City Stone company, has been badly damaged by fire, and the boat, which has been in constant service for fifteen seasons, will be out of commission for a month. The damage is $1,000. The fire was confined to the stern of the boat.

Two million dollars' worth of lumber piled along the river front was threatened by the blaze, and fire tugs were kept busy protecting the piles. At the time the blaze started the crew was in Menominee, and the blaze gained great headway before being discovered.

Ashley Launched.

BOARD WILL OPEN BIDS

Contracts for Miller Trunk Road Work to Be Let Friday.

Twenty-Eight Miles of Highway to Receive Attention This Year.

At the regular meeting of the county board next Friday the annual tax levy will be fixed and several other important matters will be disposed of. Chief among the latter, perhaps, is the letting of the contract for the improvement of twenty-eight miles of the Miller trunk road, allowance for which was made when the appropriations for road work were made this year.

The work is divided into two contracts, one covering the distance from the Cloquet river to the southeast corner of section 15, 54-17, and the other taking in the road from the White Face river to the south line of the town of Fayal.

In the first-named district the roadbed was cleared to a width of sixty-six feet in the fall of 1896, but brush has grown up in the road for nearly an entire distance and the specifications call for the cutting of the brush to within four inches of the ground and the burning of it. The culverts need repairing, the road is depressed in the center and there are many chuck holes, the corduroys are covered only in the middle, the ditches are partly filled and grown up with grass and in some places they are too near to the center of the road, all of which must be remedied. It will be necessary to rebuild the approach to the Cloquet river bridge and one bridge in section 26, 54-17 must be redecked. The specifications call for a driveway twenty-four feet wide, so the inner edge of the ditches may be twelve feet from the center of the road.

In the other district, that from the White Face river to the south line of the town of Fayal, the right-of-way was also cleared in 1897, but it has grown up with brush and must be cleared again. The road is depressed in many places and several fills must be paid, the material to be used coming from cuts. Ditches must be dug four feet wide at the top, two feet deep and two feet wide at the bottom. The inner edge must be not less than twelve feet from the center of the roadway.

All of the work must be completed before Dec. 1, this year, so that the successful contractors will have to begin work as soon as the contracts are signed. Each district is fourteen miles long, so that the amount of work is about evenly divided.

The county board is making a systematic effort to put the Miller trunk road in proper condition. It has been neglected for years and has fallen badly out of repair. Last year $11,000 was expended in repairing a stretch twelve and a half miles long, and other like expenditures will be made until the road, which is the principal trunk highway of the county, is all in good condition.

CLOQUET BUSINESS MEN'S OUTING AT MOOSE LAKE.

Cloquet, Minn., Aug. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual picnic of the business men of Cloquet will be held next Wednesday at Moose Lake, where there are large picnic grounds suitable to accommodate large numbers. The day's outing has become a yearly event and is attended by large crowds of people each.

A special train will leave here at 8:30 in the morning on the Northern Pacific and return about 9 o'clock in the evening. A program of sports has been arranged by the committee and it is expected that the picnic will be a very successful one. The Gowan-Peyton-Twohy company of Duluth will assist the business men in serving refreshments.

TWO EXCURSIONS FOR TUESDAY

Herald's Popular Events Give People Opportunity for Enjoyment.

If you would enjoy a whole day's outing on old Lake Superior, don't fail to be one of the happy throng on the steamer Mascotte when it leaves Fifth avenue dock at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning for a fifty-five-mile trip down the beautiful south shore to Cornucopia, Wis. The steamer will stop at Port Wing and the excursionists will have all day on the water, beside a visit at two of the hustling south shore ports. The fare for the round trip, if the tickets are purchased at The Herald office, is only $1. Secure your tickets early as the number to be sold is limited to insure comfort and convenience of those who go. Take along your lunch baskets as meals are not served on the boat.

Tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, the steamer America will leave Booth's dock on Lake avenue for one of The Herald's delightful excursions, thirty miles down the north shore of Lake Superior, to Two Harbors. The return will be by moonlight, which is glorious at this time of the season. Take along your lunch baskets to eat on the boat, or secure your meals at Two Harbors. The ladies of the Presbyterian church of that place, on account of The Herald excursions, will serve supper to excursionists, at the church parlors, every Tuesday evening.

The fare for the round trip is 30 cents. Tickets are now on sale at The Herald office.

"SALVATION NELL."

Mrs. Fiske Presents Rather Dreary Play Before Crowded House.

Nothing is more "perfectly natural" than a pig with its fore feet in the trough, and rooting in the swill, but a painter of animals would hardly choose this as a happy subject for a picture, however much "local color" there might be to it.

"Salvation Nell" as presented before a packed house at the Lyceum Saturday night by Mrs. Fiske and a company that was capable on the whole, is "natural" and "true to life," to use those hackneyed phrases of the theater-goers, but what's the use of it all? It is a sordid, commonplace picture of a phrase of life that everybody knows exists. The play points no great moral, and offers no solution of the problem presented by the sordidness and wretchedness of New York's east side. The life of the east side is probably faithfully portrayed, but this faint phrase is about all that can be said for it.

"Salvation Nell" is a stupid, rather disgusting series of tableaux of life in Hell's Kitchen, and other east side resorts, and it is redeemed from absolute mediocrity only by the last act, where the youthful dramatist manages to "get across the footlights" and wind up his effort in a fairly effective manner. The last act is the only one which really grips the audience to any degree. Nothing can more forcibly show the scarcity of good plays than the fact that "Salvation Nell" was a New York success.

The play is neither moral nor immoral, but merely unmoral. It is doubtful if any one, no matter how young and inexperienced, would be attracted to a life of crime by such a picture, and at the same time the path of virtue is not set forth as being particularly attractive. The dramatist has apparently taken the statement that the drama is "a mirror to nature" too literally. His play is nothing but a mirror, and the chief criticism is that the mirror is turned the wrong way.

There can be no criticism of the company or of the manner in which it was presented. The scenes in the saloon were admirably handled, and the street scene in the last act was remarkably good, in spite of the fact that more of the hastily improvised houses showed a tendency to fall down. The scenery was all destroyed in a recent fire and the company had to have some new scenery hastily painted.

Mrs. Fiske, herself, has one of the greatest personal followings of any modern actress. She is an artist of rare ability, and makes "Salvation Nell" go in a manner that few actresses could accomplish. She is very fortunate in her leading man. Holbrook Bliss gives a splendid interpretation of the role of Jim Platt, the Bowery drunkard, who was redeemed by the love of "his girl." Another member of the company who deserves special mention for her excellent work is Miss Hope Latham as Myrtle Odell.

The company was a large one, containing some forty-five members.

"The Unwritten Law."

Duluth will have its first opportunity of seeing "The Unwritten Law," the great English drama, this evening at the Lyceum, when the Jay Quigley Players will appear in the first night of the concluding week of their Duluth summer engagement. The play is by the author of "Moths," which was one of the most successful of last year's dramas, and the advance sale for this week's offering has been large, showing a particular interest in this great love story. Mr. Quigley will appear this week in the role of Scottish, an old Scottish servant. "The Unwritten Law" will be given every evening this week with Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

EX-SHERIFF IS KILLED BY ARTESIAN APPARATUS.

Forman, N. D., Aug. 2.—C. P. Chesney of Forman, formerly sheriff of Sargent county, was accidentally killed a few days ago while watching Joseph Hibbinn's artesian well rig working on a well near that village.

The fastening which held the derrick in place came loose and he was struck on the head by a pulley and rendered unconscious. He was hurriedly taken to town for medical aid, but died an hour later without regaining consciousness.

CROP YEAR A BUSY ONE

Board of Trade Figures Show Big Receipts and Shipments.

Crop Was About the Fourth Largest in Market's History.

The crop year of the Duluth board of trade ends the last day of July every year, the figures for the year just ended, compiled by Charles F. MacDonald, secretary of the board, showing the total receipts of all grains in this market during the twelve months to have been 80,865,780 bu and the shipments 70,361,702 bu.

These figures exceed those of the crop year of 1907-1908 by a little more than 10,000,000 bu. The total receipts and shipments of all grains for the year 1907-1908 were 70,608,687 bu and 70,182,259 bu.

Although last year's crop was a big one and the total grain handled in the local market exceeded that of the previous year, the rrop year of 1908-1909 was not a record-breaker. It was about the fourth largest.

The largest year in the history of the Duluth board of trade was 1898-1899, when the total of all grains coming to this market was 99,133,000 bu. The year 1906-1907 was the second largest, the receipts of all grains for that year being 89,267,000 bu.

Of the receipts of all grains, 50,092,060 bu were wheat. Total shipments of wheat during the crop year were 48,192,933 bu. Of the total wheat receipts, 26,467,041 bu was spring wheat, 23,464,799 bu was durum wheat and 160,220 bu winter wheat. Of the total shipments of wheat 23,389,956 bu was wheat and 24,802,977 bu spring wheat.

Total receipts of wheat during the crop year of 1907-08 were 43,917,358 bu, and the total shipments 43,618,407 bu.

Local mills took 1,978,138 bu, off track here for grinding, this amount not being included in the shipments, although it might be properly so, as the grain has been taken out of this market.

Total receipts of bonded grains of all kinds from Canada) during the last year were 4,246,425 bu, and the shipments 4,208,288 bu. The bonded wheat is not included in the total receipts and shipments of the market.

The following table gives the receipts and shipments of wheat for the year by months:

WRIGHTS GET ARMY PUPILS

Lieutenants Lahm and Foulois Practice With Aeroplane.

Herring's Contract to Deliver Machine to Army Is Annulled.

Washington, Aug. 2.—Wilbur Wright will return to Washington early next week to instruct Lieut. Lahm and Lieut. Foulois of the signal corps in the manipulations of the Wright aeroplane purchased by the signal corps. The flights are to take place at College Park, Md., according to the present plans. Both of the officers who are to be trained have made slight trips with Orville Wright.

The contract with A. M. Herring for an aeroplane has been annulled because of the failure of Mr. Herring to deliver his machine by July 21. A great many extensions of time had been granted to him.

Plan Extensive Work.

Practice flights with the Wright areoplane will be in order after the two officers have been trained. A number of experiments with the heavier-than-air machines also are planned, and a scheme for the establisment of a large experimental plant for aeronatics near Washington is under consideration by the signal corps officers. It is probable that specifications, more stringent than those carried to a successful close by Orville Wright, will be issued this fall, after the various contests between different types of machines here and abroad have taken place.

College Park station, on the Washington Baltimore turnpike, is seven miles from Washington by railroad and is accessible by trolley car. The land is much softer and more springy than at Fort Myer, thereby reducing the dangers resulting from a fall and making landing easier.

TWO TRAMPS WERE HEROES

Saved Rapidly Moving Passenger Train From Destruction By Fire.

One Hung From Top of the Coach to Break Window.

Although they probably did not know it, the two audiences which saw Mrs. Fiske in "Salvation Nell" at the Lyceum Saturday, were indebted to two unknown tramps for the properties of the original production, although the scenery itself had been destroyed by fire.

The account of the burning of Mrs. Fiske's scenery car while the company was traveling in Montana, was printed last week, together with the statements that the properties were saved and that the production would be given here as adequately as possible with improvised scenery.

With scenery fixed up from the Lyceum's stock and touched up by the Lyceum's scenic artist, the play was well presented. Without the original "props," of which there were many in the first and last acts, this would hardly have been possible, however.

It was really two hoboes who saved the car containing the "props" and costumes. Mrs. Fiske's two scenery and baggage cars were part of a section of the regular passenger train, which carried no passengers, however, and in fact, no one but the engine crew, a conductor and a colored porter, the last two riding in a coach attached to the rear of the train to give it ballast.

The two hoboes were riding on the roof of the first car behind the engine. On a lonely stretch of track in Montana the engine began to vomit live coals at a tremendous rate, and the tramps found themselves in danger of being burned alive by them.

Under the shower of flaming sparks the tramps retreated along the top of the train in an effort to get as far away from the coughing engine as possible.

As they crawled over the scenery car they noticed that the sparks had set the car on fire, and that the flames were eating their way inside. The spark-bitten bums crawled on, glowing embers from the still coughing engines lighting on their backs and starting incipient fires on their clothing.

They knew the last car was occupied by the only human beings on the train, except the engineer and his assistant and themselves. When they reached the last car they could see no way to alarm the occupants except by breaking a window. So one hobo clung to his campanion and he dangled his legs dangerous over the edge of the flying train and whacked a window. The operation was successful, the porter stopping the train.

There was no water handy and it was seen that the scenery car was doomed, so the train men, with the assistance of the two tramps, detached the other cars and started fighting the fire on the baggage car, which had caught fire. Although the tramps were in great agony from the burns they had received during the ride, they kept valiantly at work and the property and baggage car was finally saved.

When Mrs. Fiske heard of the heroism of the tramps she asked to see them. They told her they were workingmen, out of jobs, beating their way to Minneapolis. The grateful star thanked them for their services, paid their fares to Minneapolis and gave them about $20 in cash with which to buy new clothes.

Had it not been for the tramps the entire train would have caught fire before the trainmen noticed it, and Duluth would not have seen the original bar and tables in Sid McGovern's tough saloon, nor the street lights, sidewalks and other settings representing Cherry Hill in the last act of "Salvation Nell."

COTTON MARKET GROWS EXCITED

Bullish Government Report Affects Prices in Quick Fashion.

New York, Aug. 2.—A very excited advance in the price of cotton in the New York market followed the publication of the government crop report today. January deliveries sold up from $12.35 to $12.70 inside of ten minutes, or about $2 per bale above the closing price of Saturday and within fourteen points of the high record for the season made early last month. The government report of 71.9 per cent represented a deterioration of 2.7 per cent for the month and was a low record for this season of the year.

Lowest Condition on Record.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 2.—Cotton scored an advance of $2.50 a bale today at New Orleans as a result of the government bureau's report of 71.9 per cent of a normal condition on July 25. This is the lowest July condition on record. The October option advanced from $12.24 to $12.75, and there were corresponding advanced on the other side months.

RAILROAD NEWS

ORE RECORD IS BROKEN

The Total Shipments to Date Exceed Those of 1907.

The Month of July Was Heavy One for Ore Roads.

Ore figures to date given out by both the Duluth, Missabe & Northern and the Duluth & Iron Range railroads, show that more tonnage has been handled up to July 31 this season than was shipped in the same period in 1907, which was the greatest year, as far as ore shipments are concerned, ever known in the iron business at the Head of the Lakes.

So far this season there have been 5,434,135 tons of iron ore shipped over the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road. In 1907, during the same period, from the beginning of the season until July 31, there were 5,151,365 tons of iron shipped down from the range. Last year during the same period, but 2,819,934 tons of iron ore were shipped to the docks at Duluth.

The July shipping record also shows an increase over the last two years.

During the month just closed 2,249,410 tons of ore were shipped over the Missabe. In July of last year 1,655,125 tons were received at the docks here, and in July of 1907 but 1,057,319 tons were received.

In estimating whether the present season will surpass the record made in 1907, it is necessary to take into consideration the fact that there was a strike in 1907, coming during July, which naturally decreased the shipments made in that month. That is one reason why the record made to date this year is heavier than the record made in a similar period in 1907.

However, the officials of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern are of the opinion that if the shipments keep up the way they have during the past two months, a new record for ore shipping at the Head of the Lakes will be established.

The records of the docks of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad show that 1,535,246 tons were received at Two Harbors. The shipments during the month were 1,547,912 tons.

The total receipts for the season to date for the Duluth & Iron Range railroad are 3,573,028 tons. The total receipts for the same period last year were 1,736,315 tons, which show that the present season is far ahead of last year at the present time.

CALLING FOR THEIR CARS

Western Roads Preparing to Move a Very Heavy Crop.

Preparations for the approaching crop-hauling season are being made by both the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific railroads. Orders have been sent over the systems of both roads forbidding the lending of any of the cars of either road to foreign lines. Orders have also been issued calling for the return of all Great Northern and Northern Pacific freight cars that may be in use on foreign lines.

The shops of both lines are very busy right at the present time getting ready every available freight car. It is the plan of the car repair department of both of the roads to have every freight car of both railroads ready by the time the crop is ready to move.

Every car on the lake division of the two roads is being overhauled, according to the agents of the two lines at Duluth, as it is expected that an unusual large amount of wheat will be shipped by way of the lakes this year.

While railroad men do not anticipate a shortage of cars this year, they state that there will be use for every car.

WILL ORDER SOME NEW CARS

Missabe Road Will Add to Equipment This Fall.

It is likely that the Duluth, Missabe & Northern will order a large number of new steel ore cars this fall. The increase of shipment this year will necessitate the increase in the rolling stock of the road.

Two or three car men are in the city at the present time. They are in Duluth to do business with the Missabe. When the Duluth & Iron Range ordered some new equipment this spring the officials of the Missabe thought that business did not warrant the ordering of any more ore cars. In view of the increased business that has been done by the railroad this year, however, it is believed that some ore cars of the very latest pattern will be ordered by the Missabe this fall.

The officials of the Missabe have thoroughly tried out several models of ore cars of the latest design.

YOUNG TRAVELER HAS PRETTY HARD TIME.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Traveling alone from Denver little 8-year-old Ruth Blanchard failed to find waiting relatives at the depot. She knew she was coming to visit an aunt, but had forgotten both her name and address. The telegram sent by her relatives had gone astray and the little traveler was sent to the children's home, while the matter was given publicity in the local papers. The story caught the eye of the auntie and there was a hurry up trip to the home for the dainty stranger from Colorado.

COMPLETING THE CRIME.

"Here's your dose; take it and look pleasant," said Payne to the house Saturday, while Speaker Cannon smirked grimly and approvingly from the master's chair; and the house took it by a vote of 195 to 183. "The Republicans shrieked in their delight over the final outcome," says the Associated Press report; and President Taft is reported to be pleased that he had a hand in the mixing of the mess. Also, he attempted to use his influence to bring the insurgent Republicans into line, and labored with some of the Minnesota Republicans, including Congressman Miller of Duluth, to that end.

The rest will be easy. It isn't possible to crowd the bill through the senate, as it was in the house, by moving the previous question; so it will be talked about there for a few days. But it will be passed there, and Taft will sign it, and it will become a law; and the Republican party's answer to the consumer's demand for relief, for a lessened burden of tariff taxation, for less taxing of all the people for the benefit of a few of the people, will be crystallized into law. So far is this bill from meeting the popular demand that it has been necessary to add to it a strange new corporation tax for the raising of revenues which the tariff will not supply because too many of its schedules are prohibitive, and this corporation tax is merely an additional burden of $50,000,000 or so a year that the corporations will pass on to the people.

Minnesota can hold up its head in pride that it has had small part in this tyrannical offense; for of its nine congressmen eight voted against the bill. This includes Congressman Miller of Duluth, who should be given full credit not only for judging the bill accurately, but for guaging correctly and heeding the sentiment of the people of his district. The one Minnesota congressman who failed in his duty was Mr. Tawney of Winona, who is a spoke in the wheel of the Cannon organization that made this iniquity possible. It took some courage for these Minnesota Republicans to vote against the wishes of their party leaders; but if they were aware of the state of public sentiment at home, as they undoubtedly were, it would have taken still more courage to vote for the infamous bill which the cunning of Aldrich, the greed of the trusts, the stiffnecked, brutal force of Cannon and the supineness of the president, have joined to fasten upon the American people.

The Republican leaders have failed miserably. They have served only the cause of greed, and in such a short-sighted manner that they have injured their own cause and their party. Had this bill been one that was even measurably beneficial to the masses of the people; had its schedules been such that they would have brought about even a noticeable decrease in the cost of living; had the leaders even made a pretense of heeding the people's cry for help, instead of being arrogantly and stupidly regardless of the common good and corruptly and shamefully suppliant to the beck of greed, this revision would have stopped tariff agitation for a decade to come. Such a bill as this that is going through, however, can only add new energy to the campaign for honest tariff revision; and the response of the Republican party, actuated by consideration for the wishes of the blind and stupid advocates of tariff graft, will fearfully handicap the Republican party in ensuing campaigns, and will go far to destroy whatever remaining faith the people may have in the protective tariff as administered by its friends: who, under Republican leadership, have been the greedy beneficiaries of that sort of tariff which taxes the many for the benefit of the few, which brings oppression and hardship to the many that it may carry luxury and fatness to the few.

THE COUNTY TUBERCULOSIS SANITARIUM.

Vastly important though it is in every imaginable way, the county tuberculosis sanitarium project is the sort of thing a great many people take for granted; so perhaps the active public support of it is not quite what it would be if it were actually threatened with defeat. Hence, while everybody will agree that the project is vital and important, and that the county board ought to be liberal with it, comparatively few will take the trouble to notify the members of the board of their sentiment regarding it.

The project is not in actual danger, yet the deliberation shown by the county board in deciding on the amount of the appropriation seems to indicate a possible state of doubt that ought to be removed.

If this institution is to be started, it should be started in such a way that it will be worth something to the county. It should be large enough to accommodate at least a fair proportion of the sufferers from tuberculosis who live in this county and are financially unable to afford treatment in expensive private hospitals. It should be equipped so that it can properly care for the patients that come to it.

This cannot be done on the original estimate of $10,000. Twice that, probably, is all the county can afford at the start, though much more than that could be wisely used. The county board should not hesitate in the least to make the appropriation $20,000. The institution starts entirely new, it should be remembered; it has to find grounds, buildings and equipment. There must be a central administration building, with outlying shacks or tents in which the patients can sleep. There must be attendants and a superintendent. It would, perhaps, be worse than having no sanitarium at all to have one so poorly equiped that its inefficiency might later become a disgrace.

There is no evidence, it is true, that the members of the county board are not all firmly convinced of these things, and that the board does not intend to deal adequately with this excellent institution.

However, they will be in a better position to act if they are certain of public sentiment in the matter. Even if they believed in liberality to the sanitarium they might hesitate to act if they did not think the public would support them in their action. Therefore it will be well if all have an interest in this matter—and that ought to be everybody—take the trouble to drop a line to the board immediately, in care of County Auditor Odin Halden at the courthouse.

THE STAY-AT-HOME VACATION.

"Why," asks the Cleveland Plain Dealer, "do so many thousands of people deem it necessary to take an extended trip at vacation time? Why does the false opinion persist that the further one travels from home the more of a vacation he has had? Intelligent men and women unite in extolling the qualifications of their particular city as a summer resort, and then use every endeavor to get as far away as they can to enjoy their vacations."

The answer is easy. The best vacation furnishes a change as well as a rest, and there is, therefore, nothing illogical about the conduct of those who brag about the home town as a summer resort, and then go away for their vacations.

However, there isn't the slightest bit of use in long trips, and when they are so long that they are hard and wearing work, the good in them is offset and overbalanced by the ill.

If you know how to go about it, you can get just as radical a change right at home as you can by going to either coast, and with much more rest and much less trouble and expense.

For instance, taking "camping out." If you merely moved out into your backyard and lived in a tent and cooked your meals over a camp fire, it would be a great change and it would do you good. But you want to get away even from your own backyard, so you go out into the woods. You can't miss it if you go almost any direction. There are thousands of convenient and pleasant camping places around Duluth. Up the St. Louis river it is picturesque, pleasant and beautiful. On the north shore of the lake, within a few miles of town, there are any number of pleasant camping sites. Back over the hill, on the bank of one of the many streams that tumble toward the lake, there may be found dry, scenic and comfortable spots where you can live a week or two of pure pleasure.

A little farther away there are lakes with good fishing where you can have a bully time. This county and all of the adjoining counties are full of such lakes. Up in the northern part of St. Louis county, if you care to go so far, there are natural wilds full of good fishing where you can take canoe trips that you will remember all your life.

There isn't a finer outing place in the country than Duluth and the country that surrounds it. Even if you don't go out camping or fishing, you can make every minute count by staying at home and taking your picnic basket out to some new place every day. There are plenty of excursion boats and hundreds of pretty picnic spots that you reach by street cars or even on foot.

What you need in a vacation is rest and change; and by dropping your work for a week or two and looking about your immediate surroundings, you can get both to just as good advantage as you can anywhere, and to a great deal better advantage than you can by taking long trips on the trains, which are hot and dusty and uncomfortable in hot weather, to stifling cities or to pleasure resorts which are no better than those that you have left at home.

THE TEST OF TARIFF REVISION.

The reason the people of this country demanded tariff revision was that they wanted cheaper living—cheaper things to feed, clothe, warm and house themselves with.

Therefore the test of whether or not the tariff has been revised in accordance with their wishes is very simple. The test is whether, under the new tariff, things to eat, wear, live in and build fires with will be cheaper than they were before.

The cunning of Aldrich and the interests for which he works is such that the full iniquity of the tariff they have provided will not be discovered until it is applied in practice. There is very little direct increase; most increases were brought about by indirection, by changing of classification and shifting from specific to ad valorem duties. Some of the apparent decreases have been turned into actual increases by these methods. It is an Aldrich bill from start to finish, in spite of the time consumed by the Aldrich conference committee in negotiations with the president. The president succeeded in bringing about some cuts, but he didn't succeed in cutting a single item that Aldrich cared anything about.

Aldrich is interested chiefly in the things that New England and the East, the home of the trusts, are interested in. He was willing to have free hides, because New England makes shoes. He was willing to have free oil, the Standard Oil company is a large buyer of crude oil. Most of the other schedules that were cut he was interested in chiefly because they brought votes to support his program. Having reduced these schedules, it was up to the president to get the votes to support the altered program, which was still a program highly satisfactory to Aldrich.

And, above and beyond these facts, MANY OF THE SCHEDULES WERE DELIBERATELY FRAMED BY HIM SO AS TO PERMIT THE PRESIDENT TO CUT THEM AND TO GIVE THE COMPLETED BILL THE APPEARANCE OF BEING THE RESULT OF COMPROMISE.

Ugly little jokers will make their appearance from time to time. For instance, the bill puts a duty of 120 per cent on "thorium nitrate." You don't care about that, do you? You don't buy any thorium nitrate. But you do care, and you do buy it, if you use gas to light your house with; because thorium nitrate is the material from which incandescent gas mantles are made, and gas mantles are used in millions of American homes. Also, this sky-scraping duty will benefit just one single concern, and that at the expense of every user of gas mantles in the country.

That is just one ugly little joker; the bill is full of them.

The Aldrich tariff bill is a putrid mass of hypocrisies, of deceptions, of thefts, of tariff bounties to interests that are already dangerously and oppressively large at the expense of a people already dangerously overburdened.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. THAT NEW CIGARETTE LAW.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Am I to understand, from the law prohibiting the sale of cigarettes in Minnesota, which became effective yesterday, that a man coming here from a point outside the state with a box of cigarettes in his pocket, is not allowed to give one to a friend?

It looks very much as if that interpretation must be placed upon the measure. How would our legislators like it if some one hung around their kitchen with a rifle and compelled their wives to refrain from making coffee or tea for their consumption? There would be just as much reason, sense and justice to that as to this new law.

There already was a law prohibiting the sale of tobacco to minors, and there was no need of further legislation in this direction. A man of 21 years of age or more knows whether he wants to smoke or not, and should be allowed to follow out his desires in that direction.

This idea that a man coming here from the outside, possibly with a pocket full of specially imported cigarettes, cannot offer one to a friend, is preposterous. A SMOKER.

Duluth, Aug. 2.

Note—A careful reading of section 1 of the new law would indicate that the measure really makes it unlawful for a person to give a cigarette to a friend, whether the cigarettes have been carried in the pocket from a point outside the state or not. This section reads as follows:

"Section 1.—It shall be unlawful for any person by himself, clerk, servant, employe, or agent directly and indirectly upon any pretense or by any device, to manufacture, sell, exchange, barter, dispose of or give away, or keep for sale any cigarettes, cigarette paper of cigarette wrapper, or any paper made or prepared for the purpose of being filled with tobacco for smoking, and any person violating the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor; provided that the provisions hereof shall not apply to the sales of jobbers doing an interstate business with customers outside of the state."—The Editor.

A DESERVING WORK.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The interview published in your paper Saturday with that splendid artist, Mrs. Fiske, in which she most urgently advocates a renewed interest in every city in the country in the work of the humane society was read by me with great interest, and I most sincerely hope that the words of this earnest woman may count for some renewed effort in Duluth in the work of the local society. The Duluth Humane society was one of the first organizations for altruistic purposes formed in Duluth, but with later years have come a host of other societies with various other purposes, and some of Duluth's citizens have seen with regret the lack of interest in the work of the humane society. This work is always work for which there is no money, or at least that is the age-long excuse that the humane society work meets in every city. In Duluth the part of the work pertaining to the children is well looked after, but the care and treatment of the dumb animals does not, I fear, receive the attention it should.

I hope that Mrs. Fiske's words may awaken many Duluthians to their duty in this regard, and that when this splendid actress again comes to Duluth she may be told of a large and flourishing and very active branch of this work here. A. C. T.

The Price of Aldrichism.

Toledo Blade: Glimpses can now be obtained of the political fruits borne of the tariff fight in the United States senate. The ten Republican senators who voted against passage of the bill discover themselves in high favor with the people in general. There are no signs that they have lost with their constituencies. The situation is not so pleasant with a number of senators who have trailed Aldrich.

Republicans in Maine, Connecticut, Michigan, West Virginia, New Jersey and Massachusetts, to mention only six states, have been highly offended by the subservient posture of their senators. Eugene Hale, who has held his state in the heel of his palm for a generation, has given an opening which his opponents have seized with enthusiasm. The storm about his head is grown to formidable proportions. Navy yard appropriations, postoffices and harbor improvements, at getting which Hale is highly skilled, may not save him in Maine this time. Morgan G. Bulkeley of Connecticut, whose term expires a year from next January, must work hard if he is to be re-elected. Rivals were given a strong card by Bulkeley when he kneelt to Aldrich. Julius C. Burrows of Michigan, through the developments of the tariff, may be serving his last term. Nathan Bay Scott, of West Virginia, is on the books at home for retirement. John Kean of New Jersey, is said virtually to have delivered his office to Governor Fort by putting his vote at Aldrich's convenience. Seantor Lodge—he who sneered at the promises of the Republican platform—faces a lot of trouble in Massachusetts. Butler Ames is reported gaining headway as a candidate for the Lodge seat by means of attacks he is directing against the senate tariff measure.

The history of tariff bills has never closed with their passage. There are always folks at home to be reckoned with. Many a promising ambition has gone to wreck upon the tariff breakwater. The Payne—or Aldrich—bill threatens to carry an imposing record of political disasters.

Senators' English.

Chicago News: Pronunciation in the United States senate on the tariff debates has been an interesting study. The other day it was noted that the Southern senators almost without exception called tobacco "terbacker." The word "government," frequently used by men from all sections, usually is pronounced "guv'ment." Reading Clerk Crockett always falls down on the word "statistics," saying "stastistics." When he first came to the senate Former Senator A. J. Hopkins had trouble with "development," usually pronouncing it as if it were "develepoment." Former Senator Henry M. Teller persisted in calling Cuba "Cuby." A newspaper man asked the senator one day as to the authority for his peculiar pronunciation. The senator promptly flared up and replied: "Don't you suppose I know how to pronounce Cuby when I was born in Cuby, New York?"

May Let Loose of a Little.

Marquette Mining Journal: Minnesota's railway magnate, Jim Hill, has given $10,000 in cash to the construction fund of the new Cathedral high school building which Bishop McGolrick has planned to erect in Duluth. Our millionaires may be somewhat grasping when they are in pursuit of the dollar, but it must be admitted that many of them are mighty liberal with it after they have got it.

Its Real Effect.

Washington Star: Jacob A. Riis was talking about witty newspaper headlines.

"As witty a headline as I know of," said he, "was written by a youth of eighteen in a San Francisco newspaper office. There was a bill up to prohibit the sale of alcoholic drinks within four miles of the University of California, and this bill the youth headed: "'An Act to Promote Pedestrianism Among Our Students.'"

Retort Courteous.

Calumet News: According to a story that is good enough to be true, a dashing young man of Phoenix, Ariz., addressed a young lady of that city thusly: "I love my wife, but oh, you kid," and was greatly surprised when she replied: "I love my dog, but oh, you pup."

THE WEATHER

Yesterday brought a hint of fall coolness. The sky cleared during the afternoon and the sun came out, but the evening was cool, and wraps were needed. This morning it was again cloudy, and the weather man looks for thunder storms tonight.

A year ago today it was fair.

The sun rose this morning at 4:48, and will set this evening at 7:40, making fourteen hours and fifty-two minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on conditions:

"A disturbance, central over Saskatchewan, has caused warmer weather in Manitoba and the Dakotas, and scattered showers throughout the lake region and the Northwest during the past twenty-four hours. Showers also fell over Tennessee, Virginia, Kansas, Louisiana, Texas, New Mexico and Arizona, due in part to a depression overlying Northern Mexico. Areas of high barometer, central over the lower St. Lawrence valley and North Pacific districts, are attended by cooler weather in those sections. The easterly movement of the Saskatchewan disturbance will be attended by occasional showers or thunder storms in St. Louis and Douglas counties this afternoon, tonight and Tuesday."

Political Death Better Than Treachery.

Minneapolis Tribune (Rep.): It is better for the lasting fame of a public man, president, party leader or whatnot, to encounter political death rather than betray the people. There are two kinds of betrayal, the failure to execute a clear and deliberate popular mandate and refusal to outface and defeat for the ultimate good of the people their passionate or prejudiced error of the moment.

Grover Cleveland was tried in almost every way. He confronted political death twice on the silver question and finally met it. Before his first defeat in 1892, he wrote his famous letter to the Reform club against free silver. In his second term he needlessly alienated the powerful corruption of his party by denouncing "as perfidy and dishonor" a tariff bill he could not defeat.

Also he defied the forces of disorder by asserting and maintaining with arms the authority of the American nation on every part of the soil and ignorance he had only rebuked in 1891 by forcing congress to repeal the silver purchase law and selling bonds for gold to support the public credit.

These things saved the country, but destroyed him and his party. He left public life forever with the love and admiration of every intelligent patriot, but without a single political follower. But the party which dared try a fall with him came out of the struggle so maimed and crushed that it never has been able to play a vital part in American politics since.

Though Grover Cleveland was politically dead for ten years, his fame will outshine that of men who prolong public life by tilting at windmills for popularity while they dodge big popular issues to avoid trouble with the forces of corruption in the party they pretend to lead. Grover Cleveland is a better example for William Howard Taft than any president since.

The Horrid Thing!

Appleton Press: We once heard a bachelor speak thus: "Truly is woman the lesser man. Less strength to her intellect, less breadth to her sympathies, less depth to her affections, all the fine feminine attributes ascribed to her sex are the fond imaginings of man and not the innate characteristics of woman. Take Shakespeare's heroines—the world has never seen their like in real life. They are what man would have woman be, and not what she really is. In fact, all the advancement woman has made toward a broader and higher humanity has been compelled from her by the nobler sex. And the coarseness, cruelty and baseness of man is invariably to gratify the barbaric instincts of some Amazon. She loves vice and cruelty, but is too cowardly to practice these. She is absolutely selfish and shameless. She demands the spoils of trickery, embezzlement, thievery and commercial murder, but will not sear her hands with the fire. She must have baubles and gewgaws, but her gentle nature must not be shocked with a knowledge of the depth of degradation at which they are procured; she must have her chunk of flesh for breakfast, but the horrors of the slaughter pen must never affront her sympathetic eye. She has no true appreciation of the beautiful in art and literature. True, she has her literary clubs where she pampers the stomach with dainty refreshments and still further weakens the mind with borrowed sentiment. With all her leisure, she does not become cultured in the true sense of the word.

"In dress she is voluptuous and sensuous rather than artistic. She squeezes the waist until she looks like a compound word; she insists on putting a No. 9 foot in a No. 2 shoe and thinks it looks neat. She goes about ridiculously top-heavy with hair built out like a cart of hay and crowned with a township of wire, ribbons, impossible flowers and murdered birds, and will faint under the load at the sight of a sore thumb.

"Oh, she's a hummer; not all of her, but most of her."

It Was No Joke, However.

Marquette Mining Journal: A Zenith City paper mentions, with grim humor, that "there was a heavy movement of Duluth real estate Wednesday"—the day the cloudburst occurred there.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Albert Lea Tribune: There is little doing in politics that can be observed by the average citizen, but the politicians who have axes to grind are busy framing up slates for smashing at the next election, or perhaps at convention time. It is well there is a referendum in these matters or popular government would be something of the past.

Austin Transcript: The report that Mr. Roosevelt is short of supplies seems to leave it to be inferred that he isn't eating 'em alive.

Albert Lea Standard: The women of Colorado declare that next year they will elect one of their sex to congress, and if they do so, and if allowed to take her seat she undoubtedly would prove faithful and an honor to the entire country. But first, also, the miserable little word "he" must be emasculated from the Constitution, and we fear there are yet too many more miserable little men who cannot be cajoled or converted into permitting this to be done.

Aitkin Age: Congressman Lindberg is not asking Speaker Cannon for any committee assignments and says that the speaker does not owe him anything. No, he does not owe him anything from the standpoint of personal assistance, but the speaker, as a national official, owes the district that Mr. Lindberg represents the recognition that such a district is entitled to regardless of what Mr. Cannon thinks of Mr. Lindberg's attitude upon some of the questions of the day.

Litchfield Independent: What a spectacle it is to see the United States, and though it the whole country, practically dominated by a man from Rhode Island, a state not one-fourth as large as Minnesota county, a man who lost iron ranges—Showers or thunder storms this afternoon, tonight and Tuesday; warmer tonight; moderate easterly to southerly winds. owns the iron ranges and which is openly and notoriously conceded. We repeat, what a spectacle is this, in a democracy, a nation where the voter is the sovereign.

St. Cloud Times: R. C. Dunn is said to favor an extra session of the legislature. What for?

Albert Lea Times-Enterprise: The city of Duluth was visited by a terrific storm and cloudburst on Wednesday of last week, which caused great loss of property and some lives. The property loss while large is nothing which will stay the progress or energy of this splendid city upon which the sun, rising each morning out of Lake Superior, first smiles before he sheds a ray of light on any other spot in Minnesota.

Hibbing Tribune: If all women, or even a considerable minority of them, were as determined to have the ballot, as the suffrage ladies are, women would be voting in a jiffy. The trouble is that about ninety-nine of every 100 women don't seem to care anything about the matter.

THE PACE THAT DESTROYS.

Detroit Journal: The regret which will be felt for the suicide of Harry C. Pulliam, president of the National league, is due to the uselessness of the sacrifice. The big business world (and the big baseball leagues are large affairs) sets a swift pace for all who enter the race; yet cheerfulness and inward serenity will sustain some of the hardest runners.

It is when men give to mere business the intense center of their beings, the inner fiber of their hearts, that reason sinks and self-destruction enters the range of the worn man's imagination. Rockefeller with his golf balls, Pierpont Morgan with his pursuit of artistic deoris, are always fresh for their big fights. There are other men who never know what it is to rest, who sell goods all day and sell them in dreams all night; who feel that they are responsible not only for their own work, but for that of every individual underling.

These men are in peril all the time. They bring into the lumbering, shapeless world of business the intensity of fanaticism. They are like dashing troop captains, who lead their men into the midst of a hostile country, fighting and slaying, until all are weary and hungry, without place to rest or base of supplies.

Poor Harry Pulliam showed for many months the marks of the stern pace. He received $5,000 a year and, as he said, "longed for $2,000 and a quiet life." His league, the different teams, the individual players, got into troubles and out of them, but every time they got out they left a part of the life blood of Harry Pulliam. Ban Johnson was a living lesson to him of how to enjoy the ordinary ministerial duties of a league president. But Pulliam could not smile and enjoy a ball game as Johnson and his like can. He played every game, and was responsible for every error, and every flying arrow of controversy wounded him. So despite the prosperity of the league and the popularity of the game, it all left him sick and unhappy.

The trouble is not in baseball, for that has saved many lives. It has furnished to thousands of strained men the very relaxation which Pulliam needed. The fault is in Pulliam's overconscientiousness, his personal shouldering of all the burdens.

After the mighty labor there came an overpowering fatigue. Under that fatigue the mind wavered and judgment went blind. He left the grinding world of business, and the crushing care, merely by entering a sleep from which he can never be awakened, and thus only he made sure his escape from the torment of the overstrained life.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A man can blame his wife at cards because there aren't five aces in the pack.

If a woman can't flatter a man any other way, she always can by telling him she can't.

A man thinks he has a good disposition to whip the children with a strap instead of a club.

After a woman has prayed for everybody in the family she begins to think about herself.

When the baby doesn't cry it's because he has a heavenly disposition. When he does, it's because he's a suffering little angel.

His Treat.

Everybody's Magazine: Dennis was doing his best to speak respectfully of the dead.

"Yes," he said, "Mike was a foine mon. Honest, straightforward, hard-workin', generous——"

"Generous?" questioned Barney rather doubtfully. "Did ye ever know of his treatin' any one in all his lolfe?"

"Well, he nearly treated once."

"Nearly treated?"

"Yis. I remember once he dhropped into Cassidy's when th' boys were all there. 'Well, lads,' he sez, 'what'll we have?'—wid a wave of his hand toward the bar. 'What'll we have?—rain or snow?'"

MEANT TO BE FUNNY.

Philadelphia Record: Blobbs—Put yourself in his place is a pretty good motto.

Slobbs—Yes, especially for the office seeker.

Louisville Courier-Journal: "Did you advise your daughter to learn the use of money?"

"Yes; and it was a foolish move. She immediately demanded some to practice with."

Boston Transcript: "What's given Maud such a big head lately?"

"Jack told her she had little feet."

Life: First Bridge Fiend — Mrs. Thompson has fainted away!

Second Bridge Fiend—How provoking of her! She might have waited until she was dummy.

Kansas City Journal: Teddy—I wish I hadn't fought Jimmy Brown this morning.

Mamma—You see now how wrong it was, don't you, dear?

Teddy—Yes, 'cause I didn't know till this afternoon that he was going to give a party.

Houston Post: "The Wrights say that the aeroplane is as safe as an auto."

"That is just the reason I would be afraid to ride in one."

Cleveland Leader: The Editor—This phrase, "He led her to the altar," makes me tired.

Society Reporter—Why?

The Editor—It's hackneyed, for one thing, and in the second place it's nonsense. Led, indeed! Most girls have to do the steering because the man has blind staggers.

Chicago Record-Herald: Wife—Isn't it funny? The gorilla speaks only eight words?

Husband—Nothing strange; he has five or six wives.

Cleveland Leader: "I was a fool when I married you."

"But you're wiser now?"

"You can bet I am."

"Well, I've improved you a little, then, haven't I?"

Yonkers Statesman: "My husband never gets what he should for his poetry," said the poet's wife, with a tinge of sadness.

"Oh, don't be too hard on him," replied the girl, absent-mindedly.

Catholic Standard: "Miss Gidday," began Mr. Timmid, "I thought to propose——"

"Really, Mr. Timmid," interrupted Miss Gidday, "I'm sorry, but——"

"That we have some ice cream——"

"Oh, I should be delighted to take——"

"Some evening when the weather is warmer."

Washington Star: "Wealth doesn't always bring happiness," said the ready-made philosopher.

"That's very true," answered Dustin Stax. "It has led to my being arrested for speeding an automobile, it has caused me much seasickness in a private yacht, and now I suppose I'll be expected to live in terror of my own airship."

Chicago News: P. Rock Cockerel—May I offer you this nice fat angleworm, Miss Leghorn?

Miss Leghorn—Thank you so much, but Dr. Quackquack has told me to keep on a light diet, so I'm eating nothing but glow-worms and fireflies.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: No, Cordelia, the Daughters of the Revolution don't all patronize the merry-go-round.

A critic is a person who is unable to do a thing the way he thinks it ought to be done.

It's a fortunate thing for masculine vanity that the average woman is short on the sense of humor.

A woman doesn't seem to worry as much because her husband gambles as she does because he isn't a winner.

The wants of man are few, but the wants of the average woman would fill several want columns in a newspaper.

When a middle-aged man faces the parson with a girl of 16 he doesn't begin to get the sympathy he is entitled to.

When you see a man making all sorts of faces at himself in a mirror it's a safe bet that he's either crazy or shaving.

A Giant in These Days.

St. Louis Times: "There were giants in the earth in those days," the interesting Book Genesis avouches.

Perhaps so. Now and then fossil evidences tend to sustain the story.

But there are giants in these days, also.

At the annual state field day of the Clan-Na-Gael, held at New Haven, Conn., on Saturday last, John Flanagan of the Irish-American Athletic club of New York, threw a sixteen-pound hammer 184 feet 4 inches, and established a new world's record.

Think what manner of man is that who can throw a sixteen-pound hammer 184 feet! None but an Irishman would venture to undertake it.

Hats in air for Flanagan, the Irish giant of these days!

GIVES DRIVER A BAD FRIGHT

Supposed Dead Man Sits Up in Ambulance Taking Notice.

Coleraine, Minn., Aug. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Hospital, not morgue," murmured Marco Tragovich in broken English to the driver of an ambulance Saturday afternoon as he was being taken to an undertaker's, a supposedly dead man from being struck by lightning. He sat up, to the consternation of the driver, and gave vent to several unprintable exclamations in hybrid Austrian and English trying to explain he was anything but dead.

Tragovich had been working on a dump pile when the heavy electrical storm of Saturday afternoon came up. Lightning struck near him and he was rendered unconscious. It was thought that he was killed, and the coroner was sent for.

After a hasty examination the man was started on his way to the morgue. The resurrection made it necessary to change itinerary and the driver turned aroung and drove to the hospital. Tragovich is recovering.

The amount of money to be added is liberal and it is expected that the shooters from all parts of the state will attend. At the tournament held in Eevelth last summer there were thirty-seven shooters present, but a considerable number did not stay through. As the Virginia tournament will be two days, instead of one, the attendance should be greater than at the Eveleth contest. Joseph Backus, Dr. C. B. BOY CAMPERS OFF FOR DEERWOOD

Thirty Duluth Lads Leave for Outing on Serpent Lake.

The first party of campers left this morning in charge of Secretary D. McLeod and Physical Director J. B. Batchelor for the summer camp of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. at Deerwood. Between thirty and forty enthusiastic boys were in the party, which will remain at the camp for about two weeks.

This year the camp will be open throughout the month of August. At the end of two weeks it is expected that another large party will go out for the latter part of the month. In all, seventy or eighty boys will visit the camp at different times during the month, as they are permitted to enter at any time and remain as long as they can.

The summer camp at Deerwood has been maintained for several years by the boys' department, and is one of the most enjoyable features of the association's activities during the year. The facilities for bathing, boating, fishing and other sports are excellent, and the boys always enjoy themselves immensely.

ARRESTED ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Claimed That James Parker Took Liberties With Little Girl.

James Parker, 416 East First street, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Detective Schulte, charged with an attempted criminal assault upon the 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Regan, 210 East Second street.

According to the story told the police, Parker lured the little girl to his room, which he rented from T. Ray, by the promise of new clothing. While walking upstairs he was met by Mr. Ray, who asked him where he was going with the child, whereupon Parker said he wanted to give her some clothing which he had in his room. Mr. Ray thought nothing more of the matter at the time.

A little while later Mrs. Ray says she heard the muffled screams of a child coming from Parker's room, the door of which was closed. Looking through the key hole, she claims to have seen Parker trying to remove the little girl's clothing. Her daughter also claims to have witnessed this sight through the key hole, and the matter was then reported to Mr. Ray.

The man also asserts that Parker was improperly treating his little guest. Ray burst open the door and took the child from Parker, who tried to prevent his doing so. He said he wanted to give her some underclothing.

Mr. Regan was notified of what had occurred, and he told the police about it. Detective Schulte found Parker in a downtown cigar store, and placed him under arrest. Parker, who says he is 42 years old, was partly intoxicated at the time. A search was made of his room, but nothing was found there in the shape of children's wearing apparel.

Parker was arraigned in municipal court this morning and pleaded not guilty. His hearing was set for Aug. 4, and bail was fixed at $2,000, which he was unable to furnish.

BULLET IN HIS BRAIN

Louis Hurtig Ends His Life in His Room on the Bowery.

Despondency Following Long Spree Said to Be the Cause.

Louis Hurtig, 45 years old, shot himself through the head yesterday morning at 515 West Michigan street, where he roomed, and died at 8:45 o'clock last night at St. Luke's hospital. He used a revolver, the bullet entering through the ear and penetrating the brain.

No one heard the shot, but Anton Erickson found him lying on a lounge about 8 o'clock in the morning. The man was breathing heavily. Erickson thought he was drunk and did not disturb him, but later in the morning noticed that the breathing was hardly that of a drunken man, and called Gust Egdale, the proprietor.

The two men soon learned the real cause of the trouble, and the police were notified. Hurtig was removed to the hospital. The suicide comes at the end of a protracted spree, it is said. The man had been drinking heavily, and it is understood that lately he has on several occasions announced that he intended to blow out his brains.

Hurtig was a familiar figure along the Bowery, and was well known to the men who frequent that section of Superior street. His residence in Duluth extended over a period of several years, but he occasionally left town to work in the woods. May 10 he returned from Cloquet, where he had been working on a farm. He had about $500 in his possession at that time. He was unmarried and it is believed that he had no relatives in this country.

INTENSIFIES TRIPLE PACT

the links in the chain binding Great Britain, France and Russia in a triple entente and to dissipate any ill-feeling engendered by the harsh denunciation of Emperor Nicholas and his methods so frequently vented by the members of the labor party both in and out of political circles since the coming of the emperor was first announced. The function, however, was distinctly official in character, and so strongly were the immediate participants and spectators entrenched behind the cordon of steel walls that there was no chance for a popular demonstration either for or against Emperor Nicholas.

King Edward and Queen Alexadria went out on board the royal yacht Victoria and Albert and met the Standart outside of Spit Head. King Edward went over to the Standart and welcomed his guests and escorted them to the Victoria and Albert, where luncheon was served. Afterward the two sovereigns reviewed the assembled fleets from the Victoria and Albert.

Will Visit Italy.

Cherbourg, Aug. 2.—When Emperor Nicholas of Russia left here today on board the imperial yacht Standart for Cowes to visit King Edward, the Standart and the Russian warship convoying her were escorted by the middle of the channel by a number of French war vessels.

Foreign Minister Iswolsky today confirmed the reported intention of Emperor Nicholas of going to Italy and Turkey, but said these visits would not occur until the fall. Emperor Nicholas will go to these countries direct from the Crimea.

PLUMS FALL THIS WEEK.

grieved, as there is a relatively small limit to the number of chairmanships to be dealt out by the speaker.

Fowler Is Marked.

Representative Charles N. Fowler of New Jersey was chairman of the committee on banking and currency during the last congress, but Mr. Fowler incurred the displeasure of Mr. Cannon by "insurging" against the rules very early in the season, and a little later added to this displeasure by actually coming out as a candidate for speaker against Uncle Joe. It is therefore in the nature of things congressional that a new chairman will be named. It is no secret about the house that Representative Vreeland of New York is the speaker's choice.

Mr. Vreeland was not even a member of the banking and currency committee during the last session, and his appointment will therefore open the way for the speaker to make other appointments where the member named for chairman has not served on the committee. As a result, many aspirants who are ranking members of their committees are much concerned lest their asprirations be in vain.

This situation applies especially to the interstate and foreign commerce committee, of which "Col. Pete" Hepburn was chairman for a number of terms. Vice President Sherman was next in rank to Hepburn, but his promotion to president of the senate leaves Representative Wanger of Pennsylvania as the ranking member. However, Representative Mann of Illinois, one of the stalwarts of the house, ranks next to Mr. Wanger, and has been a most active member of the commerce committee.

Mann May Get Boost.

Mr. Mann is said to be the choice of the speaker for chairman. That the speaker has decided to give Mann the place seems to be indicated by the number of special favors that have been showered on Wanger during the special session. The speaker has on several occasions turned the gavel over to the Pennsylvanian, and has recognized him in other ways calculated to show the speaker's good will.

Should the speaker see fit, he may apply the same program to the committee on postoffices and post roads and the judiciary committee, both of which will be very active during the next session. Representative Gardner of New Jersey is the ranking member of the former, but Representative Dwight of New York, who is the Republican whip, has been spoken of as a strong possibility for the chairmanship of this committee.

Representative Parker of New Jersey is the ranking member of the judiciary committee, of which Former Representative Jenkins of Wisconsin was the chairman. Representative Moon of Pennsylvania, who has headed the committee that has had charge of the revision of the laws, stands an even chance with Parker.

Speaker May Yield.

Conservative members of the majority, however, contend that the speaker cannot afford at this time to create further enmity by ignoring ranking members of committees in selecting the chairman. It is said, therefore, that Representatives Gardner and Parker will get the postoffice and judiciary committees respectively.

An entirely different status governs the appointment of a chairman for the insular affairs committee. Representative Cooper of Wisconsin, who was chairman of this committee in the last congress, is still a member of the house, but he was one of those who voted against the "Cannon rules," and is therefore scheduled to lose. It is generally conceded that Representative Olmsted of Pennsylvania will supersede Cooper.

The committee on rivers and harbors, which is one of the most sought-after plums, offers a more unusual situation than any of the other committees. When Theodore E. Burton was elected United States senator from Ohio, the chairmanship of this committee was left vacant. Representative Acheson of Pennsylvania, who was the next in rank on the committee, has retired from congress, leaving Representative Alexander of New York as the man who ordinarily would get the berth of chairman. It is said Mr. Alexander could have the chairmanship of the judiciary committee if he desired it, but he is understood to covet, and probably will secure, the vacancy left by Senator Burton.

Stevens May Land.

The chairmanship of the rivers and harbors committee therefore being practically settled, the fight with regard to this committee resolves itself into the efforts of various aspirants to a place on the committee. The foremost aspirant is J. Hampton Moore of Pennsylvania, one of the most earnest advocates of waterways improvements. In fact, were it not that Representative Alexander desires the place, Mr. Moore would stand a good chance of getting the chairmanship.

Others who are mentioned for this committee are Representatives Graham and Tener of Pennsylvania, Stevens of Minnesota and Cassidy of Ohio. The last named is being put forward by Senator Burton, whose successor Cassidy is. It is said Mr. Burton would like to keep a guiding hand on the rivers and harbors committee through Mr. Cassidy.

The task of appointing committees is a momentous one for Mr. Cannon this year, because there are quite a number of members who are to be "disciplined" and a large number of others whose adherence to the "regulars" must be given recognition. In addition, the fight on the rules is only temporarily quiescent and undoubtedly is to be resumed during the present congress.

protest served only the purpose of calling out a rebuke for himself from Mr. Heyburn.

It was evident that there was a "situation on," and it was soon made plain that it was the intention of some of the senators, both "insurgent" Republicans and straight Democrats, to have read every word of the long report, which meant great delay, notwithstanding the early start.

"Ventilation" Is Promised.

"What does it all mean?" was asked of one of the "insurgents."

"It means," he replied, "that if this bill becomes a law it will not go beyond the next election."

"How are you going to insure that result?" was the inquiry.

"By ventilation," was the terse reply.

Further inquiry failed to develop any understanding among the original "insurgents" and their allies, the hide men, who were represented by Senator Heyburn. That they would be able to get together or that even if so there would be enough of them with the Democrats to defeat the conference report, was uncertain. Scarcely any were willing to claim so much. All depended on this senator that, who "ought to be with us, but who is uncertain."

Chances of Defeat.

Much depended upon what Brown and Burkett and Crawford of the "insurgents," and Carter, Warren, Clark and Dixon of the "range" senators would do. Would they defy the president and party organization and vote against the bill because of their disappointment in it? No one was able to say, although the Democrats and the more radical "insurgents" were quite determined to enforce regularity and throw all the light possible on the measure. Further than this they would not, and in reality, at the beginning of the day's session, they could not go.

By this time nearly all the senators on both sides had taken their seats, and after the reading was resumed, the senators who had declared themselves in favor of the reading of every word of the report paying no further attention to it.

Interest Is Intense.

Intense interest was shown by senators in the course that would be pursued in the consideration of the report. Republicans formed little groups in the rear of the chamber and carried on animated conversations in low tones, while others on both sides retired to the cloakroom, where they had greater liberty in discussing plans. There was general confidence that the bill would go through, but there was enough uncertainty to add spice to the situation. Renewed public interest in the proceedings was shown by the large attendance in the galleries.

HERALD CONCERT IS POSTPONED

Threatening Weather and Wet Grounds Caused Disappointment to People.

The skies were threatening yesterday morning, and owing to this fact and the fact that Mr. Gunderson, who operates the pavilion at Lester park, telephoned about noon that the spot where the musicians were to hold forth was covered with water from the previous night's rain, The Herald's free band concert, scheduled for yesterday afternoon at the park, was called off.

With the grass at the park all wet and with more rain threatening, the management of The Herald deemed it inadvisable to give the concert and endanger the health of the musicians and spectators, so it was decided to postpone it. All the people who called up The Herald office were informed that there would be no concert.

In the afternoon, however, the sun came out and the weather was quite pleasant, save for a cool northeast breeze. Many people who had not heard of the postponement of the concert journeyed to Lester park, where they were unfortunately disappointed.

The sunshine of the afternoon attracted people to other parks and the city enjoyed a pleasant Sunday, after all. The street cars were crowded all day.

The concert will be given next Sunday at Lester park.

ASPHYXIATES HERSELF AND HER TWO CHILDREN.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Marital troubles caused Mrs. Emma Michael to murder her two children, Meta, 15 years old, and Gustav, 12 years old, and then commit suicide by means of illuminating gas here yesterday. The two children were found dead in bed with every gas jet in the house open and Mrs. Michael was seated in the kitchen, also dead, with a rubber tube attached to a jet in her mouth.

Mrs. Michael and her husband, Louis, have been separated for three months and she had started suit for a divorce. Pending a decision, her husband was to pay her alimony, but he had failed to do so.

Five Duluth Men Make Generous Donations to Work.

Announcement was made at the Sacred Heart cathedral yesterday of several large donations made to the funds for the new Cathedral high school now in course of erection on the corner of Second avenue west and Fourth street, and the new St. James' orphanage at Woodland.

Henry Turrish and A. M. Chisholm have each donated $5,000 to each of the funds, and Bishop McGolrick, John F. Killorin and M. H. Kelly are down for $5,000 donations to the orphanage fund. For the orphanage, Bishop McGolrick has also donated eighty acres of land, and there have been substantial donations of lumber by mill companies. The Duluth Street Railway company is hauling all of the material to the orphanage site free of charge. The fund is growing rapidly and the project that is dear to Bishop McGolrick's heart bids fair to be successfully carried through.

The fund for the new high school is also growing and $28,000 has now been subscribed, that sum including a $10,000 donation from J. J. Hill and the two $5,000 donations mentioned. Small donations are coming in rapidly, and it is expected $40,000 will be subscribed before the work on the superstructure is begun. The school will cost about $60,000.

over the interior situation. He desired to throw his personal popularity in the scale, and it was with difficulty that he could be dissuaded from going to Barcelona in person. Premier Maura told him it would be equivalent to suicide to enter that hotbed of anarchy.

Protest the Censorship.

Some of the highest officers of the army are protesting vigorously against the maintenance of the censorship. They regard this restriction as foolish and useless, and giving place to the wildest and most exaggerated stories. Gen. Lopez Dominguez and Gen. Polavieja, members of the superior council of war, have protested formally against the censorship, saying that they had received dispatches from officers at the front insisting that all the anxiety has been caused by the useless censorship. Both these generals declare that this has only aggravated matters, and that it will be better to tell the entire truth.

Shrouded in Uncertainty.

Paris, Aug. 2.—The facts as to the situation at Barcelona remain somewhat shrouded, as no correspondent yet has reached the city, which is isolated by land and sea. The censored report coming out of Madrid is suspected to be over-optimistic. Nevertheless, it appears certain that Gen. Santiago has succeeded in restoring a semblance of order in the city, and today a serious effort to resume work will be made. At the solicitation of the authorities, the employers of Barcelona have agreed to offer a premium of a week's wages to every person coming back to work.

At what cost in life and property comparative tranquility has been restored in Barcelona, however, continues unknown. Reports agree that the troops, by the use of machine guns, drove the revolutionists back. The main body of the mob escaped and took refuge behind the barricades in the workmen's quarter, when the revolutionists were finally expelled by shells from the guns on Fort Montjuich.

Editor Shot Without Trial.

Refugees arriving at the frontier speak of the "terrific slaughter," and estimate the dead at thousands, but allowance must be made for Spanish imagination. Whether the ringleaders were captured and were condemned by court-martials have actually been executed is not yet clear. Some reports declare that Gen. Santiago has not yet approved the death sentences in the cases of these men. It is known, however, that Emiliano Iglesias, editor of the Progreso, was shot without trial.

But if order has been restored at Barcelona, it seems equally certain that the outlying country, especially the district north of the city, is in the hands of the revolutionists, and the task of reducing the remainder of the province probably will entail much additional bloodshed. Even the official dispatches from Madrid speak of the necessity of restoring order in the interior of the province and of the difficulty of dislodging the "anarchists" who have taken refuge in the mountains.

Says Republic Is Proclaimed.

Some reports insist that a republic has already been proclaimed and that a regular junta is directing the operations of the revolutionists.

The situation in Palmos, the center of the cork industry, is reported to be alarming, and fears are expressed for the safety of foreigners there.

The minister of war has prohibited the departure from Spain of all persons subject to military duty under the penalty of being considered deserters. The government has also placed a ban on the sale of foreign papers containing accounts of recent events in Catalonia and Morocco.

The opinion in semi-official circles here concerning Spain's internal situation is pessimistic, and the belief is expressed that the trouble is not yet over. Official Madrid announces that Barcelona is tranquil, but qualifies this statement with the words, "this is especially so in the center of the city."

From Melilla comes the news of another Spanish convoy being ambuscaded and several of its officers wounded before the troops succeeded in extricating themselves from the attack of the tribesmen.

Official denial is given to the report that the temper of the Madrid garrison is hostile. Another official statement says that the number of victims of the fighting at Barcelona is unknown, but frontier reports, one of them of alleged authoritative inspiration, declares that the killed or wounded will aggregate 5,000 and that the number of insurrectionists summarily shot was between forty and 120.

Critisize Moorish Campaign.

Oran, Algeria, Aug. 2.—Officers of the steamer Emir, which arrived today from Melilla, say that in the fighting between the Spaniards and the Moors on July 27, the Spanish made the mistake of advancing in solid masses through a gorge sided by hills whence the enemy shelled the Spanish continuously. The unfortunate soldiers of Spain did not know where the fusillade came from. Many of the Spaniards had only disembarked and were without rations.

Stupid Tactics Employed.

San Sebastian, Spain, Aug. 2.—(via frontier.)—Further particulars regarding the situation at Melilla say the arrangements for caring for the wounded are deplorable. There are but few doctors on the scene. Medicines, surgical instruments and other appliances are almost entirely lacking.

During the fighting of July 27, the staff of Gen. Marina, the commander of the Spanish forces, was decimated. Some companies lost half their strength, and three-quarters of their officers. All the reports speak of the bravery of the men and officers, but dwell upon the stupidity of the antiquated tactics employed, and the disorganization of the commissariat.

FRENCHMAN FLIES NEARLY TWO HOURS.

Chalons-Sur-Marne, Aug. 2.— M. Sommer yesterday made a flight of 1 hour, 50 minutes and 30 seconds duration in his biplane, beating the records of all of the French aviators.

Rheims, France, Aug. 2.—A summer's activity and progress in aviation in France which has exceeded the dreams of the most enthusiastic of the followers of the sport will be crowned by the assemblage of the most renowned acroplanists in a "week of aviation," arranged to open at Rheims on Aug. 22.

The entrels for the various events on the program include Latham (monoplane), Blériot (monoplane), De la Grange (biplane with tail); Farman (biplanc), Sommer (biplane), Santos Dumont (monoplane), the Count de Lambert and Tissandier, the apt pupils of the Wrights; Demarest (monoplane) and Glen H. Curtiss (biplane).

Mr. Curtiss will be the official representative of the Aero Club of America. The nations taking part include France, America, Austria, England and Italy.

It was hoped that the Wright brothers would enter, but they declined, it is understood, on the ground that they objected to the clause in the rules allowing machines to stop for repairs or fuel during the running of the races.

CARLTON COUNTY EXAMINATIONS ON.

Cloquet, Minn., Aug. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The teachers' examinations for state certificates are being held in the high school building at Carlton. The county superintendent of schools, E. J. Colvin, of this city, has been urging those who wish to teach in Carlton county to take the examination and thus discontinue the practice of issuing third grade certificates, which would be a help to the teachers as well as the schools.

MAY INVADE THIS CITY

Schuberts Said to Be Planning a Theater in Duluth.

Their Representative Will Be Here to Select a Site.

The Schuberts, it is stated on good authority, are planning to invade Duluth with a theater.

The Schuberts have for a long time had eyes on Duluth, considering it one of the best theatrical cities in the United States for its size, but were unable to route any of their attractions here owing to the control of the Lyceum by Klaw & Erlanger. The success of Mrs. Fiske here Saturday has evidently determined the Schuberts to build, as their manager, James H. Decker, wired this morning that he would soon be in Duluth to decide on a location, and that if a favorable one was secured the Schuberts would build a $200,000 theater, and would rush it to completion so as to be ready for business Jan. 1.

Mrs. Fiske was formerly playing under independent management, being lined up with the Schuberts against the Klaw & Erlanger forces, but she has now come into the fold, and is one of the Klaw & Erlanger stars.

The Schuberts have invaded the Twin Cities, and it will be a short jump from there to Duluth.

SWEDEN HAS 80,000 IDLE

Iron Foundry Employes Are Locked Out by Employers.

General Strike Is Scheduled to Be Called on Aug. 4.

Stockholm, Aug. 2.—The labor conflict in Sweden, which originated in a dispute over wages in the woolen and cotton industries, is today assuming large proportions. In the beginning 13,000 men were locked out, and other industries since have become involved until today the Employers' federation, declared a lockout of the iron foundry hands, numbering about 30,000 men. This brings the men locked out to a total of 80,000. A general strike is scheduled for Aug. 4.

CASE WILL GO TO HIGHER COURT

Fire Wardens Are Not Yet Through With S. F. Snively Case.

It is understood that C. C. Andrews, who heads the fire wardens of Minnesota, intends to take the case against S. F. Snively, charged with starting a forest fire, to a higher court. The case was originally brought in municipal court, last week, but was dismissed there because it was found to be out of the jurisdiction of the court.

Frank C. Boerner and Ernest B. Croft, state fire wardens, swore out the complaint against Mr. Snively, claiming that he had started a forest fire east of the city, in violation of a state law. When brought into municipal court, it developed that because both fine and imprisonment is provided for such an offense, the case must be taken to a higher court, and it is said the case in this instance will go to the district court.

The two wardens claim to have the evidence against Mr. Snively, and Gen. Andrews is anxious that the matter be pushed, and has so expressed himself.

Boston Women Start Tour of State to Boost "Votes for Women."

Boston, Mass., Aug. 2.—A company of women suffragists started by trolley from this city today to make a tour of the state in the interests of "votes for women." The crusaders were headed by Mrs. R. Y. Fitzgerald, secretary of the Boston Equal Suffrage association. The women were provided with generous supplies of campaign buttons. In the tour of the state many open air meetings will be held.

Want Case Transferred.

A motion was filed this morning in district court for a change of venue to Ramsey county of the case of Bertha D. Rowley against the Northwestern Hotel company. The affidavit in support of the motion is made by W. Allen Campbell, president of the hotel company. Mr. Campbell says the company operates the Boardman hotel at St. Paul, has no place of business or legal residence in St. Louis county, and he asks that the case be transferred to Ramsey county for trial.

Mrs. Rowley is suing the company for $10,275 for inuries received while she was a guest at the Boardman hotel June 14 of this year. She says that she walked through the open door of an elevator shaft and fell fifteen feet, sustaining serious injuries. Ter ankle was sprained, she says, the cartillidge in her knee broken, and she was otherwise bruised, receiving treatment in a hospital at St. Paul and from physicians in Duluth. Her clothing was also ruined.

SOO ROAD'S FIGHT TO ENTER DULUTH IS WAXING WARM

Two Railroad Presidents Come to Duluth to Testify.

Case Is Attracting Attention of the Railroad World.

Interest in the case of the Thunder Bay Railroad company against the Northern Pacific Railroad company, which is on again today before Judge Page Morris of the federal court, was increased this morning by the appearance of Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific, together with F. A. Delano, president of the Wabash and several other officials high in railroad circles.

The men are here to testify for the defendant in the case.

The suit is of general interest in the railroad world.

The proceedings were begun some time ago when the Thunder Bay company began condemnation proceedings in the district court. The company sought to condemn about 700 feet of Northern Pacific trackage near Fifteenth avenue west, asking that it be allowed to cross the tracks of the older company at this point.

The case was later transferred to the federal court. It was entered on the calendar as a jury case but the attorneys later agreed to make it a court case.

The Northern Pacific claims that it is not necessary for the Soo to cross its tracks; that the new road could easily make a detour in Superior and enter the city by way of the Grassy Point bridge. This would send the Soo around about five miles out of its way.

The Northern Pacific officials allege, furthermore, that its tracks at this point are in constant use, and that no part of their system in and around the Head of the Lakes is so crowded. They claim that with the increased traffic that would naturally result, should the Soo be allowed to cross, would make danger of accidents much greater. They admit that the danger at this point is great as the situation stands.

The legal point involved seems to be whether it is necessary. If the Soo officials prove that it is necessary to cross the tracks of the Northern Pacific, they will be granted the right.

There is much interest in the case because it is the first case of the kind to be tried. The point is one that has come up at different times, but has never been thrashed out in court.

The attorneys expect the case to drag out for at least ten days.

RAILROAD HEADS HERE

Presidents of Northern Pacific and Wabash in the City.

N. P. Has Purchased 2,000 New Box Cars, Says Elliott.

Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific Railway company; George T. Slade, general manager; W. L. Darling, chief engineer; W. C. Smith, engineer of maintenance of way; and J. W. Kendrick, vice president of the Santa Fe, and F. A. Delano, president of the Wabash; are in the city today, giving testimony in the case of the Thunder Bay Railroad company against the Northern Pacific Railroad company.

In speaking of the preparations the Northern Pacific has made for the moving of the crop, President Elliott stated that the railroad company had purchased 2,000 new box cars and that in every detail the road was prepared for the biggest crop that had been moved in the West for years.

Mr. Elliott stated that the comparatively light traffic of last year gave the railroads of the country a chance to catch up, and that though the traffic was light last year, the Northern Pacific had kept up its equipment in every detail, and today, with the addition of the new equipment, the officials of the traffic department did not anticipate any car shortage in moving the fall wheat crop.

Reports that have been received by the Northern Pacific road show, according to Mr. Elliott, that the prospects for the Northwestern wheat crop are excellent. Mr. Elliott stated today that all through the territory traversed by the Northern Pacific the prospects were for a very heavy crop.

One of the things that is of especial importance to the consumers and shippers to this part of the country, is the early ordering of coal. President Elliott drew special attention to this matter, and stated that the people of this part of the country could not secure cars after the heavy wheat movement had set in. He advised the dealers in the West to order coal at the earliest opportunity, so as to have the movement out of the way when the heavy fall traffic movement sets in.

The officials of the Santa Fe and Wabash lines were brought to the city by the Northern Pacific to offer expert testimony. The other Northern Pacific officials came here on the same mission as President Elliott, to offer testimony in the case of the subsidiary company of the Soo against the Northern Pacific.

It is expected that President Elliott and the other Northern Pacific officials will make a brief inspection of the Duluth terminals before returning to St. Paul. The officials expect to leave this evening or tomorrow.

MAIL POUCH IS CARRIED OFF

Letters Are Opened and Strewn on the Ground.

A great Northern mail sack was stolen from a truck in the Union depot some time last evening and its contents strewn over the ground under the Fifth avenue viaduct.

The mail pouch was taken from the Grand Forks train that arrived in Duluth at 6:33 p. m. The mail was for St. Paul, and after the sack was taken from the mail car it was left on the truck, as it was the intention of the officials to place the sack on the mail car of the 11:10 St. Paul train.

The theft of the sack was not discovered until about 10 o'clock this morning. The watchman of the Omaha tracks at Fifth avenue discovered the sack lying under the Fifth avenue viaduct. He telephoned to the police station and Detective Irvine was sent down. The matter was later turned over to the postoffice inspectors.

W. J. Munro, postoffice inspector for this district, stated that no clue as to the thief had been discovered. It is not known as yet what registered mail was in the rifled sack, or whether the thief secured anything valuable. Detectives are working on the case at the present time.

The contents of the sack were strewn over the ground near the viaduct, as if the mail had been thoroughly searched and some of the letters opened. When the postoffice officials have received an account of the contents of the sack it will be known just what was stolen from the pouch.

Regatta at Cowes.

Cowes, Eng., Aug. 2.—Regatta week at Cowes opened today under promising auspices. The competition of Emperor William's Meteor, King Alfonso's Hispania and other German, Spanish and French yachts gave an international flavor to the races which of recent years has been lacking. There was a steady sailing breeze and the yachts were able to carry their topsails. The principal race of the day was for the big boats over a course of fifty miles. The Meteor and the Germania were the scratch yachts and had to give time to the other starters, Shamrock, White Heather and Cycley. The Germania finished first, but she crossed on the wrong side of the finish line, and the prize of $300 wah awarded to the Meteor.

The international challenge cup for 15-meter yachts was won by Ostara, a British entry. The Spanish yacht Tuiga was second. King Alfonso's Hispania did not start.

BUSY MONTH IN COURT.

Receipts for Month of July Break All Past Records.

Municipal court receipts for July at Superior were the largest that they have ever been in any one month, amounting to $1,911.44. Most of this amount, it is said, is due to the fact that prosecutions of lid-lifters during the past month have been very frequent.

Last month 350 men were arrested by the Superior police. This number is in excess of any other month this year, although no records are broken in this respect. The number, however, is above the average.

OBITUARY

Dr. Ignatius Donnelly, son of the late Ignatius Donnelly, died Friday night at St. Mary's hospital, Minneapolis, after two years of intense suffering from heart disease.

For several years Dr. Donnelly was a prominent physician in St. Paul, where he practiced as a specialist in diseases of the eye and ear. Two years ago he was afflicted with heart disease and went to Butte, Mont., hoping to obtain relief in a higher altitude. The change made his condition worse and he returned to the city and lived with his sister, Mrs. Mary F. Giltman, 709 Delaware street southeast. April 9 he was taken to St. Mary's hospital. His condition never improved.

Dr. Donnelly is survived by Mrs. Giltman and a brother, Stanislaus J. Donnelly, attorney, St. Paul.

Clayton J. Bailey, managing editor of the Sioux City Tribune, died suddenly in Minneapolis Aug. 2. Mr. Bailey was a well known newspaper man in the Northwest. He worked on St. Paul and Minneapolis papers for a number of years.

MANY DEATHS WERE VIOLENT

An Unusual Feature of the City's July Health Report.

Nearly 25 Per Cent of the Total Were Unnatural.

A peculiar fact about the city health commissioner's report, covering the month of July is that fifteen out of sixty-five deaths that occurred in the thirty-one days were violent, making nearly 25 per cent.

The majority of these violent deaths were by drowning and the remainder were suicides and general accidents. Fifteen in one month is probably a record breaker for Duluth. There has been an unusual number of deaths by drowning during the last few weeks.

Second in the list came afflictions of the heart, with eight deaths. Intestinal troubles among infants stood third with six. These were all said to have been due to improper food furnished by the parents.

Tuberculosis claimed four people and pneumonia three. Two died of scarlet fever. There was one death by typhoid, but this was a case brought in from outside the city and can hardly be counted in the city's total. Many such cases are brought to local hospitals from the range towns.

There were more than twice as many births as deaths. The total number of births for the month was 146, which is seven below the record for July of last year.

There were no deaths from scarlet fever in July.

Aside from the scarlet fever situation, the general health of the city just now is very good, and the scarlet fever situation is rapidly getting back to normal. There is less than half the number of cases there was five or six weeks ago, and every week sees a substantial gain.

SNIVELY ROAD.

The Park Board Will Turn It Into a Boulevard.

The board of park commissioners has decided to take over the Snively boulevard, extending northward from Lester park, and see to its improvement. Mr. Snively, Secretary Helm of the park board and an engineer will traverse the route and determine what property along the river will be naturally suitable for parking.

This driveway will afford a complete circuit from the easterly end of the city, by way of London road, up along the river and along the brow of the hill, returning by way of Glen Avon. There are some opportunities for pretty scenic effects along the driveway.

ACAPULCO ALL LAID IN RUINS

City Has Felt Seventy-Three Earthquake Shocks Since Last Friday.

City of Mexico, Aug. 2.—A dispatch received from Acapulco states that seventy-three distinct shocks of earthquakes have been felt there since the first shake Friday. The city has been entirely destroyed and the inhabitants are facing a famine. During one of the stocks a tidal wave engulfed the harbor front. No lives were lost.

EASY FOR CLOQUET.

Whitehead's Colored Giants Take Trouncing From Lumber Shovers.

Cloquet, Minn., Aug. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Colored Giants of Duluth were easy victims for the local ball team Sunday afternoon, receiving a trouncing to the tune of 24 to 7.

Welton was put on the slab for the visitors at first, but lasted only a short time, when he was succeeded by Bye, who fared not much better. Sandstrom did the twirling for Cloquet for five innings. He kept the hits well scattered. Gaskill finished the game for Cloquet. Errors on the part of the Duluth players were very costly, usually resulting in scores. The game was called in the seventh inning in order to let the visitors catch their train. Score:

Cloquet	7 1 2 0 5 3 6—24	24	18	3
Giants	1 2 0 0 3 1 0— 7	7	11	8

Batteries—Sandstrom, Gaskill and Skinner; Welton, Bye and Bannock and Whitehead.

ZEPPELIN MAKING ANOTHER AIR TRIP.

Frankfort, Germany, Aug. 2.—The airship Zeppelin II ascended from Frankfort this morning, and after performing various evolutions over the city started for Cologne, about 110 miles distant. The vessel will follow the course of the Rhine. Great preparations for an enthusiastic welcome at Cologne have been made. The ship has been reported from Bingen, Coblentz, Mainz and other towns. The weather has been fine, but near Cologne a storm is coming up.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS DROWNING OF WOMAN.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—The drowning of an unidentified woman and the disappearance of her male companion are the elements of a motor-boat tragedy that confronts the local police. A man and a woman were seen going down the Calumet river in a motor boat. Later the boat was found stuck in the mud near shore, with the engine still chugging away at full speed. The police were notified, and after dragging the river the body of the woman was found, but there was no trace of the man.

The fact that the launch was found with dry decks, and its engine still going, dispels any theory that the boat capsized.

The damage to bridge by earthquakes is due generally to the banks of valleys being drawn together, according to Mr. W. H. Hobbs, whose conclusions are based on a study of earthquakes in the United States, India and Japan, extending back to 1886. Moreover, it seems to be the general rule that a fissure or a series of parallel fissures opens during an earthquake along the banks of rivers parallel to their courses.

OPPOSITION IS STRONGER

Senate Supporters of Tariff Bill Get Sudden Jolt.

Explanation of Lumber Schedule May Be Sent In Too.

Washington, Aug. 2.—President Taft was largely responsible for the reassembling today of the joint conference committee. The action of Western senators, aided by the Democratic mmebers, in compelling the reading of the conference report in full enabled the supporters of the conference report to take a new poll of the senate. Much to the surprise of the supporters of the report, they found that their previous canvasses were valueless. There seemed to be a revolt among the Westerners, on account of the phraseology that had been adopted by the conference in adjusting the differences in the hide and leather paragraph. Since Saturday there had been murmurings of discontent, but these had not been regarded as serious.

Charges that the leather compromise harbored a "joker" had been heard, but such intimations are not unusual in connection with the settlement of controversies. Some of the dissatisfied senators said that the duty on boots and shoes had not been reduced to 10 per cent as alleged by the conferees.

How the Clause Reads.

The language of the conference report imposing a duty of 10 per cent on boots and shoes is as follows:

"That boots and shoes, the upper leather of which is made wholly or in chief value from such hides, (admitted free of duty) shall pay a duty of 10 per centum ad valorem."

Senators from cattle states assert that there are no shoes of that description used in the United States and that the reduction, therefore, is valueless, as all other shoes of leather are made dutiable at 15 per cent.

Realizing that some heroic measure would have to be taken in order to restore public confidence, some of the conferees before the meeting expressed a willingness to adopt a resolution permitting the conferees to revise the action in regard to hide and leather schedules.

May Explain Lumber, Too.

The older and more conservative members said that this would not be necessary. They believed that if an explanation were made the public would accept it in good faith, and especially if President Taft gave the explanation his indorsement.

There were several things about the settlement of the differences between the house and the senate over the lumber schedule that were the subject of condemnation on the part of the senators from Middle Western states, and it was reported that the conferees might include in whatever statement they made some explanation of the action in regard to that schedule. The increase above the Dingley rates made on shingles is objected to particularly by the insurgents.

STEAMER AND 3,000 PEOPLE ARE MISSING.

Durban, Natal, Aug. 2.—Some alarm has been created by the non-arrival here of the British steamer Waratah, from Sydney for London. She left Port Natal July 26, and since then has not been seen by any other vessel. A search has been institpted for her. The Waratah has 3,000 persons aboard.

Plan for Grand Army.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Aug. 2.—The Grand Army of the Republic will assemble here on Aug. 9 for its forty-third annual encampment.

TRAINING FOR SOCIETY.

A woman who after years of humble living in the Middle West was wafted unexpectedly to Newport on the wings of sudden wealth and there succeeded in making good is said to have done so with the aid of a trainer—a social trainer, of course.

This trainer when asked what was the first thing he taught the invader said:

"To be quiet. She had a habit of calling her servants, her children—whomever she wanted to speak to. She is of an energetic, bustling disposition; the first thing she had to learn was to make no more noise than was absolutely necessary. Then I engaged an elocution teacher for her. You wouldn't believe the improvement he made in her voice."

In commenting on the circumstance Harper's Bazar points out the fact that women can have free elocution lessons by taking some trouble and thought about it. "When we go to church or to a lecture, a club meeting or a political meeting, we can listen attentively to the men and women who speak well and try to learn from them what qualities to cultivate, while from the bad speaker, we shall learn to be on the lookout for the same faults in ourselves and try to overcome or at least to modify them.

"It is far more important for the average woman that she should talk well than that she should sing well. People are not forced to listen to your singing, but your friends, your family, your fellow citizens have to hear you talk.

"Avoid making unnecessary noise. Be as nearly noiseless in your house as you can be, so shall your neighbors bless you and your landlord refrein from raising your rent.

"Never call to your children or your servants. If they are in another part of the house either ring for them or go and find them. A screech is an offense against humanity. If you are in a hotel, a train or in any public place maintain that golden silence which should be the ideal of every traveler."

WOMAN COACH AND REFEREE.

Seattle Times: As far as is known Miss Lillian Merrell, a school teacher of Kalama, Wash., is the only woman who has the distinction of having refereed a football game or a basket ball game played by men.

Saturday high school teams representing Kalama and Castle Rock played in the former town and Miss Merrell was the referee. Her work was entirely satisfactory to both teams. More than this, Miss Merrell coaches basket ball and football in the Kalama schools. She is well versed in the rules of both games and when in college was a star basket ball player herself.

While refereeing a game she wears short skirts and is fast enough to be on hand to pass on any close play. Every one knows that the play shifts rapidly from one goal to another and it seems almost impossible that a woman would be equal to the task of acting as referee. But Miss Merrell declares she has little difficulty seeing all the plays and that she has studied the rules until she knows them by rote.

CONDITIONED ON BEDTIME.

American Hebrew: A legacy of $1,000 conditioned on a change in its bedtime rules has been willed to the Jewish Home for the Aged at St. Louis by Abraham Greenblatt, a teacher of Hebrew. Greenblatt's will provides that if the institution does away with the fixed hour at which its inmates shall go to bed and allows them to retire whenever they choose it shall receive his bequest, but not otherwise.

Chicago Takes Both.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Chicago won both games from Philadelphia Sunday. In the first McQuillen started off poorly and Chicago scored the only three runs of the game on two passes, two doubles and a single. After that he was invincible.

Brown pitched his best game of the season, allowing but one hit. The second game was rather loose, Chicago winning, 7 to 6. All six pitchers were batted hard and Chicago's errors gave the visitors a good lead, which the locals passed by bunching eight hits in the fifth and sixth innings. The winning score was made in the seventh, when Howard was hit, took second on Steinfeldt's single and came home on a muffed third strike and Dooin's wild throw. Scores:

Double-Header Divided.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Aug. 2.—Cincinnati and Brooklyn split even in a double-header here yesterday afternoon. Rucker pitched in rare form in the first game, but one being earned off him. Errors were responsible for two of the three runs scored by Brooklyn in this game. The second contest was a pitchers' battle up to the seventh inning, when a wild throw by Wilhelm with the bases full gave the Cincinnatis two runs and the game. The throwing of McLean was a distinct feature of the contest, no fewer than four attempts to steal in the second game being frustrated by him. Scores:

Toledo Drops Two.

Toledo, Ohio, Aug. 2.—Toledo underwent a double massacre yesterday, the visitors taking both games, the first 6 to 0 and the second 13 to 1. Robinson went to pieces in the seventh inning of the first, allowing four hits, passing two men and hitting a third. Bushelman, who succeeded him, had a bad fourth inning the second game, allowing six hits and hitting a batter, which, with two errors, netted Milwaukee eight runs. Honors Divided.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 2.—Louisville and Minneapolis broke even in a double-header yesterday, the locals winning the first game by timely batting and the visitors the second through Packard's wildness. Oyler was badly spiked on the left wrist, sliding into second base, and will likely be out of the game for several weeks. Some of the hot-headed fans became angered over a decision of Umpire Conahan in the second game, and the official was given police protection to his hotel after the contest.

St. Paul Takes Both.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 2.—St. Paul took two brilliantly fielded and pitched games from Columbus yesterday. Steele shut the home team out in the first game and drove in Wrigley with St. Paul's only run.

Upp's wildness in the first inning of the second game gave St. Paul one run. A double by Carisch and a single by Loise scored the winning run. Columbus had several chances, but Gehring permitted only one timely hit, a single by Kruger in the third. Scores:

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 2.—Kansas City defeated Indianapolis yesterday 2 to 1. Lindaman, until recently with the Boston National league team, pitched his first game for the locals, but had poor control. Smith, secured from the Texas league, also made his first appearance in the outfield for Indianapolis and his batting was the feature of the contest. Bowerman and Love collided at the plate in the fourth inning with such force as to render Bowerman unconscious for a time and he was relieved by Howley. Score: R. H. E.

London, Aug. 2.—Johnny Summers, the English featherweight, defeated Jimmy Britt, the American lightweight, in the ninth round at the Memorial grounds in Westham Saturday afternoon. The contest was scheduled to go twenty rounds and was for $500 a side and half of the gate receipts.

MIKE DONLIN BACK IN GAME

MIKE DONLIN.

This is Mike Donlin who may hold the key to the baseball situation in the National league. Mike thought himself so valuable at the end of last season that he named what Brush considered prohibitive terms and so he put him on the fence. Mike has a good job in vaudeville with his wife Mabel Hite and did not care whether he played ball or not. But the baseball fans cared, and they have been shrieking for Donlin since the season opened. Every game lost has been charged to the policy of the management in failing to sign Mike. Recently Philadelphia put in a bid for Donlin, and Brush agreed to sell him for two of Philadelphia's men.

MINOTAUR WINS FROM ALLEGRO

The Brewer and Kennedy Boat Sustains Its First Defeat.

The Minotaur Saturday afternoon defeated the Allegro by 44 seconds. The race was one of the most exciting sailing events of the p resent season.

A wind of thirty miles an hour was blowing, and the sailors report the best sport yet experienced. In every race up to this time the Allegro has been the winner, and the result of the contest Saturday was a big surprise to the sailors.

In the 28-foot class Dr. Lyman's Feather won from the field in an exciting race. The Voyageur fouled buoy No. 3 and capsized. The crew was never in any danger. They had their boat righted and were bailing her out when the life-savers arrived.

The Viking was a close second in this race. She crossed the finish line a scant minute behind the Feather. The North Wind and the Freckles fought it out for third place, the former boat winning by about 30 seconds.

The finishes were the closest of the year, and the races were witnessed by a large Saturday afternoon crowd.

A. C. Le Duc, W. C. Craig and John Craig acted as the officials.

The time and order of the finish follow:

WHITEHEAD MAY MEET SCHRECK

George Gardner, who is to meet Walter Whitehead of Duluth in a 20-round bout at Calumet Aug. 17, has not as yet posted his forfeit. He has until today to put up his end of the money. If the forfeit is not posted, Whitehead says that he will pass up the engagement and meet Mike Shreck in a 10-round bout at Houghton on Aug. 16.

Local followers of the fight game did not expect that local negro to have much trouble with Gardner, although a number were anxious to know how Whitehead's strength would stack up against the old timer's cleverness.

Walter has about sixteen battles scheduled. He says this himself. He hasn't said who the sixteen opponents are. After these fights he will invade Tennessee, where he has nearly as many engagements as up North.

He says he is still after George Gunther and is going to visit Philadelphia in the hope of getting on with him. Walter has a few relatives in Philadelphia too.

Ex-Leaguer Pitches Fitwells to Victory Over Keewatin Collegians.

Rooney's Wildness Helps the Semi-Pro Team Men Win By 5 to 1 Score.

Dick Thorsen, who was dropped from the ranks of the White Sox last week, celebrated his return to the semi-pro ranks yesterday by pitching the Fitwells to a 5 to 1 victory over the college boys from the Keewatin summer camp. Dick let the collegians down with four stingy hits and topped off the performance by whiffing seventeen. His momentary wildness in the sixth inning gave them their only score, for the Fitwells played errorless ball and the college youths never had a chance.

Rooney gave a fair exhibition of pitching, but he had bad spells of wildness and the Fitwells found him in the pinches for hits enough to win and then some. He started off in the first inning with passes to McCauley and Summers. They moved up on a passed ball and held down second and third with nobody down. McGraw popped out, Wentlung grounded out to first, and Boyle laid one down in the infield for an out, pulling Rooney out of a very bad hole.

Scoring started in the second when Schaefer was given a life by a bad throw from shortstop. Olson sacrificed him to second and Bennett fanned. Rooney passed Thorsen and McCauley and Summers contributed a two-bagger, scoring all three. McGraw flied out to center.

Thorsen gave the college boys a run in the sixth and they saved themselves from a shutout. Kochland walked and went to second on a wild pitch. Secore's out put him on third and he scored on Thompson's single.

The Fitwells took another in the sixth. Schaefer singled after one was down. Olson singled and started for second. While the collegians were running him down between first and second, Schaefer scored. The last score came in the eighth, when Olson walked, went to third on a wild throw to first by Collins in attempting to head him off and scored on Bennett's two-sacker.

Rain prevented the game scheduled between the collegians and the Fitwells Saturday.

Do you think that Jeffries and Johnson are really going to fight? It does look that way, yet at the same time the general public will not begin to take that interest that every big fight arouses until the California grizzly hikes up into the California grizzly down to hard work.

The climax in the public's interest in Jeffries has been passed. Interest in his doings has waned. There is no doubt that should he return from Europe and definitely settle the terms of the match, and then go into active training, that the public would show as much interest in the fight as has been shown in any great fight since the famous bout between Corbett and Fitzimmons at Carson City, Nev.

Few expect Jeffries to enter the ring the same man who faced Jim Corbett in Frisco in their second fight. But most men who express an opinion on the outcome of the fight hold the belief that Jeffries so much outclasses the negro that, if he is anything like the Jeffries of old, he will smother the black.

And what a wonderful fellow this Jeffries was in those days before his retirement. No one really knew how strong he was and how much punishment he could assimilate.

He looked like a bloomer upon the occasion of his first appearance in the East. Big Jeff was so sore and disappointed over his showing with big black Bob Armstrong that he wanted to quit the fighting game right there. If it hadn't been for Billy Delaney the world might have never known of the great ability of the big Los Angeles man.

Then came the fight with Fitzsimmons. The fight was a foregone conclusion to the wise ones. It would be anotehr Ed Dunkhurst affair. Fitz would lick the big dub in a punch, believed the talent. Well, you know how pugilistic history was made that night at Coney Island. No one will ever know what punches big Jeff took that night. Fitz came back to his corner, his spirit crushed. For the first time in his long ring career he had met a man his terrific punches couldn't make an impression on. He couldn't knock the big man of bone and muscle out, and he told his second that. Then Jeff got one over, and the fight was over.

When Sharkey fought Jeff at Coney, the latter was far from right. One of his arms was bad and he could not get into proper condition. The fight came near being called off at the last moment. Jim Corbett went up to see Jeff. Billy Delaney came to Corbett, with entreaty in his face. "Go in and talk to the big fellow, Jim," Delaney said. "He doesn't want to fight." Corbett told Jeffries that he could beat Sharkey with one hand. He went in and fought, probably the fiercest heavyweight fight fought in this country in the last decade. Jeffries won, and the wonderful sailor, a muscular phenom, couldn't stop the big man with his punches.

It has been the same with them all. Corbett, Ruhlin, the ancient Peter Jackson and all the others were never able to knock the big fellow from his legs. He has never been groggy, as far as any one knows of. Jim Corbett swears that he had Jeff groggy in that first fight at Coney Island, but not many credit the statement of the actor-pugilist. If hitters like Fitzsimmons and Sharkey couldn't make the big fellow wobbly, what chance has Johnson with the boiler maker, always considering that the big Californian will enter the ring in something like his old time form?

Johnson has never been known as a fighter with a punch. With wonderful shoulder and back development, the negro does not seem able to hit. Imagine Jeffries fighting Burns. Imagine what Jeff would have done to the pudgy Canadian. Every one laughed when Tommy challenged Jeff. Yet some people believed that Burns could beat Johnson. And at that you must remember that Johnson could not put Burns out.

Jim Corbett is one of the finest built men the ring has ever produced. He hadn't a punch either. It was said of Corbett that when his blow was about to land he was in the act of drawing away. The same statement is made of Johnson. He doesn't threw his body with his punches, like Fitzsimmons and Jeffries. He isn't a whole souled sort of a walloper. He hit Burns when and where he pleased and he didn't put him out. What chance would he have of putting Jeff away?

Johnson gets a bad view of things when the tide of battle goes against him. He doesn't like to be hit hard, either. It looks to some people as if he does not even at this time relish the idea of a fight with Jeff. It is a cinch that if the dinge sees Jeff climb through the ropes, anything like his old, rugged self, that streak of sepia up his back will cause him to forget half the fighting ability he possesses.

No, counting everything that both men have shown, and supposing that Jeff can recover half of his old ability, it is hard to dope out where the colored man has a chance with the big man from California.

The present road trip has been a bad one for the Sox. They broke even at Winona, which is the hardest team in the league to defeat on its own grounds. But the team has fared badly at both Wausau and Eau Claire. It is a peculiar fact that every team in the Minny league is a poor road team. Some of the players lay this fact to the umpires.

Superior is a better road team that Duluth. Yet Superior stands lower in the percentage column and wins less games at home. The Sox are about the worst farers away from home of all the teams in the league. No one seems able to explain it. If the Sox play the same grade of ball when they hit Athletic park as they did before the present trip, they should be at the top of the ladder and in a position to win the rag.

Most of the games of the Sox will be at home. They are in a good position to climb to the front again, and with the kind of playing that they showed before the present trip, they should take the lead away from Joe Killian's brigade.

GUNTHER IS BACK IN TOWN

George Gunther, the Australian Kangaroo, is with us again. After a stay in Philadelphia of some three months, Gunther is on his way to the West in search of matches. There is nothing doing in the fight game in Philly at the present time.

Gunther is en route to Vancouver, B. C., where he has a match with young Peter Jackson. He also has other matches in sight, and is of opinion that his trip to the West will be productive of much of that stuff that buys beefsteak, thick, read and juicy.

Then there is the Whitehead affair. George Thatcher, who represented Gunther when he was in Duluth before, comes out with the statement that he will wager anywhere from $500 to $3,000 that Gunther can beat Whitehead, and that the money will be put up any time the men are matched. Gunther is willing to meet Whitehead at any time or any place, and would like to meet the larger man in a finish fight.

While in Philly, Gunther offered to fight Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, but the reformed fighter evidently did not want any of Gunther's game. He tried to get on with John Willie, Al Kubiak, Jack Reed, and in fact with any of the heavies around Philadelphia. He offered to fight Sandy Ferguson. There is no interest in the fight game right at the present time in Philadelphia, and a fighter can starve to death there, according to Gunther.

In meeting young Peter Jackson, Gunther will be encountering one of the toughest men for his weight, in the ring, if he is anything like the Young Peter of some few years ago. He is the man who put Philadelphia Jack O'Brien away on the coast.

It is possible that negotiations for a return battle between Gunther and Whitehead may be entered into. Whitehead has always maintained that he broke his hand in the Gunther battle, and that but for this he would have put the smaller man away. Gunther has never been satisfied with the outcome of the fight in Superior and has repeatedly asked for another chance to show what he can do to Whitehead.

The battle would draw well anywhere in this part of the country. The boys put up a scrap that was worth going miles to see when they clashed last spring, and anyone who witnessed the Superior mill would be willing to travel some distance to see another fight between the two men.

RIGHT HAND OF SYMPATHY

Herald Ball Players Extend Condolences to the Night Owls.

"This Hurts Us More Than It Does You" Attitude.

"Believe me Clarence," said John Kling Liggett, the fighting catcher of The Herald team, as he dug two pebbles and a teaspoonful of mud from his left ear, "that was some game."

It is with a feeling of modesty, somewhat tinged with deep, whole souled sympathy, that The Herald chronicles the ball game that was pulled off yesterday morning, at Athletic park between the editorial forces of this respectable family journal, and the quill pushers from the morning rag.

Not with vulgar gloating, free from any suggestion of undue exultation, and moved only by a desire to chronicle the bare facts of the case, leaving the public to draw its own conclusions, the statement is made that when Referee Jack Desmond ceased his duties at the end of nine innings of fast, snappy ball, the score stood 14 to 10 in favor of the Herald, a clean cut victory, as it were, if one were permitted to comment with undue freedom on the outcome.

Mr. Paull, who has a splendid bass voice and a red sweater, was in the box for the Night Owls. Not with any desire to belittle Mr. Paull's abilities, or with any wish to deter him from a career of future prominence in the great national game, it must be stated her and now, in the interests of truth and honesty, that Mr. Paull has not the makings of a Mathewson. He is lacking in speed, control, change of pace, curves, and head work. If he could overcome these faults he would make good with the Eighth Street Sluggers as a substitute pitcher. The Herald scribes connected with his floaters with rare regularity, showing it is feared, an almost animal viciousness in the manner in which they compelled their contemporaries to chase to the corners of the fence after two and three baggers.

Mr. Clarence Getty, The Herald's rising young slabman, was working under a handicap. Umpire Desmond was not used to watching curved balls, and when Mr. Getty began clipping the corners of the plate Mr. Desmond could not see them, and Mr. Getty was compelled to desist, thereafter throwing them "in the groove," as the baseball writers say—signifying a straight ball thrown directly over the home plate—with the result that The Herald infield was given some slight practice, which might otherwise have been denied it. John Kling Liggett, in a negligee shirt and a catcher's mask, played a masterly game. On one occasion he threw the ball the entire distance from the home plate to second base, unexpectedly catching a News Tribune man who was honestly trying to reach that position of advantage, in order that he might score if one of his fellows should get a single. It might have been unsportsmanlike, and was a regrettable incident, but Mr. Desmond stated that Mr. Liggett was entirely within the rules, and play was resumed.

Edward Armstrong, The Herald's circulation manager, imitated a third baseman in a most lifelike manner, and at times the deception could hardly be perceived. To the naked eye, Mr. Armstrong might easily have passed as a guardian of the third sack. The other members of the cast filled their parts with "commendable vigor," to quote the dramatic critic, who watched the game from a grandstand seat, and the costumes and stage settings were excellent, the gloves being particularly true to life.

The Tribune players set up a mild cry of "ringers" following the game, claiming that two printers appeared in The Herald lineup. The allegation is passed over in silence—ignored as it were—and attention is called to the fact that Rankin, the News Tribune left fielder is employed in the mailing department, which is connected with the editorial rooms and business office only by a long, winding stairway.

The Herald accepts the challenge for a return game, which will be played next summer at Athletic park, if that date is acceptable to the Night Owls. Meanwhile The Herald scribes will return to a peaceful, well earned oblivion.

News Tribunes—Fife, catcher; Paull, pitcher; Minar, first base; Kempton, second base; Boylan, third base; Poirman, shortstop; Kelly, left field; Michener, center field, Allensworth, right field. Score:

ELECTION TO BE HELD

Baseball Chiefs to Choose Pulliam's Successor After the Funeral.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 2.—Baseball chiefs who have gathered in Louisville today to attend the funeral of Harry C. Pulliam, late president of the National league, will at a meeting to be held after the funeral, elect Mr. Pulliam's successor. It is expected that John Heydler, who is at present secretary of the league, will be elected to succeed the dead president.

It is a day of half-masted flags and deserted grounds in memory of Mr. Pulliam in the more important cities where the national game is known. For the first time on such an occasion, no games will be played in either the National or American leagues. The Southern league will carry its flags half furled, and President Kavanague has requested that no games be played in the cities on the Southern circuit. New Orleans has already postponed its contest. The New York State league will suspend and the American association game scheduled here between Louisville and Minneapolis will not be played.

Instead, magnates, players and friends of Pulliam will gather at his grave.

The impression grew here during the last few days that Joseph O'Brien of the American association would be a candidate to succeed Mr. Pulliam, but this seems only an extreme possibility.

The body arrived in Louisville shortly after 11 o'clock in charge of Mr. Pulliam's brother-in-law, G. W. Cain of Nashville; John Heydler, Mr. Pulliam's close friend, and acting president of the National league, and a guard of honor composed of club owners and men influential in the affairs of the American and National leagues, the American association and other baseball organizations. The coffin was taken to the chapel of an undertaking establishment and there viewed by a great number of friends.

It is doubtful if any man in official or public life had more friends in Louisville than Mr. Pulliam. Printers and employes about the offices of the daily newspapers, the friends of his youth, never failed to receive a call and a pleasant word from him, whenever he passed through Louisville. In consequence the florists have been literally swamped with orders from persons in all conditions of life, desirous of paying a last tribute to a man who did not forget his friends.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon the body was taken to the chapel at Cave Hill cemetery where a simple funeral service was conducted by the Rev. T. M. Hawes, pastor of the Highland Presbyterian church. The active pall-bearers were: Dr. T. Hunt Stuckey, Harry W. Russell, Robert W. Brown, Charles C. Deshler, W. B. Thomas and Claude McFarlan, all of Louisville.

Among the honorary pall-bearers were: Ban Johnson, president of the American league; John A. Heydler, secretary of the National league; John E. Bruce, secretary of the National Baseball commission; President Barney Dreyfuss of the Pittsburg Nationals; President Stanley Robinson of the St. Louis club; President John Dovey of the Boston club; President Charles Ebbetts of the Brooklyn club; President William Shettsline of the Philadelphia club, and a number of men prominent in Louisville affairs.

The feature of both games was the heavy hitting of the Heights.

Through a misunderstanding the game scheduled yesterday between the Hummers and the Union Clothing company team of the City Amateur league did not materialize. One team going to Lakeside to play and the other to Thirty-second avenue west. The game probably will be played off later in the season. The Hummers will meet the Adams team next Sunday at Thirty-second avenue west.

BALL PLAYERS HAVE A THRILLING EXPERIENCE

Last Thursday afternoon, while enjoying a boating trip at Lake Hallie Pitcher Baertichi and Shortstop Bancroft of the Superior baseball team had a very narrow escape from drowning by the tipping over of the boat they were in. The two ball players rented a boat from Robert Lang and went rowing. All went well until they spied a large mud turtle in the lake. They both got on one side of the boat, to get a better glimpse of the turtle, and in doing this the boat tipped over, throwing both the occupants into the water. As they fell the boat was pushed about ten feet away from them, and as Mr. Baertchi had to hold up Mr. Bancroft, who could not swim a stroke, he was unable to get to the boat. They called loudly for help, but were in the water nearly ten minutes before being rescued by two other young men. They were none the worse for their harrowing experience, and came to Eau Claire on the first interurban car and changed their wet clothes.

GREAT MEN AND BEER BREWING

WHENEVER this great nation needed the assistance and personal services of strong, patriotic men to further the cause of liberty and humanity or to repulse invasions and oppressions, the brewers and their friends were among the first to respond.

History tells us that many of the best men of their time were connected with the business, such as Wm. Penn, who caused the erection of the first brewery in Pennsylvania, or Samuel Adams, the acknowledged father of the Revolution, who managed his father's brewery at Boston, or Patrick Henry, the jovial host of Williamsburg, Va., who made the famous speech: "Give me liberty or give me death."

And the immortal Lincoln, when accused by his rival, the great Douglas, in one of their famous debates, of being engaged in the traffic, turned the tables by saying: "The difference between Douglas and me was that I was doing the selling and he was doing the drinking."

Surely the brewers and their friends have always been foremost in promoting public welfare, and according to Andrew D. White, the great statesman, they have done more for real temperance than their fanatic opponents can ever do.

IRON AND STEEL REVIEW

New York, Aug 2.—Activity and strengtn have continued to be the features of the iron and steel trade throughout the week. Sales of foundry iron have aggregated about 10,000 tons, but only about 10,000 tons of steel making iron have been sold, because consumers are not yet ready to meet the advanced position of the furnaces having basic iron to sell for the last quarter of this year. One bid of $17, delivered for 30,000 tons of basic, has been refused, although a few thousand-ton lots have been sold on a slightly lower basis. Manufacturers of armor-plate have taken some low phosphorus iron, while the steel department of a locomotive manufacturer has closed for a moderate tonnage of standard and malleable Bessemer. Manufacturers of machinery and machine tools have been the largest purchasers of gray foundry iron for delivery in New England and New Jersey, while the Pennsylvania railroad is understood to have closed for about 8,000 tons additional coke foundry and charcoal wheel iron. Eastern Pennsylvania and Buffalo furnaces, as well as Virginia furnaces, have advanced another 25 cents a ton within the last few days. Southern iron has advanced 50 cents per ton.

In steel products the greatest activity has been in steel plates and shapes and fabricated material. Some independent structural mills have advanced their minimum on shape to $1.40, but there are a number of quotations of $1.35 still out which will be respected. For prompt shipment, some mills demand $1.45. For all new business the Carnegie Steel company is now asking $1.30 for cars, and $1.40 for plates and shapes. The American Steel & Wire company advanced prices of nails and other wire products $2 per ton, as anticipated, and the National Tube company is expected to announce an advance of $2 per ton on steel pipe today.

Railroads have placed only small orders for rails, including 7,800 for the Santa Fe and 3,000 for the Denver & Rio Grande, but they have placed contracts for 10,000 additional cars and 15,000 are now under negotiation, one-third being for the Pennsylvania and one-third for the Baltimore & Ohio.

There has been a rush to place orders for fabricated steel and also to furnish specifications on old contracts to obtain shipment at the earliest possible time. Competition is still keen and prices are apt to be irregular for the next five months as some fabrications and contractors are covered on material on a basis of $1.25, for delivery up to the first of the year. Contracts during the week have aggregated 25,000 tons, making a total for the month of 150,000 tons.

During the month northern pig iron has advanced 75 cents to $1 and southern iron from $1 to $1.50 per ton.

PASSES THE TARIFF BILL

House Adopts Conferees' Report By Vote of 195 to 183.

Senate Passes the Urgent Deficiency Appropriation Measure.

Washington, Aug. 2.—The house Saturday night adopted the conference report on the tariff bill 195 to 183.

The Republicans shrieked in their delight over the final outcome, and Chairman Payne was the central figure of an admiring and congratulatory crowd of colleagues.

Twenty Republicans voted against the report and two Democrats for it.

The vote was the climax of an eleven-hour session, conducted through most oppressive heat, but notwithstanding it was enlivened by a dozen or more speeches of more or less fiery nature.

The temperature did not deter a vast throng from going to the capitol to witness the closing scene.

The day opened with part of an organized filibuster against the conference report.

Chairman Payne defended the report and appealed to his Republican colleagues to support it, prophesying at the same time that when the bill was enacted into law, it would meet with the approval of the country.

Mr. Clark, minority leader, and many of his colleagues denounced the bill, and charged the Republicans with failing to revise the tariff downward and thus keep their party pledges.

One Sensational Speech.

Perhaps the most sensational speech of the day was by Mr. Mann of Illinois, who said he would vote against the report provided the rates on pulp and print paper as reduced by the house were not retained. He denounced that particular schedule, and he declared that Canada would take such action regarding pulp wood and print paper as to place an almost prohibitive price upon paper in this country.

Twenty Republicans voted against the adoption of the report as follows: Representatives Carey of Wisconsin, Davis of Minnesota, Gronna of North Dakota, Haugen of Iowa, Hubbard of Iowa, Keifer of Ohio, Kendall of Iowa, Lenroot of Wisconsin, Lindbergh of Minnesota, Mann of Illinois, Miller of Minnesota, Murdock of Kansas, Nelson of Wisconsin, Nye of Minnesota, Poindexter of Washington, Southwick of New York, Steenerson of Minnesota, Stevens of Minnesota, Volstead of Minnesota and Woods of Iowa.

The Democrats who voted for the report were Representatives Broussard and Estopinal of Louisiana.

Provision was made for the administration of the new tariff law by the adoption by the senate Saturday of numerous amendments to the urgency deficiency appropriation bill, which was passed.

Provides for Customs Court.

In addition to the salaries for judges and other officials and employes of the new United States court of customs appeals, the sum appropriated $100,000 to aid the state department in making commercial treaties; $100,000 to pay the expenses of the advisory board which will assist the president in carrying out the duties imposed upon him by the maximum and minimum provision, and $100,000 to defray the expenses of a bureau which will enforce the collection of the new corporation tax.

Amendments were adopted appropriating $6,000 each for automobiles and other vehicles to be used by the vice president and the speaker of the house.

After a long discussion, the senate voted to raise the salaries of the judges of the new customs court to the amount received by judges of the United States circuit courts.

MORE LIVES TO BE SACRIFICED

Two Expected to Die as Result of St. Paul Explosion.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two more lives are expected to be sacrificed in addition to six previously reported as a result of the fire and explosion that destroyed the building at 79 West Third street Saturday afternoon at a loss of $35,250, making eight fatalities in all. About a dozen persons were injured.

Those fatally injured and expected to die, are Mrs. Martina Cristenson, whose skull is fractured and Mrs. Mathilda Johannes, who is cut and badly burned and bruised. Joseph H. Gagnon has a wrench in his spine, it is feared, and is otherwise badly hurt.

The dead:
ROMMIE BUSKEY, 3 years old.
MRS. GAGNON, 50 years old.
A child, 3 years old, of Mrs. Johnson.
ARNOLD KUEHLO, 50, president of the Kuehlo Manufacturing company.
HERBERT HODGMAN, aged 25, who was engaged to marry Kuehlo's daughter.
H. G. BORGEN, a draftsman of the Kuehlo company.

The central office and telegraph system of the St. Paul police department was completely wrecked and the property loss will reach $35,000 or more.

The six lives were sacrificed to the inventive zeal of Arnold Kuehlo, a well-known resident of St. Paul. His own life paid the penalty of his enthusiasm. It is one of the features of the catastrophe that more persons were not killed.

The building was full of people, there were a number in the street and the force of the explosion carried missiles more than 150 feet. It shook everything in the vicinity and for a moment everyone stood spellbound.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 2.—The number of dead as the result of a head-on collision of two electric trains on the Couer d'Alene & Spokane railroad Saturday evening totals twelve and the number of injured about seventy-five.

The wreck occurred at Coldwater, Idaho, a small station twenty-five miles east of Spokane. Whitley, Memphis, Tenn.; William Ward, Wenatchee, Wash.; John Verle, Springfield, Mo.; Dallie Golden, Spokane; W. A. Dalhquist, Estherville, Iowa; J. Cox, Medical Lake, Wash.; A. B. McDonald, Drummond, Md.; Mrs. A. G. McDonald, Drummond, Md.; Fred McGarry, Spokane.

List of Injured.

The worst injured: Daniel Carmody, Chicago, fractured leg and internal injuries; P. M. Waters, Pleasant Lake, N. D.; Guy Tombleson, Mullenville, Kas.; Arthur Marvin, Victoria, Mont.; Charles Osburne, Freeport, Ill.; Mrs. Charles Osborne, Freeport, Ill.; scalp wounds and knee hurt. G. P. Vancent, Berryville, Mo.; knee hurt; E. L. Dixon, Norfolk, Neb.; compound fracture of left leg; Carl Wilson, Missoula, Mont.; severely bruised about legs and body.

Many of the injured were brought to Spokane hospitals today on a special train from Couer d'Alene.

Arrangements for burying the dead are delayed pending word from relatives in different parts of the United States.

Mrs. Lanceford of Spokane, one of the injured, says that when she regained consciousness in the wreckage she was held down under the body of a man whose skull was crushed and she heard some one saying: "Leave them alone, they are dead, get out the live ones." She managed to struggle free unassisted.

ANOTHER WOMAN CURED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Gardiner, Maine.—"I have been a great sufferer from organic troubles and a severe female weakness. The doctor said I would have to go to the hospital for an operation, but I could not bear to think of it. I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash—and was entirely cured after three months' use of them."—Mrs. S. A. WILLIAMS, R. F. D. No. 14, Box 39, Gardiner, Me.

No woman should submit to a surgical operation, which may mean death, until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made exclusively from roots and herbs, a fair trial.

This famous medicine for women has for thirty years proved to be the most valuable tonic and renewer of the female organism. Women residing in almost every city and town in the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It cures female ills, and creates radiant, buoyant female health. If you are ill, for your own sake as well as those you love, give it a trial.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

YANKEE INVENTORS GET NEW ADVANTAGE.

Washington, Aug. 2.—A reciprocal patent treaty between the United States and Germany, which is of far-reaching importance to the commercial world has been successfully promulgated by President Taft and the emperor of Germany. The agreement is immediately effective and shall remain in force until the expiration of twelve months following notice of termination by one of the contracting parties. The effect of this convention will be that American manufacturers will be relieved of the requirements that in order to sell their products in Germany, they must manufacture them upon the basis of German patents. This called for investments of large sums of money in maintaining duplicate plants.

Inventors will greatly benefit from the fact that the treaty relieves them from the German restriction under which their patents have hitherto been forfeited if not actually worked in Germany within three years. Under the new provision it will be sufficient to protect patents in both countries if they are used for manufacture in either.

The next official congress for the protection of industrial property will meet in May, 1910. At this congress about thirty nations will e represented.

LEAVE SPOUSES; BOTH MURDERED

Italian Man and Woman Killed By Wife of Male Offender.

Canton, Ohio, Aug. 2.—An elopement terminated in the murder here Sunday of Tony Panelli and Mrs. Clara Pizzani by Mrs. Panella, wife of the slain man. After shooting her husband, Mrs. Panelli attacked Mrs. Pizzani with a butcher knife. A terrible struggle followed, during which Mrs. Pizzani was stabbed thirty times.

During the struggle Mrs. Pazzani succeeded in reaching a telephone and holding her antagonist at bay while she called the police station. Mrs. Panelli overpowered her, however, before the telephone conversation was completed and Mrs. Pazzini was dead before the police learned of the trouble.

Panella deserted his wife in Deans, N. J., and Mrs. Pizzani left her husband, Peter Pazzini, and a child in New York city and eloped to Canton last February, the police say.

Mrs. Panelli later came to Canton and found the couple together. Her husband agreed to live with her again if she would permit Mrs. Pizzani to occupy a part of their residence. The woman agreed to this, and for the last month the three have been occupying a house together.

Mrs. Panelli gave herself up to the police. She said she saw her husband in Mrs. Pizzani's room yesterday and the sight crazed her.

Says Wife Robbed Him.

New York, Aug. 2.—Albert Pizzani, an American-born Italian, 24 years old, the husband of the dead woman, said here last night when told of the double murder at Canton, Ohio, that his wife had left him and their 4-year-old daughter on Feb. 15 last, taking with her $718 in cash, all his savings. He immediately suspected that she had eloped with Antonio Panelli of Deans, N. J., her elderly godfather, who had paid her marked attention and at whose house she had spent much time. His belief was confirmed when he learned that Panella had disappeared from his own wife and children.

Later a letter postmarked Dayton, Ohio, asking forgiveness, had come to him from his wife. He never answered it, however.

GOVERNOR IS NOW AT SEATTLE FAIR

Was Entertained at Elaborate Banquet While at Spokane.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 2.—Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota, accompanied by his military staff, arrived on day afternoon. The party was met at the station by the committee in charge of Minnesota day at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition. Governor Johnson is to be the orator of the day, which is Aug. 3.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 2.—Governor Johnson's party, while here on Saturday, was escorted in automobiles around the beauty spots of Spokane, and saw this fine city under the most desirable conditions. The chamber of commerce entertained the party at luncheon at Davenport's Hall of the Doges, after taking them through the chamber and delighting them with an unusually interesting exhibit of fruits, flowers, vegetables, grains and minerals arranged in artistic order.

The party returned from Coeur d'Alene about 4 o'clock, and members of the Swedish-American league initiated the governor into their order as an honorary member, and entertained, in conjunction with the Scandinavian Brotherhood of America, the executive and his party at an elaborately appointed banquet at the Hall of the Doges Saturday night.

Frank Burnham was toastmaster for the Swedish-American league and the Scandinavian brotherhood. W. A. Monent had the toast "Our Guest," and no one can say that he didn't come up to the expectations of the governor's most enthusiastic admirers.

Governor Johnson's response was in his happiest vein, although somewhat tinged with weariness. S. A. Anderson's toast in response to the "State of Minnesota" was a classic tribute of a loyal son to his old home state. B. M. Branford recited the glory and goodness of Washington into willing ears. A. C. Clausen, who, like all the others on the program, is a Minnesota man, responded for the Scandinavian Brotherhood of America, while Rev. John D. Oslund, a once Wright county boy, spoke for the Swedish-American league.

The party on its automobile tour stopped a few moments to be guests of Mrs. W. F. Zimmerman, whose beautiful home commands the Spokane valley, the hills and the city.

FATTENS TAXES OF YACHTS' OWNERS

New Tariff Bill Will Hit Rich Seafarers in the Pocketbook.

Washington, Aug. 2.—Sailing the high seas on palatial foreign-built yachts will come pretty high to American millionaires who own such craft, if a provision in the new tariff bill becomes effective. Prominent Americans, such as George J. Gould, the Vanderbilts, Mrs. Robert Goelet, James Gordon Bennett, Joseph Pulitzer, A. J. Drexel and many others will have to help Uncle Sam's coffers. On the other hand, such prominent Americans as E. H. Harriman, J. P. Morgan, J. J. Hill, Howard Gould and others, owning yachts built by American labor, will not be affected by the tariff provision referred to.

The new bill contains the following provision for the taxation of foreign-built yachts now or hereafter owned or chartered by American citizens:

"There shall be levied and collected annually on the first day of September by the collector of customs of the district nearest the residence of the managing owner, upon the use of every foreign-built yacht, pleasure boat or vessel or intended to be used for trade, now or hereafter owned or chartered for more than six months by any citizen or citizens of the United States, a sum equivalent to a tonnage tax of $7 per gross ton."

May Pay Duty Instead.

It is provided, however, that as an alternative to the annual tax, the owner of a foreign built yacht may pay a duty of 35 per cent ad valorem and secure an American registry exempting the vessel from further federal taxation. The values of these yachts range from $50,000 to $800,000.

Assuming that the tariff bill, including this provision, becomes a law, the following well-known yachts on Sept. 1 will be subject to the annual tax at the rates indicated:

James Gordon Bennett's Lyslstrata, $13,594; W. K. Vanderbilt's Valiant, $12,761; A. J. Drexel's Margarita, $12,460; Mrs. Robert Goelet's Mahma, $12,173; Morton F. Plant's Colanda, $11,529; Joseph Pulitzer's Liberty, $11,249; Eugene Higgins' Varuna, $11,011; George J. Gould's Atlanta, $9,121; Roy A. Rainey's Cassandra, $8,589; Fred W. Vanderbilt's Warrior, $7,679; C. K. G. Billings' Vanadis, $7,657; G. W. C. Drexel's Alcedo, $6,881; Cornelius Vanderbilt's North Star, $5,726, and so on down the scale.

GOVERNOR HAY MAKES SWEDISH DAY ADDRESS.

Seattle, Aug. 2.—In the absence of Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota, whose presence was to have been the principal feature, Swedish day at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition, Saturday, was still a notable occasion. When it became known that Governor Johnson had chosen to spend the day at Spokane it was decided to carry out the program already prepared, Governor M. E. Hay of Washington, who had come from Olympia with his staff to welcome Governor Johnson, taking the latter's place as speaker. The attendance of Swedes from all over the Pacific Northwest was large.

S.S.S. HEALS SORES AND ULCERS

S. S. S. heals Sores and Ulcers in the very simplest way. It just goes right down into the blood and removes the cause and the place is bound to heal because the impurities and morbid matters which have been the means of keeping the ulcer open are no longer absorbed from the blood. External applications of salves, lotions, plasters, etc., can never produce a cure because they do not reach the source of the trouble At best they can only allay pain or reduce inflammation; such treatment is working on symptoms and not reaching the cause. Every nutritive corpuscle in the blood is weakened or infected, they cannot nourish the fibrous tissue around the place, but instead they constantly discharge into the flesh around the sore a quantity of impure, germ-laden matter which gradually eats into the surrounding healthy tissue and causes the ulcer to enlarge. Since impure blood is responsible for Sores and Ulcers, a medicine that can purify the blood is the only hope of a cure. S. S. S. has long been recognized as the greatest of all blood purifiers, possessing the qualities necessary to remove every impurity from the blood. While curing the sore or ulcer S. S. S. brings about a healthy condition of the flesh by supplying it with rich, healthy blood, and thus makes the cure permanent and lasting. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice free to all who write.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

HOPING TO BE CLEARED

Convicted of Double Murder, Fournier Gets a New Trial.

Claims His First Conviction Was on Perjured Testimony.

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Paul Fournier, who has served two years of a life sentence in the state penitentiary at Stillwater for murder in the first degree for which he was convicted in the spring of 1907, is again an inmate of the Beltrami county jail here, having been brought back for the purpose of defending the charge of killing N. O. Dahl and Angot Dahl, his daughter, at Quiring, in this county, on April 7, 1904, the supreme court having granted him a new trial. He occupies the same cell he did before.

Fournier is somewhat pale and has lost some weight since he was last here, but he is enjoying the best of health and optimistic concerning the outcome of the new trial.

"The testimony of my brother, Owen, and his wife was the only evidence that influenced the jury in any way to bring a verdict of guilty against me," declared Fournier.

"Owen claimed that I said at one time when I was in a fit of anger that they were making an outlaw of me up there at Quiring, and that I killed the Dahls and that I would kill some more people up in these woods.

Declares Brother Lied.

"Owen deliberately lied; I never said anything of the kind, and were he alive now I do not believe that he would repeat the same testimony he gave against me at the trial.

"The day before I was taken to Stillwater to begin serving my life sentence, I said that I really knew something about the murder of the Dahls and that I would tell it, but I was afraid of being killed by the 'gang' around Quiring.

"I still assert that I know something of the crime and if I tell it, it would clear me entirely of any connection with the brutal murder.

"I was always afraid of that gang around Quiring. I had not proved up on my claim and I knew there were some of them who would not hesitate to kill me if I tell all I know regarding the killing of the Dahls.

"I am sure that I will be acquitted at the conclusion of the new trial as I was convicted solely on circumstantial evidence, and that of the most flimsy character."

HAIL STONES AS BIG AS MARBLES

Fell at Walhalla, N. D., and Other Points, Damaging Wheat.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thousands of acres of wheat that in the next ten days would have fallen before the binder fell Saturday afternono before the destructive power of a hail storm which laid waste a large tract in Pembina county.

The storm, which struck early in the afternoon, apparently entered the county in the northwestern corner near Walhalla and swept over the county in a southeasterly direction, leaving the state east of Grafton. Serious damage from hail is reported from Stephens, Minn., which indicates that the storm continued its destructive course in Minnesota.

The strip damaged by the storm is very irregular and no accurate reports as to the amount of damage will be obtained for some days. According to the best information, obtainable the path of the storm was very irregular, being from one to three or four miles wide, and the amount of damage done in different localities is not uniform, the hail seeming to strike wth much greater force n some sections than in others.

At Cavalier it hailed for nearly an hour and a half and when the storm subsided the hail stones lay in great drifts. At Walhalla the hail stones were as large as a good sized marble and came down with such force as to break almost ever exposed window in town, including plate glass of the thickest and most substantial kind. Around Backoo, the loss is reported to be total, while at Tyner a similar condition exists. In the vicinity of Cavalier, a 75 per cent loss is estimated, while at no place in the stricken district is the loss less than 25 per cent.

This is the second serious misfortune for Pembina county this year, the grain in a large part of the eastern tier of townships being badly damaged by a cloudburst.

BOX CAR JUMPS INTO BASS LAKE

Two Other Cars Are Hurled Across N. P. Track Which Is Torn Up.

Deerwood, Minn., Aug. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Between 6 and 7 a. m. yesterday an extra eastbound freight on the Northern Pacific, running between Brainerd and Duluth, was wrecked about two miles west of Aitkin by a broken flange on a wheel, two of the box cars being derailed, one of which ran into Bass lake and the other was thrown across the tracks.

The rails were torn up for a distance of 200 feet and the wrecking crews from Brainerd and Deerwood had a difficult time in getting the debris off the line and ralls in fit condition to allow of traffic. The crew of the wrecked train claim to have been most unfortunate on this trip, having jumped the track in two places along the line, previous to the last wreck.

As a result of the wreck, the westbound No. 2 was put two hours back of her schedule time.

SPENDING MUCH IN IMPROVING

Warroad and Other Northern Minnesota Towns Are Fixing Up.

Warroad, Minn., Aug. 2.—Extensive improvements are being made throughout this section of the country this summer. In Warroad a great many up-to-date residences have been erected and several more are under construction, and several business houses have been added. Several hundred feet of sidewalk has been laid and considerable attention is being paid to the general improvement of the appearance of the town. The villages of Roseau and Badger lying to the west of here are having their entire business districts supplied with cement sidewalks twelve feet wide, and to further improve the appearance of those villages the streets will be graded and put into good condition.

A noteworthy feature of the improvements being made throughout this part of the state this summer is that they are all of a permanent nature and such as to reflect credit on the people making them. One new institution which will mean much to this section of the country is the Warroad Creamery association, which completed its butter making plant some time ago. The building was erected and machinery installed under the able superintendence of C. A. Turner of Crookston, and is said to be one of the most up-to-date equipped creameries in the Red river valley. Besides the butter making machinery, the association installed an ice cream making plant which is proving a profitable investment.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Selling Checks Rise Due to Fear of Black Rust.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Further apprehension regarding possible damage by black rust in the Northwest caused a firm opening in the wheat market today, initial quotations showing gains of a shade to ⅞c compared with Saturday's final figures. Nearly all of the gain, however, was soon lost on selling by elevator interests. The selling was based to some extent on denials of black rust reports. The Oklahoma state report which estimates the wheat crop of that state at 17,000,000 bu, 4,000,000 bu in excess of the government statistics, was a bearish factor. The opening on September was at $1.04½@1.05⅛. In the first few minutes of trading the price reached $1.05¼, but the market soon eased off to $1.04⅝. Trade was rather quiet early.

Decided weakness developed in the final hour owing to favorable crop reports from the Canadian Northwest. September declined to $1.03⅜. The market closed weak at almost the bottom on September, being off ⅞@1c at $1.03½.

Serious deterioration in the condition of the crop of corn in Oklahoma, as shown by the state report, inspired considerable buying of corn at the opening and resulted in moderate firmness. Prices at the start were ⅛c lower to ⅛@¼c higher, September being at 66⅛@66¼c. After touching 86c, the price quickly advanced to 66¾c. The market became weak during the last half of the day owing to the heaviness of Southwestern markets and because of the break in wheat. September sold off to 65⅝c. The close was weak with September down ⅜c at 65⅝@65¾c.

Selling by country commission houses caused moderate weakness in the oats market early. Trade was fairly active. The favorable outlook for the new crop was the chief factor. September opened ⅛@⅜c lower at 38@38¼c and later sold at 38⅜@38½c.

Provisions were quiet and firm. A marked falling off in hog receipts in the West was the main reason for the strength. Prices at the opening were a shade to 12½c higher.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Aug. 2.—The cotton market opened firm at an advance of 4@13 points on continued expectations of a bullish government report at midday, but met with a good deal of realizing, as a result of indications for better weather in Texas, and as a protectionary measure preceding the actual publication of the report. ELEPHANT LABOR IN BENGAL.

A well-known land owner in Bengal, says the Wide World Magazine, employs several of his elephants, when not engaged in shikar, in dragging an iron roller over his metal roads, effecting a considerable saving in his labor bill in this way. It is not every elephant, however, that will lend itself to such work; and, indeed, animals for this work require to be selected with caution. The mischief that an elephant bolting with a roller behind him would cause may be better imagined than described.

STRENGTH IN STOCKS

Union Pacific and United States Steel Make New Records.

Southern Pacific Was Also Carried Up to Record Price.

New York, Aug. 2.—The stock market opened today active and with prices generally higher than last week but there was a fair mixture of declines, including some of the stocks of first prominence. Reading, Illinois Central and American Car rose a point and St. Paul, United States Rubber and American Locomotive large fractions. Louisville & Nashville declined ¾.

The market had to meet a great deal of realizing in the early dealings. Most of the railroads and United States Steel showed varying degrees of irregularity during which prices dipped below Saturday's closing. Frequent rallies pulled prices up, with the anthracite coalers and some of the metal stocks showing the greatest strength. Reading, after showing a loss of 1 point, was pushed up again to 163. Central Railroad of New Jersey gained 4¼, American Car and United States Rubber, 2⅝, Pennsylvania 1⅜, Allis-Chalmers preferred 1¼ and Canadian Pacific, Delaware & Hudson, American Smelting, National Lead and Brooklyn Transit 1. Southern Pacific began to show strength at the end of the hour.

Southern Pacific was carried to a record price at 136¼, but this was taken advantage of for realizing sales and the market reacted. Union Pacific, New York Central and Great Northern Ore certificates sold a point under Saturday's close, and Reading lost its gain. There were gains in Erie, Cleveland, Chicago, Cincinnati & St. Louis, Railway Steel Spring and Pressed Steel Car preferred of about a point, Lake Erie & Western 2¾, the preferred 2, and United States Rubber second preferred 2¼. Prices were steady at noon. Bonds were irregular.

Large blocks of Southern Pacific were bought on a rising scale, and it reached 136¾. Other well-known stocks moved narrowly, aside from the Erie, in which there was advances in the common of 1½, the first preferred 2, and the second preferred 1.

The market closed strong and active. Union Pacific and a rise in United States Steel to a new record at 74¾ were features in the final hour. New points of strength also developed in other directions. Louisville & Nashville, Kansas & Texas, St. Paul, Missouri, Central Leather and Distillers' Securities rose 1, Pacific Mail 2 and American Locomotive Pressed Steel Car and American Car 2½ to 3½. American Can preferred declined 1.

ENGLISH DIVORCE LAWS.

British Writer Thinks That They Are Not Enlightened.

It is an interesting coincidence that at the same time that people in this country are discussing with troubled surprise, the increasing frequency of divorce, a leading English magazine prints a protest against British restraints of the practice. In this article, published in the Westminster Review, the writer dwells on what he calls the absurdities of English law.

"In modern England," he says, "the state is at present actively promoting in every police court the separation of husband and wife without the possibility of remarriage, and it legalizes and enforces voluntary separations, both public and private, in every class of life.

"In modern Germany the separation without remarriage of husband and wife is not recognized by the state except in the case of Roman Catholics, and even then a separation is subsequently convertible into a divorce at the option of either party. The remedy of the injured spouse is divorce or nothing. The remedy of separation, whether voluntary or compulsory, is rightly condemned as being contrary to public policy.

"In England a male is deemed capable of marriage at 14 and a female at 12, and although parental consent is commonly demanded of persons under 21, any fraudulent statement of its having been obtained does not invalidate the ceremony. In Germany a male cannot marry under 21 and a female under 18, whether parental consent is available or not.

"In England a man may, and not infrequently does, cut his wife and family out of his will. In Germany the rights of wife and children are properly safe-guarded by limiting this liberty of disposition.

"In England a father need not do more for his children than keep them out of the workhouse unless he has brought himself under divorce jurisdiction. In Germany he is obliged to maintain them in a suitable manner. In England a spendthrift or dipsomaniac can only be controlled when he has spent all his money. In Germany such persons are protected from themselves by the family council.

"In England an illegitimate child can never be legitimatized by the subsequent marriage of the parents, though it may rank as a dependent under the workmen's compensation acts. In Germany this humane and reasonable opportunity of making reparation to the child exists as a matter of course. To provide for the illegitimate children of employes who earn less than £250 a year at the expense of the employer seems quite reasonable to the British public. In our traditional groove of coarse and unreflecting sentimentality we will give money to the poor and deny them the elements of self-respect.

"The absurdities of English law are most readily exposed by comparison with the law of more enlightened countries, and these absurdities cover a very wide range."

CONVICTS RAISE GAME BIRDS.

Regarded As Diversion More Than a Task—Money For Reading Matter.

Seattle Times: A novel experiment is in process of development at the McNeil Island Federal penitentiary, near Tacoma, where the convicts are rearing Chinese pheasants and Rouen call ducks for the market, affording the prisoners a diversion that relieves their minds from the pall of prison life and gives them a small income, which they are devoting to the purchase of books, newspapers and magazines and which has enriched them also by a phonograph, the vocal and instrumental strains from which resound to their delight through corridors and cells. The experiment is the result of an idea which originated with United States Marshal C. B. Hopkins, whose headquarters are in Seattle and who advanced the prisoners the necessary fund for the purchase of original stock.

Pens, yards and coops have been built by the prisoners, who have regarded the task as much more of a diversion than a labor. Under the careful handling the birds have received, good progress has been made, until now the penitentiary has a goodly array of both ducks and pheasants ready for the market.

In the beginning a pair of Rouen ducks was imported from France, the native ground, and the best specimens of Chinese pheasants were obtained. The initial outlay was something more than $100. Both breeds are well adapted to the climate of Puget Sound, where the Chinese bird has for years been well known. The Rouen ducks are used as decoy birds, as they will call in wild ducks to the retreat where they have been placed by the hunter.

Something fewer than 100 prisoners are held in the Puget Sound penitentiary. Many are from Alaska, there being no federal prisons in the North.

THE ABALONE AS A FOOD.

From "Abalone Fishing" in the Wide World Magazine: The abalone is a clean feeder, so that its flesh is superior in soundness and wholesomeness to that of the oysters and other marine creatures which live near shore in water contaminated by many impurities. Besides this, the viscera of these creatures must be swallowed whole, while those of the abalone are quite separate from the muscular or edible part, and can be cut away by one stroke of a knife. The weight of a fairly large fresh abalone is two pounds, of which all but a half pound is good meat, the shell being very light. The meat is nutritious, being highly albuminous, like that of clams, oysters, lobsters and shell-fish generally. Albumen is one of the chief elements of nutrition in milk, cheese, eggs, etc.

But the flesh as it comes from the shell, is too tough to be eaten, whether uncooked, boiled, stewed, or fried. The toughness used to be partly eliminated by pounding and hammering it, but this did not render the meat really tender. No matter how long it may be boiled, the fish remains hard. After many experiments, a San Franciscan named J. W. Gayetty, discovered that if the abalone is killed by electricity its flesh is rendered soft and succulent like that of an oyster. A company uses his method at an abalone canning factory at Cayucos, San Luis Obispo county, Cal.

This company owns several roomy, seaworthy boats, each carrying two Japanese divers, one of whom goes down for three or four hours and is then relieved by the other. The diver tears the abalones with moss and seaweed attached to them, from the rocks and sends up the shells as rapidly as possible. Under ordinary conditions he can send up a ton of abalones in an hour. As soon as the boat comes to shore, the abalones, if not wanted at once in the cannery, are thrown into a tank of salt water, the bottom of which is strewn with rocks, so as to resemble the floor of the ocean, and are kept there till they are wanted. The flesh and juice of the abalone is treated together and the product acquires a flavor more delicate than that of the oyster. This "abalone food" may be stewed or fried, while the juice makes a good broth, soup or appetizer. It is relished by invalids, and can be retained when other foods nauseate. The leading hotels of San Francisco, Los Angeles, Oakland, and other California cities have "abalone chowder" on their bills of fare, and there are many delicious ways of cooking the prepared flesh.

BRITONS READ SOLID BOOKS.

Progress: The borrowing of novels is declining all over England, being not more than 15 per cent of the work done by public libraries. In the public libraries of the United Kingdom there are 4,000,000 reference and 8,000,000 lending books; 11,000,000 reference books are consulted every year, according to the records, and at least an equal number are taken from the shelves and consulted without being recorded. Every year 60,000,000 books are lent for home reading. Giving further detail, the Investigator states that "the taste for history, biography and travel is on the wane; readers are all for science and sociology, and new books on socialism are always in demand."

CATCHING COD OFF CAPE MAY.

Cape May Herald: Hundreds of pounds of codfish are being caught daily off the coast of Cape May county. Many of the pound fishermen during the winter months go into the cod fishing on a large scale.

Some of their lines have as many as 800 hooks, and many of them 400 or 500. They are baited with surf clams, which sell for 50 cents a bushel.

HOW TO TELL GOOD WINE.

Philadelphia Bulletin: The connoisseur tells good wine from bad by taste alone; but most men are not connoisseurs, and to most the following easier methods, guaranteed by a champagne agent, prove useful:

The artificial coloring test: Soak a woollen thread in the wine, and, removing it, drop on it a little vinegar. If the vinegar turns it bluish, the coloring is natural, but if it turns it pink, a chemical coloring matter has been used.

If the wine has been fortified with alcohol, the addition of cream of tartar in the proportion of one gram to the quart will cause a granular precipitant to settle in the bottom.

If it contains sulphate of potash—a chemical that helps to hide the bar taste of a wine that has turned—a few drops of oxalate of ammonia will quickly produce a deposit.

NEVER GAVE HER MONEY

Mrs. Kempinsky Says Husband Was Supported By Her Earnings.

Says He Hurt Hand Beating Her and Peace-Making Boarder.

An affidavit was filed with the clerk of the district court this morning by Mary Kempinsky in answer to that filed Saturday on behalf of her husband, John Kempinsky. Both affidavits were made in connection with a motion for attorney's fees and allmony and their filing at this time is a mere formality, as the motion has already been disposed of. Kempinsky is now serving a sentence of sixty days in the county jail for assaulting his wife, the assault also being in contempt of a court order restraining him from visiting or molesting his wife, Mrs. Kempinsky's affidavit is a flat denial of all charges made by Kempinsky.

She says her husband during all of their married life kept his own wages and lived off of the wages earned by her. At one time he accumulated $1,000 and at another time $600, she says, and all of it went for drink and for other purposes. He has been earning $2.25 a day for six years, she says, and never gave any of it to her.

Kempinsky made a statement in court that he had suffered an injury to his hand by a lump of coal falling on it and had been unable to work for three weeks. Mrs. Kempinsky says that he had not worked for three months prior to the injury to his hand and the injury was not caused by a lump of coal. She says he was beating her and a boarder interfered. Kempinsky turned on the boarder she says, and hurt his hand beating him. Kempinsky was drunk at the time and had been for a long time prior to that time, she says.

She says her husband never paid the household bills or grocery bills from money earned by himself. She paid the meat bills herself, and on account of not being able to speak English, she allowed him to pay the grocery bills, she furnishing the money. She says she has not $200 in her possession, as stated by her husband, and has not any money. She says she has notes for $1,700 for money loaned to St. Josephat's Polish Catholic church, but when she sought to collect the interest last week, the officials of the church said they had no money to pay either the interest or the principal. She says the $1,700 represents her individual savings from her own earnings of the last eight years, and is no part of the money earned by her husband during that time.

She says her husband has repeatedly tried to gain possession of that money, and went so far as to steal the notes from her trunk and borrow money on them to get drink.

She says that on account of the cruelty of her husband, she was confined to her bed for a long time under a doctor's care. She said she had no money to pay the doctor's bills, and despite the affidavit of her husband, she asked the court to grant her the financial relief asked.

The Kempinskys' family troubles will be threshed out at the September term of court, when the action for divorce will be heard.

WASHBURN IN SEMI-FINALS

Boat Club Tennis Tournament Rapidly Nearing the Close.

"Mac" Washburn, by defeating Carroll Graff at tennis on the courts of the Duluth Boat club Saturday, is now down to the semi-finals. The remainder of the contestants are expected to reach the semi-finals today. It is possible that the final games will be played off by Wednesday.

Play in the doubles will begin Wednesday. The entry list closes Tuesday evening. More than a dozen entries have been received, and it is expected that at least twenty will get in before the list is closed.

Washburn is also in the finals in the tournament being held at the Country club.

THE HIBBING BOYS TAKE TWO

Long Prairie Team Drops Both Saturday and Sunday Games.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 2.—Long Prairie was one point to the good in the sixth inning of yesterday's ball game. Hibbing tied the score in the eighth and in the ninth Sage successfully worked the squeeze play making the final score 3 and 2 in Hibbing's favor.

Booth, who is one of Hibbing's star players and who also is a member of the local police force, is out of the game with a badly injured hand. It happened while Booth was putting a man under arrest. The man made a fight and before he was handcuffed all the knuckles on Booth's right hand had been dislocated. He will be out of the game for some time.

The score by innings:

Batteries—Sage and Carroll; Dominick and Johnson.

Third baseman Brookins of the Hibbing ball team won the game from Long Prairie Saturday by hitting out a home run. The final score was 8 to 6.

Wiedel was found freely in the opening of the game by the members of the visiting team and Booth replaced him. Score:

Hibbing	1 0 1 2 0 0 1 3 x—8
Long Prairie	1 0 1 2 0 0 0 2 0—6

Batteries—Miedel, Booth and Carroll; Wilson and Johnson.

CALL OF THE WEST IS FOR EMANCIPATION FROM DOMINION OF TRUST AND POLITICAL MACHINE

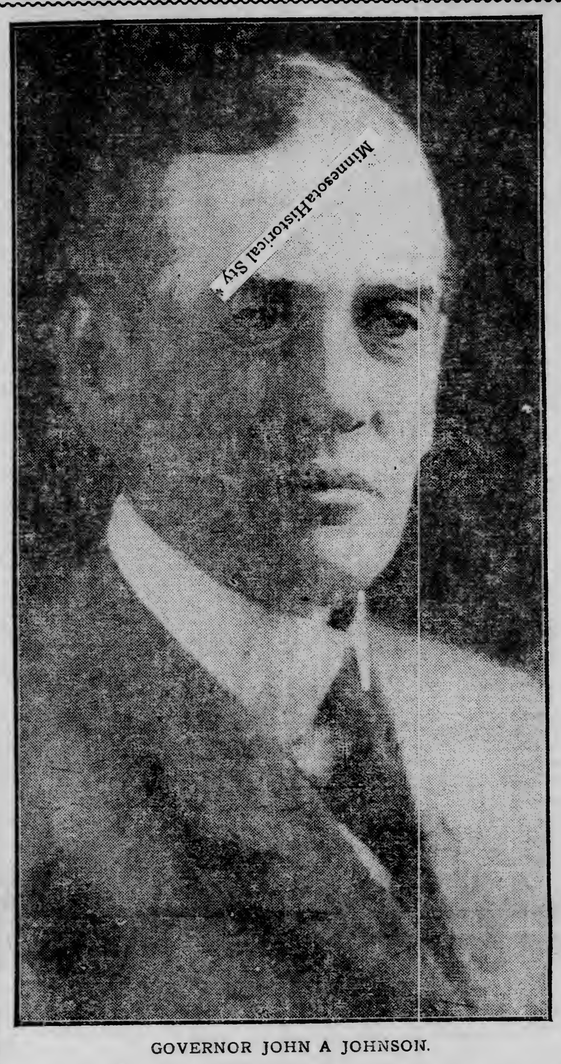
BRONZE BUST OF JAMES J. HILL IS UNVEILED

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the close of the Minnesota day address by Governor Johnson this afternoon the audience proceeded from the exposition auditorium to the Klondike circle, where the bronze bust of James J. Hill of the Great Northern railroad was unveiled by Governor Johnson and presented to the exposition and the university. The bust was made by F. H. Frehlich of New York and, with the granite pedestal, stands twenty-two feet high.

"IT IS TIME THAT THE WEST THREW OFF THE SHACKLES OF THE EAST"

"The call of the West is the call for brave men, who shall know no sectional and no political lines. We as an integral part of the American people should cast our influence and our votes not only to advance the material interests of our own particular section, but we should be broad enough and big enough to labor for the common good of our own common country. We have in the states west of the Mississippi, the undoubted balance of power, no matter under what name the national administration at Washington exists. In the years that have passed, our population and our material wealth have not enjoyed that representation to which they are entitled, and furthermore, our leaders have been content to follow in no small measure the leadership of men who represent relatively smaller constituencies and smaller commonwealths. It is time that the West threw off the shackles of the East. I would preach no sectional divisions and no sectional strifes, but Minnesota and Washington and the states between, with those to the south of us, should arise in their might, and claim for themselves that fair share of influence in the halls of congress and in the administration of national affairs to which they are entitled by every law of common sense, as well as of political economy. It is time, indeed, that the great Northwest should come into its own, and by the force of its energy, the ability of its sons and the co-operation of its various constituent parts, exert an influence for good, not only as to its own particular prosperity, but to that of the country at large, to which every element invites it."—Governor Johnson in Minnesota Day address at Seattle exposition.

MINNESOTA'S CHIEF EXECUTIVE AT SEATTLE



GOVERNOR JOHN A JOHNSON.

TRIBUTE TO MINNESOTA

Paid By Governor Johnson in Address at Seattle Exposition.

Fifty Years of National Folly in High Tariffs Denounced.

Western Yeomen Demand No Fostering Hand of Government.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—"It is time that the West threw off the shackles of the East and that the great Northwest should come into its own," declared Governor John A. Johnson in his address at the Minnesota day celebration at the Pacific-Yukon exposition today. With no desire to preach sectional divisions or sectional strifes, he urged that Minnesota and Washington and the other states of the West should arise in their might and claim their legitimate share of influence in the halls of congress and in the administration of national affairs.

"The call of the West," said Governor Johnson, "is for development. It is the call of the race to the vanguard of progress. The West knows no rest, no stopping-place. The East looks upon you at Puget Sound as the last stopping post of the Caucasian race in its westward journey. But you within sound of my voice look upon Seattle as only the distributing point, the reserve camp for that colossal campaign, the commercial supremacy of the Pacific and the industrial conquest of the Orient. Already your business vision has made Asia your logical home market.

"The call of the West is for liberty, equality, manhood, fair-play—for those inalienable rights which ever have been the inseparable conditions of its progress and victories. The frontier has ever fought for the fundamentals of pure democracy. Jefferson, author of the great Declaration, born of the frontier, enunciated its gospel. Jackson, the rugged fighter of the Tennessee wilds, and Lincoln, the Illinois rail-

SEES AUTO CRASH AND DIES A MANIAC

Witness of Triple Fatality at Birch Creek, Mich., Is Made Insane.

Menominee, Mich., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Driven mad by the horror of having seen the Birch Creek automobile accident, in which three people were killed one week ago, Theodore Hessel of this city died last night in St. Joseph's hospital, a raving maniac. Attending physicians declare that his case is one of the strangest on record.

Hessel, who was but 21 years old, was a witness of the tragedy at Birch Creek. Within a few hours after the occurrence he began to show signs of extreme fear, and he declared that a passenger train was pursuing him, during that night he become more and more terror-stricken, and sought means to take his own life.

Efforts to restore Hessel to reason failed, and just before he was taken to the hospital he became violently insane. Every day seemed to add to his madness, and he grew more violent, until last night, when he passed into extreme paroxysms of terror, which ended in his death.

TURKS SEND MEN TO LAND IN CRETE

Four Transports of Troops Sail for Island From Constantinople.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 3.—The Novoe Vremya today publishes a dispatch from Constantinople saying that four transports loaded with Turkish troops have left the capital for the island of Crete, and that a Turkish fleet has been ordered to escort them. The greatest secrecy regarding these naval movements is being observed, and it is supposed that Turkey intends to effect a landing on the island. On the day the last troops left the island the Cretans raised the Greek flag.

JUDGE AGAIN STEPS IN AND QUIZZES THAW CASE WITNESS

Puts Point Blank Questions to Alienist in the Insanity Hearing.

Dr. Baker of Matteawan Asylum Continues His Testimony.

Thaw Is Congratulated By Man Who Sat on His First Jury.

White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Justice Isaac N. Mills again stepped into the examination at today's session of the Thaw sanity hearing, and from Dr. Amos T. Baker, acting superintendent of the Matteawan asylum, obtained the clearest statement yet expressed on the stand at the present proceedings regarding the mental condition of the slayer of Stanford White.

The result of Justice Mills' questioning might be claimed as an advantage by either side. The witness said that he did not consider the opportunities he had to examine the prisoner sufficient to permit him to form a satisfactory conclusion. Nevertheless, the witness declared his belief that the prisoner was now insane and that Thaw's release would be a menace to public safety.

Justice Mills began with the observation that he considered Dr. Baker an MEN ORDER STRIKE VOTE

Referendum to Be Carried Out in Chicago on Thursday.

Union Leaders Say That Conditions Are Just What They Wished.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—The union motormen and conductors of this city's surface street car lines last night rejected the offers of the companies to renew the old agreements, and ordered a referendum vote to be taken on the question of calling a strike. The referendum vote will be taken Thursday.

The union leaders say that for years they have tried to bring about just such a condition as now prevails, when the agreements on all the surface lines have expired, so that should a strike be ordered it will tie up all the lines.

No further conferences will be sought with the company officials by the labor leaders until after the referendum vote is taken, when, if it is in favor of a strike, they will again lay the matter before the street railway presidents and make a final effort to settle the controversy by peaceable methods.

DEMAND $25,000 FOR CHILDREN

St. Louis Kidnapers Steal Boy and Girl---Four Suspects Are Set Free.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 3.—Joseph Bocano was taken to police headquarters today by detectives who are working on the kidnaping of Grace Viviano, 3 years old, and Alfonso Viviano, 5 years old. The children were taken from their home yesterday at noon and four hours later a special delivery letter was received by their parents demanding $25,000 ransom. Samuel Turrisi, who is said to have taken the children from their home, was seen, it is said, at Bocano's home with the children. Bocano told the detectives that the man who came to his home was a cousin. Despite the all-night search no trace of Turrisi was found. Four roommates of Turrisi were released today.

FIST FIGHT OVER CHURCH LAW PLAN

Portuguese Chamber Has to Be Cleared of Rioting Members.

Lisbon, Aug. 3.—Bitter words and finally a free-for-all fist fight that broke up the session followed the failure today of a motion to consider a petition presented to the chamber of deputies for the suppression of the religious orders in Portugal and the abrogation of the existing laws against freedom of conscience. Twice during the morning the chamber had to be cleared of the fighting lawmakers, who overturned and damaged tables, desks and seats, and who continued to fight when they reached the streets.

Senator Culberson Proposes to Try to Put It on the Free List.

Leaders Hope to Get to Early Vote in Spite of Leather Fracas.

* Washington, Aug. 3. — The tariff conference report will be voted on Thursday at 2 p. m. An agreement to this effect was reached today at 12:30 o'clock at the conclusion of a speech by Senator Clapp. The unanimous consent agreement was reached on motion of Senator Bailey. On motion of Senator Aldrich the senate adjourned until 12 o'clock tomorrow.

Washington, Aug. 3.—No sooner had the senate convened today than the members were reminded of yesterday's disturbance over the leather schedule of the tariff bill. The subject was introduced by Senator Culberson, who, referring to the decision of the conference committee to bring in a joint resolution remodeling the leather provision, gave notice that when the time came he would present an amendment putting cotton bagging on the free list.

Without attempting to enter into a discussion of the subject, Mr. Culberson reminded senators that the senate already has taken action on a similar proposition, and he intimated that it would be no stretch of conscience to repeat the former action.

That the decision yesterday with reference to leather had a reassuring effect was made evident by the placid countenances of the Republican leaders when they entered the senate chamber today. Senator Aldrich expressed confidence that the bill would not go through without further difficulty, and even the so-called "range" senators, who have been the most strenuous advocates of a duty on hides, were inclined to join in this expression of confidence.

Hide Men in Line.

While not entirely pleased that leather and leather goods are not to receive any protection, the range senators were not unmindful of the concession that had been made, and for the first time announced an intention

DON JAIME NO REBEL

Pretender to Spanish Throne Refuses to Enter Into Revolution.

Conditions in the Country Are Better---Barcelona No Longer Isolated.

Vienna, Aug. 3.—Don Jaime, the pretender to the Spanish throne, declared in an interview here yesterday that he had no intention of interfering in the present crisis in Spain and that his retirement to Frohsdorf in Lower Austria, far from the Spanish frontier was proof of his peaceful purposes.

"The Carlists party is a party of order," said Don Jaime. "I never will take upon myself to bring an entire people into danger for my own ends. Never will I lead Spaniard against Spaniard. Should I return to Spain at the head of an army it would be only to restore order. This might happen, if the revolutionaries drive out King Alfonso or the welfare of the country require it. The popularity of King Alfonso is declining through no fault of his own, and Queen Victoria is certainly less liked than the king. Spaniards dread foreign influence; Victoria has remained a stranger too long, and the people never will forgive her."

Don Jaime is of the opinion that the war in Morocco was unavoidable, and he fears that it will last a long time.

Madrid Says Peace Reigns.

Madrid, Aug. 3.—Tranquility now reigns throughout Spain, except in certain isolated localities of Catalonia, according to an announcement made early today by the minister of the interior.

A column of troops composed of artillery, cavalry and infantry, is today marching on Sabadell, ten miles from Barcelona, where the insurgents are still holding out, with orders to repress mercilessly any resistance that may be encountered.

The general strike at Madrid and

RAILROAD NEWS

TO ENLARGE TERMINALS

Rumored That Great Northern Will Anticipate Coming of Soo.

That the Great Northern road is viewing with alarm the entrance of the Soo to Duluth, and that the visit of James J. Hill to this city Friday will result in the expenditure of a large sum of money on the terminals at Duluth, is the belief of the railroad men of Duluth, and there is a rumor current today that the Hill road plans improvements to its terminals here that will cost several hundred thousand dollars.

It is stated that Mr. Hill is coming here with the idea of going thoroughly over the local situation.

One rumor that is current in railroad circles of Duluth is that the Great Northern stands ready to spend a big sum for terminal improvements here; that the docks of the Great Northern at the Head of the Lakes will be enlarged and improved; and that steps will be taken to block the plans of the Soo, in regard to the hauling of wheat from territory competing with the territory of the Great Northern.

The construction of the Thief River Falls branch of the Soo is said to be causing some worry to the Great Northern officials, and plans are on foot to get the jump on the Soo by enlarging the local terminals of the Great Northern, and possibly constructing mills here.

Mr. Hill is due to arrive here Friday morning. Just how long he will remain in the city is not known at this time.

ELLIOTT MAKES A SUGGESTION

"And do you mean to say, Mr. Elliott, that you would not ask to cross the tracks of the Northern Pacific road if you were running the Soo?" asked Attorney H. B. Fryberger of the president of the Northern Pacific road during the progress of the case now on in federal court before Judge Page Morris yesterday afternoon.

"Most certainly I would not," quickly answered Mr. Elliott.

"What would you do? You are anxious to cut off as much distance as possible. The tracks of the Northern Pacific lay between you and your destination over the shortest route. Can you suggest any means of getting across without crossing the tracks of the Northern Pacific?"

"I would build an overhead bridge," answered Mr. Elliott. "I would at once realize the danger there would be in crossing a network of tracks like the Northern Pacific has at this point, and I would never even ask that I be granted the right to cross. I believe I would think too much of the safety of my own road."

It is thought that a bridge of this kind could be built and the congestion at this point done away with. The Southern Pacific expended $125,000 in building a similar trestle over the tracks of another road near Los Angeles.

RECORDS FOR FAST FREIGHT

All records for fast freight service have been broken by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul in the operation of its trains to the coast. At the present time trains are being operated on a schedule of 176 hours from Chicago and 144 hours from the Twin Cities.

The service from Chicago is about sixteen hours faster than the previous fast freight service. The fast time of the Milwaukee is made possible by the low grades.

Duluth jobbers and shippers receive the same advantage from the fast through service as do the shippers of the Twin Cities.

FRANCHISE WILL HOLD

Assistant City Attorney Says Soo Must Maintain West Duluth Depot.

In the opinion of Assistant City Attorney Morgan there is no question that Duluth can hold the Soo road to the terms of the Wisconsin Central franchise, granted by the council April 1, and compel the Soo to erect and maintain a passenger station west of Forty-eighth avenue west, as provided for in the franchise in question.

Officials of the latter road have thus far remained non-commital when asked as to their intentions in regard to building or not building a depot in West Duluth. People in that section of the city fear the company will do nothing in this direction, drawing their conclusions from the fact that no start has been made on the building, and the West Duluth Commercial club has taken up the matter, bringing it to the attention of the common council.

The sections of the franchise of the Wisconsin Central, which has been taken over by the Soo, in the purchase of the former road by the latter, read as follows on the point in question:

"Said railway company shall establish and maintain at least one passenger and freight depot within the limits of said city of Duluth east of Eleventh avenue west, one freight depot between Eleventh avenue west and Forty-eighth avenue west."

A second section reads:

"All rights granted and all obligations under the terms of this ordinance shall inure to and be obligatory upon the successors and assigns of all parties acquiring any such rights or assuming any such obligations hereunder."

From the reading of these clauses, it is evident that the Soo can be held to the terms of the franchise granted the Wisconsin Central. The city fathers wisely insisted upon a provision covering this point. While the Soo would probably be willing enough to maintain freight depots in the western portion of the city, it is believed that it would much prefer running its passenger trains over the interstate bridge and directly to the passenger depot at Sixth avenue west and Superior street, thus avoiding West Duluth altogether.

This would make a much shorter haul than going by the roundabout way of West Duluth, and it is assumed that the Soo people figure that passenger traffic from West Duluth would hardly be of sufficient magnitude to warrant sending trains that way, especially so in view of the fact that the business would in all probability have to pass through the uptown station if none were maintained in West Duluth.

Even though this were true, the West Duluthians say they have rights in the matter which should and must be observed, and assert that they intend to fight for these rights. The uptown district apparently feels the same way about it, and evidently will insist upon the Wisconsin Central franchise being carried out, so far as a station at West Duluth is concerned.

McDONNELL GETS BOTH CONTRACTS

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—P. R. McDonnell of Duluth landed two more paving contracts in Grand Forks last night. One is for the completion of the district in which the Duluth man had the original contract, and the amount of the new work is $28,811.50. Creosoted blocks are to be used.

In another section of the city Donelite pavement will be used and the cost of the work is $20,589.

In the figures given out a few days ago by the city engineer's office, McDonnell was shown to be low on only a few kinds of pavement, but after his arrival here yesterday and a consultation with the city engineer, errors were uncovered which made the Duluth man low on every bid for paving except in two instances, asphalt and bitulithic.

For the pleasure of the many picnic parties and others that visit the park during the month of August the management of the pavilions have arranged to have orchestra music every afternoon and evening except Sundays during this month. Those who do not wish to dance on a floor that is too crowded will find Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights very desirable. Piano music only on Saturday evening.

Mr. Voss says that, in his opinion, judging by past experience, there is sufficient cash to attend to all street repair and improvement work necessary. A synopsis of the report follows:

NOT FOR ME, SAYS CLAPP

Minnesota Senator Says He Cannot Vote in Favor of Tariff Report.

Washington, Aug. 3. — Upon the assumption that congress will adjourn late Thursday night or Friday, President Taft is making his plans to leave Washington for Beverly late Friday afternoon, arriving at his summer home early Saturday morning.

Washington, Aug. 3.—Senator Clapp of Minnesota took occasion in the senate today to tell what he thinks of the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill as reported by the joint conference committee. Incidentally it may be remarked that what he thinks of it is little enough.

Announcing that he could not conscientiously vote for the conference report, Mr. Clapp said:

"After we undertook revision of the tariff as a result of a demand by the consumers, a force for the first time began to arise, not for protection, but for profit—to intensify profit.

"The issue now is whether what was once a benign factor in American legislation shall be used merely for the purpose of increasing profits."

After Corporation Tax.

Paying special attention to the corporation tax provision, Mr. Clapp inquired what publicity could be expected as an accompaniment of that tax. He could see none that would be of service in placing the affairs of corporations before the country. He criticised the exemption of holding companies from the payment of the tax, and claimed that their taxation would not involve double taxation, because it would not be paid by the same persons.

Finally, referring to his course in antagonizing the tariff bill, Mr. Clapp declared that the Republicanism of himself and those who agreed with him had been called into question.

"I am willing to submit my Republicanism," he said, "to the only tribunal capable of determining it—to the people of my state who sent me here."

Would Rather Retire.

Saying he could not approve the tariff conference report, he declared that if a choice were given him of approving what had been done by congress in the matter of tariff legislation or being retired to private life, he would readily accept the latter.

As soon as Mr. Clapp had concluded his remarks Mr. Bailey arose and remarked that an understanding had been reached for a vote on the conference report, a statement to which Mr. Aldrich gave a quick assent.

STORM IN RED RIVER VALLEY

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following 92 degs. heat yesterday, an electrical storm covered the entire north Red river valley.

A heavy rain lodged some grain and the wind wrecked the Calman barn, south of the city, and blew down some outbuildings on several farms.

The electric disturbance was severe, crippling telephone and telegraph service. In Crookston several terrific bolts struck. One struck the Palace Hotel block, knocking Charles Manning from the table where he was eating. He was insensible for three hours, but will recover. Cool weather today prevents damage to grain by shrinkage, following the storm.

Action will also be taken about getting the Duluth, Missabe & Northern authorities Sunday train into Eveleth. This matter has been talked of for some time, but nothing definite has been done. Many people are greatly inconvenienced because there is no Sunday afternoon train here from Duluth, though there is one to Hibbing and Virginia.

CALL OF THE WEST IS FOR EMANCIPATION FROM THE DOMINION OF THE TRUST AND POLITICAL MACHINE

splitter and emancipator, typified the native convictions of the Western soul, in which man's independence, freedom and equality before the law are as the very breath of life.

Call for Emancipation.

"The call of the West is the call for patriotism and progress, for emancipation from every form of Old-World and New-World caste and privileges, from the tyranny of wealth and birth, and alike from the dominion of the trust and political machine; and the call of the West, if I read aright the spirit of our land, is today, as in the days of Jefferson, Jackson and Lincoln, the call of the American people.

"The call of the West is the call of the future. The years that are opening are all our own. They are a virgin page and we can inscribe them as we will. The future of our country and the happiness of posterity depend upon us. Generations of men shall come and go, and the glories of this noon vanish before tomorrow's sun, yet the West—the Mecca of the free, the brave, the patriotic American—shall not only endure while the spirit of the pioneer animates their sons, but will bear nobly its part in the struggle for better social and economic conditions, in the mastery of the elements and in the progress of the race. We have reason to hope, in the future as in the past, the West will be true to its traditions, and that to the remotest generation which it shelters and feeds progress as glorious as they were to our fathers and are to you and me.

"Since the dawn of recorded history, the West has been the goal of human hope, the boundless field of human enterprise, the destiny of human empire, and the victorious firing-line of human progress.

The Lures of the West.

"Homes for the homeless, food for the hungry, work for the unemployed, land for the landless, gold for the penniless, freedom for the enslaved, adventures for the restless, dangers for the brave, an unknown world to conquer, and room for all—these have ever been the lures and the rewards which the West has held out to the sons of men from the day of the first Grecian emigrant from Asia to that of the last European immigrant to these Pacific shores.

"The West—what a heritage that word implies! Here is the best blood of New England, the Middle States, and the South. Here are the sons and daughters of the Revolution and of the wars for human freedom. Here have come the sturdy sons of Northern Europe, toilers of the workshop and plow, descendants of the hardy Germanic races who cradled modern democracy in the forests of the North sea and the Danube, or brothers of those who still fight for home rule for Ireland. In short, the God of americanizing has in the Great Melting Pot of the ages the greatest race and the best states and countries of the earth, and wherever He could find souls filled with courage and self-reliance, hearts aflame with freedom and a home, hands eager for hard work, eyes open to opportunity, and shoulders prepared for responsibility. He has directed these hearts and hands to the greatest work of the ages—the upbuilding of the American West.

Great Natural Resources.

"And what natural resources the builders have found ready to their hands! Gold and silver, iron and copper, coal and oil, forest and pasture ranges, valley on valley of the most fertile soil that ever enriched a thrifty settler or brought prosperity to a nation—these are among the resources that, touched by the hand of toil and the genius of American science and capital, have brought forth in the valley of the Mississippi and on the Pacific slope miracles of industrial achievement without parallel in the annals of the human race. What marvelous results, indeed, a generation of Western energy, Western vision, and Western labor and capital applied to Western resources have produced! But the bare facts themselves beggar all attempts at eloquent description.

"The United States is justly proud of the fact, that it has today a foreign commerce aggregating $3,200,000,000, with exports crowding the $2,000,000,000 mark, and a favorable trade balance which during the past ten years has averaged $500,000,000 per annum. But where would be that commerce with its vast export total and favorable trade balance, were it not for the fact that two-thirds of this export total represent the surplus products of the farms, forests, mines and mills of the West? The trade balance of the United States with the rest of the world, which in the past twenty years has aggregated the vast total of $7,000,000,000, is wholly the contribution of the producers of the West. For without the vast surplus tonnage yielded by the industries and resources of the West, the United States would have had only its Eastern factory product to export, and, in place of a trade balance of $500,000,000 a year in our favor, there would have been a great annual deficit to meet with exports of specie and annual depletion of our reserves.

American Shipping.

"Not only in foreign commerce, but in the progress of American shipping, is the West a prime factor in national development.

Fifty years of national folly in the enactment of navigation laws and high protective tariffs have crippled American shipping, until over 90 per cent of our Atlantic commerce is carried in foreign bottoms.

Notwithstanding this half century of maritime shame the United States flag floats today over a merchant marine of about 4,000,000 registered steam tonnage, which carries to the markets of the world nearly 200,000,000 tons of American products. But on what waters float the colors of this merchant marine, and what freight do these American ships carry? One-half of this vessel tonnage is on the Great Lakes; while the Pacific coast, the Great Lakes and the Mississippi combined, boast nearly 75 per cent of the freight which it carries consists of the great staple productions of the West on their way to Eastern and foreign markets—the products of that great army of Western yeomen who demand no fostering hand of government and ask only for that justice and freedom to which they are entitled by natural right under the guaranty of our Constitution and our flag.

"On the rapids of the Sault Ste. Marie river, the connecting channel between Lakes Superior and Michigan, the United States government has installed a meter to measure the industrial and commercial development of our Western empire. That meter is known as the Soo canal, and it measures the vessel and freight tonnage which passes through in the great inland commerce between East and West. This tonnage consists in part of westbound merchandise and coal from Atlantic mills and lower lake ports; but 90 per cent of it consists of eastbound productions of the West—grain, flour, live stock, lumber and iron ore, the great wealth-producing staples of Western labor and capital. What does this meter show? In 1880 the Soo canal registered 1,700,000 tons of freight. In 1890 this tonnage had multiplied by five and reached 8,500,000. Another ten years passed, and in 1900 the tonnage had further swollen over 150 per cent and reached 22,300,000 freight tons; while by 1907 it had doubled again and registered 44,000,000 tons, multiplying approximately twenty-sevenfold in twenty-seven years. Today the Soo canal, which measures the inland commerce between East and West on our Northern border, handles four times the freight tonnage of the Suez canal, which measures the volume of trade between Europe and Asia; and Duluth-Superior, the gateway harbor at the head of the Great Lakes, handles the largest freight tonnage of any port in America, and one of the greatest on the globe.

Marvels of Rapid Transit.

"This is the age of rapid transit, of steel, of steam, and electricity; but nowhere else in the world, except the American West, do you find such marvels of rapid transit development as these: Billings, only yesterday a cowboy camp on a stage-road route, today transplanted into a city that boasts a $1,000,000 beet sugar output, a "thousand-cow" creamery, a 12,000 church membership and the greatest primary wool market in the world; Cripple Creek, transformed in a twinkling from a camp with a few red-shirted miners into a wealthy metropolis and industrial center in which electric lights, electric hoists, electric drills, and electric switches have revolutionized the mining industry; Duluth, a frontier trading post on Superior's bleak north shore, developed into a great financial and jobbing center with the greatest ore docks and mineral tonnage in the world; Butte, a mountain camp changed into a city of millionaires, with a mining industry which spends in a year $3,000,000 for labor; Kansas City, only a few years ago a trading post and cattle-yard, today a city whose bank clearings approximate those of Pittsburg; Galveston, rescued from the waves, and San Francisco, rebuilt from fire and earthquake, to become great shipping ports in the commerce of the gulf and the Pacific in a period so brief, that the stories of their recent disasters already appear fables. It is only the industrial magic of the American West that could produce the Twin Cities with 550,000 people, $170,000,000 of bank resources, a $750,000,000 manufacturing and jobbing business, and the greatest milling center and wheat market in the world, within the memory of a single generation. It is only the Western stride and pace of commercial expansion, that within fifty years after the first railroad reached the Mississippi could bring into St. Louis a trade represented by bank clearings aggregating $3,000,000,000 per annum. It is only the Western vision, courage and unconquerable energy, that in a single century could advance the frontier outposts of the Northwestern empire from Ohio 3,000 miles to Puget Sound, and produce here in what so recently was the most remote fastness of the world's western wilderness the marvels of which this great exposition is the index; create here within one-half the span of a generation cities, like Seattle, Tacoma and Spokane, which in volume of transactions already throw into shadow the New York, Boston and Philadelphia of the early days, and in electric speed and industrial steam of development put the universe of even the twentieth century to shame.

Tribute to Minnesota.

"While we are interested in the marvelous growth and development of the great empire we call the West, because it is a common pride and glory, today we are gathered to pay special tribute to Minnesota—the present or the former homeland of all the people taking part in these exercises. It is fitting that on this occasion and amid these surroundings this audience should hear briefly something of the history and progress of the North Star state—the commonwealth we this day commemorate."

Having related briefly the history of Minnesota and presented figures showing the material progress of the state, the governor said:

"Few states are more prodigally endowed with material resources than is Minnesota. Rich of soil, forest and mine, dotted with myriads of lakes, beautiful rivers whose waters flow in three directions, in commercial and industrial advantages it challenges the admiration of the world. Three of the great cities of the continent are within her borders; she boasts the greatest inland port in America; her flouring mills are the greatest in the world; her railroads, stretching across the trans-Pacific country from St. Paul to Portland, are in large part the evolution of a master Minnesota mind; in educational and religious environment and in the general character of her citizenship, Minnesota yields to none. Judged by the evidences of wealth and power or by the refinements of education and enlightenment, Minnesota is today a peerless commonwealth. We have a government founded in the hearts of men, built by the people for the common good. Our homes are happy, our workshops busy, our farms are full. The mines that honeycomb our hills, the commerce whitening our inland sea, the fields of golden grain, the school, the railway, the telegraph, the printing press, have wielded a prosperity that will not fail, a light that will not turn away."

A SINGLE SET OF CUTICURA CURED HIM

"I feel it my duty to let you know with what success I have used the Cuticura Remedies. When our baby was seven weeks old he broke out with what we thought was heat but which gradually grew worse. We called in a doctor. He said it was eczema and from that time we doctored six months with three of the best doctors in Atchison but he only got worse. His face, head and hands were a solid sore. There was no end to the suffering for him. We had to tie his little hands to keep him from scratching. He never knew what it was to sleep well from the time he took the disease until he was cured. He kept us awake all hours in the night and his health wasn't what you would call good. We tried everything but the right thing. Finally I got a set of the Cuticura Remedies and am pleased to say we did not use all of them until he was cured. We have waited seven months to see if it would return but it never has and today his skin is clear and fair as it possibly could be. I hope Cuticura may save some one else's little one's suffering and also their pocket-books. John Leason, 1403 Atchison St., Atchison, Kan., Nov. 3 and 17, 1908."

COTTON BAGGING MAY PROVE NEXT HITCH IN TARIFF WORK

to vote for the bill. A few of the insurgents were still displeased, but it was evident that most of them would fall into line on the final roundup.

A large number of the members of the house have left the city, and should it be decided to introduce a resolution to remedy the difficulties resulting from the severe cuts in the alleged "joker" in the provision for lower duties on leather and on leather products, an interesting situation will develop in the house. It is said that Chairman Payne and other leaders would expect to get a number of Democratic votes in support of a resolution extending the reduced rate on shoes and harness to a grade of cattle hides, regardless of whether the hides come in free or dutiable under the present law.

Only a few senators were in their seats when the senate was called to order, but Mr. Culberson did not await the appearance of a quorum.

"If," he said, "we may judge from the press reports, the cotton ginning provision of the senate was stricken from the bill at the instance of two or three manufacturers of this country who hold a monopoly of the business."

Objection by Clapp.

Objection was made by Senator Clapp to the provision of the maximum and minimum clause dating from April 30 the six months' notice of an abrogation of commercial treaties conflicting with the duties provided in the tariff bill. Mr. Aldrich replied that such notices had been given foreign governments three months ago. In the case of France, Mr. Clapp suggested that as no notice was required that country would be discriminated against by actually having only three months warning of the changes to be made in the tariff schedules. He thought the date should be changed to correct this inequality in dealing with the various nations, but the Rhode Island senator indicated no sympathy with that view of the matter.

The tariff commission clause of the bill, as changed by the conferees, became a subject of much explanation when Mr. Edwards and Mr. Burton questioned the chairman of the finance committee concerning the paragraph.

Quizzed by Newlands.

Asked whether that provision would empower the president to obtain the cost of production of manufactured articles at home and abroad, Mr. Aldrich replied that in his judgment the provision would not only do that, but was actually broader in its authority than the senate paragraph which it replaced.

"It authorizes the president to employ whomsoever he pleases without limit, and to assign them such duties as he sees fit, within the limitation of the maximum and minimum provisions."

"Will the inquiries of the committee cover the cost of production at home and abroad?" inquired Mr. Newlands.

"Unquestionably they will, and it involves a great many collateral questions," responded Mr. Aldrich.

Mr. Aldrich added that he betrayed no confidence by saying that his views and those of the president were very similar on the provision under discussion. Replying further to questions, Mr. Aldrich said he believed congress would not fail fully to supply the president with appropriations to carry out the authority to ascertain all facts deemed necessary by him concerning the operation of the maximum and minimum rates provision.

Bilboa, announced for yesterday, failed owing to the precautionary measures taken by the authorities.

Gen. Marina, the Spanish military commander in Morocco, is awaiting reinforcements. As soon as the necessary troops arrive the advanced Spanish positions at Mt. Atalayou and Sidiamet will be strengthened, preparatory to an advance upon Zeluan, the Spanish objective.

The Red Cross and other organizations are working ceaselessly to care for the sick and wounded, both at Melilla and at Spanish ports.

The Bank of Spain has contributed $10,000 to the queen's fund.

Situation Is Better.

Paris, Aug. 3.—The internal situation in Spain seems to be improved. Barcelona has emerged from her isolation and the threatened general strike in Madrid seems to have been averted, at least temporarily.

The first train out of Catalonia's capital city since the beginning of the tragic events there, reached the French frontier last night, bringing censored and plainly inexact news of the occurrences and the conditions in the outlying parts of Catalonia. The rest is shrouded in mystery. Several of the smaller cities are reported to be in the hands of the revolutionists and many villages have proclaimed the district a republic.

Troops are being steadily distributed throughout the rebellious districts, and barring new serious outbreaks, the insurrectionists eventually will be forced to capitulate. It is said that the authorities are determined to crush the insurrection before the return from South America of Deputy Alejandro Lerroux, chief of the Republicans at Barcelona, whose period of exile for political reasons was set aside by the chamber of deputies last April.

Spain's censorship tonight is more inexorable than ever. No news has been received from the various points in the north where trades unions had planned a general strike for today and therefore the actual conditions there and elsewhere cannot be stated.

Get Spanish Papers.

Cerbere, France, Aug. 3.—The first train out of Barcelona since the troubles began there arrived here last night, bringing copies of La Publicidad and other papers. After pointing out that their accounts of fighting at Barcelona had been colored, leaving it to be supposed that they are incomplete, the papers give a list of thirty-five churches and convents which were burned between July 23 and 30. After July 26 Governor Gilardo Ave was signed, turning over his power to Capt. Gen. Santiago. In the first fight losses in the army were three men killed and twenty-seven wounded, while seventy-five civilians were burned and 127 wounded were placed in hospitals. The papers say that the number of civilians injured who are in private houses is not known.

Ferrar Among the Dead.

London, Aug. 3.—The correspondent of the Daily Telegraph in Madrid, in a dispatch sent by way of Biarritz, asserts that many foreigners, especially Frenchmen and Italians are among the dead, wounded and prisoners in Barcelona. The correspondent adds that it is reported that among those killed in the fighting was Senor Ferrar, former director of the modern school of Barcelona, who was regarded as the instigator of the bomb outrage upon King Alfonso and Queen Victoria in the Calle Mayor on the royal wedding trip. Ferrar was arrested for complicity in the outrage, but was acquitted.

extremely important witness, since Dr. Baker was a state officer, and, therefore, supposedly free from bias.

Asks Straight Questions.

"What is your position?" asked Justice Mills. "Is it that you have reached from your study of this case and observation of conversation a full and firm conviction that he is insane, or is it that you have not had sufficient opportunity to study that problem and reach such a conclusion, one way or the other?"

"We have had a limited examination, from which we consider the man insane," said Dr. Baker.

"Do you consider that limited examination sufficient to reach a full, firm, conclusion as to his condition?"

"No, sir."

"You had him under observation eleven months. I don't understand why that was not sufficient."

"He hasn't answered our questions."

"Didn't your notes of the last three months cover this subject?"

"They covered it in a way, but he would speak in metaphors, and when pressed would fall back upon 'advice of counsel.'"

Recalls Murder Case.

Justice Mills recalled the Jennie Burch murder, in which he had directed the defendant's acquittal on the ground of insanity. After two months in the asylum he was discharged cured and free.

"Do you notice any change in Mr. Thaw either way?" he inquired.

"No, sir, he is no worse, no better."

"Suppose you had this man Thaw with no previous history of the case, what would have been your position?"

"This man showed certain evidences of mental feebleness. I should have had strong suspicions of him. Confined to the data at hand, my position is that the man is insane."

"That's enough," said Justice Mills. "And when you say he is insane, you mean his being at large would be a public menace?"

"Yes, sir."

This followed Dr. Baker's examination, and then Mr. Jerome recalled Thaw.

Thaw on the Stand.

Jerome put in evidence two letters written by Thaw, one concerning Evelyn Nesbit, and couched in such romantic language that the writer himself concluded "I did not start to write poetry."

Jerome questioned the witness again regarding his famous "green pencil" letter, in which Thaw compared himself to a white pencil that wrote green when a green light fell on the pencil, White's influence being the green light. Thaw said that he thought the figure one that any one could use. The district attorney asked Thaw:

"Have you such faith in your mental soundness that you would be willing to submit to an examination by the state's alienists?"

Mr. Morschauser objected and Justice Mills interrupted again to say that Jerome's experts had plenty of opportunity to study Thaw during the latter's long examination on the stand.

Thaw was excused and a recess was taken.

This was "Alienist day" at the Thaw sanity hearing. Dr. Amos T. Baker, first assistant physician at Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane, was recalled. The other experts retained by the state, Dr. Austin Flint and Dr. Carlos B. MacDonald, who have sat all through the hearing, were reinforced by Dr. William Hirsch, who testified for the prosecution at the murder trial.

Thaw had the trio of experts who have declared that he is now sane, and who have been at the elbow of his counsel, Charles Morschauser, since the hearing began. They are Dr. Britton D. Evans, Dr. Isham G. Harris and Dr. William J. Meyer.

Thaw walked to the courtroom from the jail just around the corner, attended by his mother and his sister, the former countess of Yarmouth. Although the warden kept him in sight, there was nothing that would indicate to the casual observer that the trio was other than an ordinary family party out for a morning stroll.

Has Much Liberty.

Outside the jail Thaw is allowed all possible liberty. Inside the courtroom he moves about as he pleases. The prisoner spent several hours last night reviewing the day's developments with his attorney at the jail.

This morning Thaw brought into court a bundle of twenty or more letters that came in the morning mail and glanced through while waiting for the session to begin. He seemed particularly interested in one that was written in bright red rink. This morning he shook hands with Henry C. Harney of New York city, when Mr. Harney stepped up to tell him that he was one of the jurors at the first trial who voted for acquittal.

"You'll win," Mr. Harney told him, and Thaw smiled and looked pleased.

Although the impression left by Dr. Baker's testimony yesterday was that he had asserted that Thaw showed no signs of paranoia during his first three months at Matteawan, under Mr. Morschauser's cross-examination today he declared that he could not remember ever having made any such statement. He admitted that he might have said it.

Bedtime Was 8 O'clock.

The story of Thaw's life at the asylum continued. The witness said that the patient was allowed to stay up until 9 p. m., until his first sanity hearing at Poughkeepsie. After his return he was forced to go to his room and put out the lights an hour earlier. He rose about 6 a. m.

Mr. Morschauser went after the witness, aided by a memorandum prepared with the assistance of his client last night.

"Did you ever tell Mr. Thaw," he asked, "that there was nothing the matter with his brain?"

"No, sir."

"Did you ever say to him that you did not believe in souls?"

"I cannot remember."

Dr. Baker said that in his testimony yesterday he did not repeat by any means all his conversation with the patient. He said Thaw had been sent to bed an hour earlier because he had persistently violated the rules against smoking in the visitors' room.

Mr. Morschauser tried to show that the witness had testified to this statement.

"Showed Bad Judgment."

The witness admitted having said at the Poughkeepsie sanity hearing that in Thaw's case the diagnosis of maniac depressive insanity had never been established. On that occasion, also, he was asked whether he would certify Thaw as insane from his personal observation, aside from the Stanford White episode. His first reply, which he repeated today, was that on several occasions Thaw had shown "bad judgment." Then he admitted that under such circumstances he might hesitate about committing the prisoner to an asylum.

Dr. Baker's testimony yesterday was read by himself from his case book and described Thaw's conduct, both personal and on many occasions from Feb. 1, 1908, the date of his commitment, until July 25 of the present year.

While some of these notes described the patient's acts as "silly," and while the witness said that in his belief Thaw was irrational now, Thaw's attorney made him admit that during the first three months of the patient's stay at Matteawan he showed no signs of paranoia. After that Thaw, by his counsel's advice, refused to let himself be examined or to answer questions asked by the hospital physicians.

First Day in Asylum.

When Thaw reached Matteawan on the day the jury acquitted him of the murder of Stanford White, on the ground of insanity, almost his first statements, according to Dr. Baker, were "expressions of amusement over the clever work of his lawyers and alienists." He said frankly, according to Dr. Baker, that his acquittal was obtained by exaggerating certain incidents, and putting in testimony Jerome was unable to refute because he had not the facts.

The witness described Thaw's manner at most times as "silly" and "pompous." He said he quarreled with the other patients who played cards with him, calling them "stupid donkeys." From his note book he told of various incidents, including Thaw's refusal to accept mail addressed to him; his refusal to see his wife until told that Mr. Morschauser had sent her, and his "insolent and domineering actions toward the physicians and attendants."

Last fall the prison authorities searched Thaw's pockets when he was asleep and the next day he offered $500 reward for the detection of any one tampering with his clothes. The fruits of this search appeared in court yesterday when Dr. Baker handed in as evidence about thirty newspaper clippings. They were not read, but Mr. Jerome explained that all were on sexual topics.

Pocket Full of Clippings.

Mr. Morschauser weakened the force of this exhibit by making the witness testify that in all he had found nearly 200 clippings in Thaw's pockets and that they were on various subjects. He said he had brought the thirty to court because he thought they all had bearing on the case. Justice Mills told him to fetch the others later.

When court adjourned yesterday Mr. Morschauser was trying to make Dr. Baker admit that a musicale at the hospital not long ago was arranged for the purpose of letting Thaw make a fool of himself. Thaw refused to attend the affair.

MEN ODRER STRIKE VOTE

street laborers which has been considered a minor affair by the authorities for some days, has become widespread, and gangs of the men are parading the streets to demonstrate to other city and street railway employes the benefits of joining the demand for more wages. Steps, it is said, have been taken to form an organization among the 15,000 Italian workmen of Allegheny county, and police authorities have learned of an effort to organize the foreigners into mobs and fraternal cliques.

Many arrests have been made as a result of the dissatisfaction of the men, and more trouble is expected.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The spirit of summer unrest has taken hold of the women of the land. It is not as so many of those who break into print would have one believe, a spirit of desire to buy clothes and spend money and live a useless, actionless, effortless existence. Not at all. Such women are in the large minority. The summer unrest that seethes and agitates and disturbs and makes uneasy the American woman is preserving and pickling and jellying and so on. She, unlike the rest of her family, never dreams of resting in sweet content, browsing on the fruits and vegetables offered and trusting hopefully to heaven and nature to get something to eat in the winter time, not she. She spends the hot days over a hotter stove, she preserves with care the rinds from the cooling watermelon and then combines them with numerous spices and disguises and calls them pickles; she strains brightly colored juice through many processes and with tears in her eyes announces that it won't jell; she lifts her hand in horror at the extravagance of the neighbors who always uses a pound for pound when she has reduced preserving to such a science that she uses only half the quantity of sugar; she looses her temper, she frazzles her nerves all in the interest of next winter's eating.

With a flushed face and a disposition ruined, she stands before a measly little row of red sweets and feels that her day's work is well done. From now on the spicy smell of pickling and the tired nerves of preserving will be abroad through the house.

AUGUST SALES.

Should Be Approached With Much Care.

With August sales looming up with alluring bargains, where is the woman who won't go shopping, and where is the one who will shop with reason or system? says an exchange.

Shopping for a family may be a burden or a delight, as the shopper having mastered the art demonstrates.

To know what one wants, then to have no knowledge of where to look for aid is the point in favor of the burden.

Now, as this duty usually falls to the mother of a family, it would be well for her to accept it as one of her duties and learn to do it just as well as it is possible for it to be done—above all, to do it cheerfully.

The commuter's wife will find it a big help to have a tablet in the kitchen where all the needs may be jotted down as they occur.

Another tablet in her own room will tell all of the upstairs needs, and when she starts for town she will have all the data at her finger ends, and will therefore know just how to arrange her days shopping to the best advantage.

After the needs are supplied if there is any money left over she will know then just how many luxuries she may add as pleasant surprises to the loved ones at home.

Unless she manages in this way the needs confided to her care will pile up so that she never can keep even, and she will be reminded again and again of her shortcomings by the insistent members of the family.

One woman allows her children to make lists of their own needs and hand them in to her, and then she uses her own discretion as to which are the ones to fill, then they do not say "I want this, or, I want that" all the time, until she is worn out with the refrain.

Cured Hay Fever and Summer Cold.

"A. S. Nusbaum, Batesville, Ind., writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case, and I took several medicines which seemed only to aggravate it. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar. It quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success." For sale by all druggists.

HIKED TWENTY-FIVE MILES

Tired and hungry, four West end boys, who have been camping during the past week at Burnett, Minn., arrived in Duluth last evening about 8 o'clock after a cross-country hike of over twenty-five miles. Each had carried a pack on his back all of the way.

The hikers were members of a camping party comprising a number of boys of the Grace M. E. church of the West end, and had finished an enjoyable week of fishing, boating and outing at a lake between Culver and Burnett, Minn.

When camp broke up on Sunday last, four of the boys took a notion that they would walk back to Duluth. Unable to persuade any more of the party to join them, they set alone about 8 o'clock in the morning. They stopped but very few times on their way to the city.

The boys were Carl Merritt, Axel Neuberg, Vincent Stockland and Percy Stevens.

RETURNS FROM BUYING TRIP

Fred Bayha Says Business Conditions in East Are Improving.

Fred Bayha of Bayha & Co. returned yesterday from a several weeks' visit in the Eastern furniture markets, where he has been buying for the big store's fall and winter trade. He was accompanied home by Mrs. Bayha, who has been visiting in the East since June.

Mr. Bayha says that there seems to be a more constructive feeling among the buyers from the Middle West as compared with the buyers from the Southwest, but, nevertheless, he has gone ahead and bought the usual heavy stock of goods that the Bayha store carries for the fall and winter trade.

According to Mr. Bayha the furniture manufactories have been running close up to their orders in the past year, and there are no surplus stocks in the manufacturers' hands.

Speaking of the Eastern business situation, Mr. Bayha says there is a marked improvement as compared with his visit there a year and a half ago. Where, on that occasion, there were about 20 per cent of the furnaces idle in the coke and iron regions, about 90 per cent are now working. Mr. Bayha also noticed that on one of the lines over which he traveled in the East, the Pennsylvania system, that there is a much smaller percentage of cars lying idle on the sidetracks as compared with a year ago.

While the lower tariff likely to be established on crockery may have a tendency to effect American manufacture for a time, Mr. Bayha believes that it will be some time before the tariff is effective and the retailers will have the opportunity to move their stocks.

Attorney for Telephone Company Says City Cannot Remove Poles.

Arguments Made in Injunction Proceedings Against the City.

Basing his claim for an injunction to prevent the city of Duluth from removing the poles and wires from Second alley between Fourth avenue west and Lake avenue almost entirely on technicalities, Attorney Bert Fesler, for the Zenith Telephone company, submitted his arguments to Judge Dibell this morning in the injunction proceedings brought by the company against the city. His arguments were answered by Assistant City Attorney E. M. Morgan, and Judge Dibell took the matter under advisement. In the meantime, the temporary restraining order, issued at the time of the filing of the proceedings, will remain in force.

Mr. Fesler contended that there was no provision in the charter giving the council a right to pass an ordinance providing for the summary removal of poles and wires by the city. The proper procedure, he said, after notice had been given and not complied with, would be for the city to go into court and secure a mandatory injunction which would compel the company to remove them. The charter, he said, does not contemplate the summary removal of poles and wires. He said the charter gives the city the right to prevent the erection of poles and the right to order wires underground, but does not give any right to cut down poles and remove wires summarily without court proceedings.

He contended also that part of the ordinance providing for the removal of poles and wires is void, because it is not expressed in the title of the ordinance. He said the title to the ordinance is "An ordinance requiring the placing of wires underground in certain prescribed districts," while in the body of the ordinance the provisions for the removal of poles and wires are made. He cited cases to support his contention that the title to all legislative enactments should include all vital provisions of the enactment and the failure to indicate such provisions in the title invalidates them.

In answer, Mr. Morgan contended that the city had a right to order the removal of poles and wires and to summarily remove them in case the orders are not complied with. He said as soon as the council, in the exercise of its police powers, decreed that anything in the city's streets is a menace to public safety or is undesirable for any other reason, that thing becomes a nuisance and the city has a right to summarily remove it under the section of the charter giving the city the right to summarily abate nuisances.

In regard to the title he contended that the title of an act or ordinance did not have to express every provision, as long as the provisions in question are closely related to the principal subject matter of the enactment. He said the title of an ordinance requiring the placing of wires underground naturally implied provisions for the removal of the poles and wires above ground.

He contended that the city had a right to include Second alley in the "underground wire" district and did so in the exercise of its police powers. He said there are buildings enough in the district to allow the establishing of distributing stations on the part of the Zenith company and he also said in answer to Mr. Fesler and the allegations of the complaint that the Duluth-Edison Electric company and the Duluth Telephone company had received notice similar to that received by the Zenith company and had agreed to place the wires underground.

In support of the city's position, affidavits of Mayor R. D. Haven, City Attorney C. S. Wilson, W. E. Holley, assistant city engineer, G. A. French, superintendent of the Duluth Telephone company, and R. Burchinson, clerk of the board of public works, Mayor Haven explained the necessity for the placing of the wires underground and says that he had served notice on the Duluth Edison Electric company to remove their poles and wires from the alley. Mr. Wilson denied that any employees of the Duluth Telephone company had been arrested on account of putting wires underground, but three men had been arrested for doing aerial work stringing wires. Mr. Holley said the estimate of the paving of Second alley is $8,029.25 and as the alley is but twenty feet wide, the poles and wires should be removed. Mr. French said that his company owns no poles in the alley, its wires being strung on poles of the Duluth-Edison Electric company. He said the telephone wires would be removed as soon as possible.

The injunction proceedings were precipitated by an order from Mayor Haven to the Zenith Telephone company, giving the company ten days in which to remove the wires. The notice said that if the wires were not removed in that time the poles would be cut down by city employes.

The telephone company said in its complaint that while engaged in the placing of wires underground, its foreman had been arrested and the work stopped by a representative of the city. The company also contends that Second alley is not in the principal business district of the city; is not sufficiently built up with permanent buildings to allow the establishing of distributing stations on the buildings, and should not be in the underground wire district at present.

The alley was included in the underground wire district last February, when arrangements for paving it with sandstone blocks were made. Finally, the pavement was postponed for a year to allow the removal of the poles and wires and now, the city claims, the Zenith Telephone company refuses to removes the wires during the present year.

Judge Dibell will probably render a decision in the case in a few days.

LOCAL SHRINERS RECEIVE TROPHY

The Patrol of Aad Temple, the local branch of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, has just received a handsome trophy for excellence in the drills during the meeting of the imperial council at Louisville, in June, from Kosair Temple, Louisville.

The trophy is a beautiful silver loving cup, upon which is inscribed "Kosair Temple to Aad Temple Patrol," and the date of the imperial council conclave.

Aad Temple sent a patrol of about thirty-five to the encampment, under Lieut.-Col. Resche. In the drills and reviews June 8 and 9, at Louisville, the appearance of the Duluthians elicited much favorable comment.

Local Shriners are proud of the Louisville trophy. It is on exhibition in Bagley's company's show window.

LAWS TO BE ENFORCED

Passengers Will Be Kept From Hurricane Deck and Wheelhouse.

The law passed some time ago relative to the keeping of passengers from the higher decks of boats is about to be enforced by every company on the lakes.

The law was passed lightly over for a time and passengers given the freedom of the entire boat. The companies are now about to put a stop to this, and some of them are going so far as to rule that the captain must not talk with the passengers at any time except at the table.

So many accidents have happened of late that this action is necessary, they say. While talking, the captain may overlook, forget, or postpone a duty that might affect the ship in some way, and the rules are made with the idea of keeping the captain's mind on his boat.

Said a captain this morning: "It is going to be a great thing. Passengers can ask more foolish questions than it is possible for any three persons to answer, and they are bound to seek out the captain for the purpose of asking. Of course the mate, steward, purser or the other employees could not answer their question as well.

"The law forbids passengers in the wheelhouse. That is apparently the only place they care to be. They will all get in the wheelhouee if possible and then they want to know about all the fixings, if it is hard to steer and thousands of other foolish things. The man at the wheel must be polite, but he cannot attend to his work and amuse the passengers at the same time."

It is for this reason that hereafter the rules will be enforced to the letter. The men on duty running the ship will not be allowed to converse with the passengers and the latter will be kept from the hurricane deck altogether.

HE PAID FOR BEING FIRED

Cost N. P. Switchman $2.50 to Learn He Couldn't Work.

Being charged $2.50 for a physical examination which proved him unfit for the service of the Northern Pacific road and caused his discharge from the employ of the road, has aroused the ire of M. M. Williams, a local railroad man.

Mr. Williams expressed his displeasure at the conduct of the railroad under its new ruling, in no uncertain terms, to a reporter for The Herald, and averred that his feelings in the matter are shared by half a dozen other men who were released by the road and charged for the examination which cost them their jobs.

"I don't think it is right," exploded Mr. Williams.

"I was allowed to work two days as switchman for the Northern Pacific," he continued, "pending action upon my examination and at the end of that time they told me I had failed to pass and I was let out, $2.50 being deducted from my two day's wages to pay the cost of the examination.

"I would not mind being charged for examination if I was allowed to hold my job, but I call it pretty low-down of a road to charge a man $2.50 to get fired.

"Under this new physical examination ruling, every man must pass a test as rigid as that the United States army. If there is the slightest defect, the man is turned down and he has to get out.

"I was only one of half a dozen who were turned down this week and lost their jobs in the Rice's Point yards. But the nerve of the road to charge a man when he fails to pass and has no job, is what gets me!

"If a man works only one day, he is charged the $2.50 just the same. You see, when you apply for a job, they ask you to take the examination. They send you to a West end doctor. There you strip and undergo a thorough examination.

"While the doctor is making out your examination papers and the road officials are looking them over, they allow you to work temporarily. Then, if you failed to pass the examination, they let you go, after deducting the $2.50, and if the doctor finds you sound in wind and limb, you can keep on working, minus your $2.50.

"I worked Saturday and Sunday, and then they told me I wasn't up to the standard and let me go. When I got my pay, they had taken out the examination charges. Two dollars, they said, went to the doctor and 50 cents to the road's hospital and benefit association.

"The doctor found me in perfect physical condition, with the exception that I had an incision in my side, the result of an operation for appendicitis, which had not entirely healed yet. But I had to go just the same, and I had to pay the $2.50 to learn that I was unqualified to work for the Northern Pacific.

"The result of this new order, as I see it, will be the release of a lot of experienced yardmen and trainmen and the hiring of a lot of inexperienced men, simply because they pass the examination in every particular. I have worked as switchman for the Northern Pacific for six years, off and on, and have had years of experience at railroading, but that makes no difference. I have a cut in my side and that knocks me out.

"Let them have their new rule, but I think it is pretty mean to take nearly all the money you receive for a few days' temporary employment in exchange for the knowledge that you can't work for them any longer."

HELD FOR ROBBING CARS.

Cloquet, Minn., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charged with grand larceny in the second degree, John Castren, John Danielson and Joe Laundry were given a hearing yesterday before Municipal Judge Skemp. Not being able to pay a $300 bond imposed, the three were taken to the county jail at Carlton, to await the term of the grand jury.

On Friday evening a number of cars containing merchandise had been left on the track awaiting switching, and when the switching crew came they found that one of the cars had been opened. An investigation in the immediate vicinity resulted in the finding of two sacks of flour hidden between two lath piles. An officer was sent for and guard kept until the three above mentioned came with a team to carry off their booty. The arrest followed without trouble and a hearing given yesterday, but the evidence was not sufficient to show that the thieves had broken the car seal, which would make the case of a more serious nature.

NORRIS ISSUES BULLETIN REGARDING PAPER TARIFF

New York, Aug. 3.—John Norris, chairman of the committee on paper of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, has issued a bulletin relating to the tariff on pulp and paper, in which he says:

"In the proposed tariff bill publishers have secured the abolition of the duty of $1.67 per ton on ground wood. They obtained a reduction from $6 per ton to $3.75 per ton on print paper—a saving of about $1,700,000 per annum in the cost of news print paper to consumers.

"The publishers had asked for free print paper. The select committee of the house had recommended $2 per ton. The senate raised the rate to $4 per ton, and the conferees had agreed on a compromise rate of $3 per ton, when President Taft announced to congressional callers on or about Saturday, July 24, that a $4 rate was necessary for the application of the protection to print paper. The president made this announcement without that full and impartial ascertainment of cost to which the consumers were entitled, and in disregard of numerous and voluntary assurances that he had given in favor of the lower rate.

Compromise in Conference.

"In accordance with that intimation from the president, the conferees reported $3.75 per ton, which probably will be adopted. If the publishers had not inaugurated their campaign for a reduction of duty, it is likely that the paper makers would have secured an increase from $6 per ton to $8 or $10 per ton on print paper, upon their representations that American wood had increased in cost to the extent of $6 per ton of paper-producing wood.

"According to the new schedules, each province of Canada is regarded as a unit, so that Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, which have no restrictions of any kind upon exportation of pulp or paper, can immediately avail themselves of the new tariff rate. Quebec has a stumpage tax of 25 cents per cord of wood cut from crown lands for exportation, from which the province obtains a revenue of $25,000 per annum. There is no stumpage tax in Quebec on wood cut from other lands. Ontario prohibits absolutely the exportation of wood cut from crown lands. New Foundland also prohibits the exportation of wood.

Foresees Trade War.

"American paper makers hold leases on 12,000 square miles of crown lands in the province of Quebec, for which they pay an annual rental and in addition a fixed price of 65 cents for every cord cut. These leases expire in 1910, and it is given out that within three weeks from the date of the signing of the tariff bill the terms of the new Quebec leases will be promulgated. It is barely possible that Quebec may regard the new legislation as the best obtainable and abolish its stumpage tax. If it should prohibit the exportation of wood pulp cut from crown lands, the American owners of timber rights are prepared to set up a complaint of confiscation. A serious tangle is threatened, with possibilities of a pulp wood shortage and a trade war between Canada and the United States, which have business interchanges to the extent of $250,000,000 per annum."

Cholera Infantum Cured.

"Something like two years ago my baby, which was then about a year old, was taken seriously ill with cholera infantum, vomiting and purging profusely, writes J. F. Dempsey of Dempsey, Ala. I did what I could to relieve her but did her no good, and being very much alarmed about her went for a physician, but failed to find one, so came back by Elder Bros. & Carter's store and Mr. Elder recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea remedy. I procured a bottle of it, went home as quickly as possible and gave the baby a dose of the remedy. It relieved her in fifteen minutes and soon cured her entirely." For sale by all druggists.

SLIPPERY!

Some more Western senators have discovered that in dealing with those eminent statesmen and tariff revisionists, Messrs. Aldrich, Cannon, Payne and Taft, one needs be as circumspect and alert as if he were engaged in financial transactions with a bevy of racetrack touts and bunco-steerers. They thought that in conceding free hides they had gained compensating concessions in the duty on shoes. Now they find that the reductions go only to shoes made of leather from hides that are admitted free—that is, to cowhide boots and shoes only. They call it a "joker," and that describes it. The president says it isn't a joker, that he knew about it all the time, and that it is all right—that farmers wear cowhide shoes anyway, and the "concession" was for their benefit. The Western senators deny that farmers always wear cowhide, and they are inclined to raise a rumpus about it. More power to them!

REVISION WITHOUT RELIEF.

Figures make but dry reading, but to get at just what congress has done to the country through the tariff bill that it is making into law some analysis of figures is necessary. Later, the householder will find enlightenment by an analysis of the figures relating to household expenses.

Senator La Follette has analyzed the Aldrich tariff bill on the basis of imports for 1907, showing just what changes were made, and whether they are upward or downward. His figures cover the bill as it passed the senate, but the changes made in conference will alter the percentages very little, and in most of the schedules not at all.

Schedule A includes chemicals, oils and paints, and the 1907 imports amounted to $41,000,000. As to $32,000,000, or more than three-fourths, the senate bill reenacts the Dingley rates without change. On nearly $6,000,000 the duties are increased about 61 per cent. On less than $3,500,000 of imports the rates are reduced about 51 per cent. The net result is an average increase in the schedule of 7.51 per cent above the Dingley rates. The conference committee made oil free, and as this covers imports amounting to only about $170,000 in value in 1907 it cannot affect the percentage materially. The oil by-products are still dutiable.

In Schedule B, earths, earthenware, glass, glassware, etc., with 1907 imports of $31,000,000, the Dingley law is re-enacted as to $28,000,000, there are increases of 30 per cent on $1,500,000, and a decrease of 28 per cent on $2,000,000. The total average decrease is less than one-half of 1 per cent. The conference committee made no improvement here.

Schedule C includes the metal schedules with imports of $65,000,000. Great claims are made for the reductions in this division, but $24,000,000 are subject to the old Dingley duties, on $13,000,000 there is an increase of 35 per cent, while on $28,000,000 there is a reduction of 26 per cent. The net result is a reduction of 2 per cent, so small that it cannot reach the consumer. The conference committee raised structural steel, a large item in these imports.

Schedule D includes wood and manufactures of wood, with imports of less than $25,000,000, on which there are reductions affecting about two-thirds of the schedules. The reductions average less than 10 per cent, and form no menace to the lumber trust. With American forests rapidly disappearing and the country in the grasp of a lumber trust, this division should have been made entirely free.

Schedule E includes sugar, molasses, etc., with imports of $21,656,000. The Dingley rates are re-enacted as to $21,540,000 of the imports. On imports of $116,000 of refined sugar there is a cut of one-twentieth of 1 cent, which will never reach the consumer, and if it did would amount to about 4 cents per capita per year. Schedule F, tobacco, is unchanged. Schedule G includes agricultural products and provisions, with imports of $63,000,000. On $51,000,000 the Dingley rates are reenacted; on $10,000,000 they are increased 47 per cent; and on the remaining $1,000,000 there is a reduction of 30 per cent. The net result is an increase of 8 per cent.

Schedule H, wines, spirits and other beverages, is increased 25 per cent, which is proper enough.

Schedule I, cotton goods, is increased 22 per cent on one-third of the items, and on all the rest the Dingley rates remain. The increase on the whole is 6 per cent, and there should have been a great decrease. There is, besides this, a new duty on mercerization which will cost the American people and bring the New England cotton manufacturers $25,000,000 a year.

On flax, hemp, jute, etc., in Schedule J, the Dingley rates are re-enacted as to 76 per cent, and the increases on the rest overbalance the decreases. On wool, Schedule K, the Dingley law is re-enacted with suspicious changes of classification and taxing methods, and the wool trust has already made increases that will make the people's wool clothing cost 25 per cent more. Silks are advanced 16 per cent. Pulp and paper, after the fight made for free paper, shows a reduction of about 2 per cent in the whole division. The last schedules, N, including "sundries," shows an increase of 11.15 per cent.

Out of $696,000,000 of imports, $450,000,000 are still subject to the Dingley duties. The increases apply to 21.5 per cent of the imports, and the decreases to less than 14 per cent.

This is no revision downward; it is revision upward. The conference bill is not noticeably better than the senate bill, except as to hides and leather; it still makes it a revision upward. It does not increase the tariff revenue, but it increases the tariff graft revenue enjoyed by the trusts. It does not increase the foreign competition needed to keep domestic prices honest; it lessens the foreign competition and gives opportunities for further exploitation.

THE COST OF LIVING.

It doesn't need statistics to tell the average householder that the cost of living has advanced greatly in the last dozen years. Everybody is painfully aware of it, especially those with more or less fixed and not too lavish incomes, who find the struggle to make both ends meet becoming harder year by year.

That is why there has come from the masses of the people in recent years a cry for relief that carries many a painful groan with it. They are over-burdened, underpaid, and the few wax richer while the many find existence a more costly and more desperate struggle every year. They wanted the tariff revised so that they could cease paying so great a proportion of their incomes to fatten the profits of the specially privileged few; and they are answered by a tariff bill that promises no relief whatever, and in many important things threatens even greater burdens.

Reason for the groans of the consumers may be found in figures which Bradstreet's has just compiled. They show that between July 1, 1896, and July 1, 1909, breadstuffs and livestock have more than doubled in price; that provisions, fruits, hides and leather have increased over 50 per cent and textiles 60 per cent. Taking separate items that figure in the cost of the average man's table, flour on July 1 of this year was 100 per cent more than it was on July 1 of 1896; beef was 80 per cent more, pork about 150 per cent, mutton 125 per cent, hams 33 1-3 per cent, bacon over 170 per cent, lard over 180 per cent, butter 70 per cent, potatoes over 130 per cent. Even in the last year, during a period of semi-depression following a panic, prices have increased steadily. Flour has risen 60 per cent, pork over 20 per cent, mutton about the same, hams almost 10 per cent, butter 18 per cent, and coffee over 25 per cent.

Not all these are directly due to the tariff; but all of them are due directly or indirectly to the scale of high prices that the tariff creates.

The income of the average working man, whether he labors with his hands or his brain, has not increased in anything like the proportion that the cost of living has increased. The people are at the mercy of the specially privileged owners of the trusts and of tariff-protected industries. Competition from abroad is forbidden by the tariff, and competition at home is throttled by the trust. The situation grows worse instead of better, and the relief that was hoped for from tariff revision is turned into mockery by the schedules that congress is providing.

No wonder the people complain and are restless and discontented. No wonder they grow skeptical of the good faith of those in authority, who seem more inclined to foster these evil conditions than to remedy them. It seems to have resolved itself into a question of how much the people will stand before they revolt against the rule which keeps piling on the burdens and keeps refusing to extend relief.

A MEDICAL HOMER NODS.

Sir William Bull, one of the world's greatest physicians, has been writing to the British newspapers to express a new theory of the origin of appendicitis, and incidentally to warn the public against exposing themselves to the peril now that it knows wherein the peril lies.

Dr. Bull says that appendicitis comes from "our habit of sharpening the carving knife. The head of every family invariably sharpens his carving knife as he stands before the joint. This means a shower of microscopic steel shavings on the meat."

Standing—or sitting—before the bountiful joint for which the family is waiting with good appetite, father sharpens the carving knife by briskly rubbing it upon the steel. Minute steel shavings fly in every direction, a lot of them lodging in the meat. The family eats them along with its wholesome meal, and presently appendicitis develops, due to these tiny steel shavings lodging in the appendix.

Sounds reasonable, too, at least until one analyzes it a bit.

But when one gets down to history, the theory begins to limp quite a bit. For one thing, unless we have misread the tendencies of the times, carving isn't done at table so much as it used to be, and appendicitis is a great deal more common than it used to be. In the days when carving was one of father's most sacred tasks and privileges, appendicitis wasn't even known. Of course, people had it, no doubt, only they didn't know it, and called it inflammation or congestion or stomach-ache or something. Certainly they didn't have it nearly so much as people do now; yet nearly everybody must have been eating steel filings with his meat, because nearly all the carving was done at the table.

It was a good deal of a chore, however, and lots of fathers have revolted. Few men were good carvers, anyway, and if a man were a bit self-conscious or awkward, it became a tragedy. It never was pleasant, when engaged in carving a bird or a joint, to have the dripping mass of toothsome but greasy food slip out from under the knife and land in the lap of a guest. It wasn't pleasant for the guest, even though he politely but painfully made forced merriment over it, and it wasn't pleasant for father.

So nowadays, to a very large extent, the carving is being done in the kitchen, where it can be done without an audience, where it can be done with more regard to the efficiency of the operation than to its grace, and where remarks that seem to be called for by a tough piece of meat can be made without harrowing the ears of the guests or the children.

Nevertheless, appendicitis is still with us. Indeed, lots of people have appendicitis nowadays who seldom sit at a table on which the carving is done. They eat at hotels and cafes, where the carving is done either in the kitchen or by the waiter at a side table, and they never eat steel filings from the carving knife at all—unless the kitchen operator is careless with them. Yet such people have appendicitis, and because many of them eat rich foods and take little exercise, they seem to have more of it than people who live at home.

Maybe filings from the carving knife cause appendicitis, but the theory doesn't seem to square very well with history.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective however.)

TWO DIVERGENT VIEWS.

(The following two communications were received this morning, commenting on The Herald's criticism of the performance of "Salvation Nell" given at the Lyceum. They express such widely divergent opinions that they are both published, although one was unsigned, and the other was signed with initials only.—The Editor.)

To the Editor of The Herald:

The criticism of "Salvation Nell" published in The Herald last evening, struck me as just about right, only it did not go far enough. It was too tame. Such plays as "Salvation Nell" are a disgrace to our stage. They are nothing but disgusting attempts to appeal to the vulgar curiosity of those people who have no opportunity to see the under side of life and want to see it when covered with a cloak of respectability. I am not a prude, and do not object to seeing the sex question treated in a drama, if it is well treated, and if there is some object in doing it. If there is some moral pointed, or some lesson taught, or some solution offered to a problem, it is different, and one can stomach such things. But "Salvation Nell" was nothing but a vulgar picture of a phase of life that everybody knows exists. If we want to see a 'Hell's Kitchen' we can see one right in Duluth. Who among us would pay $1.50 for the privilige of visiting some low dive and watching what was going on there? That's all the play was—a picture of a very seamy side of life, with no excuse for all the profanity and vulgarity that was served up. The only fault I have to find with you as that you didn't hit them hard enough." L. C. M.

Duluth, Aug. 2.

The other letter, which was unsigned, follows:

To the Editor of The Herald:

I was surprised to note the manner in which The Herald disposed of Salvation Nell" the play presented by Mrs. Fiske at the Lyceum Saturday night.

It struck me as a strong, well constructed drama, faithfully portraying a phase of life which we should all be familiar with. The play impressed me very favorably for the truthful manner in which life on the East side of New York was presented. Surely it was a much more worthy production than the scores of musical comedies, which have been served up to the people of this country for the last few years. True, vice was not carefully concealed beneath suggestive phrases, but was plainly and truthfully set forth. There was nothing, objectionable to the play, and I was surprised at the vicious and undeserved criticism in The Herald. To my mind no more worthy production has been seen in Duluth in the last year.

Duluth, Aug. 2.

ONE WRATHY CANUCK.

(The accompanying letter from a very peevish citizen of Canada was received by The Herald this morning. He evidently "got in wrong" with a number of Duluth people.—The Editor.)

To the Editor of The Herald:

If they ever hold an international exposition of discourtesy, allow me to nominate Duluth for a blue ribbon. I have seen the end seat hogs of New York; I have been insulted by the hack drivers of Chicago; I have taken dirt from the conductors of the Grand Trunk road; I have been mixed up with hotel clerks in St. Louis, but never since I hit this green earth, have I met such bright and shining examples of American manners, as some of the citizens of Duluth. You people may have good manners, but where do you keep them?

Coming up from the Union depot the other day, I accidentally ran into a man coming hurriedly out of an office building on Superior street. "Why don't you look where you're going, you fat fool?" he snapped at me, and before I had time to say anything in reply, he darted across the street.

Just a few hours later I was waiting for a car at the corner of Lake avenue, and a young man, without any hat, came along in a big black automobile. I didn't hear him coming, and he had to bring his car to a dead stop, on my account. "Come out of your trance, you big mutt," he yelled at me, as he started up again. I didn't have a chance to ask him what a "mutt" was.

Getting on the street car, the conductor gave me a push, and yelled in my ear to get up forward and not obstruct the doorway. He shoved me against a woman, and she glared, and made some remark under her breath about "intoxicated ruffians."

That night at a restaurant I ventured to complain about the quality of some shoe leather that was served up to me for steak, and the waiter told me that if I didn't like the service I could go some place else. The proprietor wasn't in, so I couldn't complain of the impertinence to him. These are but a few incidents of my visit to Duluth. It probably won't do any good, but I would like to rid my system of a few of the things I meant to have said to these people, before I get away.

A. T. BECKER,
218 Church street, Toronto.
Duluth, July 2.

REPLIES TO "A. C. T."

To the Editor of The Herald:

Your correspondent of last night who signs "A. C. T." fears that dumb animals do not receive proper treatment in Duluth. I think there is little cause for complaint along that line. The office of the humane society is always open for complaints, and prompt attention is always given when a complaint is made. The horses on our streets compare favorably with any in the country, and it is safe to say that the driver of a lame horse would be questioned as to the horse's condition before he had driven many blocks on Superior street. Your correspondent of last night must have formed an opinion in ignorance of the real conditions. The society would, I am sure, be glad to welcome him in the work of bettering the condition of dumb animals. I hope his efforts will in the future be devoted to this line instead of writing letters of criticism.

The Aviator's Love Song.

The nighthirds home are winging,
The lark his song is singing,
Auroral shafts are bringing
The dawn—oh, fly with me!

The day is swiftly coming,
The early partridge drumming,
The spark coil gently humming—
Come, fly, oh, fly with me!

The never fail magneto
Now sings its faint falsetto
And sparks each plug, you bet—Oh,
Then fly, my love, with me!

The bent shaft has been trued up,
The damaged canvas glued up
And all the set screws screwed up—
So why not fly with me?

The brass work has been polished,
All faults have been abolished,
The wheel that was demolished
Is fixed—then fly with me.

The morning haze is blurring
The sun, no wind is stirring,
The motor she is purring—
Make haste to fly with me.

Heard Something.

Chattanooga Times: One summer evening a miller was leaning over his garden gate, facing the road, enjoying his pipe, when a conceited young farmer happened to be passing. The miller, in a friendly tone, said:

"Good evening, George."

"I didn't speak," said George, gruffly.

"Oh," said the miller, "I thought you did; but it must have been your ears flapping."

THE WEATHER.

Duluthians have become quite used to seeing a heavy fog hang over the city when they arise in the morning and see it give way to clear skies along in the afternoon. That's what happened yesterday and that's what may happen today, although the weather man predicts partly cloudy weather.

Daylight came at 4:50 this morning and sunset is scheduled for 7:38.

Mr. Richardson says of weather conditions:

"Cooler weather attends a rise in pressure which covers the Rocky Mountains, eastern slopes, Manitoba and Saskatchewan. The Saskatchewan depression has diminished in intensity but during the past twenty-four hours it caused scattered showers throughout the Missouri valley and the Northwest. Showers also occurred over the South Atlantic states. The barometer is abnormally high over New England states. An area of high pressure has advanced from North Pacific districts to the Rocky Mountain region. Indications favor generally fair weather in St. Louis and Douglas counties during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

The minimum and maximum temperature for the last twenty-four hours were as follows:

THE CONFERENCE REPORT.

Minneapolis Tribune (Rep.): The bill has been fixed up and the claque gives out that the president is satisfied. He has not gotten all that he wanted, but he has gotten what he could get for the people and is disposed to make the best of it. This may really be the attitude of the president. Frankly it is as much as the country has a right to expect from him, though he might rise above every president since Lincoln in power and popularity by giving more. The bill does really show lower schedules, though we believe that few of them will benefit the ultimate consumer. Prices of all things affected by it continue to rise. This confirms the belief that reductions are more than offset by administrative changes, new rules for valuation and the maximum and minimum schedule with its addition of 25 per cent to so many duties. Where will this leave the lumber and other duties? Nobody can tell how and the tariff sharps are thrusting their tables of apparent reductions in all our faces.

St. Paul Pioneer Press (Ind.): The country will be glad that the farcical debate over the tariff bill is at an end, but, from present information, the general opinion, we believe, must be that it would better for the nation if President Taft were to veto the measure, thus retaining the Dingley tariff until congress yields to the public demand for a really honest, downward revision of the schedules.

Chicago Journal (Ind. Rep.): There is nothing in the new tariff bill as finally shaped up to repay the great body of American wage-earners and farmers for the money spent in tariff revision. If this bill, as reported, is satisfactory to Mr. Taft, then Mr. Taft's idea of the necessary tariff reduction does not meet the requirements of Western voters who supported him only because of his tariff reduction pledges.

Sioux City Tribune (Ind.): What is the outcome? A tariff full of atrocities. Some free raw material given manufacturers, but protection retained for their wares; a pretentious reduction in the iron and steel schedule with a doubling of the rates on structural steel at a time when steel is entering largely into all structures; free hides and taxed leather; free pulp and taxed paper; rough lumber taxed 25 cents more than McKinley's tariff taxed it nineteen years ago; the great schedules of cottons and woolens, articles indispensible to every man, woman and child in the land, not only left untouched, but in some cases raised; sugar, an essential of every table in the land reduced 5-100 of a cent a pound, but the Dutch standard color test retained for the sole benefit of the sugar trust. What will be the consequence? What befell the Democratic party when, in 1894 it just as deliberately repudiated its pledge?

New York World (Ind. Dem.): The Republican lenders are gambling on prosperity and public gullibility. The bill adopted in conference is a bet that the country will have so completely recovered from that Roosevelt panic by the time of the next congressional elections that the voters will forget the broken pledges, the extortionate rates and the manner in which the Payne-Aldrich measure was framed. It is a wager that there will be another Republican victory in the old cry, "Let well enough alone." Mr. Taft apparently acquiesces in the cynical view of the party leaders. Time alone can tell how heavy a price he pays for temporary harmony. If this tariff is repudiated in the congressional elections next year it is Mr. Taft's administration that will be discredited. It is Mr. Taft who will be menaced with defeat for re-election. It is Mr. Taft who will figure in history as a president who failed of successful leadership in a crisis.

Not Union Suits.

Indianapolis News: Nope, you're wrong. Those new frocks the girls are wearing nowadays, which are all one piece from neck to hem, are not technically known as union suits.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1889.

It is stated that Assistant Grain Inspector Preston, who was chief assistant deputy under Shely, has been asked to resign on Aug. 15. Three new deputies will be appointed for Duluth out of about 100 applicants.

G. G. Hartley and A. S. Chase, both heavily interested in the Duluth Street Railway company, and, with Thomas Lowry, Samuel Hill and S. P. Wilson, in the proposed Duluth cable line up Seventh avenue west, are in St. Paul to attend a conference on the subject, and it is expected that the contract will be let to have the line in running order by Nov. 1.

At a meeting of the board of education, A. W. Bradley was elected president for the ensuing year; F. W. Paine, treasurer; H. W. Pearson, clerk.

The junior four race of the Northwestern Rowing association was won by the Minnesotas of St. Paul in 9 mins. 41 secs. Winnipeg was second and Duluth third. The Duluth crew led three lengths at the turn, with Minnesota second and Winnipeg still further back, but they could not keep up the pace. H. D. Pearson of Duluth won the junior single by two lengths. The regatta was held at Lake Minnetonka. It has been decided to hold the next regatta at Winnipeg and that of 1891 in Duluth.

The Crosley Park Land Company of Duluth has filed articles of incorporation. The capital stock is $150,000, and the incorporators are Powell Crosley, Basil D. Brown and Charles E. Lovett, all of Duluth, and James Bardon of Superior, Wis. The company owns Crosley Park, back of Lakeside.

The following teachers have been engaged by the West Duluth board for the ensuing year: West Duluth school, Miss Glover, late of Crookston, principal; Misses Ada Day, Margaret Bowne, A. McCall. Oneota school, W. W. Griffin, late of Missouri, principal; Misses Cary and Dole.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Hibbing Tribune: Edward Payson Weston walked across the continent at the age of 70 years without having to stop for repairs. That's something no automobile in its prime can do.

Roseau Region: Commit the following to memory, and if you ever become a senator or congressman, incorporate it into the nation's laws: Government is a supreme power, instituted for the purpose of establishing order and maintaining justice; and the sum of good government is comprehended in the simple maxim that all shall enjoy equal rights, and none shall have special privileges.

Walker Pilot: Bob Dunn is getting his share of editorial columns these days as a possible gubernatorial candidate. Fellows who thought that Bob was dead politically years ago have found that he is able to kick over his tombstone faster than they can set it up.

St. Peter Herald: Good roads are essential to the development of the state, and the people will endorse the proposition to levy a general tax of 1 mill for road purposes.

Little Falls Herald: Doesn't Taft remind you of Teddy? He's so different.

Paynesville Press: If the state legislature was made up entirely of lawyers, where in the devil would we be, anyhow? For the sake of policy, the supreme court strains real hard and pronounces an occasional law constitutional.

Austin Transcript: So long as the Republican party represented the principles of progress and righteousness, it was never beaten at the polls. It is only because a set of unworthy spoils-seekers have had control at times that the party has grown weak and has suffered defeat. The lesson is obvious.

Cannon Falls Beacon: The Beacon has had occasion before to speak of the superlegal minds engaged in finding loopholes of escape and alleyways of evasion for the criminal rich; the reform movement is now handicapped by a president with a superjudicial mind, who sees danger in bringing the powers of his office to bear in the effort to defeat those who would still further enslave the common people with monopoly tariff rates.

THE SONS OF MARTHA.

The Sons of Mary seldom bother, for they have inherited that good part.
But the Sons of Martha favor their mother of the careful soul and the troubled heart:
And because she lost her temper once, and because she was rude to the Lord, her Guest,
Her sons must wait upon Mary's Sons—world without end, reprieve, or rest.

It is their care in all the ages to take the buffet and cushion the shocks;
It is their care that the gear engage;
it is their care that the switches lock;
It is their care that the wheels run truly; it is their cure to embark and entrain,
Tally, transport and deliver duly the sons of Mary by land and main.

They say to the mountains, "Be ye removed!"
They say to the lesser floods, "Run dry!"
Under their rods are the rocks reproved
—they are not afraid of that which is high.
Then do the hilltops shake to the summit; then is the bed of the deep laid bare,
That the Sons of Mary may overcome it, pleasantly sleeping and unaware.
They finger Death at their glove's end when they say piece and replece the living wires.
He rears against the gates they tend;
they feed him hungry behind their fires.
Early at dawn ere men see clear they stumble into his terrible stall,
And hale him, forth like a haltered steer and goad and turn him till evenfall.

To these from birth is belief forbidden;
from these till death is relief afar—
They are concerned with matters hidden—under the earth line their altars are.
The secret fountains to follow up waters withdrawn to restore to the mouth,
Yea, and gather the floods as in a cup, and pour them again at a city's drouth.

They do not preach that their God will rouse them a little before the nuts work loose;
They do not teach that his Pity allows them to leave their work whenever they choose.
As in the thronged and the lightened ways, so in the dark and the desert they stand,
Wary and watchful all their days, that their brethren's days may be long in the land.

Lift ye the stone, or cleave the wood,
to make a path more fair or flat,
Lo! it is black already with blood some Sons of Martha spilled for that.
Not as a ladder from Earth to Heaven,
not as an altar to any creed,
But simple service simply given to his own kind, in their common need.

And the Sons of Martha smile and are blessed—they know the angels are on their side.
They know in them is the grace confessed, and for them are the Mercies multiplied.
They sit at the feet, and they hear the Word—they know how truly the Promise runs.
They have cast their burden upon the Lord, and—the Lord he lays it on Martha's Sons.

The Half-Heart and the Whole Hog.

Harper's Weekly: We spoke lately of the self-effacing struggle of Senator Lodge to get hides on the free list. Amusing it was to hear tariff reform arguments come from him. It must have irked him sore to make them. And the debate brought him other trials. He had to listen while senators from the far Northwest reproached him, and reproached New England, for half-heartedness in the great cause. The biographer and eulogist of Alexander Hamilton must have found that hard to bear. He might have answered back, however, that New England senators, if half-hearted, are wholehoggish, and that seems to be the main thing when it comes to properly representing one's constituents in a tariff scramble.

Right, as Usual.

Springfield Republican: Governor Johnson of Minnesota says the tariff question "is settled and in favor of the stand-patters." That is largely true in fact, if not in ultimate consequences. He further says that President Taft entered the fight too late to accomplish much. That also is largely true. Again he says that the line between Republicans like La Follette and Democrats like Folk and Bryan "is hard to draw." And that is strictly true.

VAUDEVILLE PROGRAM AT MINNESOTA STATE FAIR

A Novelty Among Novelties in the Line of Acrobatics.

In order to secure success and perfect running of the quadruple circus and vaudeville program to be given in front of the grandstand at the Minnesota state fair each afternoon and evening, Sept. 6 to 11, the board of managers has invested $2,000 in a tunnel to connect the dressing rooms of the artists engaged with the stages on the opposite side of the track. This year the dressing rooms will be beneath the seating floor of the grandstand and the tunnel will run underneath the mile track and come out just at the rear of the central stage. In other years the artists have had their dressing rooms in the east bleachers and have had to take the long journey on foot from there through the big tunnel and through the infield, the observed of the observers, before reaching the stages upon which they were supposed to make their first appearance.

Aside from the awkwardness of this feature, the distance between the dressing rooms and stages frequently embarrassed the stage manager when a sudden change of the bill was necessary. Under the new conditions, if the stage manager wishes to make a quick change in the program, he can summon the artists either by telephone or messenger and they can leave their dressing rooms and reach the stage within two minutes.

Among the feature acts engaged for this fair and booked direct by the management is the performance of the Up-Side-Down Zeraldas, who accomplish almost everything known in inverted equipoise and have a novelty among novelties in acrobatics.

"THE UNWRITTEN LAW."

Jay Quigley Players Begin Their Last Week at Lyceum.

The Jay Quigley Players are bidding for popularity during the last week of their engagement at the Lyceum with an imported play named "The Unwritten Law." They gave the first performance last evening, before an audience that found much to entertain in the piece.

The title of the play recalls the Thaw-White tragedy but the story of the piece has not the remotest connection with that unfortunate affair. The scenes are laid in Great Britain and the story is based upon the old Scottish common-law marriage.

Under this old custom, an Englishman takes a Scotch lassie for a bride and when he discovers the little town in which they were married is on the English side of the boundary line and the marriage invalid, he deserts her to marry a widow.

All this is told in a prologue and the curtain of the first act rises upon the characters twenty years afterward. The child of the deserted wife and her disappearing husband has grown to be a man. And whom do you suppose it is? Rodney Ranous.

Roy Marston (Mr. Ranous) promptly falls in love with the step-daughter of his mother's former husband. If you study this out, gentle reader, you will discover that the twain are not related and that their love is quite legal. But when Roy's mamma finds out, she is hopping mad because she cannot forget the fact that it was the girl's mother who lured her (Mrs. Marston's) husband away from her in years gone by.

Col. Noel Musgrave, the gentleman who deserted the Scottish lady years before, meets her again, and his latest wife being deceased, begs her to forgive and forget and be reunited. He declares he really loves her and wants to marry her all over again. She finally relents and at the same time withdraws her objections to the marriage of her son and Lettice Vane (Agnes Bilal.)

The play is rather old-fashioned, with many flowery passages in its three acts, but it is very entertaining, holding the attention of last night's audience every minute of the time.

Miss Marie Nelson as Mrs. Marston has a role that is quite unlike any she has appeared in here before and she achieved a creditable success in the part. Opposite her, Lafayette McKee handled the role of Sir Noel Musgrave to a nicety and Rodney Ranous and Agnes Bilal were happily cast as the young lovers.

Mr. Quigley has the role of Hamish, the Scottish servant and it offers him an opportunity to interpolate some wholesome comedy. His characterization is excellent. So is that of Maude Cleveland, as the Irish girl.

The rest of the company is satisfactory and the mountings are adequate.

THE BIJOU BILL.

Two Tabloid Dramas Are Features of Pleasing Entertainment.

An excellent program of diversified entertainment pleased three large audiences at the Bijou yesterday, and the patrons of the little playhouse will not be disappointed this week. Two tabloid dramas form not the least pleasing part of a bill that includes singing, dancing, conversation, acrobatic stunts and musical features.

Helen Beresford, a comedienne with real talent and a pleasing personality, has a sketch entitled "Polly's Surprises," that made a big hit with yesterday's audiences. Miss Beresford is supported by an excellent company, and every patron of the house will find the dramatic morsel pleasing to the amusement taste.

Barney Fagan, who once drew the spotlight in the world of blackface comedy, and Miss Henrietta Byron, improve fine opportunities for character work in "That Broadway Couple." They sing and dance well, have some jokes that have not attained their majority, and their work in the sketch is altogether delightful.

Bissonette and Newman, the West Point cadets, have an acrobatic act that is different. Acrobatic acts on the vaudeville stage grow tiresome if they are ordinary, but the soldier boys are extraordinary, and there isn't a dull moment while they hold the boards.

Johan and Matt have a musical act of which the same may be said. They are known as "The Boys from Leipzig," and they make good in a manner that upholds the musical reputation of the fatherland.

Miss Cora Wilmot, comedienne and monologue artist, isn't dull for a moment. She has songs, stories and jokes that produce laughs, and the time allotted to her on the program is well placed. Harry Webb sings "Isn't that Enough for You?" with illustrations, and the usual motion pictures wind up the program.

Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna acts gently yet promptly on the bowels; cleanses the system effectually; assists one in overcoming habitual constipation permanently. To get its beneficial effects, always buy the genuine,

STATE INCOME TAX IS KILLED BY GEORGIANS.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 3.—The house yesterday killed a bill to insert an income tax in the state tax measure. The bill fixed a tax of 1 per cent upon all gross incomes over $5,000, which was equivalent to $1 per $1,000 straight tax. The vote was 78 to 55. It was killed because many believed that it was unconstitutional. The resolution to amend the federal constitution so as to permit an income tax will come up next week.

RIPENING VERY FAST

Hot Weather Proves Boon to North Dakota Wheat Crop.

Barring Losses From Hail Crop Will Be a Large One.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the barley and oat harvest already well along and the wheat ripening at a remarkable rate, harvest will be general by the first of next week, and even before the close of the present week a considerable acreage of that grain will have been cut. The past three days have done wonders in the way of ripening the fields, as the temperature has been exceedingly high.

The hail storms that have passed over the state during the past week have been the most severe that have ever visited the state in so short a time. Barnes county's loss of possibly 500,000 bushels Friday evening, followed by the heavy storms in Pembina, Walsh and Cavalier the next day, entailing a loss of from 750,000 to 1,000,000 bushels, are record breakers. In addition to these storms there were several other local hail storms experienced.

Rust Reports Exaggerated.

Haying is now practically completed, the farmers being engaged in putting on the finishing touches of that work. Barley and oat harvest has been in progress fully a week and some wheat, also, has been cut in the southern part of the state.

Outside of the hail damage, there has been no change in the prospects for a splendid crop this year. The reports of rust, except in one or two instances, were unfounded in fact, and what little damage may accrue from that source will be local with the two or three districts affected.

The problem of securing men for the harvest is now being looked into, and many farmers are making daily excursions to the cities over the state for the purpose of securing help.

Heavy Rain Monday Night.

Sweeping over the entire northern part of the state from Benson and Rolette counties to the Red river, one of the heaviest rains of the past month occurred last night at about 6 o'clock. With a rapidly dropping temperature marking the approach of the storm, considerable alarm was felt that there would be hail, but so far no reports of any have been received.

The Saturday storm in Pembina, Walsh and Cavalier counties was exceedingly heavy. Near Walhalla about 300,000 bushels of grain were knocked out. At Cavalier about 25 per cent of the grain tributary to the city was destroyed. At Hannah and Wales strips about four miles in length and two miles wide were devastated. In Acton and St. Andrews townships in Walsh county not known that 100,000 bushels were knocked out, while near Munich there was a slight damage.

FOUND DEAD ON OMAHA TRACKS

Herman Schwartz Killed By Cars Near Lake Elmo, Minn.

Stillwater, Minn., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of Herman Schwartz, aged 28, who had been employed on the farm of Ben Sullivan, three miles from Lake Elmo, was found on the Omaha tracks one mile east of Lake Elmo early Sunday, he evidently having been struck and killed by a train during the night. The discovery was made by the engineer of the passenger train that passed that point shortly before 5 o'clock in the morning, going to St. Paul. The train was stopped and the body removed from the track.

Dr. F. G. Landeen of this city went to the scene and made an investigation as coroner. It is believed that the man was struck by a train and killed a few hours before. The body was brought to this city and placed in the Erickson undertaking rooms. In the opinion of the coroner death was due to accident.

Schwartz worked for other farmers in that vicinity for the past two years. His parents live in Sacred Heart. He has a sister, the wife of Henry Schroeder, a dairyman, living on Rice street, St. Paul.

Schwartz was a member of the Modern Woodmen of Lake Elmo. He had been in that village last Saturday night. It is presumed that he started to walk to the Sullivan farm on the track and was struck by a passing train and killed.

TO BUILD LOGGING ROAD.

Sawyer & Goodman Company Start Work on a New Line.

Marinette, Wis., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Sawyer & Goodman company has started the work of grading for another logging road several miles in length about four and a half miles north of Iron Mountain.

The road will connect with the Milwaukee and runs in a general easterly direction. It will tap a tract of timber land estimated at between 20,000,000 and 30,000,000 feet. Large logging camps will be started in the vicinity at once. The Sawyer & Goodman concern also commenced work on the logging railway to connect near the Dunn mine in Iron county. This road will be nearly eight miles in length and will penetrate a belt of timber containing about 30,000,000 feet. The Goodman Lumber company, an affiliating corporation, is building a railroad twenty miles south and west of Iron Mountain in Wisconsin. The concern owns an immense tract of pine, hemlock and hardwood timber in that district.

GET GRAND STAND COIN.

Effort to Defeat Its Being Paid Out Fails.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 3.—The threatened attack on the $200,000 appropriation for the state fair grandstand in retaliation for the "knockout" giving to $600,000 "pork barrel" fund has gone a-glimmering. The money became available yesterday and George J. Grant & Co., the contractors, armed with bills approved by the state fair management, were soon on hand at the office of State Auditor S. G. Iverson. Three checks were drawn against the amount.

G. J. Grant & Co. for work done on the grandstand, carried away $117,298.75; A. H. Stem, for architect's service, drew $6,250, and the agricultural society management was given a warrant for $11,875 for day labor employed in wrecking the old grandstand.

There is still a good deal left of the $200,000 appropriation. This would have been checked against too, but as the contractors have not finished the building it was not permitted. Mr. Grant said he did not known that any attack was going to be made against the fund, but he wanted to be on the safe side.

Representative F. W. Hill of Elk River was among those who talked of attacking the fund on the ground that it was unconstitutional, but so far he has done nothing.

BOTH HAD MADE WILLS.

Escanaba Banker and Wife Disposed of Property Before Death.

Escanaba, Mich., Aug. 3.—Just before leaving for Europe, in 1907, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Erickson of Escanaba, who were killed on Saturday last in an automobile accident at Birch Creek, made a joint will, disposing of an estate valued at $200,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Erickson left to their adopted daughter, Gertrude, now Mrs. Frank McWelthy of Aurora, Iowa, $12,500, making a total of $25,000, which she will receive under the terms of the will.

Mrs. Erickson left $1,000 to the Jewel college of Aurora, Iowa, her native city, and $1,000 to the Presbyterian church in the same city.

The balance of the fortune is to be divided equally between children of the brothers and sisters of Mr. Erickson and the children of the brothers and sisters of Mrs. Erickson.

Under this will each left the other the sole executor. The death of both occurring at the same time it made it necessary for Probate Judge Allen to appoint an executor. He appointed M. K. Bissell, who, for twenty years, was a partner of Mr. Erickson, to act in this capacity.

Menominee Man Finds Copper.

Menominee, Mich., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Steve Devoe, who has been working on the main drive of the Menominee river, has returned to Menominee, carrying a large lump of crude copper ore weighing over ninety-five pounds. Devoe will not say where he found it, but he thinks that he has discovered a copper mine.

COMMENCE WORK ON NEW EXPERIMENT STATION.

These buildings will be finished this season, to be in readiness for next season's work of the station. No superintendent has as yet been appointed, but the board of directors of the North Dakota state agricultural college, who control this station as a branch of the Fargo experiment farm, have a good man in view.

CURES ECZEMA QUICKLY

New Discovery Has Revolutionized the Treatment of Skin Diseases.

Nothing in the history of medicine has ever approached the success of the marvelous skin remedy known as poslam, which, it is safe to say, has cured more cases of eczema and skin diseases than any remedy ever offered for these ills.

The success of poslam is not at all surprising when it is considered that even a very small quantity applied to the skin stops itching immediately and cures chronic cases in two weeks. The very worst cases of eczema, as well as acne, herpes, tetter, piles, salt rheum, rash, crusted humors, scaly scalp and every form of itch, yield to it readily. Blemishes such as pimples, red noses, muddy and inflamed skin disappear almost immediately when poslam is applied, the complexion being cleared over-night.

Every druggist keeps both the 50-cent size (for minor troubles) and the $2 jar, and either of these may be obtained at the Lyceum Pharmacy and W. A. Abbett's in Duluth, and the A. E. Holmberg Drug Co. in Superior, as well as other reliable drug stores.

But no one is even asked to purchase poslam without first obtaining an experimental package which will be sent by mail, free of charge, upon request, by the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York city.

Saints Win From Columbus.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 3.—St. Paul put Columbus out of the first division by winning a ten-inning game, 7 to 6. Each error by the home players was costly. The deciding run was scored on Murray's hit, Geyer's wild throw to second and an outfield fly on which Kruger secured a double play at first. Umpire Hayes ruled that Murray crossed the plate before the third out was made. Leise kept the score from being tied in the tenth by an ankle-high catch of Congalton's drive. Score:

HEYDLER HEADS THE NATIONAL

Was Elected at Special Meeting Held Immediately After Pulliam Funeral.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 3.—Little more than an hour after Harry C. Pulliam, late president of the National league, lay beneath the greensward of Cave Hill cemetery in this city, John Heydler of Cincinnati, secretary of the league, had been chosen president in his place at a special meeting of the directors. There was some feeling that it was indelicate to name Mr. Pulliam's successor at this time, but the league's immediate need of a qualified head caused the magnates to yield.

Besides electing Mr. Heydler, who is to fill Mr. Pulliam's unexpired term, the directors concerned themselves only with paying tribute to Mr. Pulliam's memory. They designated the remainder of his salary, as president during 1909, to his estate; and they appointed Garry Herrmann of Cincinnati, Barney Dreyfuss of Pittsburg and Mr. Murphy as a committee to select and have erected in Cave Hill a suitable monument to the deceased president. In addition to this, they provided that the players in the National league shall wear crepe for thirty days.

The meeting was attended by four of the five league directors;

Murphy, Dreyfuss, Ebbetts of Brooklyn and John Dovey of Boston. Garry Herrmann the absentee, will reach Cincinnati today from the West.

New York, Aug. 3.—John Arnold Heydler, the new president of the National league, has been its secretary since 1902. He was born in Lafargeville, N. Y., July 10, 1869. He learned the printing trade in Rochester and later went to Washington where he was employed by the government.

For three years Mr. Heydler was one of the substitute umpires of the National league. While sporting editor of a Washington paper, he helped the American league gain a foothold in that city.

NO "IFS" OR "ANDS" IN HIS CONTRACT

"Billy" Murray Will Stick to Quakers for the Present.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 3.—Manager "Billy" Murray of the Philadelphia National league club, when seen last night concerning the falling through of the proposed ism and deal, whereby Murray was to retire as manager, said:

"No member of the directorate of the club ever mentioned the question of my retiring to me. I have a three-year contract and will fill it out, I believe."

In a general way Mr. Murray spoke of the Doulin deal which did not succeed, and remarked that there were no "ifs and ands" in his contract.

"It's direct," he said.

Sunspot Wins.

Brighton, Eng., Aug. 3.—The Ovingdean plate of 103 sovereigns, for 2-year-olds, distance 5 furlongs and 88 yards, was won today by Sunspot. J. R. Kean's Coronal was second and Shrubb third. Fifteen horses ran.

THE BIG LEAGUERS

TINKER.

Tinker is the shortstop for the Chicago Nationals. He is one of the best men on the Chicago team, and has frequently won a game by his timely hitting. He is playing great ball this year.

SOX HOME IN THIRD PLACE

Duluth Team Returns Only Three Games Behind Leaders.

New Men Report Here---Team Should Climb Again.

The White Sox reached home shortly before noon today. All of the players are in good shape at the present time and the members of the team believe they will be leading the league within a few days. Manager Al Kuehnow is also sanguine that the Sox will be showing their heels to the other teams within a few days.

McCrone and Breen were out of the game during part of the trip. Added to this misfortune came the lay down of Thorsen.

With two of the best men crippled and with the services of only three pitchers, the team did very well on the trip.

Today Manager Kuehnow announced that negotiations were on with Hannibal, Mo., for a pitcher named Donnely. If the deal goes through Thorsen will be traded for the man from Missouri. He is touted as a very good man and Kuehnow is anxious to secure him.

Young is here at the present time. He is the chap from the western part of the state who was so highly recommended to Kuehnow. He will be worked in one of the early games. He has been pitching sensational ball with the strong semi-professional teams and he looks like a comer.

Tom Taylor will be able to get back into the game within a few days. McCrone is in good shape at the present time and all of the boys are determined to jump back into the lead. The team is only three games behind the leaders and there is every indication that the Sox will regain the league leadership.

The Sox will open at Superior this afternoon and tomorrow will play at Athletic park. The Sox have a long series of home games and should win the major part of them. The pennant must come to Duluth, and it will take great ball playing to overcome the game Winona is playing right at the present time.

TOURNAMENT IS NEARLY ENDED

Finish of Boat Club Tennis Event Now in Sight.

The Eights.	Semi-finals.
Graff, Washburn.	Washburn.
Grady, Johnson.
Payne, Poehler.
Whyte, Ingalls.

Walter Poehler and Edward Ingalls are down to the eights in the boat club tennis tournament. Phoeler yesterday defeated Phil Thomas 4-6, 7-5 and 6-2. Ingalls defeated J. B. Beecher, 6-2, 6-1.

Today Grady meets Johnson, Rodney Payne meets Poehler, and Whyte meets Ingalls in the eights. When these games are finished there will be but four left in the tournament, and the play will be down to the semi-finals.

All those who expect to enter the doubles are asked to turn in their names to Walter Hall, who has charge of the event. Play will begin Wednesday morning, and the list must be complete before that time.

A. W. Hartman has donated a cup to be contested for in the doubles. Mr. Hartman also donated a cup for the present single event.

RACING ON A SLOW TRACK

Peter Balta First in Summary and Gets the 2:11 Money.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 3.—Three hard fought races featured the opening of the grand circuit races on a track that was slow from the rain early yesterday morning. Two favorites were beaten, the winners of these events hardly being suspected of having enough ability to win from such fields. The 2:08 pacing stake, which looked like a gift to Blind Hal Raven, was won by Baron Whips in straight heats. Hal Raven led to the three-quarters in the first heat, then refused to respond to a drive, being unable to pace fast on the track. After that she did better, but could not endanger the lead of Baron Whips.

Five heats were required in the 2:11 trot, in which Inner Guard was the choice. Peter Balta won the first one in the stretch, Belle Bird won the second by inches from Nancy Boyce, and Nancy took the third and fourth. In the fifth Nancy tired in the last part and Peter Balta again landed in a drive with Inner Guard. This gave Peter Balta first money, as he stood best in the summary.

Lady Jones had all she wanted to beat Carlokin in the 2:08 trot. Carlokin broke on the stretch in three of the heats and Lady Jones beat him through his mistakes, although she broke in the second heat.

Mary K. had no trouble in the 2:20 pace, even making a bad break in the last heat and then coming on a winner.

Hibbing Wins Again.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hibbing took the last of the series of games with Long Prairie yesterday, winning easily by the score of 9 to 3. The victory of Hibbing yesterday makes four out of five games that the local team has won in the present series. The only feature of the game was the general hard hitting of the home team. Alexandria comes Thursday for a series of five games. Score:

Hibbing	13	14	0

Batteries—Sage and Carroll; Doty, Koehler and Johnson.

GLEAMS IN THE SPORTING FOG

BY BRUCE

Pugilists and society, or eating peas with a knife.

Oh, yes, quite a few of our premier knuckle artists have mingled with the gay and festive throng. Of late years it has been quite a fad, as it were, to have fighters come into society—just to see how they acted. Society likes to be amused.

It probably was Gentleman Jackson who started the idea. He was the Jim Corbett of the early days. Early history states that Jackson had a small hand and a firm foot. Men wore knee trousers in those days, you know, and the line of limb shown by the fighter looked awfully well against the brilliantly lighted background of a ball room.

But coming down to modern fighters, many have aspired to social recognition. When Sullivan was champion, and he was champion for twelve long years, they didn't think much about inviting fighters around to bridge parties, or to balls, or functions. It was when James J. Corbett won the championship that the attention of an admiring world was turned to the possibilities in the case.

You see Corbett was quite different from the fighter who had been thriving. He was comparatively well educated. He was decidedly good-looking. He could address a lady without tripping on his feet. He could order a dinner a la carte without wig wagging the head waiter with distress signals. He had consulted the dictionary upon numerous occasions, and he wore clothes that might have been worn by a banker or a broker—if the banker or broker had very good taste.

That is the reason that society looked up and began to take notice when young Mr. Corbett won the heavyweight championship of the world.

He was invited to places that a fighter had never been invited to before. And the fighter made good. People wondered why Corbett could fight. He did not look the part of the character that most people had been led to believe that a fighter was. The reason why Corbett won was because he possessed some brains and knew more about boxing than any man in the world. He had ideas along other lines, and could talk intelligently and interestingly on almost any subject. Society fell for the good-looking pugilist, because Corbett always knew how to conduct himself in good company.

Norman Selby, the famous Kid McCoy, was another fighter who achieved some social distinction in Gotham. McCoy, like Corbett, was very good-looking; he looked anything but the fighter. He looked more like an art student than a fighter. Men who have fought McCoy have, before hostilities started, been under the impression that he was frail and weak—that a blow might cause an accident. In fact, one deluded fighter asked the officials of the club to substitute another man as he didn't want to be charged with murder. He was finally persuaded to fight McCoy and he was not charged with murder, either. McCoy nearly murdered the gink.

McCoy married a rich New York widow, after a rather exciting matrimonial career, and moved into one of the exclusive social residence districts of New York. He was a man who could hold his own in any kind of company. was brainy, polished, and could talk well on any subject. People who met the famous Kid were surprised that a man, apparently frail, looking more like a divinity student than a fighter, could meet such men as the giant, Gus Ruhlin and the stalwart Tom Sharkey. He knew all there was to know about boxing.

Battling Nelson would like to break into a drawing room. He has never been very successful. Nelson talks as he fights. He bangs and slams when he fights, using little science. That is the way he talks. He is shrewd in a business deal, but he has ways that will never make him famous as an after dinner speaker.

Mrs. Jack Gardner of Boston invited the Dane to her home once. It is doubtful if she would ever repeat the experiment. The Battler seldom gets off the subject of Oscar Mathew Nelson, and he is liable to jab you in the third rib to emphasize his point. He is one of the close-to-nature boys, and not out of place for society.

Young Corbett, a bright, intelligent little chap, made quite a hit with those people who seldom mingle with fighters. He did not look like a fighter, and moreover he knew how to act the part of a gentleman.

There have been but few fighters who have known to act when in society that was above the strata they had been used to. There have been only a few, a few like Jim Corbett, who could wear a dress suit without making a man with gout laugh out in unfeigned mirth.

A fund is being raised to bring Young Griffo back to Australia. It is the old story. Here was the greatest little boxer the world ever saw. He could box rings around Joe Gans, and that is going some. He was the marvel of the ring. He created a sensation in this country and he made big money. It was to the bow wows with his change.

Little Griffo was so ignorant that unscrupulous managers used to rob him blind. When he had won a fight, and a big fight, too, they used to get money in $1 bills and thrust a bunch of small change into the eager hands of the little fighter. He was generally ready to beat it to the first tap room with his change.

He went the pace that breaks a man, no matter if he has the constitution of a Hercules. He went dippy and they chased him to Bridewell. He has been a wreck of the lowest class; he has haunted the lowest dens of vice, and has lived through methods that would be shunned by a crook of any class. He is about all through, and they are raising a fund to get him home, back to his native Australia, and they will probably erect a monument for him when his tootsies are turned toward the daisies.

Little Griffo will shuffle through his last few days. He is a wreck. There have been other Griffos. Examples are many. Men make money and spend it in riotous living. Then they have to be cared for. Look at Young Corbett, another case like Griffo. It is only when some one gives a benefit for a broken fighter that the world remembers the valiant deeds of an earlier, brighter period.

A certain gentleman of Calumet possesses a very brilliant imagination. As a press agent he possesses unlimited qualifications. He has announced that Bob Fitzsimmons will fight in the Copper country. No chance. Another case of a well-schooled imagination working overtime. He had Stanley Ketchel and Sam Langford matched for the Copper country. Nothing has been heard of that fight being staged in the country of Calumet. It is a poor week that the man from home does not have some world's championship bout scheduled for the Copper country. He has not had any Copper country clubs bidding for the Johnson-Jeffries fight, but the day is young and many things may happen. Go to it, Kiddo. Calumet is a good, lively little town, and the limelight will help.

"L. R. J." asks the sporting editor of The Herald if there are any professional tennis players and what kind of a game Jay Gould, Jr., plays. The writer has never heard of any professional tennis players. Larned, the Wrenns, Clothier, the Doherty brothers and all of the great tennis players of the present time are simon pure amateurs. Jay Gould, Jr., is champion at racquets, or court tennis.

JOHNSON POSTS FORFEIT MONEY

Berger Says Jack Will Get Training Expenses Anyway ---Maybe More.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—George Lyttle, backer of Jack Johnson, yesterday posted a $5,000 forfeit with a local sporting writer to cover the sum already put up by James J. Jeffries as a preliminary to a championship ring battle between Jeffries and the colored man.

New York, Aug 3.—Sam Berger, manager for James J. Jeffries, expressed considerable delight and said, "Well, I guess there'll be a fight," when informed that Jack Johnson had posted $5,000 in Chicago to bind a match with Jeffries for the championship.

"As for a report that Johnson wants Jeffries to agree to the time and place for the match before the latter goes abroad, Berger said:

"How can Jeffries name any time or place for the fight? We would like to know when and where as well as Johnson, but we are not mind readers. The bids have not started coming in as yet.

"If Johnson means business," he continued, "he should come here to New York as soon as the bids for the fight are in, and he and myself will look them over, and anything that looks reasonably good to both of us we will accept.

"Jeffries is dealing with Johnson and the public in good faith. He only wants what is fair and reasonable. Any other champion—and Jeffries is the real champion—would have demanded 90 per cent of the gate, or purse, but he is good enough to say that Johnson shall have a loser's end. I cannot say how much it will be, but it will repay him for training expenses, even—well, even if it does not for the beating he will surely get."

Unions Have a Kick.

The members of the Union Clothing baseball team think they should be given credit for the game that was to have been played at Lakeside Sunday between their team and the Hummers. The clothing team was on the grounds, they claim, from early in the afternoon until after 6 p. m. The Hummers did not show up. The West enders say the wait should be worth something.

Cloquet Defeated.

POLICE JUDGE SPRINGS ODD TEST FOR SANITY.

New York, Aug. 3.—An unusual physical test as an index to one's "sanity" was introduced by a police magistrate yesterday when Mrs. Harriet R. Berry, a trained nurse, was taken into court on a physician's application that inquiry be made into her mental condition.

"Close your eyes, madam, and touch the end of your nose with the index finger of your right hand," commanded the magistrate.

It was only after several attempts that Mrs. Berry succeeded, and the court ruled that the result of the test was sufficient to warrant her committal to Bellevue for observation.

Her case is said to be one of "persecutory delusion." She thought a friend had sold the manuscript of her book, "The Design of Life," to Former President Eliot of Harvard and that the latter had plagiarized it.

THE MOVING SIDEWALK AND FAIR PLAY TO THE HORSES

"That plea of Mrs. Fiske for dumb animals is right after my own heart," said the philosophizing optimist, as he gazed dreamily at the smoke that rose in great clouds from the point where a pipe of giant proportions projected from his face. "Yes sir, I believe animals were put on this earth for something besides doing man's work day in and day out, being worn to skin and bones and then deposited as testimony to man's inhumanity to beasts in the district inelegantly known as the boneyard.

"Take it from me, there's one form of cruelty to animals in this tipped-up city on the lake shore that is going to stop. That's this sending of straining, tugging, over-worked horses up the steep avenues with loads that a self-respecting railroad man would be ashamed to put behind a locomotive on such a grade. I'm not chicken hearted by any means, but when I see horses struggling up the hills I feel like going gunning. Not for the drivers, nor yet for the owners, but for the whole city that will let such a condition exist.

"Mark me well. Don't put it in your hat, but place it somewhere that it will stay for a few years without wearing out. The time is not far distant when the moving sidewalk idea will be extended to the avenues of this fair city and the rejuvenated animals that haul goods, wares and merchandise for their feed and shelter will be driven on the avenues at Michigan street and raised without exertion on their part to any street on which their driver may see fit to land them. Say, wouldn't it be great for the horses, though, if one or two avenues were converted into endless chains?

"It's coming, too. I haven't taken any dope and this harmless burley leaf doesn't affect me that way. The moving sidewalk has been proven and the moving street is more than a possibility. This town will see the light some day. The treadmill of our old style threshing machine days on the farm has the principle in the embryo. The carrier used for logs in saw mills has it worked out a little farther. It's only a step from the sidewalk to the street—those smiles aren't necessary to this monologue—and if the moving sidewalk is possible, the moving street is no dream.

"It would mean very little expense. Each block could be equipped with a separate chains—if the term may be applied. The streets could be left as they are. Given two or three of those affairs, extending from Michigan street to Fourth street and Duluth has solved a question that is one of some moment. Millions of dollars have been spent on public enterprises that aren't nearly so meritorious. A few humane minds like Mrs. Fiske's would bring it right here in Duluth, too, so quickly your empty heads would quickly your empty heads would swim."

Whereat, the philosophizing optimist puffed violently, hit a switch and followed the spur to other Elysian fields.

ANOTHER $10,000 TO BE CHARGED UP TO STORM

Council Appropriates That Much for Work on Sewers.

Mayor Says $25,000 More Would Not Cover Pressing Needs.

Uptown Aldermen and Suburbanites Have a Heated Discussion.

Upon the recommendation of Mayor Haven and James Preston, president of the board of public works, the council last evening arranged to provide an additional $10,000 for the purpose of repairing the recent storm damage. Most of this money will go towards putting sewers in good shape.

Mayor Haven said the funds for street and sewer repair work were about exhausted, and that practically nothing more could be done along this line unless more cash were provided. He said it would require $9,350 for sewer work alone. He said that an additional $25,000 would not make the repairs to streets and sewers that really should be made this year.

The mayor declared that the health of the people demanded that sewers should be put in first class shape at once. He reviewed the work already done under supervision of the board of public works in the way of repairing storm damage, and told of different instances where portions of streets and avenues had been fenced off for the safety of teams.

Mr. Preston explained that much necessary repair work would have to be left undone this year, and Alderman Moore declared that it is imperative that the sewers be given immediate attention. In order to expedite matters, Mr. Moor introduced a resolution expressing it as the sense of the council that certificates should be issued to the amount of $10,000 against the general fund in order that repair work to that extent could be carried on at once. Further steps in this direction will be taken at the next meeting of the council.

Alderman Shartel failed to get enough votes to pass his amendment to the building ordinance, designed to allow the use of sidewalk supports under theater street canopies. The final vote stood 8 to 6.

This amendment called for a good deal of argument, and several of the aldermen expressed themselves as being vigorously opposed to its passage, asserting that such a measure would be a step backward, and contending that already there were more poles along Superior street than should be permitted, in view of the narrow sidewalks.

Alderman MacDonnell, Getchell, Moe, Moore, Hogan and Bloedel expressed themselves as being strongly opposed to allowing such supports. All the business houses wanting canopies have to provide for their support by overhead fastenings, and the aldermen named said they couldn't see why there should be discrimination in favor of theaters, allowing them privileges which were denied business houses along the street. They could see no reason why, even though the theater canopies were larger, enough overhead supports could not be supplied to hold them up safely.

Aldermen Shartel and Hector spoke in favor of the amendment, declaring that in other cities such supports were allowed, and that they were necessary for the safety of the public. Another attempt will be made to get the amendment through the council.

Some real fireworks were touched off by Alderman Shartel right after these arguments, when he declared, with some heat, that the central wards of the city were being discriminated against in favor of the eastern and western sections of the city, in the matter of city money expended for street improvement work.

He quoted from a long table of figures, provided by the city comptroller, in an attempt to show that the Second, Third, Fourth and Fifth wards were being shamefully treated in this respect. The figures all related to the salary roll of men employed on street work. He claimed that the wards named, paying two-thirds of the personal property tax of the city, get one-third of the benefits from the expenditure of street improvement money, while those sections of the city paying one-third the personal property tax got two-thirds the benefits from such expenditure.

He compared the situation to the fight against the tonnage tax, and said that the eastern and western portions of Duluth were as unjust in their attitued as Southern Minnesota was in the recent tonnage tax agitation. He said with considerable vehemence that if the aldermen from the First, Sixth, Seventh and Eighth wards wanted to be so unjust, and fight every improvement proposed for the central portion of the city, he would fight back, and oppose improvements in the other wards, and announced that he believed the other aldermen in the central district would follow his example.

The argument was started through the recommendation of the fire department committee that plans and specifications for the repair and enlargement of fire hall No. 2 be secured. Alderman Shartel said he had been fighting two years for the improvement of hall No. 3, Third street and First avenue east, and thought that should come first. This lead him to the talk on discrimination.

Alderman Getchell contended that the central of the city got its full share of street salary money, and that most of it was spent in improvements of purely local benefit, whereas street improvements in the other wards were for the benefit of the general public, being on thoroughfares traveled by nearly everybody. He also said it was not fair to take the personal taxes instead of real estate taxes as a means of comparison, as the outlying wards paid most of the real estate tax. After some figuring done from Alderman Shartel's table, Mr. Getchell said the central portion really got $2,000 more of this street improvement money than the other wards, during the first seven months of the year. He showed that Alderman Shartel had not taken into his calculations the money spent in street cleaning work in the central wards.

Alderman Moore also took Mr. Shartel's figures and attempted to show that the outlying wards in question were really not getting their share of this money, while the central portion was getting more than it should. He quoted figures in proof of this. He expressed the opinion that Mr. Shartel was "hollering to keep us from finding out that the central wards were getting more than they were entitled to." He asked Mr. Shartel why he had said nothing about all the money the city was putting on the Lincoln park bridge, which is in the central wards. He declared that every year since he had been in the council considerable sums of money had been expended from the salary fund in the improvement of the various streets and avenues in the central wards.

President Preston of the board of public works also said Mr. Shartel's figures were entirely misleading.

It was finally decided to lay the matter of fire hall improvements over for one week.

An ordinance was adopted allowing the street railway company to lay an underground conduit for its feed wires longitudinally along Superior street, east of Second avenue east. Heretofore conduits of this nature were forbidden on the street, on the ground that they would work injury to the pavements.

Fire Chief Randall was given authority to spend $100 of the city's money in covering his expenses in attending the national convention of fire chiefs, to be held at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Property owners in the vicinity of Dinkwall street, who are opposed to the pavement of the street between Nineteenth and Twentieth avenues, were on hand to protest against the improvement. A hearing had already been granted interested property owners, but upon motion of Alderman Moore further action was deferred until next Monday evening, when the regular council meeting, both sides will be given another chance to be heard. Mr. Moore said it would be unfair for the council to act upon the representations of one side while the other side was not on hand to present its arguments.

All companies with telegraph, telephone and electric light poles on Grand avenue, between Fifty-fourth and Fifty-ninth avenues, were directed to remove them.

A vote of thanks was extended crews of the boats which assisted in fighting the fire at the Virginia & Rainy Lake Lumber company's docks in West Duluth recently. The companies owning the boats were also thanked.

The resolution adopted by the West Duluth Commercial club, calling upon the council to compel the Soo railroad to build a depot in West Duluth, was referred to the committee on railroads, telephone and telegraph lines.

WHAT THE COUNCIL DID.

Decided to furnish the board of public works with another $10,000 to be used in repairing the recent storm damage to streets and sewers.

Had heated argument as to whether the outlying sections of the city were getting more improvement money than the central portion.

Turned down amendment to building ordinance designed to allow supports under canopies over entrances to theaters on Superior street.

Adopted ordinance allowing the street railway company to place feed wires in conduits running longitudinally along East Superior street.

Voted Fire Chief Randall $100 to attend Grand Rapids convention of chiefs.

As Millions Know, There Is No Other Milk Like This

For your own sake, please learn the difference between Van Camp's Milk and all others. For you save not a penny by taking vastly inferior milk.

You get a full pint of Van Camp's for 10 cents—with two-thirds the water evaporated.

You get a milk which is 28 per cent solids—8 per cent butter fat. And you get pure Holstein milk.

You don't get a thin milk, with too much water left in. And you don't get a milk which is cheapened with sugar, as you do in condensed milk.

When others offer an equal milk, they are welcome to say, "It is as good as Van Camp's."

But, until they do, we shall continue to warn you against the inferior brands.

No Tubercular Cows

The chief danger in raw milk lies in tubercular germs. Millions of infected cows, milked every day, are spreading consumption at a terrible rate.

That is why every authority advises sterilized milk.

Van Camp's milk is sterilized, but that isn't all. Our cows are inspected, so we know none is infected.

Our dairies are sanitary in the extreme. Our evaporating plants are built without wood. We employ every modern precaution.

The result is a milk which is utterly sterile. A milk that is safe, without a germ of any kind in it.

Rich Holstein Milk

We buy none but Holstein cows—the world's finest breed, famed for their splendid vitality.

The milk from such cows is immeasurably better for children than the milk of mongrel cows.

This milk, fresh from the cows, is placed in a vacuum. And a moderate heat, because of the vacuum, throws off the water in steam.

Thus we take out two-thirds of the water, and the milk that results is as thick as thick cream. It contains 28 per cent total solids, and 8 per cent butter fat.

We use no sugar, no starch, no preservative. Van Camp's is simply rich Holstein milk, reduced for convenience in shipping.

Six Cents Per Quart

The cost of Van Camp's, when you replace the water which we evaporate, is about six cents per quart.

The 10-cent can contains a full pint of milk reduced to the minimum. And grocers give discounts on cases.

So Van Camp's is cheaper than raw milk, because your milkman's daily delivery costs more than the milk itself.

And you have no waste when you use Van Camp's. You never have milk left over. You open a can when you want it, and it keeps till you use it up.

A Cow in the Kitchen

Van Camp's means a cow in the kitchen. Rich milk or cream for every purpose—all you want and all the time.

Add one part water for coffee or cereals. It is then like the richest cream. For cooking or drinking, reduce as you like.

Van Camp's gives to milk dishes twice the richness and flavor that you get from raw milk. For this is whole milk, with all the butter fat, all the solids in it.

In milkman's milk, the butter fat rises and the solids fall. You don't get the whole milk from any part of the can. Then you let it stand and it separates more. So the milk used for cooking is rarely more than a half-milk.

You'll be amazed at the flavor which Van Camp's gives to milk dishes. Not the slight almond flavor, due to sterilization, apparent when Van Camp's is drunk cold. You get that same flavor from milkman's milk when you heat it. The delicious flavor that Van Camp's gives to milk dishes is due to the richness, the wholeness of the milk.

Don't be Misled

If you want Holstein milk, reduced to the minimum, you will always insist on Van Camp's.

Others may claim that common milk, only partly reduced, is just as good as Van Camp's. But it isn't.

And don't think that condensed milk, which is nearly half sugar, is anything like Van Camp's. Van Camp's contains no sugar—no addition whatever.

Sugar was used to preserve milk before the days of sterilization. It is entirely unnecessary now. If you want sugar, you can buy it for half what it costs in a can of milk.

And condensed milk, because of the sugar, is unfit for cooking. You can't use it as you can Van Camp's. So, please let no one mislead you.

The 16-oz. can of Van Camp's sells for 10 cents; the 6-oz. can 5 cents. So you get one-third more for your money in buying the larger cans. Grocers give discounts on cases. The milk is produced at our dairies, located in six states.

ABOUT THE SHOW WAR

The Shuberts Are Out to Invade Cities Like Duluth.

Progress of "Independents" Makes New House Here Seem Likely.

Duluth hears rumors of new theaters every little while, but the most logical and reliable of all of them is that which was published in The Herald last evening, announcing that the Shuberts, the so-called "independent" managers, who are establishing a complete circuit of their own to compete with the Syndicate theaters, were trying to secure a theater in Duluth.

This is not the first time the Shuberts have warred against the Syndicate, which is virtually controlled by Al Hayman, Klaw & Erlanger and a few others. Last time they failed, and circumstances forced them to capitulate to the Syndicate war chiefs, although they received some concessions which the Klaw & Erlanger interests had denied others.

Now the Shuberts seem surer of success, and they have already arranged for and booked a string of theaters which extends from coast to coast, and which includes the largest cities in the Union.

In their former rebellion against the Syndicate the Shuberts were hampered by a shortage of two of the most important adjuncts of the show business, namely, theaters and plays with which to fill them. They boldly announce now that they have plenty of both, but they are not resting on their oars, for scarcely has a week elapsed this summer that they have not added to their circuit.

In their former repudiation of the "theatrical trust," the Shuberts scarcely had a theater west of the Mississippi river, with the exception of one house in St. Louis and another in Kansas City. This time, they are striking boldly out in the western half of the continent, which is a potent factor in the money-making side of theaterdom, as well as the aesthetic side, although provincial Easterners will not concede the latter.

Invade Twin Cities.

The advent of the Shuberts to the Twin Cities—they will book houses in both St. Paul and Minneapolis the coming season—opens the way for their invasion of Duluth and that they are going to secure a theater in this city, there seems to be no reasonable grounds for doubt.

Powerful money interests outside the theatrical game, interested which have soured against the methods of the syndicate in the East, are understood to be backing the Shuberts in their latest fight and certain it is, that the "independents" do not seem to be hampered by a lack of capital.

The announcements from the Shubert offices in the spring that next season they would book their attractions and those of managers who would follow their banner, over a circuit not booked by Al Hayman, Klaw & Erlanger, was quickly followed by the announcement of new Shubert theaters in Minneapolis, St. Paul, Denver, San Francisco, Seattle, Portland, Spokane and other Western cities wherein the theatrical entertainments had been previously controlled by the Syndicate.

But here's a point. The greatest weakness in the Shubert circuit during the first fight against the Syndicate, aside from the narrow limits of the circuit, lay in the fact that they had practically no houses in the "one night stands" and the cities not large enough to feed attractions for more than two or three nights.

It is impossible to maintain a circuit of combination houses without the smaller cities, the one night stands. It is from the cities of less than 100,000 population that theatrical companies often get their largest returns and they cannot afford to make big jumps from one large city to another without breaking them by engagements in the smaller places. Railroad fares are perhaps the biggest items of expense a theatrical company has to meet and a tour comprised of engagements in only the large cities and with big railroad jumps, is usually disastrous financially.

Need Smaller Cities.

All of this makes clear the need of such cities as Duluth, Winnipeg, Sioux City, Des Moines and even places boasting of no more than 15,000 or 20,000 population essential to the success of the "independent" circuit. The Syndicate would be in hard straits if it depended entirely upon the large cities and passed up the one night stands, and unless the Shuberts take reckoning of the cities of 100,000 and less, they court disaster. Their plan of campaign thus far in the present fight indicates, however, their appreciation of theatrical values and they are making an effort to get a footing wherever they can.

Duluth is out of the Oskaloosa-Chillicothe class. It is known among theatrical managers as a rattling good show town, capable of giving a good attraction paying audiences for three, four or five nights, and it is not to be thought for a moment that this fact is lost sight of in the New York booking offices.

Have Eyes on Duluth.

There is no doubt but that the Shuberts have had their eyes on Duluth, just as they have their eyes on every other good show town, and, with the Twin Cities now open to them, there is no reason to believe that they will not make a determined effort to secure a theater at the Head of the Lakes.

The story printed in last night's Herald was not mere conjecture, it being a fact that the Shuberts are about to investigate their chances of invading this city. Judging from their bold methods ever since this fight started, they will lose no time in building a theater if the outlook seems favorable.

While the Syndicate professes not to be worried by the plans and confidence of the Shuberts, there are heard cries of lamentation at the split in the show world, which if traced to their source, might be found in the camp of the trust itself. In any event, the war promises keener competition than the theatrical game has seen for years, and much of the benefits will be reaped by the people.

In numbers the "independents" are about the same as they were before, but they appear to be much stronger financially this time. Also they have more attractions to offer. David Belasco and Mrs. Fiske, their old allies, have deserted to the Syndicate, but the Shuberts have in their places Liebler & Co., whose attractions outnumber those controlled by Belasco and Mrs. Fiske together by a ratio of four to one.

The Lieblers have a long string of attractions to be booked on the independent circuit during the coming season, while the Shuberts themselves are preparing to send out more companies than they ever have in the past. They also have the successful plays to be given at the New theater in New York for road use. Lee Shubert being business manager of the new Gotham amusement temple.

Both factions of the warring theatrical chiefs claim the support of a number of managers, reputed to be on the fence, and the air of the Rialto is filled with rumors, contradictions and airy tales.

The chief acknowledged allies of Klaw & Erlanger are Charles Frohman, with an imposing list of attractions, headed by Maude Adams, John Drew and Ethel Barrymore, Henry B. Harris, William A. Brady, Henry W. Savage, Cohan & Harris, Frederic Thompson and Charles Dillingham.

The battle is interesting to watch, and it is a certainty that a vantage point like Duluth will not be lost sight of.

FORTUNE PAID TO WORKMAN

Judgment of $8,560 Against Coal Company Is Satisfied.

A verdict of $8,560 returned in district court May 27, 1908, in favor of Gust Anderson against the Pittsburg Coal company has been upheld by the supreme court, the mandate affirming the order denying a new trial being filed with the clerk of the district court yesterday. As soon as the mandate was received, the judgment against the coal company was satisfied and the case is closed.

Anderson was injured Oct. 22, 1907, while employed by the coal company at a dock in the West end. He was working in the hold with several other men and Lidzinski was stationed on the dock to warn them when the clam shell bucket was being lowered so that they might get out of danger.

Anderson claimed that at the time of the injury he was not notified that the bucket was being lowered. In its descent it struck the side of the hold. Anderson attempted to steady it and it was suddenly lowered, striking him and knocking him down.

He was severely crushed, a hip and leg being so injured that one of his legs is now shorter than the other. He brought suit for $20,275.

HOUSE AGREES TO BILL ON PHILIPPINE TARIFF.

Washington, Aug. 3.—The conference report on the Philippine tariff bill was agreed to by the house yesterday. The measure is supplementary to the Payne tariff bill and is intended to provide enough additional revenue to make up for the amount which will be lost by the enactment of the provision for free trade between the United States and the Philippines. A bill granting a franchise for the construction of a dam across the Savannah river was passed.

The remainder of the session was taken up with a discussion of the urgent deficiency appropriation bill, as amended by the senate. One of the amendments provided for carriages for the vice president and the speaker, and all of them were disagreed to.

GRAHAM BELL'S FLYER SMASHED IN TRIALS.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 3.—Preliminary trials of the flights of Alexander Graham Bell in his aerodrome, Silver Dart, were attempted yesterday at Petwawa military camp by Messrs. Baldwin and McCurdy. Three short flights were successfully concluded. A fourth attempt was made, but on landing the aerodrome struck a knoll and was damaged so badly as to render it practically useless. The aviators began assembling a new one and a flight with it will be attempted in a few days.

FIX DATES FOR MEETING ON LAKES-TO-GULF PLAN.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 3.—It was announced here Monday afternoon that Nov. 1, 2 and 3, had been definitely decided upon as the dates of the Lakes-to-Gulf deep waterway convention, to be held in New Orleans this fall. The latest change is made in order to conform with the plans of President Taft, who arrives here from St. Louis, Oct. 31.

Another Tunnel Opened.

New York, Aug. 3.—Another hole in the ground was opened yesterday to public traffic, the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad company extending its service from its terminal station at Church street, Manhattan, to the Erie railroad station in Jersey City. The running time of trains was well within the scheduled six minutes and the trains were well patronized. At the Erie terminal a system of colored lights distinguishing the various divisions of the railroad, was also inaugurated.

THAT TAX STATEMENT

Mayor Says That Alderman Shartel's Figures Are Misleading.

Mayor Haven declared this morning that Alderman Shartel's table of figures, presented at the council meeting last night, in an attempt to show that the central wards were not getting their share of street improvement money, was entirely misleading.

"I do not object to any one drawing up a table of figures on this point, so long as the table covers the whole field with exactness," said the mayor. "In fact, I wish some one would prepare just such a table. There is no question that it would show the four central wards are getting their full share of money for improvement work, and would also show that Mr. Shartel's figures are misleading.

"In the first place, he says nothing of the cost of street sweeping and cleaning in the central wards, or the cost of keeping the chain gang on the streets. The chain gang works exclusively in the central wards, and all the street cleaning and sweeping paid for out of the fund in question is also done in these wards. This comes to quite an item.

"Alderman Shartel said something about the $1,200 spent on London road improvement, and spoke as if the improvement were of purely local benefit. The whole city really is directly benefited by an improvement of this nature. Practically every firm and every individual in the city owning a horse or automobile uses London road extensively, where the majority of people living along the thoroughfare own neither horses nor automobiles. The same may be said of Garfield avenue and several other thoroughfares in wards not touching the central district.

"It is true enough that the central district is paying the biggest portion of the taxes, but where does it get the money with which to pay them? From these same outlying districts. What would our downtown stores do, for example, if they were cut off from street communication with the West end, West Duluth and Lakeside, and from all the wards, in fact, outside the Second, Third, Fourth and Fifth? Those of them which did not go out of business entirely would cut their forces down about two-thirds. All this being true, the central district, which is really getting more direct benefits from improvements in the outlying wards than are these wards themselves, should be willing to see street improvements made there. Every ward in the city is getting less money for street work than is really needed, owing to a shortage in the funds, but the central district is treated no worse than the others in this respect."

Alderman Shartel's table of figures showed that the Second, Third, Fourth and Fifth wards were this year paying taxes on a personal property assessment of $6,157,601, as compared to $3,035,412 paid by the other four wards. And these four wards paying the biggest share of the taxes, he says, got $4,087.28 in the way of salaries for street work during the first seven months of the year, while the other four wards, paying the small share of taxes, received $13,594.29 for the same purpose during the same period.

The street cleaning expenses and chain gang expenses are not included in these figures.

GEORGE T. SLADE ON THE STAND

W. L. Darling, chief engineer of the Northern Pacific Railroad company and George T. Slade, general manager of the same road, were the principal witnesses today in the case of the Thunder Bay Railroad company against the Northern Pacific for the right to cross the tracks of the latter company at Fifteenth avenue west.

The testimony of both men brought out the fact that it would be just as cheap in the end for the Soo to build an overhead bridge as it would for it to cross the tracks of the Northern Pacific.

Both men testified that the plan was practical and that it was successful elsewhere. Mr. Darling has prepared plans for the overhead bridge, showing how the idea could be worked out in a successful manner.

Mr. Slade said the idea of crossing the tracks as the Soo wishes is very impracticable. He testified as to the amount of traffic at this point every day, told about the delay that would naturally result should the Soo be granted the right, and testified that the crossing would be made a very dangerous place.

Much of the time is devoted to examining maps of the crossing, and the case is moving very slowly.

The case is on before Judge Page Morris of the federal court.

INVITED TO MEET HILL

Through the Duluth Commercial club an urgent invitation is issued to every business man of the city to meet James J. Hill, chairman of the board of directors of the Great Northern railroad, and Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific railroad, who, with a party of railroad men, will be tendered an impromptu reception at the rooms of the club at 8:30 Wednesday evening.

The officials of the club are most anxious that a large delegation of business men be present to meet Mr. Hill tomorrow evening. It is probable that Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern, will also be present.

The reception will be one in token of the esteem in which Mr. Hill is held by the business men of Duluth.

ARE IN GOOD CONDITION

City Milk Inspector Luxon has almost completed his inspection of dairies which suppy Duluth with milk and cream, and says that conditions thus far have been found to be very satisfactory. His monthly report, covering the month of July, shows that fifty barns were inspected inside the city limits, and thirty-one outside, making a total of eighty-one.

Forty milk samples were given the butter fat test, and four of these fell below the legal test of 3.5 per cent. One conviction was secured, the offender paying a fine of $15 and costs in municipal court. One hundred and twenty-two cows were tested for tuberculosis, and two of these were condemned.

"I am well satisfied with conditions as I find them in the different dairies," said Mr. Luxon this morning. "In a dozen stables the men now all wear white coats while milking, and a large number of milkmen have icehouses on their premises."

CAT MAILED TO LOCAL OFFICE

Think of mailing a cat.

That's the new idea in cat transportation, and it originated in New Duluth.

There was a surprised mail clerk this morning in the local postoffice when, on opening a mail sack, a live cat jumped forth into the light.

And wasn't the cat glad to be out? "The jig's up, the cat is out of the bag," said Mail Clerk No. 2, before the first mail clerk could recover his astonishment.

It isn't customary to mail cats and while the clerks do find all sorts of things in mail bags it isn't hardly an ordinary thing to find a cat.

A joke? Of course. The sack came from New Duluth, so naturally somebody in the suburb by the river is to blame.

Another article found in the mails today was a box of blueberries.

MADE SALOME LOOK LIKE PIKER

Ella Hegman has fits every month, during which she doesn't know anything and furthermore she shows an embarrassing disregard for conventions by dressing and undressing without regard to time or place, says John Omin, the girl's stepfather, in an information of insanity filed in probate court this morning.

The girl lives at Chisholm and is 22 years of age. She has been having fits frequently since she was 9 years of age and that is believed to be the cause of her demented condition. She was born in Finland and has lived at various times in Duluth, Ely and Chisholm. She will be brought to Duluth and examined this week.

WAITING AT THE CHURCH

Mrs. Mary Stanlake appeared at the court house bright and early this morning. In fact, the door of the clerk's office had been open only a few minutes when she glided blithely up to Deputy Clerk R. F. Johnson. She was going to meet a man on a "marriage affair," she said, and might she wait there. Certainly, she might wait. And she did. She waited one hour, two hours, and never a sign of the man. Nothing daunted, she waited on. She waited some and then waited some more, expectantly and ready to forgive and forget.

Finally, at 10:45, the wait of over two hours ended. The man in the case appeared, explanations were made, the bride-to-be was lenient, the license was secured, and they went away together to hunt up a clergyman who would tie the knot. If nothining went amiss the patient waiter is now Mrs. Olaf Rathe.

BAD SITUATION IN STOCKHOLM

Stockholm, Aug. 3.—A labor war throughout Sweden that is scheduled to begin tomorrow threatens to develop in Stockholm into something approaching a revolution. The trouble was aggravated by the present general strike and lockout.

The members of the Young Socialists' party are striving to give the movement a revolutionary character, and the government, warned that a political campaign is going on at the same time, has taken steps to nip the expected disorders in the bud. The authorities have decided, at the first signs of insurrection, to declare Stockholm in a state of siege.

OBITUARY

Rev. Dr. John C. Butler, pastor of the Lutheran Place Memorial church, Washington, D. C., and one of the most prominent Lutheran ministers in the United States, dropped dead from heart disease in his home Monday. He was 83 years old. For sixty years he had been a Lutheran minister in Washington. Forty years ago he was chaplain of the United States senate. President Lincoln appointed him one of the first hospital chaplains.

S. H. Bethea, United States judge for Northern district of Illinois, died in Sterling, Ill., Tuesday, Aug. 3, of paralysis of the heart. He had been sick for several months. Judge Bethea was born near Dixon, Ill., in 1852. He graduated from the University of Michigan in 1872 and was admitted to the bar of Illinois in 1877. In 1882 he was elected to the Illinois legislature as a member of the lower house. He bore a heavy part in the fight for instructions for McKinley at the Illinois state convention in 1896, making the speech for McKinley in that famous battle. In 1899 McKinely showed his appreciation by offering him the post of United States district attorney at Chicago. As district attorney, Judge Bethea prepared the evidence which was used in the government's beef investigation. He was appointed to the United States district court by President Roosevelt in 1905. Judge Bethea had been a prominent figure in the Republican party in Illinois and always had been one of the trusted counsellors of the "federal contingent" in the series of spectacular senatorial battles in the state during the last twenty years.

OLD SOL AND THE TARIFF

Are Kentucky's Chief Troubles at the Present Time.

John W. McCulloch of Owensboro, Ky., proprietor of the famous Green River distillery, president of several large manufacturing firms of Kentucky, national committeeman from Kentucky to the recent Republican national convention at Chicago, a member of Governor Wilson's staff, and well known in state Republican circles of Kentucky, is at the Spalding today.

This is the first trip of Mr. McCulloch to Duluth. He says that he is in love with the climate, as down in "Old Kentauk" they are having weather that would try the patience of Job. The two things that are stirring the citizens of Kentucky at the present time are the hot weather and the tariff, according to the statement of Mr. McCulloch.

Being a Republican, naturally Mr. McCulloch does not think that it is very strange that a Republican should be elected governor of Kentucky. He believes that the "Solid South" is gradually becoming a condition of the past, and that some day the presidential race and the different state elections will be as close as they are in the states of the North, where the party sentiment is more evenly divided at the present time.

Mr. McCulloch stated that Governor Johnson was well and favorably known in the South, especially in Kentucky, the governor having spoken in Louisville on different occasions.

Mr. McCulloch stated today that commercially and industrially the South was experiencing a great period of progress; that industrial conditions were improving, labor conditions were improving, and that in general the South was becoming more progressive, more alive to opportunities.

Mr. McCulloch is accompanied by Mrs. McCulloch and their two sons. L. W. Campbell, Chicago manager for Mr. McCulloch, and Mrs. Campbell are also here. The visitors took lunch today with L. W. Leithhead.

Mr. Campbell is a member of the G. A. R. of Chicago, having been a member of the same company that ex-Governor Van Sant of Minnesota was enlisted with. He was the treasurer of the Chicago lodge of Elks for twenty years, and is also a prominent Templar. The party will leave tonight on the North West.

KILLED IN FIELD.

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lightning killed Jack Stewart during the severe storm Saturday evening.

Stewart had been working out in the field in Hubbard county, and as he did not return home, searchers went looking for him. They found his body lying prone on the earth and a jagged hole through his hat indicated too plainly the cause of death.

Stewart's face was quite badly burned and the laces in both of his shoes had been entirely burned off.

LAUNCH PARTY UPSET.

Bayfield, Wis., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—A launch belonging to Andrew Ferms of La Pointe, Wis., containing ten summer resorters, suddenly capsized while rounding Little Girl's point off one of the Madeline islands yesterday and precipitated the party into the icy waters of Lake Superior. A crew of woodsmen on the nearby shore heard the cries of distress and hurried to the rescue with boats, all being saved.

THAT TAX STATEMENT

Mayor Says That Alderman Shartel's Figures Are Misleading.

Mayor Haven declared this morning that Alderman Shartel's table of figures, presented at the council meeting last night, in an attempt to show that the central wards were not getting their share of street improvement money, was entirely misleading.

"I do not object to any one drawing up a table of figures on this point, so long as the table covers the whole field with exactness," said the mayor. "In fact, I wish some one would prepare just such a table. There is no question that it would show the four central wards are getting their full share of money for improvement work, and would also show that Mr. Shartel's figures are misleading.

"In the first place, he says nothing of the cost of street sweeping and cleaning in the central wards, or the cost of keeping the chain gang on the streets. The chain gang works exclusively in the central wards, and all the street cleaning and sweeping paid for out of the fund in question is also done in these wards. This comes to quite an item.

"Alderman Shartel said something about the $1,200 spent on London road improvement, and spoke as if the improvement were of purely local benefit. The whole city really is directly benefited by an improvement of this nature. Practically every firm and every individual in the city owning a horse or automobile uses London road extensively, where the majority of people living along the thoroughfare own neither horses nor automobiles. The same may be said of Garfield avenue and several other thoroughfares in wards not touching the central district.

"It is true enough that the central district is paying the biggest portion of the taxes, but where does it get the money with which to pay them? From these same outlying districts. What would our downtown stores do, for example, if they were cut off from street communication with the West end, West Duluth and Lakeside, and from all the wards, in fact, outside the Second, Third, Fourth and Fifth? Those of them which did not go out of business entirely would cut their forces down about two-thirds. All this being true, the central district, which is really getting more direct benefits from improvements in the outlying wards than are these wards themselves, should be willing to see street improvements made there. Every ward in the city is getting less money for street work than is really needed, owing to a shortage in the funds, but the central district is treated no worse than the others in this respect."

Alderman Shartel's table of figures showed that the Second, Third, Fourth and Fifth wards were this year paying taxes on a personal property assessment of $6,157,601, as compared to $3,635,412 paid by the other four wards. And these four wards paying the biggest share of the taxes, he says, got $4,087.28 in the way of salaries for street work during the first seven months of the year, while the other four wards, paying the small share of taxes, received $13,594.29 for the same purpose during the same period.

The street cleaning expenses and chain gang expenses are not included in these figures.

GEORGE T. SLADE ON THE STAND

W. L. Darling, chief engineer of the Northern Pacific Railroad company and George T. Slade, general manager of the same road, were the principal witnesses today in the case of the Thunder Bay Railroad company against the Northern Pacific for the right to cross the tracks of the latter company at Fifteenth avenue west.

The testimony of both men brought out the fact that it would be just as cheap in the end for the Soo to build an overhead bridge as it would for it to cross the tracks of the Northern Pacific.

Both men testified that the plan was practical and that it was successful elsewhere. Mr. Darling has prepared plans for the overhead bridge, showing how the idea could be worked out in a successful manner.

Mr. Slade said the idea of crossing the tracks as the Soo wishes is very impracticable. He testified as to the amount of traffic at this point every day, told about the delay that would naturally result should the Soo be granted the right, and testified that the crossing would be made a very dangerous place.

Much of the time is devoted to examining maps of the crossing, and the case is moving very slowly.

The case is on before Judge Page Morris of the federal court.

INVITED TO MEET HILL

Through the Duluth Commercial club an urgent invitation is issued to every business man of the city to meet James J. Hill, chairman of the board of directors of the Great Northern railroad, and Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific railroad, who, with a party of railroad men, will be tendered an impromptu reception at the rooms of the club at 8:30 Wednesday evening.

The officials of the club are most anxious that a large delegation of business men be present to meet Mr. Hill tomorrow evening. It is probable that Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern, will also be present.

The reception will be one in token of the esteem in which Mr. Hill is held by the business men of Duluth.

ARE IN GOOD CONDITION

City Milk Inspector Luxon has almost completed his inspection of dairies which supply Duluth with milk and cream, and says that conditions thus far have been found to be very satisfactory. His monthly report, covering the month of July, shows that fifty barns were inspected inside the city limits, and thirty-one outside, making a total of eighty-one.

Forty milk samples were given the butter fat test, and four of these fell below the legal test of 3.5 per cent. One conviction was secured, the offender paying a fine of $15 and costs in municipal court. One hundred and twenty-two cows were tested for tuberculosis, and two of these were condemned.

"I am well satisfied with conditions as I find them in the different dairies," said Mr. Luxon this morning. "In a dozen stables the men now all wear white coats while milking, and a large number of milkmen have icehouses on their premises."

CAT MAILED TO LOCAL OFFICE

Think of mailing a cat.

That's the new idea in cat transportation, and it originated in New Duluth.

There was a surprised mail clerk this morning in the local postoffice when, on opening a mail sack, a live cat jumped forth into the light.

And wasn't the cat glad to be out? "The jig's up, the cat is out of the bag," said Mail Clerk No. 2, before the first mail clerk could recover his astonishment.

It isn't customary to mail cats and while the clerks do find all sorts of things in mail bags it isn't hardly an ordinary thing to find a cat.

A joke? Of course. The sack came from New Duluth, so naturally somebody in the suburb by the river is to blame.

Another article found in the mails today was a box of blueberries.

SUPERIOR NEWS

Warrants for the arrest of the two men were sworn out by a representative of the Douglas County Business Men's association.

It has been published in a neat form, and indicates the progress that has been made in the educational work of the city during the past few years. Will Sell School Bonds.

MADE SALOME LOOK LIKE PIKER

Ella Hegman has fits every month, during which she doesn't know anything and furthermore she shows an embarrassing disregard for conventions by dressing and undressing without regard to time or place, says John Omin, the girl's stepfather, in an information of insanity filed in probate court this morning.

The girl lives at Chisholm and is 22 years of age. She has been having fits frequently since she was 9 years of age and that is believed to be the cause of her demented condition. She was born in Finland and has lived at various times in Duluth, Ely and Chisholm. She will be brought to Duluth and examined this week.

WAITING AT THE CHURCH

Mrs. Mary Stanlake appeared at the court house bright and early this morning. In fact, the door of the clerk's office had been open only a few minutes when she glided blithely up to Deputy Clerk R. F. Johnson. She was going to meet a man on a "marriage affair," she said, and might she wait there. Certainly, she might wait. And she did. She waited one hour, two hours, and never a sign of the man. Nothing daunted, she waited on. She waited some and then waited some more, expectantly and ready to forgive and forget.

Finally, at 10:45, the wait of over two hours ended. The man in the case appeared, explanations were made, the bride-to-be was lenient, the license was secured, and they went away together to hunt up a clergyman who would tie the knot. If nothining went amiss the patient waiter is now Mrs. Olaf Rathe.

BAD SITUATION IN STOCKHOLM

Stockholm, Aug. 3.—A labor war throughout Sweden that is scheduled to begin tomorrow threatens to develop in Stockholm into something approaching a revolution. The trouble was aggravated by the present general strike and lockout.

The members of the Young Socialists' party are striving to give the movement a revolutionary character, and the government, warned that a political campaign is going on at the same time, has taken steps to nip the expected disorders in the bud. The authorities have decided, at the first signs of insurrection, to declare Stockholm in a state of siege.

OBITUARY

Rev. Dr. John C. Butler, pastor of the Lutheran Place Memorial church, Washington, D. C., and one of the most prominent Lutheran ministers in the United States, dropped dead from heart disease in his home Monday. He was 83 years old. For sixty years he had been a Lutheran minister in Washington. Forty years ago he was chaplain of the United States senate. President Lincoln appointed him one of the first hospital chaplains.

S. H. Bethen, United States judge for Northern district of Illinois, died in Sterling, Ill., Tuesday, Aug. 3, of paralysis of the heart. He had been sick for several months. Judge Bethea was born near Dixon, Ill., in 1852. He graduated from the University of Michigan in 1872 and was admitted to the bar of Illinois in 1877. In 1882 he was elected to the Illinois legislature as a member of the lower house. He bore a heavy part in the fight for instructions for McKinley at the Illinois state convention in 1896, making the speech for McKinley in that famous battle. In 1899 McKinely showed his appreciation by offering him the post of United States district attorney at Chicago. As district attorney, Judge Bethea prepared the evidence which was used in the government's beef investigation. He was appointed to the United States district court by President Roosevelt in 1905. Judge Bethea had been a prominent figure in the Republican party in Illinois and always had been one of the trusted counsellors of the "federal contingent" in the series of spectacular senatorial battles in the state during the last twenty years.

OLD SOL AND THE TARIFF

Are Kentucky's Chief Troubles at the Present Time.

John W. McCulloch of Owensboro, Ky., proprietor of the famous Green River distillery, president of several large manufacturing firms of Kentucky, national committeeman from Kentucky to the recent Republican national convention at Chicago, a member of Governor Wilson's staff, and well known in state Republican circles of Kentucky, is at the Spalding today.

This is the first trip of Mr. McCulloch to Duluth. He says that he is in love with the climate, as down in "Old Kentauk" they are having weather that would try the patience of Job. The two things that are stirring the citizens of Kentucky at the present time are the hot weather and the tariff, according to the statement of Mr. McCulloch.

Being a Republican, naturally Mr. McCulloch does not think that it is very strange that a Republican should be elected governor of Kentucky. He believes that the "Solid South" is gradually becoming a condition of the past, and that some day the presidential race and the different state elections will be as close as they are in the states of the North, where the party sentiment is more evenly divided at the present time.

Mr. McCulloch stated that Governor Johnson was well and favorably known in the South, especially in Kentucky, the governor having spoken in Louisville on different occasions.

Mr. McCulloch stated today that commercially and industrially the South was experiencing a great period of progress; that industrial conditions were improving, labor conditions were improving, and that in general the South was becoming more progressive, more alive to opportunities.

Mr. McCulloch is accompanied by Mrs. McCulloch and their two sons. L. W. Campbell, Chicago manager for Mr. McCulloch, and Mrs. Campbell are also here. The visitors took lunch today with L. W. Leithhead.

Mr. Campbell is a member of the G. A. R. of Chicago, having been a member of the same company that ex-Governor Van Sant of Minnesota was enlisted with. He was the treasurer of the Chicago lodge of Elks for twenty years, and is also a prominent Templar. The party will leave tonight on the North West.

KILLED IN FIELD.

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lightning killed Jack Stewart during the severe storm Saturday evening.

Stewart had been working out in the field in Hubbard county, and as he did not return home, searchers went looking for him. They found his body lying prone on the earth and a jagged hole through his hat indicated too plainly the cause of death.

Stewart's face was quite badly burned and the laces in both of his shoes had been entirely burned off.

LAUNCH PARTY UPSET.

Bayfield, Wis., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—A launch belonging to Andrew Ferms of La Pointe, Wis., containing ten summer resorters, suddenly capsized while rounding Little Girl's point off one of the Madeline islands yesterday and precipitated the party into the icy waters of Lake Superior. A crew of woodsmen on the nearby shore heard the cries of distress and hurried to the rescue with boats, all being saved.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

THE MARKET HAS SLUMP

Wheat Prices Go Lower in All the American Markets.

Flax Has an Easier Tone at the Close Here.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 3.—Wheat was very soft during the session in the American markets today, closing prices everywhere being off more than a point from yesterday.

Crop news continues bearish and Bradstreet's reported an increase of 623,000 bu in the world's visible supply of wheat. In the United States and Canada there was an increase of 2,623,000 bu, and in Europe and afloat a decrease of 2,000,000 bu.

Liverpool closed ⅛d higher to ½d lower, Berlin ⅜c lower and Budapest 1½c higher.

The September option closed 1¾c lower in Duluth, 1¼c lower in Chicago, 2⅛c lower in Minneapolis, ⅞c lower in New York, 1⅛c lower in St. Louis, 1⅝@1¾c lower in Kansas City. October wheat closed 1⅜c lower in Winnipeg. The December option closed 1½c lower in Duluth, 7⅛@7¼c lower in Chicago, 2c lower in Minneapolis, 1⅛c lower in New York, 1¼c lower in St. Louis, 1⅝c lower in Kansas City and 1¾c lower in Winnipeg.

September corn closed 1⅜c lower in Chicago and oats ⅜c lower.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat was easy at the opening and values ½@⅝d lower at the opening. Pressure was the result of the weak American cables yesterday, better weather in the United Kingdom and the bearish German semi-official report. Later, however, a strong feeling developed and prices gained ⅜@1⅛d, with the principal strength in September. Shorts were active and covered freely in September on the light merchants' stocks and the expected decrease in the European visible. Continued unfavorable reports from Argentina and unfavorable crop advices from Hungary also helped support the market. At this time, the market was firm and from ⅛@⅜d higher than Saturday.

"Corn was quiet at the opening and unchanged. Later prices showed a decline of ⅛d on the lower American cables, and the larger arrivals of plate parcels and cargoes."

Car receipts of wheat at Duluth were 35 against 110 last year. Chicago received 428 against 538 last year.

Clearances of wheat and flour were 188,000 bu.

Clearances of corn were 67,000 bu.

Wheat was rather quiet during the session in Duluth. September wheat opened ⅞c lower at $1.03¾, advanced to $1.03¾, declined to $1.02⅛ and closed at $1.02⅜, a loss of 1¾c from yesterday. December wheat opened ¼c higher at $1.02, and declined by the close to $1.00⅛, a loss of 1½c from yesterday.

Durum wheat closed 3c lower.

Flax was easier at the close. September flax opened unchanged at $1.40, declined to $1.38¾ and closed there, a loss of 1¼c from yesterday. October flax opened ¼c higher at $1.36, declined to $1.35½ and closed there, a loss of ⅝c from yesterday. November flax opened ½c lower at $1.35¼ and closed at $1.35.

Oats closed 6c lower, rye 1c lower and barley 3c to 6c lower.

Following are the closing prices: Wheat—No. 1 hard, on track, $1.25⅞; on track, No. 1 northern, $1.24⅜; No. 2 northern, $1.22⅜; September, $1.02⅜; December, $1.00⅛; May, $1.04; September durum, 96⅝c; October durum, 89⅝c; November durum, 89⅝c. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Sales Cause Slump From Firm Wheat Opening.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—Unexpected firmness today at Liverpool imparted moderate strength at the start to the wheat market here. Initial quotations in Chicago were unchanged to ⅝c higher compared with yesterday's close, and there was general buying by commission houses. Early in the session, however, a prominent cash concern began to sell freely, and caused a slump of nearly 1c. September declined to $1.03@1.03⅛ after opening at $1.03¾@1.04⅛. Weather in the Northwest was generally favorable for the new crop.

The market was weak the entire day. In the final half of the session prices declined another cent or more on stop-loss selling, inspired by heavier Southwestern markets. The bottom for September was reached at $1.01¾@1.01⅞. The close was weak with September down 1¼c at $1.02¼.

Increased offerings of corn in the Southwest and a slack demand for the cash grain here had a weakening effect early on the market for that grain here. Cash interests were the principal sellers. September opened a shade higher to ¼@⅜c lower at 65⅝@65¾c and sold off to 65¼c.

Extreme weakness prevailed all day, due partly to a sharp decline in the price of the cash grain. September sold off to 64⅛c. The market closed weak with September down 1⅜c at 64¼@64⅜c.

Renewed selling by country houses caused a further decline in the price of oats at the opening. Prices at the start were ⅛c higher to ¼@⅜c lower, September being at 37@37¼c. Later September sold off to 36⅞@37c.

Provisions were weak owing to profit-taking based on the fact that the monthly statement of stocks in store made a less bullish showing than was generally expected. Support was light. Prices at the opening were unchanged to 22½c lower.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Decline in Wheat Prices Brings Export Trade.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 3.—There was little news today that was encouraging to the holders of wheat. Rust proved to be confined to certain localities and there was little danger of spreading, said the crop experts. The decline today brought about some export trade. Local stocks decreased 325,000 bu for three days. Minneapolis received today 91 cars of wheat against 86 cars a year ago; Duluth 35 cars against 110 cars, and Winnipeg 57 cars. September opened $1.03½; high $1.03¾, low $1.01¼; closed $1.01½; December opened $1.02; high $1.02, low 99⅝c, closed 99⅞c.

Cash wheat was weaker today. There was a good inquiry for spring wheat, but most of the offerings were winter. Offerings were light. No. 1 northern sold for 23@26c above the September option and No. northern for 22@24c above. No. 1 northern spot, $1.25½; new to arrive, $1.02¾; No. 2 northern, $1.23½ spot; new to arrive, $1.00¾; No. 3 wheat, $1.18½@1.21½; No. 3 yellow corn, 64¼@65¼c; No. 3 white oats, 40⅞@43⅞c; No. 3 white oats, 40⅞@43⅞c; No. 2 rye, 68¾@71¼c.

Flax—Receipts 1 car today against 6; shipments, none. Demand was fair but offerings were light and the market inactive. Prices were 1c below the Duluth September. Closing prices, $1.38½.

Barley—Receipts, 15 cars today against 9; shipments, 13. Demand for old barley was good, but offerings of old crop were light. Inquiry for the new stuff was light and prices were easier. Closing range old 54@65c; new, 42@54c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 947 tons. There was no change today. Shipments continued light, prices steady and demand fair. Bran, blank.

Flour prices are lower today on account of the decline in wheat. Demand on the old crop basis was slow, but an active foreign inquiry was reached from the new basis. Shipments were light, 33,917 bbls. Firsts, $5.90@6.00; second patents, $5.70@5.90; first clears, $4.95@5.25; second clears, $3.35@3.55.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 3.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: The market took an unexpected active turn, and a number of good sales were made to city icing and brewing interests, but the feature of the trade was the sale of two carloads of railroad horses and mules for shipment West. Several loads of horses and mules arrived during the day, among the shippers on the market being Leo Froelich, H. H. Howe, John Montgomery and Robert Montgomery. There was a light call for second-hand horses, but the supply was limited.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Aug. 3.—The cotton market opened easy at a decline of 9@15 points and sold 14@16 points net lower, under aggressive bearish pressure and scattering liquidation promoted by easier cables than expected and apprehensions of depression with the approach of the new crop movement. STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR Record Prices By Union Pacific and United States Steel.

Close Very Active With Struggle Between Speculative Forces.

New York, Aug. 3.—The opening dealings in stocks today showed mixed changes, but the declines were more numerous and more important. The reluctance shown by the London market to follow the two days' advance here while that market was closed, induced some heavy realizing sales. Reading ran off 1⅜ and Southern Pacific, New York Central, Missouri Pacific, Southern Railway preferred, Amalgamated Copper and American Smelting large fractions. Pressed Steel Car was marked up 2 points. The trading was active.

Although there was aggressive buying of a number of the low-priced railroads and specialties, the usual leaders lacked strength and sold off late to the lower range. Reading made up its opening loss, but fell back to the lowest. Southern Pacific, St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred and American Ice lost a point. Railway Steel Spring and American Hide & Leather preferred improved 2½ and a number of other specialties 1 to 1½.

Advances in copper stocks and in some specialties helped to steady the market, but realizing sales were renewed from time to time. Federal Sugar preferred and General Chemical sold at advances of 5, United States Pipe, 2; Pittsburg Coal preferred, 1¾; International Pump, 1½, and American Smelting and several others, 1. Northern Pacific declined 1 and Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis, 1½. The market was dull and irregular at noon. Bonds were steady.

The rise to record high prices in Union Pacific and the United States Steel stocks stimulated the market. There was a large accumulation of Inter-Metropolitan preferred and the 4½ per cent bonds. Union Pacific rose to 202¼, United States Steel brought 75 and the preferred 129¼. United States Rubber and American Car preferred and the Bethlehem Steel stocks advanced 2¼ to 2½; Metropolitan Street Railway and Inter-Metropolitan preferred 2, the 4½ per cent bonds 3, Wabash preferred 36 and Amalgamated Copper 1.

The market closed irregular and very active. Reading rose a point with sustaining effect, but the irregular movement indicated a struggle between speculative forces. Central Railroad of New Jersey gained 7; American Car preferred 5, Pressed Steel Car 3½, Pullman 3, International Harvester 2¼ and Delaware & Hudson 1. Selling pressure increased toward the last.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Piper, Johnson & Case.

KNIGHTS LISTEN TO ARCHBISHOP

Mobile, Ala., Aug. 3.—The national convention of the Knights of Columbus opened here this morning. The principal hotels and homes are thronged with guests and delegates and the city last night was brilliantly illuminated.

The business sessions of the convention began with a parade at 8:30 a. m. from the Knights of Columbus hall to the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception. High mass was celebrated by Bishop Allen of the Ohio diocese, after which the opening exercises took place in the Lyric theater.

Archbishop Glennon, addressing the knights at the pontifical high mass preceding the opening of the convention, said in part:

"The Constitution of the United States is a guarantee of religious liberty, and the time has come when no set of men can array themselves against the religion of their fellow citizens. The American Catholic lifts above his country's standard and his heart devotion no symbol higher, save that one alone that has given to America its Constitution and to the world its civilization—the symbol of divinity."

He urged the knights to sustain every cause that is noble, placing citizenship above party, extending to all, irrespective of race or creed, the even-handed justice that they themselves demand.

Tokio, Aug. 3.—It transpired today that the greatest stumbling block in the way of an amicable settlement between China and Japan of the differences over the Antung-Mukden railway is the order issued by the Chinese authorities that no lands should be sold to Japanese along the line, under severe penalty.

This and several other questions concerning Japanese policies in China will be determined in a short time, it is expected; as the whole matter was placed in the hands of the emperor yesterday by Foreign Minister Komura.

SENT AWAY IN TRUNKS

Boy and Girl Kidnaped at St. Louis May Be in Chicago Now.

Police Make Three Arrests and Develop New Theory in the Case.

St. Louis, Aug. 4.—Three additional arrests were made early today in the kidnaping case of Grace and Timmasso Viviano, who were taken from their homes here Monday and are being held for $25,000 ransom. With the arrest of the suspects the police announced a belief that the children were put in trunks and shipped out of the city.

Lamantia Giroloma and Domino Luttieco, employes of Pietro Fanare, a grocer, were the suspects taken to police headquarters today. Giroloma admitted having taken three trunks in a grocery wagon to an express office. Vincenzo Ricardo, a friend of Sam Turrisi, with whom the children disappeared, and an unidentified man supposed to be Turrisi, rode to the express office with the trunks. The trunks were put on the wagon at the home of Joseph Fagano, who was arrested yesterday.

The police made the rounds of the express offices with Giroloma, who said

TWENTY KILLED TO HIDE THEFTS

Charge Is Made That Officer Wrecked Ship to Protect Himself.

Sebastopol, Russia, Aug. 4.—Lieut. Aquilonoff, who was in command of the Russian submarine Kambala when that vessel was sunk off Sebastopol, last June, by collision with the battleship Rostislav, with the loss of twenty members of her crew, has been sentenced to five years penal servitude, the loss of all his rights, and degradation from his rank on a charge of embezzling naval funds.

The indictment against the lieutenant was drawn before the foundering of the Kambala. The newspapers today accuse Aquilonoff of intentionally issuing the order that resulted in the collision between the submarine and the battleship, for the distinct purpose of hushing up the embezzlement charges.

SAYS CRISIS HAS PASSED

Madrid Government Issues Announcement Regarding Interior Affairs.

Barcelona Is Quiet, Except for Dissatisfaction Among the Masses.

Madrid, Aug. 4.—The government today issued an official announcement, saying the crisis in Spain is now at an end, and that the country is tranquil from the Bay of Biscay to the Mediterranean. The release of Senor Iglesias, editor of El Progreso, and a certain relaxation of the censorship are considered the best evidences that the danger is past.

The minister of the interior has given out a statement, in which he says, among other things, that not only the reservists, but volunteers are flocking to the recruiting stations for service in Morocco.

Barcelona Is Quiet.

Barcelona, Aug. 4.—The life of Barcelona continues today to pursue its normal course. The only evidence of the terrible nightmare through which the city passed last week are the ruins of the convents and churches and the torn up pavements, the stones of which are used for the erection of barricades.

There is, however, considerable disquietude for the future. The terrible repressive measures of the military authorities have left a deep undercurrent of resentment among the masses, and fears are entertained that the rebellion may flare up again in a new form. The people are clamoring for the release of the prisoners in the dungeons of Fort Mont Juich. Sabadell and Tarrassa have submitted to the troops, and the mushroom republics proclaimed in some of the communes faded away as soon as the soldiers made their appearance.

NEAR MURDER IN WALDORF

Woman Shoots Man and Says Bullet Was Meant for Herself.

Former Actress Makes Scene When Arraigned for Assault.

New York, Aug. 4.—Mrs. Neville Castle declared today that the bullet which she fired from her little 22-caliber revolver and which slightly injured William D. Craig last evening, in a corridor of the Waldorf-Astoria, was intended for herself.

Craig's life was saved by a fountain pen, which deflected the bullet. After inflicting a slight flesh wound, the lead dropped into his coat pocket.

When detectives arrived the woman was sitting on a lounge and weeping hysterically. Taken to a police station, she said she was an insurance agent and had a brother, Capt. Henry Scott, stationed at Fort Morgan, near Mobile, Ala. She pointed to Craig, who was standing nearby, and, after pleading for him to forgive her, said:

"He is the cause of my trouble. He has thrown me over."

Mrs. Castle's statement today was

SAY ELEVATED WILL NOT STOP

Chicagoans Get Reassurances From Officials in Face of Strike Fears.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—If the threatened strike on the surface street car lines of Chicago takes place, the public may still depend on the four elevated lines. The heads of the elevated lines declared that their employes are working under a perfectly satisfactory agreement which has a year more to run.

"The effect of a strike on the surface lines," said Mason B. Starring, president of the Northwestern Elevated, "would be merely to increase the traffic on the elevated lines. There is not the slightest chance of our men going out in sympathy with the surface men."

Has 1,000 Miles on Surface.

There are nearly 1,000 miles of surface lines in Chicago, however, and a tieup, despite all that the elevate roads could do, would entail great inconvenience, particularly in many sections not reached by the overhead system. In addition, the strike would cost the city millions of dollars in loss of business.

Hope of averting the strike is still held out by the attitude of city officials, the state board of arbitration, which will arrive here tonight, and by the stand of many of the union men themselves. Among the latter it is insisted that W. D. Mahon, the international president, be called here at once. They say he would have a better chance of reaching a settlement now than later.

LIME KILN WORKERS' STRIKE IS SETTLED.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 4.—An Evening Wisconsin special from Fond du Lac, Wis., says:

The strike of 250 lime kiln workers, affecting two lime kilns at Marblehead and one at Hamilton, near here, was settled today, the men returning to work at the old scale, $1.60 per day.

SKUNK-FIGHTING PUP IS TOO MUCH FOR JOHN D., JR.

Tarrytown, N. Y., Aug. 4.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Mrs. Rockefeller yesterday gave a living example that even the possession of millions in money will not deliver a person entirely from the weaknesses of poor human nature. A small boy helped the exhibition along, and the small boy's dog, which had been fighting a polecat, helped it even more.

Mr. Rockefeller returned to Pocantico just in time to throw his influence in favor of the present members of the district school board in yesterday's election, and the ballots were counted in the schoolhouse. There was a crowd there, and among the rest came the small boy and the dog. Soon after these two entered the schoolhouse the others present began to cough and choke, and Mr. and Mrs. Rockefeller, who were on hand to watch the counting, coughed and choked with the rest. Finally it got so that nobody could stand it any longer and the counting was postponed while all went out for a breath of fresh air. Meantime the janitor sprinkled the room liberally with carbolic acid and aired it, after which the people returned, all except the boy and his dog.

The election was unanimous in favor of Mr. Rockefeller's proteges. Most of the voters in the vicinity are employed on the Rockefeller estate.

MALONEY GOES UP FOR LONG TERM

New Orleans Man to Begin Fourteen Years in Prison for Forgery.

New Orleans, Aug. 4.—To begin a sentence of fourteen years, Robert J. Maloney, formerly a leading lawyer of New Orleans, will be taken to the state penitentiary tonight for forgeries exceeding $150,000. Many clients whom Maloney defrauded petitioned the governor to let him remain in New Orleans to straighten out some of the tangled transactions of which the petitioners were the victims. The governor decided last night, however, that six months was a long enough period for such assistance.

GIVE GAVEL TO PAYNE

Movement to Make Tariff Framer Speaker Is Begun in House.

Cannon's Friends Warn Him Not to Antagonize the Members.

Washington, Aug. 4.—A number of the Republican "rule insurgents" have not gone back to the "reservation." The close vote last Saturday on the tariff conference report in the house showed this.

An incipient boom for Sereno E. Payne, author of the tariff bill, for speaker of the next congress, has, in connection with this showing of "insurgent" strength, caused several of Speaker Cannon's friends to contend that "Uncle Joe" cannot afford to discipline those Republicans who held important committee assignments in the last congress and who voted with the "insurgents" at the beginning of the present session.

SPENDTHRIFT IS NO LONGER HEIR

Prince Hermann Renounces Claims of Himself or His Descendants.

Weimar, Germany, Aug. 4.—Prince Hermann of Saxe-Weimar-Eisenach, the heir presumptive to the grand duchy of Weimar, has announced the succession of himself or his heirs, if any, to the throne of the grand duchy or its property.

This action, which was carried out with every official formality, is in consequence of the prince's extravagance, which had caused his transfer from the cuirassiers of the guard in Berlin to a Uhlan regiment garrisoned at Saarburg, and later to compulsory retirement from the army. After his retirement from the army he was placed under a guardianship. The prince has been given the title of Count Osthelm, but he is totally bankrupt, and remains under the control of his guardians.

PEOPLE ARE ARMING FOR LABOR WAR

Citizens of Stockholm Strip Stores of Small Fire-arms.

Crisis Shows Signs of Becoming More Acute at Any Time.

Failure of Food Supplies Threatens to Breed Serious Trouble.

Stockholm, Aug. 4.—Fully half the people in Stockholm are under arms this morning, and the rest of the citizens are securing weapons as a means of self-protection, so acute does the labor crisis threaten to grow. The gunshops of the city are practically denuded of revolvers and small arms.

Tourists are leaving the city as fast as the transportation facilities will permit, and though there is practical quiet at present, there are signs that indicate the possible breaking of a storm at any moment.

While the ranks of the strikers are considerably swelled, the general strike called for today has not yet become entirely effective. Many organizations, although sympathising with the strikers, hesitate to join them actively. The employes of the street car lines and the cab drivers stopped work this morning, and neither cabs nor street cars are available.

Incensed at Troops.

The fact that the troops are protecting the gas works and the electric lighting plant has incensed the workmen, whose leaders threaten to call out all the men unless the soldiers are withdrawn. The printers' union held a meeting this morning, but resolved to postpone for the present any decision in the matter of going on strike.

A corps of workmen, some thousands strong, is being organized with the object of maintaining order. The number of visitors now in the city is smaller than at this season for many years past.

"Although the railroad men have decided not to strike, the government is taking the precaution to guard the tracks with troops, fearing attempts to blow up bridges or injure the permanent way. Quantities of dynamite are reported to have mysteriously disappeared recently from the government stores.

The leaders of the strikers claim that the end of the week will see a notable spread of the movement; that the railroad, postal, telegraph and newspaper employes and the printers will by that time have joined in the strike.

FINE BARN IS BURNED

Electric Storm Plays Havoc Around Suburbs of Crookston.

Several People Knocked Down and Fuses Are Burned Out.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Crookston and vicinity were visited this forenoon by another terrific electric storm accompanied by a very light shower. Lightning struck the new double barn of J. F. Ingersoll, who resides in the suburbs about a mile from the center of the city.

The barn took fire and was totally destroyed. Four horses and a cow and calf were cremated. The balance of the stock was saved but the contents of the barn were totally destroyed. The total loss is about $7,500; insurance about $3,000. The bolt was a most terrific one, knocking several people in the streets down and scores of horses fell to their knees. The electric light fuses were burned out in over a score of business places.

The lightning put the electric fire alarm out of commission temporarily and the department was not called out for twenty minutes after the Ingersoll barn was on fire.

WEST GIVES PROOF THAT COUNTRY IS PROPEROUS

Washington, Aug. 4.—Indisputable evidence that the country is rapidly recovering from the effects of the recent financial depression and that it now is on the crest of a great prosperity wave is furnished by appeals received by the division of information of the department of commerce and labor, particularly from the West. The greatest cry for labor comes from Lincoln, Neb. The commercial bodies of that city made a similar appeal before the panic, but following the "slump" countermanded the request for labor.

In a letter received from W. S. Whitten, secretary of the Commercial Club of Lincoln, it is asserted that "there is a great need of labor, both skilled and common, throughout the state, particularly in Lincoln and Omaha and the smaller cities, where more or less manufacturig is done. The development of manufacturing in Nebraska has been retarded in a large measure through the lack of labor, both male and female."

A scale of wages is submitted, showing that "good money" is paid laborers.

Shortly following the panic, a La Crosse, Wis., manufacturing firm wrote that "we will not have any difficulty in getting all the help we want now," but through Representative Esch of that state, the concern now writes that it wants "ten or fifteen families of five children each."

T. V. Powderly, chief of the division of information, said today:

"These straws point quite accurately toward prosperity in Nebraska and Wisconsin."

FOUGHT THE ORDINANCE

Franchise of Terminal Railway Not Secured Without a Struggle.

All Testimony Is Submitted in Action for Amendment.

The last testimony was submitted to Judge Dibell in district court this morning in the action brought by the city of Duluth against the Duluth Terminal Railway company, in which the city seeks to secure the annulment of the railway company's franchise on the ground that John B. Sutphin, the mayor who signed the ordinance granting the franchise, was a stockholder in the company.

G. G. Hartley told this morning of the fight made against the ordinance when it was up for consideration before the council. The company was organized under the direction of the Chamber of Commerce, he said, in order to secure better terminal facilities for all roads here and to obviate the switching charges then paid to the different railroads. The incorporators were members of the chamber of commerce, he said, and had no other interest than the promotion of the general good. The original plan was to extend the terminal tracks around the bay and to West Duluth, but it was never carried out.

Many people couldn't see that the object of the incorporators was not selfish, he said. The charge was made that they sought the franchise in order that they might sell the city out to some railroad company and make a lot of money. It was even charged that money was being used with the aldermen in behalf of the franchise. Mr. Hartley said both charges were untrue. Both sides fought hard, but the franchise was granted on its merits, without any undue influence being exerted on the aldermen. On the final vote, one alderman dissented, the council being made up of twelve members.

Mayor Sutphin was not benefitted by the granting of the ordinance any more than any other business man of the city, Mr. Hartley said. Mr. Sutphin's cold storage house was on Minnesota point and he had other property in Oneota, but no property directly on the line of the railroad.

At the conclusion of the case, Attorney C. O. Baldwin for the railway company, moved for a dismissal, but his motion was denied. The case will be submitted on briefs and then the findings will be made.

HAS "COLD STORAGE EXTRA" ON TARIFF BILL.

Washington, Aug. 4.—With a view to hastening the signing of the Payne tariff bill, the government printing office has nearly every page of the measure printed on parchment so that the bill can be submitted for the signature of the speaker, the vice president and the president almost as soon as congress has finally agreed to the bill. Only the pages likely to be changed by the concurrent resolution of the two houses, it is said, remain to be printed. It is estimated that within thirty minutes after the final action by congress the measure will be ready for signature by the officials and will become the law of the land.

GREECE REFUSES TURKS' DEMAND

Constantinople, Aug. 4.—Greece has replied to the Turkish note presented today, which, although couched in friendly terms, practically demands the recall of the Greek officers serving in Crete, to the effect that the question is in the hands of the four powers of Crete, with whose knowledge and consent the officers in question were sent to the island. Turkey is appealing to the four protecting powers, and she intimates that her friendly request to Greece will be followed, unless satisfaction is obtained, by a more energetic demand.

The report that Turkey has dispatched transports with troops on board to Crete is denied today, but it seems probable that the Turkish fleet now maneuvering in the neighborhood of Rhodes will proceed to Cretan waters. In this event the British admiral, Sir Douglas Gamble, in command of the fleet, would hand over his charge to a Turkish admiral. Sir Douglas, a British officer, has been engaged, with the permission of his government, in reorganizing the Ottoman navy.

CROSSED PANAMA DURING THE GOLD CRAZE OF '49

HENRY I. BEERS.

Many interesting experiences have been crowded into the long life of Henry I. Beers of Oil City, Pa., who, with his wife, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. R. S. Powell of 2014 East Superior street. Mr. Beers is nearly 80 years old, but he is well preserved and free from most of the ailments that afflict those who pass the allotted three score and ten.

Mr. Beers was one of the thousands who rushed for the gold fields of California at the time of the excitement in '49. He saw San Francisco when it was a village of 5,000 people and he saw it in its zenith. Three times, he saw great fires threaten its destruction and he was visiting there when the beautiful city was laid low in 1905. Though he has been in business in Oil City for the past forty-seven years, he has been in close touch with the metropolis of the Pacific coast and he likes to talk of it and the phenomenal growth that it has had.

When Mr. Beers went to California in '49, he crossed the isthmus of Panama, going from New York to the isthmus and from Panama to San Francisco by steamer. He left the farm at Ridgefield, Conn., where he was raised, and was clerking in a New York store at 15 years of age. He was 18 when the gold fever struck him and he and another young man started from New York, making the trip to San Francisco in forty-two days. They went by steamer from New York to the mouth of the Chagres river. There they a canoe and were poled up the river by natives to Cruces, where they transferred to mules that took them to the Pacific coast. The trip from the mouth of the Chagres to the coast was made in eight days.

"We arrived in San Francisco during the heat of the gold fever," said Mr. Beers. "Thousands of people were crowding into the city, which had only about 5,000 permanent population at the time. They came in steamers and overland, some going around the horn, others going across the isthmus, as we did, all consumed with hope and many doomed to despair.

"Those times were memorable. Every man afflicted by the fever turned westward if he could beg, borrow or steal the money. The coast was overrun with men who were crazed by the sensation of the times. Some made fortunes and lost them again. Others worked unceasingly, only to meet with disappointment at every turn. Hundreds died and hundreds of hearts were broken. Men who were prospering in the East staked their all on a chance and the cards of fate turned against them, leaving families destitute.

"Many struck it rich, of course, but one cannot but think of the misery and suffering that resulted from the rush to the land of promise."

Mr. Beers went into business in San Francisco and remained for twelve years, making one trip East to get married and another on business before he closed out his interests on the Pacific coast. When the oil excitement arose over the discoveries in Pennsylvania he went to Oil City and engaged in business. He has lived there now for forty-seven years.

Mr. Beers is delighted with Duluth. This is his third trip here, the first being fifteen years ago and the second ten years ago. He spoke this morning of the growth of the city since his last visit.

"I cannot but compare Duluth to San Francisco," he said. "Though no great disaster has struck this city, forcing the building and rebuilding, the city has grown wonderfully. I see vast tracts of land that were covered with timber when I was here last, now covered with fine, substantial residences. There must be much wealth here that such growth is possible. I was surprised when I visited San Francisco a year after the earthquake, but I am none the less surprised on this visit to Duluth. It is a grand city."

Mr. Beers will remain in Duluth for several weeks enjoying the lake breezes before he returns to his Pennsylvania home.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The next week will be a busy one at the various branches of the Duluth Boat club. Tomorrow evening the informal weekly dance at the Oatka branch will be held. The object of these informal gatherings is to get the laughs out of one's system, according to one of the active members, and the program for the evening is designed with that object in view. Tomorrow evening the water baseball game will be held and there will be an amateur vaudeville performance. The piano will be moved out to the side porch and every member with a bit of talent will be pressed into service. There will be popular songs and duets and mandolin music and any other "stunt" that can contribute to the happiness of the crowd. The usual dancing party will follow.

Saturday's affair promises to be one of the most popular events of the summer. It is to be known as "ladies' day," and the series of races and the entire program will be planned with the young women of the club in the place of honor. The sailing races promise to be particularly interesting. The boats of the four classes will be started with a fair skipper at the tiller—if the skipper presides at the tiller—or if not anywhere else that may be considered expedient. The names of the sailing masters for Saturday have not yet been announced, but much coaching is being given during these last few days.

There will be canoe races, both in the war canoe class and the single canoes, each "manned" by two young women, and the head line feature of the afternoon will be a swimming race between some of the expert swimmers who, during the last two years, have learned to attempt progress through the water with their mouths shut. There is a degree of mystery surrounding the entries in the swimming race, but there is great assurance that the event will come off.

The usual Saturday night dance will follow the program of sports.

The most important event of the month will be the Venetian carnival, which will take place Monday evening at the main house of the boat club. Already sixty canoes and rowboats have been reserved by members to be decorated for the fete. Japanese lanterns have been provided for the decorations at this event, and 2,000 will be at the disposal of the committees and the members. The line of lights in the decorations will be graceful and dainty, no solid effects will be sought, as the carnival is an expression of the lightest kind of summer frivolity and happiness. The clubhouse and flagstaffs and boats will be fairly ablaze with lights. The water space in front of the clubhouses will be reserved for the decorated boats, and a police boat will keep the larger craft outside of this space in order that the smaller boats may not be inconvenienced by the wash of the big ones. The Third Regiment band has been engaged and will play at the head of the procession.

It has been estimated that 10,000 people witnessed the Venetian carnival last year, and many out-of-town visitors who were delighted at the beauty of the scene have arranged their visit to the city this year at the time of this event.

After the parade the band will be stationed in the center of the tennis courts and the dancing party will be held there. The members may barn dance to their hearts' content without fear of violating a city ordinance. The preparation for these events is keeping the boat club members much occupied during the week.

The members of the Junior assembly will entertain at a dancing party tomorrow evening at the main house of the boat club. The chaperones will be Mr. and Mrs. John McGregor. UNIONIST IS PLEASED Officer of Carpenters' Brotherhood Says Conditions Are Improving.

Is Here to Straighten Out Error in Local Union's Books.

Straightening out clerical errors in the books of the local carpenters' union and making them uniform with the books at the national headquarters has brought to the city John Walquist of Minneapolis, a member of the general executive board of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.

"At the general office we have more names on the roster of the Duluth union than they have on the books here and I am in Duluth to straighten out the mistake," said Mr. Wolquist. "It is important that the records at the general office be correct, as upon the records there are paid out the benefits to members for disability and the funeral costs for members who die. If their names are not on the books at the national headquarters, these benefits are lost to them.

"In this case, some of the names at national headquarters have not been credited here. I imagine the mistake arose from the consolidation of the ship carpenters' union with the regular carpenters about a year ago. I expect to be here about two weeks.

"The Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners is in excellent condition at the present time," continued Mr. Walquist. "In Minneapolis, this spring, we secured an increase in wages of 2½ cents an hour, without any opposition from the employers, and in other parts of the country we have received slight wage increases. Only one local union, the Fargo, N. D., local, is having any trouble now. The Fargo carpenters are fighting for a nine-hour day, instead of ten hours. About half of the contractors have agreed to the demand and the men have gone back, but the rest are holding out.

"The Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners is the largest union of skilled mechanics in the land. The United Mine Workers have a greater membership but we do not class them as strictly skilled mechanics. Last month, a handsome new brick building, three stories high, was dedicated as the national headquarters of the Brotherhood, at Indianapolis. It was built by the union and the general offices of the union occupy the first floor and the basement. The second floor is occupied by the national headquarters of the Teamsters' and Barbers' unions. The third floor will probably be rented to a trades union, too.

"Former President William Shields, of the Brotherhood and Secretary Morrison of the American Federation of Labor were among the speakers at the dedicatory exercises, which were concluded with a banquet at the German house, Indianapolis, which was attended by 325 persons.

"A trades union of the size and scope of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners is a mighty big concern, as you will realize when I tell you that from $22,000 to $25,000 is paid out by the general office every month in benefits for members or their families. Members who are disabled and unable to follow the trade longer receive $400 from the national union and in case of death, the union contributes $200 for funeral expenses.

"Most of the local unions have a sick benefit feature, which they operate individually and in some of the large locals, the amounts paid out equal those expended by the executive offices."

Friedman's New Cloak and Suit House opens Saturday, Aug. 7, at 7 West Superior street.

MARINE

NEW BOAT ON HER FIRST TRIP

Conemaugh, New Anchor Line Package Freighter, Due Here Saturday.

The Conemaugh, the new package freighter owned by the Anchor line, is expected to make the port of Duluth Saturday.

She is on her first trip, having been launched only a short time ago. She is 372 feet long, 30 feet deep, has a capacity for 5,000 tons of merchandise and is equipped with engines that enable her to make thirteen miles an hour.

With the new boat the Anchor line now operates a fleet of fourteen vessels, eight of which make this port.

Capt. Angus MacKenzie, who has been in the service of the Anchor line for many years, is in command of the new boat. His last charge was the steamer Muncy.

The American Shipbuilding company had the contract for the boat and they finished her more than a month before the contract time. She was launched June 24 and until she started for Duluth from Cleveland she had made but one short trial trip.

She carries a crew of thirty men and will be used between Duluth and Lake Erie ports.

TO RAZE ESCANABA DOCK.

Damaged Last Spring It Will Be Torn Down at Once.

Escanaba, Mich., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The contract for razing No. 5 Northwestern dock here, a portion of which collapsed last spring, has been awarded to L. M. Peppard of Minneapolis, who will begin the work of dismantling the structure immediately.

No action has yet been taken to provide for the construction of a new dock to take the place of the old structure, but it is believed that plans to that end will be made before fall. Mr. Peppard has held the contract for the construction of several of the local docks, and he has a crew of men constantly engaged in either building new docks, tearing down old ones or in making extensive repairs.

All of the ore cars that were carried down with the dock when it collapsed have been recovered and transferred. In razing the old dock all of the sound timbers will be taken out with as little damage as possible.

DOCK WORKER KILLED.

Fell to Deck of Steamer Frontenac at Marquette.

Madquette, Mich., Aug. 4.—Nicolas Mikoff, a top worker at the L. S. & I. dock, was killed Monday afternoon by being thrown from the dock to the deck of the steamer Frontenac, which was loading ore below.

Mikoff at the time of the accident, was clutching the crank attached to the drum used to raise and lower the ore chute. The timber to which the brake controlling the chute was attached failed to hold, and the chute began to descend. Mikoff was called to and warned to withdraw the crank, but before he could do so, or let go of it, he was whirled over the side of the dock, and fell to the ship's deck, whence he bounded into the water. Life appeared to be extinct when the body was taken out, and it is believed the man was killed instantly.

HERALD'S NEXT FREE CONCERT

Flaaten's Third Regiment Band at Lester Park Sunday.

Make your plans early this week for an outing at beautiful Lester park next Sunday where, if the weather permits, Flaaten Third Regiment band will render a fine program in one of The Herald's popular free open-air concerts. The program is the same that would have been rendered last Sunday had not the heavy rain made the grounds too wet for pleasure.

Take your family out to the park in the morning, along with the lunch basket, and enjoy a whole day in the woods and along the river, with a splendid afternoon concert.

The street railway company will put a number of extra cars on the Lakeside line and maintain a five-minute service Sunday afternoon and most of the evening. Don't wait for the afternoon cars, however, but go out in the morning.

PENNSYLVANIANS TAKE RAP AT THE TARIFF BILL.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 4.—The state Democratic convention met here today and adopted a platform in which the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill is condemned as being "in direct violation of the promises of the Republican party," and "framed for the benefit of special interests and agains tthose who purchase the necessaries of life." The platform also urges recognition of labor unions; scores the Republican legislature of Pennsylvania; declares for the establishment of a national tariff commission and favors a federal income and corporation tax.

Young Men Wanted

Sure, everybody wants young men. Did you ever see an advertisement for old men? Never. What becomes of them? They drop out one by one. Can't hold their jobs. They go to the poor farm, or live with their sons-in-law. Nobody wants them.

Why not face the inevitable? Get an orange or grapefruit ranch on the Isle of Pines while land is so cheap. A few acres in bearing means an independent income. Ten acres selected land only $500, easy terms.

DIES ALONE IN HIS SHACK

Body of Aged Hermit Found Lying Across His Bed.

M. P. Kursgaard, 68 years of age, a bachelor, was found dead this morning in his shack near the corner of Thirteenth avenue west and Sixth street, by Patrolman Peterson. The old man lived there alone.

Coroner McCuen has not yet conducted a post mortem examination, but there is said to be no question that the death was natural. The body was lying across the bed, and there was every indication that Kursgaard was alone when the end came.

It is believed the man had been dead for two days. He was last seen Monday evening. He lived in the shack alone, keeping bachelor's quarters, and gained a livelihood by keeping a flock of chickens. He was a familiar figure in that neighborhood, but little was known concerning him. As yet nothing has been learned concerning his relatives. The body was taken to Stewart's undertaking rooms.

NEW GARBAGE WAGON HERE

Duluth's new municipal garbage wagon did not get started on its regular rounds yesterday, as was expected, but will start in on the route tomorrow. This afternoon it was taken through the district it will cover, lying between Third avenue east and Sixth avenue west, and First alley and Fifth street.

The wagon is an experiment in municipal collection, and will provide a cheaper and better system of garbage collection for the general public, it is claimed. People in the district who were overlooked by the inspector from the health department, in making the rounds to find who wished to try the wagon, may have their names put on the list by calling up the health department, No. 420, Zenith telephone, or by dropping the department a note.

WEST END

WOULD DAM THE CREEK

Plan to Make An Artificial Lake in Lincoln Park.

Could Be Used for Free Skating Rink in Winter.

That by installing a dam on Miller's creek at its intersection with West Third street between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth avenues west, creating an artificial lake, Lincoln park could be made the most beautiful recreation spot in the city, is the opinion of many West end people. A movement has been started to interest the park board in the proposition.

It has been suggested to build the dam where the Twenty-sixth avenue bridge on Third street now stands. This would form an artificial lake with high banks and with surroundings that hardly could be surpassed. The lake could have an outlet over the dam and would be kept filled with the water coming down the hillside from Miller's creek.

Under the present conditions, Miller's creek runs down through a wide ravine at the lower end of the park and crosses Third street under a bridge. About twenty-five years ago, a sawmill operated in that vicinity and at the time the creek was dammed at that point.

At the present time, there is a house built on the property, but as the land is owned by the park commission, the building could be ordered off at any time. If the artificial lake was made, it is suggested that it could be used for a free skating rink in the winter time.

Several members of the West End Commercial club have become interested in the proposition and it is understood that the proposition may come up for official consideration at a future meeting of that organization. If the idea is approved by the club, the proposition will be recommended to the park board.

It is not thought that the desired improvement would involve a very heavy expense.

FORESTERS TO ASSEMBLE

Annual Picnic Will Be Held in West End Tuesday.

All Foresters at the Head of the Lakes will gather next Tuesday at Lincoln park, for the fourth annual picnic and reunion. Members from all of the Duluth, West Duluth, and Superior lodges will be in attendance with their families and friends.

Particularly interesting will be the program of sports for the day. John McMurchy is announced as master of ceremonies and a long list of prizes will be given. The program includes a number of races, lady's ball throwing contests, nailing contests, and other interesting events.

A feature of the affair will be the contests between the Duluth and Superior mmbers of the order. Early in the afternoon a ball game will be played and later a tug of war will be pulled off. This is an annual feature of the picnic.

ANNUAL PICNIC.

Three Episcopal Churches Will Combine to Hold Outing.

Sunday school children of the St. Peter's Swedish Episcopal church, 2801 West First street, of St. Luke's Episcopal church, Nineteenth avenue west and First street, and of the Trinity Pro-cathedral of Twentieth avenue east, will have a joint picnic a week from tomorrow at Fond du Lac.

This will be one of the last Sunday school picnics of the season as most of the West end churches, as well as those in other parts of the city took advantage of the good weather of last month and held their annual festivities at that time. It is expected that over 300 Sunday school children will attend this affair.

Sjosted-Backen.

Miss Sophia Sjosted and Carl Backen were united in marriage last evening by Rev. W. E. Harmon, rector of the St. Peter's Swedish Episcopal church, at his residence, 2528 West Second street.

Japanese Decorations.

Japanese decorations will feature the weekly dancing party of the Adams Athletic association, which will be given this evening at Lincoln park pavilion. Over sixty Japanese lanterns will be used and Japanese punch will also be served. The parties are popular and attract many of the friends of the club.

Death of Mrs. Olson.

Mrs. Emma Olson, wife of Peter Olson of 2007 Piedmont avenue, died of pneumonia late yesterday at her home. She was a well known woman of the West end, having lived in that part of the city for the past twenty-three years. She leaves a husband and three children to mourn her loss. Funeral arrangements have as yet not been made.

Plan for Conference.

An important meeting of the building committee of the First Norwegian-Danish Methodist Episcopal church will be held this evening at the church parlors. Arrangements will be made for the annual church conference, which will be held in Duluth in September.

West End Shortrails.

Miss Eva La Lone of the Jennings block, Twenty-third avenue west and Superior street, will leave tomorrow for a ten days' visit at Hurley, Wis., and other points. Miss La Lone is an operator for the Zenith Telephone company at West Duluth.

A baby girl was born yesterday afternoon to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Anderson of 527 Vernon street.

David Adams of West Second street returned yesterday afternoon from Port Arthur, Can., where he has been on a short visit. He brought back with him his daughter, Eva. The rest of the family will remain for a few days longer.

A fine new $8,000 frame residence is being erected on West Fourth street between Twenty-first and Twenty-second avenue by Joseph Butler.

The Foreign Missionary Society of the Swedish Mission church met last evening at the church. Refreshments were served after the meeting.

Rev. Swaney Nelson will conduct prayer services tomorrow evening at the First Swedish Baptist church, Nineteenth avenue west and First street.

Duluth Observatory, No. 39, North Star Benefit association, will meet tonight at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street.

NEED FOOD AND HOMES FOR 80,000

Missionaries Report Continued Sufferings in Armenian Turkey.

Washington, Aug. 4.—Needs for outside relief in the Armenian district of Turkey, where there were such fearful massacres during the spring, is still great, according to a cablegram to the state department from the American embassy at Constantinople. The problem, according to the observations of Mr. Peet, head of one of the missionary organizations in Armenia, includes sheltering and sustenance for 80,000 people. In the Esab regions $162,000 is needed, and in the Tarus district about $176,000. These two centers represent probably not more than one-fifth of the entire needs.

FOUR MINNESOTA GIRLS TAKE VEIL

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 4.—Two young Minneapolis women have been received into the order of Sisters of Christian Charity at the Mallinckrodt convent here. They are Wilhelmis Hoffman and Maaldis Toussaint. Forty-six other novices took the veil at the same time, among them being Mary Kelzer and Rose Miller, Waconia, Minn., and Catherine Miller, Chaska, Minn.

Miss Leone Returns.

Miss Maude Leone in "Madam Satan," one of the thrilling emotional plays which the Mack-Leone company has previously presented in Duluth, will be the attraction all of next week at the Lyceum. Miss Leone was missed last year from the cast of the Mack-Leone Players during the months of her vacation and she was most warmly welcomed back in the fall for the short autumn engagement, and Duluth lovers of summer stock will be delighted at the announcement of her return. "Madam Satan" was one of the most popular plays given by the company two years ago and it has been wisely chosen for her debut this summer. The piece will be extravagantly gowned in its presentation at the Lyceum next week.

Miss Leone is now in the city on a brief vacation.

A Child Actress.

Little Lucille McKee, the charming little daughter of Lafayette McKee of the Jay Quigley Players, appears this week in "The Unwritten Law" in the role of Geoffrey, in the prologue which is supposed to occur twenty years before the opening of the first act. This little actress has won a firm place for herself in the roles which she has assumed this summer with the players and her last appearance gives her greater opportunity than any of the previous roles in which she has appeared. Interest in the splendid play which the company is presenting for its concluding week is increasing, for the play is one of the most vital and intense of those given during the summer. Mr. Quigley in the role of Hamish, an old Scottish servant, does a fine bit of character work. The play will be seen every evening this week and the last matinee of the Quigley engagement will be given Saturday afternoon.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 4.—In an election held over the state of Texas yesterday the people adopted a constitutional amendment validating upward of $3,000,000 worth of school district bonds which the courts had held to be illegal. The bulk of the issues are held by the state school fund, but a large amount is owned by investors in the North and East.

REPORT OF THE MARINE OFFICER

Seventeen More Boats Registered Here This Year Than in 1908.

The annual report of the number of vessels enrolled at the port of Duluth, which has just been completed in the office of L. M. Willcuts, collector of customs, shows that the number of vessels to claim this port as their home is increasing, as well as the gross and net tonnage.

Last year there were 406 boats registered here, and this year there are 423. The gross tonnage this year is 802,726 as against 785,189 last year. The net tonnage this year is 636,444 tons as against 621,495 last year.

There are registered at the marine office in the federal building thirty-eight schooners, 282 steam vessels and 103 barges.

GENERAL LIQUIDATION IN COTTON MARKET.

New York, Aug. 4.—General liquidation occurred in the cotton market today, the downward movement which started yesterday continuing with October contracts selling at $11.92 and January at $12.02 during the early afternoon. These prices represented a net loss for the day of from twenty to thirty-seven points and a decline of from seventy to seventy-five points from the high prices reached immediately after the publication of the government crop on Monday. Large operators seemed to consider that the crop situation had been sufficiently discounted or that the market could not absorb the approaching new crop movement above the 12½c level. Selling by the operators evidently forced liquidation by other longs.

NEW LAW IS NOT A JOKE

Very Difficult to Purchase Cigarettes or "Makings" in Duluth.

Tourists Grow Angry When They Are Left Without "Pills."

"I say, old fellow, could you be so good as to give me a cigarette?"

The cigar counter of the Spalding bore the brunt of the storm last evening. One little lady was left alone at the counter to answer a lot of questions and to make innumerable explanations to a large number of disappointed men.

The anti-cigarette law is the cause of it all.

Last night a large number of tourists came in on the steamer North West. After making sure that they had secured a room, the first thing a number of the men thought of, was a cigarette. As soon as the craving for the insidious weed struck them they made a dash for the cigar counter.

Foiled!

"Anti-cigarette law." That is the explanation the little lady tried on the first man that asked for a package of Phillip Morris cigarettes. "Anti-cigarette law!" The fellow looked stupid, nothing more. Then suddenly a light seemed to come to him. "I say, then, a package of Pall Mall, you know."

"The lady smiled her sweetest. Of course it is neither here or there to say just how sweet that smile is, or was. "You see," she said, the smile glowing the while, "we have an anti-cigarette law in this state, a law"—the set expression remained on the chap's face—"that will not permit us to sell cigarettese even to grown men. I am very sorry, but I cannot sell any cigarettes."

At last the light flickered in the wicks of the man. He tumbled and purchased a box of little cigars, which you know, are nothing more or less than a brown edition of the nails that the severe colons have frowned on. "Good joke, eh?" chuckled the man as he left the counter.

Many men came to the cigar counter and asked for various brands of cigarettes. All of the prospective purchasers were disappointed. They were informed of the anti-cigarette law. Some of the more energetic users of the weed started on a search for the nail. "I say, old fellow, have you a cigarette?" was a form of question heard often in the lobby of the Spalding last evening. Many, in fact most of the tourists, had heard nothing of the anti-cigarette law. They had not thought to bring a supply of the nails. The lover of the cigarette was up against it. One man said right out, and the lady at the cigar counter heard him: "those d—d old fools."

The fellow who has possessed the foresight, also the change, to buy up a supply of the cigarettes, is a sort of popular chap with the rest of the fellows who are looking vainly for a "drag."

A Herald reporter sauntered forth this morning into the bright sunlight, looking for a place to buy the little nerve restorers. Not that he wanted to smoke them himself, but merely out of curiosity, to see how tight the lid was on.

The first place to be visited was a joint on the bowery that did not look too clean and where the odors were not the most pleasant. The man did not seem too careful and it looked easy.

"A package of cigarettes, it doesn't make much difference what sort," said the reporter with an easy air, as he rattled some change in his pocket.

The smile on the man's face vanished instantly.

"Nothing doing," he growled. He made a motion toward the door. He was big and strong and the reporter did not wait to argue with him.

There was a man on the Lenox hotel corner who had a Turkish Trophy in his mouth that had no doubt been purchased in parts other than around the Head of the Lakes country. He looked good for a touch and after screwing up his nerve the reporter ambled up and asked, by way of getting things started, if the Superior cars passed the corner. The man didn't know, said he was a stranger and kept all the time puffing on his cigarette.

"Haven't another one of those aids to rest and comfort?" asked the newspaper man in a very humble tone.

"Just threw the box away," remarked the man in an offhand way. "Besides," he continued, "the law is on here, I understand. Thirty dollars fine, you know, and I haven't too much money."

The reporter looked back after he had crossed the corner and saw the man taking a fresh cigarette from a box that looked to be full.

He wandered into a first class shop on Superior street.

"Nice morning, Dick," he said to the clerk.

"Yes, fine," was the answer.

"I say, Dick, can you let me have some cigarettes, cigarette papers or anything to make a pill out of?" said the reporter in such a way as to impress on the clerk's mind that nobody should be told.

"Can't do a thing. We are all out; haven't a cigarette in the house; the old man is not taking any chances. Wish I could help you out." This last was said in a sympathetic manner.

A number of the other shops were visited and not in one of them could the makings be obtained. The law is no joke as was at first predicted and not even a paper eye glass cleaner could be obtained.

There are requests every day for the paper smokes and more pipes have been bought since the law went into effect than ever before in the city, according to the tobacco dealers.

Meanwhile there is no joke connected with the new law in Duluth.

FRANCE IS GLAD TO SEE ENGLAND AND RUSSIA MEET.

Paris, Aug. 4.—Commenting upon the exchanges at Cowes between King Edward and Emperor Nicholas, the French press generally is of the opinion that the words of the British sovereign intimate that England expects Russia to develop her constitutional institutions, and great satisfaction is expressed at the prospect of closer relations between Great Britain and France and Russia.

In this connection the Temps says that a complete reconciliation between Great Britain and Russia, whose antagonism for the last fifty years has been the favorite weapon of Prussia and Germany against France, is of priceless value. The battles of Sadowa and Sedan, this paper says, were a result of the inability of Great Britain and Russia to unite for the preservation of the equilibrium of Europe.

BOAT CAPSIZES IN THE HARBOR

Three Naval Militia Men Have Very Narrow Escape From Drowning.

Three members of the naval militia, all of whom refused to give their names, were thrown into the waters of the bay shortly after 12 o'clock last night, by the capsizing of a yawl from the training ship Gopher. Two of the men held on to the boat, but the third, in an attempt to swim ashore, very nearly lost his life. He was sinking when a rescuing party arrived on the scene.

The accident occurred while two of the occupants of the yawl were exchanging seats. The trio managed to grasp the sides of the craft, but it had filled with water, and they were unable to climb into it. One man said he would swim ashore for help, and started out with an oar to assist him.

About this time the cries for assistance were heard at the Duluth Boat club, and John Irvine, James Gallagher, Don Irvine and Albert Peterson jumped into a boat and rowed to the assistance of the men. When they got to the side of the swimmer he was so exhausted that he was just sinking. John Irvine dove after him and managed to get him to the side of the boat.

The others were taken aboard, and the party rowed back to the clubhouse, where the unconscious swimmer was revived, after considerable effort. The United States life saving crew assisted in this work.

SHEA STILL IN COUNTY JAIL

Eveleth Man Refuses to Pay Judgment as Ordered By Court.

A. J. Shea of Eveleth, who was committed to the county jail about three weeks ago by Judge Dibell for contempt of court in failing to pay to J. L. Washburn $6,333.33 in partial settlement of a judgment of $21,748, was yesterday placed in a cell with other prisoners.

The jail was pretty well crowded when Shea was admitted and he was allowed to rig up a cot in the corridor as an abiding place for his time in jail, which was expected to be short. The outside world received news of the fact and complaint was made, with the result that the crowded cells were crowded still more and place made for Shea.

The first of the year Shea sold the timber on a tract of land near Cedar Island lake. He gave the money, $20,000, to his wife, and when he was called upon to make a disclosure after the judgment was entered, he said he had nothing. Judge Dibell held that the money was still under his control and one-third of it, that covering the timber that was on the part of the land which he had not taken as a homestead, should be paid on the judgment.

Shea failed to comply with the order and was committed to jail to remain until he paid over the money, obeying the order of the court. Thus far he has not paid over the money, and his term, the length of which is guaged by his own actions, is dragging out.

HUSBAND MAY BE IN THE WEST

Mrs. Ralph Ginsberg Is Now in St. Mary's Hospital.

Friends of Mrs. Rudolph Ginsberg, mother of the two children drowned on Ninth avenue east during the big storm of two weeks ago, say that her husband has been located in Seattle. She has heard nothing from him since a week before the storm, but will not believe he has deserted her.

The woman has been at St. Mary's hospital for the past two or three days, suffering from blood poisoning in one of her hands, resulting from a slight injury at the time of the big storm. She will be able to leave the hospital this week.

Mrs. Ginsberg, who, with her three remaining children, has been dependent upon charity since the storm, says her husband left home to search for work in the range towns. It is believed that he has not yet heard of the death of two of his five children.

ROOSEVELT DOES PROPHECY STUNT

Predicts Great Future for the British East African Country.

Nairobi, British East Africa, Aug. 4.—Theodore Roosevelt and his son Kermit were the guests of honor at a public banquet given in Nairobi last night. Frederick J. Jackson, governor of British East Africa, was chairman, and 175 persons sat at the table. Capt. Sanderson, the town clerk of Nairobi, read an address of welcome to the former president, and afterwards handed him the address enclosed in a section of elephant tusk, mounted in silver and a silver chain. The American residents of the protectorate presented Mr. Roosevelt with a tobacco box made of the hoof of a rhinoceros, silver mounted; the skull of a rhinoceros, also mounted in silver, and a buffalo head.

Urges Settlement of Country.

Mr. Roosevelt, in reply to the toast proposed by Governor Jackson, said:

"I wish to take this opportunity to thank the people of British East Africa for their generous and courteous hospitality. I have had a thorough good time. I am immensely interested in the country and its possibilities as an abode for white men. Very large tracts are fit for a fine population and healthy and prosperous settlements, and it would be a calamity to neglect them. But the settlers must be of the right type.

"I believe that one of the best feats performed by members of the white race in the last ten years is the building of the Uganda railroad. I am convinced that this country has a great agricultural and industrial future, and it is the most attractive playground in the world. It most certainly presents excellent openings for capitalists and ample inducements should be offered them to come here. The home-maker and actual settler, and not the speculator, should be encouraged in making this a white man's country.

Compared With the West.

"Remember that righteousness and our ultimate self-interest demand that the blacks be treated justly. I have no patience with sentimentalists, and I think that sentimentality does more harm to individuals than brutality. Therefore I believe in helping the missionary, of whatever creed, who is laboring sincerely and disinterestedly with practical good sense.

"It is natural that I should have a peculiar feeling for the settlers. They remind me of the men in our West, with whom I worked and in whose aspirations I so deeply sympathize."

In conclusion Mr. Roosevelt drew a comparison of the conditions as he had found them in British East Africa with those that confronted the pioneers of Western America.

TOM JOHNSON PET BEATEN AT POLLS

Cleveland Defeats 3-Cent Fare Plan With the Referendum.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 4.—The Schmidt ordinance providing for the grant of a franchise to Herman Schmidt, insuring 3-cent fares on the part of the city street car lines, was defeated at the referendum election here yesterday by a majority of 3,763. The total vote was 31,022 to 34,785. The Schmidt ordinance was fostered by Mayor Tom L. Johnson.

The campaign which has been waged for the last two months has been particularly bitter. Mayor Johnson, municipal officeholders and others have held hundreds of tent meetings and urged the granting of the franchise. A committee of 100 business men opposed it. Thousands of people crowded the streets last night to hear the returns. When the result was announced automobile horns tooted, cowbells were rung, whistles were blown and throngs of people paraded the streets shouting. Mayor Johnson received the returns at his office, guarded by several policemen.

Try Taylor Plan.

Now that the Schmidt franchise has been defeated, an attempt will be made to secure the passage of an ordinance for the settlement of the car fight along the line proposed by Federal Judge Taylor. His plan provides for, first, a revaluation of the entire street car property by a committee of unbiased citizens. He would then put into force a 3-cent fare plan, charging 1 cent for a transfer. In case the plan failed to pay a 6 per cent dividend on the valuation set by the committee, the price of the fare might be raised to seven tickets for 25 cents. Prior to the passage of the Schmidt ordinance by the city council, an attempt was made to pass the Taylor ordinance, but it failed.

ASSAULTED AND ROBBED

Axel Erickson, Woodsman, Taken to St. Luke's Hospital.

Axel Erickson, a woodsman, was taken to St. Luke's hospital last night because of injuries which he claimed to have received at the hands of thugs, who robbed him of about $100 in bills, although $8 in change was found on him when he was searched at the police station.

The man, who was slightly intoxicated, told the police that two men had dragged him into the alley behind the Lenox hotel, on Sixth avenue west, and that when he offered resistance they clubbed him on the head and about the body, besides slitting his clothes with a knife.

Erickson's cries brought pedestrians to his aid, and they got a fleeting glimpse of the thugs. They furnished the police with rather a meager description upon which to work. The victim presented a hard looking sight when rescued, but his wounds were of such a nature that he will recover from them.

HEINZE BROKERAGE FIRM NOT BANKRUPT.

New York, Aug. 4.—Otto C. Heinze and his brother, Arthur P., won a victory in the courts here yesterday when Judge Hand directed the dismissal of an involuntary petition in bankruptcy against the brokerage firm of Otto C. Heinze & Co. The proceedings were brought by creditors who alleged that the firm was insolvent in October, 1907, during the financial stringency. The special master appointed to consider the case reported that the creditors' claim was not justified.

STAND FAST, WEST DULUTH!

The people of West Duluth are properly agitated over the fear that the absorption of the Wisconsin Central by the Soo road means the repudiation by the Soo of the Wisconsin Central's agreement to give that part of the city a freight and passenger depot. While apparently no statement has been made by the Soo officials indicating their intent to repudiate the Central's agrement, the attempt to make the main entrance to the city up Rice's point over the Northern Pacific tracks seems to indicate an intent to leave West Duluth off the main line, and this looks enough like repudiation to warrant the people of West Duluth—and the people of all Duluth, for West Duluth's cause is the cause of all Duluth—in watching the proceedings vigilantly and in protesting vigorously against the abandonment of the Wisconsin Central's plans which meant so much to West Duluth.

The Herald's counsel to West Duluth is to stand pat and to stand fast. It is entitled to that depot, and only by a species of repudiation too flagrant to be permitted can it be deprived of it.

The case is very clear.

The Wisconsin Central, in gaining its right of way through West Duluth and into Duluth, promised repeatedly that a depot would be built in West Duluth. This pledge was made, informally it is true, to individuals from whom property was bought, and who shaped their prices accordingly, and to the West Duluth Commercial club and to the city at large.

That would be enough, morally if not legally, but it is not all. When the Wisconsin Central got its franchise from the city for entering Duluth, involving the vacation of several streets and the crossing of many more, the railroad accepted the following provision as a part of that franchise:

> Said railway company shall establish and maintain at least one passenger and freight depot within the limits of said city of Duluth east of Eleventh avenue west, one freight depot between Eleventh avenue west and Forty-eighth avenue west, and one passenger and freight depot west of Forty-eighth avenue west.

Since then the Soo railroad has taken over the Wisconsin Central, but that does not change the situation. The Soo also takes over the Central's franchise, which also contains this sentence:

> All rights granted and all obligations imposed under the terms of this ordinance shall inure to and be obligatory upon the successors and assigns of all parties acquiring such rights or assuming any such obligations hereunder.

The Wisconsin Central bound itself to build a depot in West Duluth, first informally but morally by its promises contingent upon the acquiring of a right of way, and second legally by the terms of its valuable franchise.

The Soo railroad has taken over the Wisconsin Central's rights of way and privileges, including the franchise. It also takes over its obligations, including the obligation to build a depot in West Duluth.

And that depot will have to be built.

THE SHACKLES OF THE EAST.

Governor Johnson preached no selfish sectionalism, no call to senseless battle between brothers across imaginary dividing lines, when he said at Seattle yesterday that "it is time that the West threw off the shackles of the East.'

Too long has the great and growing West, that broad and throbbing American empire within an empire, which stretches from the Great Lakes to the Pacific and from Canada to the westward projection of the Mason and Dixon line, been the cat's paw, the spending money, the feeding trough, of New England.

Its fertile acres, its fruitful fields, its rich mines, its stalwart citizenship deserves better things than that it should be the mere political tool of the East, the place to draw wealth from for which arrogant disregard is given back in return.

If the nation is to be saved from the fate of other nations that have gone down under the corroding and corrupting rule of plutocracy, it will be the indominable, self-reliant and independent spirit of the West that will save it.

Governor Johnson bade the West awake to its opportunities when he said yesterday: "I preach no sectional divisions and no sectional strifes, but Minnesota and Washington and the states between, with those to the south of us, should arise in their might and claim for themselves that fair share of influence in the halls of congress and in the administration of national affairs to which they are entitled by every law of common sense, as well as of political economy. It is time, indeed, that the great Northwest should come into its own and by the force of its energy, the ability of its sons and the co-operation of its various constituent parts, exert an influence for good, not only as to its own particular prosperity, but as to that of the country at large, to which every element invites it."

And in the speaker whose ringing words are quoted here the Northwest has a leader of clean-cut, vigorous, earnest quality, a leader whose sympathy is with the plain people from whom he sprung, a leader whose patriotism knows no sectional distinctions, a man whose broad sympathies, fine intelligence and stalwart manliness fit him to bring the purer patriotism of the West into the councils of the nation, that greed may be abashed and discomfitted, and that government of the people, by the people and for the people may again become something besides a marbled thought reminiscent of a former day.

JAMES J. HILL.

Once more Duluth is giving testimony to the high esteem in which it holds the man who, perhaps above all other men in the Northwest, has contributed to the development of a great inland empire. In looking back over the history of the development of the Northwest, James J. Hill can say in very truth: "All of these things I saw, and many of them I was."

To a few men are given the vision that penetrates the future, that visualizes the teeming empire in the wilderness. These men are the prophets and the pioneers, who see the way to empire and who blaze the trail that men may follow and find prosperity and happiness there. Such a man is James J. Hill; and such a work he has done. It is good that honor is done him for his accomplishments in the time of gray hairs; it is good that he has been permitted to live to see his visions realized; it is better that even now that he has rounded the three score years and ten, he is still at his post, his mental vigor unimpaired and his vision undimmed by the passing years.

UNCLE SAM'S EXPORTED GENEROSITY.

Japan wants a new treaty with this country because its people think the present treaty is one-sided, with the advantage too greatly with us.

That may possibly be, but there is one feature of this country's relations with Japan that makes us envy the Japanese.

Beginning with the first of this month parcels weighing up to eleven pounds can be mailed to Japan from the United States at the rate of 12 cents a pound.

But if you wish to mail a similar package to Two Harbors or Carlton, you can't do it. You will either have to split it up into 4-pound packages and pay 16 cents a pound instead of 12 cents, or to turn your package over to an express company and pay what it pleases to charge for carrying it.

In other words, if you have eleven pounds of merchandise which you wish to send to Japan, you can mail it in one package for $1.32; but if you wish to send it to the nearest town in this state you will have to cut it up into packages of not more than four pounds each and pay $1.76 to have them carried by mail. Thus it will cost you 44 cents more, and a great deal more trouble, to mail your packages to Carlton, Minn., than it will to mail them to Higashishima, Japan.

Nor is this privilege exclusive to Japan. Parcels post treaties are being made at frequent intervals, and already the same privilege extends to parcels mailed from this country to almost every civilized nation on the face of the globe—but it does not extend to citizens of this country who wish to mail packages to other citizens of this country.

Why?

Oh, for the same reason that it is impossible, under the present organization of congress, to bring about honest tariff revision. We can't have honest tariff revision because the protected interests don't want it and are powerful enough to prevent it no matter how much the plain people may desire it or how fervently they may ask for it.

The express companies do not wish the parcels post, and they are powerful enough, as members of the combination of large interests that controls the spigot of legislation, to prevent it.

Do you know any other reason why the Japanese should have privileges connected with this country's postal service that you are denied? There is no other reason. The postoffice department would like to extend the parcels post in this country; nearly every postmaster general in late years has recommended it: but congress will not extend it.

Who owns the government; the people themselves, who want the parcels post and can't get it, or the express companies, which do not want it and are able to head it off?

THE CORPORATION TAX.

One feature of the new tariff bill that is going to attract a great deal of interest is the corporation tax. This measure served three purposes:

(1) It prevented the adoption of an income tax law, which would have passed the senate if the president's special message had not brought the corporation tax issue to the rescue, and which in that event would certainly have passed the house;

(2) it makes up in a measure for the failure of revision to make the tariff supply the revenues needed by the country, and therefore

(3) it removed one of the reasons for further tariff decreases.

As to its taxation feature, if it is an attempt to head off the income tax it will be a failure. The burden of taxation thus put upon the corporations will inevitably be passed on to the patrons of the corporations, so that the people will pay it anyway. It is exactly parallel with fining criminal corporations instead of sending their guilty officers to jail. When the courts fine a corporation the people pay it; but when the courts send an officer or director to jail that punishment cannot be passed on to the people. When a corporation is taxed, no matter in what manner, it can and does pass the burden on to its patrons; but when the stockholders are taxed upon their personal incomes from the corporations, they cannot pass the burden on to others, but must bear it themselves.

The only thing about the corporation tax that makes it at all palatable is its lame and halting provision for publicity of corporation affairs; and this benefit is largely made negligible by the fact that the conference committee quietly eliminated the amendment added by Senator Clapp of Minnesota in the senate, providing that the provision should cover holding companies. Without this provision it is difficult to see how the publicity feature is going to amount to much. Corporations which have things to conceal need only to put their affairs in the hands of holding corporations, and presto! —complete immunity from the public gaze is provided.

It is in the holding companies, as a rule, that the things that demand public attention are carried on. The big holding company that controls a horde of smaller corporations all over the country does not do its secret work through the local corporations, which will be subject to the taxation and publicity provided by the corporation tax, but through its holding corporation, which will be exempt both from the tax and from publicity.

In its first three purposes—to kill the income tax law, to raise revenue in a way that will make the consumers pay it, and to obviate the need of further cutting the tariff schedules—the corporation tax may be a success.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. $20,000 NOT ENOUGH.

To the Editor of The Herald:

There seems to be plenty of money in St. Louis county for almost everything except hospital accommodations for our sick people. If the county has not the money to build a hospital for tubercular patients, cannot some one start a public subscription and boost for the hospital fund.

I read with interest your editorial on tubercular hospitals and certainly think that steps should be taken to erect one here, large enough to care for all the residents of this city, who become afflicted with tuberculosis and apply at the hospital for treatment.

This matter is a most important one and there is need of immediate action. It is for the good of everybody in the county and state and everyone should take an interest in it and contribute something to the fund. So often people don't stop and think. They are well in mind and body and they think they will always be well. They should be on the lookout. Rich and poor alike are subject to tuberculosis, and everyone should contribute willingly to a cause of this kind.

In my opinion, we should have a large fund in this county and build a good-sized place. I have figured out that $20,000 would only build the foundation and kitchen for a hospital of the size I think should be built here. I know what I am talking about as I have visited several institutions of this kind costing from $50,000 to $100,000 and all were crowded and could care for only about half of those who applied.

I am a sufferer from the disease myself, but I have had sufficient funds to fight it. If I had not, I would probably have died ere this. I am getting well again, but my experience has impressed upon me the need of raising money immediately for a tubercular hospital. K. K.

Duluth, Aug. 2.

La Follette and the Tariff.

Chicago Evening Journal: Discussing the Aldrich tariff outrage, Senator La Follette's Weekly makes a few exceedingly crisp remarks. Referring to the bill as the "crowning infamy of its sponsors," based upon "greed, graft and pull," the article goes on to say:

"Its passage in the senate was promoted by cheap trickery, jobbery, chicane and manipulation.

"There is hardly a powerful special interest or great trust combination in the country that is not made its special beneficiary.

"It perpetuates the 'Dutch standard' graft of the criminal sugar trust.

"It taxes every household in the land for the benefit of a clique of cotton manufacturers.

"It 'protects' the woolen trust by the imposition of duties of 100, 120 and up to 150 per cent—duties which clothing manufacturers say will increase the cost of clothing one-fourth.

"It rejects the inheritance tax provision proposed by the house to take for the support of the government at the rich man's death a part of the great fortune which he has piled up partly by evading just taxes during his life.

"It inaugurates a program designed to prevent for all time a federal tax upon the incomes of the wealthy.

"It increases the burdens of the consumer by the imposition of a tax upon corporate earnings to be shifted by the corporation through increases of its prices and charges to the public. This tax is an admitted subterfuge and is a legislative recognition of corporate combinations heretofore under the interdiction of the criminal statutes and is designed to remain in force only long enough to serve its evil purposes, but not long enough to be of public benefit."

Such is the result of all the promised tariff reduction, according to Senator La Follette. There is but one remedy and that lies in the power of the president. Will Mr. Taft exercise that power and veto the bill, or are his pledges to the West to be broken with impunity by the Republican grand dukes from New England?

Free Trade or State Socialism.

New York Times: The half-score arguments these gentlemen present against protection are all familiar, and, for the most part, sound. There is no denying that protection, in theory, is sheer state socialism, or that in practice it brings about the exploitation of the many by the few, which state socialism is bound to produce. Any system that makes political control a rich money prize must, soon or late, concentrate organized pecuniary interests on the task of gaining and keeping that control. And it is inevitable that in this process the interests will get to be more and more greedy. As their growing greed excites resentment, the unthinking turn to some other form of socialism for relief. Mr. Aldrich is today the most effective and dangerous Socialist propagandist in the United States.

Logically, the remedy for the evils of protection is free trade. Our own experience proves that it is an effective remedy and a good preventive. The United States maintain "absolute and unconditioned free trade" over a greater territory, among more millions of people, in greater and richer markets, than are to be found elsewhere on the face of the earth. It was the most signal evidence of wisdom the framers of our Constitution showed, that they established permanent freedom of commerce everywhere within the actual, or future, boundaries of the republic. This has offset many of the ill-effects of the restrictions on foreign commerce and has enabled us steadily to grow in wealth and power despite these restrictions. Indeed, it is now probable that the breaking down of these restrictions will come through the advance of the country in productiveness, through the glutting of the home market and the need of markets abroad. Meanwhile it is a good thing for the country that the principles underlying the conflicting policies shall be systematically discussed. Free exchange in thought, in argument, in political action, Mr. Aldrich and his clients cannot suppress.

The Working Girl in Summer.

The Survey: Girls do not of intention select bad amusement places to go to in the summer. The girl whose temperament and disposition crave unnatural forms of excitement is nearly beyond the bounds of salvation; but ninety out of 100 girls want only what they are entitled to—innocent relaxation. The moving picture show is on the wane. The skating rink had its day long ago. The dance is destined to be the next feature in popular amusement.

Let us provide it plentifully, safely and inexpensively. Then the winter problem will be taken in hand. The bill to regulate and license academies meets only a few of the most apparent evils. How to legislate out of existence the bad features of the summer amusement places seems almost unanswerable, since there are so many political and other interests that work underneath in these enterprises. Why not a public dance platform, to which admission is charged, and which is properly conducted? They have them in France and in Germany—and they work and they pay. Why not a public carrousel? Why not other amusement features in some corners of the great new parks which we are acquiring? These things do no harm, and they offer innocent diversion of the kind which the multitude seeks.

The Old-Fashioned Bonnet.

How dear to my heart is the old-fashioned bonnet,
The old-fashioned bonnet that Nell used to wear,
Without any plums and red cherries stuck on it—
The bonnet that didn't want false curly hair!
The dishpan effect may be stylish and stunning,
The waste paper basket that's lately come in
May be quite the rage and recherche and cunning,
But give me the hat she tied under her chin.
—London Opinion.

THE WEATHER

The weather yesterday afternoon looked very threatening for a time, but in the evening the clouds cleared away and a beautiful night followed. This morning broke clear and fine, except for a fog which disappeared under the rays of the rising sun. The sun rose this morning at 4:51 and will set this afternoon at 7:37, making fourteen hours and forty-six minutes of sunlight.

A year ago today it was cloudy.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the past twenty-four hours showers or thunder storms occurred in the western lake region, Middle and South Atlantic States, Tennessee, Western Missouri, Eastern Kansas and New Mexico, due to a disturbance that has passed to the eastward through Canada and other depressions central over Alberta and Northwestern Mexico. Temperatures have also risen throughout the Rocky Mountain region. A rise in pressure caused cooler weather in Western and Southern Minnesota. The barometer is high off the North Atlantic and North Pacific coasts. Generally fair weather is indicated for St. Louis and Douglas counties until Thursday night."

In Defiance of the People.

Kansas City Times: There is one feature of the tariff bill, as finally reported by the conference committee, that is nothing short of a reckless defiance of that great public sentiment that demands honest revision. This feature brands the members who have given it their support as openly and uncompromisingly determined to keep congress and the people in ignorance, so far as possible, of the real facts concerning the tariff.

The senate provided that a tariff commission, composed of experts, should be appointed by the president to procure and furnish information as to the relative cost of production at home and abroad for the future guidance of congress in making the tariff law conform to the basis of revision laid down in the Chicago platform.

The conference committee leaves the provision for the commission, but restricts the commission's activities to the procurement of information concerning countries discriminating against the United States in trade for the guidance of the president in administering the maximum and minimum clause and for the aid of the customs officials.

Here is an open, deliberate move to perpetuate ignorance where wisdom has been most lacking. Congress has made no effort to follow the basis declared by the Chicago platform and some have made the plea that the time was too short to secure the information needed. This plea is substantially sound. But, at least congress should have provided for proper enlightenment in the future. This it not only has left undone, but the conference committee has flatly refused to do it.

This single failure, if it is not corrected before the bill goes to a vote, should down the measure in the eyes of every honest member.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1889.

Kenneth Fraser, a switchman in the employ of the St. Paul & Duluth, met with a shocking accident in the railroad yard near Lake avenue. He slipped and fell under the wheels of a moving freight car, and his left arm was pulled out at the shoulder. He was found fifteen minutes later by H. Gephart, the yardmaster, and was removed to a hospital. Fraser is 26 years of age, a Canadian, and has resided here three years.

Donald Irving, who claimed to work in a grain commission house in Duluth, and Miss Eliza Truman of Cleveland, Ohio, were married by Justice of the Peace Hoehlle in the Commercial hotel at West Superior. The bride is said to be the daughter of wealthy Cleveland people. It was a clandestine marriage, the having run away from home and came to Duluth on the steamer Nyack a few days ago. They will reside in Duluth.

Some time ago C. M. Douglass of Minneapolis made a bargain to purchase the Barnhart Lumber company's property at Rice's Point and paid down $1,000. The title was found defective, and both sides began suits. The court decided in favor of Douglass, and the Barnhart company last week sent its check for $1,200, being the earnest money with interest.

Joseph Little of Cleveland, Ohio, is at West Duluth to oversee the placing of an elevator in the mill of the West Duluth Manufacturing company. Mr. Little, who is now superintendent of the Cleveland Elevator company, was in Duluth in 1880 with the old Blast Furnace company, and residents at that time will no doubt remember him.

J. D. Gilchrist of Bessemer, Mich., is visiting his parents at West Duluth. He is a son of D. Gilchrist, engineer and superintendent of the Iron Bay works.

THE CONFERENCE REPORT.

Cleveland Plain Dealer (Ind.): The situation is little improved by the action of the conferees. The finished bill, like that adopted by the senate, represents repudiation by the party in power. Congress has much to answer for before the country—not so much, certainly, as it would have had except for the president's interference, but still more than has been sufficient in past times to turn a dominant party out of power. Will this end the agitation for a proper revision of the tariff schedules? Can the president quiet the country, as he evidently has his own conscience, by showing a few small concessions gained for the consumer while the bulk of the measure is framed to suit the interests? It scarcely seems possible.

Chicago Journal (Ind. Rep.): One thing is certain. The entire history of protective tariffs the world over has never produced any measure, no matter how oppressive, that was as completely in favor of capital and against the masses. Should President Taft sign it he removes all hope of the West ever securing tariff revision from Republican sources. Nor must he complain if in future the West holds lightly the promises of his party or himself.

Washington Star (Rep.): But, more than all, the country wins. Here is a revision of the tariff—something long demanded and frequently promised. It is not ideal, since there were no ideal instruments to work with. A tariff bill represents the conflicting selfishness of many localities harmonized through stress of circumstances. No locality gets all it desires. Each gets something, and enough to reconcile it to what in the trading it was obliged to surrender.

Des Moines Capital (Rep.): The boot and shoe men of New England and the users of leather generally escaped with slight reductions on their manufactured product. The New England papers, aided by the Chicago press, has proclaimed the wonderful reduction made on the products of leather, such as boots, shoes, harness, etc. But we regard those matters as a farce. The tariff reductions on the products of leather amount to nothing according to our way of thinking. The noise was made to cover up the free hide proposition, which is the crime of the Aldrich bill.

Kansas City Times (Ind. Rep.): The best that can be said for the tariff bill as reported by the conference committee is that it does not fulfill the promises of either party and should not have the support of any member of congress who has committed himself for honest, substantial downward revision. * * * Because of its manifest failure to meet the promises of the party and the just rights of the consumers, and because of its inherent speciousness and dishonesty, this measure should not have the support of the men in congress who have striven consistently from the beginning to get a square deal bill.

Washington Herald (Ind.): Nothing has been done in conference, nevertheless, to change our judgment that the new tariff bill is the most highly protective measure ever adopted by an American congress. Not only are there many extremely important increases in duty, as in the cotton schedule, but there is also provided a new method of valuation which, in all probability, will have the effect of enhancing rates of duty, and certainly of making importations more difficult.

New York American: The fact that Mr. Taft bettered the bill does not relieve him of the responsibility for the carrying out of the promise which he and his party made to the people. The issue of tariff revision was Mr. Taft's own issue. Around it grew the sentiment which was largely instrumental in forcing his nomination, and to it more than anything else he owes his election. The question which the American people will ask, and which President Taft must answer, is not: How much better did he make the outrageous Aldrich bill, but has he fully redeemed the promise he made to the people in the campaign? The people will have little patience with talk about concessions. If Mr. Taft be not able to prove to them that he has brought about what he promised to bring about, then they will see in his signing of the Payne-Aldrich bill a sad surrender.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: A man who is good only on the surface is no good.

Don't forget that a divorce suit costs more than a wedding suit.

New York Press: A girl stands being red-headed by calling it some other name.

His mother fools a boy about what a good time he has at Sunday school, and he fools himself about what fun it is to smother himself in the coal bin playing hide and seek.

We can still eat pie with a spoon, if so inclined.

Iced watermelon has not yet been placed upon the index expurgatorious.

It has not yet been made a felony to have one's "beauty struck."

Likeness.

New York Press: The thing that makes a man like a girl is for her to convince him he does.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Bovey Iron News: Tariff for the protection of our "infant industries" looks about as necessary to the average man as for a red rooster to carry a Winchester into its harem. Any industry these days of piping prosperity which cannot stand on its own nerve wouldn't be missed if it failed to present its meal ticket regularly.

Warroad Commonwealth: That old stunt that Republican bosses used to indulge in with so much busto, of "reading people out of the party," has lost all of its terrors. The anathema does not possess the potency that it used to. Thousands of people are leaving the Republican party without the formality of being "read out," and the time is not far distant when it will be a reproach to be called a Republican.

Paynesville Press: The state legislature gave a man with a pull $81 per acre for his large farm worth possibly $50 per acre; it appropriated $600,000 for roads, to be used by people who had a political pull; it appropriated several millions of dollars for various purposes in the vicinity of the Twin Cities, principally because there are a lot of men in that vicinity who have the power to make or unmake politicians; it neglected to set aside anything for the erection of a needed addition to the soldiers' home, because the veterans are getting old and useless for political purposes. Now there are a lot of people who will say this is radical language, but it isn't. It's the plain, unvarnished truth. If the old soldiers had half as much political influence as the state fair crowd or the capitol approach gang, they would have found it easy picking to get $500,000.

Walker Pilot: The only hand some people take in the prosperity of their town is to snap their fingers at any undertaking which requires a turn of the wrist.

Two Harbors Iron News: The "friends of the tariff" are the enemies of the poor.

Gary Graphic: The Foley Independent declares that land in Northern Minnesota, under good cultivation, is selling today for $35 to $40 per acre, and will produce more in actual wealth than $200 land in Illinois and other Eastern states. It therefore demands that if there is any one knocking in Northern Minnesota, he should keep knocking. How can there be any knocker in Northern Minnesota?

Owatonna Journal-Chronicle: The bosses of France, near the close of the eighteenth century, had things pretty much their own way. They seemed to have plenty of power, and they exercised it as they pleased, regardless of the will or wishes of the people. They laughed at every hint of possible trouble, and all at once the storm broke, and the revolution swept over the land and engulfed all who stood in its path. The men who are at the front of things, and who are just now using their power to foist on the people a tariff bill which the people do not want, appear to be as certain of their power, and as indifferent to the public will and well being, as were their predecessors in France. They may be following themselves just as the others did. There will be no bloody riots, no armed revolt, this time, but there is a possibility of revolution just as sweeping as that in France. And when it comes, statesmen of the Aldrich stripe will wonder what struck them.

Speeches and Votes.

H. S. Pritchett, in the August Atlantic: There is much evidence to show that the outpourings of people to hear a candidate for the presidency have no significance in showing how they are to vote. Men will come to hear the candidate of their party simply out of curiosity, and out of the common desire to see and hear the man who is the candidate for so great an office, and there is little evidence to show that the votes of these great assemblages are affected by the speeches which are made, or even to show that the crowds which come are made up of those who are in any way politically friendly to the candidates.

Going out of Denver one night on a Pullman car, I found the smoking room full of those who had come to Denver to attend the Republican welcome to Mr. Taft, and to hear him speak in the new Denver auditorium. Naturally, I assumed that these men must be mainly Republicans, and was much surprised to find that seven out of nine were Democrats, some of whom had made a 300-mile trip out of mere desire to hear the candidate of a rival party. The verdict of the smoking room was that the candidate is misled by the appeals of the professional politicians, each of whom has a direct interest in keeping the candidate on the jump.

The special election has been called for Aug. 22.

WILSON WOULD BE FREE.

Former North Dakotan Tires of Life in Montana Penitentiary.

La Moure, N. D., Aug. 3.—E. O. Ellison received three interesting souvenirs last Saturday from J. M. Wilson, who spends most of his time in the state penitentiary at Deer Lodge, Mont.

Six years ago Wilson was convicted of the crime of murder and sentenced to fifty years in prison. He feels that the sentence was almost too severe, and is trying to secure a pardon. Having no means with which to carry on his fight for liberty, he puts in his spare time making fancy bridles, lariats, watch chains, etc.

Commissioner Gilbreath of North Dakota Hopes to Supply Demand.

In Touch With Employment Agencies Who Will Furnish Men.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—An effort to supply the farmers of the state with sufficient help will be made by Commissioner of Agriculture Gilbreath, who is in touch with leading employment and other agencies in Eastern cities.

He says all that he will require will be a few days' advance notice. Thousands of men are coming in, but the supply is at present nothing like the demand.

The prices fixed by the American Society of Equity for wheat is $1.15; flax, $1.50; oats, 50 cents; rye, 75 cents; barley, 65 cents, but the unusually large crop makes their effort much more difficult than last season, when the $1 price fixed by the society was increased by popular demand.

JAIL BREAKER CAUGHT AGAIN

Matt Galvin, Who Escaped From Bemidji Jail, Run Down.

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Matt Galvin, who escaped from the county jail here June 25, has been apprehended at Moorhead, and when he completes a thirty-day sentence in that city he will be brought back to Bemidji and again lodged in jail.

Sheriff Hazen has returned from Moorhead, where he went to identify Galvin. Galvin had stolen a diamond from a party at Moorhead and in making his escape was injured, so he was easily caught. The party from whom he stole the diamond allowed Galvin to return it and did not appear against him in court, but the officers lodged Galvin in jail for thirty days on a minor charge.

Galvin's sentence will expire on Aug. 28, when he will be brought back to Bemidji.

Galvin was indicted last spring on the charge of burglary, the case later being dismissed. He was rearrested on the charge of larceny in the second degree and was awaiting the action of the grand jury at the time he escaped.

SAY McDONNELL IS INFRINGING

Boston Concern Brings Proceedings Against the Duluth Contractor.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Contractor P. R. McDonnell of Duluth, and the city of Grand Forks are joint defendants in an injunctional writ issued by Judge C. F. Amidon of the United States district court at Perham, Minn., Tuesday afternoon. The writ temporarily restrains the contractor and the city from laying so-called Donnellite pavement and Warren Bros., of Boston, are the plaintiffs.

The city of Grand Forks has let two contracts to Mr. McDonnell for Donnellite pavement. The first of these was let about two weeks ago and was for work on North Fifth street, North Fourth street and International avenue. Monday evening the council let another contract to Mr. McDonnell for Donnellite pavement to be laid on South Third street.

For some time there has been some discussion as to the probabilities of an injunction by Warren Bros., against the city, that concern having made the claim on several occasions that Donnellite is an infringement on the patent rights held by the Warren people on bithulithic pavement. Contemplating such action, Contractor McDonnell has been compelled to put up a bond indemnifying the city against any damage resulting from such suits.

The injunction issued by Judge Amidon restrains the laying of any of the Donnellite pavement pending the outcome of a suit the Warren Bros. company will start against Mr. McDonnell for infringement. The entire matter comes before Judge Amidon on Aug. 12, on which date the writ of injunction was made returnable.

This will be the second time that paving operations have been tied up in the last two years. The first case was at the time the original contract was let to Contractor McDonnell for the paving of District No. 4 and which was only disposed of after considerable litigation.

CONGRESS MAY RELIEF THE ODANAH SUFFERERS.

Ashland, Wis., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is expected that congress will pass a bill this week appropriating $5,000 for the relief of the flood sufferers at Odanah. Maj. Campbell has been in correspondence with Washington since the flood, and last Saturday he received a telegram asking what amount was absolutely needed. PRISONER MAKES OFF.

When North Dakota Sheriff Crosses With Him to Moorhead.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Instead of putting his man behind the bars in the city jail, as requested by Sheriff William H. Belford of Devils Lake, Marshal Dal. Sauer of Sanborn, N. D., remarked that it would be working an imposition on the man, who was a "good fellow" and an excursion party to Moorhead was planned. The prisoner, who was wanted in Devils Lake for jumping a board bill, is now wanted for breaking from custody. After making several of the joy bazars across in Happyland, there was nothing to it. The man "in custody" stepped aside to see a friend and hasn't been seen yet.

The matter of having the Brooks-Scanlon Lumber company's spur near the pumping station left where it is so that the city can buy it and use it for a spur to the station was referred to a committee composed of Mayor Smith, Aldermen Loye and Shea.

The lease for the ground just out of town where the pipe lines to the big tank are being built was received from the Oliver Iron Mining company and accepted.

Supt. C. Vandell, who is inspecting the pipe lines reported that about $9,165.50 of that work has already been done. H. A. Robinson, inspector on the cement sidewalks and curbing reported that about $1,008.50 of the curbing work had been done up to Aug. 1 and about $1,205.50 of the sidewalk work laid. City Engineer Austin reported that his estimate on building the Douglas avenue sewer was $3,797.95. This is for a twelve inch pipe. The sewer will run up to the alley between Pierce court and Monroe street because of the caving in along Douglas avenue from underground mining. The clerk was instructed to advertise for bids for the work.

Supt. of Schools Greening asked that a curbing be put around most of the block where the new high school is situated.

A communication was read from the Redmen asking the council to extend an invitation to the great council of Redmen which will hold their convention at Brainerd, Aug. 9 to 11 to hold their next annual convention at Eveleth. The council decided to extend the invitation.

HECTOR MINE IS REPORTED SOLD

Interstate Mining Company Said to Have Acquired Biwabik Property.

Biwabik, Minn., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Negotiations that have been hanging fire between the St. Claire interests who have been operating the Hector mine here under the name of the Hector Mining company, and the Jones & Laughlin company or the Interstate Mining company, are said to have culminated in the change of ownership.

The Hector has been idle for more than a year, having been closed with quite a stockpile on the property. There have been rumors that Pickands, Mather & Co., operators of the Bangor and the Syracuse, in the immediate vicinity, were to secure the property, and it is known that there were negotiations with them. The entrance of the new company into this territory, therefore, proves the more interesting.

Included in the deal is the Ajax mine, immediately adjoining the Hector, and which is a stripping and milling proposition, with a possibility that the milled ore can be handled through the Hector shaft. The Ajax has not been thoroughly explored, but it is not thought that it contains upwards of 1,000,000 tons.

The holders of ore prospects scattered all through the section between Biwabik and Aurora welcome the entrance of interstate people, believing that their coming warrants the belief that the finds will be developed in the very near future.

BID FIGURES CAUSE SHOCK

Virginia Aldermen Not Prepared for Such High Cost.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—A surprise was sprung at the council meeting last night when bids were opened for the remodeling of the city hall.

According to the estimates of the architects, Radcliffe & Price of Duluth, the cost of the work complete would be about $18,000, but when the city clerk read the bids the figures ran up to about $40,000. The councilmen were astonished as they have made no plans for such an outlay of money at this time. The bids were laid on the table for another week and it is possible that new plans and specifications and new bids may be asked for.

in the market places and the railroad stations. All milk supplies have been cut off, and thousands of babies are suffering from lack of nourishment and the change from cow's milk to canned milk.

The streets of Stockholm are filled with idlers who promenade back and forth chaffing the volunteer street cleaners, many of whom belong to the better classes. All the saloons are closed today and only the best restaurants are permitted to remain open, and even here it is possible to get wine only with a solid meal.

All the ferries have stopped running and there is little communication between Stockholm and the suburbs reached by water routes. This fact will result in a further diminution of food supplies. For the present all is quiet in the city, but trouble is expected when the stocks of food begin to run low.

Army Held in Readiness.

Yesterday soldiers were quartered in different sections of the city and suburbs, and the entire standing army of Sweden is ready for ventualities. The situation is so serious that King Gustav has summoned the members of parliament to Stockholm, and a special session of the rigsdag is expected.

Great consternation prevails in the capital. The banks are closed and carefully guarded. All the ferries running out of Stockholm have ceased operations, and the large steamers engaged in the summer in carrying visitors and residents to the seaside resorts in the archipelago have suddenly stopped running, discharged their crews, and are laying up for the winter. This summer traffic is usually continued until October.

No Liquor Sold.

The bridges leading to the islands adjacent to Stockholm are closely guarded. Many stores already have been closed. The sale of spirits, beer and wine has been prohibited both in saloons and restaurants.

The labor conflict that is at the bottom of this trouble originated in a dispute over wages in the woolen and cotton industries. In the beginning 13,000 men were locked out and other industries since have become involved, until Monday the employers' federation declared a lockout of the iron foundry hands, numbering about 30,000. A total of 80,000 men were reported locked out Monday and their numbers are increasing rapidly.

made at police headquarters, where she was taken before arraignment after a night in the Tombs prison. Heavily veiled, and apparently laboring under a severe mental strain, Mrs. Castle was taken to headquarters for the usual inspection in the detective bureau. The indignity of being photographed and measured was spared her.

Has Been an Actress.

To the officers of the bureau Mrs. Castle talked freely about herself and the train of events which led up to the sensational climax of yesterday. She went over her stage experience, which she said began in San Francisco, where she appeared in "The Girl From the Golden West."

Craig, who is a lawyer practicing in this city, she said she had known since he was a child.

Denying the imputation that she had forced her attentions on him, she declared that on the other hand he had been following her so persistently for the last five months that she was afraid he would compromise her.

"I intended to kill myself," Mrs. Castle told the detective bureau's chief, "and had the pistol in my hand, but he was struck by the bullet I had intended for myself. I knew Mr. Craig went to the rooms of the Rocky Mountain club in the Waldorf-Astoria to read, and as he passed me without taking notice of my presence, I said to him, 'Well, don't pass without noticing me. I am going to finish myself.'"

Told Her to "Go Ahead."

According to Mrs. Castle's statement, Craig told her to go ahead and do it.

"Mr. Craig has been an admirer of me ever since I was a tot," she said. "I never have annoyed or molested him in any way. His wife and I are distant cousins, but we are not on friendly terms. This is because Mr. Craig told Mrs. Craig in my presence that he admired me. It is quite natural that Mrs. Craig had defended her husband. I would do it if I were in her place."

Mrs. Castle said she purchased the revolver with which the shooting was done some time ago and carried it as a means of self-protection.

Mr. Craig, who was early on hand at the police court, would not say anything as to Mrs. Castle's charges that he had been annoying her, or her statement that the shooting was accidental.

Mrs. Castle's maiden name was Mary Scott, and she is the daughter of H. H. Scott, a merchant of San Francisco. Her husband, at one time a well-known lawyer in San Francisco, is said to be at present in Alaska. The Castles have been living apart for some time. After coming East several years ago, Mrs. Castle appeared in several theatrical productions.

Asks Him to Withdraw Charge.

When Craig was called to make his formal complaint against Mrs. Castle, a touching scene was enacted. The prisoner was plainly on the verge of collapse and mutual friends of the parties pleaded that Craig withdraw. He failed to do so, and then Mrs. Castle came forward. Laying a hand lightly on his shoulder, she said gently, "Will, please drop it, won't you?"

In his complaint Craig swore that he was "assaulted and beaten by Mrs. May Scott Castle in that she had pointed a loaded revolver at him and discharged the revolver, the bullet taking effect in his left breast."

Mrs. Castle, when arraigned, gave her age as 36, and her business as that of an insurance agent. She was becomingly attired in a suit of shepherd plaid trimmed with green, had on a black hat and wore a white veil, which she was asked to remove during the proceedings. Her counsel, Frederick Dean, asked an adjournment until next Friday and Magistrate Butts fixed the examination for that time, holding Mrs. Castle in $3,000 bail.

Mr. Dean told the court that Mrs. Castle had no friends or relatives here and that he wanted to communicate with her brother, Capt. Henry Harrison Scott of the coast artillery, stationed at Fort Morgan, Ala.

After her arraignment Mrs. Castle collapsed and had to be supported to an anteroom, where she was revived. She was then taken back to her cell. Her counsel said he expected to get bail for her.

NOT BRYAN, BUT ANOTHER

Commoner Not Likely to Be Candidate in 1912, Says Mack.

Buffalo Man Sees a Great Opportunity for the Democrats.

Norman E. Mack, chairman of the Democratic national committee, a national figure in the politics of this country and high in the councils of the progressive Democratic party, publisher of the Times of Buffalo and of the National Monthly magazine, was a passenger on the North West last evening. Mr. Mack was accompanied by his wife and two daughters, Norma E. and Harriet T.,

Mrs. Mack was one of the twelve commissioners of the world's fair at St. Louis, is prominent in club work in Buffalo, and has been prominently identified with women's club work in this country.

Mr. Mack is of the opinion that William Jennings Bryan will not be the nominee of his party at the next national conventio. He expressed the opinion that the party would turn toward some other leader. The Democratic national committeeman stated that Mr. Bryan was still a comparatively young man and that some day he might again be offered the opportunity to serve his party. However, Mr. Mack believes that Bryan will not be the 1912 candidate.

NORMAN E. MACK.

The national committeeman sees great possibilities in the tariff action of the Republican party.

Mr. Mack stated that the Republican leaders have not kept their pledge to the party or to the people. They have revised the tariff upward on all but a few of the less important commodities and have not acted in the interests of the common people.

Mr. Mack expressed the opinion that had the Democratic party been in power the pledge of that party, made at the national convention at Denver, to revise the tariff downward, would have been fulfilled. The pledge of the Republican party has been broken, and Mr. Mack believes that it will militate against the success of the party at the polls.

Mr. Mack and his family left on the return trip of the boat.

mittee and the committee on industrial arts and expositions. There is no indication that the speaker has changed his decision on this point, but a number of the "stalwarts" have expressed to him belief that he cannot afford at this time to be vindictive. Representative Olmsted of Pennsylvania, was practically assured of Mr. Cooper's place at the head of the insular affairs committee and the Pennsylvania delegation is backing him for the place.

Representative Weeks of Massachusetts is now being spoken of as one of the strongest candidates for the chairmanship of the committee on postoffices and postroads made vacant by reason of the retirement from congress of Jesse Overstreet of Indiana. This is one of the chairmanships over which there has been sharp contest and is one of the selections with which the settlement of the tariff differences has had something to do.

Committee Jobs Involved.

Representative Wagner of Pennsylvania, who was in line for the chairmanship of the interstate and foreign commerce committee, which is now practically assured to Representative Mann of Illinois, also has been mentioned in connection with the selection of a chairman for the postoffice committee. Representative Gardner of New Jersey is the ranking member of the postoffice committee, but it is said he is not likely to get the appointment.

the men who hired him to deliver the trunks were excited and in a great hurry. Ricardo mentioned that he was going to New Orleans.

Shipped to Chicago.

Detectives, accompanied by Giroloma, located the express office where he delivered the trunks. A clerk said that two of the trunks had been sent to Chicago. The police there were notified.

The father of the children refuses to accompany the police to Chicago, but special officers will go to that city. Fear restrains the parents.

"Two men rode with me to the express office," said Giroloma. "I left them at the American Express office near the union depot. I did not have anything to do with shipping the trunks."

At the office of the American Express company it was denied that the company had handled the trunks. Although Giroloma said he delivered the trunks to the American Express company the fact that three trunks had been expressed to Chicago was learned from G. P. Blythe, a clerk in the office of the Adams Express company, who said the trunks were sent to Benedetto Louis of Chicago.

Carefully Laid Plot.

The trunks were sent to Chicago over the Burlington route at 2:15 p. m. Monday. No record of the address of the Italian to whom they were consigned is on file at the local office of the express company.

As the police delve deeper into the circumstances surrounding the disappearance of the two children, they are more firmly convinced that the abduction was planned carefully. The kidnaping was preceded by a systematic campaign of explosions, mysterious fires and threatening letters, calculated to reduce the Vivianos to a state of terror and make them easy prey.

Two Black Hand letters demanding $300 have been sent to Joseph Palozolio, a brickmaker. Today the police began standing guard about his house. Fright at the kidnaping of the Viviano children caused him to report the letters to the police. The last letter was dated Monday. Palozolio paid no attention to a letter dated July 26. He is known to have saved up several hundred dollars.

Trunks Are Located.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—The trunks which figure in the kidnaping of the two Viviano children from St. Louis are said to have been located here at the main warehouse of the Adams Express company. They will be opened. There were three trunks, all addressed to Louis Bernadotte. The latter name does not appear in the city directory, nor does that of Benedetto Louis.

BODY COMES TO SURFACE

Lake Gives Up Remains of Arthur Rydholm, Drowned on July 4.

The body of Arthur Rydholm, one of the two young men drowned just outside the Duluth canal piers on July 4, was found floating in the lake near the icehouses late yesterday afternoon. It was first seen by Martin Olson and Harry Kenner, two fishermen.

The remains, which were badly decomposed, were turned over to the coroner and later taken to Durkan & Crawford's undertaking rooms, where they were viewed by Mrs. Carl Gustafson, mother of the young man. The features were unrecognizable, but the woman was able to dientify her son by a peculiar key ring he carried, and by the keys on it, which were found in one of the pockets of the drowned man.

Rydholm and Jonathan Kelly, both employes of Panton & White, were drowned as the result of a canoe capsizing just north of the lake end of the canal on July 4. A crew from the naval militia and the United States life saving crew dragged the lake for three days in a fruitless effort to find the two bodies. Mr. Gustafson also worked for seven days dragging the lake. Kelly's body was found about two weeks ago, after it had drifted into the harbor.

Funeral services over Rydholm's remains were held at 3 o'clock this afternoon from Durkan & Crawford's undertaking rooms.

"TOM" BRADY VISITS CITY

Thomas J. Brady of St. Paul, one of the staunchest friends that Duluth and Northern Minnesota have had during the last two sessions of the legislature, arrived in the city today.

Mr. Brady has stood by this part of the state through thick and thin for the last four years, and his generous support could always be counted on for any fair measure that had for its object the development of Northern Minnesota. And his support was no small matter, for "Tom" Brady was looked upon as one of the live wires of the last two legislatures, a hard fighter and a man whose word carried no small weight with the Twin City delegations.

Mr. Brady is here on a short vacation trip. He is accompanied by Mrs. Brady and the Misses Helen and Nora Heenan of St. Paul.

docks and terminals. From there the party will be taken on board the Duluth, Missabe & Northern's fire tug McGonagle and taken for a trip over the bay.

The members of the party will be put ashore at Northern Pacific dock No. 4. Here the members of the party will be met by A. L. Ordean and taken for a trip over the boulevard in automobiles.

This evening a dinner will be served to the members of the Hill party by Mr. Ordean and several business men of Duluth. The dinner is not one for the general public, only some of the friends of the railway magnate being invited to be present.

This evening the general reception for the public will be given at the rooms of the Commercial club at 8:30. It is the wish of the officers of the Commercial club that every business man in the city be present at the public reception. An urgent invitation is given through The Herald to every business men in Duluth to be present at the reception to the "Empire Builder" this evening.

The reception will continue until 10 o'clock. This evening the members of the Hill party will leave in a Great Northern special for the iron range. At least a day will be spent making a thorough inspection of the Great Northern property there.

Important developments are expected to grow out of the trip of Mr. Hill to this city. It is generally believed that extensive improvements will be made to the Head of the Lakes terminals of the company.

REVISES RULES FOR FIXING BEER TARIFF.

Washington, Aug. 4.—Satisfied that the government has been "short changed" either intentionally or unintentionally, in the matter of customs dues on imported beers, Assistant Secretary Reynolds of the treasury department yesterday promulgated a change in the customs regulations.

In accordance with the regulations previously in force, an allowance was made for leakage or shrinkage in amount. It has come to the attention of the officials, however, that the importers were selling the beer on the invoices, but making no allowance to their customers for leakage or shrinkage. This practice did not appeal to the treasury officials as a "square deal." In the new instructions to collectors of customs Secretary Reynolds said:

"On and after Aug. 15, 1909, duties will be assessed on beer imported in barrels or casks on the basis of the invoice quantity whenever the same is equal to or exceeds the capacity branded on the barrels or casks in liters. Fractions of a liter will not be considered.

"If the total invoice quantity is found to be less than the total branded capacity of all the barrels or casks covered by the invoice, the entry will be liquidated on the quantity shown by the branded capacity."

Detailed instructions also are given for ascertaining the exact capacity of the barrels and casks, in order that, while the government is collecting its just dues, no injustice may be done to the importers.

OLD SETTLERS HOLDING PICNIC

Duluth and Superior Pioneers Have Outing at Fond du Lac.

About 250 members of the Old Settlers' association of Duluth and Superior left at 9 o'clock this morning on the steamer Newsboy for Fond du Lac, where the annual picnic is being held today. There is no formal program for the day, but the old settlers will gather in Chambers' grove and enjoy themselves by various means.

Anybody who has been a resident of the Head of the Lakes for twenty-five years is eligible to membership in the association, and it is growing in numbers each year. Andrew Soderlund of Superior, president of the association, has been at the Head of the Lakes for fifty-five years, and other members have been here fully that long. The annual outing is always an enjoyable affair, and today's picnic is well attended.

REFUSES TO SURRENDER NEGRO BOXER TO STATE.

Provincetown, Mass., Aug. 4.—Rear Admiral Schroeder last night refused to surrender David W. Williams of Mariette, Ga., to the state police, who tried to arrest Williams as a result of a boxing bout held on the battleship Vermont Friday night, when his opponent, Harry H. Foster, was so badly injured that he died soon after. Both men were negro mess-hands on the ship.

The warrant charged Williams with manslaughter. Admiral Schroeder said that he did not deny the jurisdiction of the state, but that the government had instituted an inquiry and he preferred to wait until that investigation had been concluded before acting further in the matter. He promised that he would notify the police of the result of the inquiry and as to whether he would give up Williams.

The fleet was augumented yesterday by the arrival of the fast cruiser squadron, consisting of the armored cruisers North Carolina and Montana and the cruiser New York which arrived early in the day from the Mediterranean. On board the North Carolina were Lieut. Utley and Dr. Cook, who left at once for Annapolis as witnesses in the Sutton trial.

There was little practice or drill aboard the ships as the crews were busy in preparing the vessels for the start to Hampton Roads tomorrow.

COUNT SAVED BY POLICE.

Von Hammerstein Nearly Loses His Life With Prospectors.

Edmontaon, Alberta, Aug. 4.—Count von Hammerstein and Ed La France and R. Volkofsky, two prospectors, were thrown into the rapids of the Athabasca river at Grand Rapids, many miles north of Edmonton, Monday. The Hammerstein managed to reach the shore alive. All his food and clothing was lost, and he was in a destitute condition, far from civilization, when discovered by the mounted police.

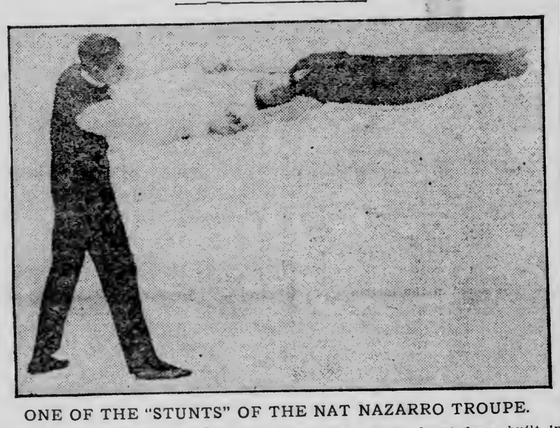
FINE ATTRACTIONS FOR MINNESOTA STATE FAIR



ONE OF THE "STUNTS" OF THE NAT NAZARRO TROUPE.

Over $10,000 will be invested by the board of managers of the Minnesota state fair in the circus and vaudeville programs to be given in front of the new $250,000 grandstand each afternoon and evening of Sept. 6 to 11. This investment is entirely independent of the extra expense incident to the production of the spectacle "Minnesota at Gettysburg" and of the evening displays of Gregory's matchless fireworks.

In place of the two or three stages upon which these performances have been given in other years, it will require four stages for the performances this year, and all of these stages will be larger than heretofore built in front of the grandstand. The central one is to be used especially for the performance of such big feature acts as the Si-Hassan-Ben-Ali Arabs, the Mirza-Golems troupe, the Dankmir-Schiller troupe and the Caroll Austrian ballet, and is to be given a complete stage equipment, including drop curtains. There will be special scenery on each of the other stages also. The system will be so perfected that the entire bill will run rapidly in spite of the usual handicap of an ourdoor performance. Among the acts engaged for this grandstand program will be the Brazelly Sisters, two German women who exploit extraordinary muscular development.

SPRINKLER MUCH USED

Duluth Rainfall Greatest for Month of July in History.

Total Precipitation Far in Excess of the Average.

July was a decidedly moist month in Duluth. Never, at least since the weather bureau was established here, in 1871, has Jupiter Pluvius held his sprinkling can so persistently over the Zenith City during the midsummer month. The total precipitation for the month just passed was 10.83 inches, which figures are approached only by those of July, 1879, when 10.42 inches fell. Both years are exceptional, as the average of the month for thirty-nine years is 3.89 inches, so that the rainfall for July this year is 6.94 inches in excess of the average. The heaviest precipitation in any twenty-four hours came on July 21 and 22, when the cloudburst poured 5.36 inches, or nearly half of the total for the month, on the earth.

In the matter of temperature, the month was average, according to the summary of the weather conditions issued by Forecaster H. M. Richardsen. The mean temperature for the month was 64, which is the same as last year. The average of the month for thirty-nine years is 65.7. The highest temperature was 84 degs. on July 3. The greatest daily range was 29 degs. July 20, and the least daily range 7 degs., July 19.

The prevailing direction of the wind for the month was northeast and the total movement was 7,599 miles, an average hourly velocity of 10.2 miles. The maximum velocity attained by the wind for any five minutes was 41 miles an hour, from the southwest, July 9.

There were fifteen clear days, seven partly cloudy and nine cloudy. There were aurcras on two nights, fog on four days and thunderstorms on nine days.

ILLEGAL PRACTICE COSTLY

Starkweather, N. D., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charged with practicing medicine without a license, W. W. Winslow, arrested in Grand Forks Saturday evening, was yesterday afternoon found guilty and given a fine of $100, together with costs, bringing the total up to $250.

Inspect Bemidji Plant.

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Prof. Bass, civil engineer for the state board of health, and Prof. Whittaker, state chemist, have been in the city in company with M. D. Stoner, city engineer, inspected the sewer outlet and looked over the proposed water works system.

The two state officials, while rather reticent as to the opinion they had formed concerning the efficiency or inefficiency of the water works improvements in which they were interested were, nevertheless undoubtedly well pleased.

DIFFERENCE OF OPINION

Neither Board Nor City Engineer Will Inspect Bridge Painting.

Non-Union Men Are Employed and Kicks Are Numerous.

The board of public works and the city engineer are having a merry squabble over who should inspect the painting of the aerial bridge, a piece of work that is now in progress. The board contends that Mr. McGilvray should attend to the work, but Mr. McGilvray declares the inspection business, so far as the painting is concerned, is entirely out of his line, and that it has been his understanding all along that the engineer at the bridge should look after it.

Meantime, complaints are being made to the board that the work is not being properly done. The claim is made, however, that these complaints are at the instigation of the painters' union, which is anything but satisfied because non-unionists have charge of the work. It has been about three weeks now since the painting started, and up to the present time it has not been inspected at all, it is said, because of the misunderstanding between the two city departments.

This is a busy season of the year for the city engineer, and also for the board of public works. Mr. McGilvray says there is no necessity for any of them doing the inspecting, as long as there is a man on the ground in the person of the bridge engineer, who has plenty of time, and apparently enough intelligence, to look after it. The bridge engineer says he doesn't know any more about paint than he does about restaurant hash, and gently but firmly refuses to have anything to do with the inspection. Whether the fact of his being a union man, while the painters are not, has anything to do with it, has not been explained.

TENNYSON CENTENARY.

Will Be Observed in Houghton By Melodramatic Production.

It is to be recognized in Houghton two days earlier, for convenience, by the production of a melodrama in which his poem, "Enoch Arden," is given a musical setting by Strauss. The production will be given at Grace Methodist Episcopal church tomorrow by Mrs. Clara Koehler-Hebberlein, pianiste, and Mrs. Clara Bradley Dawson, contralto and reader. It is simply a reading of the poem to a musical accompaniment. The ladies most prominently concerned in the production are talented and cultured in their lines of musical endeavor and they should offer to music lovers an evening of rare pleasure.

ENGINEER ON THE STAND

Soo Official Says Trestle Would Compel Change in Plans.

Does Not Believe Crossing Would Be a Great Menace.

Chief Engineer Greene of the Soo railroad was on the stand yesterday afternoon in the case of that company against the Northern Pacific for the right to cross the tracks of the latter road near Fifteenth avenue west.

Mr. Greene was in the chair on direct examination and was asked by the attorney for the Soo what he thought of the overhead trestle idea advanced by the attorneys for the Northern Pacific as a means of getting around the crossing of the tracks of the latter company.

"In the first place," said Mr. Greene, "the grade would of necessity be too steep. This would work a hardship on our road and force us to have engines especially for the purpose of hauling our trains up the incline. The cost would be great. I don't think the bridge could be built under $150,000. There is not enough room on either side of the proposed structure in my opinion to build the sort of trestle that they suggest successfully. There would be much additional property to buy and any one knowing the values of property in this vicinity knows that it is hard to obtain at any price.

'We have little enough room as it is. We had intended to build a turntable and coach track also on the Garfield avenue property. So if we are not granted the right to cross the tracks of the Northern Pacific all this property will be worth very much less to us.

"I don't think there would be much delay at the crossing should we be granted the right to cross," continued Mr. Greene. "I don't think that the danger in crossing them would be very great."

"Assuming that Railroad street would be one of the busiest streets of the city in time, do you not think, Mr. Greene, that the crossing of the Soo trains and the great amount of traffic that goes on daily and is bound to increase with years would render the point of the crossing a very dangerous one? That it would not be only dangerous, but very much so?" asked Mr. Mitchell, attorney for the Northern Pacific.

Mr. Greene said that he did not expect Railroad street to develop into a very busy street and for that reason the place would never be more dangerous than at present.

Capt. Parker of Chicago, ex-president of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad company, was also on the stand.

On a direct question as to which plan he would favor, the crossing of the tracks on the ground as the Soo wishes, or the building of an overhead bridge as suggested by the Northern Pacific, Mr. Parker answered that he would favor the Ieda advanced by the Northern Pacific on account of the danger and the mixing of trucks. The captain said that it was the great problem these days to keep as far as possible from crossing tracks.

The captain was asked if he would consider the accident phase of this situation grave enough to cast about for other means rather than crossing the tracks and he answered "most assuredly."

He was asked if he knew of another situation, similar to the one in Duluth in any other part of the country. He did not.

Capt. Parker thought that the trestle would cost about $150,000.

The taking of testimony was completed yesterday and the case adjourned until the last week in September, when the attorneys will make their arguments.

PILL MIXERS MEETING.

Twenty-Fourth Annual Session of North Dakota Druggists.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Dakota Pharmaceutical association met in its twenty-fourth annual session here today, with delegates from every section of the state present.

The first business session was held this morning when the reports of the officers, appointment of session committees and other routine matters were taken up. The two interesting reports were by President Oscar Hallenberg of Fargo and Secretary W. S. Parker of Lisbon. Both reports, filled with enthusiasm over the work of the last twelve months and optimistic as to the progress that is to be made in the next year, set the convention work on wheels and from time to time as they were read there was something doing all the time.

The association will remain in session three days, the third day being a picnic day, however, with an elaborate program arranged.

The travelers' auxiliary will hold its annual meeting tomorrow. H. E. Payne is president and G. Hammond Brown is secretary. The ladies' auxiliary held its first session this morning and will have its closing session tomorrow.

NEW PENNY SHOWS LINCOLN SMILING.

New York, Aug. 1.—Victor D. Brenner, the designer of the new Lincoln penny, 20,000,000 of which are now being circulated by the government, says that he obtained the smile on the "war president's" face by imagining that Mr. Lincoln was talking to a child.

"If you will look carefully at the coin, you will see I have made him smiling," said Mr. Brenner. "I wanted to show the sunshine as well as the goodness of his life. I caught this expression only after I had shut my eyes and imagined him speaking to a child."

FARMER'S WIFE NEARLY KILLED BY MAD BULL.

St. Cloud, Minn., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. John Timers, wife of a prominent farmer of Big Water Lake, near here, received serious injuries and narrowly escaped death when an enraged bull attacked her as she was passing through the farmyard.

Mrs. Timers was going out to help do the morning's milking when the bull, who had always been considered safe, walked in front of her. With her milking stool she struck him a blow to drive him away when he suddenly knocked the woman down and trampled upon her. She was seriously injured in the thighs by the sharp hoofs of the animal, but her husband hearing her screams for help, drove away the infuriated bull with a pitchfork before he could hurt her further.

SOO SURVEYORS BUSY.

Walker, Minn., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Surveyors are at work on the Soo extension from Thief River Falls to Duluth. A townsite is being laid out at the Leech Lake government dam, and a local company is being organized to run daily passenger boats from Walker to the dam, a distance of thirty miles, to connect with the trains.

Stillwater, Minn., Aug. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—While playing in the yard of the family residence yesterday, Tommy, the 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Starkey of the village of Forest Lake, was attacked by a large rooster, thrown to the ground and before the father and others could interfere the bird had sunk its spurs into the flesh back of both ears of the little child.

One wound was an ugly one. A physician was summoned to cauterize and dress the wounds.

S.S.S. CURES ECZEMA, ACNE, TETTER ETC.

While Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, etc., are troubles which affect the skin, their source is far deeper than the outside cuticle. These affections are caused by irritating humors, or uratic acid in the blood. Such impurities inflame and irritate the delicate net-work of fibrous tissue which lies just beneath the surface of the outer skin, and the inflammatory discharge thus produced is forced out through the pores and glands, and is continually kept up while the blood remains infected. This exudation causes the formation of scales and crusts so often seen in Eczema, and when they are scratched off the flesh is left raw and more susceptible to other infection. It can very readily be seen then that to produce a cure the circulation must be purified and cleansed. This S. S. S. will do. It goes down to the very bottom, removes all humors and impurities, neutralizes the excessive acids of the system and in this way removes the cause of disease. Local applications can only soothe the irritation and assist in keeping the skin clean; they never produce a cure because such treatment does not reach the blood S. S. S. restores to the thin, acrid blood all its lost properties, makes it pure and rich and enables it to nourish the skin and keep it soft, smooth and healthy. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice free to all who write.

HIGH KICKERS TO RETURN

Representative of Burlesque Wheel in Duluth Looking for Site.

Duluth May Be Again Gathered Into the Empire Fold.

On the heels of the rumor that the Shuberts were going to have a theater in Duluth next season, comes one to the effect that the Empire circuit, comprising the most important burlesque theaters of the country, is anxious to regain a foothold in this city.

Empire circuit burlesque flourished at the Metropolitan opera house for two seasons, until that playhouse was torn down to make room for the Wisconsin Central, now the Soo, terminals.

The burlesquers are anxious to kick and sing for Dulutlians once more, however, and the circuit company has sent T. J. Brown of New York to Duluth to confer with Charles A. Marshall, manager of the Lyceum, about the plan of securing a home of burlesque here.

Mr. Brown arrived late yesterday and was in conference with Mr. Marshall last evening. In the past it has been Mr. Marshall and those who were interested with him in the old Metropolitan who were most anxious to have the Empire circuit remain in Duluth, but now the greatest anxiety to have this city a part of the "wheel," as the circuit is known, is shown by the heads of the Empire company themselves.

As a result of the Empire people's awakening to the theatrical possibilities of Duluth, it is quite likely that a first-class burlesque theater will be built here this year, if a suitable, central location can be secured. There is nothing to it but to buy or lease a site and erect a new building to house the theater, and this the Empire circuit magnates now seem anxious to have done.

Mr. Marshall's interest in burlesque has not diminished and he is willing to give the plan his support and the new theater his direction. It was Mr. Marshall and his associates who gave the Empire circuit Duluth when it first came here, and if it returns, he will resume his interest in the organization.

The Eastern theatrical people and Mr. Marshall feel that first-class burlesque is enjoyed by Dulutlians, the success of the old Metropolitan under the burlesque regime showing that. And the Empire circuit offers the best there is in this particular line of entertainment. It has houses in New York and the other important cities in the East, and in many farther West, including the Dewey and Star theaters in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

During Mr. Brown's stay, suitable theater sites will be inspected and estimates made of the cost of reinstating this city in the Empire fold, equipped with a complete burlesque theater.

American Carbolite Company Wins Its Suit for Patent Infringement.

Is Allowed to Manufacture Carbolite Under Court's Decision.

A decision holding that the process used by the American Carbolite company of Duluth in the manufacture of its product is not an infringement on the patent held by the Union Carbolite company, has been handed down by a New York court, according to advices received by officials of the local concern.

The action is one of several filed against the Duluth company soon after it began the manufacture of carbolite. It was claimed that the American Carbolite company was using a process which was a direct infringement on patents held by the other concern. The decision was naturally joyfully received by the local people who are interested in the West Duluth plant.

WERE PINCHED FOR PINCHING

West Duluth Men Too Strenuous in Collecting Rent.

Oscar and John Nystrom, brothers, were fined $5 and costs last evening in the West Duluth justice court by Judge Flack. They were found guilty of assault upon Mrs. Fred La Plaitt of the West end.

It appeared in the evidence that the Nystroms were trying to collect rent from Mrs. Le Plaitt, who refused to pay because an agreement to have the house supplied with water had not been kept by them. She alleged that both of the men pinched her arms. She showed the marks in court.

The Nystroms paid their fines. They were arrested at West Duluth last Saturday.

All previous annual picnics of the Hibernians have been very successful. It is expected that this one will be very largely attended.

PASTOR AS LIFE SAVER

Rev. F. L. Trelstad Rescues Boy From a Watery Grave.

Dives Into the River and Pulls Out Drowning Lad.

While bathing with several other young boys yesterday afternoon up the St. Louis river near Little Pokegama bay, Carl Jacobson, the 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Jacobson of Superior nearly lost his life by drowning. He was saved from a watery grave by Rev. F. L. Trelstad also of Superior.

Young Jacobson was a member of a picnic party which had been arranged for the members of the congregation of the Norwegian-Danish M. E. church of Superior. The party had stopped at one of the inlets on the Wisconsin side of the river, and while eating lunch, a number of the small boys including young Jacobson, went in bathing.

The boy got out beyond his depth and in a frantic effort to get to shore sank three times. The current was carrying him further out when Rev. Trelstad noticed his struggles. He jumped into the water without removing any of his clothing and rescued the boy.

The lad was revived with much difficulty.

LOVE FEAST AT SEATTLE

Governor Johnson and Mr. Chilberg Part the Best of Friends.

Exceptional Honors Are Accorded Minnesota Executive.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Whatever rumors of strife and ill-feeling there may have been regarding the relations between Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota and President Chilberg of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition, they must be laid aside since the luncheon given to the governor by Mr. Chilberg after the former's address at the exposition on Minnesota day. The governor is elated over the smoothing of the difficulties and as glad as a college boy who has just made the team, and all agree that all hard feelings are past and everything is lovely.

President Chilberg was the smiling ally of the governor, but the crowd manifestly was with the Minnesota man, and not in sympathy with the exposition chief.

President Chilberg was the host at a luncheon at the New York building for Governor Johnson and his staff, and the occasion was a happy one. The reconciliation between the Gopher governor and the president of the exposition was accomplished fully, and pleasant laudatory toasts were passed.

Good Will Apparent.

Some curiosity had existed as to whether the difficulties of the two men would appear in any form during the exercises at the grounds, and there was an audible murmur when Governor Johnson turned to President Chilberg, who sat at his right, and, with impressive earnestness, testified to the warmth and cordiality of the welcome accorded to the party here. As the crowd evinced its enthusiasm, Mrs. Johnson, sitting by her husband's chair, was moved to tears, as were several members of the staff and women of the party.

After the unveiling of the Hill memorial Mrs. Johnson did a gracious thing. She took from her corsage a large bouquet of lavender sweet peas and laid them on the base of the pedestal. This action occasioned much applause.

Governor Johnson was shown additional honor during the fireworks display at the foot of the Pay Streak. His portrait, in a set piece, surrounded by brilliant fire, was the feature.

THAW FEELS CONFIDENT

Prepares to Rebut Testimony Given By Alienists for the State.

Morschauser Attacks the Credibility of Dr. Flint as Witness.

White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 4.—"Yesterday was the best day I have had yet," said Harry K. Thaw today, while waiting for the continance of the hearing on his application for discharge from the state hospital for the criminal insane.

Last night Thaw spent several hours with his counsel, Charles Morschauser, preparing for rebuttal evidence that will follow the testimony of the state alienists today.

Thaw's attorney, it became known today, is getting ready to prove that his client's alleged delusions regarding Stanford White's treatment of young girls are well founded. The attorney prepared the way for this yesterday when he had Thaw identify the affidavit of Ada G. Dieckhardt. This document has not been offered in evidence yet, but around it Mr. Morschauser, it is supposed, will build up the remainder of his case after he finishes cross-examination of the opposition's experts. He continued his questioning of experts this morning, with Dr. Austin Flint on the stand.

Dr. Flint Under Fire.

Dr. Flint yesterday asserted that Thaw was a paranoiac and incurable. Mr. Morschauser examined Dr. Flint regarding the sanity proceedings of Mrs. Penelope Dodge Osborne, in which Dr. Flint appeared as an expert in May, 1907. Thaw's lawyer asserts that Dr. Flint's testimony resulted in this woman's discharge from restraint, although he classed her as a paranoiac.

The listeners began to wonder what Mr. Morschauser's purpose was when he began to talk about alum in baking powder. This was explained when he held up a can of baking powder, with the witness' signed indorsement printed on the label, and said it contained alum.

Dr. Flint said he knew of the existence of this exhibit. Jerome enabled him to explain that he was employed in 1900 by a baking powder company to investigate the effects of alum in baking powder.

"I did not authorize my indorsement," he declared, "and I threatened to bring legal action if it were used."

Thaw Showed Nervousness.

Three alienists testified yesterday that Thaw was insane, and when Thaw took the stand, after some disconcerting testimony, he was plainly ruffled and nervous, but Mr. Jerome dismissed him after a few comparatively unimportant questions.

Of the alienists who testified—Dr. Austin Flint, Dr. William Hirsch and Dr. Amos T. Baker—the last named gave testimony of the most importance. He is acting superintendent of Matteawan and appears as a witness without compensation, the only alienist in the case with this distinction. Justice Mills called attention to this fact, and took a hand in questioning him. Dr. Baker said that in his opinion Thaw was not only insane now, but a dangerous person to be at large.

It was shortly after this declaration that Mr. Jerome quickly called Thaw to the stand. He was pale and apparently shaken and kept moving and wiping his eye glasses.

Showed Court Notes.

The district attorney put some rather incoherent notes written by the prisoner in evidence and asked him to explain them. After parries back and forth and laborious explanations by Thaw as to the meaning of certain writings, he said:

"And I want you to know, Mr. Jerome, that many of these notes you call suggestions were written at the request of my lawyers."

After Thaw was excused Dr. Austin Flint was called. Dr. Flint described a paranoiac as a person dominated by certain delusions, whose mental and physical state might not otherwise be affected, except in so far as these delusions influence him. The progress of the disease was usually very slow, he said. It rarely caused death, and except in the last stages, the patient might retain his faculties unimpaired.

"Paranoiacs," he concluded impressively, "never recover."

Dr. Hirsch varied the general verdict by declaring Thaw a "degenerate paranoiac."

TONNAGE TAX A DEAD ISSUE

J. A. Dalzell Says Southern Minnesota Is Opposed to It.

John A. Dalzell of Morton, Minn., chairman of the tax committee of the house of representatives during the last legislative session, is in the city today. He says emphatically that the tonnage tax is a dead issue, and that it always will remain so.

"People of Northern Minnesota need have no fear that a tonnage tax agitation will ever again be started in the state legislature," he said this morning. "It has been disposed of once and for all by Governor Johnson's veto. The conservative business interests of Southern Minnesota are opposed to the passage of such a measure. They are convinced that it would be unjust, and entirely without excuse. They do not want it, and do not hesitate to say so."

Mr. Dalzell was a member of the house for two sessions, and took a prominent part in the activities of that body. He always was a friend of Northern Minnesota, and that he has full confidence in the future of this part of the state is evidenced by the fact that he now is on his way to Hibbing to make his home there and practice law.

HOUSE TAKES UP THE URGENT DEFICIENCY BILL.

Washington, Aug. 4.—When the house met today the conference report on the urgent deficiency bill was presented. The intention was to have the report receive immediate consideration, but it was frustrated by Mr. Macon of Arkansas.

Still occupying the role of objector, Mr. Macon refused unanimous consent to a motion by Mr. Payne that the rule requiring conference reports to be printed in the Record should be suspended in the interest of the deficiency bill. All appeals to the Arkansas member to consent were in avail. A rule finally was put trough covering the points made in various objections by Mr. Macon, and then the conference report was presented by Chairman Tawney and immediately taken up.

.439	Superior	.427

It's a sad story, but true.

Superior gathered six in the first. That's all the runs that the Swamp Jumpers gathered, but Heavens. Maud, isn't that enough for any perfectly respectable game?

Smiling Al Cummings was trotted to the mound yesterday. Like the general who marched his cohorts up the hill and back again, the slow slant artist trotted right back from the mound. Five scorching hits were gathered from the delivery of the wet ball hurler before the Sox could quite recover from their surprise at the rude reception accorded them upon their return to the Head of the Lakes. When the smoke of the bombardment had cleared, the score board man had marked up six runs.

It happened thusly. Turn away your head if you must, but listen.. Geyer hit nothing but the humid atmosphere. Gray hit for one and King Kohl permitted Vogt's grounder to permeate undisturbed to the outfield. Koepping hit for one, sending both runners across the plate. Clapper's single sent Koepping to third. McCulloch hit for one, scoring Koepping. Holstrom hit one right at Darby, intentionally it seemed, and the Captain permitted the sphere to roll undisturbed between his shapely limbs. Clapper came home on the bloomer, McCulloch scored on Bancroft's out, and Stremmel sent Holstrom home with a single. Stremmel was caught off first and the agony ended.

McCrone singled in the second, was sacrificed to second, and scored on Zarkert's blow.

The new hurler, Cyrus Young the Fourth, was trotted to the hill when Mister Cummings was wig-wagged to the bench. He held the Drillers runless until J. Pluvius put a damper on the game. Just what the youngster can do will be proved in a more extended contest. Aside from the hitting of the rude boys from across the bay, the most damage was accomplished by a cloud burst.

RECORD CROWD AT BOSTON GAME

Spectators Overflowed Into Field and Interfered With Play.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 4.—Playing before the largest crowd that ever saw an American league baseball game in this city, Boston pulled Detroit's percentage down still lower in the pennant race, by winning two exciting games yesterday, the first by a score of 2 to 1, and the second by 8 to 2. The paid admission was 29,781 and thousands were refused admission. On Oct. 5, 1904, 25,040 people stayed to see Boston and New York play a double header, this being the largest crowd before yesterday. The first game was a pitchers' battle between Wood and Killian, the locals winning in the seventh inning on poor work by Killifer, following a two-base hit. The free hitting marked the second contest. Another double header will be played today.

The unusual number of two-base hits made in the games was due to the fact that the big crowd overflowed into the field and according to the rules a hit into the crowd was good for two bases. Ordinarily many of these hits would have been easy outs. Scores:

First game—	R.	H.	E.
Detroit 10000000	0—1	3	2
Boston 00000110	x—2	7	4

Batteries — Killian and Schmidt; Wood and Carrigan. Umpires—Connolly and Egan.

Boston 01012012	—8	13	3

Batteries—Speer and Stanage; Karger, Collins and Carrigan. Umpires—Connolly and Egan.

Philadelphia Takes Two.

Philadelphia, Aug. 4.—Philadelphia won both games of yesterday's double-header with Chicago. Scott was very effective in the first game, but Chicago's errors were costly. In the second game Philadelphia developed a batting streak and drove White off the rubber. In the eighth inning of the second game, Collins objected to being called out at second base and Umpire Hurst is alleged to have spat in Collins' face. At the end of the game several hundred fans rushed at Hurst, but policemen and the home players went to the umpire's assistance and he made his escape. The scores:

First game—	R.	H.	E.

Washington Drops Two.

Washington, Aug. 4.—Cleveland scored a double victory over Washington, Berger out-pitching Witherup and winning the first 6 to 0, while Falkenberg was better than Smith at critical points in the second and won 2 to 1. The fielding of Stovall and Lajoie on double plays and sensational catches by Leilvelt were the features. Scores:

An Even Break.

New York, Aug. 4.—New York and St. Louis broke even in a double-header yesterday, the first game, which was a victory for the locals, lasting eleven innings. The winning run was made by Elberfeld, who singled and reached the plate on La Porte's double. Both Quinn and Bailey did fine relief work in this game. In the second contest, which the visitors won, Lake was ineffective, and Brockett, who succeeded him, was poorly supported. Scores:

Toledo, Ohio, Aug. 4.—After Dougherty was put off the grounds in the third inning for disputing a decision, the locals made two runs off Curtis in the sixth. McGlynn succeeded Curtis in the eighth, but three hits, a wild pitch, a pass and a sacrifice fly were good for three more runs. Manager McCloskey was ordered off the grounds along with Dougherty, the latter being escorted by a policeman. Score:

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 4.—Minneapolis won the final game of the series from Louisville yesterday in the ninth inning mainly through Selby's wildness and Quinlan's error. Hogg was replaced by Selby in the sixth inning and pitched good ball, but all save the final session. Olson's fielding and Cravath's batting were the features. An unusually large weekday crowd witnessed the game. Score:

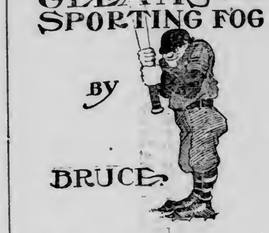
GLEAMS IN THE SPORTING FOG



We are back again. The team is home. What are we going to do about it?

Despite the fact that the Sox have not done as well on the road as the majority of the fans expected, they are only a trifle more than three games behind the winners. If the same kind of baseball is played on the home grounds that was played during the last home sojourn, the Sox should take the lead away from Winona.

Now is the time the team needs the support of the fans. The season is drawing to a close and every game counts. We need all the games we can get. We also want the pennant.

To win the pennant it is necessary for the fans to do their part.

Winona is playing great ball. It is a very hard team to beat. The management of the Winona team has been spending money with a lavish hand. It is not believed here that the team is anywhere within the salary limit. Dexter, Cates and some of the other veteran members of the Winona team are probably getting more money than the rules of the league allow. But even at that, Duluth stands an excellent chance to win the flag, and every member of the team is imbued with that idea. The team has given the fans good baseball all year. The chase for the flag is a stern one. Winona and La Crosse are out for blood. To win the flag Duluth must drop precious few games between now and the close of the season, so it is up to the fans to come out and give the team the right kind of support.

The members of the team are willing to do their share. Their fighting spirit is up and they are out to win.

Johnny Ness, who performed at the initial sack for the Sox last year, and who, by the way, was about the classiest performer at the first station that has been seen in these parts for some time, has been purchased by the Detroit Americans. The purchase price is said to have been $1,000. Ness has been playing in the Wisconsin-Illinois league this season, and his batting and fielding have been the talk of the league. It was predicted when the boy left here that he was tagged for higher company. In going to the Tigers, Ness will be going to one of the best coaches in the country, for Hughey Jennings knows a baseball player when he sees one, and he furthermore knows how to bring the best points of that player out.

Zbysco! Wonder does he eat 'em alive?

That is really not the name of any wild man or sideshow freak. Nothing like that in the Zbysco family. He is the latest European sensation in the wrestling line and he is coming to this country to wrest the mat honors from Frank A. Gotch.

The gliuks who like to see all the honors of the mat crowded into the petty provinces of Europe, were somewhat disappointed when Mahmount failed to end the reign of Gotch. Antoni Pierre has returned to Turkey for a bigger and better man, and in the meantime Zbysco is coming here to get the Gotch goat.

This man with the snake-eating name, is about the biggest thing in the wrestling game. He is a yard wide and is guaranteed to be all wool. He weighs somewhere in the neighborhood of 300 pounds, and some able press agent has stated that he is as quick as a cat. A cat might mean some poor, inoffensive Tom slow and decrepit from extreme age. Hackenschmidt was as quick as a cat, too, remember—that was before he met Gotch. The night he wrestled Gotch he looked about as fast as an overweight grizzly in the mystic maize of a Spanish waltz. It is so different before and after taking.

When Casey struck out there was exceeding gloom. But it is doubtful if the gloom when Casey fell, was any greater than the gloom that pervades Pittsburg. Wagner is out of the game and it is not known how long the Teuton will be out of the Pittsburg lineup.

The big fellow strained some kind of a muscle—he has so many kinds you know—and he may be out of the game for days or weeks. It is a gamble with fate. The fans will not only miss the magic playing of the Flying Dutchman, but what will the the green infield do without Wagner? There's the rub. Miller, Abstein and Barbeau are youngsters, especially the big German. Wagner has been the inspiration of the young infield all season. It may be that the Pirates are due to experience some of the bad luck that has come to both the Cubs and Giants the present season.

Rolly Zeider, who used to perform at the third sack with Winnipeg in the days of the old Northern league, has been secured by the Chicago Americans, according to information from the Pacific coast. Zeider was tried out by the Chicago team last year, but just failed to make good. His work this year has been on the sensational order.

Now that Messrs. Gunther and Whitehead have signed to settle their wide difference of opinion, we may expect to hear some talk of those $3,000 side bets.

OUTFIELDER MAGEE WHO IS WANTED BY THE GIANTS

OUTFIELDER MAGEE.

Magee is the star outfielder of the Philadelphia Nationals. New York needs a little strengthening in the outfield and needs more power at the bat. Magee is a good batter. That is why New York tried to get the Philadelphia club to exchange its contract with Donlin for Magee, but Murray had a two years' contract as manager of the Philadelphia club, and the deal has fallen through.

TWO GAMES FOR CHARITY

Sailors and Oarsmen Will Play for Anti-Tuberculosis Fund.

White Sox Will Also Donate Proceeds of Friday's Game.

Ho, ho, me lads, the brave sailor boys wouldst play a land game.

They are going to get up a baseball team and challenge the oarsmen of the Duluth Boat club for a real baseball game at Athletic park some time during the present month. It is probable that the receipts of the game will be devoted to the anti-tuberculosis work.

Dr. Herbert Jones, an enthusiastic fan and one of the leading spitball hurlers in the Lake Superior region, is deeply interested in getting the two teams together. The only detail that is worrying the doctor is whether the sailors can muster nine men who can make a respectable showing against the oarsmen.

There are some lusty baseball players among the oarsmen. There is Elmer Whyte, little Artie Michaud and Simon Forgette, who has an in curve that sometimes curves. There is long John Hector, another great player; Hans Haroldson, John Boshart, Skelton and MacDowell and several others players of fame.

"Doc" Jones is hopeful that me may be able to get the two teams together. If worst comes to worst, the genial doctor could go in and pitch for the canvas handlers. Dr. Lyman used to be a heavy hitter in his college days, and there are some of the other sailors who have played the great national game.

Preparations are being made for ladies' day at the boat club. Next Saturday will be given over to the ladies, and in the yacht races each boat will be required to carry at least one fair passenger.

The Kelly-Killorin medal races will be rowed a week from Saturday. Several fours are entered in the contest, the choice, Gladys, was of no account. Montell won the first two heats, the second by a neck, from Dan K. and then Todd Mac gave him a beating in the next three, trotting a good race. The big race of the week is tomorrow, a $10,000 event for 2:14 trotters, in which nine will start. Margin, winner of the M. & M. meets, El Vinetress, Penisa Maid, Besa, Jennie Constantine, Marie N, Harry Barring, The Angelus and Jack McKerron. It looks like a harder field than Margin beat at Detroit.

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 4.—W. Clay's Ocean Bound easily won the $10,000 Spinaway stakes for filly 2-year-olds at five and a half furlongs, here yesterday. The filly had been reported to have pulled up lame in her work, which accounts for the liberal price of even money laid against her at post time. She was heavily supported, being backed down from 7 to 5. While at the post she was badly cut down and pulled up very lame.

Beaucoup, winner of the third race, was run up to $2,500, an advance of $1,000 over his selling price. The stable retained the horse.

Chicago Tennis Games.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—The Southern and Pacific coast champions were the winners in the first day's play of the national doubles tennis tournament at the Onwentsia club yesterday. Today they will play for the right to meet Fred B. Alexander and Harold H. Hackett, the present holders of the national title, at Newport this month.

Wylie C. Grant and Theodore Roosevelt Pell, the Southern champions, defeated Truax Emerson and R. A. Holden, Jr., the holders of the Western honors, by 6-4, 6-2, 8-6.

COLLEGE BOYS ARE DEFEATED

Eveleth Ball Team Takes the Second Game By 9 to 2 Score.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 4.—The Keewatin college baseball team was easy picking for the locals in a contest played on the local grounds yesterday afternoon. The final score was 9 to 2.

The students were unable to connect with Peterson's benders, and up to the ninth inning, when bonehead baseballing allowed the students to score twice, the playing of the local team was of a high order.

Peterson threw an excellent game. He allowed but five scattered hits and struck out eight men. Score:

Eveleth	3	0	0	0	2	0	0	4	x	—9

Batteries — Peterson and Chaffee; Kant and Collins.

AT KALAMAZOO AND SARATOGA

Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 4.—Features were scarce at the second day of the Grand Circuit meeting, which was favored by fine weather and an improved although not fast track. The principal event was the 2:10 early closing pace, in which George Gano, winner of the Chamber of Commerce stakes at Detroit, toyed with his field, the second heat being five seconds slower than the first.

While a fast 1:59 is scored in the 2:05 pace, Lady Maud C was jogging at the end of each heat.

Dr. Jack won the 2:17 trot without effort, although he had to keep moving faster in the successive miles.

The only contest of the day was the 2:15 trot. Favorites had won the rest of the card, but in this event the choice, Gladys, was of no account. Montell won the first two heats, the second by a neck, from Dan K. and then Todd Mac gave him a beating in the next three, trotting a good race. The big race of the week is tomorrow, a $10,000 event for 2:14 trotters, in which nine will start. Margin, winner of the M. & M. meets, El Vinetress, Penisa Maid, Besa, Jennie Constantine, Marie N, Harry Barring, The Angelus and Jack McKerron. It looks like a harder field than Margin beat at Detroit.

WHITEHEAD AND GUNTHER SIGN

Two Colored Boxers Will Mix for Twenty-Five Rounds.

Articles of agreement for a match between George Gunther and Walter Whitehead were signed yesterday by the two fighters. The articles call for a 25-round contest with five-ounce gloves, the contest to be pulled off before the club offering the best inducement. The Copper country wants the fight and it is probable that some club in the yellow ore territory will secure the contest.

The battle will be under Marquis of Queensbury rules, the men fighting with one arm free and protecting themselves at all times in the clinches.

There has been a wide difference of opinion over the ability of the two men since the fight last spring in Superior. The Wisconsin battle went fifteen rounds and Referee Madden called the battle a draw. Those at the ringside, at least the majority of those present, believed that if any decision had been given it should have gone to Gunther, the smaller man. He carried the battle to his larger opponent at all times and at every stage of the fight showed a willingness to mix.

Whitehead, on the other hand, stalled and held on like a drowning man to a piece of driftwood, at several stages of the battle. At no stage of the fight did he carry the fight to the smaller man. It looked at the end as if Gunther were the stronger man.

Whitehead claimed a broken hand. He claimed that he would have won but for the injury to his trusty right mauler. He will have ample opportunity to prove his claim of superior ability in the coming clash. Gunther has never been satisfied with the outcome of the Superior fight, claiming that he broke training because he believed there was no chance for pulling off the fight.

It was a great fight—one worth going to Superior to witness.

GRADY IN FINE FORM.

Cass Lake's Pitcher Proves Too Much for Long Prairie.

Cass Lake, Minn., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—In one of the prettiest and cleanest exhibitions of the national game yet played on the local diamond, Long Prairie yesterday defeated Cass Lake by the score of 6 to 4.

The visitors were very much surprised at the game the local boys put up and especially at the terrific speed of the Cass Lake pitcher. Grady, who twirled for the locals, pitched a phenonemal game, allowing only six hits and keeping them well scattered. His support was of a high order, but two errors being charged up against the team. Taylor twirled for the visitors and showed good form, but the locals found little trouble in hitting him.

WHEAT HAS WEAK TONE

The Feeling in American Markets Is Still Bearish.

Flax Is Easier at the End of the Session in Duluth.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 4.—The bearish feeling in the wheat market continues. Prices were off during most of the session in the American markets today. There was a reaction just before the close, however, otherwise the close would have shown a considerable loss from yesterday. As it was, closing prices were fractionally under those of yesterday.

Liverpool closed ¾d high to ⅞d lower, Antwerp ⅝c lower, Berlin ½c lower and Budapest ⅜c lower.

The September option closed ⅜c lower in Duluth and Kansas City, ⅜@½c lower in Chicago, ½@⅝c lower in Minneapolis, ⅝c lower in New York, ⅛c lower in St. Louis. October wheat closed ⅞c lower in Winnipeg. The December option closed ¼c lower in Duluth and Chicago, ¼@⅜c lower in Minneapolis, ¼c lower in New York, unchanged in St. Louis, a shade lower in Kansas City and ½c lower in Winnipeg.

The premium for cash wheat over the September price is a matter of comment at the present time. No. 1 northern on track is 22c over September. Cash wheat represents what little is left in the market of last year's crop, and stocks are about cleaned up. September wheat is the new crop.

September corn closed ¼c lower and oats ⅜c lower in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "The wheat market at the opening was easy with values ⅞d to 1⅛d lower. Pressure was the result of the lower American cables yesterday and continued favorable weather in the United Kingdom. Following the opening and during the morning prices sharply reacted and all the early loss was recovered, values gaining ⅛d to 1⅞d with the principal strength in September. Support was the result of heavy covering on the part of shorts due to talk of American new winter wheat not being able to grade contract here and also a good demand for American winter wheat. At mid-day the market was firm and a penny higher for September and ⅝d lower for the distant months.

"Corn was easy at the opening and ¼d lower and during the morning further declined ¼d. Pressure was the result of the weak American cables and pressure of Plate parcels in near positions."

Car receipts of wheat at Duluth were 18 against 33 last year, and at Minneapolis 149 against 79 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 167 against 112 last year. Chicago received 849 against 198 last year. Winnipeg received 15 against 140 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 1,150,000 bu, last year 1,167,000 bu. Shipments 799,000 bu, last year 944,-000 bu.

Primary receipts of corn were 396,-000 bu, last year 453,000 bu. Shipments 234,000 bu, last year 413,000 bu.

Wheat was rather quiet in the Duluth market. September wheat opened ⅛c lower at $1.02¼, declined to $1.00⅝@1.00¾, rallied to $1.02 and closed there, a loss of ⅜c from yesterday. December wheat opened ¼c lower at $1, declined to 99c, rallied to $1 and closed there, a loss of ¼c from yesterday.

Durum wheat closed 2c lower.

Flax was quite active and closed easier. September flax opened ¼c lower at $1.38½, declined to $1.37 and closed at $1.37¾, a loss of 1c from yesterday. October flax opened ⅛c lower at $1.35, declined to $1.34 and closed at $1.34¼, a loss of ⅞c from yesterday. November flax opened unchanged at $1.35, declined to $1.34 and closed at $1.34¼, a loss of ⅜c from yesterday.

Rye closed 1c lower.

Following are the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Dollar Wheat Is Realized in Early Sales of December.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—"Dollar wheat" became a reality here today. The December delivery sold at that figure early. The wheat market was weak at the start despite firm cables and a bullish showing of the Kentucky crop report. There was general selling, based mainly on the favorable outlook for the new crop in the Northwest. Support was poor. Prices at the opening were ⅛c higher to ¼c lower, September being at $1.02@1.02⅜. In the first few minutes the price dropped to $1.01½. December, which opened at $1.00¼@1.00⅜ to $1.00½, declined to $1.

The market was extremely weak throughout the greater part of the day and September sold off to $1.00⅝. At the same time December declined to 99⅞c. Covering by shorts caused a fair rally late in the day, but the close was easy, with September off ⅜@½c at $1.01¾@1.01⅞. December was down ¼c at $1.00¼.

Commission houses in general were free sellers of corn. As a result the market was weak early. The selling was inspired chiefly by increased offerings from the West. The principal selling pressure was on the distant deliveries. September, which opened ⅛@¼c lower to a shade higher at 64⅛@64⅜c, declined to 63¾@63⅞c.

The market was subjected to heavy realizing sales all day and prices slumped severely. September declined to 62⅝c. The close was weak, with September down ⅞c at 63⅜@63½c.

In oats renewed selling by country commission houses caused a fresh decline. Shorts were not inclined to cover sales, and the market lacked support. September opened a shade to ⅛@¼c lower at 36¾@36⅞c and sold off to 36⅝c.

Provisions were firm on buying by local shorts. Trade, however, was not active. Prices at the opening were 5c lower to 10c higher.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

September Wheat Falls Below Dollar Mark.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 4.—Continued favorable news from the Northwest made the market weaker today. September went below the $1 mark. Estimates on the North Dakota wheat crop vary from 90,000,000 bu to 115,-000,000 bu. Conservatives believe more in the lower figure. Towards the close the market firmed up upon a report of 100 loads worked for export. Minneapolis today received 149 cars of wheat as compared with 79 a year ago; Duluth 18 against 33, and Winnipeg 15 against 40. September opened at $1.01½; high, $1.01½; low, 99⅝c; close, $1.00⅞@1.01. December opened at 99⅞c; high, 99⅞c; low, 98½@98⅝c; close, 99½@99⅝c. May opened at $1.03; high, $1.03¾; low, $1.02¾; close, $1.04.

Cash wheat was in good demand, especially the spring wheat. The inquiry for winter wheat was slow. Outside millers were the principal buyers. No. 1 northern sold for 25c above the September option and No. 2 northern for 23c above. No. 1 northern spot, $1.25; new to arrive, $1.03⅝; No. 2 northern spot, $1.23; new to arrive, $1.01⅝; No. 3 wheat, $1.19@1.21; No. 3 yellow corn, 63⅝@64⅝c; No. 3 white oats, 40⅞@43⅝c; No. 2 rye, 67¾@68¾c.

Flax—Receipts none today against 3; shipments 1. The lack of offerings made the market nominal. Prices here were the same as Duluth September. Closing price, $1.37½.

Barley—Receipts 21 cars today against 8; shipments 4. The demand for the choice old barley was good but inquiry for low grades and new crop stuff was poor. The prices on the old stuff were a little firmer and a trifle weaker on the new. Closing range, old 55@65c; new, 42@52c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,504 tons. There was no change in the situation. Demand continued fair, shipments light and prices steady. Bran in 100-lb sacks, $20.50.

Flour—Demand on the old basis was slow and the foreign inquiry on the new crop basis was not as active. Shipments continued light and prices held firm. Shipments, 33,784 bbls. First patents, $5.80@6.00; second patents, $5.70@5.90; first clears, $4.95@5.25; second clears, $3.35@3.55.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Attack on the Harriman Shares Sent Prices on Down Grade.

Buying of Steel Had Bullish Effect and Close Was Irregular.

New York City, Aug. 4.—Only a few conspicuous changes were shown by opening prices of stocks today, some fractional gains being in the majority and small declines in the minority. Northern ore certificates advanced 1¼. New York Central and St. Paul and Kansas City Southern ⅝. General Electric declined 1.

In a general way the early trading showed a continuation of the advance in most of the specialties, while the railroad list, after fitful advances, became irregular on realizing and dragged down some of the active specialties. American Agricultural Chemical advanced 2½, Railroad Steel Spring 2, Illinois Central 1¾, American Car 1⅝ and Pennsylvania, American Locomotive and some other industrials 1 or more. Union Pacific reached 202¾ and Pennsylvania touched 142 before there was a general drift downward.

The sharp dip carried Reading 1¼ below last night and Rock Island, Canadian Pacific, Delaware & Hudson, Republic Steel and American Ice 1. The tone became steadier afterwards when Consolidated Gas moved up 2, American Woolen and Central Railroad of New Jersey 2, and a number of others a point or better. American Express sold at an advance of 4¾. Bonds were irregular.

A fresh attack on Harriman stocks sent them down to the lowest prices of the day and caused a general decline.

Later buying of United States Steel pulled up the list a fraction. Central Railroad of New Jersey extended its rise to 5 points and American Steel Foundry also gained ¾ and Inter-Boro Metropolitan preferred 1. Keokuk & Des Moines jumped 3½ and the preferred 5 points.

Trading was smaller in volume in the afternoon, but the undertone grew better because of the support given to United States Steel and other leaders. Great Northern certificates improved 3, American Hide & Leather preferred 1½ and Western Maryland 1⅜.

The market closed somewhat irregular. New York Central's gain of 1 had some steadying effect on prices, but the market was spotty. The St. Louis Southwestern stocks rose 1, Great Western preferred "B" 2, Hocking Coal, 3⅜ and American Agricultural Chemical 4. Atlantic Coast Line receded a point.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Piper, Johnson & Case.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 4.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Demand for desirable big young horses continues good, and a number of good sales were booked. The big lumbering interests at Cloquet, Minn., had representatives on the market filling orders for top classy drafters, weighing 1,-600 pounds and upward. Dealers report it difficult to secure sufficient big draft mules to meet the demand. Will made delivery chunks find easy clearance. Light drivers and saddlers are without call. Thin and blemished horses are not on the market, and dealers refuse to buy any but good useful horses.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Aug. 4.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 5 points to a decline of 1 point and showed continued nervousness. Cables were better than due, and the weather map showed no sign of important rain where needed in the Southwest, but there was talk of cheap offerings of new crops from the South. The market soon sold off 3 or 4 points under a renewal of bear pressure and liquidation. Around 12.29c for December, a price which was 3 points net lower, the market rallied on foreign and Wall street buying and ruled about 6 to 7 points net higher during the middle of the morning.

SUPERIOR NEWS

ARE BOUND OVER.

Phelps and McAloon Must Stand Trial in Higher Court.

E. H. Phelps, chairman of the town of Solon Springs, and formerly chairman of the Douglas county board, and Alex McAloon, a former member of the county board, each charged with illegally appropriating the funds of the county to their own use, waived examination late yesterday when arraigned in municipal court at Superior. They will be tried in the December term of the circuit court and are out on a $500 bail.

Phelps is held on two counts, forgery and obtaining money under false pretenses. The maximum penalty for the former is five years and seven years may be imposed for the latter. McAloon is charged with grand larceny. The penalty is five years in this instance. An organization of business men, comprising many of the heaviest taxpayers of Superior, is backing the prosecution.

Issue School Bonds.

Superior councilmen in regular session last evening, authorized the issuance of $125,000 worth of bonds to cover the construction of the new Central high school at Superior. The city fathers also turned down three applications for liquor licenses and granted two.

Finishing Viaduct.

The steel for the Third street viaduct, which has been in process of construction for about a year, has arrived, and the work on the bridge will be finished in the near future.

Race Matinee Postponed.

The matinee which was to have been held this afternoon at the driving park, was postponed late yesterday because it was thought that the track would be in poor condition for racing. The postponed races will be held on Friday.

Predicts Great Boom.

That Superior, in his opinion, will in the near future outgrow Milwaukee, and will, in time, rival Chicago, is the statement given out yesterday by Prof. B. H. Myers, chairman of the state railroad commission, who is visiting in Superior for a few days.

Women Break Laws.

Mabel Pelky of 314 Tower avenue was found guilty in the municipal court yesterday of selling liquor without a license and in default of a $90 fine was remanded to the county jail where she will serve a ninety day sentence. Alice June of 1513 Third street, pleaded not guilty to the same charge. Her case was set over for one week.

Many Jobs Found.

The labor market at Superior is good. Last month the Superior free employment bureau furnished employment for more persons than any other branch office in the state. Jobs were found for 1,685 persons. Milwaukee was second with 771.

Will Equip New Dock.

The contract for the equipment of the new P. & R. coal dock on Connors's point has been awarded to the Hyle-Paterson company of Pittsburg. The equipment of the new dock, it is understood, will be the most complete and up-to-date of any at the Head of the Lakes.

LINCOLN PENNIES TO STAY IN CIRCULATION.

Washington, Aug. 4.—The new issue of Lincoln pennies will continue in circulation despite the criticism that the initials of the designer appear rather conspicuously on the coins. That was the statement made at the treasury department today.

The objection was presented to the treasury officials and it was considered carefully. They have decided, however, not to recall the issue at least not for the present—and the likelihood is that the issue will not be recalled at all. It has been customary for many years for the designers of government coins to place the designer's initials upon them.

The "Lincoln" pennies were arranged for during the administration of President Roosevelt. The design was passed upon by the treasury officials of that administration. Some delicacy is felt, therefore, by the officials of the present administration in taking up the matter.

SENATE PASSES BILL ON PHILIPPINE TARIFF.

Washington, Aug. 4.—The conference report on the Philippine tariff bill was today agreed to by the senate without debate. Only the president's signature is required to make the bill a law.

PANAMA AN OBJECT LESSON.

The building of the Panama canal and the sanitary record of the Japanese in their war with Russia are the two great object lessons of recent years, demonstrating that men can neither work nor fight to the best advantage unless protected from infectious and preventable diseases.

The civilized nation which will hereafter put an army in the field or undertake a great engineering problem without first preparing the way by adequate sanitary engineering and equipment will be regarded by the other nations, says the Medical News, as quite foolish as a government which would build a vast fleet of modern warships and then arm them with muzzle loading ordnance of 100 years ago.

An epidemic of typhoid fever in a military camp should be considered a greater disgrace to an army than a defeat in battle since defeat may come in spite of the greatest exertions, and the highest wisdom, while typhoid and yellow fever would be the result of ignorance or disregard of well-known laws of prevention. All nations will profit by the sanitary lesson of the Panama canal.

The scourge of yellow fever against which the French struggled in vain, has not been seen there since May, 1906, although it exists at several points to the north and south of the canal zone. Bubonic plague has not appeared since August, 1905, but that disease also has broken out not far away. No case of smallpox has been reported during the year.

London Standard: Few of India's "Rikki Tikki Tavies" can have such a record in snake killing as that of Leon Casse, known as Pere la Vipere, who kills vipers in the forest of Fontainebleau. He has just been taking a rest after an arduous season, during which he has killed nearly 700 snakes. His average for a year is about 800.

He sleeps on a mattress made of viper skins, and it is said that he has been bitten so many times that he no longer suffers—he has become inoculated.

SCOUT CAR IN DULUTH

Pathfinders Laying Out Route for Big Reliability Run.

Machine Looks as If It Had Seen Some Rough Going.

The autoists are coming to Duluth. Arriving in Duluth this morning in a Winton Six that looked as if it had been through mud, rain and the worst possible conditions of the road, were Richard Tucker, who is making road notes for the route of the reliability tour of the Minneapolis Automobile club members, for the Tribune trophy, and John S. Johnson, perhaps the greatest bicycle rider who ever threw his leg over a wheel.

On Aug. 17 the tour of the Tribune trophy will be run between Minneapolis and Duluth. It will be the second annual run for the trophy, and the entries for the event make it certain that it will be the greatest endurance test that was ever made in this state. The cars will leave Minneapolis Aug. 17, will reach his city some time that day, and will leave their machines here that evening. Plans are already on foot to give the visitors a reception by the members of the reorganized Duluth Automobile club.

The cars will be run on a 20-miles-an-hour schedule from Minneapolis. The tour is conducted on the same lines as the famous Glidden tours. The object of the tour is to discover the reliability of the competing cars. Each man making the run nominates an observer. This observer rides in some other car and observes what repairs are made, and, in fact, every detail connected with the operation of the machine. All these observations are calculated in making the final score.

The amount of oil and gasoline used during the run, the condition of the car, the economy of operation, are figured in awarding the trophy. Last year the Thomas car won the trophy. It must be competed for three years before it becomes the permanent property of any driver. The car making the highest average score for three years will receive the trophy.

Sandstone will be the only oil and gasoline station on the route. Tire trouble will not be counted against a car, but all other repairs will be figured.

The road notes and the map of the route will be made into permanent information for the use of auto drivers. It is also probable that some action in the way of bettering the roads between Duluth and Minneapolis will grow out of the tour. The route between Minneapolis and Duluth is one of the best in the state, in the Northwest, in fact, and if the roads were repaired somewhat, Duluth would receive advantages that would repay the time and expense many times.

As Mr. Tucker pointed out today, if the roads between the Twin Cities and Duluth were repaired Duluth would receive hundreds of automobile visitors each year. Duluth would be the Mecca of touring automobilists. Not only this, but tourists would ship their machines here by boat would unload them here, and would drive from Duluth to the Twin Cities and eastward by way of Chicago. The advantage to be gained by improved roads is only dimly appreciated, he says.

In addition to the contest for the Tribune trophy, there will be a trophy offered for amateur drivers. It is the desire of the entry committee to have some Duluth cars entered in this contest.

David Beecroft, editor of Motor Age, and one of the best informed men in the country on automobile affairs, will ride in the committee car. A confetti car will precede the touring cars, scattering confetti along the route to point out the way.

Messrs. Tucker and Johnson left today for the return trip to Minneapolis. They have made copious notes on the road, and this information will be used by the club committee.

Mr. Tucker saw some officers of the local club today and he was assured that the club would take up the Duluth end of the tour and make it a thorough success.

PATRICKS VS. WOLVINS.

Commercial League Teams Will Meet on Diamond Thursday.

The F. A. Patrick baseball team will tomorrow afternoon line up against the Commercial league leaders, the Wolvins.

The rivalry between the two teams is great and all the contests played between them so far this year have been hard fought and won only by a small margin.

Murphy and Berglund will be the battery for the dry goods men, and Lowe and Wolf will act in a like manner for the Wolvins.

Friedman's New Cloak and Suit House opens Saturday, Aug. 7, at 7 West Superior street.

HELD TO GRAND JURY FOR CANING EDITOR.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 4.—Gen. Philip P. Johnston, adjutant general of the Kentucky state guard, was today held to the grand jury for an assault late yesterday on Denny B. Goode, editor of a weekly publication here. Gen. Johnston resented a reference to him as "Gen. Peacock P. Johnston" in an editorial.

The adjutant general fought gallantly in the Confederate army and has lived a life of great political activity. With one of his Lexington officers he entered Mr. Goode's office in the Paul Jones building here yesterday and beat the editor over his head and ears with a thick, black cane. He was arrested.

The affair has created a sensation all over the state. Gen. Johnston is a citizen of Lexington and famed as a breeder of fine horses and as a lavish entertainer in his ante-bellum mansion.

CATHOLIC TEMPERANCE UNION IN SESSION.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—The thirty-ninth annual convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence union opened here yesterday. More than 1,000 delegates were in attendance. In the formal assembly of the delegates this afternoon Rev. Dr. James Canevin, bishop of Pittsburg, delivered the principal address. The evening will be marked by a big temperance parade. More than 5,000 persons, it is said, will march through the center of the city. A feature of the parade will be a float carrying fifty children who live in the prohibition districts of the city. The children have been selected from those who never have seen the interior of a saloon and who have promised never to enter one.

TWENTY-SEVENTH YEAR. LAST EDITION THURSDAY, AUGUST 5, 1909. TWO CENTS.

SENATE PASSES TARIFF BILL BY VOTE OF 47 TO 31

Seven Republicans Vote the Payne-Aldrich List of Schedules.

Measure Has Been Before Congress for Nearly Five Months.

President's Signature All That Is Needed to Make It Law.

Washington, Aug. 5.—In so far as congress can make it so, the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill is a law and the Dingley law is to the same extent out of date.

The final congressional act was consummated when at a few minutes past 2 o'clock today the vice president announced that by the decisive vote of 47 to 31 the senate had adopted the conference report on the measure, which accomplished the final passage of the bill by the senate.

The bill received all the Republican votes except those of Bristow, Clapp, Cummins, Dolliver, La Follette, Beveridge and Nelson.

As the measure already had passed the house, the senate's action was the finishing touch, and nothing then was left to be done to make the bill a law but for the president to attach his name.

The debate on the bill was closed for the democrats by Senator Bailey and for the Republicans by Aldrich. The discussion today was earnest, but good natured.

Covers Big List.

The bill had been before congress since March 15, when it was first reported to the house. The bill has been in the senate since April 12. As reported from conference, the measure covers 402 bill pages, and almost every article entering into American-foreign commerce is affected by it.

The pairs on the bill were as follows, those for it being first mentioned:

Briggs with Johnson; Dollingham with Tillman; Gallinger with Taylor; Nixon with Owen; Richardson with Clark of Arkansas; Warren with Money; McEnery with Davis.

Now on Leather Schedule.

Washington, Aug. 5.—Congress probably will adjourn sine die tonight. Senator Aldrich and Speaker Cannon met this afternoon to grease the ways for the passage of the concurrent resolution relating to the hide and leather schedule, which will be brought up immediately after the conference report is adopted. The senate and house leaders reported that there were no apparent obstacles to adjournment today.

To adopt the conference report and pass the tariff bill; to adopt a concurrent resolution revising the leather schedule; to adopt a joint resolution interpreting the drawback resolution with a free cotton bagging rider; and, finally, to adjourn the extra session—such was the day's program of some of the leading Republican members of the senate.

That the plan could be carried into execution, was doubted by most of the

WILL REPRESENT THE AMERICAN AVIATORS

GLENN H. CURTIS.

Mineola, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Glenn H. Curtiss, who was to have made a flight in an aeroplane here this morning, abandoned the effort because he said the wind was too high. The large crowd which had come out from New York city over night to witness the proposed flight, gave the aviator a noisy send off when he started for New York by train to sail on the French steamship La Savoie to represent America in the international aeroplane contests at Rheims, France, beginning Aug. 22.

ZEPPELIN MAKES COLOGNE VOYAGE

Misses City in Fog, But Returns and Encircles Cathedral.

Frankfort, Aug. 5. — The airship Zeppelin II started from here at dawn today on its third effort to reach Cologne, 110 miles away. The lines were cast loose at 4:40 a. m., and even at that early hour a crowd of 50,000 people had assembled to cheer the departure.

Late in Arrival.

Cologne, Aug. 5. — The Zeppelin airship arrived here at 10:15 a. m., today, two hours and a quarter later than the time she was expected. The vessel was delayed by unfavorable weather. The ship circled the tower of the Cologne cathedral, flying low, and then sailed to the suburb of Bickendorf to come down. The landing place and the balloon shed were surrounded by immense crowds.

The progress of the vessel was reported by telegraph as the airship came down the Rhine. Crowds witnessed the passage from Limburg, Neuwied, Remagen and Bonn. The ship as it approached Cologne ran into a thick fog, deviated to the southwest, and missed Cologne by ten miles or so. The ship got its bearings again near Dueren, and when the fog lifted headed straight for Cologne, and came in rapidly.

COLD-BLOODED MURDER IN THE RAILROAD YARDS

Italian Is Shot and Stabbed By Fellow Countryman.

Alleged Murderer Is Caught After an Exciting Chase.

Act Claimed to Be Result of Long Standing Feud.

Antonio De Meo, 42 years of age, was both shot and stabbed by Michael Rossi in the railroad yards near the Omaha depot, Fifth avenue west, at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The victim of the vicious assault died at St. Luke's hospital shortly before 11 o'clock last night. Rossi was captured by a crowd of men who joined in his pursuit, and was turned over to the police. He admitted the killing to the police last night, they claim, and said it was premeditated, according to their statement, but this morning he had seen an attorney, and refused absolutely to talk. He was after revenge, he said, because of a trifling wound inflicted upon him by De Meo in a quarrel in Duluth, some time ago.

The jaw bone on both sides of the face was broken by bullets from a revolver in the hands of Rossi, and the skull was penetrated by a knife wound. It was the latter injury which caused the man's death, according to Dr. Robert Graham, who attended De Meo after the shooting. Rossi lay in wait for his victim, hiding behind a freight car, and, after emptying his revolver at him, stabbed the man with a knife. Then Rossi ran eastward along the tracks, and was pursued by Joseph Schwalen and G. G. Taylor, baggagemen on an Omaha passenger train, which arrived a few minutes before the assault. Others joined in the pursuit, and the murderer was overtaken and overpowered under the Lake avenue viaduct, without further injury to anyone. He is a close friend of Pasquale Barilla, who, a few days ago, was sentenced in district court to twelve years' imprisonment for the murder of Caspar Zumbarrillo, on West Michigan street, a few weeks ago.

BRAKES SET FIRE TO MOTOR ON HILL

Chicago Tourists Have Lucky Escape From Serious Predicament.

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 5.—Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Raymond of Chicago, who are on an automobile tour of the country, are passing the day here after an exciting and dangerous experience which disabled their car last night.

While the car was coming down a long hill the brakes set fire to the floor of the tonneau. The flames quickly enveloped a number of packages that were lying on the floor. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond, however managed without injury to get out of the machine, which was moving slowly, and the chauffeur piloted the car to the bottom of the hill, where the flames were extinguished.

The auto was not seriously injured, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond will resume their trip as soon as repairs are made.

MEN SUFFOCATED IN ST. PAUL SEWER

One Is Dead and One Dying as Result of Failure of Air Pumps.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Seagran, aged 48 years, was killed; Hans Anderson, aged 50 years, is dying in the City hospital, and John Hendrickson was badly injured in a sewer forty feet below the surface at the corner of Grace and Webster streets today. The cause of the accident, it is said, was a failure of the men on the surface to keep the air pump at work after the men had entered the hole. The three were overcome by sewer gas, and when the firemen who were called and fished them out with hooks, a half hour after they entered the sewer, Seagran was dead and Anderson apparently dying.

NEGROES GIVEN $25,000 IN WILL

Brother of Testator Seeks to Break Instrument in Kansas City.

Kansas City, Kan., Aug. 5.—A suit to break the will of Charles Schattner, a wealthy saloon keeper and politician who died a few months ago leaving $17,000 to local charity and about $25,000 to negro employes, was filed here yesterday by Eugene Schattner, a brother.

Eugene Schattner alleges that his brother was addicted to intoxicants, which impaired his mind and made him incapable of making a will. The plaintiff also alleges that Mary E. Yates, a negro housekeeper to whom the will gives $10,000, exerted undue influence over his brother. A negro porter and a negro nurse also are beneficiaries under the will.

Frank Schattner, a brother, living in St. Louis, was given $100.

MOORISH PRIESTS PREACH THE CONQUEST OF SPAIN

Old Legend Revived By Advocates of "Holy War" Doctrine.

More Trouble Threatened By Spanish Laboring Classes.

Alhucemas, Morocco, Aug. 5.—The Riffs are preaching a holy war against Spain. A picturesque feature of their argument is a revival of the old legend according to which the Riff Arabs, who are descendants of the Moors driven out of Spain by Isabelle and Ferdinand, are destined to clear the Spanish out of Africa, cross Spain, and reconquer the country over which Boabdil, the last king of Grenada, ruled. Every Riff family is being visited by the priests, and told that the time for the fulfillment of these legends is now at hand, and urged to enter the war to regain the Alhambra.

KNIGHTS INDORSE STUDENT FUNDS

Catholic Order Hears Report Regarding the $500,000 Endowment.

Mobile, Ala., Aug. 5.—The national convention of the Knights of Columbus will end tonight. In a report upon the $500,000 endowment fund for scholarships, E. M. H. Doyle of Detroit announced that 70 per cent of the councils of the order had indorsed the fund. The movement was indorsed by the convention, and it was decided that the amount be collected within two years and presented to the Catholic University of America.

The members of the national board of directors of the organization will hereafter be required to attend all national conventions. An attempt was made by the officers and members of the directorate present to clothe the latter with power to vote in convention, but it was lost by an overwhelming vote.

Another change affecting the directors was one giving them power to call a meeting at any time and place they deemed practicable. The change was made because of the rapidity with which the order is spreading.

STOCKHOLM SUFFERS FROM FAILING OF FOOD SUPPLIES

"QUEEN FAKER" UNDER ARREST

Woman Caught in Oakland Is Accused of Railroad Swindles.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 5.—Accused of having swindled railroad companies in New York, Portland, Seattle, Tacoma and other cities by means of clever sham injuries received in alleged "fake" accidents, a woman giving her name as Mrs. Maud Myrtle Johnson was arrested at the Merritt hospital in Oakland yesterday and will be held pending action by the Seattle authorities. Frank and Luther Johnson, who were traveling with her, also were taken into custody.

The alleged identification was made by a claim agent of the Oakland Traction company, who went to the hospital with detectives and declared he recognized her as "Queen of the Fakers," for whom many railroads have been searching.

According to the police, Mrs. Johnson's methods is to throw her limbs out of joint and put a red powder into her mouth to simulate hemorrhages indicating internal injuries.

Grave Diggers Also Go Out and Paupers Are Hired to Bury Dead.

Stockholm, Aug. 5.—With the dawn of today the city of Stockholm began to feel the first pangs of real suffering from the industrial war that is being waged throughout Sweden, for there is an actual and serious shortage in the food supply. Bread is hardly to be had in the city at any price, meat is scarce and expensive, and milk, such as can be obtained at all, is being distributed in small quantities by the military authorities, and only to those families which can prove actual need of it. Ice distribution has stopped entirely, and as the weather is unusually hot for this time of the year the

VICTIMS OF THE FLOOD

Mrs. G. Peterson and Children Dependent Upon Their Friends.

Subscription List Started to Repair Damage to Little Home.

Made a victim of hard circumstances by the big flood of July 22, at which time her home was washed away and deposited in a creek bed a few rods distant, Mrs. G. Peterson, a widow with four children, has been forced to live with neighbors ever since. The Peterson home was located at the corner of Thirty-eighth avenue west and Sixth street.

When the cloudburst let down torrents of water, the little two-room cottage in which Mrs. Peterson and her children lived, was carried down the swollen creek for a considerable distance. The lot which she owned was also washed away and is not fit for building purposes.

Kindly neighbors took in Mrs. Peterson and her family that night, and because of the fact that the little home has been washed away, they have been compelled to stay with them ever since. An interested Duluthian, whose attention had been called to the case, has volunteered to start a subscription list to buy back a home for the family.

It is said that it would take about $200 to put the unfortunate woman back into her own home. A small lot similar to that near the banks of the creek, it is said, can be purchased for $150, and the cost of moving the little house to the place would be about $50. Mrs. Peterson says that if she had her home back, she could then support herself and family.

Since her husband died—a few years ago, Mrs. Peterson has earned the living for her family by scrubbing and taking in washing. The oldest of her children is a 13-year-old boy, who contributes $2.40 a week to the family maintenance. He earns a salary of $3 a week, but spends 60 cents for car fare.

The Herald has been notified of the case by a man who will head the list with $25. It is thought that other philanthropic people of the city might be interested enough in the case to contribute enough to make up the $200 with which to buy back a home for the struggling family.

ALEX LIND GETS INTO TROUBLE

Publicly Embraces Young Woman Who Is Stranger to Him.

Rushing out from a shoe store at 316 Central avenue shortly before 11 o'clock this morning and embracing a young lady, who was an entire stranger to him, Alex Lind of West Duluth got himself into trouble. He was arrested a few minutes later.

At the police station, where Lind was taken, he claims that the lady was an acquaintance of his, and attempted to explain the matter in this way. But Officer Root of the West Duluth department, who made the arrest, is of the opinion that Lind had never met the woman before. The young lady disclaimed any acquaintance with him.

Lind is 40 year old, is a Finlander, and for the past ten years has been employed about the city as a common laborer. He will be arraigned tomorrow in municipal court on the charge of disorderly conduct.

WILL MAKE MACARONI.

New Factory Started at West Duluth By Two Italians.

Macaroni is being manufactured at West Duluth.

Anton Paglisa and Francisco Spiscola, natives of Italy, have recently established one of the few plants of this kind to be found in this country, at 322 South Fifty-ninth avenue west. The first of the product has been turned out, and West Duluthians who have sampled it pronounce it as good as the imported article.

Durum wheat, at one time thought by the grain men of this country to be of little practical value, is used principally in the manufacture of the product.

The factory at West Duluth is to be known as Spiscola & Co., and the plant will be be enlarged to include the manufacture of not only macaroni, but also vermicilli, spaghetti and other similar foodstuffs.

At the West Duluth plant, machinery specially adapted for the purpose, has been installed, with electricity as the motive power. All sizes and grades are being put out, and it is understood that the plant may be enlarged as the demand grows throughout this section of the country.

A short time ago a similar factory was started in the Twin Cities.

These annual outings of the Hibernians and their friends are always most happy affairs, as everythig is done to make them enjoyable for those who attend.

The Labrosse orchestra was engaged to furnish music for the occasion. Gaelic games and sports dear to the hearts of the sons and daughters of the Emerald Isle were indulged in during the day. Since early morning there has been a large crowd going out to the picnic grounds, and this year's event promises to be the most successful one ever given under the auspices of the local division.

Jeffries Cannot Be Interviewed for at Least Six Days.

New York, Aug. 5.—James J. Jeffries, the pugilist, smiled a broad farewell to a crowd of wellwishers that gathered on the North German Lloyd line pier in Hoboken today, and sailed away on the steamer George Washington for a six weeks' sojourn in Europe. Jeffries and his wife will go direct to Carlsbad, where they will remain for a few days. The big Californian has been troubled recently with boils, and he hopes that the waters at Carlsbad will aid him.

Sam Berger, Jeffries' manager, will leave for California next week, and will later return here to receive bids for the Jeffries-Johnson fight.

FEW KICKS RECEIVED

People Apparently Satisfied With Assessments of Personal Property.

Board of Equalization Expects to Complete Work in Few Days.

Apparently nearly everybody in St. Louis county is satisfied with the assessment of their personal property as passed upon by the local boards of review, for the county board of equalization, which is now in session at the courthouse, has received few applications for the reduction of assessments. The communications to the board are few in number and are not important, so the board will not be hampered in its work by long drawn-out arguments over questions of reduction of individual assessments.

The work of equalizing the assessments is now going on. The work consists mainly in the correction of figures and the equalizing of standards, which are in some cases greatly at variance in similar communities. On the whole, the work is rather light this year and the members of the board expect to complete it in a few days.

As returned by the local boards of review, the total personal property assessment of the county is $13,500,494, of which the city of Duluth contributes $9,193,013. The figures will probably show a marked change when the board completes its work and the assessment rolls are ready to be submitted to the state board of equalization, but it is certain the valuation of personal property will be considerably greater than it was on the last assessment.

JOHN GARFIELD VISITS DULUTH

Son of Former Secretary and Party of Friends Here.

John Garfield, son of James R. Garfield, who was until recently secretary of the interior: John Newell and John E. Newell, an attorney and a prominent coal operator of Cleveland, and John C. Wing, a prominent attorney of Cleveland, are at the Spalding today. The gentlemen are here simply for pleasure, coming to Duluth by way of the lakes.

Mr. Wing stated that the citizens of Cleveland had been waiting about an equal length of time for the settlement of the street car question and the Cleveland team to win a pennant. The street car question is quite likely to be settled—but Mr. Wing refused to express an opinion on the pennant possibility.

MURDER IS THE CHARGE

Murder in the first degree was the charge placed against Michael Rossi in the municipal court this afternoon. He was arraigned before Judge Windom shortly after 2 o'clock, and waived examination. He was promptly bound over to the grand jury, and his case will doubtless come up at the September term of court. No bail can be fixed for such a crime, and the penalty for conviction is death by hanging or life imprisonment.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS.

Winona Not Only Place Where the Strange Disease Is Raging.

Winona, Minn., Aug. 5.—Winona is not the only place in Minnesota where trouble is being experienced at the present time with anterior poliomyelitis. This disease, more commonly known as infantile paralysis, is now being experienced in St. Paul, Eau Claire and other places in Northern Wisconsin have had several hundred cases, the Eau Claire epidemic having come last year.

A St. Paul physician, in discussing the disease, said: "Infantile paralysis is a disease of early life, affecting certain parts of the spinal cord, producing paralysis of the arms or legs. It usually begins with what the parents think is stomach trouble. A day or two of fever, with lack of appetite, deranged bowels, nausea and general pains, is usually followed by complete paralysis of the legs or a leg and an arm. The paralysis is usually complete by the time it is discovered, and it comes rather suddenly, being discovered usually when the mother tries to get the child up in the morning.

"It is very rarely fatal. The fever ends when the paralysis begins. Improvement usually takes place in the paralyzed limbs, motion being regained up to a certain point, beyond which recovery of motion is not to be expected.

"It is a germ disease. The nature of the germ is unknown. It is thought by some to be contagious and by others to be infectious. Epidemics of large proportions have been known."

Philadelphia, Aug. 5.—Mrs. James Hensler, 70 years old, was suffocated by smoke early today at the home of her son-in-law, Thomas H. Marmey, during a fire in the upper part of the house. The family was asleep when the fire started, and the flames were discovered by a crippled daughter, who gave the alarm. Marmey tried to reach Mrs. Hensler's room, but stopped at a window for a breath of air, and fell out. He was slightly injured. When the firemen arrived at the house, they found Mrs. Hensler dead fifteen feet from the front door. The house was not badly damaged.

THE BEDROOMS OF THE FLAT.

New York Sun: "If anything could make me want to move into the country," she said as she turned back the bedclothes of a bed she had just made at 11 p. m. in a city flat, "it would be this endless, eternal making up of beds at night.

"The time to make up a bed, of course, is in the morning. You throw back the bedclothes first to give the bed a good airing and then when you get to it you make up the bed, and there it is finished and with everything trim and neat and inviting; ready to be slept in and grateful to its invitation, and you can get into it without the preliminary trouble.

"So in the country, where you have real bedrooms big enough to contain real beds and in which you can make up the beds in the regular usual, orderly way, following a custom inbred in women, handed down to them through many generations and from which it is hard to depart. But now see what we have to do in our flat.

"We have only one bedroom in which we have a regular bed, and that is a single bed. We can make it up in the morning in the regular proper way, and really I like to go in and look at it after it is made up. All the rest of our beds are couches or lounges or beds of some sort that you have to dismantle in the morning and make up at night.

"We do air these beds, to be sure, but then we have to fold up the bedclothes and store them in the bed or lug them off to some storing place, not to be brought out again till it's time to go to bed. Not until then can we begin the bedmaking in the flat.

"Then when it would be a great, calm pleasure to walk off into a pleasant bedroom and there find the bed ready and waiting for you simply to jump into it you have to get up and drag out bedclothes and lug them around from room to room and drag out couches and lounges and twist and twist and turn and dig over them to make up beds before you can lie in them.

"So it goes every night, night after night, endlessly; and this making up of the beds at the wrong time, with its endless dull routine nightly labor grinds on me; I hate it. Still we stay here, and here I suppose we shall stay, because we love the city and its life and light. But if anything could make me want to move into the country it would be to escape this everlasting endless making up of the beds in the city flat at night."

HINT FOR ROCK GARDENS.

Gardening Illustrated: My main objection to rock gardens, which nobody ever seems to get over, is that too much stone is used. If those people who design this sort of work would study how rocks crop up in hilly countries, as they often do in our own, as well as in Switzerland, they would see that the prettist effects are often got when single rocks come out of the ground. If the ground is suitable, it is by no means essential that the rocks should be everywhere to grow Alpine flowers.

Many Alpine plants are as hardy as grasses of the field, and want no more accommodation, while others want the protection of rocks and and stones.

BASS LAKE ROADS ARE BEING MADE BETTER.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The roads in the vicinity of Deer lake, in the town of Bass Lake, are being materially improved. Some very substantial improvements have been made, particularly on the old Sims logging railroad roadbed, which was transformed into a wagon road some time ago. Frank Voigt, a Deer lake summer resort man has had charge and he has done excellent work at a very small cost to the town. The road made out of the old right-of-way while a fair road, had formerly been merely a wagon track, but the recent work included widening the road, cutting the brush, grading and ditching where needed and it makes that part of the road plenty good for driving automobiles over. The road from that point to the main Big Fork road is not in the territory of the Bass Lake town board, but they have had all of the stones removed from that trail, as they expect it will be some time before they get a real road across that stretch of country. Good time can now be made over this road, and the drive is a real pleasant one.

MRS. RABB HAS HUBBY JAILED

Wife of Former Legislative Candidate to Spring Sensation.

Virginia, Minn., Aug 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. E. L. Rabb swore out a warrant for the arrest of her husband yesterday on a statutary offense and the former candidate for legislative honors was arrested at the Fay hotel and spent the afternoon in the city lockup.

Mrs. Rabb is in the city, but expects to go to Minneapolis, where the divorce action will be tried.

On Sept. 12, 1908, Mr. Rabb brought action against his wife, alleging that she was insane, due to the death of her mother, but she was not committed to the asylum. Shortly afterwards she forgave him and returned to their home at Cedar Island Lake.

Mr. Rabb owns 160 acres of supposedly rich iron ore property on the shore of Cedar Island lake, three miles from Eveleth, and has an interest in other ore property in that district. Last year he was a candidate for the legislature from the Forty-ninth district.

McKINLEY TO BE PREPARED

Orders Power Boiler to Be Ready for Fire Emergency.

McKinley, Minn., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rather than take any more chances of being confronted with a big fire and inadequate fire fighting facilities, the village board has decided to purchase a 75-horse power boiler at once to furnish power for the pumping plant, the old boiler having been declared dangerous.

It has also been decided to widen and improve the Biwabik-McKinley road from the eastern village limits into town, thus meeting the improved road being built by the township up to the village limits. It was understanding that the work is not to cost more than $1,600, and Joseph Robinson, doing the work for the township, will be invited to make the contract. The road at present is narrow, but will be widened to conform to the forty-foot roadway being built by the township.

Preliminary steps were taken to enforce the new health ordinance, which provides for the erection of stands in the alleys and the placing thereon of barrels, in which refuse is to be deposited and later hauled away by the scavenger.

Chisholm, Minn., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—A new church to cost $5,000, large enough to seat 500 people, will be erected by the local Methodists to occupy the site of the present church, which will be sold to the Finnish congregation and moved to a site on Central avenue.

The foundation will be constructed of stone. The basement will be used for Sunday school meetings, socials, etc.

Rev. C. P. Keast, the pastor, says that nearly $3,000 has already been subscribed, and anticipates no difficulty will be experienced in securing the balance. The mining companies, as usual, have been very liberal.

The plans are in the hands of an architect and will be ready for the contractors to bid on in the course of a week or so, after the directors of the church have accepted them.

GOT TO

Have Sharp Brains Nowadays or Drop Back.

The man of today, no matter what his calling, needs a sharp brain, and to get this he needs food that not only gives muscle and strength but brain and nerve power as well.

A carpenter and builder of Marette, who is energetic and wants to advance in his business read an article about food in a religious paper, and in speaking of his experience he said:

"Up to three years ago I had not been able to study or use my thinking powers to any extent. There was something lacking and I know now that it was due to the fact that my food was not rebuilding my brain.

"About this time I began the use of Grape-Nuts food, and the result has been that now I can think and plan with some success. It has not only rebuilt my brain until it is stronger and surer and more active, but my muscles are also harder and more firm, where they used to be loose and soft and my stomach is now in perfect condition.

"I can endure more than twice the amount of fatigue and my rest at night always completely restores me. In other words, I am enjoying life and I attribute it to the fact that I have found a perfect food." Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

the man he was crawling under a freight car which was standing a few feet from their train. Taylor made the remark that the Italian was probably trying to get away from the police, and Schwalen responded by saying that he hoped the police would get him. A few seconds later they heard two shots, fired in quick succession. Running to the car door, they saw two men emerge from behind a row of freight cars. They were fighting, and one was bleeding about the face. The other, Rossi, was the man they had seen crawl under the freight car.

After a brief struggle, a knife flashed in the hand of Rossi, and he repeatedly tried to stab his victim, finally being successful in bringing the six-inch blade down upon the Italian's skull with force sufficient to penetrate the bone. The latter fell to the ground. Probably Rossi would have made sure that he had accomplished his purpose, but he was interrupted by the two railroad men, who were running toward the pair, shouting at the top of their voices.

The murderer wheeled and ran down the tracks in the direction of the Lake avenue viaduct, and the baggagemen went after him as fast as they could run, leaving the victim of the assault to the care of other men who were running towards the scene from Fifth avenue west. The railroad men, both of whom are residents of Minneapolis, displayed considerable nerve, for Rossi was armed with both gun and knife, while they had no means of defense or offense other than their hands.

Others Join Chase.

Schwalen and Taylor shouted at other men in the yards to join in the pursuit, but they had gone two or three blocks before any one showed any inclination to join in the chase. They merely turned and stared at the three sprinting men. A train crew and group of workmen traversing the yards in the vicinity of First avenue west joined in the chase, and began pelting the fugitive with rocks. The man threw away his revolver, which was empty when found by the police, and brandished his knife.

Pelt him with Rocks.

Fearing to approach too close while the Italian was thus armed, the crowd of men, now numbering nearly thirty, continued to pelt him with rocks, several of which took effect upon his person. Rossi made a last stand underneath the Lake avenue viaduct, but was soon convinced that there was no chance of escape, and threw away his knife. The crowd then surrounded him and took him in charge. He was then turned over to Patrolman D. Olson, who took him to headquarters.

Meantime, men attracted by the sound of the shots and cries, rushed to the side of the victim of the assault. The police were immediately notified, and the patrol wagon was sent to the scene. No physician and no ambulance showed up until after the police patrol arrived at the central station. This was through no fault of the police. It is claimed that the wounded man lay where he fell for half an hour, without a physician's care, awaiting an ambulance. When it became evident that none was coming, the patrol took him to the police station, and from there he was conveyed to St. Luke's hospital. There he was found to be past medical assistance, although everything possible was done for him. He lived only a few hours.

Admits Killing.

Rossi talked freely of the crime last night and told the police, they claim, that he was justified in acting as he did. He explained that he knew De Meo would pass the scene of the murder about 5:30 o'clock, and says he was lying in wait for him there. The victim was employed at the Northwestern Fuel company's dock as a coal handler. Every evening he crossed the railroad yards where he met his assailant. Rossi says he was familiar with De Meo's habits, and that he lay in wait in the yards, behind a sheltering freight car, until his victim came past.

The struggle took place between a double row of freight cars standing on the tracks near the Omaha depot. An open space between the cars allowed the baggagemen to see the assault. They were the only eye witnesses to the stabbing. The shooting came before their attention was attracted to the tragic scene. No one else was in the immediate vicinity.

The murdered man had been a resident of Duluth for many years. His home was at Tenth avenue west and First street. He was married, but had no children. Mrs. De Meo hurried to her husband's side at the hospital as soon as she was notified of what had occurred. The man did not regain consciousness up to the time of his death, five hours after the assault.

Rossi is an unmarried man, and lives at a boarding house on Railroad street, near Tenth avenue west. He has been unemployed for several months, claiming that an injury received from the man he killed rendered him unfit for work. The incident leading up to the murder, he says, occurred last January in a saloon at 625 West Superior street. The two men quarreled at that time, while both were under the influence of liquor. Rossi drew a revolver and brandished it in the faces of men at the bar, it is claimed, and De Meo drew a knife, with which, the police say, he stabbed Rossi in the breast.

An Old Grudge.

De Meo was arrested and taken to the police station charged with assault in the third degree. Rossi received only a slight flesh wound, which was not considered at all serious. De Meo was found guilty and fined $10 and costs, which he paid. Later on Rossi's wound became serious, owing to an infection due to cold. He has not worked since, and says he has been unable to because of the affliction. He has nursed a grudge against De Meo, and finally determined to kill him.

The police say that several years ago De Meo was sent to the state prison from Duluth for stabbing a man. After serving a short term, he returned to Duluth and settled down. In 1901 he was in police court on a charge of minor assault, which was unsubstantiated.

A Friend of Barilla.

The knife used by Rossi yesterday was exactly similar to the one used by his friend, Pasquale Barilla, in murdering Caspar Zumbarrillo in a West Michigan street boarding house late in June. The blades of both were six inches in length, with deer-foot handles. Rossi was a witness in the preliminary hearing in municipal court when Barilla was arraigned, and was present in the house where the murder of Zumbarillo occurred at the time of the trouble there.

Rossi's revolver was of 32-caliber. When searched at police headquarters a razor was found in his possession and a carving fork was found in a purse which he carried. Rossi is a small man, 26 years of age.

De Meo was known among his fellow workmen as Tony Black.

Friends and curious strangers were barred from the Italian's cell last night. Rossi does not speak English very well, and has difficulty in making himself understood in anything but Italian.

The prisoner is understood to have made the statement that all trouble would have been avoided had De Meo consented to pay his Rossi's board while the latter has been unable to work. Rossi says the murdered man refused to do this. Peter Mainella, candidate for alderman at the last municipal election, has befriended the man while he has been out of work.

COLONY IS STIRRED.

Italians Much Excited Over Murder —De Meo an Old Resident.

The Italian colony in the neighborhood of Tenth and Eleventh avenues west and Superior street, is considerably stirred by the murder.

Most of the men folk were away at their work when a reporter for The Herald visited Rossi's boarding place this morning, but the women and the children were on hand. They gathered in each others' door yards and discussed the tragedy in voluble Italian, those who could read English translating newspaper accounts of the affair to their less educated sisters.

Rossi boarded at 1125 West Michigan street, up stairs. Inquiry among the residents of the neighborhood disclosed the fact that he is well liked by those who know him, although they admit that they had expressed a grudge against De Meo because of the wound he received during a saloon row with the murdered man, and the storekeeper on the corner averred he had heard Rossi say he would "get" DeMeo some day.

Little information about Rossi could be obtained at his boarding place. The woman in charge could not speak or read English and could not read or write her own language, Italian. Her name is unknown to other feminine residents of the locality and they declined, on the ground that they were not acquainted with her and that she might become angry to act as the reporter's interpreter.

De Meo lived down stairs at 1004 West First street. He had lived in the United States for the past twenty-seven years, of which time he was for about twenty-three years a resident of Duluth. He leaves a wife, but had no children. The funeral arrangements are being made by the Eagles, of which the murdered man was a member.

TARIFF BILL PASSED

senators who are not members of the finance committee. There were at least a dozen able bodied members who were ready to stand up and say that it could not be done, or at least not until after the country had one more opportunity to hear them expound their views on the tariff.

Eleven Want to Talk.

When the senate was called to order the vice president had received notification from Senators Dolliver, Elkins, Warren, Clay, Aldrich, La Follette, Penrose, Flint, Dick, Heyburn and Bradley, that they would desire the chance to speak on the tariff either before or after the passage of the bill.

Some of these gentlemen are given to amplification when they take the floor, and on this account, if on no other, it was expected by many that the session would be prolonged either till late tonight or until some time tomorrow. It was also understood that others would prefer a request for recognition later in the day.

At 10 o'clock Senator Clay was the only Democrat in the list of would-be speakers, but it was considered improbable that all other representatives of that party would forego the privilege of being heard.

Aldrich Is Confident.

Notwithstanding the formidable array of speakers, the chairman of the finance committee, Senator Aldrich, and his stalwart assistant, Senator Hale, both were confident that with the adjournment of the senate today the extraordinary session would come to an end.

"The speeches will not be long," said Senator Aldrich. "All of us wish to get away, and everybody must have said about all he could say on this subject. I feel confident that we will wind up tonight."

On the other hand the vice president did not consider it possible to get through with all the speeches today without a very late night session. There was no doubt, however, that Mr. Aldrich would crowd adjournment through if possible.

The remainder of the program should be executed to the letter. The hour for the vote on the adoption of the conference report, which means the final passage of the bill by the senate, had been fixed for 2 p. m. It was expected that a number of the speeches scheduled would be delivered in advance of the passage of the bill and that the others would be made either on the concurrent leather schedule amendment or the joint drawback amendment of Mr. McCumber.

Agreement on Both Sides.

The agreement is that the leather amendment shall go through both houses without alteration, and it is quite as well understood that the McCumber provision with free cotton bagging attached will pass the senate. The Democrats as well as the Republicans desire the lower rates on leather, and have agreed not to encumber the leather amendment. In return the Republicans have practically assured them that free cotton bagging should go on the drawback paragraph, and both be allowed to pass the senate.

This latter arrangement does not extend to the house, and it is probable that the provision will be hung up there until next session. Indeed, all the Republican senators were not committed to the cotton bagging clause, and it was not certain that it would not arouse much antagonism.

Dolliver First Speaker.

Senator Dolliver was the first speaker today. Opening with a defense of his course as a Republican in contending for lower customs duties, Mr. Dolliver denied the right of other Republican senators to question his position in the senate, a position which he said was dictated by his conscience.

"It has not been my fortune," he said, "to enjoy that mutual good will that should meet the efforts of a member to change the tariff laws of the United States."

The people of his state, he added, had been referred to as "farm folk," while the state itself had been declared to be unreliable, given to populism and greenbackism. Iowa, he insisted, had always been true to Republican standards, and still was upholding the best interests of the protective policy.

"Here," he said, "we have had the spectacle of men compelled to bargain with the authorities which control the senate for the protection of their people. Majorities are obtained by a system of reciprocity arranged in the citadel of protection."

FORMER DULUTH PEOPLE KILLED

Are Victims of a Railroad Wreck Near Spokane, Wash.

According to a dispatch from Missoula, Mont., Mr. and Mrs. A. B. McDonald, reported killed in a railroad wreck near Spokane, Wash., are probably Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McDonald of Drummond, Mont., former residents of Duluth. They were known to be on the wrecked train.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McDonald came to Duluth from Ontario, and resided here for eight years. Then they went to Montana, where Mr. McDonald was employed as telegraph operator at Bonita. This was eight or nine years ago.

On their way to the Seattle fair, Mr. and Mrs. McDonald stopped in Spokane to visit some old Duluth friends by the name of Mangler. With the latter they started for Coeur d'Alene City to register on some government land. Mr. and Mrs. Mangler were among the injured in the wreck.

TWO WHITE BEAR MEN ARE KILLED IN BATTLE WITH MAN WHO HOLDS UP BANK

en refuge. He kept up a fire on the self-constituted posse from that shelter until he was shot down by members of the crowd of citizens.

Paul, who had been employed as a laborer on some building work at White Bear for the past three days, received his pay—a check for $6—this morning, and went to the bank to get it cashed. Cashier Alfred Auger was the only man in the bank.

Drew Gun On Cashier.

The man offered Auger the check, and while the cashier was examining it Paul drew a six-shooter. When Auger looked up he gazed into the barrel of the weapon and was told to hand over all the cash in the bank. As the man had the drop on him, Auger was compelled to obey, and passed over all the currency in the office, amounting to $750.

The robber took the money and ran through the streets of the village in the direction of Bald Eagle lake, about a mile distant.

Auger gave the alarm at once, and in a few minutes the entire population, armed with revolvers and rifles, was in hot pursuit. Seeing his pursuers gaining on him, the robber took refuge in an outbuilding in a yard, about two squares from the bank, and when the self-constituted posse drew near he opened fire.

Shot One Pursuer.

Larkins, who was leading the pursuers, paid no attention to the shots or to the warnings of the robber, and tried to run into the building to grapple with him. He dropped dead on the threshold with a bullet through his heart. This caused a halt among the pursuers, who retired to shelter and opened fire with rifles and revolvers. The fire was briskly returned by the robber, and in a few minutes Butler fell, shot through the abdomen.

Another shot fired by the robber wounded Christie in the thigh, and another bullet plowed its way through Doran's wrist.

Fire on the building was kept up, however, and finally a well-directed bullet dropped the highwayman.

When the attackers got inside the little building they found Paul dead on the floor, his revolver clasped tightly in his hand.

The injured were rushed at once to the office of Dr. Francis, where first aid was given, but Butler's condition is regarded as critical. He was taken to the station after the wound in the abdomen had been dressed, and placed aboard a train bound for St. Paul, where he will be operated on in an effort to save his life.

CHINA AND JAPAN NEAR ULTIMATUM

Railroad Controversy to Be Settled Within a Few Days.

Tokio, Aug. 5.—The controversy between China and Japan over the Antung-Mukden railway is the principal topic discussed by the newspapers today, and many publications include a statement that Japan has issued an ultimatum to China.

There is reason to believe that the statement is untrue, but that Japan is bringing great pressure to bear upon the government at Pekin to prevent such action as would necessitate an ultimatum in dealing with the problems involved.

Without China's consent, immediate commencement of work on the reconstruction of the road would precipitate a crisis. It is understood that the time limit for consideration of the question expires within a few days, but indications now are that China will propose concessions which will prevent further friction and will possibly lead to a settlement of all outstanding questions.

USE WIRELESS TO CHEAT TARIFF

Importers Want Liquors Rushed to Port Before Bill Is Passed.

New York, Aug 5.—An interesting phase in the tariff situation developed yesterday, when importers besieged the offices of the Marconi and United Wireless Telegraph companies with messages urging skippers at sea to make haste portwards, in order to beat the new tariff bill and escape the added duties which it would impose. There are thousands of casks of fine wines and brandies now on the Atlantic, and if they can be hurried into port and their manifests entered at the customs house before the bill is signed by the president, it will mean the saving of a small fortune to the consignee. It is said that some skippers stand to receive handsome bonuses if successful in the race.

NURSE FOUND DEAD IN MAN'S LODGINGS.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 5.—E. White, 26 years old, a nurse, has been found dead in a lodging house under peculiar circumstances. Her death was reported to the police by William Smith, who said that he found the woman ill on the doorstep when he was leaving for work in the morning. Recognizing her as one who had formerly lived in the house, he gave her permission to go to his room and remain through the day. Returning late last night, he says, he found the woman dead on the bed with a fractured skull and a deep cut in the back of her head. The room was in disorder.

Smith was held by the police pending the result of the coroner's inquiry.

EARLY DAYS OF DULUTH AND SUPERIOR RECALLED BY THE PIONEER SETTLERS AT THEIR ANNUAL PICNIC

THE OLD SETTLERS AT FOND DU LAC.

When members of the Old Settlers' association got back to the city last evening, it was after one of the most delightful outings up the river the organized pioneers of the Head of the Lakes country have ever held.

Yesterday was a day for old men and the past and they lived it over again in the speeches, informal talks and reminiscences which formed a delightful feature of the picnic.

The weather was most pleasant and the pioneers ate their dinner under the trees at Chamber's Grove, where they also heard several of their number recall the early days. The attendance was large.

STRIKE VOTE BEING TAKEN

Union Leaders Say Chicago Street Car Men Favor Going Out.

Former Twin City Newspaper Man Refuses Place of Chief of Police.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—Balloting on whether to strike was begun here at 4 a. m. today by the employes of the various surface street car lines. The men, as fast as they finished their "shifts," visited headquarters. There a vote was deposited by each man.

This process will continue until early tomorrow morning. After that several hours must elapse while the votes are being counted. Official announcement of the result is set for Saturday night. There are 9,000 members entitled to vote.

A two-thirds majority is required to effect a strike.

Union officials watching the balloting declared that the early vote was heavily in favor of a walkout.

Bernard J. Mullaney, formerly a newspaper man of St. Paul, Minneapolis and Chicago, and at present private secretary to Mayor Busse, declined today to accept the position of chief of police.

Is Minnesota Man.

The nomination had been offered to Mr. Mullaney by Mayor Busse, when the office was made vacant yesterday by the resignation of George M. Shippy. Chief Shippy has been out of the active work of the department for several months on account of his health. He is living in the woods near Petoskey, Mich. In his letter of resignation he stated that he did not think his health ever would permit him to resume the work of the department.

The threatened street car strike had a great deal to do with bringing the situation to a head.

Mullaney, who is 49 years old, was a political reporter on various Chicago papers for many years, later going into the advertising business and then running the campaign which put Busse into office. He lived several years in St. Paul, Minn.

No Strike, Busse Says.

President T. E. Mitten of the Chicago City Railroad line has entered into negotiations with the employes of the Calumet & South Chicago Street Railway company looking toward an increased scale, and trouble may be averted in that quarter at least.

Mayor Busse has expressed the opinion that there will be no strike. At the same time there was an ominous look in the arrival of P. L. Bergoff, a professional strike-breaker, who figured in the recent Philadelphia strike. Bergoff said that he had been asked to come to Chicago by the presidents of the street railway companies, and that he thought he could handle the situation with 3,500 men.

ACCUSED OF LOOTING BANKS IN NORWAY.

NO NEW ARRESTS IN ST. LOUIS CASE

Police Still Hold Two Men Connected With Kidnaping of Children.

St. Louis, Aug. 5.—Reports that Pietro Viviano and his cousin, fathers of the children kidnaped here Monday, were communicating secretly with the alleged abductors, were dispelled today by Pietro Viviano's calling at the police station and announcing to Capt. Schoppe an intention to prosecute the abductors when captured. Pietro Viviano told the police he and his cousin did not have $25,000, which the special delivery letter demanded as a ransom.

The police are holding Joseph Pagano and Lamanica Girolima, the latter having confessed last night that Pagano, Marchesi, Benedetto, Turrisi and Vincenzo Ricardo arranged with him last Sunday to have the trunks, which were found in Chicago by a reporter, hauled to an express office here.

Pagano, when told of Guroloma's confession, pleaded ignorance and begged to be allowed to commit suicide. Benedetto, Tirisi and Ricardo and the latter's wife and mother-in-law are being sought. It is thought they are in Chicago. When the trunks were opened in the Chicago office they were found to contain nothing but clothing.

A letter which came into the possession of the police today is believed to be the first communication received in St. Louis from the kidnapers of the Viviano children since the father of Grace Viviano received through the mails a demand for $25,000 ransom.

Letter to Prisoner.

This second letter was addressed to Joseph Pagano, one of the men held on suspicion that they know something of the plot. The letter received today came from Chicago. The writer says that he cannot claim "the trunks," because the police are watching them. The police are keeping the text of the letter a secret, and will not divulge the name of the writer.

Marchesi Benedetto, whom the police are seeking, opened a saloon at Milton avenue and Oak street, Chicago, two years ago. He was known there as Ben Marghesi. He sold out his business, and came here six months ago. A special officer soon will be sent to Chicago as the Vivianos will not pay the expense.

A TOUCH OF ANARCHISM

Maj. Sebenius Gives Impressions of Sweden's Labor Troubles.

Says Col. Graves Is Very Popular in Swedish Capital.

Maj. John Uno Sebenius and family have just returned from Europe, where they spent the last two months and a half touring the continent and visiting in Sweden, which the major had not seen in twenty-one years.

He was impressed by the improvements which had been made and the strides his native country had taken since he left, noting great progress in manufacture, science and the arts.

Maj. Sebenius left Sweden before the labor troubles had come to a head, but there was unrest in the land during his stay, the murder of Gen. Bergman by a member of the Young Socialists' party taking place during the visit of the czar of Russia, and only a short distance from the place where the major and his family were stopping.

Speaking of the Swedish labor troubles, Maj. Sebenius said today:

"Labor organizations have entered more into the national life of Sweden than they have in this country, and they are much more vicious there, being under the leadership of the Young Socialist party, which is unpatriotic and almost anarchistic in its sentiments.

"It looks to me as if the Young Socialist party would hesitate at no deed to attain its own ends, even at the sacrifice of the independence and welfare of its own country. I, therefore, have not the slightest sympathy with this organization. I believe in any measure the good and splendid government of Sweden may take to suppress the efforts of such a treacherous society, and lament that such an unfortunate trouble should occur in a country where peace and order are so desirable after the years of depression that Sweden and other countries of Europe have experienced. In my opinion, there is no question as to what the outcome will be. The people will stand by their government and their fine institutions and overthrow these Socialists.

The Czar's Visit.

"The Czar of Russia visited Sweden while I was in Stockholm and the king gave a reception in his honor, to which only members of the royal house and the diplomatic corps were bidden. Some anxiety was felt for the Czar while he was in Stockholm, and energetic steps to protect him were made. That same night, about 11 o'clock, General Bergman of the Swedish army was shot and killed while on his way home, by a member of the Socialist party who had been seen in company with a Russian anarchist.

"Col. Graves of this city, who is minister to Sweden, is one of the ablest men the United States has abroad and he is very highly thought of by members of the royal house, by the Americans who visit there, and by the people of Sweden as a whole. Never before in Stockholm has there been so able and dignified a representative as Col. Graves and if the colonel wishes to remain there, no change should be made, as the people like him, esteem him, and want him to stay. However, Col. Graves is really fitted for even a higher post, but if he left the regret of the Swedish people would be unbounded."

"Back to Sweden."

Speaking of the movement to bring back to Sweden many of the young men and women who have left it for other countries, particularly the United States, Major Sebenius said:

"There are many people in Sweden, the manufacturers and business men and those in official life, who would like to see many of the people who have migrated return to their native land and are anxious to establish the closest relationship with those who remain away.

"Sweden has lost heavily from the fact that so many young men and women, who through the state have received splendid and expensive educations, have emigrated, and it appears most desirable to have them return. I do not think a great deal will come of the movement. Some of the people who come here may want to finish their days in the native land, but the great majority will remain in America always, as citizens of the United States, through the associations and improved conditions afforded them here and from the fact that Sweden must give them less in a business way than they have here.

"Sweden is a beautiful country, so beautiful that no one can realize it until they have seen it in the opalescent light of the midnight sun. Stockholm is, by far, the most beautiful city in Sweden and one of the most beautiful in the world. It is situated in the Thousand Islands, on the Baltic. The city boasts fine buildings of all kinds and finer gardens and flowers than we have here.

"Stockholm has fine hotels and hotel accommodations and excellent restaurants are scattered throughout the city. The railroads in Sweden are in first-class condition and far superior to any I saw elsewhere while abroad. I believe the sleeping car accommodations on the main lines are superior to ours, as far as comfort and convenience is concerned.

"Sweden has developed in architecture on original and independent lines and as employed in Stockholm, it gives to the city a wonderful beauty and attractiveness. The interior arrangements, both in office buildings and homes, are, in other European countries, inferior to ours.

"The world probably knows less about Sweden than about Norway, Switzerland and some of the other old countries. Not much has been said about Sweden, probably due to the fact that the people do not properly advertise their country as they should. But the traveler in Europe should not miss it, visiting there in May, June, July or August, returning likely enough as satisfied with the experience in that little country as by those gained in others better known and of more fame and wealth."

Maj. Sebenius and his party also spent some time in Germany and Belgium and several weeks in Paris.

Cured Hay Fever and Summer Cold.

"A. S. Nusbaum, Batesville, Ind., writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case, and I took several medicines which seemed only to aggravate it. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar. It quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success." For sale by all druggists.

Indications That Wausau and Winona Have Formed Combination.

Duluth Victimized By Shady Methods on Recent Trip.

If there a well formed conspiracy to bring the Wisconsin-Minnesota league pennant to Winona?

On the face of some of the tactics employed by Winona and Wausau, it looks as if there is a combination against Duluth.

The treatment accorded the Duluth players at Wausau was little better than highway robbery. Players were arrested and put out of the game with the sole idea of crippling the team. On their return, the players reported, that policemen, puffed up with authority, were placed on the Duluth bench during the Wausau series, with instructions to arrest any player who made any outcry against the robbery that McRae, was pulling off.

At Winona, one of the Winona men was told to go ahead and beat some of the Duluth players. That he carried out his instructions is known in Winona.

Winona is out to win the bunting, by any means, fair or foul. The Winona crowd will stop at nothing this side of polite murder, to finish in front. That this claim is not mere flimsy fabrication, was demonstrated yesterday when Umpire Nelson quit his duties on the field, after he had listened to over an hour's wrangling from the Winona players. Led by gentle Joe Killian, the Winona men form a combination that is doing baseball in this territory no good.

It looks as if there is a well formed plan to keep Duluth out of the lead. After reviewing the deal given the Sox at Wausau, where even arrest was resorted to to disorganize the team, and at Winona, where one player was crippled by a member of the Winona team, it looks like a very good case of team work between Winona and Wausau.

Little attention has been paid to the robbery cry heretofore, but with the coming to light of some of the incidents of the recent trip it is time that President Elliott if he is more than a figure-head, took some action in the matter.

The mouthings of Moore in the recent Duluth-Winona series were a disgrace to organized baseball. It is very funny that Umpire McRae hasn't found opportunity to discipline the auburn-topped one.

As long as the members of the Winona team are permitted to make a disgraceful burlesque of a baseball game, as they did yesterday, it will be pretty hard to get decent men to act as umpires. It is about time that a halt was being called to the brigandage methods of the Winona team and also that some investigation was made of the partisan deal that was handed to Duluth on the recent trip.

All Stars Win.

The West end All Stars defeated the Oak Hall Juniors by a score of 9 to 8. This is the second time this year that the All Stars have defeated the Oak Halls. The feature of the game was the heavy hitting of the All Stars. Six pitchers were used by the Oak Halls in an endeavor to stop the heavy hitting of the All Stars.

NEW ROOF IS NECESSARY

Many Repairs Will Have to Be Made to Curling Club Rink.

Inside of the Building Completely Wrecked By Thieves.

The Curling club rink will have a new roof. The old one no longer sheds water and on warm days last winter the ice suffered.

The idea of having a new rink has been abandoned for the present, at least, and the club will next winter be found at the old stand.

The police have as yet no clue as to the thieves who broke into the building some time ago and destroyed property belonging to the members, amounting to several hundred dollars.

The rink is almost wrecked. The inside windows are broken and curling stones, skates and other property belonging to the members are strewn around the building.

A gummy sack of electric light globes was taken out in the main part of the rink and thrown against the walls. Curling stones were lifted up and thrown down on one another, the handles were taken out of the stones and hammered so that they will never again be fit for use, the lockers were broken open and the contents either broken or strewn about the rink. In fact, an officer of the club said that any one who had any property there might just as well consider it gone.

This is not the first time such destruction has been reported, but it is the first time that such a complete job has been done, with no apparent reason.

The members of the club are much wrought up over the affair, and several of them are sleuthing about trying to bring the guilty ones to justice.

Only a very few had taken their property home for the summer months, it is understood. Nearly every member of the club suffered some loss.

SCHMIRLER IS SIGNED BY SOX

Ironwood Twirler Will Join the Duluth Team Here.

Pitcher Schmirler of Ironwood has been secured by the Duluth management. Schmirler was tried out with the Sox last year, and was a promising recruit. His experience with Ironwood, where he has been pitching some great ball, should make him a valuable man for the Sox.

A new umpire will come to Duluth this week. He has been in the Western league and is said to be a good man. McRae has quit the league, and reports from Eau Claire state that Umpire Nelson has also become disgusted with life in the league, when tactics such as were employed by Winona yesterday are not infrequent happenings.

The dance to the members of the team will be given at Lester Park tomorrow evening. The entertainment is given as a testimonial to the team, and it is hoped that there will be a large number of fans present.

The members of the White Sox have made many friends in this city. The team members are a lot of clean-cut young fellows, and the fans who know them personally know that they are a crowd of gentlemen.

DULUTH MAY BE REPRESENTED

Three Militia Boys Competing for State Team at Lake City.

Duluth may have three representatives on the state team that will compete at the national shoot to be held at Camp Perry, Ohio, Aug. 23 and 24.

E. G. Simpson, B. W. Perrigo and O. Sorenson of this city are at Camp Lakeview near Lake City, competing for the team. They are among the best shots in the state, and the Duluth militia boys are sure they will be successful.

There is much interest in the national shoot all over the country. The national event is open to all military men. The navy, army, marines, militia companies and every branch of the service are represented.

Private Gustavson of Company F, First regiment, Minneapolis, won the individual championship at Lake City. Gen. Wood will select the team that is to represent Minnesota at the national shoot.

Ball Game for Charity.

The baseball game tomorrow afternoon between the White Sox and the Superior team will be for the benefit of the Anti-Tuberculosis society, and the proceeds will go toward the fund to further carry on this work in Duluth. Members of the society have been busy during the last few days, arousing interest in the game, and the cause which the proceeds will further, and it is hoped that the largest attendance of the year will be present. The society has done good work during the last year, but more funds are needed, and this popular appeal, it is hoped, will have a large response.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

"I hope," said the boat club girl, "that my hat isn't in your way."

"Not at all," said the boat club man as he steered her safely through the mazes of the waltz and bent his back into another double to get away from the reach of the ragged straw.

"The hats are so large," murmured the boat club girl, "that I always feel as though I were murdering a man when I'm dancing with him," as she turned her head quickly.

"Not at all," said the boat club man as he felt furtively of his face to find if it were bleeding in the place where the hat had ripped across.

"I always forget to take my hat off," said the boat club girl.

"Don't mind me," said the man. "A fellow gets used to almost anything, you know, and now, after a few weeks of dancing my face doesn't mind the scratches hardly at all. It's like rowing, you know. Your hands hurt like the d—dickens at first and after a few times they get hardened and accustomed."

"I can take my hat off," said the girl.

"Not for the world," said the man. "That hat is peculiarly becoming to you. Some people say that in straw there is a glue which harbors within itself the tetanus germ, but I don't believe it," said the man. "Because the few mouthfuls of straw that have been forced down my throat this summer haven't given me lockjaw. I don't believe there's a thing in it," said the man.

"Why don't you say right out, if you want me to take my hat off?" asked the girl.

"I would if I wanted you to," said the man. "But, honest, I hardly mind it at all. Of course, I can't say that I care particularly for the taste of straw hats, but I don't think they're at all dangerous. Really." And he steered for the open doors.

"We might sit the rest of this dance out," said the girl with a cool aloof tone in her voice. "And then I could be quite far enough away without my hat doing you any damage, either in cutting your face or giving you lockjaw."

"Not for the world," said the man. "Of course, sometimes I get rather lonely, especially if it's a long dance, for the sight of your face. I almost forget who I'm dancing with and the top of every hat looks exactly alike, it seems to me."

"I wish you'd say what you mean," said the girl. "If you want me to take my hat off, why don't you say so right out instead of using subtle sarcasm to suggest that I have half killed you?"

"Why the idea," said the man.

"And besides," said the girl, "if you don't like dancing with a person who is wearing a hat I know of one very grand but simple way of avoiding it, and she compressed her lips and drew the rough edge of the ragged straw hat the whole length of the man's nose.

"I've told you," said the man, "that I don't mind it in the least. I think the hats are fine."

"As nearly as I can remember," said the girl, "I haven't asked anybody to dance with me tonight."

"It wasn't necessary," said the man, gallantly.

"And if one doesn't wish to dance with one wearing a hat there is, as I have said, a simple but effective way of one's avoiding it," said the girl.

"That is if one desires it," said the man.

Silence.

More silence.

A little more of the same.

"It's real hot, isn't it?" asked the man.

Silence encourages him. "If you haven't the third from now taken I'd like to dance it with you," he said.

"With my hat on?"

"On or off it's all the same with me," said the man.

And so the matter was arranged.

But nevertheless, the heroes of the summer's dances are sending in requests singly and in bunches to suggest by some gentle means that the girls at the dances remove their large and countenance-destroying hats.

LUCK AND WOMAN.

Many Omens Bring Her Much Joy.

Every woman has her pet superstitions. Something, to her, stands for luck—a horseshoe picked up, a four-leaved clover found, a pin gathered up from the floor, a black cat straying into the house, a birthday stone, a lucky date or number, etc. She believes in it because she can prove it to herself by definite examples; and in this she is usually correct, says Harper's Bazar. What she calls luck has really come to her the very day or week in which she found the horseshoe or put on the birthday ring. It is not mere coincidence. It has happened as she says. The only thing she fails to see is just why and how it has happened.

The most important thing in life is one's attitude toward it. To the wrong attitude life brings nothing. To the right attitude it brings everything. The blind doctrine of luck is the handmaid of this clear truth. The woman who finds a four-leaved clover and is convinced that life holds something pleasant for her in the immediate future gets at once into the right attitude. She looks out for something good to come along, and so she sees it and grasps it. If she had not found the clover and had gone dully and fretfully along instead, she would never have noticed the pleasant thing at all. That is the whole psychology of luck. It seems too simple to be true—but really its simplicity is its sign manual of verity.

Expect good, look for good, believe in good—and life becomes good and grows ever better. There are always opportunities along the daily road for the eye made keen by pleasant anticipation. Sometimes a big happy coincidence comes along to boot, but whether it does or not, there is enough daily "luck" on any woman's path to be more than worth her while. Cats, clovers, pins, and horseshoes are simply selected symbols of this steady and enduring truth, which needs none of them when once it is grasped and held by the woman who is wise.

Tea Basket.

For those who like tea there is a pleasing little basket with tea pot and cups in compact form.

These are excellent to take along on one's travels, and to use with the large tea basket on summer afternoons.

The little basket is well made and wadded inside. It is fitted with tea pot and two cups in Japanese china.

A few have a small opening into which the spout of the teapot fits, which allows the tea to be poured through it without lifting the pot from the basket.

This is considered a great convenience by many, as the pot is kept hot by the wadding.

Fashion's Fads.

Silk panels are plentiful.

Draped waists are very popular.

A new fad is the bathing parasol.

The trend is toward picturesque effects.

Violets trim many of the new purple hats.

There is quite a fancy for hip ornamentation.

The general trend of the hat brim is downward.

Never were linen suits more popular than now.

The princess costume is a feature of the season.

Perforated tips are seen on many of the smartest pumps and one-eyelet ties.

A good many eighteenth century ruchings are being used on new gowns and wraps.

Traveling skirts are cut so that they escape the ground by scant three inches.

The pointed waistline is a novelty after the straight cross effects of the empire cut.

Intense Colicky Pains Relieved.

"For some years I suffered from intense colicky pains which would come on at times and from which I could find no relief," says L. S. Mason of Beaver Dam, Ky. "Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was recommended to me by a friend. After taking a few doses of the remedy I was entirely relieved. That was four years ago and there has been no return of the symptoms since that time." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

MRS. BESANT SAYS SHE HAS KEY OMAR MISSED.

New York, Aug. 5.—Mrs. Annie Besant, the visiting exponent of theosophy, says she has solved the riddle that perplexed Job and drove Omar to divorce barren reason and wed the jocund daughter of the grape. The presence of sin and suffering in the world, she told her auditors last night, is to be explained by the hypothesis of reincarnation, a part of the cult she teaches. Neither of the other two theories of life into which she divided the creeds and philosophies of the world—the orthodox theory and the scientific or evolutionary—accounted for it, she said.

Sin and suffering, said she, are experience, and give increased spiritual power for the next incarnation.

"We go on sowing sin and reaping experience until we attain ultimate perfection." As evidence of reincarnation in the world about us, Mrs. Besant instanced the vague memories —"intuitions of immortality"—of little children and the common phenomenon of sudden unexplained attraction one often feels for a total stranger. That stranger, said Mrs. Besant, has been a friend in a previous common reincarnation.

CONGRESSMAN AND AN AUTOIST COME TO BLOWS.

Washington, Aug. 5.—Representative J. Thomas Heflin of Alabama became involved in a personal encounter here yesterday with an automobilist, whose name is said to be Johnson. As no arrests were made, the identity of Mr. Heflin's antagonist could not be clearly established.

Representative Ollie James of Kentucky, who was with Mr. Heflin, says the driver was handling the machine carelessly and was exceeding the speed limit, very nearly running them down.

EX-SHAH IS OFFERED PENSION OF $75,000.

Teheran, Aug. 5.—It is understood that the government has now offered Mohammed Ali Murzah, the ex-shah, an annual pension of $75,000 on condition that he will deliver up the jewels enumerated in the Nationalist inventory or inform the government how he disposed of the missing gems.

It is believed that Mohammed Ali will accept this new offer, and his departure from Persia, probably for Russia, is expected within a fortnight.

GEO. FIFER APPOINTED

He Will Act as Agent for the Humane Society.

Succeeds T. E. Grae---Associated Charities in Full Operation.

At a regular meeting of the Duluth Humane society held yesterday afternoon, George Fifer was appointed agent of the society, to succeed T. E. Grae, whose resignation was accepted at the last monthly meeting of the board. The appointment of Mr. Fifer becomes effective Sept. 1.

The newly appointed agent has for the last two or three years been truant officer, and has taken an active interest in affairs of the humane society. He is understood to be well fitted for the position. Mr. Grae, when he steps out of office, will go into business for himself.

While the activities of the society cover a wider field in winter than in summer, its officers have been kept pretty busy during the warm weather, and have been able to accomplish much for the benefit of humanity. Its policy in future will be much the same as in the past.

The society will be greatly assisted in its work the coming fall and winter by the fact that an associated charities organization has been perfected in Duluth. The latter will work in conjunction with the former, as well as assisting other charitable organizations of the city. While exercising no direct interest in controlling the policies of the different charitable associations, it will keep in daily touch with them, and by keeping track of all the charitable cases in the city, will be able to report on just what assistance is being rendered in each case, and by which society.

The Associated Charities office in the basement of the city hall building is now in full operation, with Miss Jean Poirier in charge. It is rapidly getting in shape to handle whatever business comes under its supervision, and already has been placed on a working basis. A permanent secretary will be appointed in the near future. The need of such an organization as this has long been felt in Duluth.

BEGIN PROBE IN BELTRAMI

Charges Against County Officials Being Looked Into.

Auditor Willman Failed to Keep Road Records in Book.

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The hearing on the charges against County Auditor Willmann and Commissioners Wright, Sibley and Danaher began this morning before Attorney Ryan of Brainerd, appointed by Governor Johnson.

Assistant Attorney General Smith was present, having been delegated by Governor Johnson to see that the facts alleged were properly developed. The first matter taken up was charge No. 1 against County Auditor Willmann of malfeasance in office through neglect to properly record the road records. The road records and road record books were introduced by the state to substantiate its claims.

E. E. McDonald of Bemidji is attorney for Willmann and Danaher and P. J. Russell represents Wright.

M. F. Kain, deputy public examiner, was the first witness, and he stated that four roads had been established in 1907-08, none of which had been recorded in the road record books of the county, although the books for this purpose were kept on hand. Cross-examined by Mr. McDonald, it was attempted to show that the vast amount of work required of the auditor made it impossible to keep this record, although it was not the duty of the auditor to record the work, according to the statutes of 1897 and the code of 1905, which prescribed that commissioners may pay not to exceed 10 cents per folio for this work. M. D. Stoner, former county surveyor, testified that roads in question had been properly laid out and work done according to law.

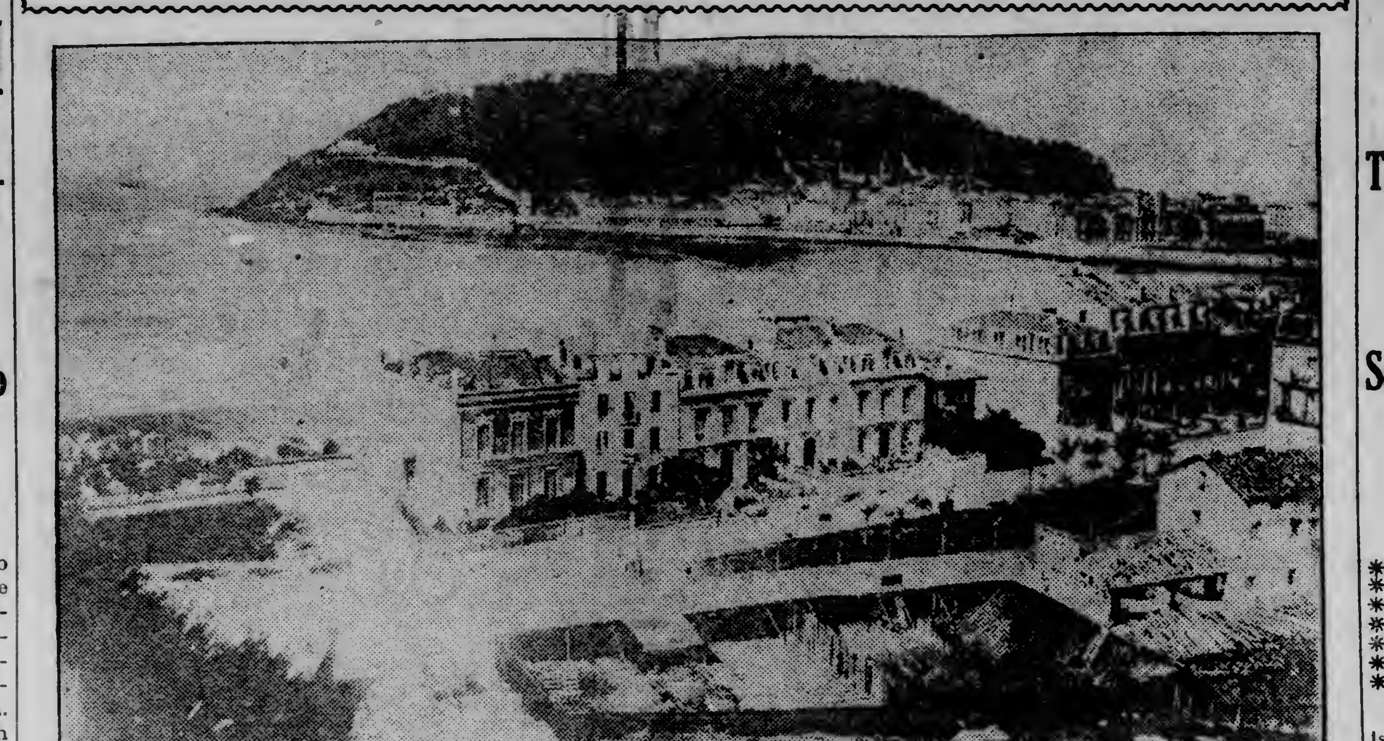
AFFORDED REFUGE TO TWO ANXIOUS QUEENS



CITY OF SAN SEBASTIAN, SPAIN.

It was in San Sebastian that Queen Victoria and the dowager, Queen Christina, took refuge during the outbreak of the revolutionists in Catalonia, when it was feared that Madrid also might become the scene of disorders.

The discontent in Spain is due in a large measure to the poverty of the people, and the excessive taxes for war purposes. The war with the United States cost Spain enormously, and the people are now paying the price of their folly in believing that their antiquated army and navy could defeat ours. The public debt is now costing the people of Spain $80,000,000, and the war department $32,000,000. The poor are taxed to pay these amounts, not alone on their livestock and property, but on all articles which they consume.

Military service in Spain is compulsory, but is in the form of conscription rather than a universal service like that of Germany or France. A money payment will secure exemption. The service is regarded as a hardship by the poor who cannot purchase exemption. They are especially opposed to service in Africa, where Spain maintains usually a force of about 6,200, divided between Melilla and Ceuta. The present trouble arises directly from opposition to the war with the Moroccan tribes at Melilla, where the Spanish troops have received a severe beating recently.

STARTS CRUSADE AGAINST ONIONS

Did you ever have a barber with an onion scented breath lean lovingly over you while making your face beautiful? Yes?

Well there is a barber chap down in New Jersey, Willets by name. Willets has the rights of his countrymen in mind, for he proposes to form an anti-onion society among the barbers. Circulars to that effect have been received at some of the leading tonsorial parlors of this city.

The barbers are discussing the proposition of Willets. The boys who have assiduously followed the habit of breakfasting on beefsteak and onions, are somewhat opposed to the idea of Willets. But some of the other chaps don't think that it would be such a bad idea.

At the next meeting of the Barbers' union some official notice may be taken of the anti-onion notion.

IRREGULARITIES IN LAND GRANT

Albert Schildt Claims Patent Was Issued Without Legal Authority.

Believing that certain timber lands were granted to the Northern Pacific Railroad company under mistakes of law, Albert H. Schildt began suit in federal court this morning to recover 160 acres which he tried to file on some time ago.

On Oct. 17, according to his complaint he filed with the receiver of the local land office a statement of lands he wished to file on, and was informed that the application made by him conflicted with the selection made some time previous by the Northern Pacific. His application was refused.

Schildt then appealed to the commissioner of the general land office, and the decision of the local office was affirmed. He then appealed to the secretary of the interior and again the decision of the local office was upheld.

He now seeks to recover from the railroad company on the ground that the patent was issued without legal authority and that the railroad corporation never made a legal selection.

Schildt claims that the land is valuable mostly for the timber and asks that the court issue an order restraining the company from cutting timber until the case is settled.

The land is said to be worth $3,000. Attorney H. H. Hoyt, who has filed most of the cases of like nature against the Northern Pacific, represents the plaintiff in the case.

THE EVENING STORY

Chief Chispa's Heiress

By Col. W. F. Cody.

(Copyrighted. All Rights Reserved.)

Love has driven men to make fools of themselves, to despair, to suicide and to deeds of heroism and fame. Love drove Dudley Searle to the far frontier to seek a fortune and thereby avenge himself upon the proud girl who calmly said to him:

"Really, I believe I love you, Mr. Searle; in fact, may have encouraged you; but my heart does not control my head, and I cannot sacrifice my future by marrying a poor man, handsome and fascinating though you are."

And this from the woman he had made his ideal and idol, for whom he had won the honors of his class at West Point and had hoped to win for his wife. At once he asked to be sent to an army post in the West, and his request was gratified, with the chances, too, that the life that he found not worth the living—without Kate Langley's love—would be quickly terminated by an Indian arrow.

The man who is looking for trouble always finds it, and Lieut. Dudley Searle of the cavalry quickly got into the thick of it, fully as much as even his desperation required, for the Indians were on the warpath; soldier scalps were at a premium. Though reckless in the extreme, the young officer seemed to bear one of those charmed lives writers of fiction like to harp on for their heroes. He came out of each fight unscathed, while others fell dead and wounded about him. And more, Lieut. Searle's splendid courage won honorable mention, promotion, and, in time, a medal.

Then came a romance across his trail. Alone one day, he was shot at from ambush. He charged into the timber upon his unseen foe, bearing the arrow sticking in his arm, and checked his shot just in time to prevent shooting a young redskin girl. She had sent the arrow that had wounded him, and she stood at bay over an old chief who in a low tone began to chant his death song. Lieut. Searle saw that the chief had a bullet-shattered leg, that he was unarmed, and that the girl had fired her last shot. In perfect English she said calmly, "Come and kill us both."

Struck by the pluck of the girl, the lieutenant glanced at her and saw that she was fair—that is, several shades fairer than the average redskin—and also that she could not be over 16 years of age. Her story was soon told. Her father, Chief Chispa, becoming separated from his braves, had been wounded, his horse killed, and she had come on the trail to learn his fate. But her pony had run away just as she came upon the mighty leader of the Sioux, and thus they were left at the mercy of the paleface; and if she failed to kill him with her last arrow, she expected death.

"You are in bad luck," said the lieutenant, "but I'll give you a lift, for it isn't in my line to kill wounded redskins and squaws. I'll do what I can to dress the chief's wound, and you can have my horse and strike the trail for your village before some of the men find you. Here, chief, is a flask of whisky that will brace you up, and my horse will carry you and the girl with ease."

The chief and his daughter were amazed to be thus treated by a foe, but silently watched him dress the wounded leg, after which he led up his horse, took the old warrior in his strong arms and placed him gently in the saddle, raising the girl to a seat behind him, and said:

"Now make tracks for your village before you are seen and sent on the trail to the happy hunting grounds."

Off started the splendid cavalry horse with his double load, while Lieut. Searle struck off on foot for the fort, forty miles. The lieutenant received a rebuke from his colonel for not bringing Chief Chispa to the fort as a hostage, but his heart had dictated his humane act and he was not to be turned down for it.

Some ten days later the lieutenant's horse, saddle and bridle, blanket and haversack, were found by a sentinel at dawn at the fort's entrance, and Searle felt sure the Indian girl had brought or sent them back to him. However, no trail could be found, but the fact that the animal was hitched securely proved that he could not have gotten away from the redskins and returned alone.

Camping one night, while out on a scout with his company, and near the Indian village of which Chispa was chief, Lieut. Searle suddenly saw a blanketed form approaching his campfire. To his surprise he beheld the Indian girl whose arrow had slightly wounded him some months before.

"Star Eyes has come to tell the white chief that he is on the death trail, for by daybreak hundreds of braves will guard the passes in this valley and he and his men will be killed. Let him go at once, for Star Eyes' tongue is not crooked."

She would not heed his call to her, but silently glided away in the darkness.

"Let no one tell me of Indian dishonesty and ingratitude, for I know better, and I'm no fool to disregard good advice," said Lieut. Searle to his second lieutenant, and he at once gave orders to be on the move. He got out of the valley before dawn, and then from a high range saw that the girl had told him only the truth, and that he and his command would have been wiped out had he not heeded her words.

After more than a year of warfare peace was patched up and one day, to the surprise of all, an Indian girl rode into the fort, leading a pack horse, and halted before the quarters of Dudley Searle. It was Star Eyes, and she had a tale of woe to tell the officer. Her father, Cheif Chispa, was dead, and he had told her to come to him, the lieutenant, and take with her all of his belongings.

"The Star Eyes loves the white chief, and she will be his wife," said the girl.

Lieut. Searle nearly dropped. But he rallied quickly and, telling Star Eyes to follow him, he led her to the quarters of his captain, whose wife had been most kind to him.

"Mrs. Murdock, you and the captain have no children, and I have heard you say that you intended to adopt a little daughter some day, so I have anticipated your desire and brought you one. She is Star Eyes, of whom you have heard me speak, and if you will take and educate her, I will give one-third of my salary, and in a couple of years hence take her off your hands. She has told me she desires to become my wife, and her father has sent her to me, bag and baggage. I know very well what unrequited love is, and as I have no ties I will save her any heartache that I can."

Mrs. Murdock laughed, then looked serious, called the captain into consultation, had a talk with Star Eyes, decided that she was really beautiful, "for an Indian," and—adopted her.

It took "Star Murdock," as she had come to be known, six months to be roped into civilized ways, and in the neighborhood of the fort she soon became known as Searle's Indian sweetheart. Under the care of Mrs. Murdock the girl learned rapidly and was a surprise to all, while a number of the young officers fairly envied Dudley Searle the sacrifice he was going to make to wed a redskin maiden.

Then it was discerned that the tan was coming off Star's face, that she was drifting naturally into the ways of the pale faces, had a devoted love for music and for books. One day she frankly asked Dudley Searle:

"Do you intend to carry out your promise to marry me some day?"

"Yes."

"Do you love me?"

"Two years ago I believed there was but one love in life for me; but I have changed since I have come to know you, Star."

"Come and tell me about it in another year, and I will make known to you a secret," she said.

He did not wait the bidden time, but went to her one day and asked her to become his wife. Then she told her secret; how she had been captured by Indians, with her mother, when she was but 9 years of age, and had since then lived among the Sioux. She told him her mother had been befriended by Chief Chispa, had become his wife, and of his strange devotion to both of them. A year before she had met the lieutenant her mother had died, but Chispa was a devoted father to her until his death, and on his deathbed had demanded that she go to Dudley Searle at the ford after he was buried.

She had brought with her all of the belongings of her mother, to prove who she was, and, with the young lieutenant, she for the first time looked over these sacred souvenirs, and discovered that her father had been a distinguished army officer.

Nor was this all, for among her mother's treasures was a well drawn map, showing just where was to be sought a lot of gold which Chief Shispa had found and hidden away, and, when he was dying, he told her that all he had was hers—that she was to be his heiress.

"And I can guide you to the spot where that gold is hidden, and you'll find that I am really an heiress," she said in her simple way.

"Your love is dearer to me than all gold, Star," was the answer of the soldier.

And they were married, these two who so strangely met; the treasure was found, and it amounted to quite a handsome sum when sold, while the bridal tour of Dudley Searle and his wife took in the old home of the officer, who had his revenge when he learned that his first love had married a poor barber in the guise of a French count.

who yesterday attacked a Spanish commissary convoy obliged the Spaniards to retire until the arrival of reinforcements. The Spaniards then advanced and drove the enemy back.

More Trouble Feared.

Cerebere, France, Aug. 5.—It is reported here today that a general strike is likely to break out in Spain owing to the refusal of the authorities to permit pacific demonstrations the war in Morocco, and in favor of the release of the men confined in the fortresses since the rioting at Barcelona last week.

Denies Killing of Clergy.

Cologne, Aug. 5.—The Cologne Gazette prints a private letter received here from Barcelona dated July 31. It denies that any members of the clergy were victims in the recent disorders there, as all were warned of their danger in time to save themselves.

The letter adds that the seventeen bodies carried in procession by the rioters were those of nuns long since dead, which the populace found in the smoking ruins of churches.

STOCKHOLM SUFFERS FROM FAILING OF FOOD SUPPLIES

lack of ice is adding seriously to the suffering.

Restaurants have raised the prices of all articles, and only those who are possessed of fairly considerable means can purchase food today. The remainder of the $18,000 population are making the best shift for food that they can. Thousands are living on nothing but fish, and a city of tents has been raised along the shores of Lake Malar.

Live Without Shelter.

Other thousands are living without shelter of any kind on the shores and on the islands of the archipelago. Some families already have sold everything they possess to buy food. What their further privations may be none can foresee.

In spite of the protests of the laborclasses, the sending of soldiers into Stockholm continues. There are charges today that an attempt was made last night to dynamite the gas plant, and soldiers have been placed in charge of the works. Confirmation of the reported attempt has not been made, but it is given color by the fact that the employes of the gas and electric light plants have joined the strikers.

Gravediggers Join Strike.

Paupers from the state poorhouses have been enlisted to replace the striking gravediggers and undertakers, and instead of hearses, stretchers are being used to carry the dead through the streets to the cemeteries. The funerals proceed under military escort.

A gunboat has been stationed opposite the gas works, and no boats are allowed to pass between it and the shore.

A battalion of grenadiers from Linkoping and a detachment of 250 men from the Vestergotland regiment, have been ordered into Stockholm.

At Gothenburg, work at all the slaughterhouses has come to an end, and the general strike committee has called upon the railroad men and the printers to join the movement.

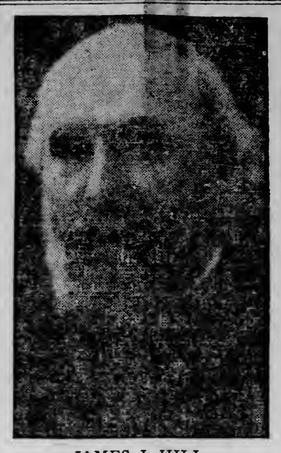
"GUARD YOUR RAILROAD TERMINALS" IS J. J. HILL'S MESSAGE TO DULUTH

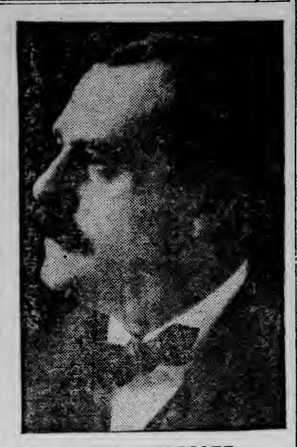
Future Growth Depends on Ability to Handle Great Traffic.

Empire Builder Is Guest of Honor at Public Reception.

President Howard Elliot of the Northern Pacific Also Speaks.



JAMES J. HILL,
Chairman of Board of Great Northern Railroad.



HOWARD ELLIOTT,
President of the Northern Pacific Railroad.

James J. Hill, the empire builder of the Northwest, a man who has done more to develop the great stretch of territory between the Mississippi river and the Pacific coast than any other man, last night held a heart to heart talk with the business men of Duluth.

Mr. Hill got right down to business facts; he told the business men of this city some of the things they should do and also informed them of some of the things they should not do.

The reception to the railway magnate was held in the rooms of the Commercial club. It was originally intended that Mr. Hill should only meet the business men of Duluth. But no one would have been quite satisfied with that. Everyone present wanted to hear from Mr. Hill, and those present heard some sage advice, some sound business observations, and an appreciation of Duluth that made the citizens proud of their city.

Mr. Hill, President Howard Elliott of the Northern Pacific; President Louis Hill of the Great Northern, and a number of Eastern men who were in the Hill party, reached the Head of the Lakes shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The party left the Northern Pacific special at Superior. The members of the party were met by D. M. Philbin, superintendent of the lake division of the Great Northern; George Ross, superintendent of the Lake Superior division of the Northern Pacific, and by other officials of the lake divisions of the two railroads.

Inspect Terminals.

The members of the party made a thorough inspection of the terminals of the Great Northern at Superior. There is much work being done by the Great Northern at Superior, and Mr. Hill was particularly interested in the inspection of the terminals. From Superior the party was taken to the Great Northern docks at Allouez. Here every detail of the work was inspected by Mr. Hill and the members who also exhibited a deep interest in the ore loading.

The party came over from Allouez and took a ride over the bay on the fire tug McGonagle, later the members of the party were landed at the Northern Pacific slip and were driven over the boulevard and through the principal streets of Duluth in automobiles. A. L. Ordean met the Hill party at the dock and they were the guests of the Duluth man for the remainder of the day.

The members of the distinguished party were given a dinner at the Commercial club at 7:30. This dinner was more for the friends of the railway magnate, and those citizens who had met Mr. Hill before. The dinner was an informal affair and was over shortly after 8 o'clock.

The Public Reception.

T. W. Hugo acted as master of ceremonies in the informal program that was arranged for the big reception room of the club. The room was filled with representative business men of the city when Mr. Hugo called for order. Nearly every business house of the city had some delegate present, and a more representative gathering of business and professional men has not been seen at the Head of the Lakes for some time. It was a token of appreciation that deeply pleased Mr. Hill.

Mr. Hugo stated that Mr. Hill was among friends, both personal and impersonal, for many people who had never met the railroad man before were his friends, Mr. Hugo stated. Mr. Hugo stated that thirty years ago a man present in the room had sat on a log with Mr. Hill and heard the future railroad man state that some day he would have a railroad and ships on the Great Lakes. Even then Mr. Hill had faith in the future of the Northwest and Duluth, and Mr. Hugo declared that his faith had only increased with the passing of years.

The master of ceremonies declared that Mr. Hill was known as a man of many abilities. He was an art critic and a man who could tune a "fiddle" and also play it. His name was known and respected wherever business was conducted.

An outburst of spontaneous applause greeted the veteran railroad magnate as he arose to address the audience. Mr. Hill was deeply touched by the hearty reception he received.

"A Common Scold."

"I am afraid that we all grow more harsh and severe as we grow older," said Mr. Hill. "I am afraid that I may be indicted for being a common scold, but there are some things that I should tell you and some things that you ought to be told. I am among friends and I want to be of some service to those friends."

Mr. Hill paid a compliment to this part of the country, when he stated that some members of his party were from the East an dwere on their way to the Pacific coast. These men have never been in this part of the country, and the railroad magnate stated that he believed that they should see a part of the country that was wonderful, a territory rich in mineral deposits, rich in future possibilities and without equal in any part of the United States.

"My memory of Duluth goes back further back than the memory of many of you present this evening," said Mr. Hill. "My memory of Duluth extends back forty-two years ago. At that time the old wooden fork house was considered quite a place. The old street was a winding trail cut through the pines.

"Proctor Knott was here later and all of you know what his impresssion of Duluth was. There were a few men who had great belief in Duluth, even in those early days, and I was one of the early observers who had a great faith in the growth of this city and territory, and my faith has never been shaken.

"You have lived up to your opportunities. But now you have come to a period in your growth when you must all think of the future. You must all put your minds to the problem of providing for the future. You must think of how you are going to conduct your business in the future. Economy of business is what is going to make you a great and growing city.

"In 1907 you had the most tonnage of any port in the world. Until that year Hongkong and London had divided the tonnage honors. New York was a close second. Duluth astounded the world by making a greater tonnage than any of the three great ports. Your great record was made in seven and one half months. All this vast tonnage was brought here by rail. The harbor of Duluth is, and it will always be, in the railroad yards of this city. For that reason you should think carefully of the future of the railroad terminals.

"I can remember the time when your railroad yards were about as big as a swimming pool. You can see what they have developed to. Your business here must be handled with the utmost economy. The transfer between land and water must be made on the cheapest lines. To accomplish this you must systematize the railroad business; you must not hinder the railroads.

Tribute to A. C. Jones.

"I can remember when freight on coal was $1.25 a ton. A man was brought here and set to work on this transportation problem. He was a man who held the utmost confidence of all railroad men. He reduced the freight on coal to 70 cents, and now it has been reduced to 35 or 40 cents. That man deserves the appreciation of Duluth. I speak of A. C. Jones.

"Both the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern railroads bring a great deal of business to Duluth. The Great Northern brings about 40 per cent of the grain it hauls to Minneapolis and about 60 per cent to Duluth. There is a great crop in the three Northwestern states. I venture to say that the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific will bring more grain to Duluth this fall than all of the railroads have hauled to Chicago within the past five years.

"I believe that the Great Northern will bring from 40,000,000 to 45,000,000 bushels of wheat to the Head of the Lakes this fall, and the Northern Pacific will bring about 40,000,000 bushels. Not only are you a great wheat traffic point, but you also are beginning to raise and receive corn up here. You are already a bigger grain and flax point than Chicago.

"You are the second coal tonnage port on the Great Lakes. It is no exaggeration to state that within a short time you will be the greatest coal receiving port on the lakes. Cheap transportation will be a great point in this development. To move coal from Newcastle to London costs $1.25 a ton. You move coal much greater distances here for 35 to 40 cents. Increased coal tonnage will make bigger pay rolls and increased pay rolls mean increased population.

"You are getting to the stage where you look out for the future. In the past you gave away the rights of five or six railroad tracks. You have done that and it can't be helped now. But those rights should be held by the city of Duluth. It would be a safeguard for the future growth of the city, for the growth of the terminal facilities here.

A Mess of Pottage.

"You have given these rights away, but in the future don't sell your birthright for a mess of pottage. Be careful of your future. Remember that the railroad terminals are going to play the important role in your growth and development. The terminals are not going to creep up the hill. You must provide for the terminals of the railroads in planning your growth.

"Show me a railroad without terminals and I will show you a railroad that is not profitable. Railroads must have good terminals and cities must have good terminal sites to grow. Chicago has grown because of good terminals. I can remember when it was a city of 90,000. It has grown through the traffic of the railroads, and today New York is looking at the growth of Chicago with dread. It will have a death race to keep ahead of Chicago.

"Seattle not so very long ago was a city of 40,000 population. Today it has a population of 300,000. They wanted to place the railroad terminals where the boats came in, and where the traffic was congested. I told the city authorities that it would mean the death of the city. The terminals were not placed in the original spot chosen, and today you can see what the growth of Seattle has been.

"You are handling an immense amount of freight here in Duluth, and the future you will handle an immense increase of traffic. I advice you to be careful, to plan your business system naturally and to provide for traffic facilities, which will mean so much to your growth. The railroads are willing to work with you in this matter. Your passenger station is too small. We may manage to provide larger facilities. There are many things to think about in relation to the railroad problem, we believe that the situation will have to be revamped some day. But you must think and plan for the future."

Elliott Speaks.

Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific was introduced by Mr. Hugo.

President Elliott addressed the men present as fellow members of the Commercial club and explained that he had been made a member of the club upon his visit to Duluth, six years ago. It was at that time that he had been made president of the Northern Pacific.

Mr. Elliott stated that he had proved his value as an active member of the club by doing what he could to serve the interests of Duluth, through his position as head of the Northern Pacific.

President Elliott stated that the Northern Pacific had 200 miles of tracks at the Head of the Lakes and was constantly adding to its facilities and trackage. He stated that the officials of the road were busily planning to take care of the increase of traffic.

The president then touched upon the Soo-Northern Pacific legal fight. He stated that it was not the purpose of the Northern Pacific to endeavor to keep any railroad from coming to Duluth. Rather, he stated that it was merely the intention of the railroad to conserve and protect its rights; in doing this it was also protecting the rights of the citizens of Duluth.

Mr. Elliott stated that if the Soo crossed six or seven tracks it would tie up the traffic here. He stated that the Northern Pacific would soon open up about 200 miles of new lines in North Dakota, and that the traffic at the Head of the Lakes would be greatly increased by the opening of these new lines.

He went on foot to increase the traffic facilities here, and that to cross the tracks of the company would not only tie up traffic, but would also interfere with these plans.

Mr. Elliott stated that the Northern Pacific officials were simply asking for fair treatment, good business policy, and an chance to handle traffic in an economical and speedy manner. He stated that this would be impossible if a railroad were allowed to bottle up the traffic situation and to congest traffic conditions.

Statement by Hill.

In a statement to The Herald representative, at the close of the reception at the Commercial club last evening, James J. Hill stated that the Great Northern was already at work upon improvements at the terminals of the Lakes, and I will show you the idea that the present wheat movement here would be the greatest in the history of railroad traffic in the Northwest.

"We are enlarging our terminals here at Superior, getting our elevators ready to handle the greatest crop in the history of the Head of the Lakes," was the statement of Mr. Hill.

"From the reports we will have received we are led to believe that at least 45,000,000 bushels of wheat will come here over the Great Northern, and I am personally of the opinion that the total will reach a figure nearer 60,000,000 bushels.

"We are enlarging our terminal facilities to receive this great movement. We are enlarging our elevator room at the Head of the Lakes. The traffic facilities here will be taxed and the people of Duluth should not do anything that will impair the efficiency of the railroad in handling the traffic at the Head of the Lakes."

Mr. Hill stated that the crossing of the Soo would not only hurt the traffic handling at the Head of the Lakes, but that it would also eventually hurt the business of the Soo. Through The Herald he warned the citizens to go slow in this matter, as it was a very serious matter to the railroads handling great traffic here.

Mr. Hill and the members of his party left last night for the Mesaba range. The following officials and friends are in the Hill party:

James J. Hill, chairman of the board of directors of the Great Northern Railway company; L. W. Hill, president Great Northern railway; George B. Harris, president Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railway company; Howard Elliott, president Northern Pacific railway; Amos T. French, a director of the Northern Pacific, from New York; Arthur N. Sherwood of the firm of Tower & Sherwood, bankers and brokers of New York; W. P. Lyman of Devon & Lyman, Boston, Mass., bankers and brokers; Francis Appleton, president Waltham Watch company, New York; Gordon Fellows, New York; H. Thayer Robb, New York; P. D. Brandagee of Boston, all interested in railroads in the Northwest; Walter J. Hill, St. Paul; Thomas Cooper assistant to the president and land commissioner, Northern Pacific railway; George T. Slade, general manager Northern Pacific railway; J. M. Gruber, general manager Great Northern railway; E. C. Blanchard, general superintendent Northern Pacific railway; D. M. Philbin, general superintendent Great Northern railway, and George T. Ross, superintendent of the Northern Pacific railway.

The members of the party, with the exception of Mr. Hill and the Great Northern officials, will visit the Pacific coast after the Minnesota trip. Mr. Hill and the Great Northern officials will return to St. Paul and the Burlington officials will return to Chicago.

TARIFF BILL BAD AS EVER

Senator Cummins Declares He Will Not Vote for the Pending Measure.

Iowan Is Principal Speaker at Night Session of the Senate.

Washington, Aug. 5.—The decision to hold a night session of the senate last night brought little in the way of tangible results. There was not a full attendance, and most of the time was taken up in speeches and spats. Senator Cummins of Iowa made the principal speech, in which he discussed in the senate the paragraphs of the tariff bill generally, not presenting his objections in detail. He sought to establish his contention that no substantial tariff reform is accomplished by the changes the bill makes.

"Mr. Cummins announced his determination to vote against the bill, though he confessed the belief that it was superior to any bill framed for revenue purposes, and so far as the schedules go, better than the Dingley law.

Not Real Revision.

"I am opposed to the conference report and to the bill which it embodies because it is not such a revision of the tariff as I have expected the party was pledged to, in fighting for, and is not a fair and reasonable performance of the promise of our platform," he said, and added:

"This is not a court of bankruptcy, and I am not willing to accept ten cents on the dollar in discharge of the obligations of the Republican party. It always has been and is now a solvent organization, and it is not only able, but its rank and file will insist upon paying its debt in full. Its pledges will be redeemed at par, and although the blindness of some of its leaders may at this time postpone the day of redemption, I shall await with patience, confidence and serenity the hour at which it will be in full and complete faith with the American people."

Approves Taft's Course.

He expressed his admiration of the president's ability to secure, and to a degree in securing, lower rates in the range of dispute between the house and senate. He said:

"The range was very narrow and the president has done all that one man could for the betterment of the bill."

Speaking "with the full consciousness that the president will sign the bill and that it will become a law with his assent," he recognized, he said, that there is a fundamental difference between the veto power and the voting power. "An executive ought not," he said, "to veto a measure simply because he would vote against it, had he been a member of the legislative body that passed it."

"I have always admitted," said the senator, "that with respect to those commodities of which we are capable of supplying the home demand, duties, however high, do not harm, so long as there exists an effectual competition between our producers, and I repeat that admission now.

Competition Growing Weaker.

"I have seen, however, competition in the most important fields of production grow weaker and weaker, until it has been easy to perceive that with many things prices have not been fixed by the fundamental and essential law of commerce, but have been fixed by the arbitrary will of the producer, and solely with reference to the utmost profit that trade would bear.

"Under these conditions, it seemed to me that excessive duties would necessarily become a shield for avarice and greed. It seemed to me that duties should be so adjusted as to prevent the domestic producer from raising his price above a fair American level without exposing himself to foreign competition.

"These were the only reasons known to me for a revision of the tariff, and I will never vote for a revision that does not follow, or attempt to follow, these lines of economic thought."

Revise Leather Paragraph.

The concurrent resolution making corrections in the leather schedule of the tariff bill was reported to the senate from the finance committee by Senator Aldrich. This resolution changes paragraph 460 to read as follows:

"Hides of cattle, raw or un-cured whether dry, salted or pickled shall be admitted free, provided that on and after Oct. 1, 1909, grain, buff and split leather shall pay a duty of 7½ per cent ad valorem; that all boots and shoes made wholly or in chief value of leather made from cattle hides and cattle skins of whatever weight, of cattle of the bovine species, including calf-skins, shall pay a duty of 10 per centum ad valorem; that saddlery, harness and saddles in sets or in parts, finished or unfinished, composed wholly or in chief value of leather, shall pay a duty of 20 per centum ad valorem."

This resolution will be acted upon after the conference report has been disposed of.

Provides a Drawback.

From the same committee, Senator McCumber reported another concurrent resolution providing that the drawback provision of the tariff bill should not apply to oil cake manufactured from imported flaxseed and also regulating the control of bonded warehouses.

Senator McLaurin of Mississippi offered an amendment to place cotton bagging on the free list, which Mr. McCumber said he would accept as far as he was able to do so. When asked by Senator Scott whether the committee had accepted that amendment, Senator Aldrich indicated that it had not.

MONEY FOR HOSPITAL

Anti-Tuberculosis Workers Hope to Secure $20,000 Appropriation.

Want Full Amount Allowed By Law for County Sanitarium.

At a meeting of the county board tomorrow, the annual tax levy will be made, the business of the semi-annual meeting having been postponed when the meeting was called some weeks ago. Included in the budget this year will be an appropriation for a tuberculosis sanitarium and the people interested in the anti-tuberculosis movement in the county are making a determined effort to secure from the board the full appropriation allowed by the legislature.

By a law passed at the last session of the legislature, county boards are authorized to appropriate not more than $20,000 for the establishing and equipping of a tuberculosis sanitarium and each year an appropriation which may not exceed .4 of one mill on the assessed valuation of the county, may be made for the maintenance of the hospital.

The anti-tuberculosis workers of St. Louis county took up the matter immediately with the county board, and a tuberculosis commission was appointed to take charge of the work. The full appropriation of $20,000 has been asked, and there is considerable interest in the action of the board tomorrow.

For a time the board showed a disposition to appropriate a sum smaller than allowed, but the enthusiasts have been working among the members of the board and they now have hope of securing the full amount.

The sentiment for a tuberculosis sanitarium in St. Louis county has been on the increase. Some of the most influential people in the county are behind it, and they hope to make their influence felt at the meeting of the board tomorrow. The great good that a sanitarium will undoubtedly do will be placed before the board, and a plea will be made for justice to those who are afflicted with the disease.

Several sites are under consideration by the members of the commission, but no definite decision has been reached, pending the action of the county board. If that action is favorable, as is expected, the commission will immediately start to work and no time will be lost in getting the site selected and the building under construction.

HORSE SHOW AND HIPPODROME SHOW

Will Be Among Attractive Features of the State Fair.

While the grandstand circus and vaudeville program to be given each afternoon and evening of the state fair will attract thousands, as it has heretofore, to the fair, there will be an additional divertisement each evening of Sept. 6 to 11 in the horse show and hippodrome show, in the mammoth live stock amphitheater. This beautiful building of steel and concrete has an area large enough to stage the Barnum & Bailey circus, and still have plenty of room left for the horse races, and has seats for 7,500.

Last year it was used as the scene of the horse show and hippodrome, and it was one of the most successful experiments made at the Minnesota state fair. This year special efforts will be made to increase and strengthen this innovation both by the presence of high school riders and fancy harness horses from all parts of the United States and Canada, and by an elaborate circus program especially suited to the building.

Among the feature acts engaged for this hippodrome will be the Demetri troop of whirlwind riding Cossacks, who are as daring in their way as the most adverturesome cowboys and make their performance more attractive by picturesque costuming.

This horse show and hippodrome program will begin promptly at 8 o'clock in order to have the performance over in time to witness Gregory's matchless fireworks, following the spectacle, "Minnesota at Gettysburg."

"OUT-GENERALING ALDRICH."

Everybody will wish to give President Taft the fullest possible credit for all that he has done in mitigating the ferocious iniquities of the Aldrich schedules. But we shall hope to hear no more of the suggestion, now being made by Republican newspapers, that the president "out-generaled Aldrich" by his influence upon the work of the conference committee.

In the first place, Aldrich was not out-generaled because he foresaw just what happened, and he left schedules in the bill on which the president could work, in the hope that the effect would be one of compromise. He deliberately made his own bill so bad that when the president had induced the conference committee to scale off some of its iniquities, it would seem that real tariff revision had been brought about, when as a matter of fact it was not a revision of the Dingley law that the president was engaged in, but a revision of the Aldrich senate bill.

In the second place, there are 4,000 items in the bill, and the activities of the president were confined to six items out of the 4,000, and none of the six reached the real evils that had given rise to the cry for relief from tariff oppression.

It will be said in the president's behalf that he was limited in his efforts for relief by the fact that the work of the conference committee was confined to the differences between the house schedules and the senate schedules; that the committee could not go above or below the figures fixed in one house or the other, and that it could not touch schedules which neither house had changed.

There should be little heed to that argument in view of the fact that the committee went outside this rule in making the concession on shoes and leather goods to placate the advocates of protection for hides. The president helped do this, and the Republican leaders put through the house a rule permitting it to be done. It was done in the case of shoes and leather goods; IT COULD HAVE BEEN DONE AS EASILY IN THE CASE OF WOOL, LINEN, SUGAR OR ANY OTHER SCHEDULE. But it wasn't done; and therein lies the weakness of the president's case.

It could be done in this one case, and therefore it could have been done just as easily in any other case. Real, tangible relief could have been provided in the same manner on any schedule or on all schedules. Had the conference committee totally disregarded the rule limiting it to the differences between the two houses, it would have been as easy to put a rule through permitting it as it was to put a rule through permitting the violation of the rule in the case of shoes and leather goods.

The president should not have waited until the bill went to conference. He could intervene to save Aldrich from the peril of an income tax law; why couldn't he intervene in time to save the people from the peril of the Aldrich schedules which are becoming laws? He could evade the restricting rule as to conference committee operations in the case of shoes and leather; why couldn't he evade it as to cotton, wool or sugar?

His policy of non-intervention to the contrary notwithstanding, he stepped in to avert the passage of an income tax law, though he held aloof while iniquitous schedules were being framed. The rule restricting the work of the conference committee to the contrary notwithstanding, he brought about lower rates on boots and shoes and leather goods, but he held aloof as to blankets, dresses, clothes, underwear, carpets, and a horde of other necessaries that are grievously taxed.

That's how he "out-generaled Aldrich."

A HUMBLE FACTOR IN PROGRESS.

Every little while one notes some reference to the "split log drag," and some warm compliments upon its efficiency in the making of earth roads; but it doesn't appear that it has come into anywhere near as general use as it should. Perhaps this is because it is too simple. It is hard to make lots of people see that the simple things are often the most efficient, and that the complicated, involved things that attract awe are often bunglesome and breakable and nearly useless.

For instance, the editor of the Milaca Times reports in his newspaper that while he was driving in the country the other day he saw a piece of road so much better than any around it that he stopped and asked the farmer whose land it bordered how it happened. The farmer said that he had made a split log drag and used it freely; that was all. It did such good work that the township insisted on buying it, and now his road isn't quite so good as it was because the drag is in use elsewhere most of the time.

It is ridiculously simple. A good-sized log is split in two, and the halves fastened together by short timbers, one half of the log overlaying the other so as to form a parallelogram with sides a few feet long. The halves are set up on edge, and a team drags the simple contrivance over the road, leveling obstructions, grading it up to the center, and turning a mud road, in time, into an excellent thoroughfare. The government has taken notice of it to the extent of providing a farmers' bulletin, issued by the department of agriculture, describing how to make and how to use it, and anybody can get a copy of it by applying to his congressman.

There are in the United States, according to government figures, about 2,000,000 miles of earth roads. Most of these are wretched, especially in rainy weather. The problem of keeping them in a state of fair efficiency is a big one, and nobody has offered a better solution of it than the split log drag. Of course where roads are macadamized, no drag is necessary; but few communities can afford macadamized roads. At any rate, few communities do afford them, and almost everywhere country roads are of dirt which varies with the local soils. Broadly speaking, most of the year these roads are so bad that the produce hauled over them costs the consumer more than it should, and brings the producer less than he should get, because of the excessive cost of transportation. If all these roads could be made good roads, the saving to the country would amount to more than there would be in a heavy cut in railroad freight rates.

Some years ago a Missouri farmer made one of these drags, and made it a practice to hitch it behind his wagon whenever he went to town, putting something on it to weight it down. In a few months he had a road that was better than most of the rock-bedded kind. It attracted attention, and pretty soon his neighbors began to make split log drags and use them. So far has this reached that the Missouri legislature has proposed to the people a tax levy of half a mill to be apportioned to each county for use in road dragging.

More power to the split log drag. Its cheapness and efficiency promise to bring about an early solution of the problem of making permanently good roads out of plain dirt.

THE MINNESOTA STATE FAIR.

By the way, if you haven't made arrangements for your vacation yet, and if you figure on going away somewhere to take it, you shouldn't overlook the Minnesota state fair, which takes place at Hamline, between the Twin Cities, Sept. 6 to 11, inclusive.

Even if you have had your vacation, or if it isn't your good fortune to get one, you should try to work a day or two out some way, and go down and see what your state can do.

For the Minnesota state fair is the biggest thing of its kind in the country, and this year it is literally bigger and better than ever before. There is no space here to go into the program. It is too long and too varied, and besides its details are being given from time to time in other columns of The Herald. Let it suffice to say at this time and in this place that all the old features will be found in evidence, and that all of them will be improved; that many new ones have been devised and made the best that money and pains could get; in short, that the managers of the fair are never contented with the high water mark of excellence set the year before, but are always seeking to make each new state fair outshine all the old ones.

It is true that there is some grumbling here and there at times about the state fair, and that some members of the legislature from the country make political capital out of it by protesting because it takes money out of the state treasury. But down in his heart every citizen of Minnesota, whether he lives in city or village or on the farm, is proud of the state fair, glad that it is as good as it is, gladder still that it is the best in the country, and gladdest that he lives in a state whose rich resources, profitable industry and indomitable enterprise make such a fair possible.

For in the last analysis the value of the fair lies in the fact that it is an exposition of the resources and wealth and industry of Minnesota. It is great because these factors, which form the foundations of its greatness and of the state's greatness, are great. This is a great state and a rich state, and it is fitting that it should have a great state fair. This is going to be a greater and a richer state, and the fair is going to keep pace with it.

The fair not only tells the world at large what Minnesota has done, can do and will do, but it tells the citizen of Minnesota how the battle is going, and by stirring his pride in past accomplishments stirs also his ambition to excel his own record of achievement.

Go see the fair, and realize what a splendidly rich and thriving and enterprising and industrious and bountiful state you live in.

CITY GARBAGE COLLECTION.

In the first experiment in city garbage collection, now under way in Duluth, the hopeful can see the seeds of a very important development.

If it succeeds—and there is every reason why it should succeed, if properly handled, and none at all why it shouldn't succeed—the time will come when Duluth will have all of its garbage handled by the city. The city will collect it, and the city will dispose of it. The waste will be destroyed, and the riches that exist in the city garbage will be conserved and used. There is more wealth in it than there is waste. The street dust is a valuable fertilizer; soap is made from the fats, and other by-products are aniline dyes, ammonia and acid chemicals. The residue is waste, which is consumed in an incinerator, and in its consumption it is made to generate electric power. Minneapolis lights its large workhouse and several streets in this manner. New York operates several municipal bridges and other works with the power generated from garbage that used to be towed out to sea at great expense, and which is now made profitable.

Much of this, of course, is far in the future. In the meantime the chief object is systematic, regular, cheap and thorough collection of garbage; and none of these qualities have applied to garbage collection under private operation.

So the city has bought an up-to-date garbage wagon and will experiment with it in a limited downtown district. The wagon will not leak filth and vile odors upon the streets, as most of the garbage wagons now in use do. The service will be performed at cost, and that will be cheaper than the rates charged by private collectors. If the experiment is a success, the city will doubtless go ahead and acquire enough wagons to serve the city. There is already an incinerator for the destruction of the garbage, but efforts to conserve the wealth in it will wait upon the completion of a collection system. The experiment will be watched with keenest interest, and it is to be hoped that if it proves successful the city will take advantage from the lesson.

Whatever we may think about the rest of the Aldrich bill, it is clear that the question of a duty on hides is a skin game.

Jim Jeffries' latest action brings up the possibility that even the Wright brothers and Bleriot soon will be forgotten.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective however.)

A BLACK EYE FOR DULUTH.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I am glad to see that one broker has bucked on being used to float one of the many copper propositions that have been unloaded in Duluth during the past few months. L. R. Bellman of Virginia recently advertised that he had nothing to do with the Peerless Larder Lake company which was recently floated, although the company advertised that he would furnish particulars regarding the stock. Evidently the men back of the scheme slipped up here.

Duluth is getting a hard name of late among the investors of the country, because of the many flotations that have been unloaded on the people from Duluth, which were never heard of afterwards. I know nothing of the merits of the company in question, but I could count a dozen stocks that have been thrown into the market with a big burst of fireworks, been boosted for a few days or two or three weeks, and then have sunk into oblivion after the brokers had succeeded in unloading enough stock to insure them some fat commissions. It is time that somebody called a halt on this game. It is giving Duluth a black eye, and range people at least look with suspicion on any copper proposition that is floated in Duluth. I should think that Duluth had been pretty well worked by this time, and that pickings there would be pretty slim, but hardly a week passes that some new flotation is not announced with a great flourish of trumpets.

INHUMANITY TO MAN.

There has been so much written recently about Mrs. Fiske endorsing the protecting of dumb animals. That's all right, but while the horse feels, it has no soul. If all these humane endorsers would strive a little for the betterment of the conditions under which the average man works, especially the sawmill hands, humanity might be bettered and many souls garnered in the heavenly realm. I wonder if Mrs. Fiske or the humane officers ever visited a sawmill and watched the night shift work. One man stands by the conveyor. He must stand on a space not much larger than a dinner plate for ten hours with an hour intermission, working as fast as hands can move for $2. Another man must keep both hands and work foot levers, and at the same time watch the whole crew; every nerve strained to its utmost capacity. The wages are from $1.25 to $2.40, and men are brave enough to marry and raise families on it. Every foot of lumber is full of the life's blood and soul of men, women, and the Humane society start to be humane to humanity. A lot of people will have a fit if a horse pulls two pounds too much up a steep grade, but these same people never consider their servants, whether they be house girls or mill hands. Like Henry George, "I'm for men," while I love horses and like to see them well treated, I have no sympathy with the silly sentiments of putting them in a parlor and playing the piano to them while human beings, who not only feel, but have souls, are working under conditions not fit for a brute. "Man's inhumanity to man makes millions mourn."

The Revolt Against Plutocracy.

New York World: Senators Nelson and Clapp of Minnesota voted against the Aldrich bill and are expected to oppose the conference report. Eight of the nine Republican representatives from Minnesota voted "no" upon the report in the house. Mr. Tawney, who as chairman of the committee on appropriations, is placed in close relations with the engineers of the machine, alone voted "aye," but he is no lover of high tariffs or of the extravagant public expenditure which is their sure accompaniment.

Minnesota nine months ago gave Mr. Taft a plurality of 85,822 upon his personal pledge of an honest tariff revision downward. At the same time it showed its independence by giving the Democratic Governor Johnson 20,178 plurality. Now not only its Republican representatives, who must next year answer at the polls for their conduct, but its senators, whose terms have two and four years to run, with practical unanimity withstand all appeals to party fealty and cast their votes against a Republican tariff.

Such action means unanimous public sentiment; it means popular revolt at the white heat of indignation. It is a political portent worthy of close attention. We doubt if President Taft can consider it with equanimity quite unshaken.

It is not as if Minnesota were alone. Three of the four senators from Iowa and Wisconsin are expected to oppose the report; seven of their twenty representatives have done so. Mr. Cummins is the sponsor of the "Iowa idea;" Mr. Dolliver has heightened his standing as a statesman by his strong speeches against tariff exactions.

If we disregard the grotesque vote of Keifer of Ohio against the conference bill as not protective enough, and the single adverse voice from Illinois; if we take no account of the mounting anger of the "shopping women" in the East; if we ignore the position of the "range senators" in states where electoral vote is small, there remain Wisconsin, Indiana, Kansas, Minnesota, Iowa and the Dakotas, a solid group of Republican Western states where party rebellion seems past control. It was to these states that Governor Johnson spoke yesterday at Seattle when he bade them exercise their "undoubted balance of power, no matter under what name the national administration at Washington exists."

Revolt runs from state to state fast as prairie fire. The West is awake, will it use its power? Can it be any longer cowed or cajoled?

Individuality and Conventionality.

Collins, "The Dead Secret:" There is probably no better proof of the accuracy of that definition of man which describes him as an imitative animal, than is to be found in the fact that the verdict of humanity is always against any individual member of the species who presumes to differ from the rest. A man is one of a flock, and his wool must be of the general color. He must drink when the rest drink, and graze when the rest graze. Let him walk at noonday with perfect composure of countenance and decency of gait, with not the slightest appearance of vacancy in his eyes or wildness in his manner, from one end of Oxford street to the other without his hat, and let every one of the thousands of hat-wearing persons whom he passes be asked separately what they think of him, how many will abstain from deciding instantly that he is mad, on no other evidence than the evidence of his bare head? Nay, more: let him politely stop each of those passengers, and let him explain in the plainest form of words, and in the most intelligible manner, that his head feels more easy and comfortable without a hat than with one, how many of his fellow mortals who decided that he was mad on first meeting him will change their opinion when they part from him after hearing his explanation? In the vast majority of cases the very explanation itself would be accepted as an excellent additional proof that the intellect of the hatless man was indisputably deranged.

Well Equipped.

Success Magazine: A Methodist bishop was recently a guest at the home of a friend who had two charming daughters. One morning the bishop, accompanied by the two young ladies, went out in the hope of catching some trout. An old fisherman, out for the same purpose, wishing to appear friendly, called out:

"Ketchin' many, pard?"

The bishop, drawing himself to his full height, replied, "Brother, I am a fisher of men."

"You've got the right kind o' bait, all right," was the fisherman's rejoinder.

THE WEATHER.

Yesterday was a beautiful summer's day, and this morning broke clear and warm. The weather man looks for more thunder storms tonight, however. Apparently he is making up for the long spell of dry weather Duluth experienced early in July.

The sun rose this morning at 4:52 and will set this afternoon at 7:35, making fourteen hours and forty-three minutes of sunlight.

A year ago today it was fair.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Warm weather continues in most districts south and east of Wyoming and Utah. Disturbances central over the Northwest, Arizona and the Gulf of Mexico caused showers in Western Canada, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas, Utah, New Mexico, the Ohio valley, Tennessee, Gulf and Atlantic states and portions of the lake region during Wednesday or last night. The barometer remains high over the lower St. Lawrence valley and North Pacific districts. Indications favor local thunder storms in St. Louis and Douglas counties during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

The Price of Coal.

Life: On July 1 the small coal dealers are obliged to furnish to the coal trust the names of all the customers on their books who have received coal before that date. This is to prevent any coal being delivered after that date at the "reduced" price. On July 1 the coal dealers are obliged to charge more for the coal than they did on June 30.

The price of a ton of coal on July 1 is worth 25 cents more than it is on June 30.

Why? Because George F. Baer, head of the coal trust, says that it shall be so.

The real price of coal, however, is not a matter of chronology. It is really just as much as George F. Baer thinks he can get for it, without arousing public opinion.

The Root Case in Washington.

Collier's: Milo A. Root was a justice of the supreme court of Washington. In that capacity he filed an opinion in a case in which the plaintiff was a private citizen and the defendant was the Great Northern railway. The opinion which Judge Root filed was written for him by M. J. Gordon, Spokane attorney for the Great Northern railway. Before being filed it was submitted to and approved by W. R. Begg, chief counsel for the railway at St. Paul. This episode, giving a new light on the range of corporate corruption, has aroused the state of Washington; beyond the boundaries of the state it has led the public to look with new care at the relations between corporations and courts. Both these effects are wholesome. But to guard against the possibility of a very cruel kind of injustice, it should be borne in mind that a supreme court is no more a single unit than a legislature is. No more in one case than in the other does proved corruption of one member reflect upon the others. Judge Root's act was individual; his associates on the supreme bench of Washington had nothing to do with it, and it may be safely presumed that they received the shock of discovering judicial iniquity in their associate with surprise and indignation even greater than the public's.

Somebody's Relative.

Newark, N. J., News: Mr. Pippin may survive the shock, but the doctors are making no rash predictions. Mr. Pippin is a colorless little man of 55 years. He has no identity of his own. All his life he has been known as somebody's relative.

First he was Mrs. Pippin's little boy. Then he was Rosie Pippin's brother. Then he became Jennie McGreer's beau. After marriage Jennie kept her maiden name, among her friends, and Pippin as Jennie McGreer's husband. Later he was spoken of in the neighborhood as Tommy Pippin's father, and now he is little Mary Pippin's grandpa.

The other day a ward boss, accompanied by a candidate, drove up to the front door. "Mr. Pippin, meet Mr. Smith," said the boss. "Mr. Smith, Mr. Pippin."

The poor old man is resting easy today, but there is no telling what the effect of such a surprise will be on so delicate a nature as his.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1889.

A local board of the Security Building & Loan Association has been formed at West Duluth with the following officers: President, C. A. Everitt; vice president, J. H. Bowne; secretary, L. L. Aune; treasurer, A. F. Swanstrom; directors, B. F. Neff, R. Crombie and O. L. Roen.

W. W. Scott, the one-armed veteran and ticket agent at the West end depot, is building in Clinton place.

W. L. Haupt or Lisbon, N. D., formerly owner of a sawmill on Rice's Point, which was sold to Little, Simonds & Co., is visiting C. A. Everitt and will probably become a resident of West Duluth.

At a meeting of the Brighton Land company, C. H. Graves, C. Marshall and J. J. Quinn resigned from the board of directors, and William R. Stone, Thomas L. Blood of St. Paul and John F. McLaren of Duluth were elected to fill the vacancies. The other members of the board are George G. Stone and W. C. Sargent. It was decided to clear and plat two additions to be known as East and West Brighton, and they will be put on the market next spring.

The engagement is announced of State Senator A. J. Whiteman of Duluth to Miss Julia Nettleton of St. Paul. The wedding will take place in October. Miss Nettleton is second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Nettleton, who were among the earliest residents of Duluth, but who have for a number of years resided in St. Paul.

E. D. Barcalow, formerly pressman on the Little Falls Democrat, is in the city and expects to take a similar position on the West Duluth Sun.

Miss Mabel Holden is visiting at Lake Minnetonka.

THE TARIFF OUTRAGE.

Chicago Tribune (Rep.): At no point in the revision is there found evidence of a serious purpose to reduce duties in the interest of lower prices. The protective principle has been carefully observed. Many of the duties which prevented importation have been reduced, but there is little likelihood that importations sufficient to affect home prices will result.

There is every reason to believe the trade will take advantage of the increase in the duties on cottons to advance prices. These increases bear especially upon the poorer classes. There was absolutely no justification for the advance of the rates on the cheaper grades of cotton hosiery. No one doubts for a moment that the manufacturers will increase the price of women's and children's hosiery as a result of the heavier duties.

Although the woolen schedule was admittedly iniquitous it has not been changed, except in a few unimportant paragraphs.

The reduction in sugar rates is so inappreciable that it will not be felt by the consumer.

What are particularly interesting to the housewife are the china, glass and glassware paragraphs. The rates with regard to the articles therein are practically not affected.

The farmers of the Middle West will not benefit from the new lumber rates.

The duty on structural steel ready for use has been increased, the reductions in the metal schedules will lead to no large importations.

Louisville Courier-Journal (Dem.): The draft of the tariff bill as agreed upon by the senate and house conferees and as passed by the house is being heralded by his friends as President Taft's triumph.

In a sense it is, though what there is in such a triumph for jubilation is by no means apparent. It is true that through the president's influence the bill came from the conference a better bill than it was when it came from the senate, but after all the ado in making that betterment it lacks so much of being a genuine material revision downward that any contention that it fulfills the promise of the Republican platform as interpreted by the president is provocative more of ridicule than of respect.

He may have saved the halter, but a saved halter and a stolen horse can afford only cold comfort to those who hold up the halter and exult over it as "the president's victory."

New York Sun (Ind.): But will the new measure satisfy the class from whom the demand for "downward revision" has come? That demand has been made by the "ultimate consumer." What will be his verdict on the new schedules a year after they have gone into effect? The answer is not difficult. If there is no reduction in the cost of living his complaints will be renewed and another period of agitation will ensue.

Yet there is no apparent effort on the part of the Democratic party to take advantage of the wonderful opportunity offered to it in this bill. Fertility of its incapacity to act intelligently may be of material aid to the Republican party in the effort that will now be made to heal the wounds inflicted on its organization since congress met in special session.

Lincoln State Journal (Rep.): But regardless of schedules the country is far ahead by the effort at revision. If the back of the tariff combine is not broken by this bill, at least its strength will be sapped by the germs of fact and reason injected by the discussion. The people understand the simple principles applying to the tariff better than ever before. They understand now that while it made little difference to them how high a tariff was in the days when competition regulated prices at home regardless of tariff walls, it makes great difference to them now that in many industries foreign competition, real or potential, is their only protection from extortion. Once an industry might claim protection to any degree on the ground of patriotism. Now the people know that to whatever extent a duty exceeds cost of production here and abroad that duty, in case of a monopolized industry, takes money from their pockets for the sole benefit of the monopoly.

Washington Herald (Ind.): Perhaps the Republican party can safely go to the country on the record it has made. We cannot tell. The public, for some years, has been singularly acquiescent in many things. It may be so now. The Democratic party, we all know, is in no shape to seize the opportunity presented. But, nevertheless, in our opinion, those stalwart Republicans of the house and senate constituting the so-called "insurgents," who fought to the last ditch to redeem the party's pledges, will fare better at the hands of their constituents than the scant and unwilling majority who made the legislation possible. A courageous "nay" will be a bigger asset for them in the next campaign than a reluctant "aye." By serving their country best, they have served their party best. All honor to them!

Kansas City Star (Ind. Rep.): It appears to be the idea of Senator Aldrich and Speaker Cannon that the Republican party is so strong, and has such ineffective political opposition that the party can do anything, and get away with it. There is not much to be said, it is true, for the Democratic party. But it is doubtful whether it is quite as weak and of no account as Republicans of the school of Aldrich and Cannon seem to regard it. Between the exaggerated estimate which these politicians place upon the debility of the Democracy and the puissance of the Republican organization may lie possibilities that will, some fine day, cause the Aldrich-Cannon crowd to rouse up and take notice.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: It spoils all a woman's pleasure in shopping to buy anything.

Knowledge is power to think you know a heap more than you do.

The way to write a good love letter is to be careful not to say anything rational in it.

The only time a man takes much pride in being a pillar of the church is when he is running for a political office.

No matter how long a woman has been married to a man she can keep on expecting that it's going to turn out better.

He Knew the Bad Places.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: A gentleman in an address to a graduating class told the following story of the president of an ocean steamship company, who was taking a journey across the water. When the ship was in a dangerous channel he became engaged with the pilot, an elderly man, who had spent most of his life on the water. The president of the company remarked: "I suppose you know all about the dangerous places in this channel?" "Nope," replied the pilot. "You don't!" exclaimed the president. "Then why are you in charge of that wheel?" "Because I know where the bad places ain't."

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Pine River Sentinel: It is a matter of common knowledge that the voters of Minnesota contain a lot of fellows "from Missouri," but the way they "shoot it into" some candidates for election would lead one to think they might be from Texas.

Owatonna Journal-Chronicle: Men who want to be elected governor by the Republican party seem to be numerous as ever, but in view of the party's experiences during the past few years it looks as though what we Republicans need is a candidate who is not so blamed anxious for the job. Nowadays the voter is getting suspicious of the man who betrays a consuming ambition for so high a position. The people wonder if he wants it badly enough to induce him to make terms with certain powerful influences which the state is trying to get away from politically. What we need is a candidate of the right kind, who has to be clubbed into accepting the nomination, appear to be at least, like our third term Democratic governor.

Madison Independent Press: That little scheme to tax corporations which was brought out to attract the public eye away from the dirty work being done by Aldrich and his crowd in the senate is a joke and no mistake. The people are led to think by it that they are getting something out of the fat ones, but the fat ones know that the supreme court will have a chance to make a guess as to the Constitutionality of the law before they will have to pay a cent under it, and—the supreme court is safe.

Fairmont Sentinel: Thomas D. O'Brien will improve the standard of our state supreme court. Governor Johnson never makes mistakes in his judicial appointments.

Park Rapids Clipper: The growing of small fruit in this section is being made a success by almost every one who studies the conditions, soil, etc., and takes the required care of their plants. It is only a question of time when all the berries the county can consume will be raised at home, and the market calls for many more at fancy prices. Try some.

Ortonville Herald Star: None of the state political writers have yet recorded Ed Young as having accepted the Prohibition nomination for governor.

Fergus Falls Wheelock's Weekly: The Society of Equity is in session at Fargo to fix the price of spring wheat, but the board of trade of Chicago still looks toward Liverpool for the latest quotations.

Perham Enterprise: Who shall decide when judges disagree? A majority of the judges of the Minnesota supreme court have decided that the issuing of $2,250,000 "certificates of indebtedness" for building the new state prison does not conflict with the provision of the Constitution which limits the issuing of bonds by the state to $250,000. Judge Lewis dissents from the majority decision, which, he says, makes the Constitution meaningless. Most of the people of the state will coincide with the opinion of Judge Lewis. The legislature has plunged the state into debt nine times the limit set by the Constitution, and it is of no consequence to the taxpayer, who must ultimately foot the bill, whether the evidences of this debt are called certificates or bonds.

MEANT TO BE FUNNY.

Detroit Free Press: "How long do you expect to remain away this summer?"

"I'm figuring on about three engagements and four proposals."

Judge: Customer—Bring us two hot-dog sandwiches.

Waiter—Certainly, sir. Do you want dachshunds? They're more expensive, but they're long.

Life: Mrs. Baker—How can you afford to pay $5 to join the village card club?

Mrs. Barker—Because then I don't have to pay $5 for the village newspaper.

Cleveland Leader: "What's your trade, old pal?"

"Don't call me old pal! As to your question, I'm a gentleman."

"Oh, I see. On your vacation now, eh?"

Puck: "What in the world have you got that bill framed up there for?"

"Oh, that," sighed the billionaire, "is the only dollar I ever earned!"

Kansas City Journal: "Have you," inquired the city visitor, "a moss-covered bucket about the place?"

"No, sir," answered the farmer. "All our utensils are sterilized and strictly sanitary."

Princeton Tiger: "I got a lickin' fer borrowin' a quarter from Skinny yesterday."

"How's that?"

"Well, I had t' knock him down afore he'd lend it t' me."

Chicago News: Percy—I braced the old man this morning and asked him if he was going to dress me up for the summer.

Freddy—What did he say?

Percy—He gave me a dressing down.

New York Sun: The angel was making up the list. "I never asked my fellow man if it was hot enough for him," remarked Abou Ben Adhem. And lo! his name came in under the wire first.

THE SNEEZES THEY SNEEZE

Some Types of Hay Fever Sufferers Seen In Duluth.

The Iowa Wheeze Is Abroad in the Land Again.

The hay fever sufferers are beginning to arrive, and the wheezing sneeze of the Iowa victim mingles with the shorter, sharper explosion of the native of Indiana, on the streets of Duluth.

There are many types of hay fever. When a man steps on the street, draws in a long breath, gives a long, liquid, effervescent sneeze, which seems to come right from the heart, he is from Iowa.

Several short, explosive sneezes, denote an Indiana man, and when there are just three in quick succession, the victim is from Posey county. Posey county people always have to have some distinguishing mark.

The Illinois man doesn't run much to sneezes. His eyes water quite freely, and his nasal organs show an alarming freedom—one might almost say license.

Then there is the Ohio type, and the Nebraska type, and the Kansas type, but the three principal types known in the hay fever belt are the Iowa, Illinois and Indiana.

An Iowan and a Hoosier got together in the Spalding yesterday and compared notes. The Iowan was working at about six to the minute, but they were long, wholesome sneezes that seemed to mean business. The Indiana man was speeding up at the rate of about thirteen to the minute, but wasn't getting the results that the Iowan was on his slower stroke.

A Herald reporter hoisted an umbrella and drew near.

"It's the d——d golden rod (sneeze) that gets me (sneeze)," the Iowa man was saying.

"I (sneeze) don't mind (sneeze) the golden rod (sneeze)" responded the Indiana man, "but when the hay (sneeze) gets about ready (sneeze) to cut, I have (sneeze) to beat it (sneeze) to beat it (sneeze) for Duluth."

"Let's have a mint (sneeze) freeze," said the Iowa man, wiping his eyes.

"Not on the crayon portrait (sneeze) of your aunt Martha (sneeze). The mint (sneeze) doesn't do a (sneeze) thing to me. But I will (sneeze) take a high ball."

Three quick sneezes in rapid succession.

"Posey county?" (sneeze.)

"Yep. How did you guess?" (sneeze.)

"Those three coming (sneeze) together. They all do it in Posey."

"Ker-choo" exploded the reporter. "You've got me doing that now too." (Ker-choo.)

"Where do you (sneeze) hail from?" inquired the Iowan.

"This is the (sneeze) Duluth brand. It is rare and just acquired," said the reporter.

"You're on" said the Indiana man, "come along with us." (sneeze.)

And the swinging doors swung behind them, while the porter mopped up the floor where they stood.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy Never Known to Fail.

TWO ENGINEERS LOSE LICENSES

Papers Taken From Chief and Assistant of the Kearsarge.

Two more licenses have been revoked by the inspectors of the United States steamboat inspection service of the Eighth district. Those to lose their papers are John Murnan, chief engineer of the steamer Kearsarge, and Richard E. A. Thiele, assistant to the chief on the same boat.

The licenses were revoked by Inspectors Frank W. Van Patten and William A. Collins of Milwaukee, who investigated the case. The cause of the revocation is given as negligence.

Some time ago the steamer Kearsarge was lying at Depot Harbor, and the engineers were cleaning her boilers. One boiler had been blown off, and was again filled with water and a fire started under it. When the second boiler was being blown off, the water was allowed to run out of the first one also, and the fire under it did extensive damage to the boiler, necessitating large repairs. The damage is laid to faliure to close a valve which would have kept the water in the boiler which had been cleaned.

Engineer Thiele has appealed from the decision of the inspectors, and the matter now is in the hands of Supervising Inspector C. H. Westcott of the Eighth district, who has it under advisement. Both men held licenses as chief engineers.

WRECKING CREW IS NOW ON JOB

Detroit Man Gets Contract for Raising the Steamer Cadillac.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 5.—Capt. H. W. Baker of this city left here with the wrecking steamer Snook for the sunken steamer Cadillac, lying on the American bank of the St. Clair river, about an eighth of a mile above Joe Bedore's place at the St. Clair flats. He was given the contract to raise the boat by the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company, her owners, without asking for bids.

A number of divers and a complete wrecking outfit are with the Snook, and Capt. Baker will try to make a quick job of raising the steamer. He will place a patch over the hole on the starboard side of the sunken ship and then pump her out.

Capt. C. H. Sinclair of Detroit, representing the underwriters at the wreck, says the Cadillac is lying stationary, and has not worked her way any deeper into the river bottom. Two-thirds of the hatches are under water on the starboard side aft, while the bow is well out of water. The hatches are battened down and the deadlights and gangways are closed.

If the Cadillac can be patched strongly enough, she will go to Two Rivers, Lake Michigan, and deliver her cargo of coal. Afterward it is probable she will go to Manitowoc, not far from Two Rivers, for repairs.

Reports which are being circulated seem to clear the steamer George L. Craig from blame for sinking the Cadillac. It is said the steel trust steamer Mariposa was passing the Cadillac at the time, and bumped her forward as she passed. This threw the Cadillac across the bows of the Craig, coming down the river, which was unable to avoid striking her. The fact that the Cadillac was struck near the boiler house, and by the anchor of the Craig, is taken to show that every effort was made by the Craig to pass without a collision. The Craig left her starboard anchor in the Cadillac.

The Craig stopped below the city yesterday, and later continued on her way to Lake Erie to unload. She is leaking a little forward, but is not believed to be extensively damaged.

TREASURE MAY BE RECOVERED

Detroit Captain Says the Pewabic Outfit Is Very Complete.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 5.—That the expedition recently organized to recover the treasure of the steamer Pewable, sunk in Lake Huron in 1865, will succeed is the opinion of Capt. H. W. Baker, who has figured more successfully than any other wrecker on the Great Lakes.

"The outfit that has gone to the Pewabic wreck is the greatest ever put together," declares Capt. Baker. "I have seen all kinds of wrecking outfits during my career, but I say that this is the first deep water paraphernalia I would ever pay any attention to.

"The diving apparatus is a wonderful invention. It is fitted out with electric lights so powerful the diver can see at the bottom of the lake as well as if he was in his own shop on dry land. The lights are attached to the breast plate and the suit is so arranged that there are joints to it, and the thing can be taken apart at the elbows, knees or arms. There are a telephone, air compressor, switchboard, steam hoist and a dozen other things that go to make up the outfit.

"There is a clamshell apparatus for lifting barrels or other articles that might fall apart, and fall out of an ordinary lifter. Then there is a sort of a claw which is attached to the hand which can pick up articles as small as a match."

THE BUFFALO COAL SHIPMENTS

The Amount Has Fallen Off Greatly Compared to Last Year.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Coal shipments from the port of Buffalo for the month of July were 445,750 tons, as compared with 695,905 tons for the corresponding period of last year. Total coal shipments from Buffalo thus far this season have amounted to 1,470,337 tons, as against 1,741,017 tons for the same period of last year. The month of July showed the greatest falling off.

Shipments were distributed as follows: To Chicago, 239,770 tons; Duluth-Superior, 79,400 tons; Milwaukee, 53,500 tons; Fort William, 13,800 tons; Racine, 9,800 tons; Port Arthur, 5,500 tons; Sheboygan, 3,700 tons; Ashland, 3,000 tons; Marquette, 2,650 tons; Green Bay, 1,600 tons; Port Colborne, 1,400 tons; Waukegan and Manitowoc each, 1,100 tons; Toledo, 750 tons; Marinette, 600 tons; Port Huron, 550 tons; Byng Inlet and Three Rivers each, 200 tons.

Shipments of other commodities are about on a par with a year ago.

WANT NEW BOARD OF DIRECTORS

American Shipbuilding Company Does Not Declare Dividends Regularly.

New York, Aug. 5.—A movement was launched here yesterday by a number of holders of common stocks, including the Rockefeller interests, it is said, to bring about the election of a new board of directors of the American Shipbuilding company. The failure of the concern to declare dividends regularly, it is alleged, is the cause of complaint. A letter which is being distributed by an attorney representing the common stockholders says:

"Out of total earnings of $16,862,129.63, but $6,456,000 has been distributed among the stockholders, and of this sum only $1,500,000 has been paid to the common stockholders."

At the last meeting of the board, a 4 per cent dividend on the common stock was declared, and this will not be paid out of the last year's earnings, but will be paid quarterly during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1910.

Those who are now protesting assert that there is a surplus of $6,000,000, a sum ample for regular dividends.

THE HIGH RENT PROBLEM SOLVED

Austrian "Dock Wallopers" Live on Dock Near Freight House.

The docks about Duluth have lately been made to look like the great docks of New York by the increased Austrian population.

On the old Northern Pacific dock at the foot of Sixth avenue west there lives day and night, a great crew of men who make their living by unloading the package freighters. Down in New York they are called by the unpleasant name of "river rats." In Duluth they are known to the marine men as "dock wallopers."

Without exception they are Austrians. They work sometimes day and night for two or three days at a time and then lay around the sunny dock for two or three days until another boat reaches port.

They cook their own meals, sleep under the docks on any plank that happens to be wide enough, and through the day they play cards in any shady place they can find.

They rarely come into the business portion of the city, as they wish to watch for the boats, and this can be done best by living near the landing place.

They resent a man of any other nationality getting into their family, and he is at once told that he is not wanted. They smoke their pipes, and seem to be thoroughly satisfied.

There are at least fifty men in the settlement who have solved the high rent problem.

SOME REPAIRS MUST HOLD OVER

All Damage Done By Storm Cannot Be Attended to.

Members of the board of public works spent all of yesterday in a tour of the city, inspecting the damage done by the cloudburst and making estimates of the cost of repairing the damage.

Some of the damage done had already been repaired and the board arranged for work upon other spots in need of immediate attention. It will be impossible, however, with the amount of money now at the disposal of the board or with the time in which to do it, to repair all of the damage done by the big storm this summer.

The sum of $25,000 is now at the disposal of the board and with this amount, the city will be able to repair the sewage system and make sufficient repairs upon the streets to permit traffic and protect trees, and other property. The rest of the repair work will have to go over until next year.

Upper Lake, Ninth and Fifteenth avenues east were so completely torn up by the storm that it is possible at this time for the board to repair them only enough to permit of light traffic.

The inspection trip by the board of public works yesterday showed that an enormous amount of filling has to be done, in many instances the roots of trees being laid bare. These will be protected at once to save the lives of the trees.

GUILLOTINE USED AGAIN

Paris Crowds Flock to See Beheading of Parricide.

Renewal of Old Form of Punishment Causes Sensation.

Paris, Aug. 5.—A sudden official announcement that a public beheading would take place at 4:30 o'clock this morning in the boulevard fronting the Sante prison, created a sensation in Paris, which had not seen an execution in fifteen years. Immediately immense crowds gathered at the scene, but were kept back from the guillotine by heavy details of police and municipal guards. Parisian sentiment long has been opposed to public executions, for in the past they were accompanied by scandalous scenes of revelry.

Despite this sentiment, parliament refused to abolish the death penalty in France, and in view of the revolting crime of the man executed this morning President Falliores refused to commute his sentence to life imprisonment. The victim was one Duchemin, aged 23, a butcher. In 1903 he stabbed his mother, and this not resulting in her death quick enough, he finished her by strangulation. The motive for the crime was robbery.

Crowds Kept at Distance.

The crowds were unable to get within two blocks of the guillotine, which was erected beneath the trees beside the prison wall. There were some jeers as the closed wagon containing the condemned man left the prison yard by a side street and then drove up the boulevard 200 yards to the guillotine. The only spectators of the execution were a number of officials and a large crowd of journalists.

As the trembling wretch stepped out of the wagon, following a priest who was holding a crucifix before him, it was seen that, according to the law dealing with parricides, he was barefooted and his head covered with a transparent black veiling while a cape of crude material but half concealed his naked chest.

Before the onlookers had time to express their wonderment at this strange and disconcerting garb, which gave one the impression that the victim was a woman and not a man, the flowing veiling fell from the head, the cape from the shoulders and the victim was seized and thrown under the knife. In a flash all was over and the crowds dispersed without disorder.

DIRECTORY OF AMUSEMENTS

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

LYCEUM—Jay Quigley Players in "The Unwritten Law."

Miss Maud Leone.

Another merry battle over the golden apple of beauty's favor was waged in the early winter at San Francisco where Miss Maude Leone was playing and where she had a most enthusiastic following. The other contestant was Miss Edna Goodrich, a noted stage beauty, also noted as the wife of Nat C. Goodwin. The rivalry was most good natured of course but—where, asked Miss Leone's enthusiastic friends could you ever find such speaking eyes of brown, such glorious hair, such bewitching ways, so charming a manner and what goes to make up a thoroughly fascinating woman but just such charms?

There were things to be said on the other side, too, of course. But the moderns have learned wisdom from the ancients and there was no bestowal of the apple to the greatest beauty and the "contest" sort of petered out, with both sides claiming victory.

Miss Leone is in the city resting for a short time before the opening of her Duluth engagement, and she will be seen in all the glory of her speaking eyes of brown, glorious hair of auburn, delightful complexion, bewitching ways and charming manner as well as a wardrobe of stunning clothes in the Mack-Leone success "Madam Satan" all of next week at the Lyceum.

"The Unwritten Law."

When Jay Quigley leaves early next week for Chicago to prepare for the regular season's work, he will leave many personal friends in Duluth as well as many unknown admirers for in his efforts in the city during the summer he has shown a seriousness and conscientious loyalty to a high standard of acting, that has been appreciated by many. Each character that he has assumed he has made a living, real, person. As Cyrus Blenkens, as Uncle Nat in Shore Acres as Kleschna in "Leah Kleschna," and in quite a different line as Carroway Bones in last week's farce comedy, he has been a delight. This week Mr. Quigley is appearing as Hamish an old scottish servant and as usual he makes his effort count for much. "The Unwritten Law" will be given tonight, tomorrow, and Saturday nights with a Saturday matinee, the last for the season by the Jay Quigley Players.

Cholera Infantum Cured.

"Something like two years ago my baby, which was then about a year old, was taken seriously ill with cholera Infantum, vomiting and purging profusely, writes J. F. Dempsey of Dempsey, Ala. I did what I could to relieve her but did her no good, and being very much alarmed about her went for a physician, but failed to find one, so came back by Elder Bros. & Carter's store and Mr. Elder recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea remedy. I procured a bottle of it, went home as quickly as possible and gave the baby a dose of the remedy. It relieved her in fifteen minutes and soon cured her entirely." For sale by all druggists.

VESSEL FLYING AMERICAN FLAG SEIZED OFF AFRICA.

Washington, Aug. 5.—In a cablegram dated Aug. 4, Charles Page Bryan, American minister to Portugal, has informed the state department of the seizure at Quissanga Angola, Portuguese West Africa, of a small cutter flying the American flag, but bearing no papers. The master of the vessel and one sailor have been sent to Loanda.

The minister states that the master of the vessel is charged with diamond robbery in the neighboring German colony. The men were, it is believed, within the consular jurisdiction of the American consul general at Gona Congo, William W. Handley.

New Minister to Guatemala.

Washington, Aug. 5.—In executive session yesterday the senate confirmed the nomination of William F. Sanders of the District of Columbia to be minister to Guatemala. Mr. Sanders is now secretary of the embassy at City of Mexico, and his promotion effected various promotions of secretaries of legations, most of which were confirmed.

Whoever Gets Your Milk Trade Make Him Win It

Don't take a milk because somebody says: "This is as good as Van Camp's." If you do, what encouragement have we for making a milk so good?

Holstein cows cost more than mongrel cows. But the difference fully shows in the milk.

Thick milk, with two-thirds the water evaporated, is costlier to the maker than thin milk.

And sugar costs less than evaporated milk. So condensed milk, which is nearly half sugar, is what the maker likes to sell.

If you will take inferior milks, and pay the price of Van Camp's, there are plenty to sell them to you.

But what then do we gain by spending so much to give you the best that we can?

Whole, Rich Milk

Van Camp's gives to milk dishes a richness and flavor which you never can get from raw milk.

The reason is that milkman's milk separates—before and after you get it. The butter fat rises and the solids fall. The raw milk used for cooking, usually, is hardly more than a half-milk.

Van Camp's has all the solids, all the fats that belong to the richest milk. When you once compare it with raw milk in cooking, you will find the difference amazing.

Our Holstein Cows

We milk 25,000 cows daily, and buy none but the Holstein breed. These robust, contented cows possess tremendous vitality which is conveyed to their milk.

There is a vast difference between milk like this and milk from mongrel cows.

The fresh milk from the cow is placed in a vacuum. And a moderate heat, because of that vacuum, throws off the water in steam.

Thus we remove two-thirds of the water to reduce the bulk. The milk that results is as thick as thick cream.

That is all we do. Nothing whatever is added, and nothing but water subtracted.

A Germless Milk

We have no tubercular cows, and no diseased milkmen. For cows and men are frequently inspected.

Our dairies are sanitary in the extreme. Our evaporating plants are built without wood.

Every can of Van Camp's is sterilized after the can is sealed. So germ development is utterly out of the question.

So much of raw milk contains disease germs that every authority warns people against it. In Van Camp's, there are no germs at all.

The slight almond flavor, apparent when we drink Van Camp's milk cold, is due to the heat applied in sterilization.

Its Immense Economy

You would think that such milk would cost more than the common. But the cost, on the basis of raw milk, is about six cents per quart.

A full pint of Van Camp's costs 10 cents by the can, and less if you buy by the case. That is enough to make three pints of rich milk, if you wish to put back all the water.

Van Camp's is cheaper than raw milk—cheaper than the poorest milkman's milk. For the cost of raw milk is doubled by the cost of daily delivery.

Then you have no waste—no milk left over. You open a can when you want it, and it keeps till you use it up. That means a considerable additional saving.

A case of Van Camp's lasts a month or more. Then you have rich milk or cream—little or much—ready whenever you want it.

Not Like Others

A great deal of milk sold in cans is condensed milk, of which 40 per cent is sugar.

Sugar was formerly used to preserve milk—before the days of sterilization. It is not needed now, so you waste what you pay for it.

Condensed milk, because of the sugar, is unfitted for cooking. It is unnatural, extravagant and out-of-date milk.

There are also evaporated milks, unsweetened, which are very unlike Van Camp's.

Ours is Holstein milk, from cows of the finest breed. And the milk is reduced until it is 28 per cent solids—8 per cent butter fat.

Common milk, not so greatly reduced, may be said to be as good as Van Camp's. But a test will show that it isn't.

The superiority of Van Camp's is so generally known that people now use 100,000,000 cans annually.

The 16-oz. can of Van Camp's sells for 10 cents; the 6-oz. can for 5 cents. So you get one-third more for your money in buying the larger cans. Grocers give discounts on cases. The milk is produced at our dairies, located in six states.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: August 8. 1 Thess., v, 12-24. Paul's Instructions to the Thessalonians.

By Rev. J. S. Kirtley, D. D.

THE CONNECTION.

While Paul was working at Corinth, he began his career as a letter writer. He had sent Timothy back to Thessalonica, who reported the situation on his return. The report pleased Paul in most particulars, but several things distressed him. He was delighted at their joyous zeal, and their missionary activity. He learned with sorrow, however, that they were speculating on the speedy coming of Christ, and wondering what would become of their Christian friends who had died. Would they have an equal advantage with those who should still be alive? They also thought that, as Christ would soon come again, they need not work. So they spent their time going about and gossiping. Much harm resulted. This letter was written to correct these errors and encourage them to sober, consecrated, intelligent living.

THE LESSON.

I.

Social Duties. 12-15.

"But we beseech you, brethren, to know them that labor among you, and are over you in the Lord, and admonish you; and to esteem them exceeding highly in love for their work's sake. Be at peace among yourselves. And we exhort you, brethren, admonish the disorderly, encourage the faint-hearted, support the weak, be long-suffering toward all."

Though the Thessalonians were Christians of only a few months' standing, he makes their duties clear and imperative. Though he does not command, he exhorts them, calls them to his side, so to say, and tells them their duty in a way that has resistless force. Each one is included and is informed of duties to every other one. We will let him specify.

1. Fidelity to the disorderly. Those who quit work because they thought Christ would soon come became busy bodies. They were disorderly, like soldiers who do not stay in the ranks and keep step. Brotherly love must not gush over them and shut the eye to their sins, but must point out the wrong of it and firmly, yet kindly, help them back into the ranks.

2. They owe a duty to the opposite class—to those who are not so self-willed as to disregard God's arrangements and break out of the ranks, but have so poor an opinion of themselves that they don't believe they can do anything, and don't have heart to try any more. To be harsh with them is to make them more hopeless still. To tell them they can do something in the name and strength of Christ is to encourage them. This is duty. Many people are half-hearted, who can be made whole-hearted with proper appreciation and encouragement.

3. Weak people were in the church, weak in natural endowments or in spiritual gifts, and they could be made strong by the right support. If they are disregarded, they remain weak and grow weaker; if they are supported in their attempts, they take on the strength of him who supports them, and are helped into strength. To support means to hold up.

4. Toward all men, good and bad, in the church and out of it, one state of mind is to be maintained steadily—long suffering. That spirit waits for final information before condemning anyone, and even after knowing his demerits is kindly and merciful, though it may admonish and exhort.

5. There must be no vindictiveness toward any one. To render evil for evil does not destroy the evil, but adds to it. Private revenge is entirely prohibited, because it is wrong in itself, and because God says He will take care of all that for us. "Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord." This is a law of universal sweep.

6. The life must be made a positive service to all men. We must not only not return evil upon any one, but must pursue a man with good, according to our ability and opportunity, whether the man is good or bad, a friend or an enemy, in the church or out of it. This pursuit of goodness for all who may be benefited by it, is to become the passion of the Christian soul, like the fondness of a hunter for his game.

II.

Inner Experiences 16-22.

"See that none render unto any one evil for evil; but always follow after that which is good, one toward another, and toward all. Rejoice always; pray without ceasing; in everything give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus to you-ward. Quench not the spirit; despise not prophesyings; prove all things; hold fast that which is good; abstain from every form of evil."

Seven injunctions for their private lives are given:

1. They are to maintain Christian joy steadily. It may be independent of circumstances, because it comes from God, is appropriated through faith in Jesus, and may be fed by doing God's will in bringing souls into salvation, just as Jesus had that joy in all his sufferings.

2. They are to be in constant communication with the source of supplies, through prayer. Without prayer joy cannot be sustained.

3. Thanksgiving must go along with prayer. One can give thanks in everything, though possibly not for everything. In every condition of experience, there is something for which one may thank God. If one is not thankful for what God has already given, he is not in a state of mind to receive further blessings. These three—joy, prayer and thanksgiving—are all urged on them by the special reason that it is God's will for them, made known and effectual in Christ.

4. It is possible to quench the power of the Holy Spirit. He is like fire. Fire may be quenched by pouring on water or excluding the air; the Spirit's power may be quenched when we do not rely on Him, nor follow out the impulses He imparts, or when we are impure and willful and worldly.

5. The messages of God through His people are propheceies. These may be treated lightly and despised, when the disciples are more interested in miracles and speaking with tongues and do not want to be governed by such messages. God's people must always be ready to listen to such instruction.

6. All messages are to be sifted to learn if they are really from God. All spirits are to be tested to see if they are from God. Faith is not credulity. It tests all things to see what is truth. It holds fast to what is proven good. To discard evil is good, but only a negative goodness. To hold the good is positiveness in itself and in its effects. We test in order to hold or discard.

7. A clean sweep is to be made of every form of evil. It is not "every appearance," but "every form of evil." A person may abstain from one evil and feel so proud of himself that he will indulge in another as a concession to his virtue. But every kind of evil is to be repudiated—of deed, word and thought.

III.

His Benediction. 23, 24.

"And the God of peace himself sanctify you wholly; and may your spirit and soul and body be preserved entire, without blame at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. Faithful is He that calleth you, who will also do it."

The blessing of God is invoked upon them. That is a two-fold blessing.

1. Peace, in their individual souls, a calm, deep peace, such as can only come from the God of peace. He gives it by imparting it from His own nature, and by so adjusting us to our duties and surroundings that we shall preserve and increase it.

2. A growing goodness which we call sanctification. If God dwells with them, giving them peace with Himself and within, they will grow Godlike. This sanctification is a growth into holiness, and is a preservation of the inner man, the "soul and spirit," and of the outer man, the "body." It will be a preservation of reputation as well as character, for they will be "blameless," both before the bar of God and of man. It will be an effectual and perpetual preservation, for all their days, till Christ comes to take them home. They were steadily looking for that coming of Christ, and some of them were so unstead ed by the intoxicating thought that they were not blameless. These men have been now told how God will keep and sanctify them. This preserving is a perfect thing, and we may perfectly yield to it, yet our imperfect natures require a long time, with many failures and pains and tears, to reach perfection.

All of this Paul grounds on the fidelity of God to all His promises and undertakings. He has called us for the purpose of making us holy, and He will not grow weary of His task, nor does He call us to undertake impracticable things.

Three special injunctions of a very urgent nature follow.

1—That they pray for him. Though one of the greatest men that ever lived, he feels the need of Christian sympathy, of the help of God which may be given in answer to prayer, and of their co-operation in his work.

2—That they bestow upon each other all Christian affection and courtesy. This was symbolized by the "holy kiss" which was usually bestowed at the communion ordinance. Men kissed men; women kissed women. That symbol of fellowship has fallen into some disuse, and the handshake takes its place.

3—That they read this letter to all of the Christians at Thessalonica. All of them needed it, both officers and privates, the most pious and the most worldly, the most active and the most indifferent.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

And the tighter our grip of the good, the more shall we refrain from touching any kind of evil. A mere negative abstinence is but a colorless, bloodless kind of excellence, were it possible, without a cleaving clasp of the good.—Maclaren.

I've had my share of life's pleasures, and want to testify as to which is the sweetest of them all. It's "putting heart" into people who have lost it. The saddest sight that nature holds up to God is a boy or girl who has "lost heart." Poor, dispirited, hopeless little folks! What can any one do without "heart?" Not to be able to put your "heart" into a task is to be certain of failure. It is almost as fatal to be only "half-hearted." But how terrible to lose heart entirely! And yet in every group of children you are liable to find some timid, shrinking creature who has already lost the "courage of life." How beautiful it is to "hearten him up"—to breathe hope into his empty spirit! And how easy it is—often.—Goss.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1. Can one always maintain a constructive attitude toward people and how?
2. What difference is there between revenge and self defense?
3. Why does God allow self-defense but not revenge?
4. Why are we not able to do our whole duty by others without praying for them?
5. Is it a right aim to do for others just what Jesus is doing for them?
6. How can we widen the prayer circle without neglecting part of the prayer territory?

ROOSEVELT LAYS STONE FOR MISSION BUILDING.

Kijabe, British East Africa, Aug. 5.—Theodore Roosevelt and his son Kermit arrived here yesterday afternoon from Nairobi. The former president performed the ceremony of laying the corner stone of the new mission church and a school for white children. Mr. Roosevelt said in part:

"It is the duty of the leading race to help to higher planes of education those who are backward. The work of the missionaries in this respect is most important. I am particularly pleased with what you are doing by your schools for the children of the settlers in this country."

After the ceremony Mr. Roosevelt and his son went by train to Naivasha, where they at once went to camp.

GREAT MEN AND BEER BREWING

WHENEVER this great nation needed the assistance and personal services of strong, patriotic men to further the cause of liberty and humanity or to repulse invasions and oppressions, the brewers and their friends were among the first to respond.

History tells us that many of the best men of their time were connected with the business, such as Wm. Penn, who caused the erection of the first brewery in Pennsylvania, or Samuel Adams, the acknowledged father of the Revolution, who managed his father's brewery at Boston, or Patrick Henry, the jovial host of Williamsburg, Va., who made the famous speech: "Give me liberty or give me death." And the immortal Lincoln, when accused by his rival, the great Douglas, in one of their famous debates, of being engaged in the traffic, turned the tables by saying: "The difference between Douglas and me was that I was doing the selling and he was doing the drinking."

Surely the brewers and their friends have always been foremost in promoting public welfare, and according to Andrew D. White, the great statesman, they have done more for real temperance than their fanatic opponents can ever do.

WOMEN HELP ONE FARMER

Lack of Male Help Becoming Critical in North Dakota.

Grand Forks Commercial Club Co-operating With the Railroads.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The northern part of North Dakota and northeastern Montana, are in need of from 15,000 to 20,000 men according to the estimate of local officials and of the Commercial club to care for the rapidly ripening grain, and the men must be on the ground early as the fields are fast approaching the stage where the harvest work will be general.

Already the barley and oat harvest has started. The wheat acreage is the largest the state has ever had, and the average yield will be heavier than ever before. Western North Dakota and northeastern Montana, territories which have heretofore not been in the wheat growing belt, this year will produce a large amount of grain, and this means that additional men will be needed.

"The harvest hand situation in the state this year is a very serious one," said C. S. Taylor, a local passenger agent, who has taken the matter in charge for the northern part of the state. "We are securing, as rapidly as possible, figures on the number of men that are needed in the various localities and as the men come to Grand Forks we will be able to distribute them intelligently over the state and thus give each section just the amount of help needed to save the crop."

Commercial Club Active.

The Grand Forks Commercial club is in communication with practically every city or town in the northern section of the state, securing statistics as to the men needed, wages, etc. Every day these statistics will be given to the local railroad officials and the men arriving here will be distributed in accordance with the demand. Many harvest hands buy their tickets to Grand Forks, depending upon the local officials to give them information as to where to seek employment, and this information will hereafter be given them.

At Ardoch this week the help problem became so serious with one farmer that he had three women engaged in assisting him in the work. This, however, is an extreme case, and will doubtless be relieved if the call for help, that has gone forth over the land, is heeded.

The hot weather of this week is bringing the crops to the point of being ripe at a remarkable rate. Rains, at the close of Monday's and Wednesday's hot spells, helped the situation a little, and had it not been for the fall of moisture damage by blight would have been certain.

MINE SHAFT HAS GIVEN UP DEAD

Body of Missing Boy Found After Mine Was Pumped Out.

Houghton, Mich., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fears of the parents of Mike Pakilnk, the 14-year-old boy who dissappeared about a month ago, that he had fallen into the abandoned shaft of the Isle Royale mine and been drowned in about 100 feet of water in the bottom of the shaft, proved true last night when the body was recovered after pumping out the shaft.

When the boy was last seen alive he was walking towards the Isle Royale mine, accompanied by his dog. The dog's body and the boy's cap were found floating on the top of the water of the shaft when search was made for the missing youth. This naturally led to the awful supposition that the boy had fallen into the shaft and had been drowned.

Repeated efforts at dragging for the body proving unavailing, the mining company magnanimously agreed to pump out the mine, at considerable cost, to relieve the anxiety of the agonized parents of young Paklink. The pumps have been working steadily for two weeks. The bottom of the shaft was reached last night and men going down came across the body of the missing boy.

JEALOUS MASTIFF BRUTE BITES A BOY.

Houghton, Mich., Aug. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Presumably jealous because of attentions bestowed upon a small puppy, a huge mastiff sprang upon Eldred Robbins, aged 4 years, who was playing with the smaller dog, and chewed his face up. The boy had a narrow escape from death.

DIGGING AFTER MINER.

He Is Entombed in Eureka Mine and Is Still Alive.

Bessemer, Mich., Aug. 5.—Signaling by means of a water pipe from the 900-foot level of the Eureka mine at Ramsey three miles west of where he was caught yesterday by a fall of earth, John Johnson, a miner, is known to be alive and desperate efforts are being made to reach him. Johnson replies to tappings on the pipe and, occasionally, as though in fear he will be deserted, he raps vigorously on the metal connecting him with the outside.

Nick Nicklas is buried in the cave in with Johnson and as nothing can be heard from the part of the mine in which he was at work it is feared he is dead. Six miners were caught by the fall of ground, but four were soon taken out and were not badly hurt.

COMES TO MINNESOTA.

Manistique Minister to Become North Star State Evangelist.

Manistique, Mich., Aug. 5.—Rev. Mr. Antonsen of the Swedish Baptist church here has resigned his pastorate and the resignation has been regretfully accepted by his congregation.

He took this step in order to accept the responsible position of state evangelist of Minnesota. He will leave the city early in October. His headquarters will be at Minneapolis.

Mr. Antonsen is one of the foremost ministers of the Swedish Baptist denomination, and within the past few months has received several urgent calls to fill places of responsibility in various states, among which was that of state evangelist of Colorado. He has materially increased the membership of the congregation at Manistique and chiefly through his efforts and personal solicitation, it was made possible for the parish to remodel its church edifice and make it the most commodious as well as one of the most beautiful houses of worship in the city.

COUNTY FAIR IS IN FULL SWING

Red Lake County Show on at Thief River Falls.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Red Lake county fair opened yesterday and promised to eclipse all former fairs in this county in point of attendance, as well as in the extent of the stock and produce exhibits and the variety and value of the amusement and race features arranged for.

Many pacing and trotting horses occupy stalls on the fair grounds and are taking part in the races. Cash prizes of from $200 to $300 are offered in the fastest classes. After completing the races in this place the horses will be taken to Winnipeg to continue racing there, this fair society being a member of the Fargo-Winnipeg Racing association.

The famous dairy herd belonging to the Carlson brothers of Erskine are on the grounds. This famous group of cattle won the $400 prize offered in 1908 by James J. Hill for the best dairy herd in Northern Minnesota, and among them is "Lassie," the champion butter fat producer of the state last year. These cattle are entered merely for the purpose of showing how a herd of common or scrub stock can be raised in value and efficiency as butter fat producers by wise and scientific breeding and feeding.

The streets of the city are pretty much given over to a Chicago amusement company, which which is much superior to the average concern of like character. One of the interesting features furnished by this company is a balloon ascension by a man and a lion and a parachute descent by each in turn.

All Who Would Enjoy

good health, with its blessings, must understand, quite clearly, that it involves the question of right living with all the term implies. With proper knowledge of what is best, each hour of recreation, of enjoyment, of contemplation and of effort may be made to contribute to living aright. Then the use of medicines may be dispensed with to advantage, but under ordinary conditions in many instances a simple, wholesome remedy may be invaluable if taken at the proper time and the California Fig Syrup Co. holds that it is alike important to present the subject truthfully and to supply the one perfect laxative to those desiring it.

Consequently, the Company's Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna gives general satisfaction. To get its beneficial effects buy the genuine, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and for sale by all leading druggists.

FAINTS, FALLS INTO BONFIRE

Tragic Fate of Edward Felton of Eau Claire, Wis.

Eau Claire, Wis., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. and Mrs. Felton of this city who have been living in Cloquet, Minn., this summer where Mr. Felton is employed, have been called from the Minnesota city on a sad mission, the injury and death of their 18-year-old son Edward who had been working in a sawmill at Tomahawk.

Edward was at the mill on Sunday, where a bonfire had been started in the evening and in some way the young man fainted and fell in this fire receiving severe injuries. He lived, however, for some time, and was taken to a hospital at Tomahawk. His parents hurried from Cloquet, Minn., to his bedside, and reached there before the end came Tuesday. The injuries received by young Felton were not considered very serious until Monday evening. His death came Tuesday evening at the Tomahawk hospital. The remains were brought to Eau Claire. He was the only surviving child, the family having lost a daughter a few years ago.

DR. CLEMANS' FAREWELL.

District Superintendent to Bid Good-Bye to Aitkin Conference.

Aitkin, Minn., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. E. C. Clemans, district superintendent of the Methodist church, will make his final visit here in that capacity when he conducts the fourth quarterly conference Saturday evening and preaches the morning sermon on Sunday. The conference being the closing one of the year will be an important one for the church, and Rev. A. L. Richardson, pastor, is desirous of having a full attendance.

That Dr. Clemans' sermon will call out a capacity congregation on Sunday morning is conceded. Having been in this district for six years, the full time allowed by the rules of the church, he will be placed elsewhere after the fall conference.

HOYT NOT A DESERTER.

St. Cloud Man Voluntarily Returned to Fort Snelling.

St. Cloud, Minn., Aug 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Clarke A. Hoyt of St. Cloud who has been listed in every police station in this section of the country as a deserter from the United States army and for whom a reward of $50 has been offered by the government authorities is not a deserter.

Voluntarily he returned to Fort Snelling on July 12, nine days after leaving the post, surrendered himself to the authorities and will be tried on a charge of absenting himself from his company without leave. In advertising the young man as a deserter so widely a great wrong has been done him and his mother, Mrs. Fred N. Victor of this city.

Hoyt left the fort on July 3 with the intention of deserting army life and making a home for himself in the Northwest. He came to this city to visit his mother, who was horrified at the imminent danger he had placed himself by his rash action, and who pleaded with him to return to his duty. After spending four days in this city and five in Brainerd as the guest of his brother, Hoyt for the sake of his mother surrendered to the officers at the fort.

R. organization and was very highly regarded by all, being a man of cheerful disposition and pleasing manner. The funeral was held from the Methodist church Tuesday morning under the auspices of the Grand Army.

ATTACHING OF GOODS DISCLOSES BIG THEFT.

Minot, N. D., Aug 5.—One hundred and seven dollars worth of valuable rugs, belonging to the New York store, two sofa pillows, the property of a Mrs. Fuller, and other small articles were found in two large boxes that were attached at the Great Northern station by anxious creditors of Ed Mender, a former Great Northern employe who is now in Washington. The rugs were stolen some time ago, but the robbery was suppressed, as no trace had been found of the goods.

The remainder of the shipment, which consists of two chairs and some household goods, will be sold to satisfy the claims.

A warrant was issued for Mender, who is now at Spokane.

DROWNS NEAR McKENZIE.

Taken With Cramps North Dakota Boy Perishes in Reservoir.

McKenzie, N. D., Aug. 5.—While bathing at the reservoir about a mile from here, Frank Wilton, son of Will Wilton, was drowned.

The young man was in swimming with several companions and attempted to cross the pond when he was taken with cramps about half way across and sank to the bottom before aid could reach him, although the rest of the boys went immediately to his rescue as soon as it was discovered that he was in danger.

Ropes and boats were taken to the reservoir but just as the apparatus for dragging reached the scene of the accident Frank Barner found the body in about eight feet of water.

Sox Take Game From Superior By a 3 to 1 Score.

Duluth celebrated its return to its own little ball yard yesterday by taking the Drillers into camp by the score of 3 to 1. The score should have been much larger on the Duluth side than it was. Superior should not have scored. But as we won, and in the end it is the number of games we win that count and not the size of the scores, there really is not a very large kick coming.

For some reason or other the team is not playing the game that it was playing before it left for the last road trip. The pep isn't there and the members of the team are not hitting the ball. With the kind of baseball that the team was playing before the trip, Superior would have been smothered yesterday. The Sox need another pitcher and another outfielder, and until these men are added to the team it looks as if there will be little chance to win the pennant.

The Sox began to score early yesterday. After Taylor was down in the second frame, Mueller hit for one. Marion followed his battery partner with a clean single. Nelson got his second hit, advancing Mueller to third and Marion to second. With O'Brien at bat the Count stole home, Drill dropping the throw. O'Brien walked, but Marion was thrown out at the plate on Breen's fielder's choice and McLaughlin forced Breen at second.

After Kohl and Zackert were down in the third Taylor got on through Bancroft's slipup on his ground hit. Mueller singled, sending Taylor to second, and he came home on Marion's long single. Mueller attempted to come home on the hit, but was called out at the plate on a decision that looked bad from the stand.

Duluth's third run came in the eighth. After Kohl had struck out Zackert hit the sphere over the left field fence for all the bases in the park. Taylor singled, but was doubled, Shaub to Bancroft to McCulloch, when Mueller flew to left.

Superior scored its lonely run in the fifth. Holstrom led off with one that was good for two bases. Drill struck out for the second time of the game, but Count Mueller dropped the third strike, Holstrom advancing to third on the throw to McLaughlin. Mac threw to third to catch Holstrom, Breen dropping the heave and then throwing wild to Mueller when the Superior right fielder tore for home.

The Drillers were never very threatening, as Marion was pitching gilt-edged ball. The Sox will journey to Superior this afternoon and play the concluding game of the present series.

Below you will find a silver-lining to the dark cloud that has been hanging over the baseball atmosphere:

THAT WHITEHEAD GARDNER BOUT

Fistic Argument Will Be Staged at Calumet This Month.

Walter Whitehead and George Gardner will meet in the squared ring at Calumet during the firemen's tournament, which takes place in that city Aug. 17 to 22. The Schreck fight has been postponed and will probably not take place before fall.

John T. Dunn, the Calumet fight promoter, says that Gardner is in training at Garden Bay, a few miles from Escanaba, and that he is in much better condition than many would believe. Mr. Dunn says the fight will be no cinch either way, and those who have seen Gardner work look for an interesting argument.

John Willie of Chicago will attend the match and challenge the winner.

TED WAS NOT IMPRESSED

Sullivan Sees No Phenoms on Either Duluth or Superior Team.

Mrs. Addie Joss and Mrs. George Stovall Witness Contests.

Charley Comiskey's veteran baseball scout, Ted Sullivan was one of the most interested of the spectators at the game between Duluth and Superior at Athletic park yesterday afternoon. He stopped off in Duluth while on his way to Rainy River where he hopes to spend about two weeks fishing.

Mr. Sullivan says that while there are all the time coming to the Chicago management, reports of young phenoms from all parts of the country, the fact remains that there are very few that really have the goods. He says that a pitcher these days has to go right in and make good at once, or he is not wanted. The big teams have very little time to ripen pitchers.

Mr. Sullivan says that Comiskey has lines on more than fifteen promising young pitchers. Many of them have been given a trial and farmed out to some club to ripen a bit before breaking into the faster baseball.

He did not say that the playing of any of the players on either side in yesterday's game impressed him as anything out of the ordinary. He did not stay the game out.

There were also present at the game yesterday the wives of two famous baseball players. They were Mrs. Addie Joss and Mrs. George Stovall. The two women are making a trip on the lakes and could not resist the opportunity of seeing a ball game while in the city. They came up on the steamer Francis P. Widlar.

Eastern Men Enter Exposition Event at the Last Minute.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 5.—W. M. Inglis, director of athletics at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition, received last night a telegram from Barlow S. Weeks, chairman of the national championship committee of the Amateur Athletic association, making entry for a number of star athletes for the meet to be held in the exposition stadium Aug. 13 and 14. Two noted men are coming who had not been expected—Lee Talbott, the Cornell weight man, and B. F. Sherman of Boston, also in the weight class.

Erickson, high jumper, has been entered by the Mott Haven A. C.

The New York A. C. sends word that the following men will compete: Dearborn, pole vaulter; Gising, who won the junior championship half mile last year; McEmlee and Bellars, runners; H. L. Hillman, runner and hurdler; Lawrence, pole vaulter; McGrath, hammer thrower; Leahy, high and broad jumper.

Pacific Coast Men Win.

Lake Forrest, Ill., Aug. 5.—The Pacific coast triumphed over the South in the finals of the preliminary national tennis doubles yesterday at the Onwentsia club, M. F. McLaughlin and George Janes, champions of the Pacific coast, winning an easy victory over Wylie Grant and Theodore Roosevelt Pell, title-holders of the South. The score was 5-7, 6-2, 7-5 and 6-3. The eliminating of Grant and Pell by the Californians entitles McLaughlin and Janes to compete against H. S. Hackett and F. B. Alexander, national title-holders, for the championship of America, the match to be played Aug. 17 at Newport.

GLEAMS IN THE SPORTING FOG

Tennis seems to have taken hold in Duluth this year as it never did before.

The Duluth Boat club is just bringing to a close one of the most successful tournaments ever held in the city—perhaps the most successful. There were exactly sixty-four entries, making the draw a very simple affair. Play is now down to the semi-finals. Washburn has already reached the semi-finals, having won his game against Graff, and Whyte and Johnson must play off, the winner meeting Washburn. Washburn and Whyte are also in the final round of the country club tournament, so that there seems to be little doubt that they should be ranked as the two leading players of the city on this year's form. They are closely pressed, however, by Graff, Grady, Johnson, Paine and a number of others. Graff and Grady are not playing up to form this season. Grady was decidedly off color in his match with Johnson yesterday. Johnson plays a wonderfully steady, persistent game, and Grady plays the swift, slashing game. Grady was very much out of practice, and his drives went wild or into the net. He was noticeably worried by the steadiness of his opponent, and his own inability to place his shots. Playing his normal game, he would at least give Johnson a better run, and on form should beat him. This, however, is not meant to detract from Johnson's victory. He won it fairly, playing a careful but aggressive game, placing every shot, and working for every point as if it were the last one. He is a very hard man to beat, and will worry many a player whose form is much prettier, and who has many more spectacular strokes.

Paine showed surprising form in his match with Washburn, giving the University of Minnesota star the fight of his life. It took five sets to decide the match, Paine getting the first and third. Paine has a number of good strokes, and with another year of practice should develop into a star.

Whyte is in good form this summer, and should defeat Johnson the form shown to date in the tournament. This would put him against Washburn in the finals of both tournaments, and there will be every opportunity to see which should rank the higher.

In ranking the players at the Head of the Lakes, Loren Kennedy of Cloquet must be considered. He played Whyte a practice game at the Country club Sunday and defeated him by the score of 6-3 and 6-4. He would probably head the list, with Whyte or Washburn second. If Graff and Grady were in form they would be very much in the running also. Just how Johnson stands will be known this afternoon when he meets Whyte. He may upset some of the dope.

The Cubs drew up a notch on the Pirates yesterday. Murphy's pets are going strong at the present time, and are making the gamest kind of a fight to draw up to the Pirates. It is a stern chase and a long one, and must be trying the nerves of both teams. Chicago's pitchers are working in great form, and the Cubs are right at the heels of the leaders, ready to take advantage of any slip. It's a great race, and for some reason the Cubs seem to be the favorites around the Head of the Lakes.

The Boston Nationals are having trouble getting their franchise renewed because betting was allowed on the grounds. What guardian-needing sucker ever bet on the Boston Nationals?

It's a bet for fortune-making odds that Winnipeg and Duluth will be rivals in the same league when the baseball season of 1910 rolls around. Even the casual observer can see that there will be changes in the make-up of the Minny circuit and those changes will include the annexation of the Canadian territory.

The success of any league depends primarily on the gate receipts. Baseball in the United States is on a business basis. The race may be as hot as it will; the ball may be of high class, but if the attendance falls down, there is going to be some traveling over rocky roads and a pitch over a precipice at the end.

The present circuit of the M. W. league isn't satisfactory from a business standpoint. Eau Claire, La Crosse and Wausau are all negative quantities when the adding machine is brought into play. There will have to be a shakeup during the winter, and nobody would be surprised if all three of the Wisconsin cities are dropped by the wayside.

There is no getting away from the fact that Winnipeg is a good baseball town. Happyland has seen some crowds that would make any manager smile, and it will see them again if the right class of ball is ladled out to the Canadian fans. The Western Canada league, in which Winnipeg is now included, isn't a success. Jumps of 700 miles, taking a few days and many dollars to make, aren't conducive to the financial success of any league and that is what the exponents of the American game are up against in the Canadian provinces.

Winnipeg is flirting with the Minny league and the officials of the circuit on this side of the border are susceptible to the shy glances. Winnipeg is a long way from Duluth, but the trip can be made in one night, a team can be transported there for about $75, and there is money to be made there on every trip. Winnipeg needs the towns on this side of the border and the league needs the Canadian city. Whatever may be the make-up of the league next year, Winnipeg will be a part and it will be a strong prop to the foundation of finance on which the league must rest if it is to endure.

REGULATIONS ARE COMPLETED

Course of International Races to Be Patrolled By Revenue Cutters.

Washington, Aug. 5.—The new regulations for the patrol of the courses in connection with the international yacht races between Germany and the United States to be held at Marblehead, Mass., beginning Monday, Aug. 30, have been completed. The rules are substantially the same as those promulgated for the use at the last international yacht races in New York city. Revenue cutters will assist in keeping the course clear of excursion boats and other crafts.

The international races between Germany and America were begun in this country in 1906. The last contest was held at Kiel in 1907, where the course was patrolled by the German navy.

The principal prizes this year will be a President Taft cup and the Governor Draper cup. The President Taft cup will go to the owner of the yacht which first wins three races or wins the fifth race of the series. The Governor Draper cup will be awarded to the boat having the greatest number of points.

GAMBLING AT BASEBALL GAMES

Boston Nationals Are Having Trouble With Their Franchise.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 5.—The application for the annual license of the Boston National league baseball team to play games in this city, which has hitherto been issued on Aug. 1, has been returned to the office of Mayor Hibbard with the disapproval of Police Commissioner Stephen O'Meara.

Under the city ordinance the application goes to the police commissioner for his approval and is then sent to the mayor. It is intimated that the commissioner withheld approval on the ground that gambling was allowed during games. A hearing will probably be held soon. There will be no interference with the playing of games until the matter is finally adjusted.

MARGIN MAKES SECOND KILLING

Takes the $10,000 Stake on Muddy Track at Kalamazoo.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 5.—Margin landed her second $10,000 stake of the season when she won the feature of the card on a muddy track yesterday. She finished first in only two of the heats, but the others were divided, and she was best in the summary, the race ending with five heats, under the rules.

Margin won the first handily and in the second she beat Marc N. a neck in a hard drive in splendid time for the track. Judge Lee challenged Margin in the stretch and beat her in the third, and in the fourth El Victress went away very fast and none could get near her. The fifth saw Julge Lee draw out and win in the last part, just beating El Victress, who had made a break earlier.

The 2:11 pace also went through five heats, Walter Hal, the favorite, winning a heat and then being beaten. Star Pointer took the second one, but could not repeat, Green Pilot being the fastest. The 2:15 pace was won handily by Walter W., a strong favorite, although King Cole, on whom the driver had been changed, made him hustle in the final heat.

COPS WRESTLE FORTY MINUTES

Draw Decision in Match Between Officers Iverson and Dickman.

Two stalwart cops wrestled for forty minutes at the police headquarters yesterday afternoon in an effort to settle the championship of the department, but at the end of that time Referee George Thatcher declared the bout a draw. The men were G. A. Iverson and P. J. Dickman, patrolmen. They were satisfied with the decision yesterday, but after a little more training they will get together again.

The bout was of great interest to the policemen, and there was a big crowd of brother officers out to see the match. There was some lively work on the part of both men during the forty minutes. Dickman outweighed Iverson by about ten pounds, but the smaller man offset the difference in weight by speedy work.

Some time ago Iverson defeated Henry Brouillette, and Dickman challenged him to wrestle for the department honors. They both went into training, and yesterday's bout shows that they are evenly matched, so when they come together again in a finish bout it will be a whirlwind affair.

MAC WASHBURN REACHES FINALS

Whyte and Johnson Play for Right to Meet Him.

There are now but three left in the tennis tournament that has been going on for some time past on the courts of the Duluth Boat club. Elmer Whyte, William Johnson and Mac Washburn are the only undefeated ones. Whyte and Johnson will play off this afternoon to determine who shall meet Washburn in the finals.

This final match will be played off Saturday afternoon as one of the features of the regular weekly afternoon entertainment.

It is expected that play in the doubles will be begun today. There are many entrants in this event, and the event promises to be just as interesting as the one which is now all but closed.

The matches played yesterday resulted in the following scores:

Whyte vs. Ingalls, 6-3, 7-5.
Johnson vs. Grady, 6-2, 8-6.
Poehler vs. Paine, Poehler forfeited.
Washburn vs. Paine (three in five), 4-6, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4.

COLLEGIANS SMOTHERED.

Hibbing Pounds Two Pitchers and Wiedel Holds Keewatin Helpless.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Keewatin college camp baseball team furnished a doormat for the Hibbing champs yesterday, the local game winning a farcical game by a score of 12 to 0. Kherker and Rooney were found for a total of fifteen hits, while Wiedel let the collegians down with four badly scattered hits, and they never approached the home plate on the end of the circuit. Score:

	R.	H.	E.

Batteries—Wiedel and Carroll; Kherker, Rooney and Collins.

Susanna the Winner.

Cowes, Aug. 5.—The yachts racing here yesterday in connection with the Cowes regatta showed some interesting events. The principal race was that for Emperor William's trophy, in which there were ten starters. It was won by the German schooner Susanna on time allowance, although the Germania finished first. The Cicely was second and the Susanna third. In the 23-meter class the White Heather defeated the Shamrock.

New Pitcher for the Reds.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Aug. 5.—The addition of a new pitcher to the National league club of this city was announced by President Herrmann, in the purchase of Samuel Smith of Chicago, now with the Montreal club of the Eastern league.

NEGRO BOXER WANTED BY GEORGIA POLICE.

Marietta, Ga., Aug. 5.—David Williams, who is being held at Boston by the naval authorities pending an investigation into the death of Harrison H. Foster, following a boxing bout between the two negroes on board the Vermont, is wanted by the authorities of this, his home, town on a charge of assault and battery with intent to murder. One year ago, it is alleged, he attempted to kill Howard Nortcutt, a prominent young white man of Marietta. A formal request will be made to the navy department at Washington for the delivery of Williams to the Georgia authorities.

CHINAMAN IN SIGEL CASE CANNOT RAISE $5,000 BAIL.

New York, Aug. 5.—Quan Yick Nam, the Chinese interpreter who gave his services to the police in their efforts to solve the murder of Elsie Sigel, has informed the district attorney's office that his life has been threatened by certain of his countrymen if he does not withdraw from the case.

Mr. Mayher, assistant district attorney, invoked protection for him at the hearing on the application of Chung Sing, Leung Ling's friend, for a writ of habeas corpus. Justice Brady upheld the writ, but Chung Sing was again committed to the house of detention in default of $5,000 bail.

JIM JEFFRIES OFF FOR EUROPE

Berger and Johnson Will Get Together on the Arrangements.

New York, Aug. 5.—On the eve of his departure for Europe on the North German Lloyd liner George Washington, James J. Jeffries issued a statement last night through his manager, Sam Berger, saying that everything now depends on Jack Johnson as far as a fight between himself and the negro is concerned. He did not seem to consider seriously Johnson's posting $5,000 in Chicago this week, and said that it was up to Johnson to meet "reasonable conditions." He added that he had received no official communication of Johnson's action in Chicago.

Berger said that he hoped to see Johnson in New York in a few days and go over the situation and to receive some bid for the fight from promoters during Jeffries' absence abroad.

Fails to Throw Two Men.

Portland, Or., Aug. 5.—Dr. B. F. Roller last night failed to throw Charles Olson of Minneapolis and Big Yusiff, a Turk, in seventy-five minutes' wrestling. Roller took the first fall from Yusiff in 54 minutes 20 seconds on a head and wrist lock.

DEAN HUTCHINS WILL ACT AS MICHIGAN PROXY.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 5.—The official announcement of the appointment of Dean Harry B. Hutchins to the office of acting president of the University of Michigan was made yesterday by President James B. Angell for the executive committee of the board of regents. President Hutchins has accepted.

The appointment, it is announced, is made to become effective Oct. 1 and is for the coming year. The resignation of Dr. Angell becomes effective at that date.

CONNECTICUT "BLUE LAWS" ARE REPEALED.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 5.—Both the houses of the Connecticut legislature yesterday passed a bill repealing the so-called "blue laws" relating to Sunday observance, which forbid almost every form of recreation and secular activity. One of the laws specifically repealed is that which provides for a fine of $4 for each person who shall attend a concert or entertainment on Sunday.

The new Sunday bill is short. It defines "Sunday," and prohibits all sports and secular activities "except such as are demanded by necessity and mercy and such as are for the general welfare of the community."

The penal section provides both fines and imprisonment for violation. Under the words "general welfare of the community" Sunday baseball is probably permitted, but the advocates of the bill admit that the courts must interpret the wording in several places.

CIRCUS TENT BLOWN OVER; LIGHTNING HITS CATCHER.

Battle Creek, Mich., Aug. 5.—During a wind storm which up-rooted trees, blew down fences and telegraph poles here yesterday, the menagerie tent of Barnum & Bailey's circus was blown down and two women and a child injured. A large crowd was thrown into a panic. None of the animals escaped.

Miss Adelaide Hathaway of Schoolcraft, Mich., was caught in the fall of the huge tent and sustained internal injuries and a fractured hip. Miss Bernice Platt of this city, while rushing from the tent got between a hack and an automobile which collided and she was severely injured.

At Athletic park where the locals and Jackson team of the Southern league were playing, Catcher Stringer of the locals was struck by lightning on the field and thrown to the ground unconscious. He was revived little the worse for his experience.

PRIVATE DROWNS DURING ENFORCED SWIMMING DRILL

San Juan, P. R., Aug. 5.—Compliance with an order of Secretary of War Dickinson requiring swimming drills by the troops with their full equipment on has resulted in the drowning of Private Jobino Nieves of the Porto Rican regiment. Private Gonzales was also in danger of sinking, but his fellow soldiers quickly formed a human chain and rescued him.

Must Observe North Dakota Law Anent Open Stands.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.—Grocers and fruit merchants have received notice from Pure Food Commissioner E. F. Open display stands for fruit and vegetables have been barred in North Dakota, there being a state law on the subject which is very much to the point.

Local merchants who have failed to live up to the new law must take immens, otherwise they will subject ments, other wise they will subject themselves to criminal prosecution. Commissioner Ladd made the round of inspection here yesterday, sending the notices immediately upon his return to Fargo.

YOUNG BANDITS GIVEN FIVE YEARS IN PEN.

New Ulm, Minn., Aug. 5.—Floyd Bertrand and Harold Rogers, sons of Mrs. Bertrand of Minneapolis, pleaded guilty here Wednesday to grand larceny in the second degree, and each was given the limit of punishment for the offense, five years in the penitentiary. Neither is over 21 years of age.

Both were originally indicted for grand larceny in the first degree, but by the consent of the county's attorney, they were permitted to plead to second degree larceny; otherwise their sentences would have been still heavier.

William Nichols, an alleged accomplice and leader of the Minneapolis men, was also indicted for grand larceny in the first degree, but as he is know to be an old offender he will be kept in jail until the December term, when he will be tried.

The three men held up and robbed at the points of guns the night operator and a conductor of the North-Western road in this city. They secured $167, principally money belonging to the railroad.

STATE LOANS APPROVED.

About $127,000 to Be Loaned From the State School Fund.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. .—(Special to The Herald.)—Applications for loans from the state school fund were approved Tuesday by the state board of investment, aggregating over $127,000. Funds are now on hand to make the loans, as the permanent trust funds had an available balance July 31 of $200,000. The loans approved included $90,000 to school districts, one of $20,000 for Brown's Valley and $20,000 for Canby.

County ditch loans allowed were Pope, $19,400; Traverse, $9,000; Stevens, $4,900; Swift, $4,000. Action on a $60,000 application from Clay county was deferred, as that county recently got loans amounting to over $87,000 for ditch purposes.

Mrs. Ledbeter Denied Bail.

Mankato, Minn., Aug 5.—Mrs. Grace Ledbeter accused of killing her husband will not be released from the county jail on bail. Judge Quinn of Fairmont so decided on the application of the defendant to be released on $13,500 bail.

WHEAT HAS WEAK TONE

Bearish Crop News and Low Cables Cause a Depression Here.

Flax Is Active and Firm During Session in Duluth.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 5.—The bears were still in control today. Wheat was rather quiet and weak during the entire session, and closing prices showed losses of more than a point from yesterday in all the American markets. Reports from the spring wheat fields are bearish.

Cables were soft. Liverpool closed 1⅛@1¾d lower, Antwerp 1¼c lower and Berlin ¾c lower.

The September option closed 1⅜c lower in Duluth, 1½@1⅝c lower in Chicago, 3⅛@3¼c lower in Minneapolis, 1¼c lower in New York, 1⅛c lower in St. Louis and 1¼c lower in Kansas City. October wheat closed ⅞c off in Winnipeg. The December option closed 1¾c lower in Duluth, 1⅞c lower in Chicago, 1¼@1⅜c lower in Minneapolis, 1⅝c lower in New York, 1½c lower in St. Louis, 1½@1⅝c lower in Kansas City and ⅞c lower in Winnipeg.

September corn closed ¼@½c lower and oats ⅛@¼c lower in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"Wheat was easy at the opening with values ⅛@¾d lower, being influenced by the lower American cables yesterday. Following the opening and during the early morning, values reacted, September gaining ⅝c while the distant months were unchanged on covering by shorts, but later in the session severe selling pressure occurred, prices losing ⅞@1¼d from the high of the day. This pressure was attributed to private cables from America, reporting the good quality of American winter wheat, good weather in the United Kingdom for harvesting, weakness in cash and free liquidation in September. At this time, the market was weak and values were 1@1⅜d lower than yesterday.

"Corn was quite easy at the opening and ¼d lower followed by a further decline of ¼d in September, while October was unchanged. Pressure in the nearby months was attributed to predictions of large shipments from Argentine, while the distant months held steady on the report of drought in both Russia and Roumania."

Car receipts of wheat at Duluth were 3 against 39 last year. Chicago received 256 against 224 last year. Winnipeg received 24 against 15 last year. Primary receipts of wheat were 841,000 bu, last year 966,000 bu. Shipments 1,023,000 bu, last year 643,000 bu. Clearances of wheat and flour were 187,000 bu.

Primary receipts of corn were 376,000 bu, last year 263,000 bu. Shipments 394,000 bu, last year 259,000 bu.

Wheat was quiet in the Duluth market. September wheat opened ⅜c lower at $1.01¼, advanced to $1.01⅝, declined to $1.00⅞, and closed at $1.00⅝, a loss of 1⅜c from yesterday. December wheat opened ¾c lower at 99¼c, went to 99⅝c and declined by the close to 98¼c, a loss of 1¾c from yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ⅞c lower.

Flax was active and firm. September flax opened ¼c lower at $1.37½, advanced to $1.37⅞ and closed there, unchanged from yesterday. October flax opened unchanged at $1.34¼, advanced to $1.34¾ and closed at $1.34½, a gain of ¼c over yesterday. November flax opened unchanged at $1.34¼ and closed at $1.34½, a gain of ¼c.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Selling and Foreign Declines Make Grain Bearish.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—All grain markets were extremely weak during early trading today. The weakness was owing to renewed liquidation based on the weather, which was exceedingly favorable both in this country and Canada for the maturing and harvesting of the new crops. Bearish sentiment was further augmented by declines of 1@1⅜d at Liverpool. The wheat market here opened at declines of ¼@⅜c to 1c. September being at $1.01@1.01½. Within the first few minutes the price dropped to $1.00¼. There was a moderate rally later, owing to covering by shorts, prices advancing about ½c from the low point.

A sharp rally occurred toward midday owing to the buying by influential commission houses, September advanced to $1.01⅝. Late in the day, however, the market against became weak and prices dropped to a still lower level, September selling off to $1.00. The close was weak with September off 1½@1⅝c at $1.00¼.

There was general selling in the corn market. Support was poor. Prices at the opening were ⅛@¼c to ⅞@1c lower, September being at 62½@63c. For the few minutes the price held within the opening range.

The market rallied with wheat, September advancing to 64c. In the final hour the market slumped severely, September declining to 62⅞@63c. The close was weak with September down ⅜@½c at 63c.

Trade in oats was active, with outside longs leading in the selling. September opened ¼@½c lower at 36@36¼c and declined to 35¾c.

Provisions were strong owing to lighter receipts of live hogs. Offerings were light. Prices at the opening were 5@22½c higher.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Starts Strong, But Weakens on Weather News.

Minneapolis, Aug. 5.—The early market was strong on account of the oversold condition of the market, and September advanced to yesterday's closing price. The fine prospects for spring wheat were too much, though, for a strong market, and there was a break. September closed 1⅛@1¼c below yesterday. Local elevator stocks decreased 525,000 bu for five days. Minneapolis received 89 cars of wheat against 152 a year ago; Duluth 3 against 39, and Winnipeg 24 against 25. September opened $1.00⅝; high, $1.01; low, 99½c; closed, 99¾c. December opened 99¼c, high, 99⅝c; low, 98c; close, 98¼c. May opened at $1.03; high, $1.03⅝; low, $1.02¼; close, $1.02¼. The demand for spring wheat was very strong in the cash market today. Offerings were light and the premiums were 1@2c higher than yesterday. The inquiry for winter wheat was very slow. No. 1 northern sold for 26@27c above the September option and No. 2 northern 24@25c above. No. 1 northern spot, $1.27¾; new to arrive, $1.09½; No. 2 northern, $1.25¾; spot, new to arrive, $1.00½; No. 3 wheat, $1.21¾@1.23¾; No. 3 yellow corn, 62¾c; No. 3 white oats, 40⅞@43⅝c. No. 2 rye, 65¾@68¾c.

Flax—Receipts, none; a year ago 4 cars; shipments none. The market was nominal on account of lack of offerings. Prices were quoted the same as the Duluth September. Closing price, $1.37½.

Barley—Receipts, 8 cars today, year ago 15; shipments 9 cars. The demand for new barley was firmer today and prices were stronger. Inquiry for the old crop was strong but the prices were lower. Offerings were light. Closing range, old, 50@61c; new, 42½@54c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,066 tons. The market was steady today. Demand was only fair, shipments light and prices held firm. Bran in 100-pound sacks, $20.50.

Flour was unchanged today. Exports of new were fairly active, but the old crop inquiry was slow. Shipments were light and prices unchanged. Shipments, 43,663 bbls. First patents in wood, $5.90@6.10; second patents in wood, $5.80@6.00. First clears in wood, $4.95@5.25; second clears in wood, $3.35@3.55.

PROVIDES FOR TEST DISPUTES

The Board of Grain Appeals Makes Ruling—Other Market Gossip.

At the meeting of the state board of grain appeals, held in Minneapolis Aug. 3, it was decided that hereafter, where there is a dispute over grain tests, the dispute shall be decided by the automatic filler test, a system that was devised in the Duluth office of the state board, and which has been in use in the Duluth office for some time.

Hans P. Bjorge, one of the members of the board of grain appeals, returned today from the meeting at Minneapolis. Besides Mr. Bjorge, there were present Messrs. McManus and Gray, local members of the board, and Messrs. Kelso, Thorsen and Evenson of Minneapolis. Railroad Commissioners Staples and Elmquist were present, as was F. W. Eva of Duluth, chief inspector; Edward Emerson, deputy inspector, and J. W. Barncard, deputy inspector, of Minneapolis.

Another important action taken by the board was the adoption of a ruling providing that all grain shall be cleaned before testing. Heretofore only wheat and rye have been cleaned before being subjected to test. The application of the new ruling will require that oats and barley will also be cleaned prior to a test.

Outside of the two new rulings stated above, little but routine business was transacted at the annual meeting of the board.

James A. Patten wired from Chicago: "The cash demand for wheat here is pretty slow today and there is no evidence of any export demand or to buy cash wheat to fill the export sales made yesterday. The trade here is very skeptical about the export business reported on yesterday. If the Northwest spring wheat crop is gathered without further harm it looks to me as though wheat would sell lower."

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 5.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: The unusual heavy summer demand continues and a number of big sales were consummated today, the call being almost exclusively for big young drafte horses weighing 1,500 pounds and upward. Shipments were made to Culbertson and Glendive, Mont.; Duluth, Minn., and Ashland, Wis. Dealers report a scarcity of good horses at this time, as farmers need them for their own use, they have, however, been able to supply the demand.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Aug. 5.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 5 points on August but generally 2 to 6 points lower. The bears were aggressive and overnight margin calls appeared, to have resulted in a general raising of stop-loss selling. The market was under heavy pressure and prices quickly broke to a net loss of 10 to 14 points. Subsequently fluctuations were irregular and the market nervous, fear of cheaper southern offerings and of further liquidation being the chief selling motives.

FATHER KILLED; SON IS SHOCKED

When Lightning Strikes Tree Under Which They Are Standing.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Michael Corbit was killed and his 7-year-old son, Percy, was badly injured Wednesday afternoon about 5 o'clock when struck by a bolt of lightning in front of his home in Crystal, N. D.

Father and son, with a lad named Robert Dickson were standing beneath a tree when the bolt fell. The elder Corbit lived but a few minutes and his son was unconscious for four hours. The Dickson lad was uninjured and the tree entirely unharmed.

STEEL HAS AN ADVANCE

Another High Record Price Established By the Common Stock.

Whole List Reacted Near the Close, Which Was Irregular.

New York, Aug. 5.—The opening movement of prices of stocks was decidedly irregular but the better known issues were inclined to recede. American Car fell a point and United States Steel and American Hide & Leather preferred large fractions. Norfolk & Western rose ¾ and Hocking Coal sold at an advance of 3 cents.

After an interval of drooping prices, United States Steel was taken in hand and run up from 74⅜ to 75⅝, establishing another record. Reading and some of the other specialties then began to move up in a striking manner, but the railroad list in general was sluggish. Chicago Great Western rose 3 points, Western Maryland 1⅜, Great Northern Ore Certificates 1⅛ and American Smelting, American Tobacco preferred and Pittsburg Coal preferred 1. Central Railroad of New Jersey opened 2 points off, and then rallied 5 to 310. American Snuff sold at 280, compared with 250, the previous sale in April last. Pressed Steel Car yielded a point.

The market was dull and heavy for a time. Strength in particular stocks was not of much effect on the general list. Missouri Pacific became active at an advance of 2⅜. Central Railroad of New Jersey, sold at an advance of 7. Denver & Rio Grande, Wabash preferred, Delaware & Hudson, National Lead, the Republic Steel stocks, the American Steel Foundry stocks and the American Linseed stocks rose 1 to 1½. American Agricultural Chemical and Ice declined 1. Bonds were steady.

Prices later commenced to drop again, Union Pacific reacting to 201½ and United States Steel also selling below yesterday's closing. Profit-taking was noted at other points also but the general loss was slight. The local traction stocks showed weakness. American Cotton Oil lost 1. Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha jumped 7½ and Federal Mining 6½.

A jump of over 2 points in Reading to 164⅛ failed to affect the rest of the list, which showed heaviness in spots. Pullman gained 1⅝. Chicago Great Western reacted 2 points. Western stocks were declining at 2 o'clock under the leadership of Union Pacific, which was off a point. American Hide & Leather preferred lost 1¼.

The market closed irregular and active. After Reading had touch 164⅜, stocks came out more freely and the whole list reacted. Union Pacific and New York Central lost 2, Northwestern 1½, Canadian Pacific, Amalgamated Copper and American Beet Sugar 1¼ and Southern Pacific, St. Paul, Pennsylvania, the United States Steel stocks, People's Gas and Colorado Fuel 1. Hasty short coverings rallied the late market.

I can see a great advance coming in all good curb issues. Boys it is in the air and we could not stop it if we tried. A great amount of orders are coming into the market. The Scotts are certainly going to advance fast. All you have to do is to drop into the stock exchange any time and you will then understand that these two are on the bottom. Capt. Dawson again writes that every round of holes in the drifts are on the 1,000 and 1,200 are opening up big ore bodies of ore.

If you follow me from now on in the Scotts you will make a lot of money. No stock on the board has such great possibilities for big advance.

Also watch St. Mary advance. We are getting good news from the mine right along. Here is one of the best low-priced issues on the board to speculate in. We have big buying orders on this one and can use 20,000 shares around 22½ cents. It closed 24 cents bid for several hundred shares.

Our offices are so situated that we are in better position than any other office in Duluth to give you service. Remember I paid $1,000 to get this lease turned over to me and if the location didn't warrant it you can rest assured that we would not have given this much for the lease. Our wires are the best, our offices open into the Duluth stock exchange and we therefore know all markets every minute of the day.

BOTTLE THAT SMILES.

T. P.'s Weekly: An amateur historian is responsible for this: "All along the ever flowing stream of history you can descern the silent footprints of the crowned heads of Europe!"

The village reporter on the death of the village poet: "That dauntless pen shall write no more, for its eyes are closed forever!"

From the speech of a rising young politician: "The fierce light of public opinion shall dog their footsteps until it strangles them. Then shall they swallow the bitter pill and drink its very dregs."

Advice and warning from a successful man of business to a gathering of young people: "Every rung in the ladder of success is paved with slippery stones, on which only the clear head and the steady hand can retain their footing!"

The fearless suffragette was addressing a meeting of mere men. She had graphically related to them the fascinating story of the strenuous struggle the ladies had made for that most priceless of possessions, a vote—how every obstacle had been conquered and victory was at last in sight. "We have now," she shrieked, "almost crossed the trackless desert and the harbor lights are stretching out their arms to greet us!"

The temperance advocate was giving a striking but a true picture of the vast amount of evil wrought by the demon of drink, and the fact that he occasionally got somewhat mixed in his metaphors did not derogate from the truth that underlay his remarks. "What is the greatest devastating agent of our time?" he asked. "It is the bottle, which smiles genially before your face, while at the same time it is stabbing you in the back!"

Mrs. Hall Caine acts not only as her husband's literary adviser, but as his secretary. He has repeatedly tried to get her to give her place to a typewriter, but she enjoys the work and refuses.

Lady Aberdeen, who has been carrying on an energetic propaganda to better the health of the Irish people, has undertaken the editorial work of a monthly magazine, which will be issued by the Women's National Health association.

ALFONSO YIELDS TO CLAMOR OVER MILITARY LAWS

Abolishes Provision Allowing Richer Classes to Avoid Service.

Second Outbreak of Revolution in Spain Foreseen in Barcelona.

Moors Have Cut Off Part of Water Supply at Melilla.

Madrid, Aug. 6.—On account of the unfavorable criticism aroused by the system of exempting rich men from the military service upon the payment of $300, King Alfonso today issued a decree abolishing a money indemnity in lieu of service.

Fresh Outbreak Possible.

Barcelona, Aug. 6.—The prospects of another outbreak in Spain seem today to depend on the course the authorities decide to pursue regarding the prisoners that have been in the Montjuich fortress since the disorders of last week. These include several aldermen and a number of prominent Republicans. If they are condemned to death, or given unusually severe sentences, it is said that 30,000 men are prepared to open a guerilla warfare upon the government, in which bombs and incendiarism will play an important part.

Defeated by Fanatics.

A prominent representative of Barcelona said today: "The insurrection at first had the support of all the republican elements in the country, and promised to be a complete success; but when the anarchists and the anticlericals began burning and sacking the churches and convents, the better class of republicans withdrew. Had it not been for the insane ferocity of the fanatics, I sincerely believe that the republican flag would today be flying over Catalonia."

Cut Off Water Supply.

Oran, Algeria, Aug. 6.—According to official information received here, the Riffs who are opposing the Spaniards at Melilla have cut off a large part of the Spanish water supply, and the town is threatened with a water famine and epidemic.

CZAR TO REVIEW GERMAN FLEET

Extraordinary Precautions to Mark His Trip Through Kiel Canal.

Kiel, Aug. 6.—The German fleet, under command of Admiral Prince Henry of Prussia, returned here today from its cruise to the Spanish coast, and is now engaged in taking on coal preparatory to putting to sea again to be reviewed off Kiel by Emperor Nicholas, who is expected here from Cowes tomorrow on board the Russian imperial yacht Standart. Sixteen battleships and fourteen cruisers will take part in the maneuvers.

Emperor Nicholas is again to pass through the Kiel canal, and the extraordinary precautions for his safety will be repeated. Both sides of the canal will be picketed at short intervals by marines, all traffic on the waterway will be stopped, and cavalry will ride along the banks, taking the same speed as the emperor's yacht.

Last Day of Taking of Testimony Sees Sleuth on the Stand.

Roger O'Mara Tells of His Findings About Stanford White.

White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 6.—The last day of testimony at Justice Mills' hearing on Harry K. Thaw's petition for release from the state hospital for the criminal insane opened with Roger O'Mara as the first witness. O'Mara was formerly chief of detectives in Pittsburg, and was for several years employed by Thaw as a private detective.

Mr. O'Mara was commissioned by Thaw to investigate Thaw's charges against Stanford White. Mr. Morschauser called O'Mara today to substantiate stories told on the stand yesterday by Thaw.

Mr. O'Mara related his experience in 1901, with a girl said to be now a prominent actress. Mr. O'Mara said he saw both this girl and her mother, and what they told him agreed with Thaw's assertions.

"Did you believe this was true?" asked Jerome.

"Yes, it looked plausible, and I saw no reason why she should tell me this story if it was not true."

Told Him of White.

O'Mara said the girl told him that

HITS TREATY WITH CUBA

Broussard of Louisiana Says Tariff Bill Will Bring Trouble.

Writes to Taft That Island Pact Must Be Abrogated.

Washington, Aug. 6.—President Taft must abrogate the Cuban reciprocity treaty, or, it is said, he will be unable to grant to France, Germany and other sugar producing countries the advantages of the minimum rates of duty of the Payne tariff law. This is made the subject of a letter today sent to the president by Representative Broussard of Louisiana.

The Cuban treaty contains a clause which stipulates that the Dingley rates of duty on sugar will not be reduced by "treaty or convention," as long as the treaty remains in force, according to Mr. Broussard. He contends that the president, before issuing a proclamation putting into effect the minimum provisions of the new tariff law against a foreign country, would have to enter into an "agreement" with such

HE TELLS HOW TO DODGE LIGHTNING

Weather Bureau Official Issues Bulletin On Cheap Protection.

Washington, Aug. 6.—Prof. Henry of the weather bureau declares, in a bulletin just issued, entitled "Cheap Protection From Lightning," that more attention should be given to the question, as 800 people are killed, twice as many injured and an immense amount of property destroyed by lightning every year. He shows how lightning rods that are "inexpensive yet effective" might be put up by anybody. The following is his list of materials:

Enough galvanized iron telegraph wire to serve for the rod, a pound of galvanized iron staples to hold the wire in place, a few connecting tees and a pound of aluminum paint.

"While iron is not so good a conductor as copper," says the professor, "it is less likely to cause dangerous side flashes and it also dissipates the energy of the lightning flash more effectively than does the copper."

CITY OF MILAN BIDS MRS. ROOSEVELT ADIEU.

Milan, Aug. 6.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, accompanied by her sister, Miss Carew, and her youngest son, left here today for Paris. The municipal authorities were present at the railroad station to present their formal farewell salutations. Archie and Ethel Roosevelt will rejoin their mother in Paris after another trip with Baron Mayor des Planches, the Italian ambassador to the United States, and his wife to the Italian lakes. Mrs. Roosevelt will return to Miss Carew's villa at Porto Maurizio in the autumn and there await the return of Col. Roosevelt from Africa.

SWEDEN HAS 300,000 IDLE

Serious Disorders Likely to Break Out at Any Moment.

Additional Troops Are Being Rushed Into Stockholm By Government.

Stockholm, Aug 6.—The situation in Stockholm with regard to the labor conflict showed no material change this morning.

The ranks of the strikers are being augmented hourly, and, according to the leaders, their total now reaches 300,000, about one-twentieth of the population of the country.

The workmen employed at the power station which supplies the electricity for lighting the capital have joined the strikers. The service is now being maintained by officials of the lighting department.

As the strikers have been preventing farmers from bringing provisions into the city, troops have been detailed to patrol the country roads. For the use of children, the military authorities continue to dispense milk from the railroad stations.

The strike as yet does not embrace the agricultural districts of the country to any great extent, but attempts are being made to involve them also. At Vesteras, sixty miles northwest of Stockholm, an attempt of this kind led to serious disorders. A body of fifty strikers forced the laborers on some of the estates there to quit work. Troops were summoned and conflicts between them and the strikers

ALL QUIET ALONG THE POTOMAC

National Capital Deserted By Lawmakers When Congress Adjourns.

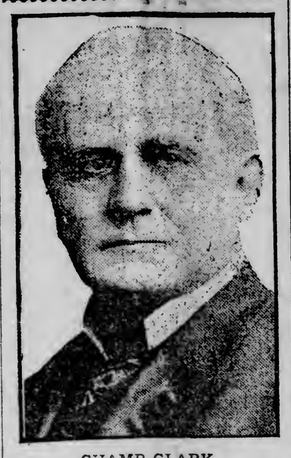
Washington, Aug. 6.—With congress adjourned, the capital was deserted today, and only the echoes were heard of the long-drawn-out tariff debate.

Already most of the senators and representatives are on the way to their homes. This morning the outgoing trains had aboard many of those who stayed behind only long enough to close up personal affairs.

Both the senate and house chambers looked as if a cyclone had struck them. Scattered over the desks and on the floors were tariff schedules, statistics, bills, resolutions and what-not, all useful a day or two ago, but now appropriate for the waste-heap. An army of workmen was on hand early today to remove the rubbish, take up the carpets, overhaul the draperies and desks and make ready for the regular session beginning next December.

General satisfaction was expressed among the senators and members remaining in the city that the tariff discussion was a thing of the past. They were thoroughly fagged out and had only the one thought of getting back home.

COMES TO DEFENSE OF DEMOCRATS IN HOUSE



CHAMP CLARK,

CHAMPIONS DEMOCRATS

Champ Clark Defends Their Action On the Payne Tariff Bill.

Minority Leader Analyzes Votes Cast By Parties in the House.

Washington, Aug. 6.—In reply to what is termed "the misrepresentations of Democrats in the papers," Champ Clark, leader of the minority in the house of representatives, gave out the following statement today regarding the course of the Democratic members regarding the Payne tariff bill:

"The saying that habit is second nature was never more strikingly illustrated than by the fact that many newspapers—generally Republicans or near-Republican—and more individuals keep mouthing about the dissensions among house Democrats and the perfect unity among house Republicans, notwithstanding the truth known of all men who care to know it, that the house Democrats came out of the tariff fight more thoroughly united on that question than they have been in a generation, and that the Republicans came out of it worse shattered than ever before.

Accuses the Press.

"Some papers, either through carelessness or malice, have gone so far as to say that had the Democrats not been absent in large numbers unpaired we would have defeated the conference report on the tariff bill. There is not a

NEW YORK IS STIRRED UP

Governor Johnson's Seattle Speech Receives Praise From the Press.

Is Called Logical Leader of "Disorganized and Drifting Democracy."

New York, Aug. 6.—Governor John A. Johnson's Seattle speech is the subject of several editorial articles in the New York newspapers, and the comment is generally favorable, even if some object to the assertion that "it is time the West should throw off the shackles of the East." The American, William R. Hearst's paper, is quite laudatory in its estimate of the speech and the man. The American says:

"If the disintegrated and drifting Democracy has any chance of revival and reunion, it must be behind some leader clear and definite like Johnson of Minnesota.

"He is the only governor calling himself a Democrat who has convictions and the courage of them. He does not fear to take positions. He does not hesitate to challenge prejudices. He even dares to point his party beyond the line of tradition to the goal of independence and of common sense.

"There is good stuff in Johnson and a good ring to his voice, and a clear head on his shoulders and a good, stout heart in his bosom.

Challenge Common Sense.

"And John Johnson of Minnesota, who carried by 28,000 votes a state which gives an 85,000 Republican majority, not only rings a battle cry against the tariff of privilege, for whose offensive provisions the majority of Democrats in the United States

FRESH DELAY IN AMERICANS' TRIAL

Missionaries in the Congo Now Will Be Given Hearing Sept. 24.

Leopoldville, Belgian Congo, Aug. 6.—A further postponement has been made in the trial of the two American missionaries, Rev. William Morrison and Rev. W. H. Sheppard, on charges of libel. The hearing now will come up Sept. 24.

This suit against the missionaries is brought by one of the Congo concession companies that has a monopoly of rubber gathering in the Kasai region. The company claims $20,000 damages from each of the men for "calumnious denunciation."

The circumstances are such that the suit is considered as practically brought by the Belgian government against the missionaries. The hearing originally was set for May 25, but later was postponed until the first week in August.

The United States government has been asked to take such action in behalf of these two men as would secure their protection. M. Vanderveldt, the Belgian Socialist leader, has announced his intention of going to the Congo to defend them.

VOTE TO STRIKE IN CHICAGO ALL BUT UNANIMOUS

Only 193 Out of Nearly 8,000 Street Car Men Oppose Walkout.

City Faces One of Greatest Strikes in History of the Country.

Unions Are Appointing Joint Committee to Handle All Negotiations.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—The probability of one of the greatest strikes the country has experienced grow more threatening with the conclusion of the balloting of the Chicago street car employes on the question early today.

Unofficial figures at the end of the balloting showed that only 193 employes out of more than 8,000 were opposed to striking. The result of the vote will not be made known officially before tomorrow.

Pick Joint Committee.

The count of the ballots was started immediately on the closing of the polls, but the final figures will be reserved for presentation to meetings of the divisions of the unions.

The Chicago railway's employes have appointed three men to serve on a joint committee of nine. The City railway and Calumet divisions of the union will appoint three men each to serve on the committee. It is the plan of the union to have this joint committee conduct negotiations with officials of the traction companies jointly and to refuse to negotiate on any other basis.

WILL TELL FRANCE ABOUT TARIFF BILL

—Copyright 1909, by George Grantham Bain.

J. J. JUSSERAND,
French Ambassador to the United States.

Paris, Aug. 6.—M. Jusserand, the French ambassador at Washington, has arrived here from New York. Before leaving Paris for his country seat in the department of The Loire, where he will spend his vacation, he will confer with the government on the situation created by the passage of the American tariff bill and the forthcoming negotiations entailed by the maximum and minimum clauses.

In an interview today, the ambassador expressed a firm conviction that these negotiations would be successful and that the maximum rates would not be applied to French imports.

"Any other solution, involving as it would the proclamation of a tariff war, would be monstrous." M. Jusserand declared.

WILL TRAVEL 13,000 MILES

Taft Tells Itinerary of His Tour Through the West.

Twin Cities and Winona Are Among Places He Will Stop At.

Washington, Aug. 6.—The president today made public a tentative outline of his trip through the West and South this fall. It will be a wide swing around practically the entire United States, embracing a journey approximating 13,000 miles—as long as the cruise of the battleship fleet from Hampton roads through the Straits of Magellan to San Francisco bay.

The trip will be one of the most notable ever made by a president. It is said that no "seeing-all-America" tour could be devised to embrace more points of interest in so brief a space of time as President Taft will give to his jaunt to the Pacific coast and back.

The president, accompanied by Secretary Fred W. Carpenter, Capt. Archibald W. Butt, his military aide, several White House attaches and perhaps a guest or two for various parts of the trip, will travel in a private car, attached for the greater part of the time to regular trains.

Will Visit Exposition.

During his tour the president will traverse the Royal Gorge of the Rocky mountains; will visit the Alaska-

274,529 APPLY FOR INDIAN LAND

Registry Office for Flathead Reservation Opening Is Closed to Applicants.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 6.—With the closing of the notary's office at midnight last night the last opportunity to apply for Flathead reservation lands passed. The final rush was not up to expectations, and it seems doubtful whether the total of the applications will reach the estimated 300,000. Judge Witten, superintendent of the opening, says applications the last day and for the entire time were:

Coeur d'Alene, 4,207; total, 104,416.
Kalispell, 1,420; total, 22,298.
Missoula, 346; total, 50,994.
Spokane, 4,573; total, 96,821.

The grand total is 274,529. This may be increased. All applications must reach the land office before Aug. 9, when the drawing begins.

BLOWS OUT BRAINS AS POSSE APPROACHES.

JAPAN PLANNING RAILROAD COUP

Will Start Antung-Mukden Line Even If China Objects to the Work.

Tokio, Aug. 6.—Acting under instructions from the foreign office, M. Ijuin, Japanese ambassador at Pekin, is endeavoring to persuade China to withdraw her objections to the immediate construction of the Antung-Mukden railroad. Apparently he is meeting with some success. Japan is ready to begin building at fourteen points, the intention being to make the first move Aug. 7. It is stated that the war department has prepared for every eventuality, and that Japan is determined to build the road regardless of opposition.

Pow-Wow at Washington.

Washington, Aug. 6.—An important conference was held at the state department yesterday touching Far Eastern affairs. The conference was participated in by Assistant Secretary Wilson, Ambassador to Russia W. W. Rockhill, soon about to proceed to his post, Thomas J. O'Brien, ambassador to Japan, and Charles R. Crane, recently appointed minister to Russia.

By singular coincidence the ambassadors and the minister are in Washington at the same time, and the department officials took advantage of the opportunity to have an interchange of views on many questions in which all the countries to which the diplomats are accredited are playing an important part. Notable among these subjects is the situation at Harbin, involving the question of municipal administrations in the railroad zone of Manchuria and incidentally the whole question of Russian and Japanese influence in China.

Tawney Going to Panama.

Washington, Aug. 6.—Representative Tawney, chairman of the house committee on appropriations, was at the White House today and told the president that the committee would sail for the Isthmus of Panama Nov. 7. The committee will spend two weeks on the isthmus, going over every detail of the work.

WEST NEEDS MORE MONEY

Eastern Banks Will Supply Unusual Amount for Crop Moving.

New York Financier Says Grain Yield Will be Exceptional.

New York, Aug. 6.—Although the banks throughout the West report holdings of cash, the New York banks are preparing to ship vast amounts of money into the West and Northwest to handle the unprecedented crop which is now being harvested. President Frank A. Vanderlip of the National City bank has returned from a tour of the West in which he studied the possible financial needs of banks in handling the crops. All financial interests reported record breaking crops and therefore more money than usual will have to be shipped to the farmers.

took place. A large number of persons were arrested.

Outbreak is Imminent.

Although Stockholm has been quiet thus far except for several minor demonstrations by mobs of strikers, it is believed this situation represents merely the calm before the storm, for the ranks of the strikers are being augmented hourly and the temper of both the strikers and the inhabitants of the city in general is increasing hourly. Fears are expressed that serious trouble may arise at any moment.

The government is making ready to meet any contingency. Additional troops have been ordered to Stockholm and the streets are full of army wagons, arriving with supplies from the farming districts, each carrying two soldiers with fixed bayonets.

Hunger Element Enters.

Within the city the pinch of hunger is beginning to be felt. The bread supply is nearly exhausted, and owing to the strike of slaughterers, the stock of meat is running low also. Prices have risen to heights which almost preclude the poorer classes buying food.

The sale of methylated spirits has been forbidden, as it was been found that the workmen, unable to obtain their usual drink, are resorting to this liquor.

a country declaring that that country did not discriminate against American products.

Would be a "Treaty."

Mr. Broussard claims that such an "agreement" would be in the nature of a "treaty or convention," in the meaning of the Cuban treaty, and would therefore be in violation of the terms.

The Payne bill, under its minimum provisions, makes a reduction of .05 of a cent per pound in the Dingley differential on refined sugar, and Mr. Broussard expresses the conviction that a proclamation issued by the president putting into effect the lower duty and based on an agreement with a sugar producing country would be a contravention of the terms of the Cuban reciprocity treaty.

Mr. Broussard believes the only solution of the situation is to abrogate the Cuban reciprocity treaty.

LANTERN TOO NEAR GASOLINE TANK

Harry Baker Is Badly Burned in Explosion at Boat Club.

Two persons were painfully burned and a launch damaged by an explosion of gasoline at the boat club last evening.

The launch belonged to Harry Baker, and he had just had the tank filled with gasoline when the explosion occurred. Some of the fluid must have leaked into the bottom of the boat, for when Mr. Baker placed a lantern there, there was a big flash and the craft was one mass of flames.

Mr. Baker and a young woman who was with him escaped with some painful burns, and boat club employes succeeded in quenching the fire on the launch, which was not badly damaged.

Mr. Baker and the young woman, whose name could not be learned, rushed up town and had a surgeon dress their wounds. Mr. Baker is confined to his home today by his injuries.

FARGO STRIKE DECLARED OFF

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 6.—(Spemial to The Herald.)—The carpenters' strike which has tied up the building trades here for three weeks, has been called off as the result of a compromise. The strikers get a nine-hour day instead of ten and 35 cents per hour as demanded, but no recognition of the union and the agreement is for the "open shop."

SWEET SPUDS HAVE COME

First Receipts of Them Are Direct From Virginia, Suh.

Delaware Grapes Are Also Among Newcomers in Local Market.

Sweet potatoes and Delaware grapes are among the new arrivals of the week in the local produce market.

The succulent pork chop can now be served with the embellishment of the baked sweet potato, direct from Virginia, suh. They will be offered here regularly from now on.

The first receipts came from Virginia and are selling wholesale at $8 a barrel, which is not considered an exorbitant price considering that they are the pioneers of the season.

Receipts of Delaware grapes were rather light, being the first of the season, but they will begin to increase next week and will be steady offerings in the local market until Indian summer is well under way. This week's receipts of Delawares were selling at $2.50 a crate of six baskets. Small 10-pound baskets of blue grapes also came in, selling at 40 cents a basket.

• • •

Wisconsin is now shipping blackberries to this market and blueberries are coming in profusion from every direction, selling at 75 cents a case.

• • •

Green corn has now settled down to a steady run of popularity, that will continue the rest of the summer. This delicacy is better now than it has been any time this summer, the early receipts not being of the excellent quality of those which the commission houses are offering now.

• • •

It is impossible to write longer of the weakness of the banana market, as the wily importers have been cutting down supplies and the fruit is now back on a 4-cent basis, in Michigan street. The market has now steadied at that level, which is the standard for all the year here.

• • •

Bartlett pears from California are arriving more freely and are selling at $2.50 per box. Receipts of peaches are generous and they may be had in all sizes, shades and qualities at prices ranging from $1 to $1.25 per box, according to the size and variety.

• • •

California plums are offered in two shades, blue and red, at $2.50 per box.

• • •

The orange market is still very quiet, there being such a variety of other fruit in the market.

• • •

Cantaloupes and water melons are still enjoying a great popularity and prices are on a reasonable basis. Receipts are holding up well.

In the fresh vegetable market, tomatoes are now as cheap as they are likely to be any time this season, selling at 75 cents a crate. Receipts now are from points nearer Duluth than the early tomatoes and the quality is better.

• • •

Lettuce, green onions, parsley, radishes, home grown peas and celery are vieing with green corn and tomatoes for popularity in the lists and prices are probably at their lowest ebb, owing to the liberality of receipts.

• • •

In the staple vegetable market, the principal interest is in cabbages, of which food the first of the new crop is beginning to arrive. Last winter and during all of the time which last year's crop was the only offering of cabbage on the market, prices were very high, owing to the shortage of the crop, but with the arrival of the new cabbage, the bullish tone had disappeared and the vegetable is once more on a reasonable level. Cabbages are quoted today at $1.60 per crate.

• • •

New roots of different kinds are beginning to arrive and are being offered around 75 cents and $1 a bushel. New horse radish is selling at $7.50 a barrel.

• • •

Far from being depressed, the market for butter and eggs has become stronger during the past week, prices advancing.

Creamery butter is now offered at 29 to 30 cents a pound, which range is a point up from last week. Renovated butter is selling at 25 cents.

Eggs are showing great strength, today's quotations for the fresh variety being 25 cents a dozen. The demand is very firm, as dealers are laying in storage stocks. They have not been able at any time this summer to buy eggs at bottom prices and the indications point to a very strong market for them during the coming winter.

• • •

Poultry and meats are steady and unchanged.

END QUIZ IN THAW CASE

White was preventing her from getting a position at any theater.

District Attorney Jerome asked the witness whether he had ever before the first trial heard stories regarding immoral practices by Thaw. Mr. O'Mara said he had not.

The detective said he had read many letters from women to Thaw's attorneys.

"Generally," he remarked, "they ended by wanting money, and I would tear them up, or throw them away."

"I did not get enough to pay my expenses, I was not in it for money. I knew Mr. Thaw as a boy, and I came down here on my own accord to do what I could."

"But how much did you get?" persisted Jerome.

"I did not get over $2,200 in all. I was here eleven weeks during the first trial and during part of the second."

"Were you ever called upon to settle any matters in Pittsburg in which Harry Thaw was involved?"

"Never," said O'Mara.

"Or elsewhere?"

"No, sir."

Said He Believed It.

"Did this story of an actress, experienced in the ways of New York, that one of the most prominent men in New York tried to wrong her in a room in Madison Square garden tower, seem true to your sophisticated mind?"

"Yes, I thought it was probable."

FOUR OF LAUNCH PARTY OF TWENTY DROWNED.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 6. — Two drowned bodies are lying at the Canton police station and two others at the bottom of the Patapsco river, as the result of the wreck of a gasoline launch this afternoon. The drowned were Mrs. Katherine F. Brown, aged 60 years; Marie Hawes, aged 5 years; Willard Leach, aged 12 years; Frank Pryor, aged 19 years.

Twenty persons had entered the launch for a short trip on the river. The craft had reached a point about 100 yards from shore when it struck some piling, the top of which was under water. The launch was badly damaged and its occupants were thrown into the water, which at that point is only about four feet deep. Rescue parties at once put out from shore and saved sixteen of those who had been in the launch.

NEW YORK IS STIRRED UP

senate waded over their submerged platform in support, but he challenges the common sense of the Democratic fragment to rally to the ancient but discarded Democratic doctrine which once built up for our country a glorious and triumphant merchant marine. Jefferson and Madison and Monroe were the fathers and founders of this great commercial policy, but a pseudo Democrat of today, who professes Jefferson when he says his political prayers, holds up his hands in protest over the mere suggestion of that great policy which is older and more honorable in his party than the division of the spoils.

"John Johnson of Minnesota knows the faith of the Democratic fathers, even if they were not his own fathers, and he plants himself like a brave man in the forefront of the movement which is going to sweep the Sixty-second congress like a wind from the sea.

West Redeems Nation.

"Ninety per cent of our Atlantic commerce, said Governor Johnson, is carried in foreign bottoms. And this brief century of maritime shame is redeemed today only by the splendid Western fact that 4,000,000 registered steam tonnage carries 200,000,000 tons of American products on the Great Lakes, the Mississippi river and the Pacific coast.

"It is the voice of the West which calls, through John Johnson of Minnesota, for a revival of that merchant marine, which means prosperity to American merchants, prosperity to American workmen and sailors and the safety of our navy and our country in time of war.

"It is inspiring to hear at this time that clear call from a disciple of Jefferson and of real Democracy in the West.

"It is the note which will swell to greater volume when the patriotism of the West is invoked to sustain the patriotic appeal of the next congress for American ships, manned by American sailors to carry American products to the world.

"If the Democratic leaders in the Sixty-second congress have the ear to hear and the grace given them to understand, they may follow the bugle call of Johnson to better things than they have had reason to hope for for a dozen years."

West Has Had Share.

The Sun says: "So far as the whole West is concerned, it nominates a large majority of the candidates for president of both the parties that elects presidents, generally has one of its own sons in the White House and for some time now has been represented in the speaker's chair.

"So far as the Northwest is concerned, it makes its influence felt in national affairs in proportion to the ability its representatives display, and we could name several gentlemen from that section who have been quite potent as spokesmen in congress during recent years.

"The unavoidable conclusion is that if the East has more influence in congress than it is entitled to on the basis of population, the cause must be found in the preponderant ability and experience of its representatives."

Takes Issue With Johnson.

The York Press professes to be rather startled with Governor Johnson's declaration that "it is time the West threw off the shackles of the East," and says:

"We are startled that Governor Johnson should put so low an estimate upon those states as measured with another part of the country not entirely unknown for other reasons than political influence—New York, for example. * * * New York's power in the house has been represented chiefly by Chairman Payne of the ways and means committee, a personal appointee and dutiful agent of Speaker Cannon—Speaker Cannon of the West, and a very next door neighbor of Governor Johnson's strip. Before Speaker Cannon, the speaker of the house was from Iowa, right in Governor Johnson's belt."

The Press then refers to the power that was wielded by the late Senator Allison of Iowa and refers to the members of the cabinet, senators of conspicuous position in congress, representatives of influence and the many presidents from the West, adding:

"When we think of what New York (with the population and vote of the vast territory embraced in Johnson's call) has not been in affairs political, with the exception of Theodore Roosevelt, and what the states which class with Minnesota geographically have done, are doing and give promise of doing, we must decide that either Governor Johnson is too modest to claim the importance of the achievements of his neighbors, or that he is swollen with incalculable ambition for their future power.

"Seriously, compared as to population, industries, trade and wealth, the political influence of Governor Johnson's West or of any part of the West, is as a hundred to one against that of the East."

Yukon exposition at Seattle; will spend three days in the Yosemite valley; stop off at the Grand Canyon of the Colorado; greet the president of Mexico on the international bridge over the Rio Grande at El Paso; take a four days' sail down the Mississippi river from St. Louis to New Orleans, and will spend four days on the ranch of his brother, Charles P. Taft, near Corpus Christi, Tex.

Starting from Beverly, Mass., the president will motor into Boston the morning of Sept. 15—his fifty-second birthday—and there board the car which practically will be a roving White House for two months.

Chicago First Stop.

The president's first stop will be at Chicago, where he will arrive Sept. 16 and spend the evening, leaving at 3 a. m. Sept. 17 for Madison, Wis., where he will spend the entire forenoon of that day, leaving Madison at midday for Winona, Minn., with a brief stop at Portage, Wis., en route.

After spending Friday night at Winona, the President will reach Minneapolis early the morning of Saturday, Sept. 18. The president will spend all of Saturday and Sunday in Minneapolis and St. Paul, leaving Sunday night at 8 p. m. in order to reach Des Moines, Iowa, the morning of Sept. 20. Five hours will be spent in Des Moines, and then the president will move on to Omaha, where he will spend the late afternoon and evening.

Speech in Denver.

Denver, Colo., will be reached Sept. 21. The president will make an address in the Denver auditorium where Mr. Bryan last year was nominated for the presidency.

The president will arrive at Salt Lake City Sept. 24 to remain there until the 26, when the party will leave over the Oregon short line for Pocatello Ida., and Butte, Mont., the latter city being reached Sept. 2 at 6:40 a. m. After spending half a day in Butte, there will be a brief excursion into Helena. Spokane, Wash., will be reached early on Sept. 28, and the entire day will be spent in the city. The forenoon of Sept. 29 will be spent at North Yakima, and the party will arrive at Seattle at 8:15 that evening.

President Taft will spend two days, Sept. 30 and Oct. 1 "doing" the Alaska-Yukon exposition. Two days will be spent in Portland, the party leaving there for a trip down through the Siskiyou mountains, and in view of Mount Shasta, to San Francisco.

Meet Waterways Men.

From the West and Southwest, he will reach St. Louis, Oct. 25 and will leave at 4 p. m. on the steamer assigned to him by the Deep Waterways association, which is to hold its convention in New Orleans upon the president's arrival there. Following the president's boat will be a spectacular flotilla of river craft. One of the trailing boats will be assigned to the thirty governors of states who have accepted invitations to take the trip down the river and to attend the convention. Another boat will be assigned to a congressional delegation of more than 110 members.

From New Orleans the president will go to Jackson, Miss., Birmingham, Ala.; Charleston, S. C.; Augusta, Ga., and then on to Washington, reaching the national capital the night of Nov. 10, but leaving next day for Middletown, Conn., to attend the installation of the new president of Wesleyan university. President Taft also has engagements at Norfolk and Hampton, Va., Nov. 19 and 20, so that his travels will not be done until Nov. 21, when he will reach Washington for the winter and to put the finishing touches on his annual message.

FIRE FOLLOWS AN EXPLOSION

Flames Damage Iron Range Depot to Extent of $400.

Fire of unknown origin damaged the Duluth & Iron Range freight house and contents to the extent of about $400, at 2 o'clock this morning. The building is located at the foot of Sixteenth avenue east.

Some sort of explosion is said to have preceded the blaze, which started among some empty oil barrels piled in one end of the depot. These barrels were burned and some freight was damaged. A hole was burned through the roof at one end.

E. F. Gill, who lives across the street from the station, turned in the alarm. He says his attention was attracted to the fire by the explosion. The department is unable to account for the explosion.

WOMEN FAINT AS CARS JUMPS TRACK

Passengers On West Third Street Line Given Bad Scare.

Four women fainted, others were thrown into hysterics, and a number of people were badly shaken up last evening about 11 o'clock, when an eastbound West Third street car on the Seventy-first avenue west line jumped the track at Thirty-ninth avenue west and Third street.

The car was late and was running rapidly at the time, when it struck the switch at the Thirty-ninth avenue west, where the double track on the West Third street line ends. It is thought that the switch was turned the wrong way.

The derailed car ran along the street for several yards before it was brought to a stop by the motorman. There were about fifteen passengers in the car at the time and all were pitched to the front. Women screamed and four of them fainted. No serious injuries resulted.

The accident delayed the traffic on the line for about an hour.

ST. PAUL PAPER HIT AGAIN.

Plant of News Is Damaged By Second Fire This Week.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 6.—The Daily News suffered the second fire of the week last evening. In addition to the blaze last Tuesday, which did damage to the amount of $5,000, the fire last night destroyed $40,000 worth of property.

Two large presses are probably a total loss. The paper will use the Pioneer Press presses until it can get in shape. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Saloon Safe Blown.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Aug. 6.—Some time during Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning the safe in McGills' saloon at Boyd was blown open and about $50 in money stolen. It was not the work of amateurs, as the job was done well and with little damage to the furniture. The noise of the explosion was herd by people residing near the saloon but an investigation was not made.

MARINE

BUSINESS GOOD ON THE LAKES

Some Figures as to Tonnage From Sault Ste. Marie.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Traffic through the Soo canal during the month of July falls shy but 158,776 tons of equalling the wonderful record established in June of 1907. The total figures are 8,706,666 tons. The registered tonnage established a record with 7,124,841. Iron ore picked up greatly, 6,467,252 tons passing East in comparison with 5,044,873 tons the previous month.

About 4,085,643 bushels of wheat went East, a falling of of 730,244 bushels from June of this year.

Passengers more than doubled the previous month's figures, 8,169 going East and 9,038 West, making a total of 17,207. Vessel passages numbered 2,903 in comparison with 2,350 in June, 1909. Eastbound freight totalled 6,879,310 tons and westbound 1,827,841.

WILD CARRIERS FORCED TO WAIT

Coal and Ore Tonnage Is In Excess of the Demand.

Although the movement of ore is heavy and the coal trade is a little more active there is a surplus of tonnage on the market. Boats are waiting at both ends of the route for cargoes and there is some talk of taking some of the wild carriers out of commission.

"If the vessels that are forced to wait around were laid up for fifteen or twenty days," said a manager "it would do more to brace the market up than anything else."

It is not expected that there will be much improvement in the market this month but the general opinion is that there will be a better demand for tonnage all around in September. The Cleveland vesselmen are not anxious to charter ahead for grain and old offers of 2½ cents for storage capacity have been turned down. The boat men are confident that a better rate for late loading without storage will be paid.

Chartering is light all around as the contract vessels are still taking most of the business.

Coal is coming forward a little more freely but the supply of tonnage is in excess of the demand. Coal receipts at Milwaukee for July, both anthracite and bituminous, show a falling off in comparison with the same period last year.

During the month hard coal receipts aggregated 142,178 tons, while shipments of soft coal to Milwaukee amounted to 418,774 tons.

Last year hard coal receipts approximated 189,160 tons, while soft coal receipts were 570,891 tons.

LAW WILL WORK NO HARDSHIPS

New Boiler Rule Has Been in Force for Years.

It is not thought here that lake vessels are affected by the so-called new ruling of the department of commerce and labor requiring all steamboats to have independent water feed for the boilers. A rule which is believed to cover the same point has been in effect for many years and has been generally enforced.

The rule referred to is found in the general rules and regulations prescribed by the board of supervising inspectors, who are affiliated with the department of commerce and labor. It reads:

"Feed water shall not be admitted into any marine boiler at a temperature less than 100 degs. Fahrenheit, and every such boiler shall have an independent auxiliary feed alliance for supplying said boiler with water, in addition to the usual mode employed, which auxiliary feed shall enter the boiler through an opening independent of the main feed."

Local vessel owners and marine men surmise that the rule has not been enforced generally on the coast, and that somebody has suddenly waked up.

This recalls the spasm in the East when painful conditions were revealed in New York at the time of the Slocum disaster. The Eastern officials seemed to assume that the situation on the lakes was also in need of radical changes, when the fact was that it was so far head of that on the Atlantic coast that the contrast was painful. It took a deal of hard work however, on the part of Western vessel owners to convince the seaboard people that things on the lakes were in first-class condition.

ACCIDENT AT THE SOO.

Marine Laundryman Loses Balance, Strikes Head, and Drowns.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Aug. 6—(Special to The Herald.)—Edward Norris, who collects the laundry of passing boats for a local laundry with a small launch, was drowned this morning. Norris had run alongside the steamer Shaughnessy and had taken the washing. Standing on the port side of the Shaughnessy, he endeavored to jump down twelve feet into the launch. He lost his balance, struck his head against the smaller boat and pitched forward into the water. The body remained on the surface a moment, but not long enough to allow a yawl-boat from the Shaughnessy to reach it. The body has not been recovered.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The steamer Sagamore was bound up and about to enter the Weitzel locks when three men, who it is claimed were unionists, attacked a watchman who was carrying a line. The man received very rough handling and was badly injured when removed to the boat. The incident occurred about midnight.

THIRTY-FIVE INJURED WHEN TRAIN UPSETS CAR.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—An electric car well filled with laborers and with women and children who had spent the day in the country, was struck by a Pennsylvania suburban train at the One Hundred and Third street grade crossing last night and thirty-five persons were injured.

The passenger train, running at a speed of forty miles an hour, hit the street car squarely in the center and turned it upside down in a ditch fifteen feet away.

Of the thirty-five injured the motorman was the most seriously hurt, and is expected to die. Four or five others were injured so seriously that little hope for their recovery is given at the hospitals.

TAGGART'S MAN LOSES PRIMARY

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 6.—To the surprise of the community generally, the counting of the ballots cast yesterday in the primary election for municipal officers showed today that Charles B. Clarke, who had the indorsement and active support of Thomas Taggart, former chairman of the Democratic national committee, was defeated for the Democratic nomination for mayor. The victor was Charles A. Gauss, who had not been prominent previously in politics. His majority is 2,384.

Sam Lewis Shank, an auctioneer and storage housekeeper, was nominated for mayor by the Republicans by a majority of 6,038. His opponent, William N. Harding, was the candidate approved by the well known and experienced party workers who have had control of the organization. Shank, however, made a characteristic and popular campaign, and it was expected that he would win.

Half-price suit sale at the Big Duluth.

LESS THAN HALF BLOODS CANNOT CLAIM LAND.

St. Louis, Aug. 6.—In an opinion which reached the office of the federal court of appeals yesterday, Judge Willis Van De Venter holds that full-blood and half-breed Indians are entitled to shares in the lands of the White Earth reservation in Minnesota. Those of less than half-blood are barred from participation in the allotments. The plaintiffs were Julia W. Oakes, a full-blood Indian, her daughter, a half-breed, and two grandchildren, quarter bloods. The United States circuit court of Minnesota decided against all of them.

Judge Van De Venter upheld this as regards the grand children, but ordered new trials for the other cases.

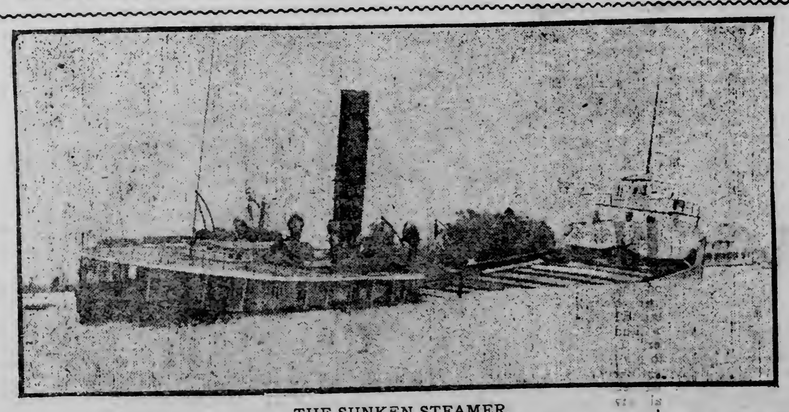
COLLISION WITH CRAIG CAUSED CADILLAC TO SINK IN ST. CLAIR RIVER



THE SUNKEN STEAMER.

The steamer Cadillac lies on the American side of the St. Clair river, as the result of an early morning collision with the steamer Craig, several days ago. The Cadillac is not badly damaged. Capt. H. W. Baker of Detroit is on the job with a wrecking crew, and he hopes to have her up and the hole in her side patched by the first of the week. Her cargo of coal will be discharged at Two Rivers, Lake Michigan, after which she will go to Manitowoc for repairs.

"GOOD BILL," TAFT SAYS

President Issues Statement Giving Views on New Tariff Measure.

Says It Is Sincere Effort to Revise the Duties Downward.

Washington, Aug. 6.—President Taft last night gave out a statement embodying his views on the new tariff act, which he designates officially as the "Payne bill," in accordance with the custom of giving first recognition to the framer of the measure in the house of representatives.

The president declares that while the bill is not perfect by any means, nor a "complete compliance with promises made, strictly interpreted," it is nevertheless a sincere effort on the part of the party to make a downward revision and to comply with the promises of the platform. The statement in full follows:

"I have signed the Payne tariff bill because I believe it to be the result of sincere effort on the part of the Republican party to make a downward revision, and to comply with the promises of the platform as they have been generally understood, and as I interpreted them in the campaign before election.

"Not a Perfect Bill."

"This is not a perfect tariff bill, or a complete compliance with the promises made, strictly interpreted, but a fulfillment free from criticism in respect to a subject matter involving many schedules and thousands of articles could not be expected. It suffices to say that except with regard to whisky, liquors and wines, and in regard to silks and as to some high classes of cottons—all of which may be treated as luxuries and proper subjects of a revenue tariff—there have been very few increases in rates.

"There have been a great number of real decreases in rates and they constitute a sufficient amount to justify the statement that this bill is a substantial downward revision, and a reduction of excessive rates.

"This is not a free trade bill. It was not intended to be. The Republican party did not promise to make a free trade bill.

What Was Promised.

"It promised to make the rates protective, but to reduce them when they exceeded the difference between the cost of production abroad and here, making allowance for the greater normal profit on active investments here. I believe that while this excess has not been reduced in a number of cases, in a great majority the rates are such as are necessary to protect American industries, but are low enough, in case of abnormal increase of demand, and raising of prices, to permit the possibility of the importation of the foreign article, and thus to prevent excessive prices.

"The power granted to the executive under the maximum and minimum clause may be exercised to secure the removal of obstacles which have been interposed by foreign governments in the way of undue and unfair discrimination against American merchandise and products.

Pleased Over Philippines.

"The Philippine tariff section I have struggled to secure for ten years last past, and it gratifies me exceedingly, by my signature, to give it the effect of law. I am sure it will greatly increase the trade between the two countries, and it will do much to build up the Philippines in a healthful prosperity.

"The administrative clauses of the bill and the custom court are admirably adapted to secure a more uniform and a more speedy final construction of the meaning of the law.

"The authority to the president to use agents to assist him in the application of the maximum and minimum section of the statute, and to enable officials to administer the law, gives a wide latitude for the acquisition, under circumstances favorable to its truth, of information in respect to the cost of production of goods at home and abroad, which will throw much light on the operation of the present tariff and be of the primary importance of officially collected data upon which future executive action and executive recommendations may be based.

As to Corporations.

"The corporation tax is a just and equitable excise measure, which it is hoped will produce a sufficient amount to prevent a deficit and which incidentally will secure valuable statistics and information concerning the many corporations of the country, and will constitute an important step toward that degree of publicity and regulation which the tendency in corporate enterprises in the last twenty years has shown to be necessary."

Come saturday, the Big Duluth's annual half-price suit sale.

MANY ARE STUNG UNDER NEW LAW

Score of Steamers Fail to Bring Cargoes In Before Tariff Changes.

New York, Aug. 6.—Nearly twenty trans-Atlantic steamships, which have been bending their utmost efforts in response to orders sent by wireless to reach New York before the new tariff law went into effect, lost their race at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when the doors of the custom house clanged shut and the last payment of duty under the old law was registered and labeled "Entry No. 1, 118,000," by one of Collector Loeb's clerks. Importers who have merchandise on boats will be losers to the extent of between $100,000 and $200,000.

The vessel which lost by the narrowest margin was the Hamburg-American liner Pennsylvania, with a cargo of wines and merchandise which must pay $20,000 extra duty under the new law. Fast scout tugs had been out all day awaiting the big freighter's arrival, with orders to take off her captain and hurry him to the custom house with the ship's manifest. But when 4:30 o'clock came the Pennsylvania was fifty miles or so from port.

Hundreds Caught Napping.

Despite the ample notice which had been given of the pending passage of the bill, hundreds of customs brokers were caught napping. It had been generally expected that Collector Loeb would keep his office open until the stroke of midnight as a concession to the importers, but he declined to do this, and many brokers who had planned to call last night and pay duties on goods recently arrived or just removed from bonded warehouses, found themselves heavy losers.

The custom house has been one of the busiest places in the United States during the last few days. The increase in imports in anticipation of the new legislation, has mounted into hundreds of thousands, and to this has been added several million dollars' worth of merchandise withdrawn from bonded warehouses. The total receipts of the custom house for four business days of the present week will reach more than $4,000,000, double the normal receipts at this period of the year.

Five Just Dodge Law.

Five ships from European ports which arrived yesterday succeeded in getting their cargoes into the country under the old law. They were the Teutonic from Southampton, the Raglan Castle from Hamburg, the Florida from Havre, the Indiana from Genoa, and the Hohenfelde from Hamburg.

Divorce Felon Wife.

Stillwater, Minn., Aug. 6.—James J. Brennan, the husband of Stella Brennan, who was convicted of killing her children in Minneapolis, has commenced an action for divorce against her, alleging conviction of a felony as the cause. She is serving a life sentence in the state prison.

Mr. Brennan is now living in Reeder, Adams county, N. D.

TERRIFIC STORM HITS PITTSBURG

Wind, Rain and Lightning Hold Disastrous Revel for One Hour.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 6.—The Saints Peter and Paul Roman Catholic church was struck by lightning and damaged to the extent of $55,000 by the subsequent fire, several of the finest conservatories in the country almost completely destroyed by hail, lawns destroyed, streets covered with water and mud to the depth of several feet, delayed street car traffic, electric light service suspended for several hours, and many bridges over streams washed away.

These are the results of one of the worst electrical and wind storms that has visited this city in recent years.

The storm struck the East end district of the city early last night, lasting about an hour, and was accompanied by terrific lightning. The storm resembled a cloudburst, so heavy was the fall of water. Large hail stones at times covered the ground. The storm traveled in a southeasterly direction, the downtown section of this city receiving only a shower, the path of the wind and rain being through the residential sections.

SHEEDY AT POINT OF DEATH.

Famous Gambler Sighs "The Maker Plays No Favorites."

New York, Aug. 6.—Pat Sheedy, notorious gambler, is dying. The doctor says so. His wife fears so. The man who has led a life of chance admits that he is playing his last card in his last game.

"I am not afraid." A grim smile flitted across his features. "I know I am going to get a square deal. I'll have as good a chance as I had here. Better. The Maker plays no favorites."

Sheedy has confessed in preparation for the end and he says his house is in order.

Asked what he would say if a boy should come to him for advice, the dying gambler replied:

"Take any road but the crooked one. I've been a gambler. So are all men. Most business is a form of gambling. Think of Wall street. But gambling's no profession for any man.

"I am not afraid," he said as his interviewer left him and his head sank deeper in the big pillow and his voice lost its militant ring. "I am taking no baggage with me. I brought none. But I shall take as much as any Astor or Vanderbilt ever took on this voyage."

BODY IS RECOVERED.

Bruised Corpse of Toder Lydor Is Taken From Rainy River.

Fort Frances, Ont., Aug. 6.—While some boys were fishing below the big power dam near the large rock on the north side of the river recently, the trolling hook caught in the body of Toder Lydor, who was drowned a week ago Monday by falling off a barge above the dam.

They at once reported the matter and R. Finnegan, the diver, employed on the dam, with a couple of others, got a canoe, and putting out for the place where the body lay, towed it with great difficulty through the logs in the eddy to shore. When found, every stitch of clothes except the unfortunate man's shoes and stockings had been torn off by the force of the current, he having passed through the waste gates at the head of the canal. There were not many bruises, but owing to the extremely warm weather, the body was beginning to decompose rapidly.

CONDUCTOR SHOT FOR 10 CENTS EXTRA FARE.

Muncie, Ind., Aug. 6.—Dr. Nelson B. Ross, a physician of this city, shot and killed Daniel Lender, conductor of an interurban car, three miles northeast of Muncie, yesterday. Ross had failed to purchase a ticket, and under a rule of the Muncie & Portland Railroad company, 10 cents extra fare was demanded. Ross refused to pay and was put off the car. Ross, it is said, opened fire. One bullet pierced Lender's heart. Ross returned to Muncie and was placed under arrest. He says he shot in self-defense.

MISSING SOUTH RANGE MAN FOUND IN BUSH.

Calumet, Mich., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Anton Foller of the South Range, who has been missing from his home for the past ten days, was found Wednesday by the Hepton family of the Phoenix, wandering in the brush about one and one-half miles from the Phoenix location.

Foller seemed half demented and presented a pitiable sight when found. He was carrying an armful of boughs and twigs, presumably for the purpose of lighting a fire.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

Unlike the case of the elderly fop of a recent musical comedy, every day is not ladies' day with the boat club. But tomorrow is, and great have been the preparations. The sailing races, and canoe races, and swimming races and other events will all be given with woman, lovely woman, presiding in the position of chief executive.

Among those who have entered in the single canoe races are: Miss Lou Staples and Miss Pearl Hector, Miss Florence Bradley and Miss Clara Church, Miss Edna Park and Miss Gertrude Hoopes, Miss Marie Erd and Miss Senta Erd. There will be a war canoe race, and unlike those that were paddled earlier in the season, there will be no man anywhere near the canoe during the race. The captains will again be Miss Gertrude Hoopes and Miss Kent. Miss Hoopes' crew will consist of Misses Lou Staples, Pearl Hector, Senta Erd, Emma Waugh, Mary Whipple, Claudia Gowan, Elsie Overman, Mrs. J. E. MacGregor, Mrs. Bentley F. Neff, Miss Helen Swan, Miss Helen Majo, Miss Clare Church, Miss Florence Bradley, Miss Marion Schmidt and Miss Eda Parks.

Miss Kent's crew will consist of Misses Marion Williamson, Ruth Carr, Margaret Pearson, Frances Burris, Jean Talboys, Marie Craig, Alva Patenaud, Beulah Denham, Myrna Pressnell, Loretta Tims, Marion Allen, Mary Whipple, Leila Sparks, Evonne Roberts and Grace Staples.

Each boat in the sailing races will be captained by a young woman. Among the boats to be entered in the race in the 28-foot class are:

Viking—Lloyd Le Duc.
Merry Widow—Harris Trux, Helen Dryer.
Aswindie—O. L. Mather, Mrs. Mather.
Voyageur—Oscar Bransted.
Freckles — Robert Fiske, Gladys Heimbach.
Peter Pan—A. H. Kreiger, Mrs. A. H. Kreiger and Marion Fitger.
Feather—Dr. Frank Lynam, Mrs. Lynam.
Scud—George Holland, Miss Anna Roth.
North Wind—Frank Farrell, Ruth Caldwell.
Yaqui—Charles d'Autremont.

There will be two prizes offered, very fetching gold hatpins and the new bar pins in the novelty designs. The committee has most carefully chosen the prizes.

In the 18-foot class there have been the following entries:

Edola—Carl Lonegren.
Spray—Earl Wetterworth.
Thistle—Allen Trux, Ruth Carr.
Frolic—Harry Pierce, Hazel Wilson.

In the 32-foot class the Minotaur will be sailed by Miss Florence Sheehan and the Allegro by Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. S. McDonald.

The following of the club boats will be sailed:

No. 30, Nemadji—Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Schwartz,
No. 32, Allouez—Walkar Jamar and Miss Madge Millar.
No. 35—Chester Harrison.

The usual Saturday night dance will follow the program of sports.

One of the happiest affairs of the season was the informal frolic at the Oatka branch last evening. There were several hundred of the members and their guests present, but the program was of an impromptu nature and most thoroughly enjoyed. The water baseball game was played with Capt. J. D. Mahoney in his new cap, as umpire. Although the Sea Lions assumed a handicap of bathing suits, with skirts and other unaccustomed features and sunbonnets—the Sharks did not score. Nor did the Sea Lions. The musical program included a mandolin and guitar orchestra, with W. W. McMillan, Frank Libby and J. G. Houser, who played accompaniments to the popular songs. There were solos and chorus singing, and there was a reciting by Miss Mary Hart, and an encore. An informal dancing party followed the program.

ENGLISH BUNGALOW.

Miss Leone Wants One on Superior's Shore.

An English bungalow on the north shore of Lake Superior is Miss Maude Leone's particular ambition.

She talked about it this afternoon while she swayed back and forth energetically in a rocking chair in her apartments at the St. Louis hotel and gazed oft dreamily over the lake. Between times her glance flitted about the room in anything but a dreamlike way. And when there was nothing else to do she fanned energetically. Miss Leone's energy had a wilting effect on the interviewer. But it was almost heaven to hear her talk about English bungalows on the north shore of Lake Superior. You never heard anything so cool sounding as her rhapsody on the sound of blue waves breaking against gray stones. You never heard anything so restful as her ideal of a summer home. Nothing to do in it but rest. And you never heard anyone talk about resting with such energy and ambition. One felt that Miss Leone resting would be about equivalent to any one else working hard. She has the plans for this bungalow all drawn, and her mind is made up. In fact, now that the interview is all over, one can't just remember what it is that she's waiting for. And what could it be—the plans are drawn, her mind is made up—well, maybe you're right. Perhaps it is the money?

"I like the rest of the country, but, oh, you Duluth!" is Miss Leone's attitude. She adores Duluth. When she is playing at other places they are nice, she says, but even on occasions when everything is going all right there comes to her a little wish that she might be playing that scene in dear old Duluth. Another of Miss Leone's ambitions besides a summer home here is a stock theater of her own in which she might appear in stock plays whenever she wants. She likes to play in stock because it is then possible to have some kind of home. In stock all you have to do is to sit up half the night studying your part and get up early to be at a rehearsal and play a matinee in the afternoon, and evening performance, and for recreation study a new part. Miss Leone doesn't mind that at all; but tumbling over boxes, and packing trunks, and rushing to the train, and maybe missing it, and being at one hotel tonight and another one tomorrow night, she considers that quite racking on one's nerves.

Miss Leone believes also in the power that the drama may be in the life of the people. Also she believes in the moral responsibility of producers and actors. In fact you never heard such a lot of ideas tumbling out one after another, even on a hot summer afternoon, while she fanned energetically and rocked quite violently the whole time.

To Escape Wrinkles.

"Look at a paralytic if you think wrinkles incurable," said a beauty doctor. "On the side he is paralyzed all his wrinkles disappear. Though he be 60 or 70 his profile on that side is the profile of youth.

"So the paralytic shows us how to cure our wrinkles—namely, by keeping our facial muscles still. If we keep our faces in perfect repose, never laughing when the comedian sings his best song, never weeping when wife or sweetheart dies, we will have no wrinkles whatever.

"The skin wouldn't wrinkle if it were not exposed. The skin of the body is much disturbed by action of the muscles underneath—as at the knee, for instance—yet this unexposed skin never wrinkles. Not being exposed to the bad influence of sun and wind it has not lost the oil and the elasticity of childhood."

Learn to Listen.

Most of us would like to be good talkers, but we can't all manage it. Never mind; even if you can't be a good talker, you can be a good listener, and good listeners are often quite as popular as good talkers, says an exchange.

But in order to be a good listener, one must always appear interested in the conversation, no matter how dull it is, and never let one's eyes wander round the room when people are talking. It is necessary, too, to keep one's faculties alert, and be always ready to be interested in any subject that is started. If one can ask intelligent questions in connection with it, so much the better.

A brilliant conversationalist is always an attraction at a dinner party, of course, but the hostess would find it rather trying if all her guests were possessed of that art. So most people try to invite good listeners as well as brilliant talkers, and many a longed-for invitation finds its way in consequence to the woman who has mastered the art of listening intelligently.

IRONWOOD BAKERY FIRE.

Prompt Action By Department Prevented Disastrous Blaze.

Ironwood, Mich., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire broke out in the kitchen of the Fuin bakery on McLeod avenue early Tuesday morning and the entire block for a time was in danger of total destruction.

The bakery is two doors from the fire hall and between Hall's harness shop and Larson's paint shop. The last two buildings were damaged considerably by flames and water. The building and contents were burned beyond repair, and but for the prompt and effective service of the fire department the entire block may have suffered.

The Gogebic National bank has been formed and incorporated. Certificates have been issued to the stockholders and assessments levied. The officers have been elected and all positions filled by competent and efficient men.

UTLEY IS AGAIN PUT ON STAND

Is Examined in Inquiry Into Death of Lieut. Sutton at Annapolis.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 6.—Lieut. Harold H. Utley of the marine corps, was recalled at today's session of the investigation into the death of Lieut. James N. Sutton. Henry E. Davis, counsel for Mrs. Sutton, Lieut. Sutton's mother, continued his examination.

Maj. Leonard, the judge advocate, arose to make a statement "in justice to himself," before Mr. Utley began to testify.

"I want to go on record that under the law and regulations I had to instruct Lieut. Utley as to his rights as a defendant that he did not have to answer questions which might tend to incriminate him," said Maj. Leonard. "Some of the newspapers have said that I tried to stop the mouth of this witness, and I want this statement to appear here in justice to myself."

Tells of Tragedy.

Mr. Davis took the witness back to the scene of the tragedy, and questioned him closely about the incidents leading up to the shooting, emphasizing discrepancies in Utley's testimony of yesterday, and reading from the testimony of the other officers who also were there.

While Utley had said he was under the impression at the time of the shooting that Sutton, in the heat of the struggle with him and other officers who were attempting to disarm Sutton, directed the shot against himself, he was not nearly as positive about the suicide theory as the preceding witness. In answer to Maj. Leonard's questions, the witness said he would consider that a man committed suicide who was attempting to shoot some one else and shot himself by mistake. And later, under cross-examination by Mr. Davis, he admitted that he was reaching for Sutton's hand to disarm him when the latter freed his arm from beneath his chest and the revolver flashed.

Accuses Nobody.

"Our object at this inquiry is to remove the stigma of suicide from Lieut. Sutton's name, and not to point the finger of suspicion toward any one of these defendants," said Mr. Davis at the adjournment of court yesterday, "and Lieut. Utley's testimony must be considered of great importance in that light."

Utley was senior officer in the party that were with Sutton on the night in question.

MADRID MURDER MYSTERY.

Beautiful Servant Girl Killed and Valuable Jewels Stolen.

Madrid, Aug. 6.—The whole of Madrid is deeply impressed by a sensational crime committed a few nights ago. A beautiful servant girl, employed by a rich stock broker, was murdered at her master's house. The head was severed from the body. The brother-in-law of Senora del Valle, wife of the stock broker, was arrested, but it is believed the murderer is another man who has taken flight.

The murder was probably committed with the object of robbery, the supposition being that the servant caught the murderer at the moment he was taking the jewels of Senora del Valle.

CONCERT AT LESTER PARK

Will Be Given Under Auspices of The Herald, Sunday.

Fine Program Arranged By the Third Regiment Band.

Lester park will be the scene of the next Evening Herald band concert, with the famous Third Regiment band as the big attraction. The affair was to have been held last Sunday, but weather conditions were not right, and the ground and grass were wet, making it necessary to postpone the event until next Sunday afternoon.

Lester park is perhaps more familiar to Duluthians than any other park of the city. It is so situated that it can accommodate a crowd of practically unlimited size. With the right kind of weather, the attendance at the Sunday concert should be even larger than at any of these very successful events given during the past few weeks under the auspices of The Herald.

Jens Flaaten, conductor of the band, has arranged a fine program for the occasion. It will be as follows:

March—"Love Is King".....Jones
Overture—"William Tell" ....Rossini
"Serenata Egyptienne". Aurina-Lincke
"Idyll After Sunset" .....Pryor
Fifteen Minutes Intermission.
Selection—"Little Nemo".....Herbert
Piccolo solo.....Selected
A. Ritzman.
(a.) Intermezzo—"Flower Girl" .....Wenrich
(b.) Ragtime waltz—"Tobacco" .....Johnson
Medley—Stern's latest song hits.....

The program will conclude with the "Star Spangled Banner." The audience will stand during the rendition of this patriotic selection.

Kain and several other city officials on charges of failing to enforce contracts with the Lexington Street Railway company as to street repairs. The railway officials are charged with malfeasance in office.

NEARS RECORD AMONG DRY LAWS

Alabama Legislator Introduces Unusually Rigorous Bill In House.

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 6.—One of the most drastic prohibition bills on record has been introduced in the house by Representative Fuller and referred to the temperance committee. It provides among other things:

That buildings shall not be let for the sale of intoxicants.

That any right or lease is forfeited in case a tenant violates the law.

That liquors shall not be advertised in newspapers.

Delivery to any public place is an evidence of sale.

Right to raid and break open any place thought to contain violators of the law.

Grand juries must indict; servants may not be excused from testifying against masters.

Soliciting for outside houses prohibited, also shipping from one point to another.

Prohibited liquors are to be contraband; the presence of a government license is prima facie evidence of guilt.

No one shall drink intoxicating liquors upon trains.

Amidst scenes of wild enthusiasm, the bill making prohibition constitutional passed the house late yesterday afternoon. The vote was 7 to 29, six more than the constitutional three-fifths majority. Speaker Carmichael closed the debate for the bill and was constantly cheered by the gallery. The speaker several times threatened to clear the galleries.

HOUSTON THREATENS WAR UPON NEGROES.

Houston, Tex., Aug. 6.—Following a series of fires in the residence district of the city, some of which have been preceded by burglaries, coupled with anonymous threats of negroes to burn up the city, Houston citizens are aroused to the frenzy point. A vigilance committee has been formed and a curfew law for negroes will be advocated. The Citizens' alliance has been appealed to, and if negro firebugs are caught they will be dealt with summarily.

CANADA TO CELEBRATE

To Commemorate Hundred Years of Peace With United States.

Governor General Grey and Premier Laurier Heartily Indorse Movement.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 6.—The tentative plans for a striking national and international celebration of the 100 years of peace in the dominion ending with the war of 1812 have received renewed impetus with the official approval given to them by both his excellency, Earl Grey, and the premier, Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The first step taken by the moving spirits in the plans for a fitting centenary observance was to organize a Centenary Celebration association. It was made up mainly of the members of various patriotic organizations such as the United Empire Loyalists' association, the Military Institute, Daughters of the Empire, the veterans' association, the historical societies and kindred organizations in Canada.

The constitution of the association adopted on Thursday night sets forth the aims of the organization as being, first, national in commemorating the defense and unification of the dominion, and, second, educative and international in teaching patriotism and good citizenship through distribution of literature, through public fetes and celebrations in each province; the erection of monuments of national heroes, and, finally, through some fitting international celebration, possibly at Niagara, where the entente cordiale between two great Anglo-Saxon people could be appropriately marked in some public demonstration.

Central Organization.

The association is now getting into communication with patriotic, historical and similar organizations throughout the dominion with a view of securing their co-operation in one representative central organization.

Later on when the local plans take more tangible form, it is understood negotiations will be opened with patriotic and historical organizations along the American side of the Niagara frontier with a view of interesting them in the international features of the occasion.

R. S. Neville, K. C., of Toronto is acting secretary of the Centenary Celebration association. He with a number of other prominent public men of Toronto waited upon Earl Grey and Premier Laurier last week and laid before them the plans of the association so far as they have been formulated. Both the governor general and the prime minister expressed themselves in hearty accord with the association's plans. Earl Grey regards the suggestion for a centenary celebration of international peace and of national unification and development as one having splendid potentialities, whether considered from national, international or imperial viewpoints.

Sir Wilfrid is in full sympathy with the movement to make the occasion a striking object lesson to Old World nations of the victories of peace and international comity, as compared to the unrest and the burdens of European militarism.

The proposals advanced by Mr. Neville are still in tentative form and to become effective will, of course, have to be supplemented by the co-operation of the various provincial and national governments. Mr. Neville has been requested to keep the governor general and Premier Laurier informed of the negotiations as rapidly as they progress.

On Magnificent Scale.

The details will be given careful consideration, but from the general approval already given there is little doubt that the project will be carried out on a magnificent scale.

The Niagara frontier, it is generally conceded, offers the most beautiful and most accessible natural theater for grand displays of pageantry and the borderland is thickly dotted with spots most important in the history of both the United States and Canada, some of which it is felt are fading from memory and should be given a proper place in historical records.

The expense of the centennial, it is expected, will be borne by the provincial governments and it is hoped it is considerably larger sum can be raised than was appropriated for the celebration at Quebec last year. The movement is being started several years in advance of the centennial date so as to allow plenty of time for an educative campaign and for carrying out the preliminary arrangements essential to make a success of the affair commensurate with its national dignity.

ARRANGEMENTS ARE ELABORATE

Program of Circus and Vaudeville Features at State Fair.

So elaborate are the arrangements now being made for the double program of circus and vaudeville features to be given in front of the grandstand at the Minnesota state fair each afternoon and evening in the livestock amphitheater, that it would require a train of twenty cars to transport the artists and their paraphernalia, equipment, costumes, horses, bears, lions and other baggage were the entire show shipped at some distant point and brought intact.

A special feature engaged for the horse show an dhippodrome is Madame Maranette's high school horses, including St. Patrick, the highest jumping horse in the world, holder of the world record of 7 feet 10¼ inches. Madame Maranette will also bring with her four other jumping horses, and in addition to which she will have the Arabian mare Sunflower, the one horse that keeps absolute time with the music, while showing high school gaits. She will also show Chief Geronimo, an Arabian stallion, which does all high school and Kentucky gaits while driven to a buggy.

MURRI'S BOOKS CONDEMNED.

Roman Congregation Also Disapproves French Historian's Works.

Milan, Aug. 6.—The Roman Congregation of the Index has condemned the lectures, sermons and philosophical and political writings of Don Romolo Murri, the leader of the Christian democracy movement in Italy, who was recently excommunicated by the pope for his political opinions. This fresh condemnation covers all works published during the last ten years, including a notable series of thirty lectures delivered at Ancona cathedral, at the invitation of the late Cardinal Murri, against the persecution of the Roman curia.

The lectures dealt with "the religious life in Christianity," and won the commendation of innumerable prelates and were translated into many languages.

A still more significant condemnation is that of the learned French ecclesiastical historian, Abbe Joseph Turnel, whose "History of the Dogma of the Papacy Till the Close of the Fourth Century," and the more recent work, "The Blessed Virgin in History," are all three relegated to the official catalogue of forbidden books. A large number of Italian and French modernist publications are also placed on the index by this latest decree.

LOTTERY IS REMUNERATIVE.

Italy Made $7,227,000 Last Year on Gambling Game.

Rome, Aug. 6.—The importance of the weekly lottery, which the Italian government took over from the Papal and Bourbon governments, in forming budget surplusses is once more proved by the figures of the last financial year, which have just been published.

During that period the state made a gross sum of $16,681,280, and a net profit of $7,227,000, out of this cheap and very popular form of gambling the difference being composed of some $1,500,000 in commissions and other office expenses, and the rest of the prizes. The lottery is far more remunerative at Naples than anywhere else, for there the average amount spent in this sort of speculation is as much as $3.87 per head of the population, whereas in the better-educated northern district of Sondrio the average is only 4 cents.

The lottery is most productive where the people are most illiterate and least inclined to invest in savings banks; for the illiterates at Naples are still nearly 55 per cent of the total population, after nearly fifty years of Italian rule there.

The lottery is one of the most generally appreciated government institutions; it is fair and above board; large sums are not infrequently won, and a ticket may be bought for as little as a penny. But its bad influence in encouraging superstition and a gambling spirit is obvious, and a Socialist deputy from the south lately expressed the hope that one day it would be abolished. In that case there would probably be a revolution at Naples.

MACEDONIAN CONDITIONS

Thirty Assassinations, Mostly Political, Have Taken Place Recently.

Salonika, Aug. 6.—The condition of Macedonia, though contrasting favorably with that which existed under the former regime, has latterly begun to afford some cause for anxiety. The population still enjoys comparative immunity from the attacks of bands, but during the last two months sporadic political assassinations have shown a tendency to increase. The culprits take refuge in the mountains, and bands are beginning to form in various districts. About thirty assassinations, for the most part political, have taken place within this period in the three Macedonian vilayets.

At least one Greek band is on a war footing in the district of Morichovo, where the chiefs, Vardas and Tzitzos are active, and others infest the neighborhood of Florina and Castoria. A portion of the Florina region is terrorized by one Themistocles, who is said to have been an officer in the Greek army. A mixed band in the Ochrida district is composed partly of Greeks and partly of Moslem reactionaries.

In the Kumanovo district a Servian band of thirty-two men under Spasso Garda has lately made its appearance. It distributes arms to the adherents of the Servian cause and has assassinated three Bulgarians. Servian emissaries are also active in the neighborhood of Prilep. Small Bulgarian bands, chiefly composed of outlaws and persons excluded from the amnesty, infest the regions of Monastir, Yenidje-Vardda and Nevrokop. The Bulgarian peasants manifest no sympathy with them and aid the authorities in pursuing them.

The administration of justice under the new regime is stated to differ little from that of past times, most of the former officials being retained in the absence of eligible candidates. The well known brigand chief Tchornopeeff, a former sergeant in the Bulgarian army, has been appointed judge in the tribunal at Strumnitza. Sandansky, who is surrounded by a group of anarchists, remains here and his adherents publish a newspaper which is stated to receive a subvention from the authorities.

CITY TO LOWER BUILDING.

Parisian Built Hotel Higher Than Law Allows, Say Surveyors.

Paris, Aug. 6.—The agitation for the preservation of the beauty of Paris and for the strict enforcement of the building laws is having excellent results. An instance has just occurred in which a fine prospect has been preserved from partial disfigurement in the Place de l'Etoile.

Here a new hotel has just been erected and the surveyors have discovered that the building is about thirty-two inches higher than the law allows. An order has been issued to the landlord to have the building reduced to the legal height, but as he has so far refused to obey it the municipality is about to carry out the work itself at a cost of $14,000. This sum will be recovered afterwards from the landlord.

MADE $7,000 ON CUCUMBERS.

Kansas Man Produced Three Crops in Nine Months.

Olathe, Kan., Aug. 6.—An enterprising Olathe man cleaned up $7,000 during the past nine months on cucumbers. He produces them when other people don't. That explains his large profits. Last year he conceived the idea that if he could produce cucumbers for the market during the fall, winter and early spring he might make some money. So he built a hot house about 100 feet long and thirty feet wide. He heated it with steam and equipped it with trellise.

He planted the seed in rich soil under the trellises and the vines soon grew up over them like grape vines. By careful attention the vines would produce almost constantly. When the life was about out of one planting of vines he would tear them out and plant a new crop. During the season he produced three crops.

The cucumber farmer was unable to supply the demand and he will extend his hothouse this year.

FOG-PENETRATING LAMP.

Important Discovery Made By an Inventor in London.

London, Aug. 6.—An important discovery—an electric lamp which can penetrate the densest fog—has been made in somewhat romantic fashion.

Scientists have been trying for years to find such a light, but the inventor stumbled on it by chance while seeking to make a non-glare lamp for motor cars.

He succeeded in making such a lamp, and, to his surprise, he discovered at the same time that he had produced a fog-penetrating light, hitherto unknown.

The Society of Illuminating Engineers and other scientific and engineering bodies have long sought such a light, which, in technical language, "excludes the ultraviolet rays."

The new lamp is called the "Sylverlyte," and produces a clear, greenish penetrating light like moonlight. It gives great illuminating power, without heat, and it is thought possible it may be useful like the X-rays in surgical cases. A committee of surgeons is carrying out experiments to ascertain whether this is the case.

S.S.S. NATURE'S PERFECT TONIC

Something more than an ordinary tonic is required to restore health to a weakened, run-down system; the medicine must possess blood-purifying properties as well, because the weakness and impurity of the circulation is responsible for the poor physical condition. The blood does not contain the necessary quantity of rich, red corpuscles, and is therefore a weak, watery stream which cannot afford sufficient nourishment to sustain the system in ordinary health. A poorly nourished body cannot resist disease, and this explains why so many persons are attacked by a spell of sickness when the use of a good tonic would have prevented the trouble. In S. S. S. will be found both blood-cleansing and tonic qualities combined. It builds up weak constitutions by removing all impurities and germs from the blood, thus supplying a certain means for restoring strength and invigorating the system. The healthful, vegetable ingredients of which S. S. S. is composed make it splendidly fitted to the needs of those systems which are delicate from any cause. It is Nature's Perfect Tonic, free from all harmful minerals, a safe and pleasant acting medicine for persons of every age. S. S. S. rids the body of that tired, worn-out feeling so common at this season, improves the appetite and digestion, tones up the stomach, acts with pleasing effects on the nervous system, and reinvigorates every portion of the body. NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

LOCATE BODY IN MUD LAKE

Corpse of Missing Boatman Found Standing in Water.

Jake Funk Drowned Day Before His Child Is Born.

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jake Funk, a German farmer, living on the banks of Mud lake, opposite the village of Puposky, was drowned in the lake Wednesday morning. His body was found in the lake some time after the drowning occurred.

Funk had for some time operated a gasoline launch on the lake, and his boat was found Wednesday forenoon tightly wedged in the bank of the island opposite his home.

Search was made and his body found, standing upright on the bottom of the lake, near the shore, with water reaching two feet over his head.

Funk had lived on Mud lake for several years past, and was well known to people living in this city as well as his neighbors. He was married about a year ago, and his wife gave birth to a child yesterday morning.

The funeral was held at the Catholic church in this city this morning.

RED LAKE SCRAP WILL NOT DOWN

Ask County Attorney to Halt New Courthouse.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The old fight between this place and Red Lake Falls over the county seat which has furnished plenty of work for lawyers and stirred up more or less bitterness still continues.

The latest is an attempt to prevent the construction of the proposed new courthouse at Red Lake Falls to take the place of the one burned down.

This week seven taxpayers petitioned the county attorney to take action to prevent the county auditor from paying any warrants for the expenses involved in connection with the recent purchase of property in Red Lake Falls for the site of a new county house by the board of county commissioners.

This is one phase of the county division fight in this county and will not be settled until the supreme court passes on the matter.

BEHEADS WIFE; KILLS SELF

Joseph Hedsler Commits a Double Crime in Copper Country.

Houghton, Mich., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Hensler wreaked awful vengeance late yesterday upon his wife, living at Hurontown, a suburb, from whom he had been separated, when he cut her throat with a razor, practically severing the head from the body. Then he turned the razor upon his own throat cutting such a gash that he soon bled to death. The affair was a tragic culmination to domestic troubles and a separation. Hensler was 42 and his wife 38, and they have four children.

Several months ago Hensler was arrested and was sent from town for threatening his wife. He returned yesterday from Chicago and went at once to the home. After being here a few hours he started a quarrel with his wife and attacked her with a razor. He slashed her throat from ear to ear, killing her instantly, and then turned the razor on himself and inflicted a worse gash. He started to run from the house, but dropped and died when about 200 feet away. When found his head was almost off and the body lay in a pool of blood. The room in which the murder and suicide occurred was spattered with blood. The inquest will be held today.

NEED TARIFF COMMISSION.

Congressman Gronna of North Dakota Says Recent Events Prove It.

Lakota, N. D., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Congressman A. J. Gronna of North Dakota, has arrived home from Washington, D. C., and in speaking of the tariff fight said:

"I am thoroughly convinced of the fact that the United States should have a tariff commission. Although always an advocate of such a commission, the session just closing has resulted in my opinion on the subject before more firmly cemented than ever before.

"It is only by a tariff commission that we will be able to have the right kind of a tariff. A tariff should be made by men who have made a thorough study of the situation and not by trades, as it is no wmade. The fight is local and the trades that are made determine the fate of this or that schedule.

HONOR GEN. BRAGG.

Survivors of Iron Brigade Greet Their Old Commander.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 6.—One of the most interesting special reunions of "home-coming" week was held Wednesday at the Soldiers' home when the gallant old Iron brigade met in the home of Governer Cornelius Wheeler to greet their old commander, Gen. Edward S. Bragg.

Gen. Bragg still exhibits the fire which made him one of the bravest warriors when he led the old brigade against the rebels in the 60s. Physically he shows the effects of strenuous years of activity in politics and private life. His voice is low and weak, and his step faltering, but his mind is as keen and his sentiment as tender as in the old days.

It is doubtful if any commander of the Civil war commanded greater affection from his men than Gen. Bragg. Few were present, but those few members of the Iron brigade showered tokens of esteem and love upon their old officer. They listened to his every word with a respect born of love as well as admiration, and when the time for election of officers of the organization came, Gen Bragg was elected president as usual, and the announcement was followed with cheers.

EDINBURGH WORKED UP.

North Dakota City Aroused Over Brutal Treatment of Woman.

Edinburg, N. D. Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Martin Lundahl has been placed under arrest by the authorities of Walsh county on a charge of assaulting and brutally beating Miss Gina Lee in this city last week. He will have his hearing this afternoon.

The assault of Miss Lee was one of the most outrageous that has ever been committed in this section of the state. The girl was going to her home along on a dark road when a man sprang out from the bushes, struck her and beat her, then leaving her to find her way to help the best she could.

Feeling runs high in the community and if Lundahl is the guilty man, it will undoubtedly go hard with him.

TO TEST DRAINAGE LAW.

Minnesota River Improvement League Is to Start Proceedings.

St. Peter, Minn., Aug. 6.—Officers of the Minnesota River Improvement league are to test the validity of the state drainage law and determine whether they may look to the state for help in straightening and widening the channel of the stream. This was decided upon Wednesday at a conference in this city, the meeting being attended by J. H. Diers of Blakely, president of the league; F. C. Irwin of Belle Plaine, its secretary; Senator A. L. Poehler of Sibley county, Senator C. A. Johnson of Nicollet county and George T. Olsen of this city.

Attorney General Simpson has ruled that, so far as the Minnesota river is concerned, the appropriations at the disposal of the state drainage board are not available. In addition, an appropriation of $25,000 is directly affected.

GREAT BLUEBERRY CROP.

Northern Minnesota, Wisconsin and Upper Michigan to Furnish It.

Ishpeming, Mich., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Ewald, the oldest and most extensive blueberry buyer in the United States, who has arrived in this section on his annual buying campaign, estimates that from 25,000 to 35,000 crates of berries will be shipped from the upper peninsula this season. The shipments last year when the crop was a complete failure in many places, were much below normal, not only from this region, but also from points in Wisconsin and Minnesota.

"The crop in Northern Wisconsin is the largest I have ever seen," Mr. Ewald said. "The shipments in the territory between Superior and Spooner should almost reach 100,000 crates, provided there are no killing frosts this month. The territory between Duluth and Bemidji, Minn., will probably send out in excess of 25,000 crates. The market is not very active at present."

TWO BROTHERS HELD.

Alleged to Have Tried to Wreck Train Near Eau Claire.

Eau Claire, Wis., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph and George Kanercek, brothers, arrested by the sheriff on suspicion of being the parties who placed ten ties on the Milwaukee tracks about half a mile from the powerhouse Sunday, with evident intent to wreck a train, were arraigned in Judge Singleton's court on a charge of attempting to wreck a train. Pleading not guilty the preliminary hearing was adjourned to Aug. 14. The defendants were not represented by an attorney. District Attorney Arnold appeared for the prosecution.

Additional evidence has been secured against the two men which tends to strengthen the theory that they were the parties who placed the ties on the track. A woman saw two men lay the last tie on the rails and sneak away, and she has identified the two men under arrest as the same parties.

DULUTH-EAU CLAIRE BIKE TRIP HALTED.

Eau Claire, Wis., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Robert Pond was called back from his bicycle trip to Duluth on account of the death of his cousin, Edward Felton. William Phillips, who was with him on the trip, will go to Hayward with his father, leaving their wheels in Spooner. The boys made as far as Rice Lake the first evening at 6 o'clock, a distance of sixty-three miles. The next morning they pushed on to Spooner, thirty-five miles farther, where Robert was called back. He will join Mr. Phillips again Saturday and complete the trip of about seventy-five miles more.

FORMER DULUTHIAN ABLE TO BE AROUND.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 6.—Harry Webb, a former Duluth resident who was injured in Grand Forks June 6 as a result of the caving in of a portion of a basement in which he was working, was able to be around for the first time yesterday. Webb's recovery is most remarkable, as the injuries sustained were of such a character that at the time the accident occurred no hope whatever was held out for his life.

ASHLAND LIFE TIMER IS OUT OF PENITENTIARY.

Ashland, Wis., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Antonio Lorenzo, a life prisoner in the Waupun state's prison, has had his sentence commuted to thirty-nine years, by Governor Davidson. Lorenzo was convicted of murder in the first degree, July 17, 1888. The thirty-nine years dated from the time of sentence, and counting good time, the time expired before executive action. Warden Town of the Waupun prison therefore discharged Lorenzo.

NAMES HIS PLACE.

Thief River Falls Man First to Observe New Law.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Under a law passed by the last legislature, Martin Bothum, a local market gardener, had the name "Wonderland" registered at the county house as the proper name of his property north of this city.

This is the first action under this law in Red Lake county, and will likely be followed by others. The registration prevents others in the county from using the same designation for their farm homes.

MEET AGAIN AT WALKER.

Cass County Old Settlers Have Reunion This Week.

Walker, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The second annual meeting of the Cass County Old Settlers' association was held at Hackensack Wednesday and was largely attended. Addresses were delivered by Judge Ely Wright, Attorneys De Lury and Scribner of Walker and County Attorney Funck of Cass Lake.

At the business meeting the following were elected: President, N. J. Palmer; secretary, Bert Jamison; treasurer, B. B. Bartlett; executive committee, Z. N. Zaffke, James Curo, Richard Funck Eugene Forbes and Silas Scribner. It was voted to hold the next annual meeting here.

ST. CLOUD AROUSED.

Gambling Said to Be Quite Rampant in That City.

St. Cloud, Minn., Aug. 6.—The citizens are stirred over reports of gambling which is reported on reliable evidence to be a flourishing institution at the present time in at least two well-known resorts of this city. A number of informal complaints have reached the ears of police authorities against both places, but convicting evidence is not at hand.

It is a matter of current knowledge that gambling has never been completely rooted out of the city, but a most flagrant case has just come to light. A farmer residing in the vicinity of this city is said to have lost between $800 and $1,200 within the past month to knights of the green table. His shortage was discovered by his wife who found upon an examination of his check book that within the four weeks he had drawn upon their account at the bank, representing the savings of several years, for the entire amount. When questioned concerning the disposal of the funds he admitted that losses at the gambling table induced him to risk his all in hopes of recouping.

CUT BY MOWER SICKLE.

Aged Benton County Man May Lose an Arm If Not His Life.

St. Cloud, Minn., Aug. 6.—C. C. Blouch, 77 years of age, one of the most prominent farmers of Rice, and one of the oldest residents of Benton county, is at St. Raphael's hospital in this city in a critical condition, the result of being cut by the sickle of a mower. His elbow joint is almost completely sawed out and several ribs are broken as the result of the accident. The advanced age of the patient is a serious factor against the healing of the wounds and he will probably lose the use of the injured arm.

Perfectly Moulded Figures

Another Medical Discovery.

To get out of condition is detrimental to beauty of form as well as to health. There is a certain flabbiness which robs a good figure of charm and grace. Those who are beginning to grow fat rapidly are never in the pink of condition.

But here medical science has slipped in with a very wonderful remedy—one which not only restores a perfectly moulded form but renews health and strength. We give the recipe in full for the benfit of our stoutish friends: ½ oz. Marmola, ½ oz. Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and 3½ oz. Peppermint Water.

Any druggist will make up this prescription, or supply you with the ingredients which you can mix yourself. The dose is one teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

The great virtue of this harmless remedy is that whilst the excess fat is being expelled, the person under treatment has a healthy appetite and does not need to study dietetics or go in for tiresome exercises. The whole system is "refreshed" and reinvigorated, the blood renewed and muscular development restored.

THE ALDRICH-TAFT TARIFF.

It is my judgment that a revision of the tariff, in accordance with the pledge of the Republican platform, will be on the whole A SUBSTANTIAL REVISION DOWNWARD, though there will probably be a few exceptions in this regard.—President Taft before election.

Unless we act in accordance with our promises, or if we only keep the word of promise to the ear and break it to the hope, we shall be made accountable to the American people and suffer such consequences as failure to keep faith has always been visited with. It would be better to have no revision at all, unless we are going honestly and fairly to revise the tariff on the basis promised by our party.—President Taft after election.

This is not a perfect tariff bill, or a complete compliance with the promises made, strictly interpreted, but a fulfillment free from criticism in respect to a subject matter involving thousands of articles could not be expected.—President Taft after signing the bill.

The farce is over. Today the Aldrich-Taft tariff bill is a law, replacing the Dingley schedules. Congress has adjourned, and the president, having signed the atrocious infamy which a conspiracy of greed has evolved, has gone to his summer home.

In his capacity of apologist for this betrayal of the people, this repudiation of party promises, the president plays an ungrateful role ungracefully. This is not "a substantial revision downward;" it is a revision upward, and when in March, 1910, 25 per cent ad valorem is added to all these schedules, it will be the most prodigious, confiscatory and prohibitive tariff ever perpetrated. In this bill Mr. Taft's party has done just what he said would bring it "such consequences as failure to keep faith has always been visited with"—it has "kept the word of promise to the ear and broken it to the hope."

The president is disingenuous when he says that except as to liquors, silks and "some high classes of cottons, all of which may be treated as luxuries," there "have been very few increases in rates." What grades of cotton are luxuries? The answer is, all of them since this tariff bill became law. On plain bleached cotton cloth, universally used for women's and children's clothing, costing 15.56 cents per square yard, the duty has been raised from 3.89 cents to 7.5 cents, an advance of 93¾ per cent; when this cloth gets above 16 cents, as it will, the increase will be 121½ per cent. All kinds of clothing made of unbleached, bleached or printed cotton cloths will be advanced in price because of tariff increases; and the whole population uses these things, none of which are luxuries.

The sentiment regarding this bill is universally and justly one of censure and execration. Not a single bloated interest is discontented with its provisions; not a single humble consumer is relieved in the slightest degree.

The conspirators are banking on a burst of prosperity to quiet the protests against this infamous thing. Let them bring on their prosperity; we shall need it to pay the enormous cost of living that this "tariff revision" will bring about!

HOW SPECIFIC TAXATION WORKS.

When so-called "tax reformers" in Minnesota succeeded in having the "wide open" tax amendment to the Constitution adopted, they hailed it as the signal of the dawn of a new day in taxation. All the inequalities and excesses of the old system were to be abolished, and by a system of specific taxation for state purposes the state was to be made more prosperous and contented in a moment.

The sole fruit, thus far, of that wide open amendment is the mortgage registry tax law, which succeeds in changing the burden of taxation from the man that lends the money and ought to pay the tax, to the man that borrows it and puts it to use and who ought not to be taxed for his enterprise.

Nevertheless, all sorts of specific taxes have been proposed to the legislature. There were taxes on iron ore production, taxes on water powers, taxes on bank business, taxes on the gross transactions of wholesale and retail merchants, taxes on grain transfers. None of these measures prevailed, but as they are the logical fruit of the tax amendment, the fight for some of them will be renewed, and others will be proposed.

Georgia is laboring today under a system of specific taxation, and the late session of the Georgia legislature has brought into plain view the inequalities and vices of the plan. Georgia has discovered by bitter experience with other ways that the best way to impose taxes is according to the value of the property taxed—which is according to its ability to pay. There is but one specific tax that is reasonable, and that is the income tax, which is levied according to the ability of the individual to pay taxes. The Atlantic Constitution, criticising the plan of specfic taxation and praying for a return to the method which some people in Minnesota are trying to adopt, says some pertinent things in this connection:

"For a number of years a pernicious and ill-advised policy of taxation has prevailed in this state. Year by year we have unremittingly pursued the plan of levying special taxes on certain forms of property and business activity. Session after session these special taxes on these same sources, wherever situated, have gone up, up, up! It is inevitable that such a warped and one-sided system must reach a breaking point. And that day has come, when, in some instances, the average increase proposed—but fortunately killed—over the original levy touches the stupendous figures of 350 per cent. The most casual student of our financial methods knows that Georgia maintains the most unequal system of taxation of any state in America. In some instances classes of property in this state are not only adequately taxed, but over-taxed. In as many more, or MORE instances, other classes of property not only are inadequately, but grossly under-taxed. If the avowed purpose of our system were inequality and discrimination, we could not more completely achieve that end than at present we are doing. We pursue the economic outrage of continuing to let down easily the property already inadequately taxed, and to pile up the burdens in increasing measure on that now groaning under the load."

That is the system that so-called "tax reformers" have proposed for Minnesota. Shall Minnesota abandon the tried system of taxation according to valuation, which means according to ability to pay, and take up the vicious system of special taxation, manipulated by an irresponsible legislature, which Georgia is struggling to get away from after years have proved its inequalities, its dangers and its absurdities?

JOHN WOOLMAN'S GOOD SENSE.

Dr. Eliot has done the country at least one good service in connection with his "five-foot shelf of books which constitute the essentials of a liberal education." That good lies in introducing to the notice of a people that need the benefit of the example very greatly the case of John Woolman, tailor, philosopher and contented man.

Early in the list of the first instalment of books to fill that five-foot shelf was this entry: "The Journal of John Woolman."

Very many more than nine people out of ten who read that list exclaimed: "Who, in the name of Caxton, is John Woolman?" Not very many people knew, but the interest taken in Dr. Eliot's interesting selection of books will serve to introduce him, and to cause people to contemplate the example set by his life.

John Woolman was a tailor, a Quaker, and incidental to his making of honest clothes he was a preacher in the Society of Friends. He was born in Northampton, N. J., in 1720.

Here is one incident in his career that illustrates his philosophy: His tailoring business prospering, he started a store in connection with his trade. Here is what he said of it himself: "The way to a large business appeared open, but I felt a stop in my mind. Through the mercies of the Almighty I had in a good degree learned to be content with a plain living." So he sold his store and confined himself to his trade, which he used solely as a means of supporting himself while he traveled about preaching the Gospel as the Quakers read it. But though his trade was merely incidental to his real avocation of preacher, teacher and philosopher, he made good, honest clothes, and his services were sought after so that he had all the prosperity he needed—which was all he wished.

Dr. Eliot has recently said something about religion that was hailed in certain quarters as heresy, though to our ears it sounded like pretty good common sense; but in introducing to the American people the example of John Woolman he has committed a greater heresy to the religion of wealth, of grab-and-keep, of every man for himself and de'il take the hindmost, than he ever dreamed of committing toward the religion of the Christ whose Gospel this simple Quaker tailor used to preach. Think of it! Here was a man who was so afraid he would build up a big business and become wealthy that he retired from the commercial field; for he feared that if wealth attracted his energies he would lose sight of the real business of life, which isn't the getting of riches by a long way. If that isn't heresy to the religion of business, of exploitation, of commercial brigandry, then we have no nose for heresy!

But in spite of his timidity about wealth, John Woolman was useful, happy and contented, and he lived a full, rich life. He had plenty to eat and all that he needed to wear; he had the opportunity to do good and he served his Master and found happiness in the service. He didn't envy the man who plunged his whole being into the business of getting rich; and he had no occasion to envy him.

TAFT AND THE TARIFF: A STORY.

When the conference report on the tariff bill was completed and presented to the house, it was announced that the president was receiving congratulations from everywhere on his victory over the forces of evil in the Republican party, represented by Senator Aldrich and his assistants. Republican partisan newspapers, desperately determined to make his work seem marvelous, declared that he had put Aldrich to rout and had saved the people from this arch-traitor who would have enslaved them to the service of greed.

This was curious in the face of the fact that the president had tried to affect only six schedules out of the 4,000 in the bill, and Champ Clark of Missouri told the house a story that illustrates the situation admirably:

A pious Brahmin made a vow he would sacrifice a fine sheep to his gods. Three rogues in the community heard of that vow, and they made up their minds to work a profitable game on the Brahmin. So the next morning when he started out to find his sheep, one of them met him with a blind, mangy dog, and said to the Brahmin: "I understand that you want to buy a sheep."

He said he did.

"Well, I have a fine one here to sell."

The Brahmin said: "That is a blind dog. I don't want it."

While they were talking, another of the accomplices came up and addressed the first, and said that he would like to buy that fine sheep which he had. The Brahmin thought they were both trying to swindle him, and said he could not understand why they thought it was a sheep; that it looked like a dog to him. Then one of the accomplices agreed to leave the decision as to whether it was a dog or a sheep to the first man they met. The Brahmin said that that seemed fair, and he agreed to it.

So they ambled down the road and met the third accomplice, and left it to him. He said it was a sheep, and a fine one.

So the Brahmin bought the blind, mangy dog, paid a good price for it, and sacrificed it to his gods. That made his gods so angry that they destroyed him utterly. "It seems to me," said Champ Clark, "that President Taft has been treated, in the matter of this conference report, precisely as that Brahmin was treated in the sheep and dog transaction. I hope that his fate will be a happier one than that of the Brahmin."

Also, that is the way Taft "out-generaled Aldrich."

To be sure the name Bleriot looks a good deal like "Bleary-eye," but after all they all belong to the class of high flyers.

A DULUTH MARDI GRAS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

It seems to me that the Venetian carnival given by the Duluth Boat club every summer, similar to the event to be pulled off next Monday evening on the bay, is by far too good a thing to be confined to members of the club and such other citizens as are sufficiently interested to get in boats and visit the scene of the fete.

I would suggest that this event be turned into something of a municipal affair, which, while still given under the auspices of the Duluth Boat club, would be open to everybody in Duluth, Superior and the surrounding country. If properly promoted, it might in time be brought to a state where it would attain almost to the significance of the New Orleans Mardi Gras, or the big water carnivals of Venice. I believe that we could attract thousands of people here from all parts of the Northwest if it came to be understood that the carnival were to be an annual affair, in which the municipality would be interested.

I have seen some of the water carnivals in Venice, of which so much has been said, and for beauty they were not to be compared to the affairs pulled off by the boat club, every summer. What makes the Venetian fetes especially notable is the fact that the entire city, as well as the crowds of outsiders, enter into the carnival spirit, just as the crowds do at New Orleans during the Mardi Gras. We have no day or series of days here in the North of the significance of the New Orleans big carnival, and it seems to me that there is an opportunity for Duluth, with its annual water fete, to be to the Northwest in this respect what New Orleans is to the South.

The water carnivals here are always beautiful, but they could be made more so by the expenditure of a little more money, and it wouldn't need much more, either. The city could well afford to supply the extra funds needed, in view of the fact that so many outsiders would be attracted. It could be made an occasion for the running excursions here from various outside points. When the present affairs make such a hit as they do with our local people, who are so familiar with all the advantages offered by the lake, rivers, and bay, as almost to forget them, it can easily be imagined that the carnivals, on an enlarged scale, would prove a remarkable attraction to outsiders. Even now many Duluth people arrange to have their guests from other points here at the time of the boat club carnival, and these guests carry glowing accounts of the affair home to their friends.

Duluth, Aug. 5.

THE STREET FAKIRS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

There is one form of license which I think the city of Duluth should abolish, and the saving to the city would more than offset the money now obtained for the license. The medicine venders who hold down street corners and magnetize the dollars that repose in the pockets of the people their "free shows" attract, should not be allowed to do business in a progressive city like Duluth.

The city does not license gambling games or "skin" games of any kind that are fakes on the surface, yet it will license the alleged "doctors," who usually give some harmless or perhaps harmful preparation in return for the dollars they take from those who are easy enough to "fall" for their smooth line of talk.

The "free shows" are not edifying, and the medicine in the greater number of cases is certainly not the cure-all that the vender claims. The people who buy it should know better, of course, but the city council certainly knows better, and it should exercise its powers to protect the innocent public from being swindled. The children of the city are attracted around the stands by the entertainments, when they might better be home in bed, and their elders hear alleged symptoms of disease explained until they become hypochondriacs.

The medicine shows do no good and do much harm. The gasoline torch operator is a memory of hamlet days and has no place in a metropolitan community. Send him on his way and let him seek the smaller towns for his prey, if the smaller towns haven't wise councils to send him still farther. All street fakirs should receive the same attention. They are a nuisance and an aspersion on the intelligence of our aldermen.

True Sport.

I shot a bird upon a tree
E'en while it sweetly sang to me;
And climbing high, with hunter's zest,
I took the young ones, and the nest.

Then on the placid river's brink
I shot a peaceful deer at drink.
And ducks, while basking in the sun,
Fell victims to my ready gun.

Homeward my ardent pace I set,
And in my bosom no regret,
I blest the glad, victorious day.
Also my trusty camera.

The Contemptible Tariff Squabble.

Springfield Republican: The high tariff policy has cultivated in this country a dominant school of the petitest statesmanship in fiscal matters known to the world. The calculations of this statesmanship are circumscribed and bound down by the limitless greed and helpless fears of a selected body of government-nurtured industries, which have now naturally grown to identify themselves with the government itself. This statesmanship has for weeks been struggling desperately in a tangle of cent-per-centum compromises and adjustments, and late reports from Washington are that the struggle still continues. The country long since ceased to look on with any save a feeling of disgust, and its patience is near exhaustion.

It must be obvious by this time that while the president will doubtless force out of the disgraceful wrangle an average tariff rate just low enough nominally to pass as a downward revision, he will win nothing immediately of a very substantial nature for tariff moderation and reform. He may succeed in securing free hides and perhaps one other free raw material, but if it costs so intense and prolonged a struggle merely to get back upon the free list what was there for years and years before the Dingley revision, just how great will have been the victory for relief from trust extortion and trade oppression under excessive protection? There would, no doubt, remain some measure of moral victory over the forces of high and higher protection. They would be arrested in their course—driven from an offensive to a defensive position; and this would be something to rejoice over. But how small is such an achievement when presented in the light of campaign promises and later expectations!

After all, then, we must incline to the belief that, whether the president gains anything su stantial or not, the result of the session may be to undermine seriously the high tariff position. The country has been gaining a clearer knowledge of the real nature of this policy of protection as it now finds application, and it is beginning to feel humiliated that the genius and activity of its statesmanship can find no better test and no better occupation than is afforded at feeding time by almost any swineherd who has a considerable drove on his hands.

Idleness.

There is no dearer lover of lost hours
Than I.
I can be idler than the idlest flowers;
More idly lie
Than noonday lilies languidly afloat.
And water pillowed in a windless moat.
And I can be
Stiller than some gray stone
That hath no motion known.
It seems to me
That my still idleness doth make my own
All magic gifts of joy's simplicity.

THE WEATHER

CLOUDY

Partly cloudy weather and showers are held out to Duluthians for tonight and tomorrow, by the weather man. Last night was delightful, somewhat warm, but the atmosphere was tempered by a refreshing breeze, which increased this morning. Northerly winds are expected for the next twenty-four hours.

The weather a year ago today was wet and warm.

The sun came up this morning at 4:53 and is scheduled to set at 7:34 this evening.

Mr. Richardson says of weather conditions:

"Slight barometric disturbances, central over the Dakotas, Utah and New Mexico, caused scattered showers throughout the Northwest and central valley states during the past twenty-four hours. Showers also fell over Atlantic and east gulf states, due to the depression that was over the latter district Thursday morning. Moderately warm weather continues in most sections to the eastward of the Rocky mountains. Cooler temperatures attend a high pressure that overlies extreme Western Canada. Indications favor scattered showers in St. Louis and Douglas counties during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

The Basis of the Struggle.

La Follette's Weekly: And here is the basis of the struggle in America: There are those high in power and strong in intellect, many of them, who do not believe that the evils we suffer do not come from maladjustments. They think the poor man, or the criminal, or the ignorant, or the weak, the architect of his own fortune. They can thread the slum or inspect the tenement with a sincere belief that these people are so situated by reason of invitable evils, or of their own fault or failure, and not because of misdirected social forces which are capable of correction by an aroused democracy. They regard the industrial situation in America, as, on the whole, about what it should be. They look upon the huge accumulations of capital and huger accumulations of power which we call trusts, as agencies of men who rule because, on the whole they are best fitted for the rulership. They may not be religious men, but they fervently believe that the obscure and indigent should follow the text of the ritual which bids us to be content in that sphere to which Providence has called us, and they regard as a Divine recognition of an immutable condition the passage which said of Judea of old, "The poor ye have always with you."

Such men and such statesmen do not exactly believe that whatever is, is right, but they believe fully in the game as it is played, in the huge percentage that gives to the "house," the system of chances that divides the wealth of the nation into two piles, one of which is the spoil of the very few who get it in immense lots, and the other the pittances of the very many who get it in pitifully small portions. They believe that the game should be played "on the square" but that any other game than this price-making, pauper-creating game of monopoly and exploitation is possible they do not for a moment believe. And like all members of the gambling fraternity, they are apt to be fine, hearty, open hearted, companionable good fellows. It is a pity that we cannot be friends with them. It is certainly our loss.

But there are some of us who cannot be friends with them. There is another plane of thought into which some have entered. It holds up a vision of a society redeemed by true democracy. It believes in a time when monopoly shall be no more, and labor and capital, no longer at war, shall co-operate to the wiping out of involuntary nd undeserved poverty in an era of industrial equality and social pace. Believers in this may not be very religious, either, but they thrill to the divine democracy of the Golden Rule and the Sermon on the Mount. They believe in the changing of the rules of the game. They seek to eliminate the percentage that goes to the nonproductive "house" and to make production a sure thing for all, open to all hands on equal terms, wherein wealth shall go to the producers in proportions fixed by their individual contributions to production. In short, these have the vision of society redeemed by the institutional application of the principles of Jesus, of Jefferson, of Lincoln. So believing, they cannot lay down their arms, no matter who takes the field against them. The other side may be overwhelmed in numbers and position, but to the man filled with this ideal this makes no difference. "As for me and my house" says he, "we will serve the Lord."

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Stillwater Gazette (Rep.): The house passed the tariff bill but not with the assistance of the Minnesota delegation, save one—Congressman Tawney, who voted yes. The bill as passed is not satisfactory to the eight other members from Minnesota who voted according to their convictions, which was no. It is given out by Senator Beveridge that the bill will be passed by the senate by Thursday and be on the statute books by Saturday. Among those who stand out against the bill are Senators Nelson and Clapp of Minnesota. Out of the eleven men who represent Minnesota in congress, but one favored the bill with his vote, which is a pretty fair indication that the bill as passed is not satisfactory to Minnesota.

St. Cloud Times (Dem.): Eight of Minnesota's nine members voted against the report, and thus the state goes on record as overwhelmingly against the bastard tariff bill. These eight members correctly, faithfully and honestly represented Minnesota. That he might keep himself solid with the Cannon crowd Tawney voted against the wishes of his constituents.

Ortonville Herald-Star: Minnesota lands are in better demand now than at any time in the last half dozen years, and at prices which more nearly represent their actual value.

Fairmont Sentinel: Nero fiddled while Rome burned. Taft played golf while Aldrich and Payne planned national disaster and ruin.

Madison Independent-Press: Very true, Mr. Taft, a senator represents a state and a representative a district while the president represents, or is supposed to, the entire nation, but when you sign that Aldrich monstrosity of tariff revision, if you do, you will show how absolutely ignorant you are of the best interests of the nation.

Owatonna Journal-Chronicle (Rep.): All praise to Congressmen Miller, Volstead, Steenerson, Nye, Lindbergh and Stevens, who registered their protest against the Aldrich-Payne tariff bill with a mighty "No" when their names were called on the final roll call on the passage of the bill in the house. These men accurately represented the sentiment of the great state of Minnesota upon this farcical measure which at best is no better than the Dingley tariff. Their vote showed their attitude in favor of real downward revision to be real; no grandstand play but business, this voting against a bill made a party measure by the machine in control of the house and senate. It is well understool that Senators Nelson and Clapp will also vote no in the senate. Let the names of the men who fearlessly represented the people of Minnesota be remembered.

Brainerd Dispatch: Few people are thoroughly satisfied with their station in life and most of them have some one in mind whom they would like to trade places with. The average farmer after years of toil, after he has gotten his estate in shape and his children well settled, thinks of "moving to town" and enjoying the remainder of his life in ease and comfort. On the other hand the man who has spent the greater part of his life in the town or city dreams of a country residence and the comforts of a rural home.

PLAIN LANGUAGE.

Which I wish to remark,
And my language is plain,
That for ways that are dark
(Those of Aldrich and Payne)
The old G. O. P. is peculiar,
Which the same rather gives one a pain.

It was August the fifth,
And quite soft were the skies.
Which it might be inferred
That Unc. Sam was likewise,
For he got it stuck into him proper,
With a sting of remarkable size.

Tar-If was its name,
And I will not deny
With regard to the same
What that name might imply.
But the "Tar" was the color of white-wash,
And the "If" smacked of trust-distilled rye.

Which there was a small game,
In which Taft took a hand.
It was really a shame
What they did to this land,
But both William and Sunny Jim Sherman
Wore smiles that were childlike and bland.

But the schedules were raised
In a way that I grieve,
And the toll that was blazed,
I do firmly believe,
Will be followed with cries and with curses
By all men who roll up the sleeve.

But the votes that were cast
In the senate that day,
And the final result
Of that five months long fray,
Will remain in the minds of some people,
And there'll sure be the devil to pay.

In the rest of the game
We must all take a hand,
The results will be strewn
Like the leaves on a strand
Wherever there's buying and selling,
The length and breadth of the land.

For the poorer the man,
And the lower his stack,
The more he must ante,
The less he'll get back;
And the pile of the fellow with plenty
Will accumulate what the rest lack.

Which is why I remark,
And my language is plain,
That for ways that are dark
(Those of Aldrich and Payne)
The old G. O. P. is peculiar,
Which the same I am free to maintain.

—PIKE.

Suppose.

Suppose to you a fortune came.
Your troubles bringing to an end;
How would you juggle with the same
If it should suddenly descend
And with your present holdings blend,
As I much hope sometime it may?
How would you use the money, friend,
Had you a million for a day?

Would you all fellowship disclaim
With poverty, and ne'er extend
A hand to one whose purse was lame—
His broken fortune help to mend?
Or would you graciously unbend
And nobler attributes display?
How would you all the money spend
Had you a million for a day?

Oh, would it be your lofty aim
From humble doors the wolf to send,
To cheer the loser in the game,
The weakling and the lorn defend,
And on their lesser wants attend?
Or would you turn and walk away?
What would you keep or give or lend
Had you a million for a day?

MEANT TO BE FUNNY.

Detroit Free Press: "I don't believe George loves me any more," sighed the young bride.

"What's the matter? Have you quarreled?"

"No, but he doesn't offer to wipe the supper dishes for me any more."

Chicago Record-Herald: "Would you marry a woman who had been divorced?"

"Well, I don't know. A good deal would depend on what she had been doing with her alimony."

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Well, I discharged my boss last night."

"Discharged your boss?"

"Yep. In a dream."

"They say dreams go by contraries."

"That's what I found this morning when the boss said good-by."

Washington Star: "Why do you yell at your mule in that manner?" said the kindly person. "Have you no sympathy for dumb animals?"

"Boss," answered Erastus Pinkley, "when dat animal takes a notion, he's wuss dan dumb. He's deaf and dumb."

Chicago News: The Client—I thought you left word in your office that you were out on important legal business?

The Counselor—Just so. That ball game seems to be highly important, and I can assure you that it is perfectly legal.

Philadelphia Ledger: "I suppose you are glad to be free again?"

The ex-convict side-stepped a trolley car, dodged an auto and looked nervously toward a clanging ambulance.

"Oh, of course, of course," he said; "but let me tell you, a man in prison feels mighty safe."

Catholic Standard: "I tell you what," said the sad-looking man, "it's pretty hard for a man with a large family to live on a small income."

"Yes," eagerly agreed the stranger, "but it's a great deal harder for his family if he dies on one. Now, my line is insurance. Let me interest you—eh? What's your hurry?"

Chicago News: Winnie Wink—It is no use of talking, our hats take the masculine eye this summer.

Billie Bink—Er—yes; take both eyes if a chap doesn't dodge quickly.

Boston Transcript: Madge (proudly)—Did you see that handsome man I just danced with?

Kate—Yes; he has a jealous wife who will allow him to dance only with the plainest girls in the room.

Washington Herald: "Sued for a breach of promise, eh?"

"Yep."

"Any defense?"

"Temporary insanity, and I expect to prove it by the love letters I wrote."

From the Hon. Mr. Standpatt.

I'm goin' home when we adjourn; I'll greet my kind constitts.
It seems an age since I was there, thus tempus always flits.
I'm goin' home—but not direct; I think I need a rest—
It always makes me carsick when I have to travel West
And so I'll take it easily, and do the best I can
To saunter homeward on a route that takes me through Japan.

O, how the old home calls to me, implorin' me to come!
The invitation has a sound that is quite grim and grum,
They want to meet me at the train, since I helped raise the tax;
They write that they will welcome me with cheering and an ax!
I'm going home to speak about Old Glory and the rest,
But I'll go round by Germany—I cannot travel West.

They yearn to grasp me by the hand, they write me every day;
They say the postal rules forbid them writing what they'd say.
I long to see the old home streets and each familiar place,
To see the hearty welcome that is glowing in each face——
And so I'll go across to France and then by way of Rome
And saunter through Siberia upon my journey home.

I'm goin' home when we adjourn—they write that they'll be glad,
They say that the committee'll be the best they ever had.
They urge me to come there direct, but I can't travel West,
The very thought of that gives me a sinking of the chest.
I know there'll be a big crowd there, it will be quite a jam——
But I'll go round the Eastern way by Hongkong and Siam.

Of course I can't get home so soon, but then I need a rest,
And then it makes me carsick when I have to travel West.
I'll need recuperation from this great official strain;
They won't believe me when I tell how I have toiled in vain,
And so I'll go the Eastern way across the briny foam——
I hope the bands in alien lands won't toot out, "Home, Sweet Home."

ON THE IRON RANGES

ALL MINES VERY BUSY

Much Activity in Evidence on Various Properties Around Aurora.

Stripping on Hudson Eighty and Sellwood Forty Make Work.

Aurora, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—All the mines in this locality are very active.

McArthur Bros., who have the contract for stripping the Hudson eighty for the Pickands Mather company, are gettings things in readiness and expect to begin stripping operations within three weeks. Camps to accommodate about 200 men are being built.

A right-of-way is being cleared from the Mohawk mine to the Hudson for the tracks and the laying of the rails will be begun this week. The tressel work for the dumps is being constructed also. When the stripping starts about seventy-five first-class mechanics will be employed and about fifty common laborers at the mine.

McArthur Bros. also have the stripping of the Perkins mine, on the Joseph Sellwood forty. An immense hole has already been dug and ore has been reached on the south side. A crew of railroad men are busy blasting and making a railroad spur from the Stevens mine to the Perkins.

Both the Hudson and Perkins mines will be lighted with large electric arc lights. A representative of the Cello Arc Light company of Chicago recently demonstrated at the Perkins the workings of the light and made the place as light as day.

Make Hole in Stock Pile.

The Mohawk and Miller mines are making large holes in their stock piles and are sending out about fifty cars a day. The Mohawk has about 175 men employed at present. The Miller mine has put on a full force and are employing about 300 men. This mine is raising and lowering in the neighborhood of 300 skips a day, which is considered fast work among mining men. The Miller dry, to take the place of the one recently burned, is almost completed.

At the Meadow mine Capt. Hudson is also shipping from the stock pile and moving ore rapidly. The Meadow could use fifty men more, but laborers are reported scarce here.

DISCARD "GRAB" SYSTEM.

Big Boulders in Grant Mine Stripping Prove Troublesome.

Buhl, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The stripping operations at the Grant mine, conducted by Butler Bros., are progressing satisfactorily. The experiments here with what is called the "grab" system of carrying on stripping, proved unsuccessful, and the machinery has been discarded, after a reported expense of $1,500,000.

The "grab" system works all right where there are not too many large boulders, but the presence of these big stones at the Grant mine has interfered with the operation of the machinery, and the contractors dispensed with it.

AURORA TO GIVE FIREMEN A TIME

Plans Are Being Rapidly Formulated for Range Association Meet.

Aurora, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The second annual tournament of the Mesaba Range Volunteer Firemen's association, to be held in Aurora the 25th and 26th of this month, bids fair to be a very successful affair.

The committees are getting in their work and are making preparations to handle a large crowd of visitors. Practically all the stand and game rights have been sold, mostly all to home people. No outside parties will be allowed to run games, etc., unless they conduct such as do not conflict with the state laws.

Teams from the Tower, Gilbert, Biwabik, McKinley, Mountain Iron and Buhl fire departments have entered the races, of which there are nine events. The flag race and the hub-and-hub races have been added to last year's events. The Ely 20-piece band has been engaged to furnish music both days, and there will be dances going on both night and day.

The Ely baseball team will contest for honors with the Aurora team during the tournament and will come prepared to wipe out the two defeats administered to them by Aurora earlier in the season.

The 32-page program of races and events will be off the press this week and will be sent all over the ranges.

A representative of a carnival company was in town Wednesday and asked for a bonus of $300 to bring his company here during the tournament, but the committee could not see it, and turned him down.

The local department has ordered nine new uniforms, and will appear in the parade with thirty uniformed men.

GOOD ROADS IN ST. LOUIS COUNTY

F. E. King of Grand Rapids Praises Highways in This Section.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—F. E. King of the King Lumber company of this city last week purchased a new model 17-Buick touring car.

Mr. King decided to drive the car from Minneapolis to this city, and in company with Dr. Storch and Henry Hughes left Minneapolis Saturday. The first day they drove to Rush City making good time. The next morning they left Rush City and made Duluth that night. Bad roads were encountered on that day, but that was more owing to the fact that the heavy rains of the few days before had practically destroyed the roads. Once or twice they had to resort to horseflesh to get "unstuck." On Monday they drove from Duluth to Eveleth, part of the distance being through the rain, and on Tuesday they made the balance of the distance to Grand Rapids, arriving here early in the afternoon.

Mr. King's car develops 46-horse power and is guaranteed to travel almost all kinds of roads.

Mr. King tells very interestingly of his experiences on the trip, from getting stuck in the mud to running down chickens along the road. Mr. King's comments on the condition of the roads, however, are most pertinent. From Minneapolis to Duluth, Mr. King states that the bad roads are not due to the primary condition of the roads, but to the recent heavy rains. The best roads were found in St. Louis county and are splendid roads, not wide but hard and with excellent roadbeds. The Miller Trunk road in particular seemed phenomenal to the autoists, in view of the fact that it traverses a big swamp, lies almost straight for eighteen miles, and that not more than half a dozen settlers are to be found along the route.

The roads between Nashwauk and Grand Rapids are as good as are to be found anywhere with the exception of the stretch between Marble and Taconite, where the road has been badly cut up by the railroad building operations. Some of the very worst roads encountered were inside of the village and city limits of some of the towns along the route. In West Duluth they were stuck for four hours. In Bovey the auto was stopped for a few minutes on the main street, and it almost sank out of sight in the sand. The roads of Carlton county were roundly praised. They were as good as any found on the trip.

The trip was made without accident to the car, either by breaking or otherwise.

SUNDAY TRAIN MUCH DESIRED

Eveleth Business Men's Club Asks Missabe Road for Service.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Business Men's club last night discussed the coming picnic of the Iron Range employes, Aug. 21 at Ely lake, and a soliciting committee composed of J. J. Gleason, J. P. Tredinnick, M. E. Nichols, W. G. Sutherland and D. M. Morrill was appointed to solicit funds and prizes. A general arrangements committee composed of Neil McInnis, George A. Perham and J. P. Boyle was appointed to look after the picnic.

Special trains are to be run for the picnic from Two Harbors and possibly Proctor.

The secretary was instructed to send an invitation to the Red Men's council to be held in Brainerd, Aug. 9 to 11, inviting them to hold their next council in Eveleth. The clerk was also instructed to write the officials of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road asking them to have their Sunday afternoon Duluth train run into Eveleth.

FAVORS NEW SYSTEM.

Grand Rapids Light Superintendent Would Duplicate Coleraine Plant.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Supt. Garis of the village electric light plant made a trip to Coleraine Wednesday to inspect the street lighting system which is used in the model town. Grand Rapids has for many years found the arc lamp system of lighting a very expensive one for the service rendered, the thirty-odd arcs used here consuming about 55 per cent of the electricity produced by the local plant. It was with a view to finding a suitable plan for making a change that Mr. Garis's visit to Coleraine was made.

In Coleraine the streets are lighted with incandescent lamps known as the Tungston lamps, which are a superior lamp to the ordinary incandescent, consuming less current and giving a brighter light. One of the advantages of these lamps beside the reduction of the cost of lighting is that the same amount of light can be distributed more evenly along the street than by the old system. The cost of lighting by the proposed system is practically one third of that of the old system with the advantage of better service.

The new system of lighting appeals so strongly to Mr. Garis that he will recommend a change throughout the city.

HIBBING MAN GRAND RAPIDS 'PHONE HEAD.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. W. Hostetter, the new manager of the telephone exchange, took charge on Aug. 2, succeeding W. N. Dalcour, who resigned some time ago. Mr. Dalcour wound up his business on Monday, and turned over the exchange to Traveling Auditor C. J. Langham, who has been checking up. F. E. Lister, district superintendent, and George H. French, general manager of the company, were also here during the transferring of the management.

Mr. Hostetter is recently from Hibbing, where he has been in the employ of the company, and was formerly from the southern part of the state.

SHIPS GRADING OUTFIT OUT TO MILES CITY.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—McGregor Bros., railroad contractors of Rush City, who have been engaged in filling a sub-contract, under Guthrie Bros., on the Grand Rapids-Nashwauk extension, near Coleraine, broke camp this week, having completed their work. They shipped from Grand Rapids to Miles City, Mont., where they will be employed on new work for the Great Northern. Ten carloads of horses, wagons, scrapers and other paraphernalia were shipped out.

EVELETH FOURTH OF JULY COMMITTEE HAS BALANCE.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of the Fourth of July committee last night the report of Secretary W. J. Davey was read, showing a total of $840.22 was collected, and after all bills were paid there was a balance of $37.85 in the treasury. The committee will turn this money over to the baseball association.

FOR BETTER CHISHOLM.

Women in Saloons and Blind Pig Evil Are Drastically Hit.

Chisholm, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The loss of license, as well as a fine of $100 or imprisonment in the county jail for ninety days, confront any saloon keepers in this village who allow women to frequent their places, or permit any dancing, singing or other forms of amusement in their thirst parlors. The village board has just drafted a drastic ordinance against those evils in saloons. Another ordinance equally drastic is aimed to hit the blind pigs, and will stop agents of breweries from furnishing such joints with booze.

The ordinance provides in part: "No person, firm or corporation, either on its own behalf, or as agent of another, shall sell, barter, loan, exchange, give away or otherwise dispose of or solicit orders for future delivery of any intoxicating liquors in quantities of five gallons or over within the village of Chisholm. But the provisions of this ordinance shall not apply to any retail dealer duly licensed by the village council or by the county board. License to sell in quantities of five gallons or more will be granted on the payment of $25 and costs and must file with the recorder a written application. Violations of this ordinance will be punished by a fine not less than $50 or more than $100, or by imprisonment in the county jail not to exceed three months."

RUSH SCHOOL WORK.

Duluth Contractor Must Hustle on New Eveleth Building.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The list of teachers for the coming fall term has been decided upon, many changes having been made since the list was first announced. School begins Sept. 7. There will be ten more teachers than last year. Only school buildings will be used this year by the school board for classes.

Work is being rushed on the new school building, as the contractor, Hendrickson of Duluth, must turn the building over to the school board by Aug. 15. A large force of painters is at work. All the carpenter work has been finished, the stairways put up and only a few finishing touches are necessary on the three entrances. The desks, blackboards and interior furnishings will begin to arrive here about the 15th, and on that date Supt. Greening will move his office from the Fayal building, where he has been the past year, to his office in the new high school building.

The Twin City Scenic Studio company, which has the contract for the interior decorations and the curtain for the auditorium, has a force of men putting up some excellent decorations in the halls.

SCALP DISEASE PUZZLED DOCTORS

Began with a Little Pimple—Itched and Spread Till Whole Head was Raw—Hair Fell Out in Bunches—Suffered Three Years and Cure Seemed Impossible.

IMMEDIATE RELIEF AND EASY CURE BY CUTICURA

"My disease started with a little pimple on my head. Then it began to itch. The more I would scratch, the worse it grew until it spread all over my head. So I went to the doctor. I continued his treatment for some time but, finding no results, I decided to change and try some other remedy. Little warts began to grow on my head. I would wash it every day but it grew as raw as a piece of beef and my hair commenced to fall out in bunches. So I changed doctors. This doctor prescribed a wash and a salve. My head at this time was so sore I could not touch it. After trying several doctors and many patent medicines, nothing would cure it and I lost much time from work.

"Then I decided to go to the hospital. Several doctors were called in to look at it, and after some consultation they said that I had seborrhoea in its worst stage. They began to treat it but it improved very slowly. For over three years I was a sufferer from this disease. I thought all hopes of a permanent cure were impossible. A friend of mine, upon seeing the condition of my head — which was a mass of running corruption — asked me if I had tried the Cuticura Remedies. I told him nothing would do me any good; but being very anxious to be cured, I decided to try them. The first treatment (with Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills) brought immediate relief. My hair became alive and stopped falling out, all the scale left and now I am perfectly well and have a full head of hair. I can truthfully say that it was entirely due to the use of the Cuticura Remedies and I recommend them to all sufferers from any skin disease. George E. Jefferson, 1518 Reed St., Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 24, 1909."

WILL DIVIDE TWO HARBORS

People to Vote on Proposition of Making Two Townships.

Two Harbors, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—If the residents of Two Harbors township favor the proposition at a special election to be held Aug. 21 to vote upon the idea of dividing Two Harbors township, the plan will go through.

The Lake county board of commissioners has taken the preliminary steps looking to the division by setting a date for the election. The new township to be formed will be named Waldo.

John Olson of this city presented the board with 100 acres of land, eighty acres being Section 10, for a county poor farm on condition that the county agree to construct a passable road to the property, lay out ten acres along the lake side for a park and construct a building to cost not less than $500. The board decided to take an engineer out to the property, go over it carefully and take the proposition up at the next meeting.

syllable of truth in it, and it is malice or criminal negligence.

"Now mark how plain a tale will put them down: On my motion last spring to recommit the Payne bill with instructions—which instructions constitute a comprehensive Democratic platform so far as the tariff is concerned—all Democrats voted for it except four. On the Payne bill itself, voted on immediately after my motion to recommit was defeated, the Republicans lost one vote and the Democrats lost four, a net loss to the Democrats of three—a more nearly unanimous Democratic vote than has been cast on tariff bill in a generation.

"True, that on some of the items a few Democrats flew the track, but so did more Republicans.

Compare Party Votes.

"Let's examine into the comparative majority among Democrats and Republicans. On Mr. Payne's motion to recommit the conference report all the Democrats except one voted for it and twenty Republicans voted with us, so that the Republican machine was victorious by only five majority, although they had a majority of forty-five in the house.

"On that vote there was absent six Democrats and five Republicans. Among the absentees four Democrats were paired with four Republicans, leaving two Democrats and one Republican absent without pairs. If the two Democrats absent without pairs had been present and had voted with us, we would have been defeated by three votes. Had the one Democrat who voted with the Republicans also voted with us, we would still have been defeated by one vote. On that vote to reconimit the conference report the Democrats voted more solidly than ever they voted on any atriff question since the close of the Civil war, although the Republicans were worse split up.

Vote on Adoption.

"On the vote on the adoption of the conference report the house machine won by twelve majority only. There were absent six Democrats and four Republicans. As on the motion to recommit, four Democrats were paired with four Republicans, and two Democrats were absent without pairs, and two Democrats voted with the Republicans. If the two unpaired Democrats had been present and voted with us, the machine majority would have been reduced to ten; and if the two Democrats who voted with the Republicans also had voted with us, the machine majority would have been reduced to six.

"That was a close call for the machine, but nothing could have been done to have turned their hardly victory into a defeat.

"The reason that Chairman Payne moved to recommit was that he fooled himself into the belief that we were going to offer a motion to recommit with instructions, and he wanted to head that off, and by an arrangement with the speaker, undertook to do so, but we had no idea of moving to recommit with instructions, because the situation absolutely forbade it, for the Republicans who voted with us in favor of the Payne motion simply to recommit, would have voted with the Republican machine against our motion to recommit with instructions—which instructions would have been Democratic propositions. Of course Mr. Payne voted against his own motion to recommit.

About 27 Per Cent Over Dingley.

"The full Democratic attendance was largely due to the fidelity vigilance and industry of the Democratic whip, Hon. Thomas M. Bell, and his two assistants, Hon John N. Garner and Hon. William Hughes. They did all that mortal men could do to have every Democrat present.

"Many newspapers are trying to make it appear that the Payne-Aldrich-Smoot bill is a revision downward. That is absolutely untrue. The average of rates of the Payne-Aldrich-Smoot bill is about 2 per cent higher than the average rate of the Dingley bill. When the maximum goes into effect March 31, 1910, the average rate will be about 27 per cent higher than the average Dingley bill."

Parker Tells Views.

New York, Aug. 6.—Alton B. Parker, Democratic candidate for president in 1904, made the following statement on the new tariff bill:

"The opinion widely entertained and sometimes expressed in the campaign of 1908, that the Republican platform promise of a revision of the tariff was intended to deceive the people, is now fully justified.

"By bold and impudent speech, senators and members of congress have asserted that the plank promised a revision, not a reduction, of tariff duties. Their only reward is public contempt, for their arguments demonstrate that the purpose of the tariff plank was to cheat and defraud the voters. And at the same time the action of the majority in congress makes them parties to the fraud, in that they sought to consummate it.

"The president has made a strong effort to secure at least an appearance of party honesty, but the way he has accomplished it has been at great cost, for one more precedent is created of an executive using his great power to coerce a co-ordinate and independent department of government, in violation of the spirit of the Constitution.

"And after all, what shall this unseemly struggle to gain or retain largess avail the tariff barons in the end?

"Only a little—for it will be found that this tariff act does not, like its predecessors, close the subject for a period of years, but, instead, it and the circumstances surrounding its making, will but serve to open again the fight. The final outcome will wipe out the unjust results, if not the stain of the fraud."

SOME HOPE FOR WHITE BEAR MAN

Victim of Bank Robber's Bullet May Recover From Wound.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—It was reported at St. Joseph's hospital this morning that William Butler, one of the victims of the White Bear bank robbery fight, had a slight chance for recovery. He had a good night and this morning seemed somewhat improved, although his condition was not such as to give great hope for recovery. His daughter spent the night with him.

Butler was shot through the abdomen and his intestines were pierced in a number of places. He submitted to an operation yesterday afternoon, the outcome of which is as yet problematical.

BEEF ANIMAL THAT WEIGHED NEARLY TON.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tonnes Nelson recently shipped one of the largest beeves ever raised in this section. The animal weighed 1,975 pounds, and brought the sum of $108, at the rate of 5½ cents per pound, convincing proof that fattening cattle for the market in this and adjoining counties pays.

A GREAT ENTERPRISE COMES TO DULUTH

E. M. Tredway Makes an Important Connection With the Largest Co-operative Corporation In America, Backed By Men Doing An Annual Business Amounting to $75,000,000.

PEOPLE OF DULUTH BENEFITED

E. M. Tredway of this city has, with characteristic enterprise, demonstrated his ability to keep well abreast of the times by connecting himself with the largest druggists' co-operation in America. The men connected with this enterprise do a yearly business aggregating over $75,000,000, which well emphasizes its soundness and magnitude.

Nearly two thousand retail druggists throughout the United States have organized themselves as a co-operative company for the purpose of producing a line of medicinal preparations which they recommend, absolutely guarantee and back up with their own names and personal reputations. The formulas of these remedies are thoroughly known to every one of these druggists and the ingredients of each will be truthfully described to the public and the remedies sold with the distinct understanding that their purchase price will be instantly refunded without question or quibble if they fail to benefit the user.

Over two thousand different formulas were turned over to the company. Each formula being selected because of its tested and proved value and established reputation, gained through continued and successful use by prominent physicians.

A research committee of expert chemists and physicians made a most thorough and exhaustive test of each one of these 2,000 prescriptions until they had selected about 300 as being the best and most dependable known to medical science, each for the treatment and cure of a particular ailment.

These 300 remedies now are manufactured by the company, which is known as the United Drug Co., Boston, Mass., in one of the largest, most modern and best equipped pharmaceutical laboratories in the United States.

The tremendous output of this company enables it to purchase drugs, herbs and other necessary material in very large quantities. The co-operation and professional advice of 2,000 leading druggists guarantees the high quality of everything used and guarantees that only formulas of extraordinary merit are used in the manufacturing of their products.

The preparations of the company are sent direct to the retail druggists who are connected with the enterprise. Thus their absolute freshness is assured. It is impossible for their quality to deteriorate. There are no middlemen's or jobbers' profits to be added to their cost, and the public can obtain these products at actual cost of manufacture, plus a single retail profit.

One noticeable feature of this business, and a very commendable one, is that no one remedy manufactured by this company is a "cure-all." Each one of the 300 different remedies is a known and dependable specific for a particular ailment. The confidence of the druggists interested in this enterprise is unquestionably demonstrated by this guarantee which is printed on every package: "This preparation is guaranteed to give satisfaction. If it does not, come back and get your money—it belongs to you and we want you to have it."

This is certainly an innovation that must appeal to the people of Duluth. It insures safety and satisfaction because our own local druggist, Mr. E. M. Tredway, who is so well known and highly respected for his integrity, is connected with this enterprise and is staking his own personal reputation on the quality of these remedies, and the very frankness with which he takes the people of Duluth into his confidence insures an unprecedented sucess for these remedies, which are sold under the trade name, Rexall, which means King-of-All. From reports coming from thousands of towns and cities, the Rexall Remedies are certainly demonstrating their full title to the name.

Those who have previously refused to buy proprietary medicines because there was no way of ascertaining their ingredients, can now purchase Rexall Remedies, the formulas of which they can have for the asking. Besides they are sold by a man personally known to you and located right here in our own city, who guarantees that they are in every way as represented or they will cost nothing.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are the first of three hundred remedies which are being introduced. Any one in Duluth who suffers from stomach derangement, indigestion or dyspepsia should not hesitate to try this Rexall remedy when it is so highly recommended and backed by such a strong guarantee.

E. M. Tredway is so well and favorably known for his sterling honesty and square dealing that we predict a great success for him with the Rexall Remedies, and he is to be heartily congratulated in bringing this great and modern business enterprise to Duluth.

We urge all who may be in need of prepared medicines to call on E. M. Tredway, and learn about the Rexall Remedies. Enterprise of this sort should be encouraged.

WEST END

ATE BY THE PALE MOONLIGHT

Steamer's Lights Went Out---the Moon to the Rescue.

The first moonlight excursion this season was given last night.

It came about by an accident when the lights on the steamer Mascotte refused to burn, and could not be repaired. The boat had been chartered by the Epworth League Sewing Circle of the First Norwegian-Danish Methodist Episcopal church and many friends of the club attended.

A program had been arranged but it had to be abandoned because of the absence of lights. Finally, the moon came to the rescue of the merry makers. Refreshments were served on board the boat in the moonlight.

This evening given by the members of the DULUTH BASEBALL CLUB, at Lester Park.

Good Music. Tickets, 50c. Everybody Cordially Invited.

MAYOR ACCUSED OF BLACK HAND METHODS.

Philadelphia, Aug. 6.—"This is a declaration of war. My life is openly staked on the result, for I am prepared to meet you at any time and place you may name. The weapons I shall use are dynamite and other high explosives."

Thus wrote Abraham C. Eby, mayor and referee in bankruptcy of Burkesville, Va., to the "President of the Pennsylvania railroad, Philadelphia," on July 23, naming $45,000 as the ransom for the safety of the railroad, its steamships and the travelling public.

Following a carefully laid plot of the federal postal detectives, Eby was arrested here yesterday while with Oswald J. Derousse, chief clerk to President McCrea, who acted for the latter in inveighing Mayor Eby to this city. He was given a hearing before United States Commissioner Craig and held in $10,000 bail for the September term of court.

The first letter written by Eby was signed "Adam Smith." In it he proposed to use explosives in wrecking Pennsylvania freight and passenger cars.

Eby sets forth that he has tried for thirty years to earn an honest living, but finds that "the corporation thieves get all and the rest of mankind must starve or stand in."

Comprise Grewsome Find on Banks of Missouri Near Williston.

Williston, N. D., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—A case of infanticide has probably been unearthed near here in the discovery of the badly decomposed body of an infant child in a cracker box on the banks of the Missouri river. The murderer had carefully clothed the infant, placing a nursing bottle in the box, only to throw it with its human contents into the river. The affair occurred probably six weeks ago, during the high water, the receding of the river uncovering the crime. A heavy wheel had been tied to the box to sink it. The coroner has subpoenaed a jury but an inquest has not yet been held, pending a thorough investigation.

For Mrs. Ledbetter's Release.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. R. Praa, a Mankato attorney, has appealed to the supreme court from the order of Judge Brown, of Blue Earth county, refusing the release of Grace Ledbetter from jail on bail. She is charged with the murder of her husband.

Mexican War Veteran Dead.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 6.—Thomas McArthur, 81 years old, for seven years an inmate of the Soldiers' home, dropped dead subsequent to an attack of heart disease, in the corridor of the hall adjoining Company B's quarters on the home grounds, Wednesday afternoon. He served in the Sturgis Rifles of the Illinois Infantry in the Civil war. He also fought in the Mexican war.

STREET IN BAD SHAPE

Traction Company Arouses the Ire of West Duluthians.

West Duluthians are wondering what the street car company is going to do with Grand avenue west after it has torn up the street to relay the double track from Thirty-ninth to Nineteenth avenues west.

Although several blocks of track have been widened to accommodate the double-truck car service over the West Third street line, from Thirty-ninth avenue west toward the ore docks, the road is still impassable except for a narrow space on the upper side.

The street car company has finished its tracklaying from Thirty-ninth to Thirty-sixth avenues west, and has filled up between the tracks with rocks and dirt, but the road has not been leveled off, and is entirely unfit for traffic.

As this is the only thoroughfare between West Duluth and Duluth that is used to any considerable extent, many complaints are being made. Agitation is under way to have the company put the road back in shape again.

When the spur was put in at Thirty-ninth avenue west so as to allow cars to turn around at this point, the tracks were allowed to protrude above the surface of the roadbed for several inches and automobiles crossing the avenue at this point have found it necessary to slow down to almost a dead stop in order to get over the tracks.

INDIAN TEAM MAY COME HERE

Negotiations are under way to bring the amateur Indian baseball team of Pine City, Minn., which is in the 14-year-old class, to West Duluth, to play a series of three games with the Homestakers, who are strong in their claims for the state championship of amateur teams in their class.

If arrangements can be made, a series of three games will be played at Athletic park. The little red men, it is understood, have not lost a game this year, and have been cleaning up everything in the immediate vicinity of Pine City. The Homestakers make the same claims for Duluth.

Yesterday the Homestakers defeated the Second Street Sluggers, 10 to 6, and today the same teams are playing. If a game is arranged with the Pine City Indians, it will be for the championship of Northern Minnesota.

AT THE POOR FARM.

Westminster Christian Endeavor Society Will Hold Services There.

Members of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Westminster Presbyterian church will hold services Sunday afternoon at the poor farm. The affair will be in charge of Miss Charlotte Howard.

They will return to the city in the evening and will attend the services at the First Presbyterian church, Third avenue east and Second street, in a body.

COW NUISANCE.

Animals Cause West Duluth Street Car Men Much Trouble.

Stray cows in the vicinity of Athletic park keep the motormen on the West Duluth car lines on the alert, and many instances have occurred in which cows have been nearly run down by the cars in coming around the curve, after passing through the Jenswold street cut.

Motormen say that it is sometimes necessary to come to a dead stop when some bovine occupies the center of the track and seems disinclined to move. Yesterday one motorman was obliged to get out and push the cow off in order to get a clear right-of-way.

Many people attended the annual dancing party of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, given last evening at Fairmont park, as a climax to the festivities of the day. The hall pavilion was crowded to capacity. During the afternoon about 600 members of the order enjoyed a picnic.

Talks to Union Men.

J. W. Kline of Chicago, president of the International Blacksmiths' union, delivered an interesting address last evening at Victor hall, Fiftysixth avenue west and Grand avenue, under the auspices of the West Duluth Blacksmiths' union.

He stated that there was an urgent need for every blacksmith in the city to become a member of the union for mutual protection. He said that the union was growing all over the country, and also talked of the importance of the craft.

Besides Mr. Kline, John Powiesland, also of Chicago, the fifth vice president of the order, who has been traveling through the Northwest with Mr. Kline, gave a few remarks dwelling principally upon the good that unionism had accomplished throughout the country.

The meeting was presided over by Louis Haley, president of the local union. Among the local speakers were Leon Chapman, John Hall and P. G. Phillips, who was elected last evening as a delegate to the international convention, which will be held at Pittsburg on Oct. 4, 1909.

Members of the West Duluth Commercial club will meet this evening in regular session to consider several important matters. The playground proposition will be thoroughly gone over and a site will be recommended.

At the last meeting of the club a committee was appointed to confer with the city officials in regard to compelling the Soo road to build a station at West Duluth in compliance with their franchise.

The committee took the matter up with the city attorney who holds that the Soo road is bound to the franchise granted to the Wisconsin Central.

He was under the influence of liquor at the time and although he told the officer that he knew the young lady, after he slept off his jag at the police station, he had forgotten the whole affair.

AN ITCHING PALM

No Cure For It. Other Forms of Itching Preferable.

There is no cure for an itching palm—the money kind. Even poslam, the new skin discovery, cannot help it. But when it comes to eczema, the most annoying of itching skin troubles, poslam will stop the itching at once and cure the worst cases in a few days. So with hives, rash, scabies, split toes, piles, and scaly scalp, all of which are different forms of eczema, caused by imperfect digestion and careless diet.

Poslam comes in two-dollar jars, but fifty cents' worth will answer in curing any of the diseases mentioned. It can be had of any druggist. The Lyceum pharmacy and W. A. Abbett's in Duluth and A. E. Holmberg Drug Co. in Superior make a specialty of it.

That results are immediate will be amply demonstrated overnight by the use of the experimental sample which the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth Street, New York City, will send free by mail, in plain wraper, to any one who will write for it.

BUSY TIMES ARE AHEAD

New Tariff Law Provides Work for the Customs Employes.

Much Litigation Will Be Profitable to the Customs Attorneys.

Washington, Aug. 6.—Busy times are ahead for the customs employes of the government. From Assistant Secretary Reynolds, of the treasury department, who has charge of the customs, down to the messengers, there is a peck of trouble in sight.

The new tariff bill is the cause of it. Always, the going into effect of a tariff measure is an occasion of much grief and worriment for the officials of the customs service. Nobody outside of the service realizes the enormous task it is to put into enforcement a new tariff law in a country that has come to have the vast volume of importations which this nation has.

It always has been difficult to put a new tariff law into operation, but the administration of the new measure which this congress has passed will be peculiarly difficult. This is for the reason that in the administrative features of the new bill, there are large changes from the present administrative practice under the Dingley law. To get a new law into working order will require no end of pains and hard work by the customs officials and especially will a heavy responsibility rest on the leading officials of the customs service here at Washington in the treasury department.

For just one class of people, the new tariff law will be a joy and a delight and a source of profit. These are the customs lawyers. The amount of controversy and litigation which will arise will mean big money in fees to the customs attorneys. They will be found strewn thick all the way from the docks in New York to the bar of the supreme court.

For the past six months the customs lawyers have had busy times about Washington, watching the interests of this or that industry, or this or that importer. Now, they will transfer their field of endeavor to New York and the great ports of the country.

"Whenever an American rises to eminence in his profession he visit Europe in order to test his powers on the consular representatives of his country," said a former officer in the American consular service.

"The consuls of other countries," continued the ex-consul, "decline to submit to the visit of bores, because they know that they have not the power to remove him from office; but the unfortunate American consul lives in fear of offending any fellow countryman, for dear me, the man may be a congressman, or may be possessed of political influence. If the consul neglects to treat him with the utmost deference, he may get into trouble, and may even be dismissed.

"During the nine years I was in the United States consular service, before I retired, I encountered bores without number, many of whom were of enormous caliber. One morning about 10 o'clock a man entered my office, and, seating himself beside my desk, began to prove his claim to the championship of boredom. For three consecutive hours he talked in a droning voice, never saying anything that any human being could have wished to hear, and never showing the slightest sign of weariness. My clerk came in to consult me half a dozen times in the charitable hope that the bore would perceive that he was in the way, but the well-meant effort was wholly in vain.

"About 1 o'clock I mustered up courage to inform the bore that my breakfast hour had arrived, and that I really must beg him to excuse me. At the same time I asked him if there was anything I could do for him. He reflected for a moment and then said: 'Well, Mr. Consul, just at this moment I can't think of anything that you can do, but I'll call around here tomorrow and let you know.' Nothing short of a 42-caliber bullet can make any impression on that type of bore. What pains me as much as anything about these bores is that fact that they always have heaps of money to travel around with."

The command of a modern battleship is a hard strain on a naval officer. This was shown in the course of the world cruise of the battleship fleet. The nerves of one or more captains went to pieces under the stress, which is undoubtedly great.

But Rear Admiral Seaton Schroeder, who was in command of the half hundred war vessels which engage in the maneuvers off Provincetown, has much more of a burden on him than any of the commanders of an individual vessel. And Admiral Schroeder has been in the navy forty-five years, over half that time in actual sea service. If he didn't have a rugged constitution, he couldn't go through the ordeal. He is much older than most of the captains.

Senator Rayner of Maryland, has never been known to smile in the senate before, but he had to smile in the course of his attack on the customs court, in which he got into a most amusing argument with Senator Aldrich, Senator Flint, and others.

Seantor Rayner had to laugh, he couldn't help it. So did everyone else. Senator Root enjoyed the affair so much that he congratulated Senator Rayner on "the perfectly beautiful time he has been having." The Maryland senator was trying to point out what he believed to be fatal defects in the proposed legislation for the customs court. Among other things, he contended that it operated unconstitutionally to deprive a man of a jury trial in certain cases in which he was entitled to one. Senator Aldrich tried to defend the measure, and not being a lawyer, was soon in deep water. Senator Rayner kept telling the Rhode Island senator that he didn't want to hear from him, that he knew he was ignorant of the law, and that what he was after was information from a lawyer. Flint of California, who was one of the torch bearers of the senator from Rhode Island in the tariff procession, rushed to the rescue of Aldrich, whereupon Rayner lit upon him and stung him. Flint came back in satirical fashion, whereupon Rayner remarked:

"Satire is not the forte of the senator from California. The senator's principal forte is an increase of one-half a cent in the duty on lemons."

At one stage, Rayner told Aldrich that he might know all about a duty on oil, but he didn't know a law. Aldrich expressed his thankfulness that he was not a lawyer. Altogether it was one of the funniest exhibitions the senate has ever seen and no one seemed to enjoy it more than Senator Aldrich.

Former Representative James Ell Watson of Indiana, who has been in Washington much of the time in the special session, looking after various phases of tariff legislation as attorney, is one of the men mentioned for the new customs court.

It is said that if this court is created, "Jim" will have a chance to go on as a member of it. At any rate, there is little doubt his political friends in the house will say a good word for him. His name has been mentioned in connection with a number of places since he joined the "lame duck" class March 4.

But he has not connected with a government salary as successfully as his fellow Hoosier, Former Senator Hemenway, who was retained by the senate appropriations committee to look into the workings of the secret service and into various appropriation matters. Watson has refused several appointments.

NEW TARIFF BILL COST $1,000,000

Changing Dingley Law Was Expensive for the Government.

Washington, Aug. 6.—Making a tariff bill is a costly undertaking for the federal government, and a member of the ways and means committee who has given the subject considerable attention is authority for the statement that it cost the government more than $1,000,000 to replace the Dingley law with the Payne-Aldrich law.

The largest item in the expense bill charged up against Uncle Sam is the mileage for members of both houses of congress. The second session of the Sixtieth congress ended on the night of March 3, and the extraordinary session convened at noon on the fifteenth of the same month. Nearly all of the members of both houses remained in Washington—some of them could not go to their homes and get back in time for the extra session. Notwithstanding this, every senator and representative was entitled to draw in cash the equivalent of 10 cents for every mile between his home and the national capital. They had only just bulged their pocketbooks with mileage money drawn to pay the expenses of the trip home after the Sixtieth congress adjourned. When it is stated that a member of congress living in New York City gets mileage of nearly $100, some idea of the magnitude of the mileage expense may be gained.

The employment of experts, extra clerks, enormous expenditures for printing, the hearings before the ways and means committee and 101 other expenses swelled the total until Senator Carter of Montana expressed the opinion that by the time the bill had arrived at the senate the cost approximated $500,000.

The senate committee did not hold public hearings, but it kept a corps of experts here at government expense; spared nothing to gather information at home and abroad; used employes in the various departments, and, in short, very nearly equalled the expense of the house committee. Clerk Payne of the ways and means committee was given a bonus of $2,500 for hard work in addition to his regular salary, and George Shelton, Senator Aldrich's clerk, received a similar amount. Extra wages, ranging from a month's pay to $2,000, were given to other employes by the two committees, according to the value of their services. One small item of expense was lemonade, prepared for the senators at a cost of $3,000 or $4,000.

BAR STORK FROM CHURCH'S FLATS

Committee at Maryville, Mo., Rent Apartments to Childless Couples.

Maryville, Mo., Aug. 6.—Of all places where the stork might hope to find welcome and refuge, one would think that an apartment house owned and managed by a church would be the most apt to shelter the bird. But not so. Here in Maryville, a town of homes and children, where the school attendance increases much more rapidly than the general ratio of population, as seen in other towns of its size, the stork is to be shut out of flats being built as an investment by the Methodist church, South.

Rev. W. J. Parvin, financier, chairman of the building committee, superintendent of construction, architect and designer of the building, and the man who, in jumpers ad overalls, is driving nails and directing the work of the laborers employed on the building, gently suggested to the rental committee that a no-stork clause be inserted in the rental contracts for the four suites of rooms which the building affords. Families of three will be permitted, but two are preferred, and when the rental committee got busy on the proposition of disposing of the four apartments, the applications of four childless couples were accepted and the balance turned down and Mr. stork is excluded.

Rev. Parvin is married and has one son, Julian, 8 years old, but the Parvin family will continue to reside in the parsonage, which was moved off one corner of the congregation's quarter block to make room for the flats.

Rev. Parvin designed the building to cost $7,000, and it will return an income of $1,640 a year to the church. When contractors put in bids that were considered too high the pastor informed the building committee that they would buy their own materials and do their own work, employing their own laborers, and that he, if no one else volunteered, would superintend the work personally.

He has done so and continues to preach twice every Sunday, laying aside on Saturday night the nallapron his overalls and jumper for his clerical suit.

YOUNG BRIDEGROOM

Left Wife With Her Parents and Vanished—Had $400.

Princeton, Ind., Aug. 6.—Absolutely nothing has been discovered of the whereabouts of Charles Isenhower, of Martinsville, Ind., who disappeared in Vincennes ten days ago, while en route with his bride of a week to her home at Keensburg, Ill., to visit her parents.

The wife is with her parents at Keensburg, and is almost frantic. Isenhower was known to have about $400 when he disappeared.

SAVED BY "BUSTER,"

Little Pet Dog, Were Two Children From Death in Flames.

Pittsburyg, Pa., Aug. 6.—"Buster," a little black-and-tan pet of 11-year-old Ethel Gold and her 4-year-old brother Gussie, saved the lives of the two children, when a curtain near the bed in which they slept caught fire from a blazing gas jet and fell on the bed. Buster always sleeps beneath the children's bed. Barking loudly, he caught the burning bedding between his teeth and dragged it from over the sleeping children, and then he yelped through the halls till help came.

ALL-DAY BALL GAME SEEN FROM THE JAIL WINDOWS

The American boy is persistent in whatever he undertakes. He is persistent in work, persistent in play, but he is most persistent when he has a baseball, a glove and a bat, and there aro enough of him around to get up a game.

One spot in Duluth where the "future great" may be seen at his best, in numbers, in enthusiasm and in strict adherenece to the rules of baseball as "she is played" by the younger generation, is on the corner of Third street and Sixth avenue east, in the angle formed by the courthouse and the county jail. He is there in force, morning, noon, afternoon and every other time between sunrise and dark.

To the employes of the courthouse and the daily visitors to the building the endurance of the youngsters is wonderful. They start early in the morning and they stay all day, with slight rests for meals. A few drop off from time to time, but their places are quickly filled. Perhaps two teams finish the triple or quadruple-header that they have scheduled, but the incessant pitching, batting and fielding goes on. There are other teams on hand, or if there aren't, choosing up is always resorted to, and dull care chased away.

The same faces are visible every day. "Jimmie" and "Joe" and "Herbie" and "Weans" and "Fat" and "Slim" and "Kelly" and "Murphy" and "Sullivan" and "Levin" and "Max," are all on hand every day. The visitors to the courthouse stop a moment to watch the play, and many stop several moments, for there is something fascinating in the whole-hearted enjoyment of the great national game that shines from the faces of the barefooted, overalled, enthusiastic, perspiring, youngsters.

Over in the county jail the inmates, who have the freedom of the corridors, group at the windows and watch the happy children disporting on the diamond. One doesn't venture to think what thoughts are passing through the minds of the unfortunates behind the bars. At any rate, whatever their thoughts may be, they seem to enjoy the fun as well as any fan who ever ate peanuts and drank pop on a bleacher seat in a big league park.

The boys are a good natured, sportsmanlike lot. If none of the older people standing around have time to umpire, they select one of their number, station him behind the pitcher, and usually they take his decisions on their face. If they don't happen to please, the squabble is shortlived, for the umpire is either fired or voluntarily resigns and gives way to another.

Everybody is a pitcher and a catcher. When the youngster who is doing the Mordecai Brown stunt shows signs of weakening, he is promptly shifted to another position, and the boys are never at a loss for somebody to take his place. When an injured finger or a weakened whip puts the pitcher out of commission, another quickly takes his place, and the game goes on. The catcher stands close up to the bat, sans mask, sans breast protector, and sometimes with only a finger mit, and he is the hardest worked man on the team, for there is no backstop.

Very infrequent are the times when no game is in progress. When the boys fail to appear, a quiet reigns around the building. The occupants of the county jail droop for the lack of excitement. The visitors to the courthouse wonder what is wrong. But the greater part of the time merry shouts drive off silence, and Young America is holding forth at the game he knows best and enjoys most. There is no fear of baseball dying while the barefoot boy can find a yarn ball and any kind of a bat to prod it into strenuous animation.

LYCEUM—Jay Quigley Players in "The Unwritten Law."

"The Unwritten Law."

Every member of the Jay Quigley Players appears to advantage in "The Unwritten Law," the great English play which will be given at the Lyceum this evening, at the last matinee of the season tomorrow afternoon and the concluding performance Saturday night. The friends of Miss Maude Cleveland have been particularly delighted at her opportunity this week in the role of Miss Nora Fitzgerald, a young part, and Miss Cleveland is so seldom cast as anything but the mother of the young folks that her delightful interpretation of this role was a surprise to many. Her scenes with the Englishman who is in love with her are charming.

The advance sale for the concluding performances has been large, and much regret has been expressed at the closing of the Jay Quigley season.

Miss Leone's Leading Man.

William Jossey, who will appear as the leading man with Miss Maude Leone at the Lyceum in the special two weeks' engagement beginning next week, is one of the best-known stock actors in America. He is widely known and a man of culture and achievement. He has written an adaptation of "Du Barry," "Under Two Flags," and his own productions number several successes and others that are yet to be tried out. Mr. Jossey is well known in the South, where he has a large following, and the management is delighted at having secured him for the Duluth engagement.

NEGRO BOY BEATS CHILD'S BRAINS OUT.

Guaysboro, N. S., Aug. 6.—A fiendish murder, committed at Boylston, near here, has just come to light. Andrew Issard, the 13-year-old son of James Issard, a negro, in the absence of his parents tied the 6-year-old daughter of Mrs. Annie Ash to a tree and beat her brains out. Young Issard was arrested.

Yesterday the Sox went over to the railroad yards of Superior, that are being utilized as a baseball park, and triumphed over the Lew Drillers. Superior wanted the game, and in fact needed it very much, but the chase for the pennant is a stern one, and we need all the games we can annex between now and league closing time. Duluth won in ten exciting innings by the score of 5 to 3.

Duluth started with snap and zest. In the very first inning Peter Pan Neelon walked to first through the generosity of Klingebeil. Darby O'Brien sacrificed him along the paths and Breen hit the ball for two sacks. Breen went to third on a sacrifice fly, but was caught at the plate in an attempt to steal home.

In the fourth the Drill hired men went into the lead. Vogt got on when King Kohl fuzzed his hot grounder and fumbled the ball. Koepping struck at three where they wasn't. Vogt tried to steal on the Count and was thrown out. Shaub was hit by the ball and singles by Hollstrom and McCulloch brought the German over the pan. Clapper doubled, and scored Holstrom and McCulloch.

In the fifth Duluth evened up the score. Zackert was hit by a bender that slanted the wrong way. Taylor skied to the outfield and Mueller reached first on a wild heave. Dauss came to the emergency with a clean hit, scoring Zackert and Neelon's single brought Mueller home.

The two teams entered the stretch together. The score remained three up until the final frame. Thomas Zachery Taylor did the proper thing at the proper time in the tenth, when he slammed the ball over the right field fence. Mr. Taylor was only allowed two bases on the hit, but Georgie Dauss, eminent with the willow, hit cleanly for the second psychological time and brought Thomas across with what proved to be the winning run.

In the Superior half of the tenth Dauss struck two out, allowed two hits and then struck out the third man.

This afternoon the same teams will clash at Athletic park for the fourth game of the series. The proceeds of the game will be devoted to the Red Cross fund, for the benefit of the work that is being carried on by the anti-tuberculosis society. It is a worthy cause and the generosity of the Duluth management in offering to donate the proceeds of the game to so worthy a cause, should be appreciated by the fans.

Eau Claire comes Saturday for a series of four games. Eau Claire has been playing good baseball during the past few days, taking the Winona beefers into camp. The Sox appreciate the service rendered and will endeavor to show their appreciation by taking four straight games from the visitors.

Below find the welcome details of yesterday's jubilee.

LA CROSSE WINS CLOSE GAME.

Watson and Lakoff Both Pitch in Great Form.

Wausau, Wis., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Yesterday's game between the locals and La Crosse was no cheap picture show, but high-class vaudeville, with Watson and Lakoff as headliners. Both these pitchers were in great form, and the rest of the players had little to do but stand around in the field and carve nicks in the weather every time they came to bat. Watson allowed the locals but one hit, and Lakoff declined to let the visitors have more than four. La Crosse scored its lone tally in the sixth, a base on balls and a single being the potent factors. Score: R. H. E.

WINONA IS TROUNCED.

Worman Lets Rivermen Down With Only One Hit.

Eau Claire, Wis., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Worman, who presided in the box office for Eau Claire in yesterday's game, had everything on the menu, and the bourgeois from Winona could not tell the fish course from the wine list. During all of the nine innings they were able to negotiate but one hit, and that did not get them anything in the way of tallies, their side of the score board being innocent of figures throughout. The locals got six hits off Byers and procured four runs. Score: R. H. E.

ED. F. GEERS HAS A NARROW ESCAPE

Veteran Driver Thrown Over Fence at Grand Circuit Races.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 6.—Edward F. Geers, the widely known driver, had a wonderful escape from serious accident yesterday at the grand circuit races, where he was thrown over the fence during the first heat of the $5,000 pacing event. Geers was driving Annabell Lee, and led to the half soon after which the mare broke. He took her to the outside to straighten her, but a line snapped, and Annabelle Lee swerved and plunged through a gap in the fence. The sulky was demolished and Geers struck on the turf, which saved him, perhaps, from fatal injuries. No bones were broken, but one ankle is badly sprained. In spite of this, the veteran thinks he will be driving at Cleveland next week.

The pacing classic attracted 8,000 people to the park, and the track was faster than at any other time during the meeting. Star Patchen had no difficulty winning the big event, the only contest being in the third heat, when The Bosun finished strong, half a length behind the Son of Joe Patchen. Star Patchen was about a 3-to-1 favorite.

The upset of the day was in the 2:07 trot, in which Sterling McKinney sold for $25 against $10. Spanish Queen led all the way in both heats, Sterling McKinney breaking in the first and spoiling a close finish in the second the same way.

Cecilian King had no trouble disposing of the field of pacers in the 2:17 class.

The 2:19 trot was a good contest, Dr. Jack, the favorite, winning a heat but being beaten by Esther Bells.

A Free-for-All Fight.

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 6.—Just after the baseball game yesterday afternoon a free-for-all fight occurred among the players in their dressing room. Manager Grominger of Montgomery is said to have assaulted Umpire O'Brien, and Treasurer Stickney of the local association struck Players Jull and Bliss with a baseball bat. Both of them are seriously hurt.

Pigeon Makes Record Time.

East Liverpool, Ohio, Aug. 6.—Flying under the National Pigeon Fanciers' association rules, Silver Bill, a homing pigeon owned by William F. McGenigal of this city, arrived here last night from Denver, Colo., where, nine days and nine hours ago, the bird was liberated for its 1,400-mile airline journey. The bird last year covered the distance in thirteen days, but at the time did not fly under National association rules.

Papke to Fight.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 6.—Billy Papke will be one of the contestants in a scheduled 20-round bout here within the next few weeks, according to announcement made today by the West Side Athletic club. He has agreed to meet the winner of the Hugo Kelly-Frank Klaus bout, which will take place at the West side in September.

ARE IN FINALS IN TWO TENNIS TOURNAMENTS

"MAC" WASHBURN.

ELMER N. WHYTE.

Saturday afternoon on the courts of the Duluth Boat club the first match ever played for the championship among the members will take place between Elmer Whyte and "Mac" Washburn. The same two players are in the finals in the Country club tournament.

Whyte earned the right to meet Washburn in the finals yesterday by defeating Johnson in the semi-finals. The score was 7-5, 6-2, 12-10.

Yesterday's match was an interesting one. Both men were in great form, but Whyte played a harder, swifter game and Johnson's steadiness availed him little.

The entrants in the doubles in which play begins today, are as follows:

Graff and Grady,
Hastings and Foster,

Jenkins and Beecher,
Kilchil and Hooker,

McGregor and Jones,
Hall and Ingalls,

Ames and Barnes,
Davis and Wilson,

Rockwell and Jamar,
McBride and Gridley,

Coleman and Mather,
Messer and Gravatt,

Whyte and Washburn,
Amundson and Elston,

Johnson and Withrow,
De Witt and Sheldon.

GLEAMS IN THE SPORTING FOG

BY BRUCE

Little flits to fame, series No. 5. Has everybody ordered?

Darby Patrick Henry O'Brien, for like that other staunch Irishman, Darby strove for liberty when a mere youth, started playing baseball when a toddling tot. He used to catch flies when a mere babe, for in those early days of the developmenth of our great and glorious country, fly paper had not been invented.

Darby took to baseball like a spaniel to the village mill pond. His parents desired that the frolicsome youth should either be a priest of the cloth or an attorney. But here Darby Patricius showed that he possessed an independent and progressive spirit. He entered the great national game when a mere youth of sweet 16.

It was in the umble village of Defiance, Ohio, that Darby started his strenuous career on the diamond. Defiance might have been a good name for the place where Darby began his career. He got a good start, on that well remembered day, for with the bases full—two men out and the air so vibrant with excitement that it choked, the kid strode to the plate and hit the ball over the fence. The mayor of Defiance bought Darby a glass of root beer that evening. It was a proud and auspicious day in the life of the youth of mere 16.

We might mention here that Darby Pat was born in Springfield, Ohio, the state that has sent many men to the White House and has produced Cy Denton Yonng, him what hurls for Cleveland. It was with pride and bursting of shirt buttons that Darby received a summons to come to Dayton, Ohio, in the Central league, and play regular professional baseball. To make the "daybutt" more auspicious, as Mr. McDonnell would have it, a man in Defiance, Ohio, gave Darby a knockdown to a girl who worked in the cash registry factory of Dayton. Ever been in Dayton? No? Well those girls who hang out in the cash register works are about the niftiest in the Middle Central states. Indeed Darby began to believe that the life of the gay ball player was glorious.

Our Darby played such scrumptuous ball in the Central league that he was called to higher baseball society. He hated to leave the girl in Dayton, but the glory road stretched out pleasantly before him, and he went to Cleveland. Darby used to go into the writing room of the hotel that carried the best stationery and write to the girl in Dayton. One was a petite blonde and knew her little book on baseball.

Cleveland was in the National league then, for it was before the days of Larry La Joie, and Darby stuck around for many moons. He saw the passing of some of the old vets and finally packed his portmanteau and sailed for Youngstown, Ohio, which is located on a tiny rivulet.

Darby was the big noise in the Youngstown place. His sage observations on life and the ways of men, for Darby is as full of philosophy as a nut is of meat, were weekly published in the Youngstown Leader. The Democratic party asked him to be a receptive candidate for mayor, but Darby refused on the grounds that a Democrat in Ohio is like a bun at a banquet.

From dear old Ohio Darb treked southward. He hiked for Petersburg in the Virginia State league. The hospitable ways and open countenance of Patrick took with the south of the Mason and Dixon line folks. They opened their arms to Mister O'Brien and he lived on fried chicken Southern style and corn cake until he was nearly thirty pounds over playing weight. Darby began to think the South was the best place he had ever even read of. Just about this time there was talk of a Civil war between the North and the South and the league broke up.

After the insurrection Darby went to Jacksonville, Fla., in the South Atlantic league. No one else than old Arlie Latham was piloting the destinies of this team. The stories that Arlie and Darby used to tell are traditions in the Gulf country. It was in Jacksonville that Darby learned the squeeze play. She was a brunette, petite and cute. Those Southern girls, are awfully attractive, especially to men of the Middle West.

But old Ohio, that sterling Buckeye state, called. Darby hiked back to Dayton. The war was over and baseball was again on a firm footing. Darby introduced the hit and run game at Dayton. He hit a colored man who said it was the Irish that had made the rule forbidding colored men to play in organized baseball, drafted for self-protection. The colored man reached for his hip pocket, and as it looked like rain, anyhow, Darby hit for cover.

But we are getting northward. The scene shifts. Darby came to Grand Rapids, Mich., Stanley Ketchel was a little boy and Darby used to take him by his now famous mitt and lead him into the ball games. Stanley used to carry Darby's bat to and from the game. From Grand Rapids Darby rode a Pullman to Madison, Wis. It was while strolling through the library at the University of Wisconsin that Darby ran across Proctor Knott's speech on Duluth. He immediately purchased a copy of the piece of eloquence and perused it.

An irresistible longing to come to the Zenith City of the Unsalted Seas came over Darby. Darby came and saw and conquered. He was the J. Caesar of the Northern league. He stopped at Superior by mistake and was on the point of turning back, when a traveling man informed him of his mistake. No one knows how close we came to losing Darby.

You know, friends, the rest of the tilt to fame of P. Henry O'Brien. His career in Duluth has been one of sunshine. He is plotting the Sox in a strenuous pennant chase, and with everything like an even break in luck, he will win out.

Darby is godfather to William Tecumseh Bradley, the great third baseman of the Cleveland team. He has had his photo taken shaking hands with Napoleon La Joie. The caption reads: "The greatest second baseman in big league baseball and the best little sacker in minor league ball." Darby belongs to the boo gang of Cleveland. So does Bill Bradley, La Joie, Addie Joss, Jess Stovall and other Cleveland Reach artists. Darby speaks pure Celtic when he gets excited. He has made an exhaustive study of the history of Ireland and says that it is by mere accident that the Germans have broken into the game. Darby likes Duluth and will remain for some time, we hope. "Keep your heads up, Lads," is an expression that has been copyrighted by our hero.

London, Ont., Aug. 6.—Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, was arrested here today on a telegram from the chief of police at Woodstock. Johnson is alleged to have gone through Woodstock at an excessive rate of speed in his automobile and to have run down another autoist, smashing the latter's machine. Johnson was locked up pending his transfer to Woodstock.

Hibbing Still Winning.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 6.—Alexandria was defeated at baseball here yesterday by a score of 5 to 2. Errors were responsible for the visitors' defeat. The errors of the local team came at times when they were not costly. Geiselman's catch of a hard fly in deep center was the feature of the game. Score:

OARSMEN AT DETROIT

Fifteen Cities Are Represented in Races on Michigan Water.

St. Paul Club Entered in International Senior Four-Oared Event.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 6.—Oarsmen representing clubs in fifteen cities of the United States and Canada met on the Detroit rover today in the opening events of the thirty-seventh annual regatta of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen. The regatta is being held under the auspices of the Detroit Boat club. Brawny, sunburned men from Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa and Vancouver struggled with representatives of both the East and Middle West of the United States in the seven events which made up the program of the opening day.

A mile and a quarter long, the course was laid about 200 yards above the bridge connecting the island park with the mainland. The oarsmen rowed with the three-mile current. The course was 400 feet wide, giving room enough to start eight shells with fifty feet of water for each one.

Outside the line of white flagged buoys which marked the outer limits of the course, scores of water craft of every description were anchored, or followed the contestants down the course. Thousands of spectators watched the races from the shore of the island, while the bridge was crowded to the limit of safety with spectators.

Early predictions from the weather observers were for a somewhat cloudy day with light winds, which were expected to work around to the south in the afternoon. Southerly winds meant some smooth water, while blasts from the north inevitably meant rough water and hard work for the men in the frail shells.

Almost with the dawn, coaches had their men out for the final practice. Hundreds of people watched the crews get last directions. The shells, filled with sunburned men wearing bright-colored jerseys, gave the course a picturesque appearance all the morning. By noon launches, yachts and rowboats had begun to take positions along the course, and the men from the revenue cutter were impressing on all navigators the necessity for obeying the rules against crossing the line of bobbing buoys.

The first event, the intermediate double sculls, was set for 2:20 p. m. and the other events were scheduled to follow at intervals of thirty minutes. The events and entries were:

THE COUNTY BOARD MAKES A LEVY OF $709,000 TO MEET EXPENSES OF 1910

An Increase of $166,500 Over the Levy of 1908.

Anti-Tuberculosis Society Gets Its Appropriation of $20,000.

Expense of New Courthouse Also Figures in the Increase.

The board of county commissioners at its meeting this morning fixed the tax levy for the coming year at $709,000, an increase of approximately $165,500 over the levy fixed a year ago. In almost every item there is an increase over the amount raised for the same purpose last year, with the additional expense of a county tuberculosis sanitarium, the maturing of $135,000 of courthouse bonds and the additional expense of maintaining the new courthouse, which the county will occupy next month.

The county tax rate last year was 2.57 mills. Were the rate to be fixed this year on the same valuation of approximately $225,000,000 the rate would be 3.27 mills, an increase of .70 mills over the rate of last year. But very likely the county rate will be lower as an increase of the valuation at the hands of the state tax commission this year would come as no surprise, in view of the attitude assumed in former years toward St. Louis county by that board.

In explanation of the increased appropriation recommended by him and fixed by the board, County Auditor Halden said today:

"It is natural that the levy for county purposes should be increased each year, as the county is growing and more money is needed to finance its affairs. But there are exceptional reasons this year that make the levy even higher than it would be under ordinary conditions. Eight elements enter into the increase, and they are:

"First, the increase of the pay of district court jurors from $2.00 to $3.00 per day.

"Second, the additional expense attached to the county by the establishing of the range district court.

"Third, the interest on a bond issue of $1,000,000 for the new courthouse. Last year, but $26,651.04 was levied for interest on courthouse bonds. This year, $51,000 is necessary for that purpose.

"Fourth, the payment of $50,000 old courthouse bonds issued in 1886.

"Fifth, the retiring of $125,000 courthouse bonds in November, 1910. The retiring of those bonds produces the biggest single item of increase and should be considered in a comparison of the figures.

"Sixth, the additional expense attached to the maintenance of the new courthouse over the old. A beautiful building like the new courthouse requires a large amount of money to keep up and the increase in cost of maintenance is no inconsiderable item.

"Seventh, the levy of $20,000 for establishing and maintaining a county tuberculosis sanitarium.

"Eighth, interest on $35,932 ditch drainage bonds.

Thus, when one takes into consideration the exceptional circumstances attending the levy for 1910, the increase over last year is not a subject for wonderment. No one can say what the valuation of St. Louis county will be fixed at by the state tax commission this year, so that what the increase in the rate will be cannot be determined at this time. Based on last year's valuation, the increase of .70 mills is not excessive when everything is considered."

The levy for the county poor fund was not included in that made today, as that is made by the poor commission. Last year that body required $28,861.12 for its work.

There was no fight on the appropriation of $20,000 for the tuberculosis sanitarium. The members of the anti-tuberculosis commission and several other workers against the "white plague" were at the meeting, but they were assured that the full amount allowed to be appropriated by the last legislature for the purpose of establishing such an institution would be included in the levy, and it was not necessary for those present to make their appeals to the board.

The proposed contracts for the improvement of the Miller trunk road fizzled out this morning when the board prepared to open bids for the work. Only one was submitted, that being from August Lund for the work on the north part of the road. He submitted a bid of $4,596. There were no bids on the work in the other district, that from the Cloquet river to the White Face river. The northern district extends from the White Face river to the southern boundary of the town of Duluth. Each is fourteen miles long, and the board has appropriated $10,000 for the work. No action was taken on Mr. Lund's bid this morning.

Bids were also opened this morning for the erection of two bridges, one with a 100-foot span over the White Face river, and the other with a 32-foot span over the Pale Face river. There were seven bidders, and the bids, which were not made by lump sums, were referred to the county road engineer for comparison, no further action being taken this morning.

• • •

Between 150 and 200 petitions were received by the board in support of the petition for $20,000 for the establishment of a tuberculosis sanitarium in the county.

• • •

The Highland company by C. P. Craig presented a petition for the closing of the Swan Lake road between the intersection of the road with the east end of Palmetto street, and the intersection with Highland avenue at the western terminus of the Highland electric line. The road runs diagonally across three blocks in the Fifth and Sixth additions to Duluth Heights, Mr. Craig said, and the property owners wanted the road abandoned, the streets of the additions being substituted for travel. The petition was referred to a committee that will report at the next meeting.

At the last meeting John Quackenbush presented a claim for $150 for a horse that was killed. The counsel for the board reported that the claim had no basis on which the county could be held.

• • •

A resolution was passed this morning requiring the Great Northern Railway company to place crossings between sections 28 and 33, 55-18, and on the town line between 56 and 57-13 and the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg Railway company to place a crossing between section 15 and 16, 59-20.

• • •

The attorney for the board was asked for an opinion on the present legal status of the courthouse commission. The law under which the house commission was formed required that three members when appointed should be members of the county board. Since the last election, John Sundeen has not been a member of the county board and the board wants to know if Mr. Sundeen is still a member of the courthouse commission and if he is not what effect the fact has on the actions of the board while Mr. Sundeen was acting as a member following the election at which he was defeated for county commissioner.

• • •

The following appropriations were made out of the special county road fund:

Fourth district—Tower and Ely road, $1,000; White Iron road, $500; Crane Lake road, $500; Burnside road, $500; Total, $2,500.

Fifth district—Paine and White Face, $500; Arnold and Meadow, $500; Tiwalla, $500; Lowry, $500; Unstad, $100; Thompson, $500; Total, $2,900.

Proctor road, $500.

Hermantown road, $1,000.

First district—Pike Lake road, $325; Rice Lake road, $300; Vermilion road, $200; total, $825.

Thompson road, $1,000.

RUSH WORK ON HOSPITAL

City's New Institution Will Be Ready By Nov. 1.

Work is progressing in good shape on the city's new contagious disease hospital, which is being erected on the site purchased for the purpose at Thirteenth avenue west, on the hillside.

The contractor expects to have the building entirely completed in October, and Health Commissioner Patton said this morning that he believed it would be occupied by Oct. 15, or Nov. 1, at the latest. Just as soon as the structure is ready, it will be properly equipped to receive patients.

There would be good use for the institution now, if it were ready, for it would help in the fight against the scarlet fever epidemic. The complete isolation of a contagious disease case is hard to bring about, unless the patient it put in some building especially provided for the purpose, such as the hospital now being built.

While the contract for the building will be completed in October, and the structure will be occupied immediately thereafter, this does not mean that the hospital will really be entirely finished. The fund provided for this purpose was hardly large enough to bear the cost of as large and modern a building as the city desired, so the plans were so drawn that the biggest part of the work could be done, and the building occupied, with the money at hand, while opportunity was left for the addition of more hospital space, and a greater completeness of detail later on, when more money was available.

If the city had confined itself to the $15,000 available, and still built as large a structure as is needed for immediate needs, it could not have been made fireproof. Under the present arrangement, however, the hospital is to be a modern building, strictly fireproof, and arranged with all modern conveniences. Great care was taken in drawing up the plans, so that everything about the place might be given the most satisfactory possible arrangement.

DRAFT WAS PROTESTED

Butte Firm Sues Duluth Brokers for Failure to Keep Agreement.

Suit was filed in district court this morning by Mayor, Sachs & Co., a brokerage firm of Butte, Mont., against McFadden & O'Leary, Duluth brokers, for a judgment in adjustment of differences they claim to have arisen over an exchange of sight drafts with 2,000 shares of Butte-Montana stock attached as collateral, last April.

Prior to the latter part of April, this year, the complaint says, the two firms had an agreement, whereby McFadden & O'Leary drew on the Butte firm at sight in order to establish credit in local circles, it being agreed that the Butte company should draw back at sight, McFadden & O'Leary honoring the draft to pay for the favor done them by the Butte concern in honoring their draft.

April 16, the plaintiff says, McFadden & O'Leary drew on them through the City National bank of this city for $1,800, with 2,000 shares of Butte-Montana stock attached as collateral. April 19, they say, they paid the draft, and April 20 they drew on the Duluth firm at sight with the 2,000 shares attached. The draft was protested, they say.

They ask that their claim be declared a lien on the 2,000 shares and that it be foreclosed and they also be given judgment for any difference that may exist between the value of the stock and the amount of the draft, the protest fees they paid the interest and their costs in the case.

DULUTH IS MORAL CITY

Or at Least Police Report Would Indicate as Much.

The monthly report of the police department shows that there were 323 arrests during July. Twenty-nine of the prisoners were women. As usual, the largest number of any one class of prisoners comprised drunks. There were 175 of them given free automobile rides during the month.

The estimated value of property stolen in Duluth during July is $1,639.25, and half of this was recovered by the police. Nineteen arrests were made on charges of assault, and five men were thrown into the city lockup for begging on the streets. Two were arrested for carrying concealed weapons.

Either gamblers have gone out of business in Duluth, or else their activities have not recently been brought to the attention of the police. Only one man was arrested for gambling during July. Eighteen persons were in court for disorderly conduct. There were three special Fourth of July arrests, one for shooting of a firecracker larger than the law allows, and two for placing explosives on the street car tracks.

RECAPTURE LIFER AT STILLWATER

Murderer 19 Years Old Tries to Escape From State Prison.

Stillwater, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas Michael Nee, who shot and killed Sheriff Donald J. McCall in Scott county the day before Christmas, 1907, failed in an attempt to escape from the state prison today. He is 19 years old and is serving a life sentence for the murder. He pleaded guilty.

CRUISES TO WEST INDIES.

Two Luxuriously Appointed Vessels for the Caribbean Route.

New York, Aug. 6.—Announcement was made today that the Royal Mail Steam Packet company is to enter the field of West Indian excursions with two sumptuously appointed vessels which have hitherto been employed in the European-South American passenger traffic of the company, but which will be placed on the Caribbean route from January to March, 1910. One of these mammoth steamers, the Avon, was launched two years ago, and is one of the most luxuriously appointed passenger steamships afloat. The other steamship, the Berbice, was launched last month, and equals, if not surpasses, the Avon in her magnificent appointments. Both vessels are twin-screw steamers, built on the lines of yachts, and will afford every luxury that is to be found on a private steam yacht. Some of the features on these two vessels are suites-de-luxe, comprising drawing room, bedroom and bathroom, on deck, and a large proportion of their cabins are single-berthed; the dining saloons are furnished with small tables on the modern restaurant plan; gymnasiums, nurseries, electric laundries and spacious promenade decks.

The cruises, as outlined, will embrace Nassau, Havana, Santiago and the Isthmus of Panama. On the Isthmus passengers will be afforded special facilities for traversing the distance from Colon, on the Atlantic side, to Panama City, on the Pacific, and thoroughly inspecting the work in the canal zone. Other stops will be made at La Guayra, Caracas, Puerto Cabello, Port of Spain and La Brea (Trinidad), Barbados, Martinique and Bermuda.

DOGS MADE MISTAKE.

Tackled Porcupine With Disastrous Results to Their Heads.

Hancock, Mich., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two dogs that had attempted to tackle a porcupine and got their faces full of quills, were brought to town yesterday afternoon by a boy and a local youth undertook the job of extricating the painful little stickers from the noses of the animals.

The dogs had chased a porcupine in the woods between Hancock and the canal, and in their innocent ignorance of the nature of the beast, had come to grief.

FIVE MEN CLINGING TO WRECKED STEAMER.

Cape Town, Aug. 6.—Five members of the crew of the British steamship Maori, which ran on the rocks Wednesday night off Slang bay, are still on board that vessel. Through the clouds of spray dashed up by the terrific seas breaking over the wreck, the forms of the men can be indistinctly seen clinging to the rigging. Lifeboats are attempting to rescue them.

One of Brigham's Widows Dies.

Salt Lake City, Aug. 6.—One of the four surviving widows of Brigham Young died here yesterday. She was Maarah K. J. C. T. Young. She was married to Young at Nauvoo, Ill., before the westward pilgrimage of the Mormons. She was 88 years old. No children were born to her.

GOPHER TO SAIL AWAY

Minnesota Naval Militia to Leave for the Annual Maneuvers.

Sails at Noon Saturday for Thunder Bay, Lake Huron.

Under Commander Guy A. Eaton, the Minnesota Naval Militia will sail on the U. S. S. Gopher tomorrow at noon for Thunder Bay, Lake Huron, where all the ships of the militia ships on the lakes will gather for their annual maneuvers.

This has been a busy week for officers and men. They have been drilling energetically to prepare themselves for the maneuvers, under the watchful eyes of Commander C. C. Marsh and other officers of the regular service.

A regular navy officer will be attached to each ship in the fleet from the time they leave the home port until they return again, and they will carefully note the manner in which the drills are executed and the ships are conducted.

The militiamen have perfected themselves in all the naval regulations and the department's latest signal codes, and expect to make a good showing during the maneuvers. Last year the Minnesota militia carried off first honors in nearly everything, and received the highest praise from the regular officers in charge.

The Gopher was overhauled and improved in dry dock during the latter part of the winter and the spring, and she is in better condition and better fitted for the uses of the militia than she was last year.

Small craft have been plying between docks and the Gopher, lying at anchor off the boat club, for the past few days, carrying provisions and equipment necessary for the two weeks' cruise and everything will be in readiness when the boat steams out of the harbor at noon tomorrow.

The men and officers will observe the regular navy routine, supplemented by special drills, from the time they leave until they return, but they will be out doors all the time, in lusty competition with the militias from other states, and the boat will touch at many interesting ports, including Milwaukee, during the two weeks she is to be gone.

UNWRITTEN LAW PLEA.

Reported That Is Defense That Slayer of Boutin Will Raise.

Ashland, Wis., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dan Barker, the slayer of Henry Boutin, has been bound over to trial at Washburn.

He was charged with murder in the first degree, and when he was brought before Judge Irish, he waived examination, and was held without bonds. The defendant declined to make any explanation. From the reports of the shooting, about the only offense that Barker can put up is the "unwritten law." It is said that there will be a vigorous defense made, with the intent to at least mitigate the severity of the sentence, in case the jury finds him guilty. Boutin's dying declaration, made at Ashland, will be used in the case.

WANT BONDS, NOT SUITS.

Bond Buyers Approve Brainerd's Condemnation Proceedings.

Brainerd, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. H. H. Cash of New Lisbon, Wis., and G. A. Elder of Duluth, two of the leading bond buyers who were bidders for the $120,000 issue of last year, were in the city early in the week. They had been at Walker to bid on $63,950 in refunding bonds issued by Cass county. The proceedings, however, were found to be defective and that the entire matter will have to be gone over again.

While here they discussed the situation in Brainerd freely. Mr. Cash, especially, was outspoken in approval of the condemnation of the present plant, and remarked that the city was now going at it right, that they were taking the advice that he gave when in the city at the time of the bond sale last fall. He repeated his statement that bond buyers were not looking for lawsuits and said that if Brainerd got matters fixed up with the water company so that all danger of competing plants or lawsuits from that source were done away with, the bonds would find a ready sale.

AMERICANS CAN PAY MORE, SO PRICES RISE.

Berlin, Aug. 6.—The newly established diamond monopoly of the imperial government in Southwest Africa has caused to be published the sale prices of the first six importations of diamonds. The prices show an increase of from 22½ marks $(5.62) a carat wholesale, to 29 marks ($7.25). The statement is made that in addition to the fact that the last lot were better stones, they sold at higher prices because the "sudden prosperity in America makes Americans willing to pay more."

Adjust Bemidji Church Loss.

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Church Mutual Insurance company, which insures churches, has adjusted the loss recently sustained through the destruction of the local M. E. church by fire, on June 20, by allowing $3,000 for the destruction of the church and $100 for the damage done to the parsonage.

NEWPORT MINE RESUMES.

Ironwood, Mich., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Newport mine has resumed operations after being shut down for almost a week, on account of the terrific wind storm that struck this city on July 29. The dynamos and hoisting machinery was repaired, and the roof is again being placed on the new brick dry.

They will be distributed by members of congress, each senator having about 160 copies and each member about seventy-five. The bill covers 121 pages.

MARKET IS ERRATIC

September Wheat Is Firm at Close in the Northwest.

Flax Is Off at End of an Active Session Here.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 6.—Wheat was erratic during the session in the American market today, and closing prices were irregular, with weaker tendencies. Duluth and Minneapolis September showed strength at the close, but both options elsewhere were lower than yesterday.

Argentine shipments of wheat were 728,000 bu, against 880,000 bu last week and 2,760,000 bu a year ago.

The Modern Miller says:

[illegible]

"Milling correspondents report of the average yield of winter wheat to the acre, when figured on the acreage estimated by the crop statistician of the department of the agriculture indicate the crops in the Central West and the Southwestern and Southeastern states to be as follows average yield per acre Michigan, 20; Ohio, 17, Indiana, 17.5; Illinois, 16; Missouri, 15; Nebraska, 19; Kansas, 15; Oklahoma, 13. Indicated crop—Michigan, 16,140,000; Ohio, 24,888,000; Indiana, 39,195,000; Illinois, 31,068,000; Missouri, 29,145,000; Nebraska, 41,173,000; Kansas, 88,425,000; Oklahoma, 15,080,000; Texas, 6,740,000; Kentucky, 7,932,000; Tennessee, 8,602,000. The quality of grain is high in most states. The poorest conditions are in Tennessee Kentucky and Ohio, caused by frequent rains at harvest. Many farmers are reported as refusing to sell wheat below $1 and are stacking or storing it."

Liverpool closed 1¼d to 1⅞d lower, Berlin ⅜c lower, Budapest ⅜c lower.

The September option closed unchanged in Duluth, ⅜c lower in Chicago, 1⅞c higher in Minneapolis, ⅜c lower in New York, ⅜@½c lower in St. Louis, ½c lower in Kansas City. October closed ⅜c lower in Winnipeg. The December option closed ¼c lower in Duluth, ⅜c lower in Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City and Winnipeg, ⅜@¾c lower in Minneapolis and ½c off in Kansas City.

September corn closed ⅜@¾c lower and oats ⅜c up in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "There was a weak opening to the speculative wheat market, and values showed a decline of ½@¾d. Pressure was the result of the easy American cables yesterday and reports of light rains in Southern Argentina. Following the opening the market suffered a further severe break, and values lost an additional ¾@1½d, with the principal weakness in the distant positions. Selling at this time was in the way of heavy liquidation on the part of longs in all positions on the lower American offerings, weakness in cash, decline in cargoes, which are offered at 3d decline, weak English and French provincial markets and reports of favorable out turn of the wheat crop in Italy. At midday the market was very weak and from 1⅝@2¼d lower than yesterday, with the extreme decline in December."

Car receipts of wheat at Duluth were 28 against 28 last year, and at Minneapolis 77 against 106 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 105 against 134 last year. Chicago received 388 against 225 last year. Winnipeg received 37 against 22 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 986,000 bu, last year 925,000 bu. Shipments 567,000, last year 704,000 bu.

Primary receipts of corn were 403,000 bu, last year 305,000 bu. Shipments 306,000 bu, last year 497,000 bu.

Wheat was quiet during most of the session in Duluth. September wheat opened ⅜c lower at $1.00¼, advanced to $1.00⅜, declined to 99⅞c and rallied by the close to $1.00⅜, unchanged from yesterday. December wheat opened late at 97¾c, advanced to 98c and closed there, a loss of ¼c from yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ½c lower.

Flax was quite active and closed at lower prices. September flax opened ½c lower at $1.37¼ bid, advanced to $1.38 and closed at $1.36, a loss of 1¾c from yesterday. October flax opened unchanged at $1.34½, declined to $1.32¾ and closed at $1.33, a loss of 1½c from yesterday. November flax opened ¼c lower at $1.34¼, advanced to $1.34⅝, declined to $1.33 and closed there, a loss of 1½c from yesterday.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

New Low Levels Follow Liquidation in Wheat Pit.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—New low level marks were reached by wheat prices on the Board of Trade today as a result of renewed liquidation based on weak cables and continued favorable weather for harvesting in this country and Canada. The September delivery, which yesterday declined to the dollar mark, sold early today at 99¾c, while the December option touched 97½c.

Leading commission houses were active sellers. Demand was confined chiefly to shorts. Prices at the start wer ⅜@⅞c lower, September being at 99⅜@99¾c and December at 97½@98c.

A break of 1⅝d@2⅛d at Liverpool was one of the chief reasons for the opening weakness. The market continued heavy early, December holding within the opening range. September, after selling at 99¾@99⅞c, dropped back to around 99½c.

The market was weak the greater part of the day. For September the low point was reached at 99⅛@99¼c. The bottom for December was 97¼@97⅜c. A little export demand prompted some covering by shorts late in the day and caused a moderate rally. The market closed weak with September off ⅜c at 99⅞c and December at 98c.

Corn followed wheat downward, sentiment early being decidedly bearish. There was free selling by prominent commission houses and pit traders. Weak cables and slowness of cash demand were additional weakening influences. Prices at the opening were ¼@⅝c lower, September being at 62½@62⅝c. After selling at 62⅝c, September rallied to 62¾c.

The market during the last half of the day rallied on buying, based on talk of damage by hot weather. September advanced to 63⅝@63¾c. The close was strong with prices at the top, September being up ⅝@¾c at 63⅝@63¾c.

Independent firmness developed in the oats market following a moderate break at the start. The break was due to the weakness of wheat and corn. Shorts and leading cash interests were active bidders for oats, but offerings soon dwindled to small proportions. September opened ⅛@¼c to ¼@⅜c lower at 36@36⅛c and advanced to 36⅜c.

The slump in grain had a weakening effect on provisions at the start, but the market soon rallied on buying inspired by much smaller receipts of live hogs in the West. Prices at the opening were 2½c higher to 10c lower.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Early Weather Reports Make Wheat Weak on Good Prospects.

Minneapolis, Aug. 6.—The early wheat market was weak on further excellent reports from the Northwest. Traders felt confident that the crop of the three states was now assured and the Canadian Northwest is now the center of attention. Local stocks decreased 575,000 bu for the week. Export business firmed the market at the close. Minneapolis today received 77 cars of wheat against 106; Duluth 28 against 28; Winnipeg 31 against 22. September opened at 99½c; high, 99¾c; low, 98¾c; close, 99⅝c. December opened at 97⅞c; high, 97⅞@98c; low, 96¾c; close, 97½@97⅞c. May opened at $1.01¼; high, $1.01¾@1.01⅞; low, $1.01; close, $1.01¾.

Cash wheat was strong on account of active demand for, and light offerings of spring wheat. There was little inquiry for winter wheat. No. 1 northern sold for 28@29c above the September option and No. 2 northern for 26@27c above. No. 1 northern spot, $1.27; new to arrive, $1.02⅜; No. 2 northern spot, $1.26; new, to arrive, $1.00⅜. No. 3 wheat, $1.22@1.25; No. 3 yellow corn, 62¾c; No. 3 white oats, 39⅞@41⅞c; No. 2 rye, 65¼@67¼c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,209 tons. Demand was only fair and prices were unchanged. Bran in 100-pound sacks, $20.50.

Flour was in a trifle better demand. Foreign business on a new crop basis was fair. Shipments were light, 40,456 barrels, and prices unchanged. First patents, $5.90@6.10; second patents, $5.80@6.00; first clears, $4.95@5.25; second clears, $3.35@3.55.

HEARD ON THE FLOOR.

Gossip of the Trading Room and the Pit.

B. W. Snow wired as follows from Grand Forks, N. D.: "Past three days have motored 300 miles in northern counties of North Dakota, find a little black rust quite general but in every case it is a single stalk and is the development of only the first infection. Before the second infection can develop here the crop will all be cut. You can dismiss rust as any factor in the crop of the state this year. Cutting already begun and the crop will set a new record for the state. Going to Canada tonight as that crop is still in a stage where rust could still develop."

The Cotton Market.

New York, Aug. 6.—The cotton market opened steady with an advance of 4@7 points in response to Liverpool cables and continued dry, hot weather in the Southwest. Local bears continued selling and there was some irregularity following the call, but the general ruling was steady. During the middle of the session prices held about 10 to 11 points net higher. The Texas weather forecast and New Orleans and foreign buying was a sustaining feature.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 6.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: The demand for heavy, young draft horses continues with other classes practically neglected. Some of the horses being received are somewhat thin on account of work, but are of good quality otherwise. While the supply of good horses is somewhat low, heavy consignments are expected, which will enable dealers to fill all orders. Young, rugged mules are in request.

DEATH DUE TO SLIGHT SCRATCH

The death of Marcus Melvin, 46 years old, 707 South Twenty-fourth avenue east, who passed away on Wednesday evening last, was due to a small scratch on his finger.

But little attention was paid to the scratch at the time, when blood poisoning set in, and the whole arm became infected, death resulting within a short time. He leaves a wife and five children.

The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock from the Sacred Heart cathedral.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Buying on Liberal Scale and Close Very Strong and Active.

Rise of United States Steel to a New Record Price.

New York, Aug. 6.—Opening operations in stocks today were in fairly large volume and at prices generally above last night. Missouri Pacific was a feature with a rise of 1⅜ and the metal stocks were also strong, Amalgamated Copper and National Lead rising a point, and American Smelting ⅝. Denver & Rio Grande rose ¾.

Purchases of stocks were on a more liberal scale, and there was a steady improvement all through the list, with the railroad stocks setting the pace. Such stocks as Reading, St. Paul, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and Atchison were in increased demand, which revived confidence among the bulls. Quite a sprinkling of the industrials were advanced sharply, but the demand for this class of stocks was not as keen as recently. Central Railroad of New Jersey yielded 5 points and Atlantic Coast line 1.

Heavy buying of St. Paul at an advance of 2¾ was a feature. American Smelting was prominent with a rise of 3. United States Steel rose a point to yesterday's high record. The general list was quiet and remained little changed. Pullman gained 7½, National Lead, American Agricultural Chemical and Toledo, St. Louis & Western, 2; American Woolen, 1¾, Chicago & Alton, 1½, and Northern Pacific, Great Northern preferred, Illinois Central and American Car 1, or more. Chicago, Great Western and Pacific Mail declined 1. Bonds firm.

The market closed very strong and active. The rise of United States Steel to a new record price at 76⅝ was a feature of the late market. The electrical equipment stocks became conspicuous, General Electric gaining 2¼, Westinghouse Electric 3 and Allis-Chalmers preferred 1. Union Pacific rose 2⅜ and Northwestern 4½. Western Maryland fell 1. Selling to realize was light.

Scotts are strong and steady at present prices. Only one way for them to go and that is up. We will soon be in the heavy trading season and big money will be made on all good curb issues. Buy the Scotts for they are absolutely sure propositions.

St. Mary's stock was certainly a heavy trader all the way from 26 cents to 30 cents a share. This mine has every possibility of becoming another Red Warrior. Good news is beginning to come from the property and any day now we can expect something big. The shares are selling at such a low price that if there is a stock on the board that should advance it is St. Mary's. We spent a lot of money looking up this proposition before it was put on and have every reason in the world to believe it will be a great success. Several thousand shares changed hands on the exchange today.

NEW TARIFF LAW NOW IN EFFECT

L. M. Willcuts, the local collector of customs, is today collecting duties under the new tariff law.

The new law went into effect today, and while the duties are based on the old schedlue, the new one having not yet arrived, every one is forced to put up a bond assuring the payment of the duty if it happens to be more than under the old schedule.

One thing that may interest many people is the fact that whisky and spirits of all kinds are bound from this time on to be higher. The old duty was $2.25 a gallon and the new amounts to $2.60.

Some people are refusing to put up a bond so as to get their goods and they are being held by the government until the new schedule arrives, so that the duty can be fixed.

The new schedule is expected within a week.

WITHDRAW ONE CHARGE AGAINST BELTRAMI MAN.

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The introduction of evidence to substantiate the charges brought against County Auditor Willmann at the hearing before Examiner Payne was concluded this morning and the state rested at 11.

Public Examiner Kain withdrew one statement made during the hearing, relative to the charge against the auditor for 1908, as evidence as to alleged misappropriation of fees by the auditor showed that the fees properly belonged to him and the strength of the charge was much shaken. The evidence in behalf of the defendant is now being introduced.

NEW BRAND OF HOPPERS IS CAUSING BIG DAMAGE.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Aug. 6.—A new variety of grasshopper has appeared in several grain fields in the country west of here, and is doing much damage. The grasshopper is smaller than the ordinary variety and appears to come up out of the ground. It preys upon the heads of the grain and destroys them. The ravages have become so serious that farmers are placing all available binders in the field and cutting down the grain in order to save it.

Japs Abandon Strike.

Honolulu, Aug. 6.—The strike of more than 6,000 Japanese plantation laborers, which has been in progress for two months and has caused much loss to the planters, was declared off yesterday by the Japanese of the islands. The attitude of the planters in firmly refusing to make any concessions, and in refusing all overtures to settlement, and the energetic action of the territorial authorities in prosecuting the leaders upon charges of conspiracy for alleged threats of violence and acts of intimidation caused the collapse of the strike.

JEROME SCORES THAW'S FAMILY IN HIS ADDRESS

Declares Insanity Is to Be Expected From "Such Stock."

Sums Up History of the Case in Insanity Hearing.

Declares Evelyn Lied and Asks Court to Forget All About Dr. Evans.

White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Closing arguments were heard by Justice Isaac N. Mills today in the application of Harry K. Thaw for release from the Matteawan asylum. Each side was confined to one hour, and both had said that they did not need as much time as this. Mr. Jerome's turn came first.

Mrs. Josiah Thaw, the prisoner's sister-in-law, was the only member of the family party not present when court convened. Thaw looked even paler than usual.

His chair touched Jerome's. Thaw set his features with evident determination to show no emotion under the storm which he expected to descend upon his head.

Mr. Jerome began by saying that Justice Mills must be perfectly familiar with the case. Mr. Jerome said that therefore he would not attempt to go over the evidence in detail.

Thought Evelyn Lied.

Speaking of the credibility of the witnesses and their bearing under cross-examination, he said he believed all did their best to tell the truth except Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw.

"I do think," he declared, "that this girl was deliberately and intentionally falsifying. That she told her husband the story of her injury at the hands of Stanford White, I have no doubt."

Mr. Jerome then passed directly to the question of Thaw's sanity. The

CHICAGO MAY NOT SUFFER STRIKE

Street Railways Are Ready to Grant Increases in Wages.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—The impression was strong today that peace would be maintained between the street car companies and their employes. President Mitten of the Chicago railway intimated that he was willing to grant the required advance in wages provided the men would sign a three-years' contract. President Roach of the North and West side lines said that he would go as far as Mr. Mitten in this direction.

Motormen and conductors interviewed seemed jubilant over prospects of peace. They had voted to "stand by the demands made upon the companies," but, it is said, without any real idea that a strike would become necessary.

MILLER HIT BY CANNON

Was Not Appointed on the Rivers and Harbors Committee.

All the "Insurgents" Were Disciplined By the Speaker.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Representative Miller of Duluth did not land on the rivers and harbors committee, and the place, which was held by his three predecessors, Towne, Morris and Bede, goes to another. Miller is much disappointed, but he has got other committee plans that are fairly good for a new member. He is placed on Indian affairs, manufactures and private land claims.

Speaker Cannon disciplined "the insurgents against the house rules." Representatives Fowler (New Jersey), Gardner (Massachusetts) and Cooper (Wisconsin), three of the "rules insurgents" who held chairmanships in the last session of congress, have lost their committees. Representative Vreeland (New York) suiceeds Mr. Fowler as head of the committee on banking and currency, and Representative Rodenberg (Illinois) succeeds Mr. Gardner as chairman of the committee on industrial arts and expositions. Mr. Cooper was replaced by Representative Olmstead (Pennsylvania). Representative Davidson (Wisconsin) is retained as head of the committee on railways and canals. These deposed members participated in the fight on the rules at the beginning of the present session and thus incurred the speaker's displeasure.

Rivers and Harbors Chairman.

Representative Alexander (New York) succeeds to present Senator Burton's position as head of the committee on rivers and harbors, and Representative Parker (New Jersey) is made chairman of the judiciary com-

ART DIRECTOR OF THE "NEW THEATER"

E. HAMILTON BELL.

Edward Hamilton Bell has been appointed art director of the New theater in New York. Mr. Bell was born in London and was trained as an artist in the Slade school and in the studio of Sir E. J. Poynter, his uncle. Later he went on the stage at the suggestion of W. S. Gilbert, and appeared first under the management of Charles Wyndham. He was with Augustin Daly for several seasons and one season with Modjeska. Then he left the state and returned to his art, becoming head of the decorating firm of Hamilton Bell & Co. He has designed scenery and costumes for many plays produced by Henry Irving, Austin Daly, Henry Abbey and others.

TAFT WILL JUST REST

President Joins His Family at Their Pretty Summer Home.

Golf, Riding, Motoring, Fishing and Yachting on the Program.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 7.—President Taft reached his summer home at Woodberry Point at 8:30 a. m. today. The president came from Washington in a private car attached to the Federal express and was accompanied by his private secretary and Capt. Archibald Butt, his military aide.

The president's car Olympia was cut off from the Federal express at the South station in Boston, and transferred over the Boston & Albany, and the Boston & Maine to the Little Montserrat station, on the outskirts of the city,but not far from the Taft residence. As he stepped from the train the president was greeted by the enthusiastic citizens of Beverly and found waiting for him his sons, his wife and Mrs. More. The Taft party immediately entered their automobile and were whirled over to Woodberry Point, a half a mile away.

Just Means to Rest.

The president said that he had no plans for the summer except to obtain

FRENCH AVIATOR BEATS WRIGHT

Flies in Aeroplane for Nearly Two and One-Half Hours.

Mourmelon-Le-Grand, France, Aug. 7.—Roger Somer, the French aviator, beat the world's record today for prolonged flight in an aeroplane. His machine remained in the air for two hours, twenty-seven minutes and fifteen seconds.

Somer started at 3:14 o'clock this morning in the bright moonlight. In the beginning he traveled slowly, near the ground, at elevations running from six to thirty yards. After the machine had become limbered up, the aviator increased his speed, and the coming of daylight showed him traveling and maneuvering easily.

Beats Wright's Record.

When it became evident that he had beaten the duration record held by Wilbur Wright, the assembled crowd cheered wildly, and as Somer came to the ground at forty-one minutes and fifteen seconds past 5 he was given an ovation.

M. Somer is one of the new school of French aviators, several of whom have recently made records that would have attracted world-wide attention a year ago. On July 27 he made a flight of 1 hour, 23 minutes, 50 seconds. Aug. 2 he flew nine miles in 12 minutes, which is at the rates of forty-five miles an hour, and on Aug. 4 he made a flight of a few seconds over two hours. He is using a biplane of the Voisin type.

Good Work at Mineola.

Mineola, N. Y., Aug. 7.—C. Foster Willard today made four low flights of about one mile each in the Curtiss aeroplane belonging to the Aeronautic society. This is the machine which was wrecked in a flight made by Alexander Williams about two weeks ago.

LABOR LUST LURES JUDGE

Kenosha Man Is Found Working With Hands in Sabula, Iowa.

Returns From Second Strange Wandering to the Same Locality.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 7.—An Evening Wisconsin special from Kenosha, Wis., says:

Attorney James Cavanaugh, a close personal friend of Judge Joseph R. Clarkson, who disappeared from his home here on July 14 and was found today at Sabula, Iowa, yesterday, by John Burns, a close friend who has been searching for him since he left Kenosha, gave out the following statement today:

"Mr. Clarkson is at my home. He arrived in Kenosha late Friday night and was at once taken to my home and will remain there. We have no statement to make for him with the exception of the fact that he is well and happy. We do not believe that he realizes that he has caused anyone any great anxiety, and he certainly is in no condition to submit to an interview, or give out a statement in regard to his recent disappearance. Judge Clarkson will not see anyone, but if there is any statement which he wishes to make it will be promptly furnished to the press."

His Second Disappearance.

The fact of the arrival of Judge Clarkson was not known to many people who watched for him, and it is believed that he must either have been brought to the city in an automobile or that the train must have stopped before it reached the station and the judge given a chance to leave it and be taken in a carriage to the Cavanaugh home.

It was only a few miles from Sabula that Judge Clarkson was found eigh-

RUSSIA RESENTS CHINA'S COURSE

Protests Collection of Customs at New Office on the Amur River.

Pekin, Aug. 7.—The Chinese maritime custom house at Aigun, on the Amur river, has been put into operation. M. Korotovitz, the Russian minister to China, has taken the position that the collection of customs there constitutes a violation of the treaties of Aigun and St. Petersburg, and as a result the question of the navigation of the Amur river now is raised.

HURLS STONES TO SAVE 250 GIRLS

New York Policeman Gives Warning to Inmates of Home.

New York, Aug. 7.—Two hundred and fifty inmates of the House of the Good Shepherd in East Ninetieth street, near the East river, fled from the main building to the court yard early today while a fire burned out nearly all the rooms on the second floor.

A passing policeman who discovered the blaze experienced great difficulty in arousing the occupants. The gates of the tall iron fence were locked, and the policeman threw stones at the heavily screened windows until a watchman was aroused. The fire alarm was then sounded, and the girl inmates, in their night clothes, ran into the court yard. The firemen had to scale the fence before reaching the fire. The blaze was soon extinguished, with a loss of a few thousand dollars. There was no loss of life.

TWO REGIMENTS IN THE NORTH OF SWEDEN MUTINY

Government's Fear That the Troops Side With Strikers Is Well Founded.

Situation in Stockholm Shows No Sign of Improvement.

Employers and Men Agree That Intervention Will Do No Good.

Stockholm, Aug. 7.—Swedish troops in the northern part of the country have mutinied and the government is much concerned.

Two regiments, one at Falun and the other at Solleftea, are affected. They are stationed in the northern country, where the labor disturbances first broke out in the timber trade, and where the government has been haunted by the fear that the soldiers' sympathies were with the strikers. The mutinous troops have been confined to their barracks.

Two hundred conscripts of the regiments stationed at Falun made a demonstration yesterday in sympathy with the strikers, during which they sang revolutionary songs. As a punishment they were given hard drills. The mutiny followed this morning.

The executive committee of the Swedish union today decided to call out all the printers throughout the kingdom. Many of the grave-diggers have defied the orders of their labor union to return to work, and have rejoined the strikers.

Hope of End Is Lost.

The food situation in Stockholm shows no improvement today, and the strike continues. The hopes yesterday that the men would withdraw from their extreme attitude have not been fulfilled. The increasing cost of living and the difficulty of obtaining food is being felt, and doubtless accounts

BAD BLOOD IN FAR EAST

Japan Defies China in Work on New Line of Railroad.

Official of Mikado's Government Sees Danger in Situation.

Pekin, Aug. 7.—In defiance of the protestations of China, Japan today began the construction of the Antung-Mukden railroad. Simultaneously at each end of the line, the work was started by Japanese engineers and constructors, who for several months have been awaiting the outcome of the negotiations. The action today was the result of instructions from Tokio.

The feeling of Japan in this matter, which is due to China's objection to changing the existing narrow guage of the line to the standard guage of the connecting line in both Korea and Manchuria, was reflected here today by a Japanese official of high standing who said that China-Japanese relations at the present moment bore a dangerous resemblance to those of 1904.

CLOSE DOOR IN SUTTON INQUIRY

Mother of Dead Lieutenant Is Examined Regarding Letters.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. .—The board of inquiry which is investigating the death of Lieut. James N. Sutton, went into session behind closed doors today. All the interested parties were admitted, but the public and the press were excluded.

The appearance n a New York morning newspaper of parts of the letters supposed to have been written by Mrs. Sutton, which are being read in the secret session of the court today, led Commander Hood, president of the board of inquiry to send out word from the court room that the letters referred to in the publication had nothing to do with the case.

Maj. Leonard said he would examine Mrs. Sutton in regard to each of the letters as they were read. If she acknowledged that some of her statements made in the letters were extravagant and had no foundation in fact, the court would drop the matter, it was said.

Protest by Lawyers.

Mrs. Sutton's re-appearance on the witness stand yesterday was the signal for a heated controversy between the lawyers on all sides, which ended in a prolonged conference of the members of the board behind closed doors and brought the day's proceedings to an abrupt ending.

Several witnesses had been disposed of during the day when Judge Advocate Leonard called Mrs. Sutton to the stand. Before proceeding with her examination Maj. Leonard offered for identification and to be read in evidence several letters which he said Mrs. Sutton had written "containing serious and delicate charges" against the young officers of the marine corps who appeared as defendants.

"The United States has been put to a large expense in bringing witnesses here from all parts of the world," said Maj. Leonard, "and it becomes my painful duty to offer these letters in evidence in order to enlighten the court as fully as possible on all matters pertaining to the inquiry."

The reading of Mrs. Sutton's letters was finished in secret session and then Commander Hood adjourned court until 10 a. m. Monday.

GIROUX WILL BUILD SMELTER

Official Announcement By Thomas F. Cole, Now in Ely.

Ely, Nev., Aug. 7.—Thomas F. Cole of the Cole-Ryan syndicate announced this week that the Giroux Consolidated would begin work during the next thirty days on a big concentrating and smelting plant, which is to be located in this district. This step has been under consideration for some time and the site of the concentrator and smelting plant is to be selected by officials of the Giroux within a few days. The new plant will be located in this district, either in White River valley, just east of the Giroux estate, or at the Heiser ranch, on the west side of the Steptoe valley, fourteen miles north of Ely. It is expected that at least 500 men will be employed on this new work.

Mr. Cole arrrived here Sunday, accompanied by G. F. Piper of Minneapolis, one of the Giroux directors; Consulting Engineer James A. Snedker and Joseph B. Cotton, general counsel of the Giroux company.

On Wednesday these gentlemen purchased the Giroux-Ely group of fine claims lying to the south of Giroux and cutting into the southern tier of its claims. The consideration was $30,000 cash, which was paid to "Tex" Rickard and Ole Elliot of Goldfield and W. H. Roach og Wells, Nev. The deal was consummated through the brokerage firm of Herrick & Kerin. The claims immediately adjoin the Giroux property on the southeast and recent developments mean that this company is adding heavily to its already large holdings in this camp.

AUTO NEWS OF THE WEEK

William Buchanan Says Price of Motor Cars Is Coming Down.

Finds Factories Over Rushed and Predicts a Great Season.

An automobile so cheap in price that the great masses of people of only moderate means can afford to own a machine, is now the problem that the Eastern companies are working on with great success, according to William Buchanan of the Duluth Motor Car company, who has just returned after a visit at all the prominent Eastern shops.

"In the beginning of this great automobile industry,' says Mr. Buchanan, "the machine was made for the wealthy man. He bought and was supplied. The price had to come down for the next class. That was done successfully this year, when a number of the companies put out a car for from $1,200 to $1,500 that was up-to-date in every particular Now the men at the head of the different factories see that in order to keep up their business they have to reach a class even below this. The prices are coming down and the outlook is at the present time that they will soon be within the reach of almost everyone.

"I looked for changes on the 1910 cars, but aside from a more graceful looking car and one of greater beauty I did not find many changes.

"The engines are now down to a fine point and there are but few improvements along this line. The several companies vie with one another in the matter of pretty cars and this is the big feature of the new car.

"There are cars this year as low as $750. I don't know how successful they are going to be, but it shows the aim of the automobile industry.

"On the higher-priced cars there are but few changes. They are being made more rangy; more attention is being paid to the lines of the car; old comfort is not forgotten. All the factories are rushed. The Peerless, the car I represent in Duluth, had sold their 1909 output in January of that year. This year it looks as though they will be sold out before that time. All the factories are equally rushed. The demand is far greater than the supply, and in spite of the great additions and improvements doubling the capacity of the factories, I think there are destined to be more disappointed would-be owners this year than last.

"The struggle from now on will be [illegible] cheap car. A number of the [illegible]anies are experimenting this year, [illegible]dare say that within a few years [illegible]heap car will prove as good as [illegible] running qualities are concerned, [illegible] higher-priced car of the present

DISREGARDED THE "NO DUMPING" SIGN.

The fact that an employe of the board of public works so utterly disregarded instructions of the health department as to dump a load of garbage against a sign forbidding the dumping of garbage there aroused the ire of Health Commissioner Patton yesterday and he appeared before the board to make a protest.

The wagon had been emptied near St. Croix avenue, and other signs were placed in the vicinity, so it looked as if the teamster must have known that he was disobeying the wishes of the department in doing as he did. The man was summoned before the board and warned not to repeat the offense.

JOY FOR THE WOODSMEN.

Stearns Lumber Company Gives Them a Raise in Wages.

Ashland, Wis., Aug. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is joy among the lumberjacks in this section over the notices posted on the Bad River reservation by the Stearns Lumber company, telling of an advance in wages for woodsmen.

According to the increase common labor in the camps will be paid $30 a month, sawyers $32.50, teamsters $35, and extra good woodsmen as high as $40 per month. This is an advance of about $5, but it is not up to the high wages paid to labor in the woods before the panic of 1907.

WEST END

RASPBERRY PICKERS BUSY

Good Crop Is Reported in Suburbs of the City.

Many West end women and children are improving their spare hours of late in picking the wild raspberries, which grow in close proximity to the city. The fruit is now becoming ripe and many housewives are busy preserving the berries for the coming winter.

Recent rains have hastened the season, and those who visited the patches say that there is every indication of a large crop this year. The berries are large and of a good quality.

WANT CONCRETE, NOT STEEL

West End Citizens Interested in Rebuilding of Miller Creek Bridge.

That concrete should be used in the construction of a new bridge over Miller's creek on West Third street between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth avenues west instead of steel, is the opinion of many of the West end business men who are interested as to the action the city will take in replacing the old wooden structure.

It was reported a short time ago that the sentiment in that section of the city was for the erection of a steel bridge at this point, but West enders seem disinclined to favor this. It is thought that a concrete trestle would be much more durable.

Just above the bridge, it is said, is an ideal place for a small artificial lake, which could be formed by damming up the creek. The dam would not have to be built high enough to submerge with water all of the trees and shrubbery in that portion of the park. It could be so built, it is thought by interested West enders, so as to add to and not destroy the beauty of the surroundings.

"KID" CIRCUS MUST CLOSE

Juvenile Court Issues Order Against West End Show.

An amateur circus, in a tent pitched behind the billboards at the corner of Seventeenth avenue west and Superior street was yesterday afternoon closed by Judge J. D. Ensign of the juvenile court.

The promoters of the show scheme were up yesterday in juvenile court where the judge ordered the tent taken down. Today Officer F. E. Resche saw to it that the order of the court was obeyed. The noise made by the youngsters in the neighborhood and the fact that undesirable persons made use of the tent, were the cause of the order to suspend performances.

Repairing Road.

Workmen are engaged in repairing the Hermantown road, which was badly cut up by the storm of July 22, and many bad holes, which made the thoroughfare almost impassable to traffic are being filled up.

County Commissioner J. W. Cummings is looking after the work, and it is stated that the expense will be considerable. The work in repairing the road will be rushed to completion, however.

Complain of Fountain.

Complaints are being made by West end residents about the public drinking fountain, located at Twentieth avenue west at its intersection with Superior street. The fountain is not of an up-to-date type, and is claimed to be very insanitary.

People cannot depend on getting a drink there for the water is only turned on at various times. The cup, which it is necessary to drink from, is not attached to the fountain with a chain, and is often lying on the sidewalk or in the gutter.

The matter it is understood, will be taken up with the health board.

Adams vs. Hummers.

The Adams will play the Hummers tomorrow on the Thirty-second avenue west grounds. The game will be called for 2:30 o'clock. The teams are tied for first place in the standings of the City Amateur league, and the game will probably prove an interesting one. Graham and Peterson for the Adams, and Hackett and Olund for the Hummers are the batteries.

DO NOT BELIEVE FATHER SUICIDE

St. Paul Family Doubt Dead Man Is Rightly Identified.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The family of Edward Hoenck, until three months ago a civil engineer with offices in the Court block, had not heard directly today that he had committed suicide. According to a dispatch from San Francisco, "Edward Hoenck, said to be a mining engineer of St. Paul," committed suicide by drinking muriatic acid. The dispatch adds that he was penniless. His children in this city think that there must be some mistake about the reported death, as California relatives have not apprised them of the occurrence.

They also say that their father was not penniless, having inherited a legacy of $1,000 from a relative in Europe last winter.

Had Gone Prospecting.

A son, R. Hoenck, living with the family at 242 Edmund street, said: "I am inclined to think that there has been some mistake. I doubt if the Hoenck who committed suicide in San Francisco is my father."

Edward Hoenck, who was 65 years old, left St. Paul last April to prospect for gold in the California mountains. After his arrival there he visited a daughter, Mrs. P. H. Middents, at San Jose, and a son, Edward, who resides at Redwood. At that time he did not intimate that he was in any trouble. Hoenck had lived in St. Paul nearly forty years.

Cucumber Harvest On.

Foley, Minn., Aug. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The harvesting of cucumbers is in full swing and the crop is an exceptionally good one. Tuesday over 4,600 pounds were brought to the local pickling station and the crop promises to be very good. The season is at least ten days ahead of that a year ago and the Van Voorhis people are confident of a very busy season.

NEW TRACT OPENED UP

F. A. Patrick Purchases Desirable Residence Property in East End.

Will Build Fine Home on Bluff Overlooking the Lake.

The largest realty deal of the week was closed this morning when F. A. Patrick became the owner of an acre, equal to twenty lots, which lies between Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth avenues east and First and Third streets.

The consideration is not made public.

Mr. Patrick will build a fine residence on the ground. The sole object of the purchase was to secure grounds for a modern suburban dwelling.

The land was owned by the East Duluth company, an organization formed many years ago. This company owns a large tract of land in this vicinity that has not been for sale until this time. The purchasers of property in this vicinity are under contract to build first-class residences. Chester A. Congdon is president of the East Duluth company and the sale was made through the office of the Little & Nolte company.

There has been much inquiry for land in this vicinity during the past few years, but the owners believing that the time was not ripe for the opening up of the tract, have refused to sell.

Negotiations are under way with three other Duluthians for parcels of land in the same tract.

The property purchased by Mr. Patrick is located on the hill just this side of the Northland Country club. An excellent view of the lake is obtained from this point, and it has been for years considered one of the most desirable pieces of residence property in the city.

IS MURDERED IN SOLDIERS' HOME

Captain Is Killed and Two Inmates Wounded By Comrade.

Dayton, Ohio, Aug. 7.—Capt. Oscar Eastmond of the National Soldiers' Home was shot and killed today by a veteran named Edward Leonard, also wounded Sergeant George W. Arnold and Warren Wright, a private. Leonard is said to have been crazed with jealousy because of recent appointments and promotions. Arnold and Wright will recover.

Capt. Eastmond, who was colonel of the First North Carolina infantry in the Civil war, and was highly esteemed by officers and men, was sitting in his office reading a newspaper when Leonard entered and shot him, the bullet entering the brain and causing instant death.

Leonard proceeded to the floor above, where he shot Sergeant Arnold. Leonard quickly ascended another stairway, and in the upper squad room shot Warren Wright, a private. Here Leonard was overtaken by a guard and placed in custody.

Leonard's home is in Boston. The murdered man, who was 69 years old, is survived by a widow and an adopted son.

OPENING OF NEW STORE

A Beautiful Display of the Fall Styles at Friedman's.

There were many expressions of wonder and delight at the opening of Friedman's store today, for the new store is a most beautiful establishment. The exquisite taste shown in the setting is further evidenced in the splendid showing of the new autumn styles. The store has a most harmonious interior, with its blending of colors and lights and decorations. Every article of women's and misses' wear, which is shown, if of the new autumn styles, and they came at what has popularly come to be called the psychological moment, for women are weary of the summer styles. A large number were present during the day, inspecting the store, its beautiful furnishings and its fine stock.

The windows, with their elegant display of Parisian suits and gowns, were the cynosure of all passing eyes, and the opening was a most interesting event of the day.

WORKMEN FOR POWER DAM

A Special Car Brings in 103 Men From Michigan.

A special car bringing in 105 laborers for the work that is being done on the power dam at International Falls by the Backus-Brooks company, came in over the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic this morning.

It is stated here that the work of completing the big dam will be rushed with the idea of finishing the construction this summer and fall. Labor is extremely hard to secure, and it was with a great deal of trouble that the additional workmen for the power plant were secured.

MAKE SURVEY OF NEW PARK

Boston Landscape Artist Will Outline Lake Shore Park Improvements.

Park Board Plans to Make Boulevard of Snively Road.

C. H. Ramsdell of Minneapolis, acting for Warren H. Manning of Boston, Mass., who has been awarded the contract for drawing up plans for the improvement of Lake Shore park, Eighth avenue east, will begin a survey of the park next Monday, preparatory to drawing a map showing all topographical features of the park. This will be sent to Mr. Manning, a landscape artist of national reputation, and he will prepare plans for the improvement of the site.

The park commissioners are also looking after the needs of other parts of the city in the park line. Yesterday members of the board of commissioners, Secretary Helm, and the city engineer, drove over the Snively road, which it is proposed to change into a boulevard and make a part of the city's park system. The road extends northward from Lester Park and, when contemplated improvements are made, it will make a beautiful drive.

There are nine bridges along the route which will have to be rebuilt. They are in rather poor condition at the present time. This work will cost quite a sum, and cannot all be done at once. It is planned to have the new bridges of concrete construction, and the services of an expert in this line will be secured to design them, the idea being to make them harmonize as closely as possible with the surrounding scenery. Some very pretty effects can be obtained with concrete in bridge construction.

The park board has a crew of men at work repairing the storm damage of two weeks ago on the boulevard. In another week this popular driveway will be in as good condition as it was before the storm. It has been open to traffic since a day or two before the rain, but its surface has been rather uneven in spots. It is being leveled off and fills are being made wherever necessary. The West Duluth extension of the boulevard was not damaged so much as the older roadway and is now in first-class shape.

LECTURE BY MRS. BESANT

Head of the Theosophists Will Talk in Duluth.

"The Second Coming of Christ and the Coming Race" is the subject of the lecture to be given in Duluth by Mrs. Annie Besant, the head of the Theosophists of the world, whose tour of America is attracting much interested attention. Mrs. Besant has delivered several lectures since her arrival in New York and her message is among the most discussed of recent years. She will lecture in Duluth next Friday evening in Flaaten hall, under the auspices of the local Theosophical study class. Mrs. Besant began her lecture tour in America last week in New York and during her visit she will deliver forty lectures in the principal cities of the country. The headquarters of the society of which Mrs. Besant is the head, are at Adyar, India, and the society has branches all over the civilized world. The society of the Sons of India, with its auxillary, the Daughters of India, was founded last October by Mrs. Besant and already has 300 branches throughout the empire.

A year ago, on the occasion of Mrs. Besant's birthday, Theosophists collected a large amount of money, which they presented to Mrs. Besant for her personal use. She turned the entire fund over to Theosophic school work.

Mrs. Besant is the author of many books on Theosophy and kindred subjects. She is a profound Sanskrit scholar. Her followers claim that Mrs. Besant is a thirty-second degree Mason.

MONTREAL HAS RIOTS IN STRIKE

One Woman Stabbed and Another Clubbed and Others Injured.

Montreal, Aug. 7.—Further rioting developed yesterday in the strike of the Hebrew bakers of Montreal. In a melee in a grocery store on Cadieux street, one woman was stabbed and is in a serious condition; another woman was clubbed over the head; a man was stabbed in the wrist and several others were more or less seriously injured by being struck with sticks and stones. The trouble started over the refusal of the grocer to obey a boycott. Warrants have been issued for six of the alleged rioters.

THE STAR DISTRICT.

Renewed Activity Shown in Properties of Utah Camp.

The Star district of Beaver county, Utah, is forging rapidly to the front in mining activity. Shipments are being made regularly from the Red Warrior, Moscow and other mines, and development work is being rushed at the Mowitza and those properties that are yet in a development stage. The newest of these are what is known as the St. Mary's group.

A track has been laid in the upper tunnel and driving is now progressing with as much dispatch as the conditions will allow. It is estimated that from fifty to seventy-five feet will strike the lime bedding, in which the ore has been found at the higher elevations, and that by drifting north on it they will soon encounter good values.

The sinking of the shaft to intersect the Mars copper-bearing vein is also progressing satisfactorily. It is only expected to sink this to a depth of fifty feet before crosscutting to intercept the bedding from which the copper ore was derived, which was shipped from the old shaft further up the mountain. It is confidently expected that good resources in the form of 17 to 20 per cent copper ores will be encountered here. It is to be remembered that the St. Mary's group contains three properties, and that each has a record as a shipping mine in the past. This was during the era of high prices for silver, and with the slump that followed and the lack of proper shipping and smelting facilities the mine s were closed down with others in the same camp. The arrival in the Star district is of late occurrence, but the results have been so encouraging that much activity has resulted, with two or three St. Mary's properties now under additional development, one through a tunnel and the other through the sinking of a shaft. Good news may be expected soon from one or both of these efforts.

Ever Young and Ever Fair.

From the Davenport Democrat: The preservation of female beauty and its enchantments by the use of harmless cosmetics, are duties the ladies owe to themselves, and to those who value their personal charms as they appreciate their moral qualities. Unfortunately unprincipled parties too frequently take advantage of the natural desire to be ever young and ever fair, and palm upon the market deleterious acid and mineral poisons, which impart a momentary lustre at the risk of future sallowness and ruined health. In the Oriental Cream, prepared by Dr. T. Felix Gouraud of New York city, the ladies have a harmless preparation for preserving the delicacy of the complexion, and obliterating blemishes, which has become the favorite toilet article of the leading professional artists, who owe so much of their popularity to their personal charms. Scarcely a star dressing room in opera or theater throughout our land is without the Oriental Cream. It stands today the most harmless and perfect beautifier known.

FRANK McFADDEN DEAD OF INJURY

Old M. & I. Conductor, Formerly of Brainerd, Called in the North.

Brainerd, Minn., Aug. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Word has just been received here of the death of Frank Madden, formerly a conductor on the Minnesota & International railway.

Mr. McFadden, who was employed on the Canadian Northern railway at the time of his death, was injured in a wreck, one leg being amputated, and internal injuries sustained. The accident occurred July 26th and he died a few days later. He had an insurance policy of $1,000 in the Order of Railway Conductors, and that order has not been able to reach his relatives. He was a brother of Miss Susie McFadden, who formerly kept a millinery store on Seventh street, and it is said that Sister Francis, formerly pharmacist at St. Joseph's hospital, was a sister also, but neither is in Brainerd at the present time, nor is their address known to the conductors. McFadden was formerly a member of the order at Staples and transferred from there to Fort Arthur.

The joint annual picnic of Alpha and Beta councils and the benificent degrees of the Modern Samaritans will be held at Lester park Thursday, Aug. 12. The annual picnic is one of the biggest events of the year in Samaritan circles and this year it is planned to eclipse all former efforts.

The committee on arrangements has looked after detail which goes to make up a successful picnic, and a good time is assured. There will be races and various contests for old and young with cash prizes. Among the special features will be an open air concert and the Calithumpian parade. The committee in charge has arranged for extra car service to the park, and a general invitation is extended to the public to enjoy the outing.

BIG BOOST FOR H. A. JACKSON

Former Duluthian Has Important Position With Great Northern.

Duluth railroad men will be pleased to learn that H. A. Jackson, who eleven years ago was traveling freight agent of the Great Northern railroad with headquarters at Duluth, has been transferred to Portland, Or., with the title of assistant general freight and passenger agent of the Great Northern.

Mr. Jackson has been with the Great Northern for fourteen years. He really got his start in the railroad business in this city. He learned the freight business in Duluth, and when he left Duluth for a promotion he was one of the best soliciting agents in the employ of the Great Northern.

When the Great Northern secured an entrance into Portland through the purchase of an interest in the line from Tacoma to Portland, the officials of the Great Northern looked around for a man qualified to represent the road at that important shipping and passenger point.

That the former Duluth man was selected for the important position is a testimonial to his ability and the regard in which he is held by his employers.

Mr. Jackson is well known to railroad men at the Head of the Lakes, and to all traffic officials over the Northwest.

FARE, 50c ROUND TRIP

WAGES SHOW AN INCREASE

Jobs at $2.50 Per Day Are Now Going Begging.

The wages offered common laborers have been increased to $2.50 per day in the vicinity of Duluth. The scarcity of men has increased during the past week and Duluth employment agents state that not in the past ten years have men been needed more than they are today.

Sawmills, lumber camps, railroads and brick kilns, all in the immediate vicinity of Duluth, have placed increased orders with the local employment offices this week. The employment offices have not begun to fill the demand for labor.

G. S. Richards, proprietor of the National Employment agency, states that he can place over 5,000 men. Other employment agents of Duluth state that they have orders on their books that they have not begun to all. This scarcity of labor is in the face of the fact that the great rush to the harvest fields of North Dakota has only begun. The heavy rush of labor to the West has not yet set in.

Duluth employment agents have received instructions to look for men in other labor markets. Local agents here state that labor is as scarce in other parts of the country, and that there is little prospect of securing many laborers to meet the pressing demand of the local situation.

While Latham Slept

While Latham slept and dreamed, his rival Blerlot flew in triumph across the English channel and won riches and renown. No wonder Latham wept and gnashed his teeth.

Thousands of people will be gnashing their teeth ten years from now because they were asleep to the great opportunities on the Isle of Pines in 1909. A five-acre grape fruit grove means a competency for life. Can you afford to sleep? We can sell you selected lands for only $50 an acre.

Fight Called Off.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fight scheduled to take place last night at International Falls between Budd H. Burt of this city and Joe Clements of Superior was called off. Burt sent articles of agreement to the Superior man some days ago, but he refused to sign them, and it is evident that he does not want any of the Virginia man's game.

For the Championship.

The Adams and Hummers will meet Sunday afternoon on the grounds at Thirty-second avenue west for the amateur championship of the city at baseball. The batteries will be: Adams, Olson and Peterson; Hummers, Hackett and Olund. Both teams are at the top of the City Amateur league, and the race is now down to this final game.

DON'T BE AN IMITATOR.

The imitator, says Orison Swett Marden in "Success Magazine," ruins his capacity for originality; for initiative; he loses his creative power; his inventiveness and resourcefulness are never developed. In fact, his executive ability—the ability to originate, to do things—is seriously crippled, if not utterly destroyed by his efforts to imitate someone else.

No human being ever yet made a success trying to be somebody else, no matter how great or successful that person might be. Success cannot be successfully copied; it is original; it is self-expression. A man is a failure just in proportion as he gets away from himself.

When Henry Ward Beecher and Phillips Brooks were at the height of their fame, hundreds of young clergymen tried to copy their style, their mannerisms, their mode of expression, gestures, habits, but they fell as far short of the power of either of these giants as the common chromo falls short of the masterpiece. Not one of these imitators ever amounted to anything until he stopped copying, imitating, and began to build on his own foundations.

A great many clergymen today merely echo other preachers' sermons which they have read and absorbed. The majority of the books published are imitations of previous books, echoes of the authors whose style and plots the writers have copied. But these copied sermons and books lack vitality, force, naturalness. They do not stir the blood or touch the heart of the hearer or reader. They are cold, lifeless.

A CASE FOR SYMPATHY.

Lippincott's: Two matrons of a certain Western city, whose respective matrimonial ventures did not in the first instance prove altogether satisfactory, met at a woman's club one day, when the first matron remarked:

"Hattie, I met your 'ex,' dear old Tom, the day before yesterday. We talked much of you."

"Is that so?" asked the other matron. "Did he seem sorry when you told him of my second marriage?"

"Indeed, he did; and said so most frankly!"

"Honest?"

"Honest! He said he was extremely sorry, though, he added, he didn't know the man personally."

FITTING UP PLAYGROUND

Apparatus Is Being Installed at West Duluth Site.

Children Will Hold Athletic Meet Early in September.

Workmen today are installing playground apparatus for the West Duluth children on a site between Fifty-first and Fifty-third avenues west along Wadena street. The place is about two blocks long and 175 feet wide, and the land is owned by the West Duluth Land company. It is understood that the park board will purchase it.

Turning poles, horizontal bars, sand boxes, swings, basket ball apparatus and other playground devices are being put in by the Duluth Playground association. The site, it is said, is the best for the purpose in the western section of the city, for it is in the center of a large residence district.

Miss Jean Poirer, a member of the executive committee of the association, has been in West Duluth several times during the past week and has talked the matter over with a number of the playground committee of the West Duluth Commercial club, who are in favor of the recreation spot being located there.

At a meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club last evening the site was highly recommended to the park board with the request that some of the bond issue be used in buying the land for a permanent playground. It is understood that it has been offered at a reasonable price, and it is thought by many that it will be purchased by the board.

West Duluthians have long felt the need of a children's breathing spot in that section of the city, and an agitation was begun some time ago by members of the Commercial club to secure it. Last week the club passed a resolution requesting that the board appropriate $5,000 for the establishment of a playground in that section of the city.

At the Fifty-second avenue west playground a new feature will be introduced that promises to be very popular with the children. It is a game of baseball played with a ball similar to that of the indoor game. It is a soft ball with a canvas cover, and windows in the neighborhood would not be broken if it should strike them.

It is understood that the people in the southern part of West Duluth are also anxious to have a children's breathing spot in that part of the city. It is hardly possible that the board will buy playgrounds for this district this year, but they may be established next summer.

There are now three playgrounds in the city. One is between Eighteenth and Nineteenth avenues west along Superior street, another is at Lincoln park, and the third is now being opened at West Duluth. Early in September the children who are regular attendants of the three playgrounds will get together and will hold a program of sports.

Miss Jean Poirier is arranging the program.

PRESIDENT MAY SPEAK

Efforts Being Made to Bring Him to West Duluth.

Members of the West Duluth Republican club will meet in regular session this evening to consider a number of matters of importance to the Republican party in the western section of the city. The by-laws will be revised and several amendments have been proposed.

As was stated in The Herald some time ago, President Taft was asked by the club to be the principal speaker at the annual banquet which is to be held this fall. Advices received yesterday by L. A. Barnes from Washington were to the effect that the chief executive would be pleased to stop at West Duluth if he included the northern section of the state in his itinerary when he makes his western journey.

No date will be set for the banquet until word is received from the president as to his plans.

MOTOR BOATS WILL RACE

St. Paul Designer Here to Witness Contest at Spirit Lake.

Fred Dingle of St. Paul, who is at the head of the Dingle Boat works, and John Mooney, also of the Saintly City, who is prominently identified with the Auto Engine works of that city, are in West Duluth to witness the race, which will be pulled off tomorrow between Schell's Dingle Capital and Wade's Dingle Doman.

The hulls of both boats were made at the Dingle works at St. Paul, and the engine of Mr. Schell's boat was purchased at the Auto Engine works. Mr. Dingle, who is the designer of both boats, is very much interested in the outcome of the race.

The start and finish of the race will be at the Spirit Lake branch of the Duluth Boat club. A course of twenty miles will be run and the boats will pass the clubhouse four times. Everything is in readiness for an interesting event.

The Dingle Capital was in the water for the first time yesterday, since its return from White Bear lake, and showed up well.

Berry Picker Lost.

A number of West Duluthians, who went berry-picking yesterday afternoon, had quite a scare when one of the party got lost in the woods in the vicinity of Woodland. It was a long time before he was located and the party just managed to catch the last car home, last evening from Woodland. Raspberries are plentiful in that section it is reported.

CLUB THANKS THE HERALD.

A resolution thanking The Herald for the interest that had been shown in the fight of the West Duluth people against the Soo road to compel the company to live up to the franchise of the old Wisconsin Central line, which it has absorbed, and build a station at West Duluth was passed last evening.

Several other matters came up for consideration of the members of the club. Committees reported on the progress that had been made by the parks and playgrounds committee during the past week and the question of better roads from West Duluth to Duluth was also discussed.

WILL DRAIN A LARGE TERRITORY

New Sewer System Is Now Planned for West Duluth.

Preliminary arrangements for the installation of a sewer system which would drain a large number of lots in the southern part of West Duluth in that section south of Raleigh street have been begun. Surveyors from the city engineers office are at work preparing a plan for the work.

Residents in that section up to this year have been unsuccessful in their efforts to get a sewer built. The work will take about a year and will begin in the near future.

The system will have two trunks which will each empty into the main trunk line of West Duluth at Forty-ninth avenue west. The first will begin at Sixty-second avenue west near Keene creek and will run along the course of the stream until it reaches the large outlet at Forty-ninth avenue west.

The other trunk will start at Sixty-third avenue west in close proximity to the old Northern Pacific junction, and will follow the railroad tracks to the same outlet. The improvement will mean an expenditure of about $22,000. The assessment for each lot drained will be about $3.25. It is believed that the work can be finished by next summer.

WILL REMODEL OLD CHURCH

Building Will Be Changed Into Hall For Public Gatherings.

Work on remodeling the old building formerly occupied by the St. James Catholic church, which has been moved from Fifty-seventh avenue west and Norton street, to Fifty-seventh avenue west and Main street, for a public amusement hall will begin in the near future.

The building is owned by J. E. Foubister and is now undergoing repairs. It would be a very desirable location, he thinks, for an entertainment hall and it will be fixed up for this purpose. There are not very many large halls at West Duluth suitable for holding large meetings and the cost of converting it into such would not be large, according to Mr. Foubister.

COMPANY IS NOT TO BLAME

That the article in last evening's Herald, West Duluth column, to the effect that the traction company has aroused the ire of West Duluthians by leaving Grand avenue west in bad condition between Thirty-ninth and Nineteenth avenues west, works an injustice to the company is the opinion of the street railway officials and others who are fully acquainted with the situation.

The company has cause to pride itself on the fact that it has always, after tearing up a street for repair work, left it in as good condition or even better than it was before. Grand avenue, it is said, has been no exception to the rule. It is believed that some of the local automobilists running out on Grand avenue have made the complaint because their machines have, at a few places hit some jogs that shook up the occupants. Such places, however, were left by the water and gas department, where their pipes crossed under the tracks, and were not the fault of the traction company.

Will Play Cloquet.

If the weather permits, the Kelleys of West Duluth will play the Cloquet team tomorrow afternoon. They will leave for the range town on the morning train and will probably take along a party of fans from West Duluth.

RECORD-BREAKING TIME IS BEING MADE ON THE BIG FOURTH STREET PAVING CONTRACT

PAVING FOURTH STREET.

The paving of Fourth street from Mesaba avenue to Lake avenue with tar macadam on a concrete base was finished last night. The concrete base is laid over the remainder of the street to be improved, as far as Sixth avenue east and the entire contract at the present rate will be finished inside of the next two weeks, it is expected.

P. McDonnell, who is doing the work, is making a record on the present job. He has until Oct. 15 to finish it up, but will come under the wire about two months ahead of the limit. It is one of the fastest paving jobs ever done in the city. He has a crew of about 125 men and twenty-five teams on the contract, which was started June 10.

Fourth street and Twentieth avenue west will be the first thoroughfares in Duluth to be paved with tar macadam on a concrete base, or any other solid foundation. Heretofore the base has been crushed rock, thrown loosely in, and when this was covered with tar macadam and rolled with a 16-ton roller, the weight was so great as to affect the foundation, causing it to give slightly and resulting in a slightly rolling pavement in spots. This will be impossible with the solid concrete base and it is claimed that under the new system tar macadam will be the best pavement for its price that can be laid in Duluth.

Before the old cedar block pavement was laid on Fourth street, there was a Telford macadam pavement there. After the blocks were removed in the present contract, five inches of concrete was laid on the Telford base. Three inches of tar macadam was placed on the concrete and was rolled until the macadam was compressed into a thickness of two inches. Very small stone was used in the tar macadam so as to make a more complete compression. Over this was placed a "squeegee" coating of hot tar, and before the pavement had a chance to harden, trap rock screenings were rolled into it. This was the finishing touch.

The laying of the concrete base on the Twentieth avenue west contract was completed last night and by next week the placing of tar macadam will be well under way.

JOHNNY ON BATHS.

Mrs. Phelps Stokes, the young and brilliant Socialist worker, recounted, at a Socialist meeting in New York, her amusing experiences among slum children.

On the subject of baths in winter she said:

"I expostulated the other week with one of those mothers who at the beginning of cold weather, sew their little ones up in flannels, freeing them with the return of spring. I persuaded this mother to bathe her children regularly. Then, last week, I visited her again.

"'Well,' I said 'how do the winter baths go?'

"'The children don't like it, ma'am,' said the mother. 'Johnny refused his bath positively yesterday. He said you could do as you liked, and he would do as he liked. You like to be cold and clean—he likes to be warm and dirty.'"

KNOWING THINGS TOO WELL.

New York Sun: Very often folks get to know a thing so well that they don't have to think to remember it. Take, for instance, your home address. If you have been living in the same house in the same street for years your address gets easier and easier to recall. Except, sometimes. It doesn't take the influence of liquor to make you forget either. It merely is that you know it too well.

There was a man who was in the habit of writing letters to a girl and after a year or so he got to know her address by heart. One day, long after he started writing to her, he was addressing an envelope to the young woman, when suddenly he became suspicious of the number he had written. He read it aloud and tried other schemes of convincing himself. He wrote the same numbers on other sheets of paper, but they did not seem entirely right.

Eventually he had to go over to call on the girl, instead of writing, in order to satisfy himself that he still knew the address. His figures had been perfectly all right, but the trouble was that he knew them too well.

That sometimes occurs to a person giving an address in a store. It slips out so naturally that when by chance the shopman repeats "Blank Blanketyblankth street?" you begin to wonder if you have it right after all. And the first breath of suspicion kills your chances of remembering correctly. You simply have to go to the directory to verify the place you live in, and naturally that leads to suspicions on the part of the shopkeeper.

500 HUNTERS GET ONE WOLF.

Kansas City Star: A wolf drive in which 500 men with shotguns started at 10 o'clock one morning northwest of Kearney, Mo., ended at 12:20 o'clock the same day with one wolf and two foxes in the ring.

Three wolves, however, escaped while the men were "closing in." The captive wolf was carried into Kearney by C. B. Burgess, one of the hunters.

GETS LEASE ON NEW BUILDING

Oak Hall Clothing Company Takes Over New Structure.

The Oak Hall Clothing company has leased the entire building that is at the present time under course of construction at the corner of Superior street and Second avenue west. The firm expects to move its stock into their new quarters about the middle of next February.

The building is being erected by an Eastern firm. It will be two stories high with a basement. The Oak Hall company will occupy a space on the ground floor of 57 by 140 feet on the corner, and an L-shaped space of 40 by 60 feet, which will be devoted to the children's clothing department.

There will be two additional stores on Superior street, and these will be sublet by the Oak Hall company. The upper story of the building and the basement will also be sublet by the officers of the clothing company.

Just what firms will occupy the space not devoted to the business of the Oak Hall company is not known at this time, neither have the officers of the Oak Hall company definitely decided at the present time whether or not they will maintain a store at their present location when they move into their new quarters.

The furnishings of the new store will be as luxurious and elaborate as modern designing can make them. It is the intention of the firm members to make their new store one of the most modern in the entire Northwest.

The contract for the construction of the building calls for its completion in February. Just as soon as the building is ready for occupancy, the stock of the Oak Hall company will be moved in. The rooms on the second floor of the building will be large and well lighted and the lessees of the building believe that some modern stores will be installed there.

WASHINGTON IS MERE SPECTATOR

No Surprise Felt Over Japan's Defiance of Pekin Government.

Washington, Aug. 7.—The announcement that actual construction had been begun on the Antung-Mukden railway by Japan caused no surprise at the state department today. It is understood that the United States has not expressed any view concerning the adoption of this course by Japan. So far this government is merely keeping informed as to the course of events.

No Interference With Work.

Tokio, Aug. 7.—Work on the reconstruction of the Antung-Mukden line, regarding which Japan has issued an ultimatum to China, was begun Friday evening. There has been no disturbance or interference on the part of Chinese troops or other authorities.

PEGGING OUT THE EMPIRE.

In the July Wide World Magazine is published an interesting article by Col. C. F. A. Whitlock, giving an account of the Cross river boundary commission in West Africa and showing how the borders of the British territory are fixed. The boundary line, says the writer, runs in a southwesterly direction from a point near Gijaro for a distance of approximately 300 miles, when it meets the Cross river. The method employed by the commissioners in securing a map of the country in the neighborhood of the boundary line was by making a triangulation of it, using the tops of the hills on both sides of the boundary for "trig points," as they are called. By this means the latitude and longitude of a network of points along it were determined and their positions accurately fixed, thereby forming a framework on which to fasten the mapping of the detail of the adjoining country, which was carried out by means of the plane-table. To carry out triangulation, however, it is absolutely necessary that a base should be most carefully measured and the latitudes and longitudes of its ends be accurately determined. In the present instance, as the latitudes and longitudes of a point on the top of the hill at Gijaro and of one on the summit of another hill called Dom, distant about fifteen miles, had been calculated as recently as 1903 by the commissions which laid out the boundary from Yola to Lake Chad, the British and German commissioners agreed to accept as correct the positions of these two hills as then determined, and thus it was necessary to measure a new base, and the extremely tedious work of observing by night in the tropics both latitude and longitude was also obviated.

At each "trig point" a beacon was erected immediately over it, in order that its position could be more easily observed with a theodolite from the surrounding points. The fixing of the beacons was very hard work, as the hills met with were nearly all flat-topped and densely covered with trees, some being as large as two feet in diameter. All of these trees had to be cut down and cleared away so as to allow of the beacons, when placed in position, being clearly seen from the adjacent eminences. Even with a gang of sixty natives with axes and saws, the work of clearing frequently took four days. One beacon was put up on the summit of a hill called Dom which is composed of huge boulders heaped one upon the other, and overgrown with very long grass and thick bushes. Its top is flat and covered with trees, but these were all cut down and cleared away. Although it rises only 1,200 feet above the surrounding plains, the ascent is both difficult and tedious, there being absolutely no paths up it, and owing to the thick undergrowth, the greatest care has to be taken that a false step is not made between the boulders, with the result, perhaps, of a broken leg.

MRS. THAW WIELDS PEN

Issues Statement Which Tells Her Opinion of State's Alienists.

Names Doctor Who "Would Swear as Jerome Wishes."

White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, mother of Harry K. Thaw, today made public a statement in which she compared the testimony given by alienists in behalf of Thaw's efforts to free himself from the insane asylum and the evidence given by District Attorney Jerome's alienists. Mrs. Thaw said:

"Mr. Jerome speaks of fourteen alienists. There are but four that he dares place on the witness stand to swear that my son has or ever had any incurable mental trouble; and those have no religious feeling about their oaths that I know of. Of the fourteen he claims seven have since sworn that my son is sane, and except Doctors Evans and Wagner after their first two visits, all of them, Doctors Evans, Wagner, Graeme, Hammond, Jelliffe, Pilgrim and Gregory, have sworn that they never saw any sign of insanity whatever in all their personal examinations of him. Dr. White also was at the commission in March, 1907, to testify to my son's insanity, but the commissioners announced that they had heard enough alienists already, so Dr. White did not testify. However, no one knows better than Mr. Jerome that he is ready to swear to my son's sanity. Of the remaining seven Dr. Hamilton has said too much, and after his trickiness and his offer to 'make it dementia paraocox,' he cannot help Mr. Jerome.

Hot Roast for Alienists.

"Mr. Ferris announced on Feb. 4, 1908, that he 'had never made a personal examination of Mr. Thaw and could not give an opinion as to Mr. Thaw's condition.' Dr. Mabon, I am told, has some conscience. I have been told that Mr. Jerome considered Dr. Hirsch his best alienist, but my son's experts say that Dr. Diefendorff is better. I know that Dr. Dieffendroff would not testify against my son now.

"Dr. Lamb, the head of the Matteawan institution, refused to swear that my son is a paranoiac, and Mr. Jerome dare not use Mr. Baker as an expert, so he is left with just four doctors. It is not necessary for me to express my opinion about them. I simply name the alienists who would go on the stand and swear as he wishes. They are Doctors Hirsch, Pritchard, Flint and MacDonald. But I take more satisfaction in the quality of these alienists who are willing to support Mr. Jerome even than in their number.

"MARY COPLEY THAW."

Hartridge Shows Letter.

Replying to Mrs. Thaw's statement on the witness stand Thursday claiming that she did not understand that Lawyer Delmas was to get half his fee from Harry Thaw and the other half from herself, and also that she never had heard of any such arrangements until the murder trial of Harry K. Thaw was on, Mr. Hartridge produced the following letter written by Mrs. Thaw to him over three months before the trial began:

'Hotel Lorraine, New York, Oct. 27, 1906.

"Clifford W. Hartridge, Esq.

"My Dear Sir: In order to gratify my son and at the same time to make a satisfactory arrangement with Mr. Delmas, I think the plan we spoke of, of charging on Harry's account what he considers fair, and then I to supplement whatever is needed to meet Mr. Delmas' claims, will be the best.

Money From Estate.

"I can only hope that I shall not be too heavily taxed. While what I advance Harry comes from his inherited share of my estate, it does not allow me the use of that money during my life time, nor do I quite think he will pay interest on the loan, for good reasons, so long as his family is as now constituted. Sincerely yours,

"M. C. THAW."

ACCUSES MAN WHOM SHE SHOT

Mrs. Castle Frames Counter-Charge Against William B. Craig.

New York, Aug. 7.—Mrs. Mary S. Castle of California, the former actress who shot at William B. Craig, a New York lawyer, in the elevator of the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria last Tuesday, attempted to prefer a counter-charge against Craig when she was arraigned today on a charge of felonious assault. The nature of the proposed complaint was not announced and the magistrate adjourned the hearing until Monday.

While testifying, Mr. Craig started to say:

"I have believed that this defendant was mentally incompetent, and now I know—"

But the magistrate stopped him by saying that such evidence was improper at this time. The magistrate promised to entertain on Monday Mrs. Castle's charge. Accordingly Craig was subpoenaed to appear on that day.

Walker's copper letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial says:

"Copper is holding firm, and there is a fair volume of business. Lake is 13½ cents, and electrolytic 13⅛ to 13¼ cents per pound. I learn, from what I believe to be a thoroughly reliable source, that arrangements have been made to keep the accumulated surplus of copper, held chiefly by speculative interests, off the market at anything below 13½ cents for electrolytic and 13¾ cents for lake until the consumption demand has increased sufficiently to absorb it. This means that in the event of any weakening of prices the speculative holdings of the metal will not be thrown on the market, and it would seem to be a practical guarantee that copper prices will be maintained at about their present level until such time as conditions warrant a substantial advance.

"The consensus of advices from manufacturing centers is that domestic consumption now approximates 60,000,-000 pounds of copper monthly. Exports are at a high record mark, but it appears that a considerable proportion of the copper sent abroad is going into storage for the account of the shippers, or being delivered on account of sales to speculative purchasers. The foreign visible supply of copper on Aug. 1 was 76,559 long tons, the largest in the history of the trade. It increased over 20,000,000 pounds last month.

"Were it not for the fact that the worldwide business outlook is exceedingly encouraging just now, the accumulation of surplus copper would be considered a serious menace to the trade. There are innumerable historical precedents, however, which go to prove that in periods of industrial expansion there is never enough copper to supply the demand, and that always in such periods extreme advances in prices occur. It is to be expected, therefore, that the surplus now existing will soon be absorbed, and that the price of copper will again advance to 15 or 16 cents per pound."

North Carolina Marshal Fires Twice in Fight in the Dark.

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 7.—In a desperate fight early today with Town Marshal Watkins at Gladstone hotel, Black Mountain, twenty miles from here, John Bunting of Wilmington, N. C., a prominent banker, was shot and probably fatally wounded, and P. C. Collins of Hillsboro was shot and seriously hurt.

Watkins says he was called to the hotel by the women guests, who were frightened by a fight between Bunting and Collins. Watkins says he attempted to place the men under arrest, but they blew out the lights and attacked him.

Watkins shot twice, one bullet penetrating Bunting's intestines and the other striking Collins just below the heart.

COMMISSIONERS ON DEFENSIVE

Beltrami Probe Has Finished With the County Auditor.

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The hearing of the charges against County Auditor Wilmann and his answers to the same were concluded this afternoon and the charges against Commissioners Wright, Sibley and Danaher were taken up. The charges against the commissioners are made jointly, but each is given an opportunity to answer separately. The answer to the charges against the county auditor were that on account of the large amount of work required of him and the commissioners his apparent neglect to perform certain duties were possibly unavoidable. A direct denial of the charges is not being made in full. The hearing has made fair progress and much of its tediousness has been avoided.

WOULD ORGANIZE A LACROSSE TEAM

Canadian Enthusiast Is Trying to Get a Club Together.

Again the lacrosse talk.

About this time each year the admirers of the great Canadian game get enthusiastic.

A new devotee of the game is now a resident of the Head of the Lakes country in the person of Edward T. White of 1309 Winter street, Superior.

Mr. White played on one of the fast semi-professional teams in Toronto. He has been here but two months and is anxious to start the game here. There are but few enthusiasts in Superior, and as there are a number in Duluth, Mr. White was on this side today trying to stir up enthusiasm. There is one fast player besides Mr. White in Superior, and if enough enthusiasm is shown a team will be organized to be known as the Head of the Lakes lacrosse team.

An attempt was made a year ago to organize a team but the efforts of the few that were interested proved of no avail. This was due to the small amount of enthusiasm displayed.

Mr. White says that if he can get a team together he is sure he can make the game popular.

Those interested are asked to communicate with him.

RAILROADS MERGE.

Ann Arbor Line Gets Control of Upper Peninsula Road.

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 7.—By a deal which has been practically closed in the past few days, the Ann Arbor Railway company has secured control of the Manistique, Marquette & Northern railroad, which extends from this place to Shingleton, forty-five miles, and connects therewith the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic. This line, which will be made an extension of the Ann Arbor from here, will give that road a large percentage of the vast timber and copper business of the upper peninsula.

The timber and ore will be carried from Manistique to Frankfort by the railroad's car ferry and shipped from there to Toledo by rail, making the latter city the distributing point for shipments to the East and South.

STRIKERS' DEMANDS WILL BE IGNORED.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 7.—The officials of the Pressed Steel Car company will ignore the demands of their 3,500 employes who have been on a strike for several weeks, that the wage scale in effect in 1907 be restored; that overtime in a certain ratio be paid for extra work, and that an official of the plant be dismissed.

This fact has been made plain in a statement issued yesterday by James B. Rider, general manager of the company, who said that no demands made by a committee of the strikers would be considered, although careful attention would be given to all complaints by individuals and that there would be no change in the wages or rules. The latter is taken to mean that the "pooling system," one of the causes of the strike, will not be abandoned.

The company has until Monday noon to answer the petition of the strikers, but no answer beyond General Manager Rider's statement will be made, according to a representative of the company.

GEN. REYES IS TO BE RETIRED SOON BY DIAZ.

City of Mexico, Aug. 7.—It is reported here on apparently the highest authority that Gen. Bernardo Reyes will shortly be retired as governor of the state of Nuevo Leon and will be succeeded by Gen. Joseph F. Maria Moer, assistant secretary of war, who was sent to Monterey recently by President Diaz.

In pursuance of the government's policy to change the headquarters of the third military zone, many of the troops of the northern part of the republic will be concentrated at Monterey. The first body to be sent to that city will be the Twenty-third battery of artillery, now in Tamalipas.

Some reports declare that President Diaz has offered Gen. Reyes a minor position in the war department here.

Gen. Reyes is being named as a candidate for the office of the vice presidency in opposition to Ramon Corral, the incumbent and administrative candidate.

LOST HIS COAT TAILS.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Dr. A. R. Conrad, with his wife, has been for several days in St. Louis attending the meetings at the Coliseum. Sunday evening Dr. and Mrs. Conrad found themselves shut out. Flourishing around in the crowd to get near, Dr. Conrad suddenly found to his chagrin that the long coat tails of his overcoat were fastened in the door when the door had closed. In vain he called, in vain he begged. No usher heard him.

The imprisonment was not comfortable, to be standing on the top of a narrow step in the cold with one's coat tails held in a vise. The physician resolved to make a surrender; he whipped out his pocket knife and severed the tails from the coat, and he and Mrs. Conrad then went home to their host's house. Today Dr. Conrad is busy at a tailor's, or, as he wittily puts it, "at a retailer's."

Wilbur Wright has gained twenty-five pounds in weight during the last five months. He thinks that aviation has something to do with it.

The EVENING STORY

THE TEMPTATION OF EZRA

By Philip Peabody.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

Ezra Wainright had gone into the country for an enforced vacation. He had rebelled and almost balked as he thought of the lost time, but the doctor had believed the ultimatum—a long rest in the country or the certainty of death—or paresis which is worse. He had worked hard, had Ezra Wainwright since he had graduated from college and he had plenty to show for his relentless application. He had succeeded in his business to a marvelous degree and a few years more would put it—the business and him beyond the storm. But nature has her limitations and he had pressed the limit; hence, perforce, he must rest.

While he begrudged the time he did not fail to enjoy the outing. Ezra Wainwright was not an ascetic nor a miser. He loved wealth for what wealth would bring him. He worked for independence for the joys independence would carry with it.

But being a sensible man he had bowed to the decree of the physician, bidden his brave little wife and two sturdy boys farewell and plunged far into the country where he was reveling in warm new milk, fresh yellow butter and the greenest of garden stuff.

He worked and tramped and fished and idled—and ate all the time like a hired man, and it soon came to pass that the blood of youth flowed through him in place of the watery fluid he had brought down to the country with him, and he felt like a boy again.

Then it was that the great temptation came to him. Ezra was a healthy and normal animal and as a youth had contrived always to have all the joys of life about him. It was only as an ambitious business man that he had eschewed the joys of earth and in the desire to establish a future forgotten the present. But down here on the farm with no responsibilities upon him and under the stimulating influences of good healthful living he had literally renewed his youth.

Then there was Clara—she was to blame a whole lot albeit not at all deliberately. She was a most delightful and inviting maiden—was Clara, just budding into young womanhood with the pinkest of cheeks, the plumpest of figures, the most ingenuous of ways. She had never seen a man of the world until Ezra Wainwright came down to board at the paternal table. That she was charmed with him she took no pains to conceal—and small was the wonder, for Ezra Wainwright had charmed men and women in the most exclusive circles and he knew his power. And he took a sort of mischievous delight in opening the eyes of this country lass. But how was he to know that in her veins flowed the hot passion of her Spanish grandmother, whose advent into the family through the harum-scarum escapade of her grandfather, traditional as the rake of the family, had long since been forgotten. But nature does not forget and heredity is the handmaid of nature. Of course Ezra was not to be expected to know all these things—and the girl herself was wholly ignorant of the conditions. So, after they had sat in the hammock for hours he reading to her the gems of poetry and explaining all the hidden meanings, and after they had rambled the country over in search of good fishing or nutting and after they had ridden together across fields and over fences and after they had milked the cows and driven the pigs and watered the horses and after they had—but why draw it out, we all know what they did on the farm where it was a a matter of course to her and a source of unending delight to him—after all this had happened and they were sitting one evening in the hammock just as the shadows were falling and the silver glints of the moon were straggling through the trees and he found the failing light too weak to keep on with his reading, he turned and looked at her. There was something in the black eyes which met his so fully, and in the flushed fresh cheeks and the red lips parted just enough to form a cupid's bow that startled him. He had never considered her a woman before. Now she struck him distinctly so. His eyes dropped following the curves of her plump arm and inviting figure. Drawing a sharp breath his eyes rose again to her face. The black eyes were still fixed on his, and the expression was between a challenge and an invitation. The hot blood leaped to his face. His youth, with all its hopes and follies and passions and possibilities, came back to him. And just at that moment, plague take the machinations of the evil one, he moved his hand a trifle and it came in contact with a warm little paw—and really what was the poor man to do but to close his over it and then, when a wicked little pressure followed his gentle clasp—of course, it was all off. A moment later his arm had slipped around her waist and her head was on his breast, with the full red lips turned up for a kiss. And he forgot all the years since he was a care-free youth, forgot his career, forgot the sweet little blue-eyed wife and the sturdy boys as he sucked the honey from those red lips and pressed to his bosom the yielding form of the country maiden. Then, thanks be to providence, came the shrill voice of the mater calling for Clara to help with the milk—and the dream was broken.

That night there were two sleepless persons under Farmer Perkin's roof. At least I suppose so. I can answer for one. As to the meditations of a maiden's couch—heaven forbid that I should even guess, much less write. But she looked a trifle haggard and nervous in the morning, so I guessed that she had not slept so soundly as she ought. As to him, the rascal, I know him and I know whereof I write. He knew what it all meant and he rolled and tossed in intermittent fevers—one minute fearing that he had disgraced himself forever, and was likely to do worse on the morrow, and the next fearing that she had been frightened away and he would not be able to touch those lips again.

That afternoon Clara proposed that they go over to Colby's creek on a fishing expedition; as she proposed it she shot at him such a glance from her black eyes that the blood leaped to his face. The spot they frequented on Colby's creek was a shady nook far around the bend—a spot so inaccessible that it was seldom visited. Wainwright acquiesced eagerly. During the preparations it came to Wainwright what it all meant and he was torn by conflicting emotions — the struggle between conscience and passion.

"Pshaw," he said to himself, "I cannot refuse to go with her. I have been a score of times and no harm has come of it."

"But it is different this time," urged Conscience, "and you know it. If you go there will be mischief brewing."

And the man, like the moth that persists in fluttering about the gas jet, temporized with his conscience and decided to go, and they started out gaily in the old democrat wagon with a nice lunch against their being delayed in getting home for the prompt supper which Farmer Doty insisted upon.

What might have been the result of that fishing trip no man knoweth—and I confess that I shrink from guessing. As the fates willed it just as they were riding through the great gate a messenger on horseback arrived from the village with a telegram from Ezra's partner summoning him home forthwith on a matter of the gravest importance, and he had just time to catch the train.

And he never saw Clara again.

STEAM HEATED GARDENS.

The market gardeners around Paris do not dream of waiting for spring before they raise spring vegetables. As one man put it, they move the climate of Monte Carlo to the suburb of Paris, says the New York Sun.

This they do at enormous expense in money and in time. The gardens whenever possible are placed on land with a slope to the south and are well protected by walls on the north and east, walls built to reflect light as well as to give protection from the northeast winds.

The ground is practically covered with glass, not as in a greenhouse, but by glass frames in the open, three light frames of uniform size, 12 by 4½ feet; and also by glass bells. These, too, are of a uniform size about the shape of a chapel bell, a little less than seventeen inches in diameter and from fourteen to fifteen inches high. The French call them cloches. You may often see over 1,000 frames and 10,000 bells in one two-acre plot in the suburbs of Paris.

A more recent innovation, according to Success, is the employment of hot water pipes run under the soil, making of the earth a veritable steam-heated hotel, with this essential difference, that the hotel keeper here is desperately eager not to keep his guests, but to persuade them to leave on the earliest possible day.

DIMINUTIVE FARMS.

The Portuguese are an extremely conservative people. Every man follows rigidly the methods employed by his father and forefathers. In very many parts of the country the old wooden ploughs are still used, says the New York Sun.

When a man dies instead of one of the heirs taking the whole property and paying the remaining heirs for their parts the whole property is divided into as many parts as there are heirs. More than this, each separate part of the property is thus divided.

Thus if a property consisted of ten acres of pasture land, eighty of vineyard and ten of grain land, and there were ten heirs, each heir would receive one acre each of grain and pasture land and eight acres of vineyard. This process has been going on for a very long time, so that now in the most fertile part of Portugal the land is divided into incredibly small portions.

The immediate result of this, according to the United States consular reports, is that the product of the land is barely sufficient at best to sustain its owners. South of the river Tagus, on the other hand, there are enormous tracts of excellent land lying unused, but it has been found impossible to induce the farmers of the North to move into this region and take up large holdings.

TOWN OF GOLD BRICKS.

Scientific American: There are many remarkable towns in Mexico, but none more interesting than Guanajuato, "The Hill of the Frog." It might more properly be called the "gold brick town," for the houses have been found to contain much gold.

This is a curious situation, but it came about naturally. Guanajuato—pronounced Wah-nah-wahto—is one of the oldest mining towns in Mexico; but the value of the place as a town was discovered when a railroad company decided to build a station there. It was found necessary to tear down about 300 adobe buildings, which were made of the refuse of various mines after the ore was extracted.

When it became known that the old adobe buildings would be torn down, pieces taken at random were assayed. It was found that because of the old process, which left much gold and silver, they assayed from $3 to $24 a ton. The mean value was estimated to run about $8 a ton.

The old buildings have brought about $30,000 Mexican in gold, and persons who have built since the new machinery has been installed in the mines are bemoaning the fact that the new houses do not contain as much gold as the old.

ON THE IRON RANGES

LENERTZ'S BODY HAS BEEN FOUND

Was Son of Virginian and Drowned in Minnesota River.

Mankato, Minn., Aug. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of Al Lenertz, aged 16, son of William Lenetrz of Virginia, Minn., who was drowned in the Minnesota river near Mankato Wednesday afternoon while bathing, was recovered yesterday, just before noon. The boy's parents were notified by wire and they came for the funeral, which was held this morning from St. Peter and St. Paul's Catholic church.

The body was seen by Frank Smith, a transient harvest hand, at about 8 o'clock in the forenoon, caught against a snag in the river some three miles down stream, and a mile below where the netting was stretched. Presently it drifted loose and floated down the stream, Smith following along the bank. After a while Frank Skuse of this city called to Smith and said that he was also following the body. The two then walked on together, in the hope that it would be carried near enough to shore that they could get it, but the current set toward the further shore. Whenever the body caught against something they would sit down and wait, and then follow it again when it drifted, hoping to find a boat to go out and get it. Finally, at a point six miles down the river, near the Chapman farm, the current set in toward this side and the body floated against a snag and was held firmly. Mr. Skuse went to the Klondike quarry to telephone to Mankato for a boat, and while he was gone a boat in which were Al Klughertz and several other young men came down stream and Smith hailed it and had them take the body to shore.

The family had offered a reward of $25 for the recovery of the body and Mayor Meher yesterday morning authorized notice to be given that the city would pay a similar reward. This will be divided by Messrs. Smith and Skuse.

While the body was first sighted at 8 o'clock, it was 11 o'clock before it was recovered from the river, and during this time the two men were following it. It is not often that a body will rise to the surface in less than two days, and this must be accounted for by the fact hat Lenertz had just eaten dinner when he drowned and the river water is quite warm.

Coroner Kennedy decided that no inquest was necessary.

Two Harbors, Minn., Aug. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The coroner is looking into the death of Edward Jenson, who died at the Budd hospital yesterday, after being found near the Seventh avenue bridge in a dying condition. His body was almost covered with cinders while there was a deep cut on the neck, another on the arm and his head badly bruised.

His identity was not disclosed until a short time before his death when he said his name was Ed Johnson, but he did not tell how he was killed. The chief of police said he recalled seeing such a person, a laborer, on the streets several times of late.

SAGINAW PICNIC SUCCESS.

Saginaw, Minn., Aug. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The picnic given here last Sunday by H. J. Amon was a decided success.

The jolliest of parties from Duluth came to Saginaw in the morning. After enjoying themselves in a baseball game, target shooting, boating, fishing, taking in beautiful scenes of Little Grand lake with their cameras, an outdoor luncheon was served and enjoyed to the full extent. Then the whole party was escorted to the train on a hand-car and got there just in the nick of time. In fact, did not even get a chance to buy tickets.

Those present from Duluth were: Misses Selma A. Nisius, Gertrude H. Nisius, Etta Bartholdi, Elna Bartholdi, Goodoun Zahl and Ragnhild Zahl; Messrs Carl Feeger, Herman Bauman and George Ketner.

COTTON BECOMES BANGOR.

Mesaba Range Community Has to Adopt Another Name.

Bangor, Minn., Aug. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The proposed village of Cotton has passed along and the new town of Bangor comes to the front.

As one of the first preliminaries to having a village it was found that a postoffice was needed. Correspondence with the United States postal department showed that the name of Cotton was out of the question, as there is already a postoffice by that name in St. Louis county.

At a public meeting it was formally decided to change the name to Bangor, and by this name the application goes to Washington. Once this petition is granted and the postoffice named, Cotton will be to all intents and purposes wiped from the map and Bangor will come into existence. The original promoters of Cotton have not given their consent to the change, but it looks as though the town will be known as Bangor, whether the owners will it or not.

speaker acknowledged that modern science did not attach extreme importance to the influence of heredity on disease; nevertheless, he declared that this influence must be considered in assessing the descendant's mental condition.

He summed up Thaw's family history with the declaration that when a member "broke," he or she broke in their weak spot—the mind. Under strain, they developed imbecility or epilepsy.

Whole Family "Peculiar."

"Let me point out now that the whole Thaw family manifested what might be called peculiarity. From such a stock, the average man of the world would say, without any assistance from alienists: 'Well, you would get a pretty rickety sort of a child out of that family.'"

Susie Merrill's story of receiving large sums of money from Thaw's attorneys and his living at her house with various women, the district attorney said, was unrefuted. Here Mr. Jerome laid down his notes, and recited from memory various wild acts of the prisoner, testified to at the formal trials. Thaw's alleged attempts at suicide in Paris and his proposition to commit suicide with his wife in New York, were held up particularly as evidences of a diseased mind.

"No moral mind would want a wife to tell the terrible story Evelyn Thaw told on the stand," asserted Jerome.

While the district attorney spoke, Mrs. Thaw read a magazine. Once she leaned over, and made a suggestion to Mr. Morschauser which the latter noted down.

Wants Evans Ruled Out.

Thaw's love of the dramatic was pointed out by Mr. Jerome as a strong characteristic of his alleged mania. This desire for the dramatic received its strongest illustration in the shooting of White, said Jerome. The district attorney declared that he placed little reliance on the testimony of Dr. Britton D. Evans, Thaw's chief alienist, and asked the court to disregard it.

"If a person had come in here from Mars," continued the prosecutor, "and seen Thaw on the stand, he would have realized something was the matter with him. It was unwholesome; it was uncanny. I call your attention to his attitude toward his act. A man of sound mind would have said, 'Yes, I killed him, but he did a great wrong to the woman I loved, and I hated him. It was wrong. I know.'"

Attacked Through Mother.

Jerome's voice rose for the first time. Mrs. Thaw laid down her magazine and she and the prisoner and his counsel held a whispered conference. The district attorney went on:

"The situation is about this: Here is a man whom heredity has proved to be bad; he is a man whose childhood was that of a highly nervous sort of person. We find him marrying this girl, and there was nothing after the marriage to excite his jealousy. We see him pursuing this idea of injury to young American girls."

Referring to Mrs. Thaw's attack on him in "The Secret Unveiled," Jerome said:

"We see in this pamphlet the same color that runs all through the son's behavior.

"It seems to me it would not be safe to turn this man loose until there had been ample opportunity to submit him to medical examination from day to day for a long period."

Jerome finished his summing up at 11:35, the court having offered no objection to the length of his speech.

A party of girls, consisting of Blanche Dailey, Irene Findlan, Marie Wombacher, Ella Scanlon, Maude Bird and Mabel McCurdy, chaperoned by Mrs. P. C. Mitchell, have spent this week camping at Pike lake. They returned today.

Sunday morning, Stella, wife of J. O. Renning, passed away at St. Luke's hospital, after an illness extending over several weeks, from a complication of diseases.

Miss Jennie Dompierre of Ishpeming, Mich., is a guest at the Phil Tallon home. She is on her way home from Seattle, where she attended the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition.

During the storm of Saturday night the residence of Mrs. Thomas St. Cyr on the West side, was struck by lightning, tearing a large hole in the roof and coming out and down the porch in front.

The lightning did not start a blaze so not much damage was done. One hundred dollars will perhaps cover the loss which is covered by insurance.

William Call has started the excavation for his residence on Second street across from the village hall.

William Downey is a little better according to the report received last evening. His trouble is an infection in the marrow of the bone in the left leg.

Mrs. Dan Sullivan has left St. Luke's hospital and is staying with her father in West Duluth. She is rapidly improving in health.

Charles Deers went to the hospital expecting to undergo another operation but after an examination it was found not necessary.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Brown, Thursday, Aug. 5, a daughter.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Beron, Friday, Aug. 6.

Wednesday evening an air hose burst on one of the hill ore trains. The sudden stop threw C. A. Johnson, a brakeman, onto his breast on the car ahead, bruising him considerably, but he escaped without any broken bones.

Berries are ripe and every train is crowded with pickers, who spend the time between trains picking the fruit up the road. Blueberries are being brought in by the bushel from Silica and Norway ridge. Raspberries can be picked within walking distance of town and they are of a quality well worth the time spent in going after them.

William Temple and children are gradually recovering from their long siege with typhoid fever.

Frank Armstrong returned Thursday from Green Bay, Wis., where he attended the burial of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Renning, who died last Saturday evening.

Mike Scanlon moved his household furniture Wednesday into his new residence on Fifth street.

Coroner's Inquest Over Body of De Meo---Funeral Services Held.

The coroner's inquest yesterday afternoon over the remains of Antonio De Meo, who was murdered in the Omaha railroad yards, near Fifth avenue west, Wednesday afternoon, resulted in a verdict which fixed the blame upon Michael Rossi, now in the county jail awaiting trial on a first degree murder charge.

Death was due to knife and gunshot wounds administered by Rossi with murderous intent, according to the verdict. Funeral services over the remains of the murdered man were held this morning from St. Peter's Catholic church, Eleventh avenue west and Superior street. The body was taken to the former residence of the dead man, Tenth avenue west and First street after the inquest yesterday.

How to Treat Your Face in Summer.

By Louise Field.

First of all, beware as you would of poison of all creams, powders and the many so-called skin lottons with their exaggerated promises of a milk white skin over night and magic removal of tan and sunburn. Remember that no remedy which is designed to cover up the skin or which fills the pores with poisonous matter forming the base of the wonderful creams and ointments, can ever cure your skin of anything or do other than perhaps lasting harm.

The first thing to do is to get the skin clean—not soap-and-water clean, but really clean down to the last pore; then with a healing, tempering treatment render the skin resistant to the effects of summer so that no treatment at all will be necessary.

There is only one treatment on earth that I know of that will do this—Toilet Salubrin—the wonderful preparation which may now be obtained in this country. Salubrin is all the skin treatment any woman needs. First of all it is a wonderful healing, cleansing antiseptic. It makes the skin clean, regulates the secretions and heals the inflammation. Then it keeps the skin and complexion healthy and as clear as a little child's, so that nothing need be added to give every woman this greatest charm and she can have—a perfect skin.

Take my advice; cut out the skin lotions this year and let Salubrin be a revelation to you. Toilet Salubrin sells at all first-class druggists for 75c a bottle. A 25c bottle may be had free by addressing the Salubrin Laboratory, 6 Salubrin Bldg., Grand Crossing, Chicago, inclosing 10c (in stamps or coin) to help pay mailing expenses.

Salubrin is sold in Duluth by Wm. A. Abbett, Druggist, 129 West Superior street, 101 West Fourth street and 932 East Second street.

Indisputable Evidence.

You have read our oft-repeated statement, "In use for over 30 years." It was in the early sixties that the prescription now universally known as Castoria was first made use of. With a record of over fifty, under five years of age, out of every hundred deaths, it was the AMBITION OF EVERY PHYSICIAN to discover a remedy suitable for the ailments of infants and children that would decrease this distressing mortality. In Castoria that relief has been found.

Let us take the statistics covering the deaths in the City of New York for the past 30 years, and here we find the benificent effect of a combination of drugs excluding opiates and narcotics so long sought for, namely: CASTORIA.

Of the total number of deaths in New York City in 1870, 50 per cent. were under five years of age; in 1880, 46 per cent.; in 1890, 40 per cent.; in 1900, 35 per cent. only. Just stop to think of it.

Until 1897 no counterfeits or imitations of Castoria appeared on drug store shelves, but since that date Mr. Fletcher has been called upon to suppress a number of these frauds. While the record for 1900 does not come down to our expectation it is owing to the carelessness of mothers when buying Castoria. The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is the only safeguard.

TWO REGIMENTS IN THE NORTH OF SWEDEN MUTINY

for the fact that a large number of strikers have returned to work.

It is reported that the Central Federation of Trades Unions has requested the government to mediate in the present crisis, but this is denied by the chairman of the federation. M. Vonsydow, president of the Employers' federation, declares that intervention by the government would be without result, as the differences between the men and the employers are too great to be settled in such a manner. The national labor union published a statement in last evening's newspapers disapproving the strike of the electric light and gas workers.

Hold Orderly Meeting.

The strikers held their first general meeting in the woods north of Stockholm at noon yesterday and adopted a resolution to continue the strike until all the questions in dispute shall have been settled to the strikers' satisfaction. The strikers also issued a demand that the railroad, postal, telegraph and telephone employes and the printers join the movement.

The meeting was peaceful. The authorities, however, took the precaution of watching the assemblage through telescopes from a captive balloon that was in telephonic communication with military and police headquarters.

After singing the "Marseillaise" the strikers dispersed to the woods and had a picnic lunch.

A dispatch from Gothenburg says the street railroad employes of that city have joined the movement.

LABOR LUST LURES JUDGE

teen years ago, when he disappeared from Omaha under circumstances similar to the present case. After returning home to Omaha he could remember nothing of the weeks that he was walking about the country. One of the strange features of the case is the influence which caused him to retrace the steps which he took on his first disappearance.

Retired From Bench.

Judge Clarkson was judge of the superior court here for several years, but after retiring from the bench he did not engage in active practice. It is said that on various occasions he has lapses of memory, but only twice has he left home for any length of time.

When found Judge Clarkson was busily engaged in cutting pearl buttons in a factory where he had been so employed since July 30. He suddenly came to his senses when informed that he was Judge Clarkson, and said that he was happy that he had been found.

He was located by John Burns, who had been trailing the missing man through Iowa for two weeks, and who was close behind him when he was informed by L. A. Haynes, a farmer living near Sabula, that he thought Judge Clarkson had applied to him for work on July 26 and had been turned away because the haying was finished. Mr. Haynes had seen a picture of Judge Clarkson in a newspaper. He remembered him as Mr. Doolittle, a man who had worked for him eighteen years ago, when Judge Clarkson disappeared from his home in Omaha.

Desire for Work.

Perhaps the most puzzling fact of Judge Clarkson's case is the fact, as he states it, that while suffering from lack of memory of his true identity, he has an incessant desire to do manual labor. It was that same unaccountable desire that held him eighteen years ago, when he was found working in a sawmill near Clinton, Iowa.

mittee to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement from congress of Representative Jenkins (Wisconsin).

On the latter committee, which will handle antitrust legislation, Mr. Stevens goes up several numbers, now being third on the list. The other Minnesota assignments are: Hammond, banking and currency, mines and mining; Volstead, education, public lands; Steenerson, militia (chairmanship), industrial arts, revision of the laws; Nye, judiciary, District of Columbia.

Representative Burke of South Dakota got the biggest committee plum allotted to the Northwest in the new assignments. He was named chairman of the committee on Indian affairs, which in addition to having jurisdiction over important legislation, handles a $9,000,000 appropriation bill at every session.

Representative Martin of South Dakota was assigned to public lands and public buildings and grounds. Representative Gronna of North Dakota retains his old assignments, public lands and expenditures in commerce and labor. Representative Hanna of North Dakota goes on agriculture and Indian affairs.

Fitger's Beer

Best by 25 Years' Test — Have a Case Sent Home

Fitger Brewing Co., DULUTH, MINN.

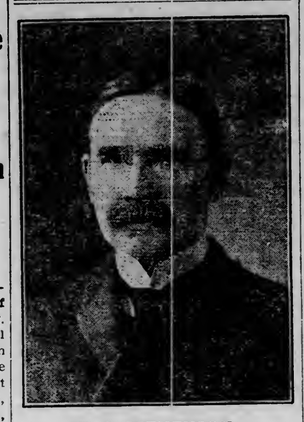
In commenting on a report made public by a Special Government Commission, "The Hospital," London, in an editorial, May 1, 1909, says:

"When a man drinks good beer he drinks and eats at the same time, just as when he eats a bowl of soup. We hope the number of beer drinkers will increase considerably, as the result of the researches of our Commission, and we hold the view that it would be infinitely better for the well-being of the people, as a whole, if they were to select beer as their habitual drink. If the worth of food is measured by its calorimetric value, the fact is, that a glass of good beer is approximately as nourishing as a glass of milk, or a quart of good beer is equivalent to a quarter of a pound of beef, and it is often far more efficacious in the treatment of insomnia than drugs, due to the hypnotic principle contained in hops."

FORESTERS WILL GATHER IN DULUTH THIS MONTH

Supreme Chief Ranger of the Order Will Be in the City.

All the Courts in Northern Minnesota Will Be Represented.



E. G. STEVENSON,
Supreme Chief Ranger of the Foresters.

The High Court of Northern Minnesota of the Independent Order of Foresters will meet in Duluth on Aug. 18 and 19. Representatives from all the subordinate courts of the order in the northern part of the state will be in attendance, and it is expected that the supreme chief ranger of the order, Elliott G. Stevenson of Toronto, Ont., and the American agent, A. E. Stevenson of Port Huron, Mich., will be present.

The members of the local courts are making every effort to provide for the comfort and entertainment of the visotors, the sessions to be concluded with a big Forester picnic at Lester park on Aug. 19.

Deputy Supreme Chief Ranger A. D. McLean of Port Huron, Mich., has been in the city for the last month, and has ready a class of fifty candidates to be initiated.

This high court is a subordinate governing body of the supreme court, which has its head office in Toronto, Can. The order itself was founded in New Jersey, and after various ups and downs was transferred to Canada and reorganized in 1881 by that most unique and picturesque figure, Dr. Oronhyetakha, the Mohawk chief. Under his fostering care the order grew until it numbers in the neighborhood of $50,000 members, and carries on its good work in Canada, the United States, Great Britain and Ireland, Denmark, Sweden and Norway and Australia.

The great Indian chief was not content with watching his order grow in membership until its accumulated surplus reached $13,500,000, but his great heart, filled with love of his fellows, conceived and carried out the plan of caring for the orphans of the deceased members of his order. In carrying out this noble plan he built and left to the order at his death a home on Foresters' island, near Descronto, Ont. There are at the present time about 100 orphans being cared for and educated under the watchful eye of the Independent Order of Foresters.

On the death of Dr. Oronhyetakha the mantle of authority fell upon Elliott G. Stevenson of Port Huron, Mich., than whom there is no abler man in the fraternal insurance field today, and it is an honor the Foresters of Duluth should appreciate to be able to meet and entertain him during this high court session.

The officers of the high court are: John G. Ross, high chief ranger; Frank Crassweller, junior past high chief ranger; George S. Chesterman, Crookston, Minn., high vice chief ranger; Isaiah Ridge, high secretary; John D. McPhail, high treasurer; L. E. Gossman, Crookston, Minn., high counsellor, and Dr. H. E. Webster, high physician.

The sessions of the high court will be held in Steinway hall, Fourth avenue west and First street, and the headquarters of the delegates will be at the Lenox hotel.

TAFT WILL JUST REST

the maximum amount of rest, quietness and recreation, with a minimum quality of state business.

The Federal express brought over from Washington a car full of horses. It is the expectation of the president to do some riding while on the north shore.

The final establishment of the summer capital in this city after several weeks of delay was a source of much gratification to the citizens of the village, as well as those along the north shore of Massachusetts bay. Everything possible will be done to make the president's visit here enjoyable and beneficial. When the president first engaged the Stetson cottage last April, it was expected that he would surely be here by the first or middle of June.

Will Golf and Motor.

The two months' delay in his arrival has been the source of much regret and has upset several plans for his entertainment. It is expected that the president will seek recreation in golf on the nearby links, motoring on the smooth roads of Essex county, a few excursions on the converted yacht Sylph, and possibly a couple of fishing trips with the captain.

The Beverly board of trade has offered its rooms to the president for executive offices, and he will have the use of the Myopia Hunt club golf links and the freedom of the clubhouse during his stay at Woodberry Point. Both the president and Secretary Meyer have been made honorary members of the Jubilee Yacht club, and it is expected Mr. Taft will spend a good deal of his time there.

From present indications Woodberry Point is going to be a miniature Washington, and will completely outshine anything that Oyster Bay ever attempted in its palmiest days. Robert D. Evans will be next door neighbor to the president, and the summer home of Nicholas Longworth, Sr., is only a mile distant. Several of the diplomatic corps have engaged cottages.

Woodberry Point has long been noted for its beauty and general desirability as a place to spend the summer, so that the nation need not fear that the new hot-weather capital will fail to maintain its good working order the famous Taft smile.

BOLIVIAN CONGRESS TO ACT IN DISPUTE.

La Paz, Bolivia, Aug. 7.—The Bolivian congress was opened today by President Montes. The president's message left it to congress to decide whether, in the boundary dispute with Peru, Bolivia should accept the decision handed down recently by President Alcorta of Argentina.

President-elect Villazon will assume office Aug. 12.

ROOFS ARE PUNCTURED

Calumet Man Says the Hail Caused Havoc in Montana Camp.

Chickens and Pigeons Pelted to Death---Mines Are Looking Good.

Hail stones, puncturing paper roofs overhead, gave C. E. L. Thomas, a newspaper correspondent from Calumet, Mich., a big thrill while he was in Montana recently, inspecting the Calumet & Corbin and other mining properties in the Corbin district.

Mr. Thomas has returned from Montana and spent today in Duluth. He says the hail storm he witnessed was the most severe that has visited Montana in years.

"Hail stones as large as hen's eggs," ejaculated Mr. Thomas, with fine scorn, "why, these were as large as bounders. After the storm I saw hundreds of chickens and pigeons which had been pelted to a pulp by the stones.

"At most of the mining properties, and on many dwellings, a paper composition is used on roofs, instead of shingles. It is thicker and of greater strength than tar paper, but the hail stones went right through them, ruining the roofs and letting the rain in on valuable machinery, in some instances. It is estimated that the storm caused $200,000 damage around there.

"The properties in the Corbin district of Montana are looking well. I went to Montana in company with Capt. James M. Wilcox, president of the Calumet & Corbin and managing director of the Mass Consolidated property in Michigan. They are preparing to sink the shaft deeper and will begin shipping ore from an eight-foot vein in the near future.

"A lot of Duluth and Upper Michiman people are interested in Calumet & Corbin and other properties in the Corbin district, and all of them are showing up nicely."

MURDER OR ACCIDENT.

Opinions Differ as to Cause of Iowan's Death in Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 7.—Lying in a pool of blood, with three ugly bruises on his head, John McDonald of Center Junction, Iowa, was found in an unconscious condition early Friday. He died at the city hospital two hours later without regaining consciousness.

The police say that the man met his death by falling and striking his head on a stone, while Coroner Seashore has reached the conclusion that the man was struck by some blunt instrument.

McDonald and Moncries, a companion, reached Minneapolis last night and were on their way to the harvest fields. They started on a tour of the saloons and wound up in the Eleventh avenue district. Moncries says that he and his friend were so intoxicated that he cannot remember what happened after midnight.

McDonald fled when he saw some policemen. He was so drunk that he was scarcely able to stand. In a weakened condition he stumbled to the rear of a yard where he fell unconscious.

McDonald had a gold watch and $63 in his possession when found.

BIGGER APPLE CROP.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 7.—An apple crop in the United States slightly in excess of that of a year ago and 50 per cent larger in Canada is the estimate made by Secretary Rothwell before the International Apple Shipper association today. The quality of the crop is rated poor to good.

Stomach Ache and Diarrhoea

Eating green vegetables and unripe fruit, sudden changes in weather, excessive heat, gulping down iced drinks, etc., cause stomach ache, cramps and dysentery. This causes a great deal of discomfort and suffering, and sometimes death.

In any case of this kind you will find Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey a sure and quick remedy. A teaspoonful in a half glass of milk every hour will bring instant relief.

Mrs. Freeman Vigorous at 114.

In an interview with Mrs. Campbell, who lives at Red Bank, Pa., and who is the daughter of Mrs. Freeman (114 years of age), she stated: "My mother has been using Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and is anxious to have me tell you that she felt its strengthening effects at once. We know that it has done her a great deal of good. She is 114 years of age and needs something to sustain her strength. She thinks it is a great stimulant, and no old person should be without it. I, myself, know what she says about your medicine is the truth."

It kills the disease germs and keeps the system in a normal, healthy condition. It keeps the old young, the young strong; it is invaluable as a tonic for overworked men, delicate women, and sickly children. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain; great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus producing a liquid food requiring no digestion, in the form of a pharmaceutical whiskey, which is one of the most effective tonic stimulants and invigorators known to science; its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

If weak and run down, take a teaspoonful four times a day in half a glass of milk or water.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is sold everywhere by druggists, grocers and dealers, or shipped on order for $1.00 a bottle.

Our Consulting Physician will send to every reader of the Duluth Evening Herald advice, and an interesting illustrated medical booklet free of charge. The Duffy Malt Whiskey Company, Rochester, N. Y.

Yesterday afternoon young Mr. Bancroft, who, by the way, is no relation to Bancroft, the magician—no, honestly—missed an opportunity to become famous. He would have placed his name on the roll of honor of the great national game, if he had thought a little quicker. He could have made a triple play unassisted and enrolled his name with that of Neal Ball's and some other ancient, who made a triple play unassisted back in the dark days.

Duluth won yesterday by the score of 2 to 1, and it was the triple play negotiated by Bancroft and Vogt that cut off further scoring by the Sox.

It was in the last half of the eighth that the three-angle play occurred. Neelon had drawn four bad ones, O'Brien had singled and Neelon had gone to third on a wild pitch by Baron Stremmel. Breen was at bat and the gods of fate seemed propitious.

Breen hit a low, hard drive, about two feet from the ground, near second. With the crack of the bat Neelon was on his way to the plate and Darby, who had taken second on Stremmel's wild throw, started down toward third. Bancroft made a lunge for the ball, speared it about six inches from the ground with his glove hand, stepped over and touched second, retiring Darby and then shot the ball to Vogt.

The play was executed all right. But if Bancroft had thought of the glory route, he would have made a dash for third and completed the triple, getting his picture in all the magazines, including the Woman's Home Companion.

The Sox scored right under the guns. Neelon, the first up in the Sox half of the first, hit cleanly for two bases. Patrick Henry O'Brien sacrificed him along to third. Breen hit a long sacrifice fly to Gray in center and Peter ambled across the pan.

In the second the Sox gathered their second and last score of the game. King Kohl was retired, Stremmel to McCulloch. Zackert went out, Bancroft to McCulloch, and things looked dark for a score. Thomas Taylor stepped to the plate with a sunny Southern smile on his open countenance, and that eternal stuff came bubbling to the surface. Where there is hope, you know, and Tom is the original little hope restorer. He banged the third ball pitched over the right field fence, a feat he has accomplished several times this year, and trotted around to the rythmic applause of the anti-tubereulosis crowd.

The Drillers gathered their lone tally in the second frame. It was here that Cy Young made a successful attempt in an aeroplane of his own invention.

Schaub went out, Breen to McCrone, on a swell stop by the third sacker. Holstrom was hit and McCulloch drew four that looked good from the stands. Drill and Bancroft hit, scoring McCulloch, and Young was yanked from the firing line. Schmirler was sent into the breach. Stremmel, with glory visions in his noodle, hit a curve to Breen, who doubled McCulloch off third.

Only in the seventh did the visitors threaten Schmirler. In this frame after Papa Drill had flown out to Sunny Pete Neelon, Bancroft and Stremmel drew passes. Gray got on through a fielder's choice, Stremmel being forced at second, Kohl to O'Brien, and Bancroft going to third. Vogt went out, Schmirler to McCrone, and the danger was ended.

The Socks are getting back into the stride they were hitting when they won fourteen out of sixteen games on the home grounds. Marion is scheduled to work this afternoon, and the Sox are going right after four straight from the Wisconsin villagers.

Below you may observe some of the blows dealt at the pernicious tubercular germ:

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 7.—Pittsburg won yesterday from Brooklyn by a score of 3 to 2, but it took fourteen innings to turn the trick. The locals scored in the first inning, but the visitors forged to the lead in the fourth by getting two runs. Pittsburg tied the score in the eighth after the first two men up had fanned. Leach singled, stole second and scored on Clark's scratch hit to McMillan. Neither side could score, although both had opportunities, until the fourteenth, when Miller singled, advanced to second on Abstein's single and scored when Hummel dropped Lennox's throw of Wilson's sacrifice. Scanlon pitched a splendid game, as did both Camnitz and Leever. The feature of the game was the hitting and playing of Leach. After getting a triple in the first inning, he stole home. Score:

Detroit, 3; Philadelphia, 1.

Philadelphia, Aug. 7.—Detroit defeated Philadelphia 3 to 1 in the first game of the most important series to date in the American league's championship race. The closeness of the battle for first place and the fact that the rival managers intended to pit their most effective pitchers against their opponents caused a big crowd to turn out. Summers, who twirled for Detroit, had perfect control, and, like Krause of the home team, was given faultless support in the field. Each twirler was touched up for five hits, but the wildness of Krause, coupled with Detroit's work on the bases, turned the scales in the visitors' favor. Cobb scored the first run of the game on a drive to left center, the ball bounding over Ganley's head, the runner easily making a home run. Cobb again scored in the fourth inning. After two were out he drew four balls, and a wild pitch scored him after he had stolen second and Rossman was given a base on balls. Rossman was thrown out trying to go from first to third. Philadelphia's only run was made in this inning. Baker and Murphy were easy outs, but Davis hit for two bags, scoring Collins, who had beaten out a grounder to Rossman and stole second. The final run was made by Moriarity in the fifth inning. He singled, took second on O'Leary's sacrifice, stole third and scored on Stanage's sacrifice fly. Score: R. H. E.

KEEP STRING ON YOUNG CY YOUNG

But Sox Cannot Afford to Try New Pitchers Now.

Young Cy Young has been let out by the Duluth management. A string is attached to the youngster and next spring he will be given a thorough tryout by the White Sox. He has the promise of developing into a star, but with every game for the pennant chase counting as it does now, Manager Kuehnow decided that it was too late in the season to take any chances with young pitchers.

In Schmirler the Sox appear to have a good man. He is a southpaw, something that the Sox have needed since the passing of Thorsen. His work yesterday stamps him as a ball player with a good head, a good change of pace, and good benders.

Yesterday's game did not bring out the crowd that would naturally be expected to turn out on an occasion when the management of the team was devoting the receipts of the game to charity. As a matter of fact, the attendance all through the season has been below that of two other cities in the league.

With the kind of baseball the Duluth management has given to the public this season, it is difficult to figure out why the attendance has been so small.

Right now is the time when the players need the support of the fans. It is up to those who have the interests of the team at heart to get out and boost. Good attendance helps the work of the team. The fight for the flag is in the last stages and the team deserves the support of the fans.

SOME THROW.

Wexford, Mich., Aug. 7.—During the game of baseball here between the local women's baseball team and a nine composed of Nessen City women, Miss Garnet Hooth, who plays center field for the Nessen Amazons, tossed a fast ball from deep center to the catcher to head off a run. The ball went high, got past the catcher entirely and struck Town Marshal Meadoff, who stood behind the base, in the mouth, breaking his front teeth.

The game resulted in a victory for Wexford, 22 to 15.

Hayes vs. Redmond.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 7.—Grover Hayes of Chicago and Jack Redmond of St. Paul will meet here tonight in a scheduled 10-round bout before the Royal Athletic club. They will fight at catchweights.

ALL IN TRIM FOR BIG DAY

Tremendous Crowds Will Witness Races on the Detroit River.

Much Enthusiasm Displayed Over Appearance of the Minnesota Boys.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 7.—Every oarsman attending the thirty-seventh annual regatta of the National association of Amateur Oarsmen, which is being held on the Detroit river under the auspices of the Detroit Boat club, turned out today with the hope that the finals of the regatta this afternoon would be favored with the ideal weather and water conditions which fell to the lot of the contestants in yesterday's events. This is tho big day of the regatta, with interest centering in the championship seniors, the senior eight-oared and the senior four-oared shells events.

The senior four-oared shells brought together practically the same crews which furnished the feature event on yesterday's program when the Ottawa, Ont., crew lost out by a few feet to the New York A. C. and the Arundels of Baltimore, after leading throughout four-fifths of a splendid race. There was some fear that the New York Athletic club crew might be withdrawn from this event in the interest of the success of the New York club's eight. The four is made up of members of the larger crew. It was anticipated that the five senior "eights" which were scheduled to met in the last event of the afternoon would develop one of the finest races in the history of the association. The Detroit Boat club eight proved its mettle two weeks ago at St. Catherine's, Ont., by winning from the Argonauts of Toronto, whom the Detroit crew met again this afternoon. Reports of the prowess of the New York Athletic club's crew made supporters of the Detroit and Canadian crews respect the New York mens' chances in the race. The appearance of the crew of the Minnesota Boat club gave them many adherents.

The senior single sculls brought together three strong men with the winner of the final in the association senior sculls, which was rowed two hours before the "big" single race.

The success of yesterday's events, coupled with the Saturday business half-holiday brought a tremendous crowd to Belle Isle to watch the races. A long line of sailboats, launches, steam yachts and even little canoes and rowboats lined the outer edge of the course.

Following are today's entries:

Association Single Sculls.

James Cosgrove, Argonaut Rowing club, Toronto.

A. Warnock, Springfield, Mass., Boat club.

Samuel Gordon, Vesper Boat club, Philadelphia.

Joseph Lipping, Mound City Rowing club, St. Louis.

J. F. Cosgrove, Argonaut Rowing club, Toronto.

Fred Sheppard, Harlem R. C., New York.

Durando Miller, New York A. C. (winner of association singles).

Senior Eight Shells.

Minnesota B. C., St. Paul.

New York A. C.

Detroit B. C.

Argonaut R. W. C., Toronto.

Wyondotte R. C., Wyandotte, Mich.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 7.—Canada and the East shared winning honors yesterday. Perfect weather, perfect water conditions and splendid racing combined to make the opening of the regatta a complete success.

The light breeze which blew over the mile and a quarter course was just enough to stir the air pleasantly for the perspiring occupants of the shells and the thousands of spectators who lined the shore of the course and occupied boats along the outer edge of the buoys marking off the course. The water was practically calm.

The international senior four-oared shell event, which went to the New York Athletic club, was the race of the day. Three shells swept across the finish line so close together that the spectators could not tell which was the winner until the official announcement of the judges. The Ottawa Rowing club of Ottawa, Ont., jumped into the lead when the six shells were sent off, and for four-fifths of the course the plucky Canadians held it with the Wahneta Boat club of Flushing, N. Y., and the Vespers of Philadelphia close behind, threatening every instant. Three of the shells crowded dangerously close together on the outer edge of the course when about half way down and this forced the New York Athletic club four to drop back to avoid being bumped. The New Yorkers fell in behind the leading trio and when the pace had told on them, spurted ahead. The Arundel Boat club crew from Baltimore also had a fine burst of speed left in reserve. They challenged the New Yorkers as the latter swung past the three shells, which had led to the mile mark. New York athletics and the Arundels fought it out in the last 200 yards of the course with the Ottawas so close behind that from the clubhouse the three boats appeared to be together. The athletic club men had the speed, however, won the race by less than half a length from their Baltimore rivals and the Ottawas were not a length behind in third place.

The Argonauts of Toronto won the intermediate eight-oared event with comparative ease with the same crew which today will meet the crack Detroit boat club and New York A. C. eights. The Canadians took the lead from the start and were never in danger. There was a hot fight between the Detroit club and Wyandotte crews for second honors in this race, which went to the local men.

In the intermediate doubles the Arundels won easily by five good lengths, after leading from the start. The Harlem rowing clubs pair had a similarly cheap victory in the senior double sculls, winning the event by ten lengths, with stroke Fred Shepherd bowing and laughing to acquaintances on the club balconies.

The Hamilton rowing club's four entirely outclassed the four of the Detroit boat club in the intermediate four-oared shell events.

James Cosgrove of the Argonaut club of Toronto finished far ahead of the other starters in the first heat of the association senior single schulls, showing marked superiority over all the other entrants. The second heat of the senior sculls was a pretty race between Samuel Gordon of the Vespers of Philadelphia and William Merhoff of the Nassaus of New York. Gordon beat the New York man by a small margin. Fred Fuessell of the Harlem club, after leading to the three-quarter mark, seemed to tire and finished paddling, badly beaten by both Gordon and Merhoff.

HOW DOES THE GREAT COBB DO IT?

The Georgian Peach Blushes Scarlet and Says "Ask Hughey."

"How do you do it, Ty?"

The question, addressed to Detroit's great outfielder, had to do with Cobb's marvelous base stealing.

The Georgian "peach" leads the American league in base pilfering for 1909, with forty-nine clean steals to his credit, more than any other two players.

Ty blushed scarlet. He's about the most modest man in baseball, anyway.

"Oh, I can't tell about that," he said. "Maybe it's because I try to get a good start. Maybe it's something else, just luck, for instance. Hugehy knows. Here's Jennings now. Suppose you ask him."

"Oh, that isn't a very hard question," remarked the Tiger leader, when the question was put up to him. "Ty not only gets a good start and is marvelously fast, but note this:

"He is in full motion the moment he starts away.

"Now, there are a lot of fast men in baseball; men who run the bases like racehorses, but it takes them two or three strides to strike their gait.

"Cobb's different. When once he plunges down the line he's going at his top speed already. That saves him the fraction of a second that often saves his life.

"Then, too, Ty is a very hard man to touch out. He is a splendid slider and has a knack, all of his own, of throwing himself out of the reach of the man with the ball.

"Old-timers compare Bill Lange's base stealing with Ty Cobb's, but there is no similarity. Lange came head or feet first straight into the bag. All the man at second or third had to do was to straddle the base and touch him as he came along.

"Billy Hamilton was an awfully hard man to get. He was a good deal like Ty, away at full speed the moment the signal was given. When the second baseman or shortstop got the ball and reached out for Billy, why Billy simply wasn't there.

"One of the hardest base stealers to touch out was old Tom Brown. He'd come charging into the base in utter disregard of the man at the base, and many a shortstop and second baseman who stood his ground was cut down.

"Ty has a method all his own in sliding around the man with the ball, but I should say that his ability to get off at tip-top speed is his best asset."

Ty led the American league last year and the year before in batting. His fielding was always a sensation. This spring he set out to become as much of a marvel on the bases as he had been at bat and in the field.

"He was put on his mettle when Lou Criger said: "Cobb is a dub on the bases, and I'll show him up every chance I get.'"

Ty bids fair to surpass his ambition and the hopes of his ardent friend. He has already stolen more bases by two than any man in the American league stole last year. Pat Doherty, with forty-seven stolen bases to his credit, led the league in base running in 1908.

Eddie Collins is Ty's nearest rival this year, with twenty-five stolen bases to his credit.

AMERICANS TAKE BOTH EVENTS

R. O. Heikes, Dayton, O., Wins Shooting Championship of Canada.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 7.—The professional trap shooting championship of Canada was won yesterday by R. O. Heikes of Dayton, Ohio. The match has been in progress three days under the sliding handicap plan. The possible was 600.

The amateur championship of Canade was won by A. W. Throup, Iowa, with 48 out of a possible 50, and the Canadian handicap was taken by H. A. Horning, Hamilton, with the same score.

Griffith Gets Hosp.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 7.—Henry Berry, manager of the Los Angeles baseball team yesterday announced the sale of Pitcher Frank Hosp to Clark Griffith of the Cincinnati National league team. Hosp will play out the season with Los Angeles.

Chicago Pug Put Away.

Benton Harbor, Mich. Aug. 7.—Howard Morrow of this city, last night knocked out Mark Anderson of Chicago in the second round of what was scheduled as a 10-round bout.

Excitement prevailed at the baseball dance last evening. Pete Neelon came from the gay and brilliant lights of the pavilion and informed the boys on the bench that he had struck out. He drew a schottische and a three-step the first two times up, and failed to get on either time. He made a sacrifice the third time by passing over a cute little brunette to Darby O'Brien. Patrick Henry gave Pete a stogie to smoke while he entertained Pete's girl with stories of the fall of Richmond.

Mr. "Toughey" Breen sported a swell pleated shirt, and several ladies were heard to say that he was such a charming partner. Several times during the evening Toughey imagined he got the sign for the squeeze play. He scored twice on the play. King Kohl and Don Rube Marion, with two cute ladies, were dignified and played a steady, consistent game. Rube had everything last night, and the King accepted every chance offered in accomplished style.

Thomas Zachery Taylor was in his element. Tom is from the Southland. Jolly flows from the honeyed lips of Mister Taylor like silver spray from the glistening rocks of Niagara. He is there with all that stuff. He copped the pennant in the gay fantastic league, batted .467 last evening, and made a running catch of a beauty that was tagged for the car line. Tom played a great game.

Count Mueller was quiet and reserved as ever. Mueller was a good receiver and last evening grabbed a couple of wild ones that would have got by, but for the agility of the Count. Georgie Dauss, the Iron Man, proved his worth in the matter of endurance by dancing every dance on the program. Georgie has those dreamy eyes, in which deep, still shadows lurk. Dauss danced forty-seven dances and was fresh when "Home, Sweet Home" retired the side.

The dance was a thorough success. It showed the regard in which the members of the team are held by their friends in Duluth. Al Kuehnow was there, and as Mr. Pete Neelon remarked, as he saw Al gracefully guide a partner through the intricate mazes of a Spanish waltz: "He is there with that pedal stuff."

Have you heard the argument? It is as to who is champion of the world. That point may have to be settled before we see Jeffries and Johnson in the ring. Wouldn't this be a very good opportunity for some of those peace arbitration associations to try their hands?

In all fairness to the heartily disliked black, it must be said that he is the champion of the world by virtue of his rather cheap victory over pudgy Tommy Burns. The American fight fans hate to see a big, hulking gink like this Johnson, win a title that has been carried by great gladiators, who won their honors in great fights; yet when you come down to brass carpet tacks, what are you going to do about it?

Of course very few believe that Jeffries gave his title to Marvin Hart. If Jeff ever did such a thing as that, he should be examined by some first-class probate lawyer. But nevertheless Jeff stalked out of the fighting game. Why? Because he could not get a worthy opponent to meet him. Just the same he retired.

If you will remember, Jeff fought Fitzsimmons twice, Sharkey twice, Jim Corbett twice, Gus Ruhlin twice and then the public was buncoed by that Jack Munroe deal.

It was really this last fight, the fiasco with the Butte miner that disgusted Jeff with the fighting game. He licked the coal heaved by scowling at him real hard. The miner entered the ring with his heart choking off his wind—it was almost hopping out of his mouth when he caught sight of the dark scowling face of the big Grizzly.

Jeff couldn't find any man who could give him a battle. Fitz was all through with the fighting game, though he wouldn't admit it, and Jim Corbett fought his last great battle in the first fight with Jeffries at Coney Island, the night he came so near regaining the heavyweight title.

With such conditions, with a dearth of great fighters, it was only natural that Jeffries should go into retirement. His title was open for contenders the very moment he announced that he was ready to retire. But right here stick a pin in this: Jack Johnson repeatedly challenged to battle before the big boiler maker had announced his retirement. It was on a sultry evening that Mistah Jack called on Jeffries. He met Jeff on the veranda of some club, and asked the big alfalfa grower for a match. It was there that Jeff offered to take the negro down into the cool and quiet of the basement of the place, to lock the door, and to heave the key over the transom. The man who pounded on the door at the end of the little impromptu affray was to be lead forth by some one on the other side of the door.

Did Arthah accept? Would you stick your hand against the rapid revolutions of a buzz saw, just to satisfy a curiosity as to what it would do, cut your hand off or leave part of it dangling to your arm? Probably not. Well, friends, Lil' Arthah did not accept the proposition of Jeffries, and he is therefore racing his automobile around the country at this moment, whole and healthy.

But Jeff has no valid claim to the championship, much as the people who follow the fight game dislike to see Johnson, a colored man, hold the title. You must give the Texas black the title and be satisfied with the hope and belief that Jeff will thump it away from him.

When Jeff and the big black meet—if they ever do—there will be a family grudge to be settled by the 'big boiler maker.' At one time Jack Jeffries, the "little brother" of big Jim, though Jack pounds, got the fighting bee in his thatch. Jim argued with his brother against the determination of entering the ring. He told his brother that one fighter in a family was sufficient, especially when the head of the Jeffries household is a minister of the gospel.

But Jack couldn't hear Jim. He, too, had worked in a boiler shop and his ears were clogged at times. He fought some dubs with fair success and then he was matched with Johnson.

On the night Brother Jack met the Johnson party Jim Jeffries acted as chief adviser to his brother. He watched the big black fool with his brother for four rounds and then knock him on his ear in one corner of the ring. So if Jeff and the Ethopian meet, there will be an ancient grudge to settle.

Entry blanks for the illuminated automobile parade, to be held at the state fair grounds on the night of Sept. 11, have been received by the sporting editor of The Evening Herald, and upon application of any local drivers, who are contemplating entering the parade, blanks will be furnished. The officials of the state fair are particularly anxious that some cars from this city enter the parade contest. The prize will go to the best decorated car, and the event promises to be a unique one.

New York sport writers have at least admitted that the Giants are out of the running for the pennant. In the same admission they have confessed that the Chicago German Sagerbund is strictly in the hunt for the flag. That is a very hard admission for the writers of Gotham to make. At the opening of the season they had it all figured out. McGraw had the best team that ever represented New York, but the Cubs had seen their best days; they were a team that had slowed up and were without enthusiasm. Well, for a team that had passed the meridian of its effectiveness and a team without lust for battle, those same Cubs are playing about the sweetest baseball ever seen in the National.

The fans in Duluth are rooting for the Cubs, and here's hoping they register out in front.

Everybody listen!

Believe me, John, there is going to be some excitement when Joe Killian, gentle Joseph, comes to town with his band of brigands. Details of the reception to Joseph are being planned with consummate detail. It is hoped that Red Moore, who kneels at the feet of Joe and takes fatherly advice from him, will be with the visitors. Without Red the performance of the Winona bunch would be like a performance of "The Old Homestead" without the services of Denman Thompson.

Waltah Whitehead is sure ambitious. Michael Cassius Schreck and George Brutus Gardner in two evenings. J. Caesar tried to cut off too much and got his, Walter.

HE DID—LIKE KELLEY DID

Bill Sweeney was a backstop on the mooted Bugville team;
At swinging down to second base Bill
Sweeney was a dream;
The rooters used to swear by him, he was their joy and pride,
Until he tried to emulate the famous
"Kelley slide."

For Bill had seen this Kelley steal base after base and slide,
Had noted carefully his walk, his manner and his stride;
And Sweeney wished a thousand ways
each time the rooters cried
They'd change the yell from Kelley and would screech: "Slide,
Sweeney, slide!"

But Kelley was a player with a wondrous burst of speed,
While Sweeney had a cracking whip
but great speed seemed to need;
And though he copied Kelley's style,
when possible, and slid,
The fans yelled: "Sweeney stole a base? He did?—Like Kelley did!"

For Sweeney was a moving van whenever he reached a bag,
And when he tried to steal, his feet
would tangle up and lag;
And when he'd start the fans would yelp together as a man:
"O Sweeney, he can steal a base! He can?—Like Kelley can!"

Now, Sweeney was bullheaded, and he didn't seem to know
He hadn't speed enough to beat the slowest kind of throw,
But Sweeney said that Kelley stole a base each time he slid,
And so he'd keep on trying till he stole —Like Kelley did!

The captain used to argue, and he'd say, "Now, look here, Bill,
You never yet ain't stole no base, and what's more, never will!
You're all right with yer throwin' arm and with the mitt you're rare,
But when it comes to pilferin' the bags
why, you ain't there!

"Now, this here Kelley's got a speed our whole team can't attain,
And how his bunch cops out the games
is easy to explain;
But you—you've got to take a reef, put out your stealin' flames,
Because your wild cavortin's costin' us a lot of games!"

Well, Bill was decent for a while and played a ripping game;
He curbed his strong ambition to perpetuate his name;
And when he stung a safety and galloped down to first,
He'd hug the sack so closely that the captain raved and cursed.

But when the shades of night fell and the moon rose o'er the hill,
Bill sneaked out to the baseball lot and stole the bags at will;
He'd take a long lead off of first, then slide upon his shirt
For twenty feet, then stand on second and brush off the dirt.

At last the year drew to a close, the pennant season came,
And Bill was there behind the bat to play the final game.
"We'll take this fight," the captain said to Bill, "and win the flag;
But for the love of all that's good don't try to steal a bag!"

The ninth round came; the visitors had tied the single score;
The side retired, the home boys came to bat amid a roar.
Bill opened with a double and was booted down to third;
Then rose the loudest rooting, Sweeney swore, he ever heard.

The next two died ere reaching first,
and Bill was held on third.
Up stepped the heavy sticker of the team, a clouting bird.
But while Bill pawed the ground at third; out yelled a zealous fan:
"Oh Bill can steal home base and win!
He can?—Like Kelley can!"

Bill heard! Before his eye there flashed a swift and livid flame!
At last the time was come to act—immortalize his name!
His moonlight practice had improved his speed—he'd sure make good!
He now was fleet as Kelley, and could steal—like Kelley could!

And then, e'en while the pitcher held the ball, Bill sprang from third!
"Go back, you bonehead!" cried the boss, but Sweeney never heard.
A hush fell on the multitude—a silence deep, profound.
While Bill dived to the earth and plowed up twenty feet of ground.

In Bugville's potter's field today there is a little plot,
And o'er it stands a painted board which marks Bill's resting spot;
And those who run may read these words: "At last the fans are rid
Of Sweeney, who stole home and won!
He did? Like Kelley did!"

Intense Collcky Pains Relieved.

Yesterday afternoon young Mr. Bancroft who, by the way is to relation to Bancroft the magician, by legerdemain succeeded in getting the best of Vogt, the veteran Superior twirler, by a score of 2 to 1, and Vogt had to be content with the short end of the score. He would have placed his laurels on a still higher limb had Darby not failed to connect with the ball when it was needed most. Darby had made a single and stole second and was perched there when Bancroft and Vogt had their little argument. Bancroft finally succeeded in getting the ball over the plate and Darby struck at it with a mighty swing, but the ball was not there. It was in the hands of Catcher Bergen and Darby was out. Bancroft then proceeded to walk Bergen and Vogt let him get to first. Bancroft then pitched a wild one and Darby scored. Bancroft then settled down and retired the side in order. Bancroft pitched a splendid game, according to Cunningham, and Vogt pitched a good game also. Darby and Bancroft each had a base on balls. Attendance, 1,000. Score:

BASE BALL

TOMORROW

DULUTH vs. EAU CLAIRE

Game called at 3:30 p. m. Good street car service. Come.

KEEP STRING ON YOUNG CY YOUNG

But Sox Cannot Afford to Try New Pitchers Now.

Young Cy Young has been let out by the Duluth management. A string is attached to the youngster and next spring he will be given a thorough tryout by the White Sox. He has the promise of developing into a star, but with every game for the pennant race coming as it does now, Manager Kuehnow decided that it was too late in the season to take any chances with young pitchers.

In Schreiber the Sox appear to have a good man. He is a southpaw, something that the Sox have needed since the passing of Thielsen. His work yesterday stamps him as a ball player with a good head and a good change of pace and good headers.

Yesterday's game did not bring out the crowd that would naturally be expected to turn out on an occasion when the management of the team was devoting the receipts of the game to charity. As a matter of fact, the attendance all through the season has been below that of two other clubs in the league.

With the kind of baseball the Duluth fans get at the ball games in the pastime season, it is difficult to figure out why the attendance has been so small.

Right now is the time when the players need the support of the fans. It is up to those who have the interests of the team at heart to get out and boost. Good attendance helps the work of the team. The field for the flag is in the last stages and the team deserves the support of the fans.

SOME THROW.

Wexford, Mich., Aug. 7.—During the game of baseball here between the local women's baseball team and a nine composed of Nessen City women, Miss Garnet Booth, who plays center field for the Nessen Amazons, tossed a last ball from deep center to the catcher to head off a run. The ball went high, got past the catcher entirely and struck Town Marshal Meadell, who stood behind the base, in the mouth, breaking his front teeth.

The game resulted in a victory for Wexford, 22 to 15.

Hayes vs. Redmond.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 7.—Grover Hayes of Chicago and Jack Redmond of St. Paul will meet here tonight in a scheduled 10-round bout before the Royal Athletic club. They will fight at catchweights.

ALL IN TRIM FOR BIG DAY

Tremendous Crowds Will Witness Races on the Detroit River.

Much Enthusiasm Displayed Over Appearance of the Minnesota Boys.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 7.—Every oarsman attending the thirty-seventh annual regatta of the National association of Amateur Oarsmen, which is being held on the Detroit river under the auspices of the Detroit Boat club, turned out today with the hope that the finals of the regatta this afternoon would be favored with the ideal weather and water conditions which fell to the lot of the contestants in yesterday's events. This is the big day of the regatta, with interest centering in the championship seniors, the senior eight-oared and the senior four-oared shells events.

The senior four-oared shells brought together practically the same crews which furnished the feature event on yesterday's program when the Ottawa, Ont., crew lost out by a few feet to the New York A. C. and the Arundels of Baltimore, after leading throughout four-fifths of a splendid race. There was some fear that the New York Athletic club crew might be withdrawn from this event in the interest of the success of the New York eight-oared eight. The four is made up of members of the larger crew. It was anticipated that the five senior "eights" which were scheduled to mix in the last event of the afternoon would furnish one of the prettiest finishes in the history of the association senior single scull championship. The Detroit Boat club eight proved its mettle two weeks ago at St. Catherine's, Ont., by whipping from the Argonauts of Toronto, whom the Detroit crew met again this afternoon. Reports of the prowess of the New York Athletic club's crew made supporters of the Detroit and Canadian crews respect the New York team's chances in the race. The appearance of the crew of the Minnesota Boat club gave them many adherents.

The senior single sculls brought together three strong men with the winner of the final in the association senior sculls, which was rowed two hours before the "big" single race.

The success of yesterday's events, coupled with the Saturday business half-holiday brought a tremendous crowd to the Detroit river to watch the events. A long line of sailboats, launches, steam yachts and even little canoes and rowboats lined the outer edge of the course.

Following are today's entries:

Association Single Sculls.

James Cosgrove, Argonaut Rowing club, Toronto.

Minnesota B. C., St. Paul.

New York A. C.

Detroit B. C.

Argonaut R. W. C., Toronto.

Wyandotte R. C., Wyandotte, Mich.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 7.—Canada and the East shared winning honors yesterday. Perfect weather, perfect water conditions and splendid racing combined to make the opening of the regatta a complete success.

The light breeze which blew over the mile and a quarter course was just enough to stir the air pleasantly for the perspiring occupants of the shells and the thousands of spectators who lined the shore of the course and occupied boats along the outer edge of the buoys marking off the course. The water was practically calm.

The international senior four-oared shell event, which went to the New York Athletic club, was the race of the day. Three shells swept across the finish line so close together that the spectators could not tell which was the winner until the official announcement of the judges. The Ottawa rowers of Ottawa, Ont., jumped into the lead when the six shells were sent off, and for four-fifths of the course the plucky Canadians held it with the Vesper crew of Flushing, N. Y., and the Vespers of Philadelphia close behind, threatening every instant. Three of the shells crowded dangerously close together on the outer edge of the course when about half way down and this forced the New York Athletic club four to drop back to avoid being fouled. The New Yorkers fell in behind the leading trio and when the pace had told on them, spurted ahead. The Arundel boat club crew from Baltimore also had a fine burst of speed left in reserve. They challenged the New Yorkers as the latter swung past the three shells, which had led to the mile mark. New York athletes and the Arundels fought it out in the last 200 yards of the course with the Orawas so close behind that from the clubhouse the three boats appeared to be together. The athletic club men had the speed, however, won the race by less than half a length from their Baltimore rivals and the Ottawas were not a length behind in third place.

The Argonauts of Toronto won the intermediate eight-oared event with comparative ease with the same crew which today will meet the crack Detroit boat club and New York A. C. eights. The Canadians took the lead from the start and were never in danger. There was a hot fight between the Detroit club and Wyandotte crews for second honors in this race, which went to the local men.

In the intermediate doubles the Arundels won easily by five good lengths, after leading from the start. The Harlem rowing clubs pair had a similarly cheap victory in the senior double sculls, winning the event by ten lengths, with stroke Fred Shepherd bowing and laughing to acquaintances on the club balconies.

The Hamilton rowing club's four entirely outclassed the four of the Detroit boat club in the intermediate four-oared shell events.

James Cosgrove of the Argonaut club of Toronto finished far ahead of the other starters in the first heat of the association senior single sculls, showing marked superiority over all the other entrants. The second heat of the senior sculls was a pretty race between Samuel Gordon of the Vespers of Philadelphia and William Merhoff of the Nassaus of New York. Gordon beat the New York man by a small margin. Fred Fuessell of the Harlem club, after leading to the three-quarter mark, seemed to tire and finished paddling, badly beaten by both Gordon and Merhoff.

HOW DOES THE GREAT COBB DO IT?

The Georgian Peach Blushes Scarlet and Says "Ask Hughey."

"How do you do it, Ty?"

The question, addressed to Detroit's great outfielder, had to do with Cobb's marvelous base stealing.

The Georgian "peach" leads the American league in base pilfering for 1909, with forty-nine clean steals to his credit, more than any other two players.

Ty blushed scarlet. He's about the most modest man in baseball, anyway.

"Oh, I can't tell about that," he said. "Maybe it's because I try to get a good start. Maybe it's something else, just luck, for instance. Hughey knows. Here's Jennings now. Suppose you ask him."

"Oh, that isn't a very hard question," remarked the Tiger leader, when the question was put up to him. "Ty not only gets a good start and is marvelously fast, but note this:

"He is in full motion the moment he starts away.

"Now, there are a lot of fast men in baseball; men who run the bases like racehorses, but it takes them two or three strides to strike their gait.

"Cobb's different. When one he slumps down the line he's going at his top speed already. That saves him the fraction of a second that often saves his life.

"Then, too, Ty is a very hard man to touch out. He is a splendid slider and has a knack, all of his own, of throwing himself out of the reach of the man with the ball.

"Old-timers compare Bill Lange's base stealing with Ty Cobb's, but there is no similarity. Lange came head or feet first straight into the bag. All the man at second or third had to do was to straddle the base and touch him as he came along.

"Billy Hamilton was an awfully hard man to get. He was a good deal like Ty away at full speed the moment the signal was given. When the second baseman or shortstop got the ball and reached out for Billy, why Billy simply wasn't there.

"One of the hardest base stealers to touch out was old Tom Brown. He'd come charging into the base in utter disregard of the man at the base, and many a shortstop and second baseman who stood his ground was cut down.

"Ty has a method all his own in sliding around the man with the ball, but I should say that his ability to get off at tip-top speed is his best asset."

Ty led the American league last year and the year before in batting. His fielding was always a sensation. This spring he set out to become as much of a marvel on the bases as he had been at bat and in the field.

"He was put on his mettle when Lou Criger said: "Cobb is a dub on the bases, and I'll show him up every chance I get."

Ty bids fair to surpass his ambition and the hopes of his ardent friend. He has already stolen more bases by two than any man in the American league stole last year. Pat Doherty, with forty-seven stolen bases to his credit, led the league in base running in 1908.

Eddie Collins is Ty's nearest rival this year, with twenty-five stolen bases to his credit.

GLEAMS IN THE SPORTING FOG

Excitement prevailed at the baseball dance last evening. Pete Neelon came from the gay and brilliant lights of the pavilion and informed the boys on the bench that he had struck out. He drew a schottische and a three-step the first two times up, and failed to get on either time. He made a sacrifice the third time by passing over a cute little brunette to Darby O'Brien. Patrick Henry gave Pete a stogie to smoke while he entertained Pete's girl with stories of the fall of Richmond.

Mr. "Toughey" Breen sported a swell pleated shirt, and several ladies were heard to say that he was such a charming partner. Several times during the evening Toughey imagined he got the sign for the squeeze play. He scored twice on the play, King Kohl and Don Rube Marion, with two cute ladies, were dignified and played a steady, consistent game. Rube had everything his own way, and the King accepted every chance offered in accomplished style.

Thomas Zachery Taylor was in his element. Tom is from the Southland. Jolly blows from the honeyed lips of Mister Taylor like silver spray from the glistening rocks of Niagara. He is there with all that stuff. He capped the pennant in the gay fantastic league, batted .467 last evening, and made a running catch of a beauty that was tagged for the car line. Tom played a great game.

Count Mueller was quiet and reserved as ever. Mueller was a good receiver and last evening grabbed a couple of wild ones that would have got by, but for the agility of the Count. Georgie Dauss, the Iron Man, proved his worth in the matter of endurance by dancing every dance on the program. Georgie has those dancing eyes, in which deep, still shadows lurk. Dauss danced forty-seven dances and was fresh when "Home, Sweet Home" retired the side.

The dance was a thorough success. It stood in the record in which the members of the team are held by their friends in Duluth. Al Ruehnow was there, and as Mr. Pete Neelon remarked, he saw Al gracefully eddying to and fro, gliding gracefully and gallantly through the intricate mazes of a Spanish waltz: "He is there with that pedal stuff."

Have you heard the argument? It is as to who is champion of the world, that point may have to be settled before we see Jeffries and Johnson in the ring. Wouldn't this be a very good opportunity for some of those peace arbitration associations to try their hands?

In all fairness to the heartily disliked black, it must be said that he is the champion of the world by virtue of his rather cheap victory over pudgy Tommy Burns. The American public has a hankering to see a big, hulking chap like this Johnson, who a little that has been carried by great gladiators, who won their honors in great fights, yet who, years gone by, went down to brassy cartacks, what are you going to do about it?

Of course we don't believe that Jeffries gave his title to Marvin Hart. If Jeff ever did such a thing as that, he should be examined by some first-class probate lawyer. But nevertheless Jeff stalked out of the fighting game. Why? Because he could not get a worthy opponent to meet him. Just the same he retired.

If you will remember, Jeff fought Fitzsimmons twice, Sharkey twice, Jim Corbett twice, Gus Ruhlin twice and then the public was bunconed by that Jack Munroe deal.

It was really this last fight, the fiasco with the Butte miner that disgusted Jeff with the fighting game. He licked the coal heaved by scowling at him real hard. The miner entered the ring with his heart choking off his wind—it was almost hopping out of his mouth when he caught sight of the dark scowling face of the big Grizzly. Jeff couldn't find any man who could give him a battle. Fitz was all through with the fighting game, though he wouldn't admit it, and Jim Corbett sought his last great battle in the first fight with Jeffries at Coney Island, the night he came so near regaining the heavyweight title.

With such conditions, with a dearth of great fighters, it was only natural that Jeffries should go into retirement. His title was open for contenders the very moment he announced that he was ready to retire. But right here stick a pin in this: Jack Johnson repeatedly challenged to battle before the big boiler maker had announced his retirement. It was on a sultry evening that Mistah Jack called on Jeffries. He met Jeff on the veranda of some club, and asked the big athlete prowler for a match. It was here that Jeff offered to take the negro down into the cool and quiet of the basement of the place, to lock the door, and to leave the key over the transom. The man who pounded on the door at the end of the little impromptu affray was to be lead forth by some one on the other side of the door.

Did Arthah accept? Would you stick your hand against the rapid revolutions of a buzz saw just to satisfy a curiosity as to what it would do, cut your hand off or leave part of it dangling to your arm? Probably not. Well, friends, Lil' Arthah did not accept the proposition of Jeffries, and he is therefore reaching the automobile around the country at this moment, whole and healthy.

But Jeff has no valid claim to the championship much as the people who follow the fight game dislike to see Johnson, a colored man, hold the title. You must give the Texas black the title and be satisfied with the hope and belief that Jeff will thump it away from him.

When Jeff and the big black meet—if they ever do—there will be a family grudge to be settled by the big boiler maker. At the time Jack Jeffries, the "little brother" of big Jim, though Jack pounds, got the fighting bee in his thatch. Jim groaned with his brother against the determination of entering the ring. He told his brother that one fighter in a family was sufficient, especially when the head of the Jeffries household is a minister of the gospel. But Jack couldn't hear Jim. He, too, had worked in a boiler shop and his ears were clogged at times. He fought some duds with fair success and then he was matched with Johnson.

On the night Brother Jack met the Johnson party Jim Jeffries acted as chief adviser to his brother. He watched the big black fool with his brother for four rounds and then knock him on his ear in one corner of the ring. So if Jeff and the Ethiopian meet there will be an ardent grudge to settle.

Entry blanks for the illuminated automobile parade, to be held at the state fair grounds on the night of Sept. 11, have been received by the sporting editor of The Evening Herald, and upon application of any local drivers, who are contemplating entering the parade, blanks will be furnished. The officials of the state fair are particularly anxious that some cars from this city enter the parade contest. The prize will go to the best decorated car, and the event promises to be a unique one.

New York sport writers have at least admitted that the Giants are out of the running for the pennant. In the same admission they have confessed that the Chicago German Sagerbund is strictly in the hunt for the flag. That is a very hard admission for the writers of Gotham to make. At the opening of the season they had it all figured out. McGraw had the best team that ever represented New York, but the Cubs had seen their best days; they were a team that had slowed up and were without enthusiasm. Well, for a team that had passed the meridian of its effectiveness and a team without fust for battle, those same Cubs are playing about the sweetest baseball ever seen in the National.

The fans in Duluth are rooting for the Cubs, and here's hoping they register out in front.

Everybody listen!

Believe me, John, there is going to be some excitement when Joe Killian, gentle Joseph, comes to town with old band of brigands. Details of the reception to Joseph are being planned with consummate detail. It is hoped that Red Moore, who kneels at the feet of Joe and takes fatherly advice from him, will be with the visitors. Without Red the performance of the Whoma bunch would be like a performance of "The Old Homestead" without the services of Denman Thompson.

HE DID—LIKE KELLEY DID

Bill Sweeney was a backstop on the mooted Dugville team.
At swinging down to second base Bill Sweeney was a dream.
The rooters used to swear by him, he was their joy and pride.
Until he tried to emulate the late and "Kelley slide."

For Bill had seen Dan Kelley steal base after base and so
Had mulled carefully the week, for use near and far.
And Sweeney wished that he could watch him time and time again
Then change the dull routine of work and wield the screech: "Slide, Sweeney, slide!"

But Kelley was a player with a wallop things had a speed
While Sweeney had a cracking wing but great speed seemed to need.
And though he copied Kelley's style when possible, and slid
The fans yelled: "Sweeney stole a base." He did—like Kelley did!

For Sweeney was a hustling cuss when ever he tackled base.
And when he tried to steal his feet would tangle up and lag.
And when he'd start the fans would yell: "Go back, you bonehead!" and "Sweeney, he can't steal a base! He can't—Like Kelley can!"

Now, Sweeney was ballheaded and didn't seem to know
He hadn't speed enough to beat the slowest kind of throw
But Sweeney said that every game base open time he came
And so he'd keep on trying till he stole it—Like Kelley did!

The captain used to argue, and he'd say, "Now, look here, Bill.
You never yet ain't stole to base and what's more, never will!
You're all right with your throwin' and with the mitt you're late,
But when it comes to pilferin' toe bases why, you ain't the cat!

"Now, this here Kelley's got a speed our whole team can't match,
And how his bunch cops out the games is easy to explain.
But you you've got to look a reef, put out your foot again.
Because your wild cavortin's costin' us a lot of games!"

Well, Bill was decent for a while and played a tripling game;
He curbed his strong ambition to perpetuate his name;
And when he stung a safety and galloped down to first,
He'd hug the sack so closely that the captain raved and cursed.

But when the shades of night fell and the moon made eyes at hills,
Bill sneaked out to the baseball lot and stole the bags at will;
He'd take a long lead off of first, then slide upon his shirt
For twenty feet, then stand on second and brush off the dirt.

At last the year drew to a close, the pennant season came,
And Bill was there behind the bat to play the final game.
"We'll take it in, Bill," the captain said to Bill, "and end with the bat;
But for the love of all that's good don't try to steal a bag!"

The ninth round came, the visitors had tied the single score,
The side retired the home boys came to bat amid a roar.
Bill opened with a double and was headed down to third.
Then rose the loudest rooting, Sweeney swore, he ever heard.

The next two died eye reaching first, and Bill was held on third.
Up stepped the heavy sticker of the team, a clouting bird.
But while Bill neared the ground at third; out yelled a zealous fan:
"Oh Bill can steal home base and win! He can?—Like Kelley can!"

Bill heard! Before his eye there flashed a swift and livid flame!
At last the time was come to act—immortalize his name!
His moonlight practice had improved his speed—he'd sure make good!
He now was fleet as Kelley, and could steal—like Kelley could!

And then, e'en while the pitcher held the ball, Bill soaring from third!
"Go back, you bonehead!" cried the boys, but Sweeney never heard.
A hush fell on the multitudes—a silence deep, profound.
While Bill dived to the earth and plowed up twenty feet of ground.

In Rugville's potter's field today there is a little plot,
And o'er it stands a painted board which marks Bill's resting spot.
And those who run may read these words: "At last the fans are rid Of Sweeney, who stole home and won! He did? Like Kelley did!"

CANADIAN HORSE WINS GREAT RACE

The Eel Takes Two-Minute Pace at Grand Circuit Meeting.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 7. — The Grand Circuit meeting wound up with great racing and the fastest heats of the year. The two-minute pace brought four and was the first clash of the Eel with the free-for-all brigade. The Canadian horse was favorite and justified the opinion in which he was held. The first heat saw Hedgwood Boy trail the Eel all the way. In the stretch Hedgewood Boy got as far as Eel's flank, but hung there until he broke, the Eel winning under a drive. Hedgewood Boy broke on the last turn in the second round and Citation and Allee Wilson took up the chase. It was a spectacular finish and the Eel won by a nose from Citation, while she beat Allcen Wilson as much. The time is the season's record and within a quarter of a second of George Patcheon's record for three heats.

The 2:10 trot also proved a hard race and the veteran Country Jay lasted just long enough to get the decision. This 13-year-old gelding won the first heat by a neck, the second a little easier and in the third, after racing the last sixteenth head and head with Carroll and was given the heat. It was the closest finish of the week, and the showing of Country Jay was all the more wonderful because of his pronounced lameness.

The other races were easily won. From here the horses go in three directions, a majority to Cleveland, where the new track will be opened Tuesday, and the rest to Grand Rapids, Mich., and Galesburg, Ill.

PLAY SURE WAS COMPLICATED

Nearly Whole Team Had Hand in Double Put-Out.

What is conceded to be the most complicated double play in the history of baseball was made at Albany a few days ago, in a game against Syracuse. The play involved every player on the Albany team save the right fielder, and it was so peculiar as to attract attention throughout the East.

Syracuse had runners on first and third and one out, when the office was given for a double steal. The pitcher, suspecting, turned a new trick. Instead of pitching to the plate, he made a half balk motion and whipped the ball to third, drawing the runner off first. The man on third dived back to the bag and the baseman threw to second, stopping the man approaching, who turned back to first and beat the throw.

As the second sacker threw to first, the man on third streaked for home, but was turned back by the first baseman's throw to the catcher. As he was being run down by the catcher, third baseman and left fielder, the man on first continued around the paths. The left fielder finally touched out the runner between third and home, and turned to get the man between second and third. The ball was thrown back and forth several times, the putout finally going to the center fielder, who had hurried in to join the play.

In all, the ball was thrown eighteen times, every man but the right fielder had assists, and two outfielders were credited with putouts on an infield play.

TY COBB'S SHOES.

Ty Cobb, the Detroit speed merchant who is leading the American league in base stealing this season, wears shoes made especially for this purpose. When he goes to bat Ty changes the shoes he wears in the field for featherweight footgear bristling with spikes, which give him perfect footing and permit of the highest speed the Georgia peach is capable of.

McFARLAND IS ON THE WARPATH

Chicago Lightweight Issues Challenge to All 133-Pounders.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Packey McFarland has come out with a challenge to any man who will make 133 pounds ringside, and specifically mentions Wolgast, Thompson, Welsh and Hyland. He says further he will make concessions to Nelson, but will not agree upon a ringside weight. Packey thinks he can arrange a match with Nelson and threatens to invade England should the Dane pass him up.

ONE THING THAT MONEY CAN'T BUY

And That Is a Championship Team in Baseball.

The helplessness of money is one of the peculiar phases of the national game; the absolute inability of unlimited wealth to buy a championship team. Money will fill a stable with horses holding world's records; money will buy yachts and automobiles that can set new marks for speed, but no amount of money will buy enough ball players of pennant-winning caliber to transform a second division team into a first place certainty.

The late Frank de Haas Robison talked about this subject one day. "Brother Stan and I want a championship team in St. Louis," he said, "We have spent over $500,000 trying to get one and still our nine is near the foot of the ladder.

"Now the fans in St. Louis would rise grandly to a pennant-winning team. We would give $500,000 for players that would insure us as good a team as are the Pirates or the Cubs —a team that would attract 8,000 or 10,000 people a day, instead of 2,000 or 2,500; a team that would, in all probability win the flag.

"But $500,000 wouldn't buy such a team; nor would $1,000,000. Every time I think about the helplessness of wealth in baseball I am reminded of the stranded mariner who found a million dollars' worth of diamonds on a desert island. He would have given them all for a loaf of bread, but, alas! there was no bread to be had.

"There are many club owners in the American and National leagues who would give almost any sum to get together a championship team—John I. Taylor, Frank Farrell, Thomas C. Noyes, August Hermann among them—but the thing can't be done.

"Would New York sell Mathewson for any sum? Would Pittsburg sell Wagner? Would Cleveland sell Lajoie or Joss? Would Chicago sell Chance or Brown? Never.

"No; the only way to get a championship team is to develop it. Buy promising youngsters and keep on buying them until you have a nine that suits you. Then teach them to play the game and by and by you may have a team of Chases, Josses, Lapoies, Mathewsons, and Bresnahans."

PUTS "ENGLISH" ON THE BALL

Bingles By George Stone of Browns Are Hard to Field.

"Do you know that there are some batters before whom it is a good deal harder to field than it is before others, simply because of the 'English' or something of that sort they put on the ball with their bats?"

Norman Elberfeld, the brilliant shortsop of the Yankees, asked this question in Cleveland the other day, an exchange says, and then answered it himself in this fashion:

"Yes, sir, that is true, and the hardest man in the world to field before is George Stone of the Browns.

"You know how Stone stands at the bat, bent away over the plate and holding his bat much as a mower holds a sythe. Well, the way he brings that bat around puts something on the ball that makes it hard to handle.

"Maybe Jake Schaefer and George Slosson could tell you what that 'something' is. I can't.

"I only know that when I reach out for a bounder from Stone's bat, the ball usually isn't there. It doesn't travel in the same path the bounders do from other bats.

"Ask Flick, or Hinchman, or Birmingham, and they'll tell you that when they put up their hands to catch a ball from Stone's bat it's like trying to put your fingers on a fly—it isn't there.

"I'm not sure whether it's a science or just an accidental ability, but I do know that more so-called errors are made in front of Stone than in front of any other batter in either major league."

OLDEST PLAYER ON THE DIAMOND

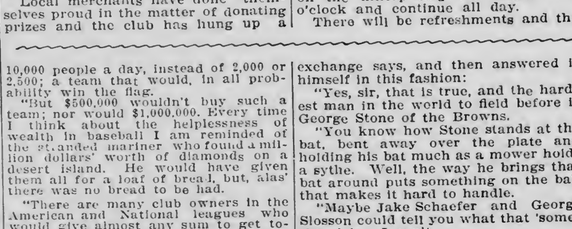
Jim O'Rourke Is Somewhere Around 60 and Is Still Active.

Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 7.—Jim O'Rourke is back in the game. The oldest player in organized baseball, he, this week, began his thirty-seventh consecutive season in the game. He owns the Bridgeport club and has gone behind the bat for it, and will alternate behind the bat on it for the remainder of the season, or as often as he feels like playing.

When Jim wound up his big league career and left the New Yorks in 1894, he came to his native town, Bridgeport. He organized the Connecticut league and is secretary and treasurer. He owns the ground on which the Bridgeport play, as well as the Bridgeport franchise. His father owned the farm on which the present grounds are located, and Jim pitched hay on them when he was a boy, before he got the baseball craze. He owns several of the largest blocks in Bridgeport, and is one of the richest men who ever went into big league baseball.

Jim never tells his age, but he is somewhere in the vicinity of 60, yet he nips the best base-runners in the league when they try to steal second, and is always close to the top of the Connecticut league as a batsman. He led the National league in batting in 1882.

Jim and his son, Jimmy Jr., the old Yale player, were together on the Bridgeports till last year, when Jim sold Sonny Jim to the New York Americans. The Yankees turned Jim over to the Columbus nine and they have sent him to Lynn in the New England league. They were the first father and son to play ball together since the game was started.



All Pittsburg Happy.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 7.—Pittsburg was delighted with the information that physicians will permit Hans Wagner to return to the game some time this week and remain there.

"So long as he takes no chances, but is very careful." While this probably means that the injured champion will not be able to let himself out or play his real game, the fans believe that even his presence in the lineup will help.

SALES OF LANDS BY INDIANS ARE SUSTAINED.

Muskogee, Okla., Aug. 7.—Federal Judge Ralph F. Campbell has sustained the demurrers of defendants in 30,000 Indian land alienation suits brought by the government. The actions by the government were ordered dismissed. The court held that the titles obtained from the Indians before the act removing restrictions went into effect are good.

The suits were brought by the government in the interest of the members of the Five Civilized Tribes. It is estimated that about 2,000,000 acres of land were involved in the suits, which have been pending for more than a year against grantees in conveyances involving restricted lands in the old Indian Territory section of Oklahoma. The defendants in the suits, who claimed title to the land by reason of purchase from the Indians, are scattered throughout the United States and some reside in Scotland and Mexico.

FEEL SURE OF CONVICTING EIGHTEEN BLACK HAND MEN

Washington, Aug. 7.—Reporting that the postoffice inspectors have collected sufficient evidence to convict the eighteen Sicilians arrested in Ohio for Black Hand operations, Inspector Oldfield has laid before Postmaster General Hitchcock all the evidence. The inspector says that he feels certain two of the men under arrest can throw light on the assassination of Lieut. Petrosino of the New York police department, the two having been in Palermo at the time. The inspectors point out that they traced $3.100 which was raised in Cincinnati and sent by money order to Italy for use in shielding the slayers of Petrosino.

The Stage.

The Value of Youth.

(By Maude Leone.)

We seem to think that the worship of youth is one of the very modern tendencies, but how about poor old Ponce de Leon, who left home and family and friends, to sail into unknown seas and brave unknown dangers, in order that he might discover the land of perpetual youth, or rather the fountain whose waters would give to him who quaffed, the hopes and ambitions, energies and enthusiasms of youth. One hears repeatedly today that this is the time or the young man, but, really, I don't believe there ever was a time in the history of the world when it was not the age of the young man. And if that is true of men, how much more so it is of women.

It is particularly true of the actress. It is again the day of the sweet creature in a muslin gown and a pretty blue sash. Of course, I know that on or off the stage you'll meet one woman in a day's travel who will admit to 40, and so obviously it must be a day of young women. But on the stage the actress must always contend with the person who says "she playig Juliet? Why, I remember when I was a little bit of a shaver, and she was old enough to play the nurse then."

But it does seem at the present moment that the young actress has very much the best of it. Look at the delightful young creatures who are being starred. There is Billy Burke and Marie Doro and Maude Fealy and Mabel Taliaferro and Ethel Barrymore, and who will doubt for a moment but that it is their delicious, lovely girlishness that is half the attraction to the American public? Mind you, I do not say that they have not ability, but take that pretty, appealing girlishness, and who is the critic hard-hearted enough to condemn a mannerism and severely criticise their work? Youth, in itself, is enough to win over your audience.

If an actress were to have three fairy gifts like in the lovely old-time fairy tales, she would be wise, I think, to ask for youth and that she might never grow old and that she might be young always. There is nothing like youth in the world, and if I were to be a soldier of fortune and an explorer and discoverer, it would be the fountain of youth that I would start out to find.

We have, of course, on the American stage a place for the woman who has acquired experience and a finished art by years of effort, but it is almost invariably a place a little removed from the center of the stage. She may graciously take the parts of the dowager and, perhaps, do splendid work and display an art and finesse and grace and dignity that no girl could ever hope to have at one time with her youth, but it is the place a little to one side. There will be plenty of people to ask how about Ellen Terry and Sarah Bernhardt and our late Modjeska and others, but is not the interest of the public in them because of their glorious past? Certain it is, that if this is a day of the young man in every line of achievement, it is a thousand times more the day of the young actress. It is her golden age.

I think this is due, at least in part, not only to the love of the whole world for youth, but the greater realism of the stage today. If the heroine is sweet 16, the audience insists upon her looking not much more. The devotion to reality has been insisted upon in every other department, and I think this must at least be in part the explanation for this change in age and the appearance and deportment of the most popular actresses of the stage today.

"Madam Satan" is the bill in which Miss Maude Leone and an especially selected company will open at the Lyceum Monday evening in a two weeks' engagement. The first performance will be given Monday evening, and that there is much interest in the return of this favorite young actress is shown by the large advance sale for the first performance. The play is one in which Miss Leone has received much praise and she will be surrounded by a company of more than usual stock ability. The leading man will be William Jossey, one of the best known stock actors in the country. He has just finished an engagement at the Calumet theater in Chicago and the management is much pleased at having secured him for this two weeks in Duluth.

Miss Leone has brought some beautiful new gowns with her and the piece for the opening week will be elaborately staged. "Madam Satan" will be given every evening next week, with Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

The Story of "Lo."

Although O. Henry's short story called "He Also Serves" was selected by Harry Askin as the basis of "Lo," the narrative of Hunky McGee and his Central American adventures, are a mere background for the romance devised by Henry, himself (he is Sydney Porter when he signs checks) and his co-worker, Franklin P. Adams. Hunky has become John O'Day, a devoted worker for Tammany hall, some of whose braves have fooled with stock-jobbing on the ice supply so boldly that only by getting the books of the combine out of the country can they hope to escape a scorching in a legislative investigation that is threatened. So they go through the formality of electing O'Day secretary of the combine, and then obtain for him the post of scientific director of an archaeological expedition which the federal government is financing, in order that the pupils of the Carlisle school for Indians may put their learning to practical use. O'Day knows no more of geology than he knows of ice; but is used to taking orders, and accepts the commission. The real scientific head of the expedition is White Feather, a cultured Indian; and he is "on" to O'Day from the very start. However, he is less interested in the scientific outcome of the trip than in pushing through certain vague claims he possesses on lands in Yucatan, owing to data that the tribe from which he springs is in direct descent from the Aztecs that formerly inhabited that country. A hot-headed Spanish noblewoman, bent on fomenting a revolution, and her jealous husband, a former actor, are other members of the expedition.

The party finds the fertile part of Yucatan in virtual possession of an English adventurer named Bing, who is exploiting the natives and resources of the land to the last penny. The minister of war, on whom the countess has been depending for aid in the revolution, sells out to Bing, who, with law and order on his side, is in a position to give firm opposition to White Feather, whose ambition to rule the land speedily becomes known. A native Yucatan girl, who holds the tribal legends in her possession, becomes smitten with the educated White Feather, and makes a trade with O'Day whereby the latter is to use his influence to win White Feather for her in exchange for the information that will defeat Bing. As in the original "He Also Serves," the Indian and the Yucatan maid go off into the forest, but only to follow a path that takes them in safety from the cruiser that has brought the party from New York; and the marines of the cruiser are dispatched to escort O'Day and his party to security, after Bing has been compelled to turn over all his wealth to White Feather in exchange for the right to earn another fortune in exploiting the land.

"The Talk of New York."

The eight girls who appear as the Daisy Girls in George M. Cohan's musical sensation, "The Talk of New York," are particularly noted for their good looks and unquestionable ability to sing. In addition they also present an interesting geographical aspect as every section of the United States is represented in this octette of beauty. Miss May Harrington claims Ann Arbor, Mich., as her home. Miss Louise Brackett comes from Scranton, Pa.; Miss Edna Kerr from Baltimore; Miss Sadie Livermore from New York city; Miss May Hanlon from San Francisco, Cal.; Miss Ray Beveridge from El Paso, Tex.; Miss Jane Eustis from Baton Rouge, La., and Miss Lillian Vandyke from Walla Walla, Wash.

The young ladies are very jealous of the merits of the different sections of the country from which they come. One maintains that the East is the best; another exalting the superiority of the West, three dilating upon the beauties of the South, and three flying the colors of the North. As a result of this discussion, Messrs Cohan and Harris were compelled to issue an edict to the effect that any disputes of a geographical or sectional nature were barred as soon as the ladies entered the stage door, in time for the performance. They might fight as much as they choose in their hotels or on the railway trains, but while on the stage the management claims they are entitled to their undivided attention and services.

"The Shepherd King."

It is a well known fact that every male member of Wright Lorimer's Shepherd King company, which is to play an engagement at the Lyceum this season appears on the stage naked in the arms and legs far above the knees. No tights are used in the entire production, as Mr. Lorimer is too much of a student to run the risk of an entire scene being ruined by some super or male member of the company appearing with tights baggy at the knees, like the skin folds of a hippopotamus. As the stage of many of the theaters throughout the country are very cold during the winter months, and to insure themen against suffering and consequent illness, on account of the scant raiment worn, Mr. Lorimer resorts to what he calls the "hardening process."

At stated intervals accommodations are secured on the outskirts of the cities where the company is booked to play, and the entire male contingent is expected to report early each morning for exercises, clad in heavy body sweaters, but with the entire arms and legs bare, and for two hours they indulge in all kinds of healthful exercises. While the rule is of a very strenuous nature, the men soon become fond of the play. By this method, Mr. Lorimer, who is an expert all-around athlete, the men are kept in first-class physical condition, and it is Mr. Lorimer's just claim that "The Shepherd King" company comprises more hardy and truly healthy actors, than any theatrical organization traveling.

"The Three Twins."

"The Three Twins" which comes to the Lyceum for the week of Aug. 23, is essentially a laugh promoter, and yet that is far from the best part of it. The "Cuddle up a Little Closer, Lovie Mine," with its seven ages of cuddling, is one of the most popular stage pictures ever produced.

The Yama Yama song, which has created such a sencation in New York at the Herald Square theater, where the "Three Twins" played for eight months is another one of the many song hits; in fact, there are so many good things in "Three Twins" that it would require too much space to describe them all.

Of the many novel effects the most important are the dancing Yama Yama chairs, the Faceograph and the gigantic electrical aerial swing.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

THE MUSICAL COMEDY COMPANIES GETTING READY TO OPEN THEIR SEASONS—McKEE RANKIN TO PLAY THE FAT GAMBLER IN "CAMEO KIRBY."

New York, Aug. 7.—The new season is steadily approaching, and already the coming events are casting their shadows before. This is the time of the year when rehearsals are being called, and when the musical comedy companies in particular are getting ready to open their season. In a few weeks the regular season will also have formally begun, and then will follow the long months of varied and variable theatrical offerings.

• • •

Since comedies from the German seem to be all the vogue on the American stage—and during the coming season there will be more of these put out than ever before—it is interesting to call attention to a new comedy, with musical interpolations, which has just been brought out in Berlin, and which seems adaptable for our stage. It is called "Hotel Abor," and is characterized as a farce of lively propensities, with some musical numbers thrown in. The scenes are laid in the hotel from which the play gets its name, and the action occurs within the space of three days. As one German critic puts it, the amount of nonsense which takes place in that time would be remindful to the observant theatergoer of many a farce he has seen before. But all agree that it creates laughter from beginning to end and that it is enjoyable. While it is dignified with the title of operetta, it is really nothing more than a farce with songs interspersed. One of the comedy characters is an American. The play was most cordially received. Next we shall hear of an American firm having secured the rights for this country.

Edward H. Peple, the author of "The Prince Chap" and "The Love Route," has sued the producing firm of Comstock & Gest, restraining them from producing the last-named play except, as stipulated, by first-class companies. Peple claims they have resold their rights to various stock companies without his consent.

• • •

Henry Bataille, the celebrated French dramatist, whose "Le Scandal" has been one of the big successes in Paris, and is to be given in this country, has completed a new play called "Manon, Fille Galante," which is to have its premier presentation at the Athenee theater, in Paris, at an early date.

• • •

McKee Rankin has been engaged by William A. Brady to play the part of the fat gambler in "Cameo Kirby," the part originated by James Lackaye. The latter is to head one of the companies presenting "A Gentleman From Mississippi" during the coming season. Dustin Farnum is to take Nat Goodwin's place as the star in "Cameo Kirby," which has been considerably rewritten.

• • •

Frank Daniels, the diminutive comic opera star, is to be under the management of the Shuberts next season, and is to be at the head of the cast which will present the new London musical comedy, "The Belle of Brittany." It is to be brought out early in the fall. Mr. Daniels, who is now abroad, will sail for home on the Mauretania on Aug. 14, reaching New York on Aug. 20, and immediately beginning rehearsals for the new production. Frank Daniels in "The Belle of Brittany" will open in Boston for an engagement of three weeks about the middle of September.

"The Belle of Brittany" is a two-act musical comedy, the scenes of which, as is inferred from the title, are laid in Brittany. The book is by Leedham Bantock and P. J. Barrow; the lyrics are by Percy Greenbank and the music is by Howard Talbot and Marie Horne. Talbot composed "A Chinese Honeymoon."

Mr. Daniels's role is the Marquis de St. Gautier, the part played in England by George Graves. According to the story of the play the marquis has obtained a loan from the village miller and has signed a deed by the terms of which the miller is to take possession of the chateau if his money is not returned on a set date. The marquis, unable to pay his debt, attempts to make a match between his son and his wealthy ward, Denise de la Vire. The son provides another solution to the difficulty by falling in love with the miller's daughter and marrying her.

Alexandre Bisson, the author of the strikingly sensational melodrama, "La Femme X," which is to be given in this country next season under the title "Madam X," is at work on a new thriller. According to reports from Paris, the celebrated American detective, Nick Carter, is to be his hero, and the play is to be a huge melodramatic spectacle. Somebody in this country has evidently been overlooking something.

Karl von Bakonyi and Emerich Kalman, respectively librettist and composer of the Hungarian operetta, "The Tartar Plague," which was translated into German and later Americanized as "The Gay Hussars," have announced their intention of coming to America to settle the dispute which has arisen in regard to the managerial rights to their work in this country.

Both Savage and the Shuberts claim to have the rights of production for this country, though the latter do not specify that theirs is exclusive. According to letters from the authors they claim to have sold their rights to Savage. And so the merry war between the two producing firms goes merrily on, the while the public's attention is called to the piece in question.

Guy Standing will not appear in "The Barrier" as co-star with Theodore Roberts. The part was not sufficiently strong enough for him.

• • •

Adelaide Thurston will appear next season in "Contrary Mary," under the management of Francis X. Hope. The play is by Edith Ellis.

• • •

Gertrude Elliott, sister of Maxine Elliott, and wife of the English actor, Forbes Robertson, added another daughter to her interesting family in London last week.

• • •

One of the important productions in the New theater during its first season will be the drama by Rene Fauchois, founded on the life of Beethoven. It was one of the great successes of Paris last season.

Henry G. Chapman, who has translated many operatic and song texts from the French, has been selected to make the translation, which will be in verse.

Ferdinard Gottschalk will play the part of the hero composer, according to present plans. The play requires the accompaniment of Beethoven's music, which will be furnished by the orchestra of the New theater, which is recruited largely from the orchestra of the Metropolitan opera house.

Rene Fauchois, the author of the play, is under 30, but he managed to write the most discussed drama of the year in Paris, where it was acted at the Odeon. The drama is in a measure allegorical and shows the betrayal of the composer's love, his gradual and tragic deafness and the sufferings of his life, over which he continues to mount to still greater heights of genius, ending with an apotheosis after his death, in which he is crowned by the nine muses representing his symphonies.

The characters that appear in the drama are his two brothers, Nicholas and Gaspard, Beethoven, Schindler, the intimate friend; Von Arnim, the poet; the Archduke Rudolph, who persuades him to remain in Vienna; his nephew, Karl Beethoven; Bettini Bretano, who brings the composer the message from Goethe; Belle von Arnim and Giuletta, to whom the "Au clair de lune" is dedicated.

The first of the three acts passes in a public garden in Vienna, where Beethoven in his misery is mistaken for a beggar by another of his kind; the second act at the composer's lodgings at Moedling, near Vienna, in 1812, where the final tableaux in this act is copied after the painting by Grafle. The third, which takes place in 1727, passes at the old Spanish convent where Beethoven dies.

"The Love Cure," the Vienna operetta known in Germany as "Kuenstlerblut," is to receive its first American production in New York on Aug. 30, at the New Amsterdam theater. Louis F. Gottschalk, who was the conductor for "The Merry Widow," has been engaged by Henry W. Savage to lead the new operetta.

• • •

Marie Tempest is to make a tour of the country next winter, under direction of Charles Frohman. She will be seen in W. Somerset Maugham's comedy, "Penelope."

• • •

George Bernard Shaw is to come to this country next winter. Already he has been invited to speak at the national convention of the unemployed, to be held in Chicago, in January.

• • •

A moving picture film soon to be released, is called "Producing a Play." It will show the author reading his play to star and manager, signing the contracts, actor's agency selecting the people, painting the scenery, building the properties, drawing and lithographing posters, and rehearsals. The play whose preparations furnished the subject for this film is "Keegan's Pal," produced in Chicago at the end of last season.

• • •

A new play which is sure to attract considerable attention will receive its first production in Cincinnati shortly. It is called "A Dry Town," and is the work of Frank E. Dumm, a newspaper man of Columbus, Ohio. The play has been secured by Joseph M. Gaites, and, according to the announcements, the play is a reflection of conditions found in those localities in the Middle West and South, where local option is under test, but without taking sides with either extreme of the question.

• • •

David Belasco is to bring out a play of his own this fall, the first since "The Girl of the Golden West." Just what it will be about is kept a dark secret, as is always the case when Belasco is getting a stage production ready.

• • •

George M. Cohan's new music play written for Raymond Hitchcock has been rechristened "The Man From Broadway." It is in rehearsal and will open this month with Raymond Hitchcock, Flora Zabelle, Lora Lieb, Stanley Ford, Scott Welch and Frances Gordon in the big cast.

• • •

"The Talk of New York," George M. Cohan's masterpiece will open its third season under the management of Cohan and Harris in Toronto early this month. Victor Moore will enact the role of "Kid Burns," a character created by Mr. Moore. A new and elaborate production is being built for the road tour, and it is safe to assume that this bright, clever play will receive the same cordial reception on the road as in New York and Chicago, in which cities it played a full season.

• • •

Hartley Manners is giving Clyde Fitch a close run for the honor of being America's most prolific playwright. In addition to having several plays produced last season, Mr. Manners is at work on no less than five new dramas and one musical comedy. The Shuberts have contracted to take all of his wares. In this connection the authorship of "Miss Brown—Burglar," which was produced in Washington by the Shubert Stock company, has become known. Mr. Manners pleads guilty. The comedy, for it is such, is a dramatization of Archibald Eyre's "The Girl in Waiting." It is slated for an early New York showing.

Two important new engagements for Oliver Herford's "The Florist Shop" have been announced by Henry W. Savage. They are Miss Louise Drew, the gifted daughter of John Drew, for the part of one of the young wives who have such a trying time with their husbands in this clever comedy, and Miss Nelly Roland, a German comedy actress from Berlin, who is to be one of the chic young women who will assist Nina Morris as the florist shopkeeper. Miss Drew recently returned from London after her season with Billie Burke in "Love Watches," where her work won oodles of praise regardless of the fact that she has a famous father. She has all her father's gift for droll comedy effects, and all her mother's grace and feminine charm. Miss Roland has been a favorite on Berlin and Vienna stages for five years past, and this will be her first role in English.

These engagements complete the cast of "The Florist Shop," which is founded an Alexander Engel's "Glueck bei Frauen," in which Miss Roland appeared during its Viennese run. Others in the company include Miss Nina Norris as the French florist, Marion Lorne, who played the model in Mr. Savage's production of "The Devil," Adelaide Orten, Anna L. Bates, Lionel Walsh, Richard Stirling, John Thomas, who played Nish in the Boston "Merry Widow," John Hines of "The Midnight Sons," and fifteen others, there being twenty-seven speaking parts.

NAUGHTY BILL AND BUN. A Story of Two Bears By Maud Walker.

AWAY up in the mountainous country lived a great many bears. Two of the bear families lived as close neighbors, the mother bears being very great friends. But these same mother bears had each a son, and the sons—half-grown fellows—gave their poor mothers much trouble indeed, for they were quarrelsome and ill-natured, making home-life very disagreeable at times. On occasions these cubs—by name Bill and Bun—would become engaged in the most terrific fights, tearing each other's ears and tails almost off. In vain did the poor mothers remonstrate with them; they kept on in their unruly behavior.

"I fear we'll have to live farther apart, my dear friend," said the mother of Bun to the mother of Bill one day as those two sat discussing a most ferocious fight their sons had engaged in that morning, and from which each cub had returned to his mother much the worse for fighting. Bun was in bed with a blinded eye and Bill was in bed with a maimed paw and shoulder. "I do not see any other way, my dear, except to move far apart." And the mother of Bun sighed, for it was a great sacrifice on her part to live a great distance from her dearest friend.

"Yes, I do fear that we shall have to be parted," replied the mother of Bill. "And ever since we were young lady bears we have been inseparable. Oh, it is very hard to have such incorrigible sons; it is, indeed."

"Yes, it is heart-breaking to have all the bears of the village point at our cubs with the paws of shame and condemnation," said the mother of Bun. "I feel so humiliated on my own account, and so worried on Bun's account. If he should grow up to be a very wicked bear, committing sins against other bears, it would break my heart." And the grieved mother wiped a tear from her eye.

Just then a wail came from Bun's bedroom, which was inside a warm, snug cave. "Oh, I must go to my boy," exclaimed the mother of Bun. And she bade adieu to her friend, the mother of Bill, who took her leave, going home to her own very naughty son, who had to have some attention.

A few days passed by before Bun and Bill were able to leave their beds; but before their poor mothers had recovered from the shock attending their cubs' last terrible fight these unruly youngsters were again at their mischief. It was a gloomy, rainy day, and they were out of bed for the first time since their maiming of each other. Bun made it a point to stroll in the direction of his neighbor's cave, while Bill, out to get fresh air, was on the outlook for Bun, hoping he might give him another thrashing. As Bun neared the spot where Bill stood beneath a big tree he snarled and glared at him, showing that his ugly temper had not abated one whit since the last conflict. Bill returned the snarl and glare, and came half-way to meet Bun. Then, with a quick thrust of the paw, he struck his neighbor in the face. The blow was a severe one and almost sent him off his feet. But he gathered himself together and made a lunge at his enemy. Soon the two were in deadly combat, biting, scratching, hugging. And as Bill's mother was from home that morning (she was out cave hunting, for she had decided to move from the close neighborhood of her dear friend, all on account of their ungovernable sons) there was none to interfere with the combatants.

While Bun and Bill were thus engaged a fine old gentleman bear, who lived in the village, happened that way and beheld the awful sight of the two youngsters in battle. He had heard about these same fighting cubs before and had realized the trouble they were to their widowed mothers. "Ah," he mused, "I believe I'll take a hand in the fight myself and give these cubs all they want." So saying, he ran sprightly to the spot where Bill and Bun were tumbling about, gnawing at each other's ears, and fell to pounding them both with his mighty paws.

As soon as the third party entered the field of battle the two cubs fell apart and endeavored to get away, but the old bear, who was a giant fellow in strength, held them fast with his hind legs while he dealt them blow after blow with his front paws.

"O—ow—ow!" wailed Bill. "O—ow—ow ouch!" screamed Bun. "Let us go!" cried Bill. "Yes, let us go!" repeated Bun. But still the old bear held them fast and kept on pelting them unmercifully. "Ah, my fine warriors," said the old bear, cuffing each on the ears, "I'll engage you in a fight that shall undoubtedly be your last, for, unless you both promise me this minute to never fight again I'll keep on beating you till there is nothing left of your hides. What say you, warriors?"

"Oh, if you'll stop beating me this minute, Grandfather Bear," cried Bill, "I'll promise to never, never fight with anyone again. I'll only fight in self-defense!"

"And I make the same promise, Grandfather Bear," wailed Bun.

The old bear left off beating them, but still held them in a firm grip. And then and there he gave them such a talking to, such fine advice, too, that they both hung their heads in shame over their past conduct. When, at last, the old bear had done with them, both Bun and Bill thanked him for having cured them of their ugly habit of fighting each other on every occasion. "I've been a bad cub," admitted Bun. "And I've been worse," confessed Bill.

"Well, go home now, arm in arm, and tell your poor mothers that you are heartily ashamed of your past conduct and that in future you mean to make amends for all the worry and anxiety you have caused those poor mothers to suffer on your account." So ordered the old bear. And he stayed right there, too, till he saw the cubs, arm in arm, pass into the cave of Bun's mother. And pretty soon he beheld a pretty sight. Out of the cave came Bun and Bill with Bun's happy mother between them, the three arm in arm, going off towards the nearby cave of Bill's mother. Quickly hiding behind a tree, the old bear overheard Bun saying to his mother: "Yes, mamma, dear, it was Grandpapa Bear who came and beat some sense into our heads. He would have beaten the very wicked hide off our backs hadn't we promised to never fight again."

"Yes, and strange to say," added Bill, "we really did not hate each other, Bun and I, but we were just ugly tempered and needed just such a chastisement as we got from Grandpapa Bear to make us know what restraint means. And now Bun and I are the best of friends."

"You see, mamma, it took a great big bear to quell our ugly dispositions," admitted Bun. "But since we have repented of our past naughtiness we'll be so happy together now. Bill and I will be as great friends as you and Bill's mother are, and we'll remain close neighbors, and Bill and I will grow up into big bears to work for you and to protect you, our mothers."

And behind the tree stood old Grandpapa Bear, smiling to himself. "All those spoiled cubs needed was a firm hand," he said. "Ah, well, I shall now go home and prepare a little sermon, to be preached at our next picnic, on the subject of 'Sparing the paw in times of naughtiness and spoiling the cub.'"

Little Redbreast.

A.Y.H.

FAR up in a tree
Is little Redbreast,
Happy and free
In his snug little nest.

The children do love
To hear his sweet song,
For he ne'er is weary,
And sings all day long.

At night in his nest
He snuggles to sleep;
But when the dawn comes
From the nest he does peep.

And seeing the dawn
He comes forth to sing
His good-morning anthem,
Which makes the woods ring.

Far up in a tree
Is little Redbreast;
Happy and free
In his snug little nest.

A Delicious Luncheon Salad.

This is the time of year when luncheons are the joy of the high-school girl. There are no lessons to be conned during the afternoon and evening, and the day is given up to rest, recreation and light reading, preparatory for the coming of the next school term, when the girls of the land want to be rested for the nine months' work before them. To prepare dainty viands for the 2 o'clock luncheon is about the brainiest labor of the 15-year-old miss during July and August. And as salads are the favorite dish during the hot weather, the recipe for a delicious vegetable salad is given here. Chop very fine a stalk of celery (must be crisp and young), a mellow apple, one cucumber, one large-sized onion, the heart of a crisp cabbage and a green pepper. Mix together thoroughly, pour over all your favorite salad dressing and serve ice-cold on large lettuce leaves, with a small yellow tomato (peeled) on top of each portion.

GRACIE'S CONFESSION. By Helena Davis.

GRACIE'S mamma had gone shopping, and Gracie was entertaining her little friend, Maybelle, in the sitting-room. Outside it was raining and Gracie's mamma had forbidden the little girls to go out of the house during her absence. "You may play in the sitting-room or in the big attic room," she had said to Gracie, as she was departing. "But do not go in the parlor or library."

After Gracie's mamma had been gone about an hour the little girls grew tired of playing with their dolls and engaging in house games, and wished they might find some other amusement. "Oh, let's look at pictures in books," said Maybelle. "Where is that great big book with all those pictures of queer animals and birds? It will be great fun to look at that."

"Oh, that book?" asked Gracie. "Why, it's in the library, and mamma told me not to go into the parlor or library, you know. Otherwise, I'd go and get that book, for I love to look at the pictures in it."

Maybelle hung her under lip, saying: "I think it mean that we cannot have that book to look through. It wouldn't do any harm to go into the library just for a book, and to come right out again. Your mamma said we should not go in there to play."

Gracie thought it over and decided that perhaps it would be all right to go into the library to get a book, so said to Maybelle: "Well, we'll run into the library and find that book; but we'll not stop in there a minute." Gracie had never disobeyed her mamma in the slightest thing, and felt that it was just a bit disobedient to go into the library at all, even for just a minute. But Maybelle, her dearest friend wanted the book, so Gracie felt almost bound to get it for her.

The two little girls went into the library, and while Gracie was down on her knees looking on the lower shelves of a big bookcase for the desired volume, Maybelle climbed upon a stool, which stood against the writing desk, that she might examine a print which hung on the wall over the desk. As she leaned over to look at the picture she lost her balance and fell against the writing-desk, upsetting a bottle of ink. Gracie was on her feet instantly, and helped Maybelle to the floor. And then her eyes fell on the mischief that had been done by the meddlesome Maybelle. There on the fine Persian rug—which her parents had bought in Europe while traveling there the year before—was a great pool of black ink, the broken ink bottle lying beside it.

"Oh, what shall I do," cried Gracie. "I never should have come into the library. mamma told me not to do so."

Then she ran and got a towel and pan of water and tried mopping up the ink, but her trouble only exaggerated the size of the stain. Then Maybelle had an idea. "Set the stool over it, Gracie, and it will not show," she said. Gracie acted upon Maybelle's advice, and placed the heavy oak stool over the inkstain. Sure enough, it hid the spot. For a moment Gracie felt guilty, and was about to remove the stool from over the stain when the front doorbell rang. Running into the hall, she saw through the glass door one of her mamma's friends. "Oh, it is Mrs. Bright," she said to the inquiring Maybelle. "Run, take the towel and basin of water out of the library and I'll answer the door, for Nancy is busy in the kitchen making preserves, and mamma told me to answer the door during her absence."

Then Gracie opened the door to Mrs. Bright, who, on learning of the absence of Gracie's mamma, said she would not come in. Gracie took her card, bowed very prettily to her as she said good-by, and returned to the sitting-room to Maybelle. "Say, Gracie, why do you tell your mamma anything about upsetting the ink?" Maybelle asked. "She'll never see the spot—under the stool."

At first Gracie resented Maybelle's wicked suggestion, declaring she could not think of lying to her mamma about anything. "But that won't be lying," protested Maybelle, "for you won't be saying anything at all about it."

"Oh, what shall I do," cried Gracie.

And so the seed of deception was sown and took root in Gracie's mind, and by the time her mother came home she had fully determined not to say a word about the accident to the library rug. So the evening wore away, and supper was over, and still Gracie kept the burden on her mind. Then 8 o'clock arrived and her mamma took her to her little room to put her to bed. Gracie, in nightie, knelt at her mamma's knee to say her good-night prayer, but after the first few words a lump grew in her throat and her guilty conscience was too much for her to bear. "Oh, mamma, I have been so very wicked today," she burst out with. "I cannot say my prayer till I have confessed to you something Maybelle and I did this afternoon while you were downtown shopping." Then Gracie poured out the whole truth, her head in her mother's lap.

After she had finished, her mother took her in her arms, kissing her and saying: "Dear child, see how hard it is to keep a load of deception on the heart. And you see how a second wrong does not cure a first wrong, but enlarges it, adding to the burden of the conscience. It was naughty of you to go into the library after I had told you not to do so, but it would have been doubly wicked for you to have withheld the truth about the ink stain on the rug from me. But now I know you have repented of your wrongdoing, and by confessing the truth to me you have wiped out the sin. And tomorrow we must talk seriously to Maybelle, showing her the error of her part in helping along the deception. And now, is your mind easy enough to go on with your prayers—and to ask God to forgive you? for I have done so, my child."

Destroyed Money.

IT is estimated that over one-half million dollars in paper money is destroyed in the country in one year. Many complaints come to the Treasury Department concerning destroyed money from persons who are of the opinion that the country should stand their losses. One woman wrote a few days ago that she had dropped a $20 bill in a meat chopper and that it had been ground to pieces. A large quantity of greenbacks is eaten up each year by rats, who find its hiding places. One peculiar case is reported of a robin flying through a window and then flying out again with a $100 bill in its mouth. Enough of this greenback was found in the robin's nest to warrant its redemption.

Adolpho, The Boy Tenor.

BY WILLIAM WALLACE, JR.

HE was commonly known as Dolph, though his Italian mother had called him Adolpho. He was born in the city of New York, his father a German and his mother an Italian. His father's name being Adolphus, the wife and mother desired the son to bear the father's name, but pronounced it as nearly Italian as she could, for ever dear to her was her childhood home in Southern Italy.

When Adolpho was nine years of age, his father died. The family were very poor, and Adolpho and his mother found themselves without a dollar after the funeral expenses of the dear departed one were paid. The grief-stricken widow was very delicate, and found that the sweat-shop work she procured was hard for her to bear, but she could not bring herself to put her dear child at work selling papers or blacking shoes on the street. So she did as much of the work as she possibly could, managing to keep starvation from the door, though she and her boy often suffered the pangs of hunger and cold.

And so the years went by, weary, unhappy years for the poor Italian widow and her gentle, hair-timid child, who was so unlike other children of the tenement quarters. All day during the school term Adolpho would attend the ward school and spend his evenings studying, while the poor, overworked mother would sew, sew, forever sew, on the "sweat-shop" garments for a factory some blocks distant from her humble lodgings. And during the summer months Adolpho would assist his mother with her work, going to the factory for the garments and carrying them to her, and after they had been "made up" he would deliver them to the factory, hand the "boss" his mother's bill, collect the pittance for the work and go to the grocery and buy the next day's provisions.

One evening after Adolpho had delivered some work to the factory, he went, as usual, to the grocery and meat market to get something for the next day's breakfast and dinner. As he turned a corner he saw an Italian man and woman playing a "hurdy-gurdy" at the edge of the crowded pavement. The music which came forth from the street-piano was an old familiar air which Adolpho had heard his mother sing since he was a baby, and which he loved to sing softly to himself many hours every day while he worked about the one room where he and his mother lived at the top of a five-story tenement. So when the strains of the music came to him, Adolpho sang in soft accompaniment to them, knowing the words of the Italian song. And as he neared the "hurdy-gurdy" players they heard his fine voice singing to the music of their instrument, and the woman spoke a few low words to her companion. He seemed to agree to what she said, and immediately she beckoned to Adolpho to come to her. The boy obeyed, and the woman said to him in Italian: "You speak Italian?" To which Adolpho replied that he did. His mother had taught him to speak her tongue very well, indeed. "Ah," said the woman, "maybe we can strike a bargain. You sing with our piano and we'll give you part of our money. What say you?" She conversed in Italian, not being able to make herself understood in English.

At first Adolpho was uncertain what answer to make. Then, the man adding his persuading voice, Adolpho went closer to the "hurdy-gurdy," which was still playing, and asked how long he would have to sing each evening. "Oh, come with us at 6 o'clock and go home at 8," replied the man. "Very well, I'll begin right now," said Adolpho. "My mother will not be uneasy about me if I am away for an hour. She will think I am playing with the children in the street. And when I go home with some extra money she will be pleased, for we are in such need."

So Adolpho began to sing in accompaniment to the street piano, his clear voice ringing out like a silver bell. People who ordinarily got out of sound of the "hurdy-gurdy" as quickly as possible, lingered to hear the boy tenor's song. Soon a great crowd had assembled, and the Italian woman passed about among them taking up a collection of small coins. She seemed much pleased with the amount she got, which was twice the usual sum made during an entire evening. In Adolpho she had found a gold mine, so she thought.

As Adolpho sang a third Italian song an automobile drew up beside the pavement. Inside it sat two gentlemen and a lady. One of the gentlemen was very dark and foreign looking, and seemed much impressed with the young singer's voice. "Marvelous!" he said to his companions. "Wonderful! He'll become a great singer in time. His voice will become a very rich tenor."

Then, Adolpho being through the song, the crowd applauded, and the woman again took up several small contributions. And when she presented her hand to the gentlemen in the automobile for some proffered quarters she felt sure that her fortune was made. "Ah," she whispered to the man who managed the piano, "we'll lay up money off this boy."

But at the same moment the dark gentleman in the automobile was motioning to Adolpho to come to him. "What is your name, boy?" he asked, speaking with a decided accent. "And do you belong to those hurdy-gurdy people?"

"My name is Adolpho, sir," replied Adolpho. "And I live with my widowed mother down in Baxter street. I do not know these hurdy-gurdy people at all, sir. I just happened along here a little while ago, and they asked me to sing to the music of the hurdy-gurdy. They said they would give me a share of the money."

But just at this point the Italian woman grasped Adolpho by the arm, dragging him away from the automobile, saying in Italian: "Ah, come on with us, boy, we must be going down the street. We'll get lots of money tonight. Come on. We'll give you your share at 8 o'clock, and then you can go home. Come, do not talk to strangers."

To the woman's surprise, also to Adolpho's, the dark gentleman in the automobile seemed to have overheard the hurried words of the Italian woman, and to have understood them, for he spoke in good Italian, addressing Adolpho: "Come here, boy. Do not go about the street with those beggars. Come to me; I have something important to say to you."

In vain did the Italian woman and man interfere, trying to force Adolpho to go with them, declaring in heated Italian that he was engaged to them, that he could not break his contract. But Adolpho shook off the woman's hands—he was a strong lad for 15—and went to the gentleman in the automobile. "Here, boy, get inside with us," the dark man said, making room in the automobile for Adolpho. "I wish to talk to you about your voice—about your having it cultivated properly when you are of an age to study."

Adolpho, his heart beating high with happiness, stepped into the automobile and was whirled away. At the end of the block the dark gentleman asked him where he lived, saying he and his companions would take him home and talk over future plans for him with his mother.

You may be sure that Adolpho's mother was mightily surprised to see her son lead into their poor apartment so fine a company as the two elegant gentlemen and the stylish, pretty lady. And still more surprised was she when each of her callers proved to be high-class Italians, and one of them—the very dark gentleman—an opera singer of great note. And after half an hour of conversation it was agreed that the great opera singer should take Adolpho as his protege, for he had no children of his own and wished very much to take full charge of Adolpho's education. "He shall study the languages for three years," he said, speaking to Adolpho's mother. "After that he shall go to Italy to study—to develop that wonderful voice Nature has given him. It would be wicked to let that voice die for want of culture. He will be very great some day and then the world will be at his feet, applauding him."

"But my mother," faltered Adolpho, throwing his arms about his dear, self-sacrificing mother, who had done so much for him and had asked so little in return and whose eyes now shone with tears of happiness over the prospect of her dear child's future.

"Your mother shall be your constant companion," spoke up the beautiful lady, who proved to be the great opera singer's wife. "She shall look after you in future just as she has in the past and shall share your good fortune, my boy."

"Yes, certainly," said the opera singer, his own eyes misty at the beautiful show of affection between Adolpho and his work-worn little mother. "And tomorrow you shall both go to a better place to live and Adolpho shall have a piano, a piano instructor and a French and Italian teacher. He shall waste no time."

And there was great rejoicing in that tenement room that night after the fine visitors had departed, for on the morrow the life of the poor widow and her gifted boy would change and want would be theirs no longer.

"What pleases me most, mamma," said Adolpho, sitting beside his mother at the supper table, "is that there'll be no more sweat-shop work for you to do. You shall have an easy life from now on, and soon I shall be able to repay this good and great man for all he is doing for me, for as soon as I begin making money I shall insist on paying him every dollar he has spent on me. But the great debt of gratitude we owe him can never be paid except in love."

Adolpho's mother was mightily surprised to see her son in such fine company.

FROM THE MINES AND THE SMELTERS

WARRIOR INTERESTS SOLD

Great Copper Properties in Miami District Transferred to Eastern Capitalists for $2,000,000, and Lewisohn People Reported in the Deal.

Globe, Ariz., Aug. 7. The biggest transfer of mining property made in Globe district or in Arizona either, for that matter, in several years, has just been put through by the Warrior, by the sale of its interests to a group of Eastern capitalists including men experienced in copper mining.

The purchase price is said, on good authority, to be $2,000,000. Of this amount $1,000,000 is to be paid in cash and $1,000,000 in stock will be offered in payment of the remainder.

The copper magnates forming the new company taking over the Warrior Copper company's interests are said to be men who have operated successfully in other parts of the country heretofore, but it is understood that they have never before done business in the Arizona field. The name of the new company is withheld for the present, but will probably be made known upon the arrival in Globe of E. M. White, who has been in charge of operations at the Warrior mine for some time past. Mr. White is now in Philadelphia, where it is said that the arrangements for the transfer of the Warrior property have been made. It is possible that Mr. White will continue in charge of the local mining work for a time, at least, until the new company can take over the active management to advantage.

If, as is said, the new company begins development work on the Warrior mine at once, the impetus given to the mining industry in Globe district will be great, and in any case, this deal marks the entrance into the local mining area of a new and powerful concern. The report of the transfer is received in all confidence by many people intimately connected with mining in this section.

The Warrior Copper company's property includes eighty claims and is the largest acreage of mining land owned by any mining corporation in Arizona.

The Warrior claims are included in three groups known respectively as the Montgomery, Diamond H, and Gold Gulch. The Montgomery group includes what were formerly known as the Montana and Dadeville mines on which considerable development work has been done. A vein on this property has been opened and found to yield ore running about 6 per cent in copper.

The Warrior Copper company's mine is equipped with a large steam plant. The reduction plant included originally a 100-ton concentrator, a 300-ton leaching plant and a 50-ton matting furnace. Recently, however, much of this plant has been dismantled for the reason that its use under surrounding conditions was considered impracticable.

At present about seventy men are employed in development and production work at the Warrior mine. About eighty tons of ore are being shipped daily.

At approximately the same time as the Black Warrior deal was made, the Pascoe group of eight claims, lying between the Miami and the Black Warrior, passed permanently to the Lewisohn people. These claims would connect the original Miami holdings with the Black Warrior, and, together with the latter property, make a combined area of immense proportions. The Black Warrior contains sulphide ores of high grade, which would be valuable in producing a smelting compound when mixed with the ores of the present Miami mine. The inference is obvious.

WORK AT SUPERIOR & GLOBE

Being Watched With Interest Pending Possible Finding of Yuma Vein---Drifting on Rich Vein at the Centennial Mine.

Globe, Ariz., Aug. 7.—On the results of the development work now being done that part of Globe district lying to the northeastward of Copper hill, the opening up possible new and rich mining region depends and many people who own properties near those where extensive prospecting work is now going on are awaiting with interest the outcome of these operations, says the Silver Belt.

In this section is located the Superior & Globe, the Arizona-Michigan, the Centennial and the Chrisman & Globe mines. The probability of all these properties developing soon into paying mines is strong. The Centennial, one of the older workings in this part of the district, is already shipping high grade ore in quantities. Work at the Superior & Globe shaft is being watched with interest pending the possible finding of the Yuma vein, which is thought by many to cut this region. If such is the case, it will greatly enhance the value of other properties lying along its probable course.

At the Centennial mine, now being worked under a lease, drifting on a rich vein is going forward on the 280-foot level, and at this depth a ledge four and one-half feet wide has been recently developed. When work on the drift began, only a narrow fissure was in evidence, but this has since been widening. At present ore is being shipped in quantities to the Old Dominion smelter. The low grade ore runs about 70 ounces to the ton in silver and 2½ per cent in copper. The high grade material shows returns averaging about 450 ounces of silver to the ton and from 7 to 8 per cent in copper.

A new blower has just been installed at the Centennial, and it is probable that a second shift of men will be put on Aug. 1. A force of about ten men is working there now.

At the Superior & Globe mine, sinking is now being done under the direction of Foreman Pete Wagener. The shaft is now down to a depth of about 408 feet. When 500 feet is reached, a station will be established and the crosscutting will be done in the hope of striking the Yuma vein, which is believed to run near the shaft.

Lately the mine force has been sinking in diorites, and during the past week some very hard ground has been encountered making progress slow. Within the last few days some material has been struck that has the appearance of vein matter, but no assays have yet been made.

SOUTH CANANEA PROPERTY

Valuable Copper Holdings Taken Over By Calumet & Sonora---Development Work to Be Rushed and the Whole Property Opened Up.

Bisbee, Ariz., Aug. 7.—A mining deal of great importance to Northern Sonora has been consummated in Cananea. By the deal the Calumet & Sonora company has taken over the vast property owned by the South Cananea company, incorporated in the United States as the Pennsylvania & Cananea Copper company.

The amount paid for the property is not yet made public, but it is known to be hundreds of thousands of dollars and a large stock consideration. The first payment has been made and it is reported by mining men from Cananea that this payment was large.

The South Cananea has been known for years as the Mitchell property and has been considered by mining men a valuable copper proposition. The property is two miles from Cananea and covers an area of 587 acres. It consists of the Collins, Homestake, Last Chance and Gladys groups. The Gladys group adjoins the Massey mine of the Cananea company and mining experts are of the opinion that the ore body in the Massey continues into the Gladys.

A large amount of development work was done on this property under the direction of Charles McHenry, who was superintendent. A shaft fifty feet deep was sunk on the Collins group and other workings of importance to the development of the property have been opened up.

In 1907 a company subsidiary to the South Cananea was organized to put up and operate a smelting plant at Naco to reduce the ores from the mines, but this company did nothing, although last spring George Mitchell stated that the plan was the only cheap way to handle the ore, and if the mines had been opened up for operation the Naco smelter would have been built.

The Calumet & Sonora, which is known through this part of the country as the Norton property, covered an area of 1,146 acres before the purchase of the South Cananea, and is in what is known as the Ronquillo district.

The reports from Cananea are to the effect that operations on an extended scale will be inaugurated very soon and that development work will be rushed and the whole property opened up and put on a profitable basis as soon as possible.

GOLD LODE IN WASHINGTON

Prospectors Trace Drift to Its Source at the Swauk---Mammoth Mine at Slate Creek Tied Up Again by Lawsuit.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 7.—A find of rich free gold ore in the Swauk is the sensation of the week in Washington mines. For more than thirty years the Swauk district, which is located in Kittitas county, has been producing steadily, but it has been noted as a placer district, the only steady placer producer in the state. The gold is coarse and nuggets running from $600 to $1,500 in value have been taken out from time to time. Gold is not plentiful, but it is coarse, and the big pieces found from time to time have kept interest alive in the region, which is relatively small in area. The discovery of a rich lode there has now created great excitement in and around Ellensburg, the nearest outfitting point.

A piece of rich float in a small creek picked up by A. F. York and Frank Jordan, two prospectors, led to the discovery. The float was found last week and since traced to its source, a cropping of quartz some distance above. On opening the outcrop and stripping it, the two men opened a pocket which yielded some large specimens of rich ore. The prospect is situated in Lion gulch and one chunk of ore weighing seventy-five pounds, which was sent to Cle Elum last week, carried $300 worth of gold.

York has a chunk of quartz which is more than half gold. It has been ten years since the Swauk has produced as great a sensation as the discovery of this quartz outcrop.

The Mammoth mine at Slate Creek, in Whatcom county, is involved in another lawsuit which ties it up again. The property is well developed, equipped with a mill and mining machinery and is a producer, or was, of high grade telluride ore and much free gold; but it is badly located for transportation and has been developed at such a cost that it has had many hard financial vicissitudes. It was sold to Charles Thompson some time ago for a debt of $20,000, but now G. J. Hammond, who lent $15,000 to the old Foss management on the promise that they would issue $100,000 of bonds on which he was to have made a bid, has brought action against Foss, Thompson and the sheriff of Whatcom county to have the Thompson sale set aside. The Mammoth is the best developed and equipped property in the Slate Creek district.

Abner Giffen has doubled the Apex crew and is now laying the last section of road to connect the mine with the Great Northern main line at Berlin. The connection will be made in August and the mine will then ship 100 tons of ore daily. The development consists of six miles of railroad, one mile of tram and nearly two miles of underground workings with the necessary equipment. The Apex is shipping only high grade ore. All other ore is held in reserve or piled on dumps awaiting the construction of a concentrator next year.

July Production of Copper More Than 1,000,000 Pounds Greater Than in June—Clash Between Clark and Amalgamated Company Over Metes and Bounds of Ore Ledges.

Butte, Mont., Aug. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The copper production of the Butte mining companies for July aggregated 26,580,820 pounds, an increase over June of a little more than 1,000,000 pounds. The totals, figured on the basis of twenty-nine working days for July, are as follows:

Clash With Clark.

Strife has been brewing for over a year between the Amalgamated Copper company and W. A. Clark if the rumors which have been prevalent on the streets of Butte are to be believed. The trouble arises from a dispute over the metes and bounds of ore ledges. The big company, it is understood, claims the veins within prescribed bounds and so does Clark. The mines of the claims adjoin and the issue, according to the rumors to be heard, is whether or not Clark shall pursue the ore bodies outside his claim lines.

This is an old difficulty at Butte, and Clark and the Amalgamated companies have clashed before over the same bone of contention. It has produced voluminous litigation, in which these contestants, Heinze and others have figured. This new wrangle recalls the fact that the Amalgamated several years ago opened negotiations with Clark for the purchase of his properties at Butte. On several occasions the deal was practically consummated.

It is said on good authority that Clark once was asked to name his price, and complied. He was invited to come to New York and close the deal and he started for the metropolis for that purpose. But on the way he raised his price $10,000,000 and the Amalgamated backed out.

The present development also recalls the fact that a few years ago, when Clark was the proprietor of the Colusa-Parrot mine, one of the Anaconda hill properties, he was accused of mining his ores from Anaconda territory. An injunction and damage suit resulted and it was determined against him. The Anaconda company recovered heavy damages, and in the settlement of the case the Colusa-Parrot mine was turned over to the company.

It is understood that Clark's right to mine below the 1200-foot level is questioned, as it relates to some workings, yet he is mining at a depth of 2,000 feet or more. The public is unacquainted with the details of the dispute and is in ignorance of just what veins are involved, but it is stated that Clark has been served wth legal notice to stop mining beyond specified boundaries, but has disregarded the notice, which makes it probable that he will give the Amalgamated company a fight.

Johannesberg Gold Mine.

Andrew Nelson, general manager of the big gold mine of the Johannesberg Gold Mining company at Neihart, Mont., who was here recently buying heavy pumping machinery for the mine, declared that the company has the biggest gold mining proposition in the country. Mr. Nelson was the discoverer of the mine, and has been working it for five years, the past two years being as manager of the company. The mine has a ledge forty feet wide on the surface, which has been developed continuously for more than a mile.

Assays as high as $910 have been secured and the average value of the high-grade ore runs from $5 to $14 a ton, while the ledge widens to forty-three feet on the 55-foot level and was forty-eight feet wide laterally. The company has seven claims and 135 acres of ground, close to the Great Northern track, five miles from Neihart. The property has been closed down because the pumps were flooded while the vein on the 300-foot level was being opened.

The new machinery, including an Ottumwa engine and a 100-horse power boiler, bought by Mr. Nelson, will be installed at once, and the mine pumped out and development resumed. Mr. Nelson and his wife have just returned from New York and are on the way to the Johannesberg district. The 200-foot level crosscut has a fine showing, and when the company gets back to the vein on the 300-foot level, big developments are expected. The company has 200,000 shares capitalized at $3 a share, and $120,000 was put in the treasury during the hard times recently by the sale of 120,000 shares of the stock at $1 a share. Louis Weigel, secretary and treasurer of the company, was here with Mr. Nelson, and he was also enthusiastic about the property. Victor Metzger and Emil Well of New York are president and vice president of the company.

Butte Coalition.

The Butte stockholders of the Butte Coalition are wondering why the company has taken the position it has on the dividend question. From an official quarter it has been learned that the directors have decided to pass the dividends indefinitely, although the treasury is able to pay a dividend and the mine has been earning profits for a year. It is said that the directors favor waiting till they can issue a large dividend, but when that will be nobody knows.

Bamar Copper Company.

Increased activity in the development of an old copper property within ten miles of Butte is a recent event. Omaha and Butte capitalists and mining men have organized the Bamar Copper company, capitalized for $1,500,000, and it has taken hold of the Erick Rehn mine on the Oregon Short Line road, which Rehn worked through a tunnel for years, also the old Butte & Buxton property.

The Bamar company has contracted for the construction of a shaft on the Rehn mine to the 500-foot level. There is a good copper vein in the Linde claim of the mine developed by tunnel, and the company is sending a raise to the surface from the main tunnel, a distance of 110 feet. When this is finished, sinking below the tunnel will follow. This will begin in about two weeks. A plant equal to considerable activity and a good force of men will be used, and mining men familiar with the property speak well of it. Rehn was not able to operate on a large scale, and the company intends to make developments that will show what the ground contains.

Davis-Daly.

Butte men report that the Davis-Daly company has developed five or six veins on the 1,400 level, and that one of these is twenty-two feet wide and contains ore that makes it valuable. It is said to be opened between 400 and 500 feet, and it should be opened on the next level within a month, or six weeks. Reports circulated from the mine indicate that the managers of the property hope to find their best values in the lowest levels.

There is talk here about the cost of transportation and reduction of the ores of the company, and some people believe that a reduction in this could be effected. The company pays 35 cents a ton to haul the ore to the railroad and $3 a ton to the smelter, which keeps the gold returns when they fall short of 95 cents a ton. It is suggested that better facilities could be provided and this expense lessened.

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

Developments at the Lake Mine Without Parallel in History of Amygdaloidal Lode Mining—Rich Copper Ground of Spectacular Nature—Promising Showing at the Ojibway.

Houghton, Mich., Aug. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Recent developments in the Lake mine are probably without a parallel in the history of amygdaloidal lode mining in the Lake Superior district ,and certain it is nowhere else in this district, with the single exception of the Calumet conglomerate, is there a showing of copper ground exceeding in richness than at present opened at 460 and 600-foot levels in the Lake mine. At the 600-foot level, where the present showing is of a most spectacular nature, the lode has been crosscut for ninety feet, disclosing first-class copper ground for the entire width, with exceptional values nearer the hanging wall for which the crosscut is driving. At the 460-foot level copper ground of equal richness is being opened in the drifts both ways from the shaft and more particularly to the northward, in which direction the greatest extent of the company's property lies. At this point a stretch of ground quite 150 feet in length and possibly averaging 2 per cent refined copper has so far been developed with both drifts stil lbreasted in first-class copper ground. At the 310-foot level the north drift only is active with copper ground running almost entirely to stamp work in evidence in the breast. At the first level both drifts are idle, the north drift having reached the boundary. The south drift at this level and the south drift at the second level, 310 feet from surface, are both temporarily idle an dreveal good ground, though rather bunchy with the mineral running largely to moss copper. The Lake lode has been diamond drilled at several levels revealing a width of between sixty and eighty feet and yielded drill cores of rather exceptional values at all points tapped. Additional diamond drilling is now in progress at the third or 460-foot level. The shaft has attained a depth of 750 feet, where a plat is being cut preparatory to crosscutting the lode at that depth. It is to be noted that while Lake has maintained a very good showing in the drift extensions, the showings had in the immediate vicinity of the shaft have not been uniformly richer than those obtainnig in the ends of the drifts beyond several hundred feet from the shaft. The shaft before it passed into what is presumably the foot wall trap rock at a depth of about 400 feet was continuously in first-class copper ground.

Wyandot.

Wyandot's operations continue confined to crosscutting the several formations at both the 300 and 700-foot levels. The crosscut at the 300-foot level is driving westward and recently encountered a copper bearing lode twenty-eight feet wide with the mineral confined to but a few inches along the footwall side. This crosscut has attained a length of 313 feet and is now breasted in the No. 8 conglomerate bed. The crosscut at the 700-foot level driving in the opposite direction has attained a length of 906 feet and is also breasted in a conglomerate, presumably the No. 5. Four copper bearing lodes were encountered in this crosscut and were drifted upon with indifferent results. The last lode encountered and which was generally believed to be identical with the Lake lode has been drifted upon for a distance of 100 feet, showing practically no copper. This lode has a very "likely" appearance, is wet, and in many ways resembles the Lake lode, but though also considerable carbonate stained thus far discloses no mineral in commercial quantities.

Centennial Improving.

A steady improvement noted in the Centennial's underground conditions for quite a year past and particularly confined to ground north of the No. 2 shaft and below the twenty-fifth level has within recent months spread to ground to the southward of that shaft and below the thirtieth level, indicating that the copper shoot, into which the north drifts are opening, is making to the south with depth. The showings obtaining in the south drifts are nowise equal to those noted in the drifts north, but the improvement there is marked and is growing with the creation of newer openings. Some exceptionally rich ground is exposed in several of the north drifts and at the twenty-seventh level, a continuous stretch of quite 800 feet of excellent stoping ground has been developed. This particular run of ground is probably the best opened in the mine and certainly is a great improvement over that opened about the twentieth level generally. The center of activity continues in ground tributary to the northerly or No. 2 shaft, which is sinking for the thirty-fifth level. An average of about twenty-seven machine drills are in service engaged in development work; no attempt is being made at stoping. The company is shipping around 700 tons of rock daily to the mill and securing a recovery of between thirteen and fourteen pounds fine copper per ton of rock milled. Little or no attention in the matter of rock selected for milling explains the low yield obtained.

Ojibway's Fine Showing.

Probably one of the finest and also most promising showings being made in the newer mines in the district is that obtaining in the Ojibway mine at the present time. The Kearsarge bed has been opened in this property to a depth of 950 feet in the No. 1 shaft, at which depth a short crosscut to the lode reveals much the same values obtained in the above crosscuts higher up. At the 800-foot level, where drifting has been in progress for one month past quite 100 feet of first-class stoping ground has been developed, with the south drift still in first-class copper ground. At the No. 2 shaft, which is sinking for the 1,100-foot level and in which about 150 feet of drifting was done at the 350-foot level without securing much in the way of copper ground a decided change for the better is noted at the 800-foot level, where drifting started simultaneously with the opening of drifts in the No. 1 shaft. The showing at this point for upwards of fifty feet is fully equal to that obtaining in the south drift from the No. 1 shaft referred to and seemingly indicates that the continuity of this copper course will be proven with the holing through of these drifts. The creation of horizontal openings in the Kearsarge lode at this point has only just begun, but at the rate these openings are being made and the uniformly

BINGHAM COMPANIES UNITE

Consolidation of the Bingham Central-Standard and the Bingham Metal Mining --- Bingham Shipping Record-Breaking Tonnage of Ore.

Salt Lake, Utah, Aug. 7.—A consolidation has been effected of the Bingham Central-Standard and the Bingham Metal Mining companies. A new company, the Utah Metals Mining company, is to be organized under the laws of Maine, with 1,500,000 shares at $5 each to take over the old companies. The Bingham Metal company is to receive 415,000 shares, share for share for its issued stock, and the Bingham Central-Standard will receive 300,000, or approximately one for three shares of its issued stock. The merged territory includes 3,000 acres covering four or five of the best mineral-bearing ledges in the district. The Bingham Central-Standard owns about 500 acres of patented and partially developed ground in the heart of the district. It has, however, an indebtedness of $347,000 which has to be taken care of. The Bingham Metal company owns 2,500 acres extending westward over the mountain from the Central-Standard on which $150,000 has been expended, besides timber, water rights and power plants, and in addition a large working and drainage tunnel now in 3,000 feet, which within the next 2,500 to 3,000 feet is expected to tap the fissures in Central-Standard at much greater depth than the present workings. This tunnel is started from the west side of the range, the Central-Standard being on the east side in Bingham. The tunnel mouth is about four miles by easy grade from the site of the International Smelting & Refining company's plant now in course of erection. This tunnel will have to be driven 11,000 feet to daylight on the Carr Fork side, and when completed will end near the Yampa, Boston Consolidated and other big mines of the camp.

According to figures compiled by the railroad, Bingham is shipping a record-breaking tonnage of ore. Of this the Utah Copper supplies 250 cars, or 12,500 tons daily; Boston Consolidated, 50 cars, or 2,500 tons; Yampa, 750 to 800 tons daily, besides 300 tons from the Commercial mine and leases at Lark. Utah Consolidated is shipping 1,000 tons daily to the American smelter at Garfield.

Six inches of high-grade ore has been encountered in the Uintah Treasure Hill at Park City. The find was made in a winze being sunk from a drift off the 260-foot level. A fissure eighteen inches in thickness was cut, of which six inches carries twelve ounces silver, 39.1 per cent lead and $2 a ton in gold.

Accompanying the quarterly dividend checks of 30 cents a share sent out by the Daly-West company was the quarterly statement covering April, May and June. Receipts were $145,756, nearly all from the sale of crude ore and concentrates. Disbursements, including dividend No. 47, paid in April, amounted to $195,044, leaving cash in hand June 30, $265,341, as compared with $314,630 at the beginning of the quarter. The dividend amounted to $54,000.

THE GIROUX CONSOLIDATED

Thomas F. Cole Expected to Visit Property Soon---Report That Company Will Erect 10,000-Ton Reduction Plant at Early Date.

Ely, Nev., Aug. 7.—Thomas F. Cole of the Cole-Ryan syndicate which recently purchased the control of the Giroux Consolidated, is due in Ely within the next few weeks at which time it is expected that he will make an authoritive announcement of the intention of the company to erect a 10,000-ton reduction plant, the first unit of which will be completed at the earliest possible moment, in White River Valley, six or eight miles southwest of the Giroux estate, where ample water rights have been secured and where there is a site which will permit the transportation of ore from the mine to the concentrator with a down-hill haul Uncertainty regarding Giroux has hinged about the intentions of the Cole-Ryan syndicate with respect to the development of the property. Its present splendid financial condition with nearly $2,000,000 in its treasury, its recent acquisition of the Butte & Ely group containing 200 acres, and its aggressive operations in the sinking of a new Alpha shaft for working purposes, have all shown a disposition on the part of the controlling owners to develop the estate along intense lines and to place it in a condition of productiveness at the earliest possible moment.

There has, however, been great secrecy maintained in respect to the

SHOWING AT CACTUS IS GOOD

Good Grade of Ore in Sight Everywhere in the Workings---Extensive Development Work By Drifts and Crosscuts Being Done.

Globe, Ariz., Aug. 7.—At the mine of the Cactus Development company, located about fifteen miles from Globe on Pinto creek, development work is being rushed forward under the direction of Supt. T. W. Hamilton. Jack McIver, the mine foreman, has been laid up since July 4, when he had his arm broken and was otherwise injured in a horse race forming part of the holiday celebration at Crowley City. In his absence, Supt. Hamilton has had charge of all the details of the mine working, so that a vacation which he had contemplated taking this month has had to be deferred until Mr. McIver's return to work.

There has been no lessening of operations, however. The Hamilton shaft has been sunk to a depth of 600 feet, and drifting and crosscutting in all directions is now going on at the 200 and 400-foot levels. Drifting has already been done for 100 feet east and west, and for fully fifty feet north and south. A good grade of ore is in sight everywhere in the workings, and it is expected that the development work will encounter still larger bodies. A large force of hands is in the shaft at the third level, and the rock here is heavily mineralized. The Hamilton shaft is a full two-compartment shaft. Sinking has been stopped for the present while the extensive development work by drifts and crosscuts is being done.

The single-drum hoist, which was formerly in use at the Hamilton shaft, has just been moved to the Pinto shaft, where sinking, which has already been done to a depth of fifty feet with a windlass, will be continued, beginning Aug. 10. The new double-drum hoist, which was purchased some time ago by the Cactus Development company, has now been set up and is in use at the Hamilton shaft. Three new boilers furnishing 300-horse power for working the hoists have been recently installed. The company has also been building several new cottages for the use of its employes.

Mechanical Engineer W. H. Hamilton is now on a combined business and pleasure trip through many of the large Eastern cities, including Chicago and St. Louis. As soon as Mr. McIver recovers sufficiently from his injuries to resume his work again, it is probable that Supt. T. W. Hamilton will take a vacation trip.

The new Williams shaft of the Iron Cap mining property of the National Mining Exploration company is now down to a depth of ninety feet, and all preparations are being made to hasten the sinking of this shaft. Beginning next week a second shift of men will be put on, and the development work will be rushed through. So far the shaft has been in ground heavily mineralized with iron, but it is not expected by the owners of the mine that copper ore will be found at any depth less than 300 or 400 feet, as the ore bodies in that locality have heretofore been proven to lie at some distance beneath the surface. The geologicell indications, however, point to the ultimate striking of rich ore deposits in the Williams shaft, as the same big ore vein already tapped by the Superior & Boston mine undoubtedly runs through the property of the National Mining Exploration company. People interested locally in mining will watch with interest the redoubled activity at the Williams shaft, and many express their confidence in the future of the mine as one of the big payers of the Globe district.

TUNNEL AND SHAFT JOINED

Completion of Important Work on Live Oak Property ---Sullivan Shaft on the Cordova in Ground of Satisfactory Character.

Globe, Ariz., Aug. 7.—The work of connecting the Sulphide tunnel with the Live Oak vertical shaft on the Live Oak property has been completed, and a task which has been in progress for the past several months is finished.

The work of driving to completion the Sulphide tunnel has important features other than that of ascertaining to a certain extent the presence of a body of low grade sulphide ore.

The tunnel, connecting with the Live Oak shaft, has opened up an excellent system of ventilation and the lack of air, which was a serious handicap during the driving of the Sulphide, will be eliminated in the future.

In addition, this tunnel will allow drainage facilities for all excavations above the 300-foot level, at which point it cuts the Live Oak vertical shaft, a feature which is of importance from a financial standpoint.

The Sulphide tunnel, which is 1,250 feet in length is more than 200 feet in sulphides running better than 2 per cent. As ventilation facilities have been provided, the work of crosscutting this ore body will be commenced at once to determine its extent.

In the Live Oak vertical shaft, where ore of a better grade than that in the tunnel has been encountered, similar work will also be taken up. It is believed that crosscutting from the shaft will show an ore of a higher grade than that which has so far been encountered. Prospects are very bright on this property and the development work for the next few months will be watched with interest by the public.

The Sullivan shaft on the Cordova property is down to a depth of 276 feet and is being rapidly pushed toward the 500-foot level. The shaft is now in highly altered granite porphyry, carrying chalcocite. Inasmuch as the Miami ore body, from the contour of the ground, should not be encountered for some distance, the showing is highly satisfactory at the present time.

AT THE SHATTUCK AND DENN

Latest Reports Are Encouraging as to Amount of Commercial Ore Available—Denn Ready to Pay Its Way on Development Work.

Bisbee, Ariz., Aug. 7.—Latest reports from the Shattuck are that the ore bodies are opening up better every day on the 600 level, where the body had been opened in a southerly direction in No. 1 crosscut. The work in No. 11 has progressed over 300 feet southerly and nearly 250 westerly, and several raises have been put in at this level to determine how far the ore body will carry. No. 21 has been put up to the fifth level, and shows a thickness of the ore body here of fifty-five feet. This was first believed better than would be the average, but such has not proved to be the case, as No. 19 raise has been put up beyond the fifth level, and is still carrying the same grade of ore. The ore taken out in this development work has averaged 17 per cent or better. With copper at 13 cents this ore should net $20 per ton and net the company approximately $6,000,000, and these figures are based solely on the ore body so far as opened up only.

On the 700 level work is going on in crosscut No. 2, and on this and the 800 level about 750,000 tons of ore running 9 to 10 per cent is in sight, while on the 900 level is fifty to seventy-five feet of 4½ per cent sulphides have been opened.

The Denn is still in good ore on the 1,250 level and its crosscuts and drifts, and the ground is the best yet worked by this time. Still better results are expected with 100 or 200 feet more depth, as indicated by the fine results that are obtained in the near-by Junction shaft on the fourteenth and fifteenth levels. As it is now Denn is ready to ship and pay its way on development work, which was not possible heretofore.

The past week showed more activity in and around the Copper Queen shafts than it has for some time, which should be very encouraging news. At the Lowell they are showing up some great bodies of sulphides on the 1,400 level, and have connected with the winze which was sunk from the 1,300 level some time ago. This winze was in ore all the way down and as the 1,400 has ore in the bottom of the shaft that means that the Lowell must go further to get in under these ore bodies. The drift from the Sacramento to the Lowell, in the 1,400, is being driven from both ends. This will be used for a motor track to haul the ore to the Sacramento. At the present time the Lowell is producing 1,000 cars of ore a day, which is 200 cars better than they ever did before.

At the Sacramento shaft, the main hoisting shaft of the Queen, they are lifting more ore than ever, and there is considerable developing work going on at this place. This shaft is now passing the 1,500 mark, and will go on down to the 1,700, when the 1,600 station will be cut and the ore pockets put in for the skips. On the 400 they are running two prospect drifts, one back up under Sacramento hill and the other out under the Johnson addition.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

HILL SAYS HOLD GRAIN

Railroad Magnate Tells the Farmers Not to Glut the Market.

Sell What Is Necessary for Current Expenses and Hold Balance.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The farmers of the Red River valley and other northwestern grain sections should not rush this year's crop yield to market, but hold it as long as possible in order to get the best prices, according to James J. Hill, who passed through this section yesterday, traveling on special train accompanied by a number of other railroad magnates.

The party came here from Duluth and the Mesaba range stopping at several points along the line and proceeded from here to Grand Forks then east to Breckenridge, Fergus Falls and St. Paul.

"I would like to talk personally to the farmers if I had time," said Mr. Hill while here. "You have an immense crop here and I want to see the farmers get what it is worth.

"If they rush it in all at once the price will be pounded down at least 10 cents per bushel. The farmers should realize this and send in their grain a little at a time. Sell what is necessary for current expenses and hold the balance. This will mean that the full value of the grain will go to the farmer.

Railroads Will Do Their Share.

"The railroads will do all in their power to handle the crop with expedition. We have thousands of cars on the side tracks now and the other roads are making the best provisions they can in the same line.

"I never saw the conditions in this section better. You have a great crop. I note with great satisfaction that not only wheat, oats and barley are in fine shape, but that winter rye, corn, potatoes and grass crops are being raised extensively. Nothing could give me greater satisfaction. Diversified crops, with pastures full of cattle, creameries located in nearly every town and village through which we pass, means a permanent prosperity for this section which I knew would come as soon as the farmers took advantage of the conditions and worked for their own best interests."

MINERS HAVING ANNUAL OUTING

The Calumet & Hecla Miners Taking Day for Their Big Picnic.

Calumet, Mich., Aug. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The miners employed by the Calumet & Hecla Mining company are taking a day off today for their annual picnic in the Calumet & Hecla park, and one of the great summer events of the Copper country is being enjoyed by thousands.

The parade through the streets of Calumet, Red Jacket and Laurium was, if anything, better than ever. There were five bands in the procession, while the automobile section was quite a feature, about forty big touring cars being in line.

General Manager James MacNaughton of the Calumet & Hecla Mining company is chairman of the day, and the principal address at the speaking exercises in the park will be delivered by Dr. R. T. Abrams of Dollar Bay. The various sporting and other events promises to be up to standard, and the day bids fair to rank high with former picnics held under the auspices of the miners for the purposes of charity.

GRAND FORKS TO HAVE NEW DEPOT

James J. Hill Admits It, But Is Doubtful About Location.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—This city will have a new depot, but just when is not known. James J. Hill, who was here yesterday with other railroad officials, admitted as much, but did not commit himself as to the time it would be built or the location.

A committee of business men waited on the railroad chief and talked depot to him about all the time his special was here.

Both Mr. Hill and his son, Louis, the president of the Great Northern, gave assurances the depot would be built.

"Yes," replied Mr. Hill when asked about the long looked for depot, "you surely do need a new station in Grand Forks. We have had the question in mind for some time and one of the matters coming up is that of location. We do not know whether to go east or west of our present depot site, but, of course, that can be taken care of when the time for the construction of the new building arrives.

"And when we do build a new station in Grand Forks, it will not be one that will, within a few years, have to be discarded. Grand Forks is a growing city, and you are to be congratulated upon that fact. The future will see even a better growth, and you may be sure that we will do all that we can to help you."

The shaft of the Keweenaw mine is now down about seventy-five feet and is being timbered. Those in charge say the prospects get better as they go down. This has been what they have said from the start and they hav very rich samples in proof of their claims.

CASS LAKE IS VERY POPULAR

Tourists Flocking to Pretty Resorts By the Lake.

Cass Lake, Minn., Aug. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pleasure seekers are pouring into Cass Lake in large numbers every day with a desire of getting a good catch of fish or camping for several days on the shore of the lake.

Star island, especially, seems to attract the strangers. Ever since the forestry department permitted the leasing of lots on the island and other parts of the reserve, strangers from all parts of the country have been coming here, engaging lots and looking over the location. The lots on Star island are becoming very scarce. The beautiful scenery and balmy air seem to have a great impression upon the visitors.

Supervisor Marshall of the forest reserve has charge of the leasing of the lots and almost every mail brings him applications from all parts of the country for lots. Cottages are springing up on all corners of the island and it is anticipated that it will be impossible to get a lot at all on the island by next summer.

George Farley has charge of the island and has been busy with a crew of men for the last two weeks building a dock on the west shore of the island. As soon as the dock is completed work will be commenced building roads.

JEALOUS HUSBAND SHOOTS, SERIOUSLY WOUNDS RIVAL.

Calumet, Mich., Aug. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Barinder is in a precarious condition at the Calumet public hospital, shot through the right lung, and John Elias is a fugitive from justice, the result, it is said, of jealousy on the part of Ellias. The officers are making every effort to apprehend Ellias.

Ellias laid in wait Wednesday evening for Barinder, who was returning home from work on his bicycle, and when he was close to the Osceola location Ellias stepped into the road and fired his revolver several times at him. One of the shots took effect, entering the right lung.

According to the officers, Ellias came to this country about three years ago, leaving his wife behind. Just one year ago Barinder came here from Bulgaria, being accompanied by Mrs. Barinder, who was coming out to join her husband. It is supposed that an intimacy sprang up and that jealousy was the cause of the shooting.

STRAIGHTENING OUT THE SNARL.

The greatest Democrat in the United States senate is Thomas B. Gore, the blind senator from Oklahoma, and when he said recently, as The Herald reported, that the Democrats should nominate no candidates against the twelve anti-Cannon Republicans in the house, he said something worth thinking about as a hopeful sign of the times.

He added: "And I suppose that there will be those who will cry 'treason,' but if that be treason let them make the most of it. I place my country above my party, and I do not believe fidelity to party requires a man to be unfaithful to his country. If it does, then it is an overdraft upon my party loyalty."

That is the sentiment today of the great majority of the rank and file of the membership of both the great parties, and it is the most hopeful and promising thing in American politics.

But the Detroit Free Press, a standpat, reactionary Republican organ, makes queer interpretation of it. It says: "Senator Gore added to the cumulative evidence that politics can get into a mighty snarl between campaigns, especially when there is tariff-making to be done."

Bless you, that kind of thing isn't "getting into a snarl;" it is getting out of a snarl!

The snarl of partisanship, that so long blinded men to their country's need, was the thing that ministered most to the growth of privilege and to the strengthening of its hold upon the government.

Congress, during its recent session, came closest to serving the people when partisanship was least regarded.

The progressive Republicans who revolted against the rule of the vice regents of plutocracy and who voted against their party in the framing and passage of a tariff bill that is a piece of flagrant treachery to the nation and the people, voted for the best interests of their party and their country. The fact that their votes left them outside the party lines, and that their action associated them with Democrats, didn't bother them in the least; and that shows that men, even statesmen, are beginning to peer through the hoodwinks of partisanship and to strain their gaze to seek the good of the country, whatever happens to parties wandering in the sloughs of infamy under the leadership of traitors.

If partisanship were obliterated in congress for a single session, and every member forgot party considerations and sought only the common good, the country would make more progress in six months than it makes now in twenty years with partisanship to divide the forces of progress and to blind good men to their country's need.

If for one election candidates were chosen for the principles they champion, for the honesty of their purpose and for their faithfulness to the people, and without regard to their allegiance to some moribund and meaningly party organization, the government would be filled with men who could and would be working intelligently, efficiently and directly toward the solution of the great problems of a people's government that by the confusions and disdirections of partisanship has been prostituted to the purposes of privilege.

FATIGUE, THE DESTROYER.

"A typical succession of events," says Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale, "is fatigue, then colds, then tuberculosis, then death." Fatigue slays its ten thousands when inevitable disease takes off its thousands.

Life insurance companies are now seriously considering the proposition of re-examining their insured at stated intervals, not with any idea of cancelling insurance if symptoms of disease are discovered, but to the end that disease may be treated in its earliest stages. There is little doubt that whatever expense life insurance companies go to in making such re-examinations, they will save many times over in annual premiums received from men and women whose lives will be saved for many years by such examinations. There are few diseases which cannot be cured if taken in their early stages and reasonably treated. It is the consensus of enlightened medical opinion that tuberculosis can always be cured if the patient receives treatment in the early stages of the disease. But often the person afflicted actually does not know that he has been attacked by the disease until it is almost too late; neglect and procrastination then make death certain.

Fatigue is the first cause of more diseases than tuberculosis. "The economic waste from fatigue is probably greater than the waste from the 3,000,000 who are continually ill," declares the authority quoted above. People must inevitably grow tired, but all can protect themselves from the consequences of fatigue by taking thought to the matter. When vitality is at a low ebb, the germs of disease are not easily thrown off, and if indolence and indifference follows close after fatigue, the door is thrown wide open to disease.

Disease that follows hard on the heels of fatigue is sometimes sudden in its workings, but more often it is slow and insidious. There is abundant time to be rid of it, even after it has gained a considerable foothold, but often we are utterly ignorant that we are in its grasp, or we imagine that it is a slight thing which will soon pass away. We are indifferent or too lazy to give the thing immediate attention. Meantime it grows steadily stronger, steadily becomes more surely seated, until, when at last we act, it can no longer be dislodged.

It is to fight against the results of fatigue and indolence and indifference that the insurance companies are proposing to make periodical examinations of the insured. Dr. Foster, editor of the St. Paul Medical Journal, declares: "It is perfectly possible to recognize, in many cases, that early signs of diseases before the individual suspects that any evidence of disease is present, and life insurance companies would save large amounts of money which they now pay in death losses by inaugurating a plan of systematic re-examination of all their policyholders at regular intervals." Such examinations are not proposed to be compulsory, but optional, but the agitation of the matter by life insurance companies and their standing ready to do it would doubtless result in saving many lives that are now lost through carelessness and ignorance.

THE TUBERCULOSIS SANITARIUM.

The county commissioners have met the expectations of the public by appropriating $20,000 for the establishment and maintenance of a county tuberculosis sanitarium. This was the amount asked for by the commission, and the county board has done the county a service of real value in making the liberal appropriation.

The fight against "the white plague" has passed the experimental stage, and the county commissioners will find that in establishing a county sanitarium for the sufferers from tuberculosis they have made a sound investment that will prove of great value to the county. With the appropriation of $20,000 it will be possible to erect an administration building for the superintendent and staff and for dining halls for the patients and two less expensive buildings for sleeping quarters for the patient.

When this sanitarium has been established, sufferers from consumption who are financially unable to seek relief in private and costly sanitariums will be enabled to secure treatment that will be of benefit not only to them but to the many who are now exposed to infection by conditions that encourage the spread of the disease.

THE FOLLY OF EXPERT TESTIMONY.

In spite of the revolting features which have attended it, there seems to be good ground for believing that the Thaw case, in its last stages, is to accomplish a great good in the judicial development of the country. It promises to bring into merited disrepute the practice of introducing so-called "expert testimony" into criminal trials.

The absurdity of such a practice was well illustrated two years ago when District Attorney Jerome "played the cat and banjo" with some of the alienists called by the Thaw defense, notably with Dr. Wiley. Now it is to the efforts of the same prosecutor that the country owes the confession made by Dr. Evans in the hearing in which Thaw is seeking his freedom.

According to the Associated Press dispatches, Dr. Evans' recent expressions regarding Thaw's mental condition are greatly at variance with those he used when he was being paid for testifying to help the young Pittsburger escape the electric chair. These variations were brought out during Mr. Jerome's examination of the doctor in court at White Plains. "But," says the Associated Press correspondent, "Dr. Evans was quick to explain that the report made two years ago was for the private guidance of Thaw's attorneys, and had contained only such medical evidence as would tend to support the contention that Thaw was insane at the time In other words, he admitted that the report was prepared to bolster Thaw's side of the case when he was seeking to avoid the electric chair."

There is the sum and substance of what "expert testimony" amounts to, at least when the experts are to receive their remuneration from the parties by whom they are called to testify. There can be little doubt that the story told on the stand during the Thaw trial by Evelyn Nesbit Thaw had more influence with the jury than did the expressions of the alienists. But the presence of the latter in that trial established, or at least helped to strengthen, a precedent that has been invoked in numberless later cases, in which the word of the "expert" was not overshadowed by any harrowing recital of a shameless woman, and in which it might easily have been the means of turning the scale in favor of a defendant who really deserved punishment for his act.

It is such features as this that have made our judicial system appear a disgrace to civilization in one after another of the prominent cases that have come before the public—such features and the unlimited devotion to trivial technicalities that enable a defendant to prolong or postpone his trial until the memories of witnesses and the public feeling have lapsed. In England, the birthplace of our own judicial system, it took years to secure the release of a woman who had been imprisoned and about whose criminality there arose a doubt. In the same country there was only a month between the murder of a merchant and the conviction and punishment of his slayer. Within the last six weeks a prominent man in London was murdered, his assassin arrested, tried and convicted. We borrowed the English judicial system, but we have allowed its practice to fall into such a state of unjustifiable and absurd chaos that it is becoming not merely a laughing stock among us, but a serious and recognized menace to the business and sociological life of the nation. Perhaps the Thaw case, with its interesting ramifications, is going to furnish a needed warning. If it does, all the scum and rottenness that have accompanied it may be freely pardoned.

Nor is it lacking in interest and significance, in this connection, that Thaw himself said on the stand, in reply to quizzing by Jerome, that the alienists could be blamed for doing their best to make out a good case for him, because "they were well paid for it."

UNDER WHICH FLAG?

President Taft has a perfect right to align himself with whichever force in the Republican party he pleases; but he must expect to be judged by the company he keeps, for not even the prsident of the United States can claim exemption from that time-honored rule of judgment.

There are in the Republican party today two opposing forces, whose differences are as irreconcileable as the difference between right and wrong. Aldrich, Cannon, Sherman, Payne, Dalzell, Morgan, Rockefeller, Archbold and their like lead the one; Roosevelt, La Follette, Beveridge, Bristow, Cummins and their kind lead the other. There can be no question whatever that the rank and file of the party are behind the Roosevelt-La Follette leadership; and that is true not only of the Western states but of all the states. Appearances are to the contrary, it is true; it looks as though the people of the Eastern states were behind Aldrich; but they are beneath him and the political and business organizations he represents, not behind him. In the West the primary election system has given power into the hands of the people; in the East the old convention system leaves the power in the hands of the bosses, who use it for the benefit of big business.

How has President Taft decided in reference to these two forces? Has he lined up with Aldrich, or with La Follette? Has he given encouragement to the progressive Republicans or to the reactionary Republicans? Every reader of current events can answer that for himself, and there will be but one answer.

The chance for real tariff revision died when the president lent his influence to the cause of Cannon in the organization of the house at the beginning of the special session. Without his influence Cannon would have gone down to defeat, his organization would have been destroyed, the rules from which he derives his power would have been repealed, and the house would have been placed in the hands of the progressives. But Taft put it back into the hands of the reactionaries, and hope for honest government during his administration died right there.

If there was life left in it, it expired when the president, during the senate debates on the tariff bill, cast his influence into the balance on the Aldrich side. He conferred with Aldrich and his allies; he conferred with the progressive Republicans only when he sought to swing their votes for the Aldrich program. The progressives were fighting the battles of the people, of honest protection, and of the Republican party of tradition, but they had no aid or comfort from the president; he had cast his fortune with the reactionaries, who fought the battle of plutocracy, of dishonest "protection," of a Republican party prostituted to the cause of Privilege and Monopoly.

When the progressives, with the aid of the Democrats, had an income tax law practically passed, there was a conference between Aldrich and the president, and promptly the president intervened with his corporation tax plan, defeating by a stroke of his pen the campaign for an income tax law.

At no time during the historic and brilliant battle of the progressive Republicans of congress against the overpowering influence of the vice regents of plutocracy did they have the slightest aid from the president. He had the shaping of the tariff bill in his hands; he had it in his power to decide between the people and plutocracy; and he decided against the people. No wonder the progressives lost their battle.

THE USES OF MEDICINE.

There was a time, not very long ago, when humanity, led by its doctors, placed all its hope in drugs. There were drugs innumerable; drugs for this, that and the other thing; drugs supposed to be good for the liver because the plant they came from has liver-shaped leaves, drugs supposed to be good for the heart because the leaves of the plants they came from were heart-shaped. Those drugs are still made, but they aren't being used so much as they were. Physicians nowadays find a clientage intelligent enough to be content with cures that don't take the form of noxious doses. But there are yet people who don't think they are being treated properly unless they are given mixtures that smell evilly and taste worse, and there are physicians that humor them.

The modern attitude of the medical profession toward drugs is clearly outlined in the following statement by Dr. Osler, one of the best and most distinguished "regular" physicians in the world: "The century has witnessed a revolution in the treatment of disease, and the growth of a new school of medicine. The old schools—regular and homeopathic—put their trust in drugs, to give which was the alpha and omega of their practice. For every symptom there were a score or more of medicines—vile, nauseous compounds in one case, bland, harmless dilutions in the other. The new school has a firm faith in a few good, well-tried drugs, little or none in the great mass of medicines still in general use. Imperative druggings—the ordering of medicine in any and every malady—is no longer regarded as the chief function of the doctor. * * * The battle against poly-pharmacy, or the use of a large number of drugs (of the action of which we know little, yet we put them into bodies of the action of which we know less), has not been fought to a finish. There have been two contributing factors on the side of progress—the remarkable growth of the skeptical spirit fostered by Paris, Vienna and Boston physicians, and, above all, the valuable lesson of homeopathy, the infinitesimals of which certainly could not do harm, and quite as certainly could not do good; yet nobody has ever claimed that the mortality among homeopathic practitioners was greater than among those of the regular school. A new school of practitioners has arisen which cares nothing for homeopathy and less for allopathy."

The chief cause of sickness is wrong living; the most important cure for disease is right living. There are a few drugs that help, that turn the tide in cases of dire necessity, but right living is the true remedy for bad health—and that means eating the right things in the right way, avoiding the things that harm, getting plenty of sleep, exercise and, above all, getting plenty of fresh air.

A DANGEROUS CROSSING.

To The Editor of The Herald:

The Northern Pacific Railway company has not properly provided for the safety of people and teams crossing its tracks at Central avenue, West Duluth, and steps should be taken to compel the railroad to guard the lives of those who have occasion to cross the tracks.

One man is at present stationed at the crossing, but during the noon hour and between 6 and 8 in the evening he is off duty for his meals. At these times the traffic is quite heavy, and means of protection from the danger of passing trains should be afforded. There have been several narrow escapes.

Another man should be hired to watch the crossing when his fellow-worker is at his meals. It is hardly necessary to keep a man at the crossing all night, for there is very little traffic after 8 o'clock in the evening. There have recently been several narrow escapes at times when the regular man has been off duty.

WHY NOT PAVE ON THE POINT?

To the Editor of The Herald:

Why do not residents of Park Point provide for the paving of their main street? This is the only community in Duluth, as thickly populated as the Point, which is without an improvement of this kind. It shows an unprogressive spirit, and is a poor advertisement.

The need of a pavement is great. The surface of the streets on the Point at present is composed of loose and shifting sand, making it impassable for teams and automobiles. In merely walking across the main thoroughfare down there a person sinks in the sand up to his ankles.

Every time any one from the uptown district visits Park Point he wonders why the main street has been left unpaved, and the same idea strikes people here from outside the city who go across the canal. This attractive strip of land would be much more attractive than it is now as a place of residence if the paving were laid, and the best class of people would be attracted. A nicely improved street, for one thing, would make a popular automobile driveway, especially so in view of the popularity of the boat club branch house at Oatka beach.

The paving could be laid very cheaply, for the sand is already on the ground, and the point is perfectly level.

THE BONFIRE NUISANCE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Is there an ordinance regulating the building of bonfires near buildings? If there is one, it certainly ought to be enforced, and if there is not one, a measure to minimize the danger of such fires and to prevent careless persons from endangering the property of other people is certainly worthy of the consideration of the members of the city council.

My idea of this ordinance also includes a prohibition of bonfires on close, oppressively hot evenings, or when a stiff breeze is blowing.

All of this occurred to me the other evening as I was sitting in my home. The night was a close, hot one, uncomfortably so. I was sitting in one of the rear rooms of the house, trying to get a cool breeze from the direction of the lake. About the time I got comfortably settled, a neighbor, living several doors away, lighted a huge rubbish heap and instead of a cool breeze and fresh air that hot night, a stifling smoke was about the only thing that blew in my windows.

Collier's: With touching faith in editorial omniscence, a troubled householder of Newark, N. J., asks one of our esteemed contemporaries how to get rid of an escaped tarantala. If the Times cannot answer the query, up goes our editorial hand, signaling eruptive wisdom below. We know a baker's dozen of ways to delete a tarantula, from turning on the gas while he is asleep, to mowing his legs off with a scythe, and handing the harmless remnant over to the appreciative chickens. But, after all, why exhibit a spirit of destructive criticism toward the guest of the cellar? Certain defects may be, it is true, alleged against him. He has long, unkempt hair, a low forehead, and unpleasantly piercing eyes. These be but surface blemishes, the marks of the ugly but beneficent sprite who is an acquisition to any household. His tigerish leap means death to many a fly, each victim far more perilous to the welfare of the household than is the grisly and far-traveled spider himself. He will feed and fatten upon the loathy water-bug and the nauseous roach. It may be that, by virtue of his horrible aspect, he will even scare that bugaboo of madame, the local mouse, away from the premises. He will do no harm to any reputable member of society. His evil reputation is mainly the terror of a name and of superfluous and sprangly legs. Let the Jerseyman be wise and leave his tarantula in peace. Soon enough will come the nipping airs of November to pierce through his shaggy but insufficient tropic coat and clog up his air-tubes with whatever form of influenza the Arachnidae succumb to. Or, failing that, the genius of the kitchen, descended from the Great Exorciser, St. Patrick, will one day terminate the humble, tinorous, but serviceable career of the exile with a determined and flat-footed scrunch.

When William Quit Smoking.

Puck: An excerpt from Doris' letter. "And oh, Will, if you weren't the dearest boy! You often told me that you would do anything in the world for me, and now you write for my sake you've quit smoking. I'll have to wait until I see you to tell you what a dear I think you are."

From Janis: "You write that out of consideration for me you have stopped smoking for good. That was just lovely of you, William, and you may depend that I greatly appreciate it."

From Phyllis: "Billy Boy, it's just rippling! you're the dandy kid! Just to think that you would swear off using the weed just for me. It was mighty dear of you, Billy, and it makes me all the more keen for you."

From Marjorie: "To think that you've quit smoking, William! I was so much surprised! Of course, I always knew that you care for me, but to think that, as you say, you've made this sacrifice on my account—why, it's positively noble of you!"

From his Mother: "Will, my son, this proves your love for me. Father is inclosing a check to show that he appreciates the fact that you think enough of your parents to give up smoking for them."

From his Doctor: "Your letter advising me that you have obeyed my orders and stopped the use of tobacco is at hand. As I said, your compliance."

THE WEATHER.

CLOUDY

The partly cloudy weather continues, and thunder storms keep threatening. The weather man expects such conditions to continue tonight and Sunday. A year ago today it was cool and cloudy. The sun rose this morning at 4:55 and will set this afternoon at 7:32, making fourteen hours and thirty-seven minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Very warm weather continues in most districts east of the Rocky mountains. The Dakota low pressure has disappeared, but the barometer continues low in the extreme Southwest and high over Eastern states. During the past twenty-four hours this distribution of pressure caused showers or thunder storms over the Dakotas, Minnesota, Utah, the lower Mississippi valley and Gulf states. Cool temperatures are the rule in the extreme Northwest. Generally fair weather is indicated for the Head of the Lakes during tonight and Sunday."

Following were the minimum and maximum temperatures for the last twenty-four hours:

THE CALL OF THE WEST.

Kansas City Star: That was an inspiring note that was sounded yesterday by Governor Johnson in his address at the Seattle exposition. The Minnesota executive has caught the real political and moral meaning of the new movement in congress, the movement against the dictation of the East, a movement not yet triumphant, but full of promise and led by strong men from the great Mississippi valley. The men who go to congress from the great states of the Mississippi valley, of the mountain ranges and of the Pacific slope must be men who, when they go down to Washington, will feel and heed the Call of the West.

Cleveland Plain Dealer "The West for the West" would be a selfish and unpatriotic slogan. And yet it is not easy to find just criticism of Governor Johnson of Minnesota for his utterance of this sentiment at the Seattle exposition. The East has so persistently legislated for the interests of the East that the people of the West might fairly be pardoned for adopting the same tactics. * * * The spectacle of the senate, where such a puny commonwealth as Rhode Island, through Senator Aldrich, wields a power greater than that of all the Western senators, and wields it in the main for the selfish interests of Rhode Island and other small New England states—such a spectacle is not calculated to soothe the wounded pride of states like Minnesota and California. In the grab bag tariff game, the West has, on the whole, been sadly outmaneuvered by the "smaller commonwealths." * * * Now these men, who with their own hands have won the West and made an empire out of the mountains, plains and deserts, are disposed to think and act without regard to an arrogant East. Sectional division or prejudice is lamentable, but one can hardly blame the West.

Pittsburg Dispatch: Governor Johnson of Minnesota calls on the West and Northwest to "throw off the shackles of the East." Johnson has been something of a reformer, but let him realize that there are yet a few shackles left in Minnesota. Notwithstanding reform in forestry, he is not yet out of the woods.

Saginaw Evening News: Governor Johnson of Minnesota wants the West to rise against the East. Senators Cummins and La Follette undoubtedly would be pleased to accept generalships in the insurrection.

Buffalo Express: Governor Johnson of Minnesota wants the South and West "to arise in their might and claim for themselves that fair share of influence in the halls of congress and in the administration or national affairs" and not let the East dominate. Well, with Senator Beveridge of Indiana continually bursting forth into magazine articles and Senator Stone of Missouri slapping a negro Pullman waiter for bringing him a finger full of whisky instead of a "high hat" Governor Johnson must surely admit that the East does not dominate in everything.

New York Globe: If the West is shackled, to use the word of Governor Johnson, it has itself adjusted the manacles. So far as the new tariff is unsatisfactory, the East with as much reason can charge it up against the West as the West can charge it against the East. It is true that ten Republican senators from the West sought more thorough downward revision, but it is equally true that twenty Republican senators from the West insisted on raising duties, and with difficulty have been brought to consent to such reductions as have been made.

Detroit News: "The tariff is a local issue," said Gen. Hancock, and so says Governor Johnson of Minnesota, but Johnson broadens out his locality to cover the whole Mississippi valley, and, indeed, the whole country to the west of it. He speaks for agrarian interests as distinguished from the manufacturing interests, the 7,000,000 of farmers as distinguished from the toilers in trade and urban industry. This is the natural division of all nations on the tariff question, but it was never emphasized in this country so sharply as Governor Johnson declared it in his speech at the Seattle exposition on Tuesday, and he is in a position as a possible, nay, a probable, candidate for the presidency, to make himself heard. * * * This is the appeal Governor Johnson makes to the agricultural West as against the manufacturing East, when reduced to plain English, and it is a mighty clever appeal at that. If he sticks to it, and wastes no time on mushy talk about political economy and mushier morals, which neither he nor his hearers understand, he may possibly make it go. In most legislation there is something for somebody, and the thing here is to persuade the farmer that there is nothing for him in protection. We are not prepared to say that this can be done, or that it would be well to do it if it could be.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

"The Good Old Summer Time."

Why do we like summer? Certainly most of us do, though now and then some one wilted by the heat or tired of the contest with flies and mosquitoes declares his preference for some other season. And yet the poets and the songmakers continue to sound the praises of the summer solstice above those of winter, autumn or even spring. And the poets are usually right in discerning what emotions throb most frequently in the hearts of those for whom they write. A year without a summer would indeed be unthinkable in advance and unbearable in its progress. So now that this glorious summer of our content is rapidly speeding away let's try to find out in what its charm consists, and whether we are getting every bit of comfort and uplift out of it that we ought to get.

We like summer because it means for most of us a little let up from routine duties and perhaps too familiar surroundings. The pace of American life is so rapid that unless we had these "week ends," these half holidays or perhaps a blessed fortnight or even a month off duty, something within us would snap and the human machinery in general would break down. This resting time being one of the chief boons of vacation, are we sure that this year we are utilizing our time in such a way that we are really getting rested. Or are we frittering our one chance away?

Another delight of the summer time is the chance to renew our old friendships or make new ones. In term time or in work time we are often too busy to follow Henry Drummond's advice, "Keep your friendship in repair." Now is our chance to get back to the old home and "see the folks" again, to write a friendly letter to a former schoolmate, to be a little more neighborly right in our own block or on the street. Are we doing any of these things.

Perhaps without reasoning the matter fully out we love the summer because it means more out-of-doors and more contact with the life of nature. Just to see things grow is restful. To be right in the midst of the budding, blossoming fruit-bearing tree and shrubs changes the current of our thoughts. Oh what a range of joyous outdoor activities the summer provides ;the canoe on a lake in the wilderness, the mountain climb, the dip in the surf, the pedestrian trip through leafy lanes, the golden hours of absolute vacuity of mind as one stretches himself on a mossy bank or under some giant trees, hearing only the hum of the bees in the orchard and the song of the birds; the lavish sunshine and the peame of the starlit skies. Truly all these things may be had for almost nothing for as Lowell has said,

"No price is set on the lavish summer."

Our response to the changing phases of the natural world and its varied rich provisions for our enjoyment is proof of our divine origin and destiny. For it is the fulness of the summer's life that appeals to us. And this life both in the tiniest blade and the most majestic tree of the forest is nothing other than the life of God.

Summer is the best of all times for realizing the presence of God and for entering into the personal religious life. How think you about it, friend?

THE CHURCH, "THE PEOPLE" AND SOCIAL REFORMS

A Rochester Experiment in Reaching the "Un-churched" Masses Through a People's Sunday Evening.

(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau.)

To carry the message of the church to the large number of city dwellers who do not attend church and who are more or less out of touch and sympathy with the spirit and methods of the average church, was the experiment tried last winter in Rochester, N. Y. Its inception and workings made an interesting story.

The author of the plan and the leader in its execution was Rev. Paul Moore Strayer, pastor of the Third Presbyterian church. Mr. Strayer's church is located on East avenue, Rochester's show residence street, equaled by few in the world in point of beauty and wealth of lawns and homes. The church's congregation is drawn from well-to-do homes. Many of its pew holders are wealthy. By location and in respect of the circumstances of its congregation, it carries to outsiders unacquainted with its spirit the impression of an aristocracy, in which the man in a cheap suit or the woman in a calico gown might not feel at home.

Mr. Strayer had been and still is the fraternal delegate of the Rochester Ministerial association in the central council of the trades unions of Rochester. He has found among the representatives of the labor organizations and in their rank and file as well, not only marked indifference but actual hostility to the church.

If these people would not come to the churches to hear their message and learn for themselves its real spirit, Mr. Strayer thought it would be worth while to see if the message could not be taken to them in a way to invite and command a hearing. He consulted with many both in the ministry and in the labor movement, and the outcome was a series of twenty meetings in the largest theater in Rochester, called the People's Sunday evening, but commonly abbreviated into the P. S. E. With him in the planning and associated with him in the ministry were Prof. Walter Rauschenbusch of the Rochester Theological seminary, author of "Christianity and the Social Crisis," and Rev. Dr. Henry H. Stebbins, known as Rochester's social missionary-at-large. These selected to counsel with and assist them a committee of fourteen, striking in the diversity of interests represented.

The chairman of this committee had been a college professor and president, but is now a successful manufacturer. The vice chairman is the business agent of a labor union. The secretary is the editor of a labor journal. The treasurer is the general manager of one of Rochester's largest industries. Two of the committeemen are leading physicians; one is president and the other was until recently secretary of the chamber of commerce; one is president of the central labor organization, representing 13,000 unionized wage earners; one a paper jobber, is also the most active civic worker in the city; one is a small merchant and one is the editor of one of the daily newspapers.

Mr. Strayer's church freed him for twenty meetings and loaned its quartet. Friends in his congregation voluntarily contributed nearly one-third of the expense. The meetings cost, in all, a little less than $175 apiece, for rental of theater, advertising which followed theatrical precedents, programs, music and one other item to be referred to later. Before a meeting was held, those not known to be contributors to any church were solicited for funds until there was in hand enough to finance the series, provided the theater audiences should contribute an average of $40 an evening. The audiences did a little better than this, and the great bulk of their offerings was in pennies—often the collection produced as many as 1,300 coins. The only salaried person connected with the series, aside from the orchestra members, who were included in the theater rental, was a secretary, who charged for only half her time, although she gave it all.

The meetings were unconventional. The orchestra played for half an hour before the curtain rose. Ministers, members of the committee and guests occupied the front of the stage, while behind them was massed a chorus choir, and to one side were a piano and the quartet. In every way the endeavor was made to have the audience feel a sense of personal participation in the meetings.

The subjects treated during the twenty meetings covered a wide range. For illustration, one night was given over to a discussion of the public health of the city. Physicians told of the fight on tuberculosis and other diseases, and the health officer threw upon a screen pictures of local bad tenement conditions, accompanying them with timely warnings. The problem of unemployment occupied one evening, the speakers being an unemployed man who told of his search for work, a large employer who told how difficult it was to provide work in a time of business depression, and a speaker who explained in detail just what the ordganizations of betterment in Rochester were doing to cope with destitution. A debate on what to do with the saloon, between the attorney of the German-American alliance, who advocated more stringent regulation, and Former Governor Glenn of North Carolina, who recommended prohibition; two evenings of discussion upon phases of Socialism, two evenings given over to explanations of the labor movement, one of them addressed by Raymond Robins of Chicago, two evenings given over to phases of school work, with pictures; and, finally, two evenings of earnest, heart-to-heart talk about the church's place and work in society, with urging to outsiders to get in and push.

One of the first things discovered was that faith without works did not impress a congregation of non-churchgoers. And so an employment bureau was opened. This consisted of an office in which the man seeking work could leave his name, address, claims and references. Where possible the claims and references were investigated. Employers were asked to draw on these waiting lists and some were persuaded as a social service to make temporary work for especially needy applicants. No charge was made by the bureau. In all, more than 500 applicants were registered and more than 100 men were placed at work. This required some paid help additional to the secretary, but the expense was small. Out of this simple plan of a free intelligence office for the unemployed is now growing a movement to federate the charities of Rochester and focus all betterment activities into a central clearing house of information.

The attendance was inspiring and the interest keen from the beginning. The smallest audience on the stormiest night was larger twice over than the average Sunday evening audience in any church of equal capacity in the city; and on most occasions people by hundreds were turned away. No way was found to measure accurately the proportion of non-churchgoers, but careful estimate places it at 80 per cent. The total attendance exceeded 30,000; the number of separate persons ministered to is reckoned at 10,000. Inspired by this example, a number of churches put new interest into their evening services and gained in attendance. So far as known, the attendance in no church was depleted. The Ministerial association, at first undecided, at length endorsed the P. S. E. plan with emphasis and sent to the final meeting a representative on its behalf to give greeting and testimony and to invite non-churchgoers in the audience to connect themselves with any church most convenient to them, an invitation since accepted in a number of instances.

In some respects the most hopeful thing about this series of theater services was the keen interest and pride taken in them by the labor organizations.

One of the labor leaders wrote: "We have demonstrated that men in different walks of life can meet and act in the best interests of the entire community without treading on any one's toes. Members of our committee have become broader, more enlightened and more charitable in their opinions. It has been demonstrated that a member of the pulpit can be a leader of men in all walks of life."

Beginning frankly as an experiment, the People's Sunday evening has so signally demonstrated its place and work in the community that it is to be continued and enlarged. The decision to this effect was unanimous among ministers and members of the advisory committee, and it was confirmed with enthusiasm when submitted to the final audience. Moreover, as a means of keeping in touch during the summer, ministerial visits are to go on and there is to be at least one reunion in the form of a popular basket picnic in a park. Later the hope is that a way may be found to cast this usefulness into a form of permanent organization, perhaps a league for social service.

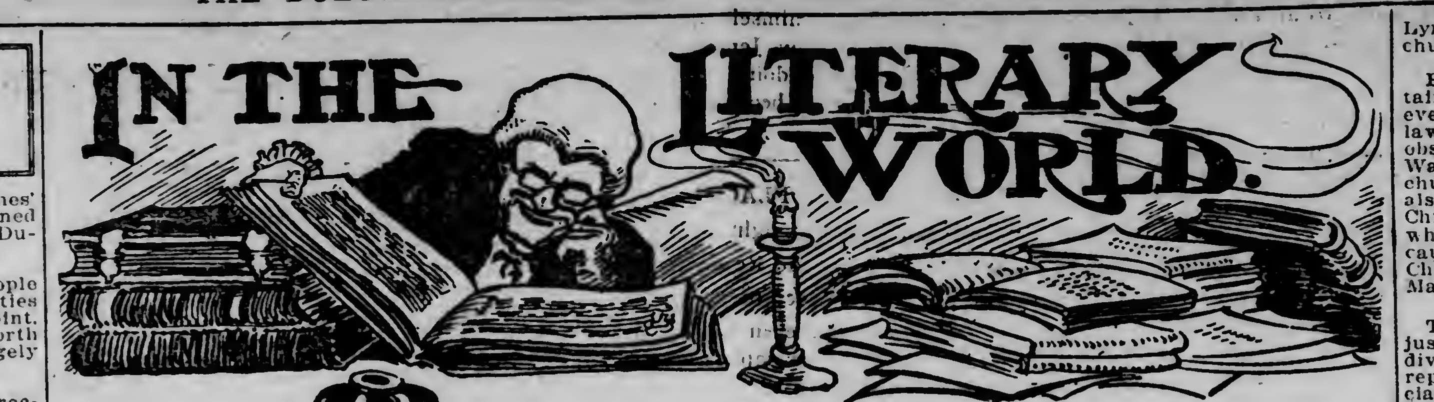
IN THE LITERARY WORLD.



BY RIGHT OF CONQUEST. By Arthur Hornblow. New York: G. W. Dillingham company. $1.50

We are having a good time on a steamer bound around the world with a gay crowd of carefree pleasure seekers. Sitting on the deck one day a scientist proposes this problem: "Suppose a ship were wrecked and the only two passengers who survived the disaster—a woman cabin passenger and a common sailor—found themselves on a desert island. What would be this man's and this woman's attitude toward each other? Separated under normal social conditions by the widest gulf imaginable, on the desert island they are thrown together in the closest intimacy. The sailor begins to cast covetous, lustful eyes on his involuntary companion. He insists on ties the very suggestion of which overwhelm her with horror. Will he drag this delicate, highly nurtured girl down to his own animal level, or will she by sheer force of character, by her fine mentality and spiritual power, be able to tame the beast and lift the sailor up to her own level?" This story gives the answer, insofar as it concerns its two chief characters—Jack Armitage and Grace Harmon. For just that thing happens; the boat strikes a rock in a storm and these two alone reach a desert island, far removed from the path of navigation, from which they may never be rescued. Of course much depends upon the characters of the two. Jack Armitage is a magnificent physical animal, who by wicked living has brought himself down to the stoke hold of the vessel, which is about as near the orthodox hell as anybody is likely ever to get. Grace Harmon is a dainty and beautiful aristocrat, daughter of an American railroad magnate. In the moment of the wreck and rescue the social gulf that yawned between them is closed; but not the gulf of personalities differing as widely as the poles. Yet they are merely a man and a woman, thrown together by tragic circumstances and dependent upon each other whether they wish it or not. The working out of the professor's problem is done most fascinatingly. There is, of course, a middle ground between the two; it is not necessary for him to drag her down to his level, or for her to pull him up to her's. If they will and can, each traveling part way they can meet between. Yet has he it in him to do this? Has she? Is he too much the brute and she too much the angel? The story tells, and it wouldn't be fair to tell it here. There is no dwindling of the interest while the interesting problem is being worked out. The situation is met boldly yet delicately, strongly yet tactfully. The chances are a thousand to one they will never be rescued. They are physically normal man and woman, with bodies made sturdy and blood rich by wholesome outdoor living. They love each other, of course. There is the problem. What will be their relationship?

RACHEL LORAIN. By Mrs. Henry Dudeney. New York: Duffield & Co. $1.50.

Those who enjoy surgical dissections of emotion will revel in this story by an English writer who is popular in her own country, and is gaining considerable popularity on this side of the water. Rachel marries Francis Lorain, and on their wedding journey he is terribly injured in a railroad accident, so that he is an impotent and helpless cripple, bitter and sardonic. They live a terrible life together. She has been attracted to him by a strain of color in his character which she discovers has been acquired by association with an old friend, Patrick Rivers. Presently Rivers returns, and he and Rachel fall in love with each other. Then poor Francis dies suddenly, and Rachel is on her way to meet Rivers when she discovers a blonde woman in his doorway who informs her that if she had her rights Rivers would become her legal husband and the legal father of her child. So this second accident again destroys Rachel's happiness. Rivers marries the blonde and dies. The blonde, seeking care-free diversion, gives the child to Rachel, and in it she finds happiness. There are two comedy couples; a devoted doctor and a skittish wife ten years his senior, and Eustace and Emily Ayr, both devoted to the table. The people are all vividly outlined, and most entertainingly pictured. But it is chiefly with emotion that we had to do, and the book is full of it. We administer a cruel cut with the scalpel, and then coldly sit back and see how it works out and how the patient acts, for a page or two or three. Then another cut, and more scientific observation of how a human being acts in agony. Also, we analyze, classify, dissect, and sort out emotions and situations; we try one figure to describe an emotion for a page or two, and then devote another page or two to experimenting with another figure; we try to see how much rhetoric we can work out of a heart pang. And we get a good deal out of it, and there are many pangs.

TRUE DETECTIVE STORIES. Told by a former chief of the United States Secret Service. By A. L. Drummond. New York: G. W. Dillingham company. $1.50.

The author of this entertaining book of short stories was the head of that fascinating branch of government, the secret service, in the days when counterfeiting was more prevalent than it is now, when counterfeiters were bold and desperate men, and the business of catching them took courage, wit and resourcefulness. He had many thrilling experiences, and he tells them well. There are seventeen stories, every one vivid and full of interest. They range from the banks of the Red river, in the days following the Civil war, to Broadway of today. The biggest, brainiest criminals of half a century—both men and women—pass in review before the reader as this grizzled ex-chief of the secret service tells his tales. He has done the things he tells about, he has lived the life he relates. He makes an uncommonly interesting book out of it all.

FLYING PLOVER. By G. E. Theodore Roberts. Boston: L. C. Page & Co. $1.

In this latest book by the author of "The Red Feathers" are gathered some of the legends of Labrador that make a story very interesting to young and old alike, though the book is designed chiefly for the young. "Flying Plover" is a little Indian boy, whose parents died when he was a baby, and who for six years had lived with his grandmother, "Squat-by-the-Fire." She was deeply versed in medicine and history and story-telling and knew so much and looked so wise that many of the tribesman thought her a magician. The stories woven together in this handsome volume are the tales she told the Indian lad during the long winter evenings, about the bear, the moose and the walrus; how fire first came to the mountaineers of her country, and the story of Gluskap and his people. Each story is told to the lad as his bed-time tale, and while he gets only a chapter a night, there is nothing to prevent others from taking it all at a sitting, which they are very likely to do. The book is illustrated and decorated by Charles Livingston Bull, whose animal pictures are inimitable.

THE JESTER'S SWORD. By Annie Fellows Johnston, author of "The Little Colonel Series." Boston: L. C. Page & Co. Paper boards, 35 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

This is a pretty, moving and helpful tale of how Aldebaran, the king's son, wore the sheathed Sword of Conquest and plucked victory out of defeat and happiness out of pain by giving happiness to others. The sword had passed from sire to son through a line of stalwart kings, going always to those most worthy. Aldebaran set forth with it to encounter adventure and to do with it the bravest conquest that it had ever made. Before he had achieved his mission mishap befell him, and a storm left him maimed and impotent, unable even to lift the sword out of its sheath. It was a bitter fate, and the thought of fair Vesta, who had heard his vows, made it more bitter still. While he bemoaned his sad fate, a jester came along, a man who concealed a head full of wisdom under the fool's cap, and showed him how that in his misfortune fate had brought him the chance for courage that he had sought, and who told him that "it takes a thousandfold more courage to sheathe the sword when one is all on fire for action than to go forth against the greatest foe." So Aldebaran hides his pain beneath a jester's motley, and fights his daily battle with sorrow while he soothes the pain of others. Thus he wins his great victory, and finds greater honor in the end than he could have found otherwise. It is a dainty story, and it is printed in a dainty volume.

WHEN I AM RICH. By Roy Mason. New York: G. W. Dillingham company. $1.50.

Chester Taylor, a young college man whose father has died following a financial disaster that swept his fortune away, finds himself down on his luck. He loses his last 40 cents in a poker game, but gets from the gambler that wins it advice worth vastly more: that a bold front and "nerve" are two-thirds the battle. In this case they are about all the battle, as the story goes on to show. With most amazing effrontery, this gallant youth in rags orders expensive clothes sent to an expensive hotel, wins a silk hat on a bet from a stevedore foreman for whom he does $2 worth of work, uses the money on bath, shave and hair cut, gets a costly apartment on his nerve, wins some money on a horse race with capital borrowed from a chance friend, goes into a broker's office and pulls through some tremendous deals—in short, makes good by and in a set of most remarkable circumstances brought about by the exercise of his "nerve." It is a laughably mad and impossible fantasy of modern life, full of excitement and comedy and with a pretty love story. Taylor is a young man of resilient cheer and astonishing resource, and he meets with and carries off breezily some most astounding adventures.

Homestead, Pa., once made itself famous as the center of a great strike. Now it appears that Homestead, being not far from Pittsburg on the map and in sympathies, is the center of a fine young system of political graft. In fact, the sketch of political conditions which George Randolph Chester gives in his story, "The Making of Bobby Burnit," and which has been ridiculed in some quarters as "romantic" and "purely imaginary," so closely fits the actual state of affairs in Homestead that the editor of one of the local papers proposes to print quotations from Bobby as first-page news of the hour!

Reports from every city in the country indicate that a wider interest has been aroused by "The White Sister" than by any other of Mr. Crawford's novels published for several years. Anything from his pen has, of course, been certain, for a long time, of a warm welcome from a large army of enthusiasts, but the popular interest in his writings has varied greatly with the individual book: His many admirers will like to think that the success of "The White Sister" shows that no period of Mr. Crawford's long career as a novelist was more brilliant than its close.

Four out of five writers of successful fiction today received their training on newspapers. Few, however, have had as wide or varied a journalistic experience as Jacques Futrelle, the engaging author of "Elusive Isabel." Here is a partial list of Mr. Futrelle's wit and his unusual powers of observation: Atlanta Journal, Boston Post, New York Journal, New York Herald, Atlanta Journal again, Richmond Leader, Boston American. It was while he was working on the Boston American, that he wrote "The Thinking Machine" stories, by which, so to speak, he was yanked into fiction. "Elusive Isabel" is likely to keep him there.

In a "blurb" issued by the publishers of "The Making of Bobby Burnit," the obvious comment was made that the book possessed much of the shrewd practical business wisdom and humor of the famous "Letters of a Self-Made Merchant." Certain newspapers, not this newspaper, of course, strangely misunderstood these to mean that the same man wrote both books. George Randolph Chester was astonished to find these papers attributing to him the authorship of the letters as well as of Bobby—astonished, flattered and indignant. If ever there was a man who disliked to get the credit for something he didn't do, his name is George Randolph Chester. Besides, George Horace Lorimer, the really-truly author of the letters, is a great friend of Mr. Chester's, and publishes in his Saturday Evening Post a great many of Mr. Chester's stories. It was particularly embarrassing to Mr. Chester to be decked out in feathers wantonly removed from Mr. Lorimer's bright plumage.

There followed an exchange of letters in which each author told the other how proud he would be to have written the other's story, only, to be sure, he didn't write it, and sincerely hoped that nobody would get the impression that he did, and so, with great esteem, he was yours very faithfully. It may be added that these letters from Mr. Lorimer to Mr. Chester and from Mr. Chester to Mr. Lorimer possessed, respectively, much of the shrewd, practical business wisdom and humor of "The Letters of a Self-Made Merchant" and "The Making of Bobby Burnit."

The new novel by Mrs. Gertrude Atherton will not appear until next spring. It was at first hoped that it would be possible to publish the book in the fall, but this has been found to be impossible. The impression that Mrs. Atherton had chosen for her theme the life of a young American singer abroad was also an error. Instead, the book deals with the upper circles of the operatic and diplomatic worlds. The Macmillan company will publish it.

Among the Magazines.

Some of the features of the American Review of Reviews for August are sketches of Simon Newcomb, the astronomer, and of the late Leffert L. Buck, the engineer; an illustrated article on the government's great reclamation project, which will make available this year an immense supply of water from the Gunnison river for the Uncompahgre valley, in Colorado, by Arthur Chapman; an illustrated account, by Guy Elliott Mitchell, of the tests conducted by the geological survey at Washington for building materials, including especially the remarkable results obtained from the testing of concrete construction; a study of Lloyd-George and the British budget, by W. T. Stead; a timely review of Germany's financial condition, by Frederic Austin Ogg; a description of the practical workings of Lord Morley's reform scheme for India, by Saint Nihal Singh; and an authoritative account of the interesting experiments conducted by the department of agriculture in combating the destructive effects of the so-called "loco" weed on the Western plains, contributed by Dr. C. Dwight Marsh, who had charge of the field work, and accompanied by photographs of "locoed" animals taken by the author.

Van Norden Magazine for August has an unusually interesting list of strong, informative news-fact and adventure articles. The leading article deals with William Loeb, Jr., who as secretary to ex-President Roosevelt was the victim of the paragrapher's wit, but now as collector of the port of New York, has revolutionized a service and recovered millions of dollars from smugglers for Uncle Sam. Kathleen Adams describes the work of the Bureau of Social Service, a new idea in "helping out" those who can help themselves; A. W. Dimock tells of "Camera Miracles," and John S. Lopez, under the title of "Soldiers of the Law," describes the perilous work of the Pennsylvania States Constabulary.

Among the leading articles in the Forum for August are "The German Merchant Marine," by Edwin Maxey; "A Safe and Sane Fourth of July," by Henry Litchfield West; "The Status of Wanen or Chaldea, Egypt, India, Judea and Greece to the Time of Christ," by William Graham Sumner; "Only Americans Are Under-Languaged," by Charles C. Ayer; "Present American Poetry," by Brian Hooker.

The fiction number (August) of Scribner's magazine, presents a remarkable list of the best American and English writers — Maurice Hewlett, Edith Wharton, E. W. Hornung, F. Hopkinson Smith, Mary Cholmondeley, Katharine Holland Brown, Thomas Nelson Page and Margaret Sherwood. These writers are represented by characteristic stories showing the particular charm that has made them not only popular but highly esteemed for their excellent workmanship. The stories, most of them illustrated, are:

"Beckwith's Fairy," by Maurice Hewlett—a fantastic tale of the present day in rural England.

"The Debt," by Edith Wharton—another of the "Tales of Men," this one putting in contrast personal loyalty and the scientific spirit.

"The Romance of His Life," by Mary Cholmondeley (author of "Red Pottage")—the story of the love affair of an English "Don."

"A List to Starboard," by F. Hopkinson Smith—the thrilling tale of a brave rescue at sea.

"The Lady of the Lift," by E. W. Hornung—the amusing adventures of an unexpected episode in the life of a summer hotel in Switzerland, in the best manner of the creator of "Raffles."

"Petit Pierre," by Margaret Sherwood—another quixotic adventure of the philanthropic and amusing Mrs. Faunce.

"The Messenger," by Katharine Holland Brown—a rare story of comfort in bereavement.

If you're tired of "smug" fiction, you will like Young's Magazine for August, which offers a long array of blithe, audacious stories shrinking neither from life's brutality nor life's frivolity. "The Red-Haired Burglar," by Alicia Ramsey, is a novelette refreshingly new in plot and atmosphere, a story that will make your flesh crawl with excitement on the hottest August day. Outlined against the background of a handsome country-place with green parks, gardens and terraces flashes now and again the vision of a flaming crimson head that fills the beautiful mistress, with ungovernable horror and grips the reader likewise in its fearful vagueness. Everybody will want to help capture the carrotty burglar. Also there is a thread of up-to-date psychology running through, and a tinkling, piquant love story. "Joseph," a French translation, by Henri Lavedau, in crisply daring and laughable, an uncommonly sparkling storyette, scintillating with cleverness.

An impressive and pathetic illustration is used as the frontispiece in the August issue of The Bookkeeper. It tells the story very effectively of the last day at the office of the old accountant. The story which it illustrates, entitled "The Final Balance," by Frances Creo Steele, describes in a touching way how the old man after forty years of service, and on the last day when he was to remain with the firm, goes about caressing the old ledgers which had become part of his life, and finally laid his tired head on their covers and gave up his life with the day that was to end his employment. This article is followed by an exceedingly humorous one entitled "High Finance in Shadyville," by Edward C. Blomeyer.

A novel feature of the August Century, the midsummer holiday number, is the reproduction, in the colors of the originals, of seventeen of the Salmagundi's club's "Thumb-box Sketches"— an interesting, novel, and charming exhibition of little oil sketches, the largest of them hardly more than six by nine inches, shown in the gallery of the Salmagundi club, New York, last April. About 120 members of the club contributed over 500 pictures, which included every variety of subject, and formed literally a miniature salon.

The World's Work for August is devoted largely to the Seattle exposition and to the development of the Northwest. The articles that deal with this are C. M. Key's "A Country Ready for Capital," "The A.-Y.-P. Exposition; Henry G. Durand's "In the Land of Big Apples;" "The Future of the North Coast Cities;" " Western Types," a series of character sketches of successful Western men. Walter E. Clark, newly appointed governor of Alaska, writes of "Ten Years of Progress In Alaska." Edgar French contributes "The Re-discovery of California." E. W. Wright describes "The Oregon Deadlock," in two parts; "The Harriman Attitude" and "The Oregon View."

The Emmanuel movement has been treated by many pens and from many points of view. An article by the Rev. F. B. Hodgkins, in Putnam's for August, is a study of the whole question of the movement inaugurated by the Rev. Dr. Worcester; but it deals more particularly with the application of the Worcester method by the Rev. Lyman P. Powell, rector of St. John's church, Northampton, Mass.

Pearson's Mazagine for August contains the most illuminating statement ever made as to prohibitory liquor laws, the result of years of study and observation by the Rev. William A. Wasson, rector of Grace Episcopal church, Riverhead, L. I. This number also contains "The Moslem Answer to Christendom," by James Creelman, who is now in Asia investigating the cause of the recent massacre of 30,000 Christians in Turkey, for Pearson's Magazine.

The cover of August 10 Story Book, just out, shows a striking bathing girl diving into the breakers. The issue is replete with short snappy stories especially fitting for light summer reading. "To the Victor the Spoils," by Clinton Dangerfield, leads the magazine, and tells of the triumphs of the youth who dares to fight over power and wealth. "Butler Finds a Good Woman," by Louis J. Stellman, and "When the Light Went Out," by A. F. Bonney, are both very strong stories of the type always to be found in 10 Story Book. J. C. Plummer contributes "The Vision of Jeremiah," a story of the New Lork Ghetto, in his usual amusing vein.

In the August number of Success Magazine begins a series of little comedies of commerce under the title, "New Tales of the Road," by Charles N. Crewdson. In "She Is an Actress," Mabel Taliaferro cries out against the injustice done her profession by calling all behind the footlights "actresses." Mary Heaton Vorse, in an article called "What Women Might Do for Their Towns," points out some duties which every home-loving woman should keep in her heart. "Brer Boll Weevil," by Harris Dickson, is an article which tells of the ruin done cotton and credit by a mere bug.

Hampton's Magazine for August contains stories by Gouverneur Norris, O. Henry, Elwin Balmer and William B. MacHarg, Elmer Blaney Harris, Rex Beach, Myra Kelly, Gertrude Allen and G. W. Ogden. Among the notable articles are: "The Red Flag of Summer," by Frederic M. Laurence, M. D.; "What Eight Million Women Want," by Rheta Childe Dorr; "The Trust That Will Control All Other Trusts," by John L. Mathews; "The Negro in Politics," by Harris Dickson, and "Trapping Big Game in the Heart of Africa," by Capt. Fritz Dukuesne.

The midsummer fiction number of Harper's Magazine is full to the brim with good reading, not by any means all fiction. A two-part story by Princess Troubetzkoy (Amelie Rives) is begun, having the alluring title of "Trix and Over-the-Moon;" and the remarkable group of short stories are by Maurice Hewlett, Arthur Sherburne Hardy, Elinor Macartney Lane, Josephine Daskam Bacon, Irving Bacheller, Margaret Cameron, Eva Cannon Brooks and Alice Brown. There is an article, "Along the Great Wall of China," in which the explorer, William Edgar Geil, continues his account of that wonder of the world. Another explorer, Charles Wellington Furlong, takes the reader "Into the Unknown Land of the Onas," those southernmost people of the world, and the least civilized. W. J. Aylward gives an interesting account of a trip he made for Harper's with a fleet of barges plying on our Atlantic coast, in which a view is given of a little-known but dangerous phase of seafaring life. An article that will appeal to all lovers of Dickens describes his life in Genoa, where he wrote "David Copperfield."

There's a delicious flavor of summertime about the August Smart Set, that perennially refreshing "magazine of cleverness." Every one who has crossed the great Atlantic ferry will feel with Florida Pier the moods that inspired her remarkable story, "Mid-Sea Madness." The strange romance of the Broker and the Woman in Green, and the peculiar shipboard sensations that characterize the "third day out" and the successive stages of the passage, make a sea story of a quite unusual type. Tom Masson's "Random Notes from My Log Book," Archibald Sullivan's "The August Sea," W. H. G. Fyndham Martyn's breezy automobile story, "The Experimental Journey;" "Camilla," by Jules Eckert Goodman, where all the world's a-horseback; "My Wife and I," Charles Francis Read's glorification of the romance of middle age, and "The Templetons' Night Out," by E. Lawrence Dudley, a tale of New York's streets after midnight, are all features of peculiarly warm weather appeal. Mary Glascock's "The Mistress of Math," is a delightful idyl of summer days along the Hudson in a community of poets and students, steeped in the golden glamor of the old Greek ideals of beauty.

Hammock stories for hot days fill the pages of The Housekeeper for August. Some one of them have such startling titles as "Hatching the Serpent's Egg," by A. Gordon Ogilvie, "Seen Through the Telescope," and "The Life-Book of Uncle Jesse." "A Case of Art and the Common People," by Edmund H. Wuerpel, is the interestingly true story of St. Louis. All sorts of advice is given about managing the home in hot weather and the suggestions are valuable, economical and helpful.

The Popular Magazine for August contains fifteen stories of varied lengths, from the short story of a few thousand words to the novel, which you buy in book form for $1.50. Each story is characterized by the sole feature which all have in common—the spirit of youthfulness and vigor which is the most noteworthy American trait. Among the number are the following: "Rogues Rampant," a complete novel by Howard Fitzalan, dealing with diplomatic life at Washington, and involving the belle of the capital in an amazing adventure, in which the secret emissaries of more than one foreign country are greatly concerned. "The Martyrdom of an Oarsman," a short story by Ralph D. Paine, a brilliant New York journalist, who figures prominently in the athletic record of Yale University. Mr. Paine's story has to do with the crack Yale pitcher, who, being beguiled into rowing in an eight-oared shell, covers himself at the same time with glory and mortification. "The New Moonstone," a serial story by W. B. M. Ferguson, is an oddity in fiction.

Young readers of the August St. Nicholas are fortunate in having reproduced for them two of Frank W. Benson's paintings—"A Calm Morning" and his "Portrait of My Daughters." Benson was born in the old New England town of Salem. Boston, with its art school of the Museum of Fine Arts, was within easy reach, so there he studied, later going to Paris. In the New York Academy exhibition of 1889 he took one of the prizes, and since then scarcely a year has passed that he has not taken one or more in various cities here or in Europe. The stories and pictures and rhymes and sketches of the number are all that the offerings of a midsummer holiday number ought to be.

The August issue of the Atlantic Monthly is a midsummer number distinguished by the publication of a complete novelette entitled "Cecily." The story is by William J. Hopkins, the author of "The Clammer," which was one of the most successful short stories of recent years. Mr. Hopkins' story has the quaint philosophy and humor which characterizes all his work. There are two papers of literary appreciation on "George Meredith" and "Oliver Wendell Holmes." Annie K. Tuell writes of Meredith with an insight and enthusiasm which makes her paper conspicuous among the many estimates of Meredith now appearing. Mr. Crothers writes of Dr. Holmes with all his old-time charm, and ingeniously makes the Autocrat tell his own story and explain his own philosophy by copious quotations from his published works. Percival Lowell contributes an uncommonly readable paper on an ever-interesting subject under the title of "The Revelation of Evolution," and D. Lange's study of "The Great Tidal Wave of Bird-Life" is as interesting a bit of popular science as has been published in many a day.

The North American Review for August presents a number of timely and striking articles. "The Church and Socialism," by the Rev. Percy Stickney Grant, is a discussion of those subjects by a clergyman who has endeavored in the past year or two to bring them together. Mrs. Gilbert E. Jones contributes a pertinent article on "Some Impediments to Woman Suffrage," "Student Activities" is the subject of a readable article by Theodore Stanton. "Oliver Wendell Holmes" is the theme of a brilliant study of that writer by W. G. Ballantine. Ralph B. Larkin contributes a brief scientific article on "The Approach of Halley's Comet." "Domestic Science in the Schools and Colleges" is the title of an interesting article by Helen Sayr Gray. "John Calvin, Lawyer," is a scholarly study of that great theologian by the Rev. Henry Collin Minton.

Summer recreation days are just the time for reading a comprehensive and up-to-date sketch of the natural resources and rapid development of glorious old Georgia, which is given in the August number of the National magazine. The author has spent several months carefully studying conditions and phases of life, advancement and industry in the Empire state of the South. Over twenty pages of summer stories will be found interesting and wholesome reading on hot summer afternoons. Of course, no one is expected to read at night during August. The series of articles on the Doctor's Trust, by C. W. Miller, has commanded widespread attention, and has received the serious attention of the American Medical association at their last meeting. An appropriate contribution to the series, "The Story of a Great Nation," is the sketch by Elmer E. Brown, United States commissioner of education; it gives information of keen interest to every person having a boy or girl at school, as well as to the boys and girls themselves.

The August numbers of the Keramic Studio and the Pallette and Brush are both very instructive, and full of good ideas in china, oil and water colorings. The Studio has quite a number of well known contributors on china painting and designs by well known china artists. The colored study of a conventional plate is very alluring. The Pallette and Brush by the same publishers is full of instructions in oil and water color painting, and for the amateur and student is of great value. The notes on coloring by the different artists are highly instructive, and the correspondence column is very useful in untangling uncertainties as to the best procedure in coloring. The study for August of two children fishing is very interesting.

SOCIETY

OLD residents and the more recent ones solemnly declare that never did Duluth society ignore its social duties so completely as has been done this summer. In the olden days, so say those who bemoan the lack of formal affairs, the summer was a round of teas and receptions, card parties and dances, and individuals felt their responsibility to society at large. The club life has done away with this to a large extent. What's the use of giving parties if one meets all one's friends at any time one chooses to go to the country club or the boat club? Dinners of four or six, picnics, motoring on the country roads, or motor boating on the bay, sailing and paddling and picnics are the order of the day.

The Saturday night dances at both the country club and the boat clubhouses attract large numbers. The event of the coming week of the most importance promises to be the Venetian fete at the boat club, the annual affair which has come to be one of the most beautiful and important events of the summer. The committees have been busily planning the affair and the boats for the parade will be lighted as soon as it is dark. The Third Regiment band will play, and after the parade the band will be stationed in the center of the tennis courts for the dancing that will follow. There is talk of making this fete a municipal affair, and in the past it certainly has been beautiful and typical enough to induce every citizen to be a part of it, if he may.

One of the interesting affairs of the week was a private theatrical, which was given Wednesday evening by a number of the young people of Woodland avenue. "The Princess' Birthday" was the name of a little play given most charmingly. Miss Dorothy Seymour played the principal role and she was assisted by Virginia and Eleanor Currie and Gertrude Final. FACES ALTAR FOR THIRD TIME

MRS. HANS KINDERMANN.

Mrs. Hans Kindermann of Berlin has had a very romantic career. She was a Chicago girl, Lutie Murray. Her mother kept a boarding house on Michigan avenue, Chicago. Fifteen years ago it was reported she was engaged to marry Bert Swift, son of the millionaire packer of that city. Suddenly Chicago society was thrown into a fit by the announcement that she had broken her engagement with Bert and become engaged to his brother, Charles. She married Charles and remained his wife for nine years. She divorced him in 1903 on the ground of cruelty—especially physical violence. The divorce decree gave her alimony of $400 a month for life. While divorcing Swift, she met Arthur Hartmann, the Boston violinist and soon married him. But this marriage proved unhappy and she got another divorce. Now she has married Hans Kindermann of Berlin.

Their work has been reproduced in the foremost publications of the day, which is one of the surest tests of its excellence. Their facility in making life-size portraits has gained them a unique reputation and placed their work in a class by itself. Their skill in posing subjects, one of the most difficult branches of their work, has brought them the patronage of notable men and women all over this Northwest. A visit to their studio is equal in pleasure afforded to a trip through the most famous art galleries for it brings one in close touch with personalities of more than mere local renown. A photograph signed by Sweet is a mark of good taste on the part of the subject as well as a source of lasting satisfaction in the family circle.

WOMAN MURDERED WHILE NEIGHBORS STAND IN FEAR.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 7.—Vainly begging her murderer to spare her life, Mrs. Cassilio Soterakos, the wife of a Greek railroad restaurant keeper of McKeesport, near here, was stabbed to death early yesterday. Neighbors heard pitiful screams for mercy issuing from the bedroom of the woman, but were too frightened to investigate the matter. When the police burst in the door of the room where the death struggle occurred, no trace of the murder could be found. The authorities are searching for the woman's husband, who is said to have been jealous of the attention paid his wife on account of her beauty.

THE CHURCH WHICH HAS BEEN UNDER CONSTRUCTION FOR LAST TWO YEARS

THE WEST DULUTH BAPTIST CHURCH.

Interior finishing work on the West Duluth Baptist church is now nearing completion. This week the decorators are at work and are painting attractive designs on the walls and ceilings of the church.

The church was erected almost two years ago, but was not finished off on the interior until this summer. All meetings which have been held at the church have been conducted in the basement of the structure.

In about three weeks it is expected the congregation will be able to use the upper part. The auditorium will seat a large number and the pews have already arrived and some of them have been installed.

When all of the interior equipment has been installed, arrangements will then be made to have the church dedicated. An elaborate and impressive program will be prepared and a number of outside speakers will probably take part in the ceremonies.

Rev. Arthur J. Hoag is pastor of the church, which now has a membership of about 120. It is located on Grand avenue between Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth avenues west.

JOHN EARLY CUT OFF PENSION LIST

He Is Not a Leper and Is Not in Hospital In New York.

Washington, Aug. 7.—That John Early, who had been receiving a pension from the government as a leper, is not in the skin and cancer hospital in New York, is again alleged, this time authoritatively.

"Free as the air he breathes, Early is living in peace, comfort and happiness with his family at a beach near Brooklyn. The report that he is still a patient in the skin and cancer hospital in New York City is untrue. It was given out by physicians who want to protect Early from newspaper notoriety."

This statement was made by Acting Commissioner of Pensions Davenport today.

"Early has received his last cent from the government without working for it," said Mr. Davenport. "On June 4 he received $216 as three months' pension. He will get no more. Yesterday I served notice on him that he would be dropped from the pension rolls. He acknowledged receipt of the notice and declared he was not entitled to the money and did not want it, as he is capable of doing manual labor. If his name remained on the rolls until Sept. 4, he would receive $216, but it will be off within a day or two."

A medical examiner had been sent to New York to trace Early. His report has been made to Mr. Davenport.

The Board of Education Will Hold Its Annual Meeting.

Only One Change in the List of School Directors.

The annual meeting of the board of education will be held this evening at the board room in the Central high school.

This will be the first regular meeting since the annual election and the new directors will take their seats, officers will be elected and standing committees named.

Dr. S. H. Boyer will be the only new member of the board, the other directors named at the election having been re-elected. They are Frank A. Brewer, Darwin E. Stevens and Wilson G. Crosby.

Directors Brewer, Stevens and Boyer begin three-year terms this evening, and Mr. Crosby a one-year term. Mr. Crosby was on the board last year, having been appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of J. L. Washburn. He was elected for a year, to complete the Washburn term.

The election wrought only one change in the personel of the board, Dr. Charles L. Codding retiring. Dr. Codding has been a member of the board for many years and for several terms past has been its president. He declined, however, to be a candidate for re-election to the board this summer.

Ordinarily, the meetings of the board are held upon the last Friday of the month, but the rules prescribe that the annual meeting shall be held on the first Saturday evening in August.

MARRIED WOMEN

Every woman covets a shapely figure, and many of them deplore the loss of their girlish forms after marriage. The bearing of children is often destructive to the mother's shapeliness. All of this can be avoided by the use of Mother's Friend before baby comes, as this liniment prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of her form. Mother's Friend makes the danger of child-birth less, and carries her safely through this critical period. Thousands gratefully tell of the benefit and relief derived from the use of this remedy. Sold by druggists at $1.00 per bottle.

COAL FAMINE IS THREATENED

Movement of Fuel to the West Has Been Very Light.

Worrell Clarkson of St. Paul, head of the Clarkson Coal company of that city, and C. E. Sullivan, a large coal operator of Cleveland, registered at the Spalding today. The two fuel men are here to look over the local situation as it has a very important bearing on their business.

Mr. Clarkson stated that the movement of coal to dealers in the West was progressing very slowly and that unless some improvement was shown in the ordering of coal by dealers, there would be a congestion of traffic and a shortage of coal in the cold weather.

"The strike of 1903 taught some of the dealers in the West a lesson," said Mr. Clarkson today, "but they have been generally forgetting that sometimes distress follows slow ordering of coal. The traffic movement this year is bound to be an immense one. If the coal is not forthcoming before the heaviest part of the wheat movement sets in, there is exceedingly liable to be a congestion of traffic, which will mean that some sections of the West will suffer for lack of coal at a time when coal is most needed."

Mr. Clarkson and Mr. Sullivan visited the local docks this afternoon.

FLORAL DECORATIONS AT THE MINNESOTA STATE FAIR

The Most Impressive Single Feature Are the "Sunken Gardens."

A visit to the Minnesota state fair grounds this summer cannot fail to be of interest to the lover of floriculture, for through the system of parking which is being carried out more and more in detail each year, the grounds now present a most beautiful and impressive example of landscape gardening.

Over 20,000 plants, both flowering and of the foliage variety, have been set out by Secretary C. N. Cosgrove this year, and owing both to the constant attention and care given them as well as the ideal summer weather they now unite in making the Minnesota state fair grounds a "thing of beauty" and a joy wiil nigh perpetual.

There is no hothouse on the state fair grounds, although this improvement is contemplated for the near future, and under prevailing conditions all plants, with the exception of a few beds of perennials, are purchased each year from the greenhouses of the Twin Cities.

At the present time there are several features of the floral decorations on the state fair grounds which attract especial attention—perhaps the most showy of which are the Dutch flower beds which border the sidewalk leading to the administration building. While from an esthetic point of view perhaps not the most artistic, these beds to the lover of brilliancy in color, are a continual source of delight; filled as they are with plants whose sole aim in life seems to be to blossom, a very riot of color greets the beholder at all times. All the old-fashioned flowers are here from the gaudy geranium and stately canna, to the modest little lobelia.

"Sunken Gardens."

The "sunken gardens" lying between the terminal station and the new grandstand and exposition building, present the most impressive single floral feature on the grounds. Here, flanked by Grecian borders of foliage, are to be found beds of geraniums, asters, cockscombs, impatiens sultana, hibiscus, petunias, scarlet sage, heliotrope, and many other varieties. This group of flower beds will attract the greatest amount of attention of any single collection on the grounds this year, being the largest floral display on the grounds, and located on the line of greatest travel.

These "sunken gardens" were a new feature last year and attracted well merited attention at that time. They were then on a level with the surrounding ground, but this year, owing to the improvements made in connection with building the new grandstand, it has become a "sunken garden" in fact as well as name, and will add materially to the beauty and effect of the approach to the state fair's newest and most imposing structure.

The famous star and crescent of phlox and geraniums are to be found just west of the Agricultural-Horticultural building, while to the south are immense beds of rudbeckia, more familiarly known as golden glow, and a bed of bear grass which seems to struggle under a misnomer for the flowers resemble the tropical Spanish bayonet and have more the appearance of belonging to the lily family.

Although the casual visitor to the state fair grounds will find much of beauty in that section nearest Langford avenue, which is most frequently visited, he will do wise if he journeys up the slope to "Machinery hill," which is rapidly becoming one of the most beautiful as well as most popular portions of the state fair grounds. Here the recently created "Crescent park" has been made brilliant with a large bed of cannas, and there are acres of shrubbery about the dairy, poultry and new machinery buildings, which, though recently set out, already give promise of adding materially to the beauty of that section of the grounds. Among the shrubs which are thriving are the familiar snowball and syringa, as well as the more rare Japanese rosebush and the Anthony Waterer spirea.

Many Varieties of Shrubs.

In fact, shrubbery is given almost as much prominence as flowers on the state fair grounds. Between the main building and the Snelling avenue gate are to be found many varieties, including the lilac, buffalo berry and high bush cranberry.

The floral decorations about the New England building and the St. Louis exposition building, which latter is the newspaper headquarters for the state fair, are of especial merit. These beds consist largely of geraniums bordered with foliage plants of various kinds.

In the matter of flowering plants, it has been the aim of the secretary to perfect a scheme whereby some of the plants and shrubs will be flowering at all times during the summer and fall seasons and when this plan is fully carried out, the Minnesota state fair grounds will be more than ever one of the show places of St. Paul during all the warmer months. There is much of beauty there at the present time and it is a beauty seldom recognized and appreciated by the people of St. Paul, but any one who cares for flowers will find a day there well spent in studying the plans now in their beginning, which contemplate the creation of a park second to none in the Northwest.

Not the least important feature in this general scheme of landscape gardening is that portion of the plan which embraces the opening to the new lagoon section. This, with its chain of lakes extending from the new grandstand and exposition building to Raymond avenue, will be virtually bisected by Como boulevard, which, continued through the state fair grounds, past the new grandstand and along the new waterway, will constitute one of the most charming routes from St. Paul through Como park to the state agricultural college, the state university and Minneapolis.

For the present, Secretary Cosgrove has done much, for the future he is doing more—for the opening of the fiftieth annual state fair Sept. 6 he has completed a scheme of decoration which will make the state fair grounds one of the choice beauty spots of the Twin Cities.

SOCIALISM AND REVOLUTION

We Socialists are accused of being revolutionists, that we advocate the overthrow of the present system without regard to present rights and privileges, etc. The writer has no desire to equivocate and no intention to evade the issue and consequently pleads guilty to be one of those who strive for the abolition of special privilege in all forms.

We would abolish rent, interest and profit, yes, likewise inheritance "rights" in all things that are of a social nature and requisite for the welfare of society. That which society has conferred, either as a privilege or a social right, society has the right to recall and repossess, especially so when the cause is one that pertains to the welfare of all the people. This necessarily includes the specially privileged previous possessors up to that time. We Socialists have no desire to be misinterpreted or misunderstood. We hold that the present system (economic) must be overthrown root and branch, that there can be no compromise between exploiters and exploited, that there is just one alternative and only one, and that is, the total annihilation of all so-called rights, legalized today, that sanctify and benefit but an infinitestimal fraction of human society who are enabled to luxuriate and revel and feast at the expense of and to the detriment of the great mass of mankind.

Such a condition of affairs is neither just, moral, ethical, nor conducive to the elevation of the human race. If this is civilization then the sooner we grow out of it the better it will be for all concerned. God has certainly not intended that the many shall serve so that the few may enjoy. Fancy in your mind what kind of a father one would be who would condemn nine of his children to do all the hard work and for all futurity, for the especial advantage of his tenth child. The question answers itself. Man's ignorance of the laws of God and nature has brought about his enslavement. Man and not God is therefore to blame for all the economic ills that afflict humanity. Is it not about time to wake up? We Socialists think so and are therefore doing our share to help bring about the change which no man can say, who knows anything about our ideas, will be for the worse and certainly must prove to be for the better. Of course it will require a revolution, but revolution does not always necessitate blood-letting nor man-killing.

Today we are training many of the young to be "patriotic," to know how to shoot to kill other men. That is all that our armies and navies are intended for, shoot, shoot, shoot, kill, kill, kill, "give them hell," and even many of the shooters who in their heat of patriotism forget self and reason and become carnal beasts, end up in an unnamed grave, and this we call civilization. Is it not about time that we get cooled off and review our life's task? The battle of the ballots can prove more effective than the battle of the guns. We Socialists think so anyhow.

The change is imminent; it is not far off; one need only put his ear to the ground to detect the rumbling of the thunder storm that is fast approaching. "Church and state locked horns in France," "Italy being fast depopulated of her young men," "revolution in Turkey," "Japan fast outstripping the United States in conquest for world's markets," "general strike in France," "talk of general strike in Sweden," "Russia a seething caldron of discontent," "general unrest in Portugal," "throne toppling in Spain"—are these extracts from newspaper reports not of a nature that prove the times to be ripe for a change? Will the change be of a peaceful nature? That depends. If the people have become sufficiently awakened to their needs and their necessities, and to understand their powers and be willing to exercise their energies, they can accomplish the revolution legally and without much friction. All that is necessary is a change of title to ownership, not even a change of possession, for the workers of the nation are today in possession, though they do not own. The mines, mills, factories, railroads, all are now in the hands of the workers in the industries. Once the workers wake up to the fact that producing for themselves, and retaining the product for themselves, would make of them real citizens and owners of the country, the doom of capitalism is sealed, and the dawn of Socialism will be realized.

Why worry about "revolution?" Did the fathers of this republic concern themselves very much as to how they got rid of King George? They wanted to be free, they objected to being perpetually robbed of the fruits of their toil, and they rebelled against that kind of tyranny and exploitation. Were they wrong? If the colonists were wrong, then we Socialists are wrong, but if the colonists were right, so also are we Socialists right, and if we are right then it behooves every well wisher and every lover of country and of home to join hands with us in this struggle for the economic emancipation of mankind. Let the watch word be "Onward, brothers, forward."

The nation belongs as a heritage to the wealth producers thereof. No more wage-slaves, no more masters. No more conflicts between capital and labor. Every worker an employer, and every employer a worker. Brotherhood, co-operation, equality, is worthy the aspiration of all thinking men and women. "A beautiful dream?" Perhaps, but the people are fast waking up. A few more strikes and lockouts and a little more time for some of us to reason out why prices of foodstuffs go higher while wages are on the down grade and jobs getting scarcer. There is a limit even to human endurance, and as "even a worm will turn" in self defense we need have no fear of the working class taking a turn at the wheel when they get ready. The handwriting is plainly perceptible on the wall.

good results already obtained it is not improbable that a regular production will be had within another year.

Copper Range.

There is little to report concerning the operations of the Copper Range Consolidated companies, and aside from a turn for the better noted in the Trimountain several months ago and which betterment continues to hold nothing else materially effecting the properties has developed. A condition that is not exactly an improvement, though none the less important is noted in drifts south from "E" shaft in the Champion, where several are in considerably over 1,000 feet in first-class copper ground. The territory which these drifts are developing will eventually be tapped by a new shoft, timber for which is already on the ground. Operations in the Baltic continue to produce average results and with no appreciable change from conditions noted in the past. Both Champion and Baltic are maintaining a steady output of rock and are milling between 67,000 and 70,000 tons monthly, the yield of the rock from the former fluctuating from nineteen pounds to twenty-six pounds fine copper per ton of rock stamped and that from the latter holding between twenty-one pounds and twenty-five pounds per ton of rock stamped. The Trimountain is milling around 28,000 and securing an average yield of between sixteen and eighteen pounds fine copper per ton of rock. Though the improvement in Trimountain is probably more marked in the territory commanded by the Nos. 2 and 3 shafts, the showing obtaining in the northerly, or No. 4 shaft at and below the eleventh level is easily the best had in this mine and compares most favorably with many of the best stretches of copper ground opened in either Baltic or Champion.

THE GIROUX CONSOLIDATED

company's plans in regard to reduction facilities. Now that it seems that another great reduction plant is to be erected in the Ely district and that the Giroux people believe their estate is of a character to warrant a plant of 10,000 daily capacity, it begins to appear that there has been no mistake with respect to the public's estimate of the controlling interest's opinion of this property.

Indications now are that the Cole-Ryan syndicate proposes to make Salt Lake City general Western headquarters. This was foreshadowed recently, when the offices of the Giroux were moved from Ely to the Utah metropolis and merged with those of the International Smelting & Refining company on the top floor of the Dooly block, in the suite formerly occupied by Samuel Newhouse. The transfer of the clerical force from Ely will take place as soon as the offices are furnished and fitted for the new occupants. The direction of the company will remain in New York, but all Western matters will be handled from these offices.

Giroux ores are of very considerable higher grade than those of Nevada Consolidated. The latter is making a saving now of forty pounds of copper for every ton of ore put through the concentrator. Giroux ores on an average would probably show a saving of from sixty to seventy pounds of copper which with a plant of 10,000 tons daily capacity, would mean that the Cole-Ryan syndicate is aiming at an ultimate production from this mine at the rate of some 600,000 or 700,000 pounds of copper per day, or around 175,000,000 pounds a year.

Churn drill operations are being pushed day and night on the territory lying to the east of the Giroux shaft. Six drills are at work, the extreme limit of their operations being nearly 3,000 feet east of the Giroux shaft. At the farthest point to the eastward the drill encountered 3 per cent ore at a depth of 100 feet, and the ore body had been penetrated yesterday to a depth of ninety feet. The ore is of identically the same character as that found in the immediate vicinity of the Giroux shaft, and developments practically prove the ore deposit to be at least 3,000 feet in length, varying in width from 300 to 500 feet. One hole, situated about 1,000 feet east of the shaft, developed 190 feet of 7 per cent ore, lying less than seventy feet below the surface. The ore throughout this immeuse area varies from 100 to 220 feet in thickness and averages better than 3 per cent copper, carrying from 60 cents to $1.20 in gold to the ton. At the new Alpha shaft the work of raising from the 1,000 and 700 levels is being pushed with three shifts and rapid progress is being made.

Cured Hay Fever and Summer Cold.

"A. S. Nusbaum, Batesville, Ind., writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case, and I took several medicines which seemed only to aggravate it. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar. It quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success." For sale by all druggists.

MOBILIZING "EMPTIES"

Railroads Fighting to Keep the Enormous Wheat Crop Moving.

The Battle With the Wheat Is Now in Full Tide.

Few realize what the railroads of the Northwest are doing in the way of preparation for the handling of perhaps the greatest crop that the arteries of traffic of the great NNorthwest have ever been called upon to handle. Few realize the details and plans that go with the preparing of a railroad for a great rush of traffic.

For instance, every local office in Duluth has received instructions as to certain destinations where cars are to be sent. Already the mobilization of the great army of "empties" has begun.

Today cars are being sent from the Lake Superior division of the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific to various points of the company's lines in North Dakota and Minnesota. These cars are being sent there to handle the great flood of golden wheat that will, within a few short days, come pouring into the terminals of the two railroads at Duluth and Minneapolis.

Yesterday in The Herald was published a statement from James J. Hill, in which the railroad magnate gave it as his opinion that 60,000,000 bushels of wheat would come to the Head of the Lakes over the Great Northern. Few realize what that means to the railway employes of the Lake Superior division and to the employes of the Great Northern at all points of the line.

Many of the details of the wheat movement are planned in the general operating office of the two railroads. Nevertheless there is a wealth of detail that must fall on the shoulders of the two railroads.

At the present time the terminals of the two roads are being made ready to receive the immense amount of traffic. As fast as possible coal is being sent into the distributing districts so that all cars may be free for the wheat movement. Dealers in the country are being urged to order coal early, because of the congestion of traffic that is bound to come with the immense wheat movement.

The movements of cars are being checked with an eagle-eyed accuracy that would surprise one not familiar with details of railroading. Cars are being called in from foreign lines as fast as possible, and tracers are being the Lake Superior superintendents of sent out through the country in search of cars that have gone far from the home lines.

Cars are being sent from the Head of the Lakes to waiting stations in North Dakota. These cars will soon return to the Head of the Lakes filled with the golden grain. Every detail in connection with the prompt and efficient transfer of cars at the Head of the Lakes terminals is being attended to with the same thoroughness that a general looks over the ground before a great battle.

It is indeed a battle; a battle of the railroads to haul quickly and without delay the grain of the Northwest. The railroad men of the Northwest believe there will be enough cars to move the crop without delay, yet they realize that it will require perfection of detail, delays at great terminal points, and quick return of empties. All these details are being perfected now in the general offices and in the division offices of the railroads of the Northwest.

In the shops of the various railroad companies of the West the stage of preparation has passed to the final period. Practically every available car has been overhauled and made ready for the battle of the traffic lines. New cars have been turned out in many of the shops of the Western railroads. New cars have been purchased in the East and brought West and set up. No detail has been overlooked that will increase the efficiency of the railroads in the moving of the heavy crop.

The Head of the Lakes will receive probably the greatest wheat crop in the history of Northwestern railroading.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy Never Known to Fail.

"I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy since it was first introduced to the public in 1872, and have never found one instance where a cure was not speedily effected by its use. I have been a commercial traveler for eighteen years, and never start out on a trip without this, my faithful friend," says H. S. Nichols of Oakland, Ind. Ter. For sale by all druggists.

TRADE REVIVAL IS CONFIRMED, SAYS DUN

New York, Aug. 7.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade today says:

Every important development of the week confirms the revival of trade, which set in with the tariff under discussion and which as no vital obstacle to oppose it now that the tariff bill has passed congress and has become a law. A keener interest is manifested in the iron and steel market each succeeding week. Buyers are operating with greater freedom and producing interests displayed more independence in making commitments. Higher totals of pig iron production and other evidences of rapid expansion appear. Numerous inquiries have been received for orders running into 1910, but little actual business has been done, as sellers in many instances name figures above the views of consumers. The expected advance on plates and shapes was announced, the ruling prices now being $1.40 Pittsburg. This reflects the broadened demand for cars and other equipment on prominent railway contracting for 8,000 cars, while many others have orders pending.

Dry goods jobbing trade is expanding and among large Western distributers collections are excellent and credit conditions sound. The retail trade is beginning to come to the markets at the central distributing points, but operations thus far have been conservative. The primary cotton goods and cotton yarn markets have been unsettled by the fluctuating values in the raw cotton market following a low condition report by the government. The demand for men's wear for spring continues to be large and there is still a good call for fall fabrics. The largest mills are fully supplied with business.

The market for hides and leather is still unsettled, owing to price readjustments to the new tariff bill admitting hides free of duty.

Foreign hides have advanced 10 per cent or more and domestic dry hides declined less than 5 per cent. The leather market continues very weak. Trade in shoes continues moderate and most of the buyers who were in Boston have bought fewer shoes than they intended, and have delayed the placing of orders for later delivery until it is more certain what effect the changed duties on hides, leather and shoes will have on the market.

DULUTH GRAIN BUYER PREDICTS GREAT CROP.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. E. McWaters, who was a resident of Crookston for twelve years, but who has been located at Auburn, N. D., for the past few years as wheat buyer for the Duluth Elevator company, spent yesterday in the city.

He states that last Saturday a hail storm struck the section north of Auburn, knocking out about one-third of the grain tributary to Auburn, which will cut the average yield down to about twelve bushels per acre. The crop untouched he says is fine. He also stated that he had not seen such crops as are in evidence about this section of the country, for many years past.

"EFFICIENCY PROBE" COSTS OFFICIAL HEADS.

Washington, Aug. 6.—Another great upheaval has occurred in the personnel of the department of commerce and labor, as the result of a probe into the efficiency record of employes in that department. The official ax fell heavily upon employes in the immigration service, where considerable inefficiency was shown to have existed. It has been directed that a number of such employes in this branch of the service be dismissed, and a number of others are slated to go. In the same service a number of employes have been allowed to resign, others have been reduced, and still others bluntly disciplined. There are still a number of others whose cases yet remain to be acted upon.

MUST MARRY BEFORE THEY CAN ENTER COUNTRY.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Emil Maurer and Gretchen Sepilt, a young German couple, who were held up by the immigration officials at New York because they were traveling as man and wife, although not married, will be admitted to this country provided they get married at Ellis Island.

The two young people claimed that they could not get married secretly in Germany and that it was their intention to have the ceremony performed as soon as they arrived in New York. Both were well provided with funds and appeared to be above the average of intelligence among immigrants.

MANY DEALS PENDING, BUT FEW ARE CLOSED

Real Estate Market Is Firm, But No Large Transfers Are Reported---Good Demand for Acreage---Residence Property Also Much Sought After.

One must get a telescope to see things in the real estate market this week. Everything is in the air. Deals are pending in plenty, but they are not closed and around the unclosed deal, the real estate man throws a voluminous cloak of secrecy that would put the sheath gown and the seatless gown to shame.

There certainly are deals in the air, for the real estate men wear smiles that fairly exude optimism.

The movement in acreage that was noticeable last week is making itself felt. There is an insistent demand for acreage near the city in large and small tracts. Those interested in the movement are offering unprecedented prices for tracts adjoining the city limits, but the movement does not take tangible form because the owners are holding tight and refuse to be wheedled out of their deeds at any price. Acreage near the city is valuable and most of the owners seem to realize the fact. They are holding on with tenacious grasp and the movement for the acquiring of large acreage holdings reaches little farther than the inquiry stage

The bulk of the movement in the real estate market today is made up of residence lots. The home building germ that is always active, seems to have struck an unprecedented number of people. Lots in West Duluth, West end, Duluth Heights, Lester Park, Lakeside, Woodland and Park Point are in demand, and the most desirable of them are commanding good prices. The rent payers are rebelling, for rents are high in Duluth, and the man with a few hundred dollars can set about building a house on small monthly payments and substitute the payments on his own property for the rentals that he is paying others. The plan has an alluring aspect, and many heads of families are doing tall figuring and reaching the conclusion that they may as well own as rent.

A form of investment that is attracting many people in Duluth lately is the apartment house. Scores have been built this season. Others are in course of construction and still more are in architects' hands. There is a demand for houses of all kinds, and especially flats. Apartments may be rented at almost any price, unless it is altogether beyond reason, and the man with a few thousands of dollars to spare cannot find a better form of investment than the apartment house, which will return him a comfortable percentage on his money.

There is very little doing in business property, either in transfer of buildings already erected or in the erection of new buildings. The architects say they have plans for a few new buildings on their tables, but they are not in such shape that announcement can be made of them. It is understood that the work of construction on several buildings will be begun this season.

COMFORTABLE HOME OF EIGHT ROOMS WHICH WOULD COST $3,600

ANTHONY PUCK ARCHITECT.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN — SECOND FLOOR PLAN

The above illustration shows a home of eight rooms of simple and well proportioned design. The general effect of the exterior is that of a one-story cottage, but the construction is such that there is ample space in the second story for the arrangement of rooms shown on the plan. With its easy construction and plain finish a home as above suggested would be inexpensive to build considering the abundance of room provided.

The entrance from the vestibule directly into the large L-shaped living room, would give one the impression of hospitality. The living room and dining room are most effectively arranged. In the service portion of the house is seen a most compact and complete arrangement. The unusual arrangement of the staircase and location of the servant's room on the first floor make a separate rear staircase unnecessary. The arrangement makes it possible to effectively shut off the service portion of the house from the family rooms.

In the second story are located four good bedrooms with abundance of closet space, and a large bathroom. The large hall with stairs ascending directly to it, is a good feature of this plan. Taken as a whole this is an unusually compact, convenient, and practical plan.

A home as above illustrated and described, would cost to build in Duluth or vicinity, including heating and plumbing, $3,600.

PAYNE LAW IS WORKING WELL

Customs Collectors Report That Everything Is Going Along Smoothly.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Information received at the treasury from New York city, Boston and Philadelphia, indicates that the new tariff law is working unexpectedly smoothly.

Generally, at the beginning of the operation of a new tariff law, matters in the big custom houses are "at sixes and sevens" for a few days, but no confusion yet has manifested itself in the administration of the Payne law, it is said by treasury officials. This is accounted for by reason of the new laws having been constructed on the general lines of the Dingley act, although the figures differ.

In anticipation of the enactment of the new law, general instructions were sent by the treasury department two weeks ago to collectors of customs at the various ports of the United States. The collectors were directed pending the arrival in their offices of official copies of the new law, to collect the duties under the old law on estimates, but not to liquidate any entries until they had the new law before them.

Law Is In Operation.

By the opening of business this morning the collectors at practically all the ports had received official copies of the Payne act. They therefore began the liquidation of entries. The ports on the Pacific coast will not receive their copies for nearly a week, and it will be nearly two weeks before the ports in the Hawaiian Islands get the law in official form.

Approximately two-thirds of all the customs dues received by the government are taken in at the port of New York. The next largest ports are Boston and Philadelphia. In all there are about 150 ports of the United States at which duties are collected.

PRETENDER WILL MARRY PRINCESS

Kaiser Has Consented to Relative's Union With Don Jaime.

Paris, Aug. 7.—A special dispatch received here from Madrid says that Don Jaime, the pretender to the Spanish throne, shortly will marry a princess of the imperial German family. Emperor William has consetned to the union.

A dispatch to La Liberte from Melilla, Morocco, says the position of the Spanish is precarious. Every day the Moors have cut the communications between Melilla and the outposts, and since July 29 the Spaniards have lost fifty men killed and 150 wounded in re-establishing their means of communication. The Moors, on Aug. 4, captured a patrol of fifty Spaniards.

Moors Torture Prisoners.

Lisbon, Aug. 7.—The Secoli's Melilla correspondent says that the Spaniards have lost 500 men killed and 1,200 wounded in the last three days of fighting with the Moorish tribesmen, anad that thirty-five officers and 150 men have fallen into the hands of the Moors, who tortured them before putting them to death.

MAY NAME FIVE ON TARIFF BOARD

President Has Not Yet Selected Commissioners Provided for By Law.

Washington, Aug. 7.—It was said authoritatively at the treasury department today that the board of tariff experts to be appointed by the president might consist of five men instead of three. It was pointed out that the number was discretionary with President Taft.

Thus far no member of the board has been selected. Several available men have been suggested. Secretary MacVeagh of the treasury department is giving consideration to the appointments, and expects to confer with the president in the near future.

SOUTH SHORE SHOPS RUNNING FULL TIME.

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The general shops of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad, which are located at this point, have been put on full time. The men in all departments are now working ten hours daily. The shops had been operating but part time since late in the year 1907, following the panic, when raailroads all over the country made drastic curtailments. The increase in the shipments of ore from the iron mines served by the South Shore road has been a big factor in causing the shops to be restored to a full working basis. The wages of the laborers employed on the ore docks have been increased from $1.90 to $2 a day.

MARINE

WIRELESS FOR DULUTH

Agent Says Station Will Be Working in Thirty Days.

Lake Superior Will Be Fully Covered By Next Year.

F. G. Moe, representing the United Wireless Telegraph company, who is in the city today from the East, says that Duluth will have a wireless telegraph station in full operation within the next thirty days, and that before the end of the year Lake Superior, and practically all the big boats operating on it, will be thoroughly covered with the system. Stations will be built at Port Arthur, Grand Marais, Ashland, Calumet and other ports along the lake. The Duluth station will have a range of 1,000 miles, so it will be in communication with Chicago.

Mr. Moe, in company with Mayor Haven and C. E. Van Bergen of the Duluth-Edison Electric company, drove to the top of the hill today, and Mr. Moe closed a deal for leasing a site for his station on the hill top directly north of the end of Lake avenue. Towers for the building are now in the city, and the contract has been let, Mr. Moe claims, for putting them up. He says work on the station will be started next Monday. The tower at Calumet is about half completed, he says.

Mr. Moe claims that when the system is complete a boat equipped with wireless will at all times be within reach of one or more stations while on Lake Superior, so that constant communication may be kept up with men on the land.

WRITES VERSE ON EVE OF CRIME

Metrical Message Is Left By the White Bear Bank Robber.

St. Paul, Aug. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Good bye, Sing Sing.

I am far away from you.

I killed my father with a knife.

And drowned my mother, too.

Tomorrow I'll be a long ways from you."

That is one of the messages said to have been written by Robert Pohl, the White Bear bank robber, the evening before he made his raid on the bank which resulted in the fatal man-hunt.

Pohl is said to have been seen in the building where he was working the evening before the robbery, and yesterday afternoon a board was found there on which were written three messages in Polish. The above is a translation of one of the messages. The other two could not be deciphered. The board is now in the possession of President Shenk of the bank.

It appears to be well established that Pohl wrote the messages, but as to whether it was only in a spirit of bravado is not known.

"SICK" BROKER NOT IN SANITARIUM

Louisville Firm Suspends, But Head Member is Not Located.

Louisville, Ky., Aug 7.—The suspension of the stock and grain brokerage firm of J. M. Sharp & Co. was announced today. The suspension is said to be the result of the physical disability of Mr. Sharp, who left Louisville last Saturday and was reported to have gone to a sanitarium in Rochester, Minn. It developed, however, that Mr. Sharp is not at the sanitarium. A telegram received here said he was not there and had not been there. A statement of the firm's condition is expected later.

JOHN BULL BACKS JAPS

Defiance of China is Held by London to be Justified.

Railroad Line in Question is Chiefly Valuable for Military Reasons.

London, Aug. 7.—The decision reached by Japan regarding the construction of the Antung-Mukden railroad in spite of the objections of China, is generally considered here to be justified. Before taking the step, Japan consulted Great Britain and the other powers with whom Japan's relations are close.

Great Britain, while regretting that her ally found it necessary to defy China, agreed that Japan had no alternative. There has been no endeavor to deny that this line is mainly of military importance, but as one diplomat put it today:

"Japan would be more than human if she did not avail herself of her treaty rights, especially as those are one of the few solid compensations for the heavy sacrifices of her war with Russia."

The South Manchurian Railroad company, which on account of the large subsidies it receives from the government has been compelled to rebuild its line, is not altogether pleased with this decision, as the undertaking involves the company in large expenditures and will divert a part of the company's traffic from Dalny to Fusan.

Turkey Demands Action.

Constantinople, Aug. 7.—The Porte has sent a note to Greece demanding a formal declaration by that country of non-interference in Cretan affairs. In the event of a refusal to accede to the demand, Turkey will break off diplomatic relations with Greece.

Serious Trouble Likely.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Apprehension of serious trouble between Turkey and Greece is conveyed in a telegram received by the state department yesterday from Athens. The Macedonian and Cretan situation is referred to in the communication as very grave.

SCOTS' PICNIC AT FOND DU LAC

Twenty-First Annual Outing to Be Held Thursday, Aug. 12.

The twenty-first annual picnic of the Clan Stewart No. 50, O. S. C., will be held this year at Fond du Lac, Thursday, Aug. 12.

The Scots will go up the river on the steamer Newsboy and spend the day under the trees at this quaint old point.

An orchestra has been secured to furnish music; there will be bagpipe playing and Highland dancing, as well as a program of sports.

The clan has been organized in Duluth for twenty-one years. Each year they get together for an annual picnic, as well as many informal gatherings during the year.

The features of the sport program are a tug-of-war between the married and unmarried Scots, and a fat man's race, in which Judge Cutting, "Paddy" McDonnell, Alex McKnight, Judge Windom, John Gonska and a number of others have promised to enter. The prize in this event is a pair of rubber heels.

Judge Windom has offered for a prize in the 100-yard dash a Rhode Island red rooster, on the condition that the clansmen keep away from his chicken coop while on pleasure bent, in Fond du Lac.

There are many other features that the entertainment committee has secured, and the twenty-first annual promises to be an enjoyable event.

The program follows:

Running high jump.
100-yard dash, open.
Running broad jump.
Running hop, step and jump.
Pole vault.
Standing high jump.
Married ladies' race.

BOY KILLED MOWING.

Struck By Lightning, His Brother Escaping After Being Stunned.

Stephen, Minn., Aug. 7.—(Special to the Herald.)—Two sons of Thomas McKibben, a farmer living near here, were struck by lightning while driving mowing machines, one behind the other. The boy on the forward machine, aged 14, was instantly killed, while the other escaped after being severely stunned.

The 11-year-old son of Carl Swenson near Badger, was caught by the heel in a mower and a brother succeeded in stopping the team barely in time to save the foot from being severed.

SESSION IS UNEVENTFUL

Little Trading in Duluth Market---Wheat Quiet and Weak.

Some Reports of Premature Ripening---Flax Is Lower.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 7.—The short session of the market today was uneventful, there being little change in values in any of the American markets and no news of marked effect. Trading was light at yesterday's prevailing prices, and the close was a little off in most markets on account of the sagging tendency.

There was some talk in Duluth of reported premature ripening of crops, but the rumors were given little credence and had no appreciable effect on the market. The market appears to be rather feverish, owing to a large short interest.

The September option was unchanged in Duluth, ⅛c off in Chicago, ⅛c off in Minneapolis, ¼c up in New York, unchanged in St. Louis, ¼-¾c up in Kansas City and ⅜c up in Winnipeg. The December option was unchanged in Duluth, ¼c off in Chicago, ⅛c off in Minneapolis, ⅛c up in New York, ⅛-¼c off in St. Louis, 0-⅛c off in Kansas City and ½c up in Winnipeg.

Wheat was steady in Liverpool at ⅛@¼d higher. Corn was steady at ¼d higher. Cables on wheat were ⅛@¼d higher. The reports from the Northwest continue promising. The government report will be out Monday, and in view of that fact, the market was nervous today.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "There was a firm opening. Wheat values were ½@¾d higher. Support resulted from the late steadiness in the American cables yesterday and active covering by shorts on the higher American and Canadian offerings and good buying by large houses here. Following the opening and during the morning the market was under selling pressure and values declined ¼@⅝d, with the principal weakness in September on talk of larger shipments from Russia and weakness of French country markets. At this time the market was steady and values ⅛@¼d higher than yesterday."

Car receipts of wheat at Duluth were 14 against 26 last year. Chicago received 300 against 193 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 1,413,000 bu., last year 745,000 bu. Shipments 76,000 bu., last year 483,000 bu. Clearances of wheat and flour were 144,000 bu. Primary receipts of corn were 510,000 bu., last year 286,000 bu. Shipments 543,000 bu., last year 193,000 bu. Clearances of corn were none.

Minneapolis puts were 98⅜@98⅞c, and calls $1.01.

Trading was quiet in both wheat and flax on the local floor. Prices held up in the lull and there was little change at any time from yesterday's closing prices. September wheat opened ⅛c up at $1.00⅝, dropped to $1.00½, advanced to $1.00⅝, then to $1.01 and fell off at the close to $1.00⅝. December wheat opened ⅛c up at 97⅞c and closed at 98c asked.

September flax opened unchanged at $1.36, fell off to $1.35½ and advanced again to $1.36. October flax opened ¼c off at $1.32¾, fell off to $1.31¾, advanced to $1.32⅞, then to $1.32½, and closed at that figure. November flax opened ¼c off at $1.32¾, dropped off to $1.32, advanced to $1.32⅜ and then advanced to $1.32½, where it closed.

Durum was 2c off and oats were unchanged. Rye was 1c off at 64@66c and cash wheat was $1.28. The stocks of old wheat are almost entirely cleaned out, and the cash grain holds very firm.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Bulge in Course Grains Starts Wheat Off Firm.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Owing to a bulge in coarse grains wheat displayed moderate firmness today at the start, but sentiment soon became bearish because of continued favorable weather in the Northwest. The market was also affected by liberal local receipts, the arrivals today being nearly 100 cars in excess of the estimated amount. September opened ⅛c lower to ¼c higher at 99¾@$1.00⅛, advanced to $1.00¼ and then sold off to 99⅝c.

The market rallied again toward the middle of the day on buying by shorts brought out by the strength of corn. September advanced to $1.00⅝. The close was easy, with September ⅛c higher at $1. December, which sold up to 98½c, closed ¼c lower at 97¾c.

Hot weather in the corn belt caused a sharp bulge in corn prices at the start. There was an active general demand. Offerings were limited. Later the offerings became more liberal, and prices receded a trifle. September opened ¼@⅜c to ⅝@¾c higher at 64@61¾c and sold off to 63¾c.

The market was strong all day. For September the high point was reached at 64½c. The close was firm, with September up ½c at 64⅛@64¼c.

Covering by shorts caused a firm opening in the oats market and for a time a strong tone prevailed. Prices at the start were a shade to ½c higher, September being at 36¾@37c. September advanced early to 37⅜.

Trade in provisions was quiet. The market early was inclined to be weak. Prices at the opening were 2½c higher to 2½c lower.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Opens Strong, But the September Option Weakens.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 7.—Local elevator stocks of wheat now are 1,564,795 bu, decreasing 567,515 bu for the past week, as compared with a falling off of 585,691 bu the previous week.

The opening was strong, but after much stubborness September finally sold ⅝c lower at the close. News from the spring wheat country was generally favorable. Minneapolis today received 86 cars of wheat against 62 a year ago, Duluth 14 against 26 and Winnipeg 23 against 22. September opened $1.00¾; high, $1.00¾@1.00⅞; low, 99⅜@99½c; closed, 99⅝c. December opened 98¼c; high, 98¼c; low, 97¼c; closed 97⅞@97½c. May opened $1.00⅝; high, $1.02; low, $1.01⅜; closed, $1.01½.

Cash wheat was about steady with yesterday. Demand was good for the light spring wheat offerings, but the inquiry for winter wheat was very light. Barley—Receipts, 11 cars against 19 a year ago; shipments, 15. The majority of the offerings was new crop barley. Prices were steady to 1c higher for the choice stuff. Closing ranfe, 43@56c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 11,113 tons. There was no change in the market today. Shipments were heavier, demand fair and prices unchanged. Bran in 100-pound sacks, $20.50.

Shipments were heavier, 47,992 barrels, and prices unchanged. First patents, $5.90@6.10; second patents, $5.80@6.00; first clears, $4.95@5.25; second clears, $3.35@3.50.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 7.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Since the establishment of this market there has never been such a demand for big, young draft horses as there has been the past week. Dealers have doubled their number of buyers, who have just about consigned in sufficient horses to meet the demand. Several carloads of big horses will arrive over Sunday, which dealers expect to move the first of the week. While other markets report a slow demand, this market has had the business. Railroad contractors and lumbermen know from experience that the Northwest raises the most hardy, healthy horses in the world and will buy no others. Lumbermen are getting into the market unusually early and have placed heavy orders. Shipments were made to Ashland and Mellen, Wis., Cloquet, Bena and Duluth, Minn.; Mandan, N. D., and Glendive and Culbertson, Mont. On account of the "bumper crop" the horse raiser will need his horses and will not need the money they bring, which will result in horses being fully $50 per head higher this fall.

KINGFISH SURPRISED CAMPERS.

St. Petersburg Times: A singular incident occurred one day last week at Johns Pass. Mr. and Mrs. Homer M. Mohr of Lealman and a friend were camping there. While Mr. Mohr was cooking dinner a big kingfish jumped out of the water onto the beach, nearly upsetting a kettle which was on the fire. All made a grab for it and took it up to a higher place on the beach to prevent its escape. The kingfish was four feet long and weighed a little over fifty pounds. There is no reason to doubt the story, for Mr. Mohr took the fish home and he and his friends feasted on kingfish steak.

Though fish have been known to throw themselves on Florida beaches when pursued by sharks or porpoises, Mr. Mohr's experience is unique only in the fact that the kingfish might be said to have thrown itself at the campers.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Market Opened Active and Higher and New Records Were Made.

Realizing Sales Affected Late Dealings and Close Was Irregular.

New York, Aug. 7.—Quite an active demand for stocks carried opening prices upward throughout the list. Ten thousand shares of United States Steel sold at 76½@76⅞, compared with 76⅜ last night and the price touched 77 immediately afterwards. Great Northern Ore certificates rose 2, Denver & Rio Grande, Amalgamated Copper, Westinghouse Electric and American Hide & Leather preferred, 1, and New York Central ⅝.

Stocks were bought freely around the opening prices, realizing and new buying holding prices steady. United States Steel and Union Pacific went a fraction higher to new record prices at 77¼ and 203⅜ respectively. Reading hovered near 165, but the movement in the other leading stocks was quite narrow. American Hide & Leather preferred advanced 2, Sloss-Sheffield Steel 1⅝, and Louisville & Nashville, Wisconsin Central and Pullman, 1.

The market closed unsettled and irregular. Prices rose to new records for United States Steel, Union Pacific, Reading, Atchison and some others less prominent. Central Railroad of New Jersey sold at an advance of 5. Union Pacific touched 204⅜ and United States Steel 77½. There were gains of a point in St. Paul and Rock Island. Hocking Coal fell 2¼, Pullman 2 and Lake Erie & Western 3½.

Realizing sales made an impression in prices in late dealings, Reading reacting a point.

The Cotton Market.

The Scotts very firm at this level. We can look forward to big advances in this issue for it has got to come shortly.

Ballaklava trading steady around $8.12½ to $8.25. It should do better.

St Mary again advanced today on heavy buying orders. At this property it is almost an assured fact that ore body will be opened up in the next fifty feet in the big tunnel. Would not be surprised to see St. Mary one of the greatest moneymakers this winter. It is a clean proposition, mine is located on same hill as the Red Warrior, which is fast proving up to be a very big mine. St. Mary stock is a whole lot better than many people understand. We spent money to find out about this mine before we ever took hold of it. It closed 30 cents bid for big lots. We look to see this issue sell at 70 cents a share inside of ninety days.

We can give you a market on any stock listed in our exchange at any minute in the day. We have the Miller wire. We are absolutely responsible. No office in Duluth is as well located for the brokerage business as ours.

MARTIN ROSENDAHL.

NO SMOKE AT GARY.

Gary is a misnomer. The new steel capital on the southern lip of Lake Michigan whose first blast furnaces spouted golden metal the other day should have been christened Economy, Ind., for economy is the inspiration and the genius of the place.

It is a convention of the short cuts whcih have slashed steel costs year by year in the face of rising fuel, ore and labor. The courage and imagintion which have spent $42,000,000 to clip a few vital seconds from the birth throes of a steel rail are linked with cool brained conservatism. The best, the record breaking features of all other mills have been assembled, magnified. The result evolved is the most perfect big industrial plant the sun shines on.

For the sun shines at Gary. That, according to System, is the primary miracle. The pillar of cloud which marks other creative towns is lacking. Smoke spells waste, and here they have cut down its prodigal blackness to a thrifty mist which hardly dulls the blue sky.

"Lean" gas was the pioneer effort toward economy—analysis of ore, coke, limestone and patient experiments in furnace management contributing to that result. Followed crowning of the furnace stacks and capture of enough gas to fire the enormous "stoves" supplying the hot blast; finally retrieving of all the gas, and after cleansing, burning under boilers to get steam for power—not power sufficient to heat the product pig iron into steel rails and bars.

That was reserved for the self-contained efficiency of Gary, whose gas engines develop nearly twice as much energy from its furnace vaults as would boilers and steam turbines, and where no coal is burned for power.

WHAT WOMEN DO.

Chicago News: Higgins turned to look at the man who sat down in the seat with him.

"Hello, Dwyer!" he cried. "I'm glad to see you after all these months. Wherehave you kept yourself?"

"We've been living out of town," the newcomer replied, shaking hands cordially. "You're looking radiant—rather as if life were a joke."

"It was this morning," Higgins assented. "I left that wife of mine telling the laundryman a lot of the baby's recent doings and it struck me as funny. Women never realize that outsiders don't care a rap about other people's children. It's very amusing."

"It is, indeed," agreed Dwyer. "I remember seeing the iceman stand for ten minutes one day listening to my wife. And by Jove, he was really interested! Our smallest boy is 3 now and there are lots of comical things to tell."

"Our baby is a girl," Higgins said. "I didn't know you had any children."

"Two, both boys. I suppose if we lived in the old country you and I would arrange a match. Wouldn't be a half-bad idea, eh? My wife doesn't let our boys play with every child on the street. They certainly are bright youngsters, there's no two ways about it. My wife tells the grocery order man everything they do every morning and he tells her how he was brought up."

"Well, that's the mother of it, I suppose," Higgins laughed. "It's the safety valve to their pride."

"Everybody hasn't so much to boast of," Dwyer said. "Now, that man Markins—you know him, I suppose, red beard and glasses? Well, he's always blowing about that kid of his and, honest Injun, he's the limit! Why, that youngster's 6 years old and hasn't got the sense of a baby 6 months. To hear Markins talk you'd think that boy would be ready to be president of a bank in a few weeks. And the way they rig him up! Curls and lace collars, till he looks for all the world like a girl. A boy ought to be a regular boy, I say."

"Our little girl has curls," Higgins remarked. "Not the make-believe kind that mothers sometimes twist up, but the regulation tight curls that won't come straight no matter how you pull them."

"Our Buster has ink-black hair," Dwyer said. "You don't know how very striking it is in a 3-year-old."

"Dorothea—we call her Dot for short—is getting mischievous. Not disagreeably so, of course. Yesterday she came running to my wife crying, 'Phone, phone! 'Pank bad baby!' Of course we knew something was wrong and followed where she led. Well, by Jove, if we didn't find that she had unhooked the telephone receiver and had been unable to get it back! Poor little thing was so frightened, and yet she had sense enough to come and confess. What do you think of that for a baby not yet 1 year old?"

"Buster takes the greatest delight in living creatures," Dwyer went on. "He came in from the yard the other day with two angle worms in his pocket. It gave my wife a spasm. What we are going to do with with him when summer comes I don't know. We can't have him fraternizing with all the spiders in the garden. But wasn't it clever, now?"

"We're going to move this year to give Dot more room," Higgins said. "I simply can't wait to see the delight she'll take in a yard in the suburbs. She's been so infatuated with the rubber plant and our two sickly ferns in the flat. What do you suppose she did to kill the geranium? Why, you know that little midget watered it with hot water. My wife wrote her mother about it."

"Well, the women folks do get lots of pleasure out of talking them over," Dwyer said. "I get off here. Come up and see us before you move. I'll show you my boys."

"Thanks," Higgins said. "We'll bring Dot with us. I want you to see her. She'll recite 'Ding Dong Bell, Pussy's in the Well,' for you. So long."

FLYING SQUIRRELS RARE.

Denmark correspondence Utica Observer: Several flying squirrels were seen in the woods in the central part of this town the other day. They are not very common and few of them are seen in this section, although thirty-five to forty years ago nearly every old hollow birch tree had its family of little striped air navigators. The flying squirrel, be it explained for the benefit of the many who have undoubtedly never seen one, does not "fly" in the proper acceptance of the word, but is able by spreading the weblike strips of thin skin that extend from its fore to its hind legs on either side of its body to sail several rods on a gradually downward slant from the top of one tree to a point lower down on the limbs or trunk of another. Then by running higher up the tree it has alighted on it is able to repeat the performance and thus avoid its enemies by sailing from tree to tree.

These squirrels were once numerous in Northern New York, but like their kinsmen, the black squirrel, and the fox squirrel, have all but vanished from the northern woodlands.
